"Smoke Signals," our brother publication on campus, has come up with a new idea which we feel is worthy of special recognition. In coming issues, the magazine will feature a department called "Ask the Faculty" in which letters from students to the faculty will be printed.

Editor Bob Rice terms the idea "A means by which students may be informed of the reasons and backgrounds of policies of the faculty and administration. This will be done by the use of penetrating questions from the students." He has secured the support of Dean of Students, Dr. Ralph R. Ogles-by, who stated that each question submitted to "Smoke Signals" will be answered by the faculty. This will allow the faculty to air its side of the question. The best letters will be reprinted in the magazine.

We feel that Editor Rice has come up with an idea that will be of great service to both the students and faculty, through both the best methods of achieving cooperation — the exchange of ideas.

The Last Penny

Hot and thirsty, we breathed a sigh of relief when the bell rang ending the last class of the day. We remember a hurried dash through the hall on the third floor of the History Building. Then the stairs—three flights of them.

On the way down we managed to find a prized article: a nickel in our right pocket amid a jumble of room keys, match boxes and stray pencils. Clutching it tightly in our perspiring hand, we ignored the protests aired at our mad dash down the last flight.

Our destination was on the basement floor. Rounding the last corner, we slid to a stop before the Coca-Cola machine.

Thrusting the nickel toward the hungry slot, we noticed a small maddening sign near the right-hand corner of the machine.

"Insert penney into slot first, then nickel, dime or quarter."

Alas, we had no penny and there were no people in sight to lend us one. It was a nightmare come true.

Oh well, we didn't want that coke anyway!

Did-Ja-Ever . . .

Lake to drive red ants
And never let any one else get past
Then in a fit of exuberant elation
They head you off to the local police station

Don Rapp

The Booklist

University Study Report Reviewed

This is the first in a series of articles by Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president of Florida State University, on the final report of the University Study Committee's findings which was recently published. The second article will appear in the October 5 issue and the last on October 12.

For two years a University Study Committee has been working on a comprehensive analysis of Florida State University. The report, 188 pages long, is complete and available in the library. Copies are being distributed to faculty and staff.

A student with some free time to spend could spend it in probably no better way than by examining the report of the 15 member committee which was headed by Dr. Laurence R. Campbell, Dean of the School of Journalism.

Members of the committee were Dr. Vernie Sowers, Dr. J. Paul Brooks, Dr. William Leap, Dr. William Randel, Dr. Clarence Schnur, Dr. Rupert Lawler, Dr. Mark H. DeForest, Dr. Wiley Housewright, Dr. Donald Landberg, Dr. Haire Cate, Dr. Virgil Strickland, Dr. Dorothy Hoffman, and Dr. W. Huth Stickler.

The report reflects many long-standing needs of campus plaints, but it does not stop at that. Sweeping suggestions are tendered for improvement in all phases, departments and divisions of the university. Continued study of these and important issues and problems is urged. Shakeup of the university administration itself is asked. The report suggests a complete revision of the general education program as it affects the students.

The committee was appointed by Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president of Florida State University, after he assumed to Faculty Senate, and received the full support of the faculty evaluation of FSU. The committee held its first meeting on March 17, 1952.

Numerous sub - committees were appointed to study various areas of university life. Those committees made their reports separately and these reports, as well as the committee study, may be viewed in the reference room of the library.

Much of what is in the report is of immediate concern to students, while other material concerns them somewhat indirectly, as in the case of recommendations on professorial tenure as an aspect of the academic welfare of the business office. THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU has studied the report and gleaned from it those facts and suggestions of relevance to students and student activities. Those portions of the report are covered in this review.

Of more than passing interest are the results of a comprehensive survey taken among the student body in the Fall of 1952. It is not likely that conditions have changed substantially since then.

Three thousand, three hundred and twenty students participated in the survey. 1,478 men and 1,842 women, 89.3% of the eligible undergraduates and 95.4% of the eligible graduate students. 42.6% were day students.

According to the survey student publications were widely read although a third of those questioned revealed dissatisfaction with some features of those publications. Curricula raised highest as campus entertainments while Artist Series provoked little enthusiasm. Convenience and inexpensiveness attracted most undergraduates while the university's regulations and curriculum influenced graduate students in their choice. In general, students felt they were fairly graded. All except graduate women, indicated they were satisfied with boy-girl relationships. No group expressed dissatisfaction with administration-student relationships. An interdenominational type of religious program was re-

(Continued on Page 4)

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Joyce Perrier
Campus Editors ..... Martin Duckman, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors ..... Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Cartoonist ..... Bob Guthrie
Photographer ..... Laird Anderson

Copy Editors ..... Sylvia Parrish, Willa Smith, Emma Coleman
Amusement Editor ..... David Drein
Art Consultant ..... Fredrich Adams
Cartoonist ..... Con Hein
Junior Staff ..... George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.

Mary Lis King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Virginia Vaughn, Pat Robson, Mary Wogan

Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi.

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17

Exchange Editor ..... Irma Cox
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Telephone 2 8000, extension 6821
311, 313 Longmire Building
Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

"Some Day That'll All Be Done By Atomic Power"

An Open Letter

On Rat Court and Your Duty to Sophomores

Freshman Week is probably the toughest. Not only is it a new way of life, but the administration seems intent on eliminating certain percentages of you before your Academic life has scarcely begun. Junior year is the year of extracurricular activities, wherein the student blossoms forth into recognition, and senior year is one of worry and make-up work, considerably darkened by the shadow of impending responsibility.

But, sophomore year is the year when there is nothing to do.

Everywhere you look, there are bored sophomores cheering at the Rat Court, gathering in lurar protective groups, singing, sitting, harangu ing each other to loud voices on learned subjects. They have become accustomed to, but not interested in, university life. They have not yet learned to shake the last constructive and interesting activities on campus. They boys have nothing to look forward to but an occasional exam and a shabby card game, the girls, a date to the movies or a dance at the Student House.

Naturally, there are exceptions to this rule—more mature students who entered the university as freshmen eager to make the most of their one brief years in college. You find also the great majority of profitably employed sophomores were also working hard at various activities in their freshman year.

But the fact remains that most of the sophomores have nothing to do. They feel that they are in limbo—used for graduation, all that remains is the rather mechanical elimination of credit hours.

Still they must have a cause. After the long hard years of adolescence, when there were no goals, no truths, and all was intellectual and emotional chaos, they must now pronounce their emergence into maturity by locating and championing a reality, a definite, indisputable Fact.

This year The Fact on campus is that sophomores are supreme and freshmen inferior. This has long been a part of the great collegiate folklore, but never before has the cause been upheld so fervently by so few as this year at FSU.

Who are these few? For the most part they are students, usually male, who have spent their time so far on the fringe of campus activities. Their grades, their personalities, their talents, are not enough to capture the attention of the student body in any way, so they have become freshman baiters and Rat Court as their last justification for campus existence. They are doing their bit for old FSU: they are "upholding university tradition." In other words, they doing something that they feel is right, but unappreciated, which will enhance them before the Great Campus Deity.

So tolerate these Defenders of the Faith. When you receive a summons in Rat Court, receive it like a martyr. Smile at these sophomores you see everywhere, and realize that you are doing them a benign service. It is your duty to give your tormentor a brief moment of glory before the final plunge into the obscurity of his final college years and the long drab ordeal of graduation.

Con Horn

Local Movie News

The movie version of Lloyd C. Douglas' book, Magnificent Obsession starts at the State Theater tomorrow and will continue through next Tuesday.

This Universal Internationals production co-stars one of Hollywood's most beautiful actresses, Jane Wyman, with a recent newcomer to the dramatic world, Rock Hudson.

Magnificent Obsession affords Hudson his first chance to carry a business suit since The Iron Mas where he spent most of his time in a prison garb or loin cloths. Since then, western returns has been his good costume.

The theme of the movie is hinged to a woman's great need for the man she has most reason to hate, a man who almost destroyed her life. When wealthy playboy, Rock Hudson, becomes the indirect cause of the death of Jane Wyman's husband, he tries to erase the memory with his attention to her.

"Kosch on Wood" Paramount's musical comedy, featuring Danny Kaye in the role of a ventriloquist, plays at the Florida Theater tomorrow and Thursday.

Kaye, an American performer working in a Paris night club has trouble with his dummy who has gone to talk back to him. Not only does the dummy insult Kaye, but the customers also hear from the wooden "brat."

Complications involved with a group of international espionage agents, Kaye is sought by the police as the "red-headed ripper."

In efforts not to let himself get shot on sight and also while trying at the same time to carry on a romance with his psychiatrist friend, Kaye assumes the disguises of such diverse characters as a female impersonator, an English pubscrat, a celebrated Irish tenor, and a ballet dancer.

"Louise told her you would be a swell blind date, but she must have found out about you already."

The Point Is

Labor Still Enamors Aloof To GOP

By BOB FOLSOM

On Tuesday of last week, Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall flew into Denver to read the riot act to President Eisenhower. Things weren't going so good; they had lost headway in the recent Maine elections, usually a Republican stronghold, and Republicans from one end of the country to the other were massaging their tonsils along the grass roots route in an effort to put another Republican majority back in Congress.

As a matter of fact, things weren't going so good. A few days before, Democratic leaders in Los Angeles to speak at the AFL convention. It was the first time a President had addressed an AFL convention since Herbert Hoover spoke to the 1929 convention in Boston. He spoke in what could be termed a hostile atmosphere.

The AFL, which had supported Adlai Stevenson in the '52 presidential campaign, had for the past week, been giving the administration a thorough going over, primarily because of what they called widespread unemployment.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell tried to back up the Administration in a speech accusing the AFL of being "unfair." It received only slight reaction, and the man who preceded him as Labor Secretary, Martin P. Durkin, also a Republican, called for Mr. Mitchell's speech as "a cover-up for what the Administration is trying to do."

Earlier, in May, Congress sought to act on a version of the Taft-Hartley Act, but the "pro-labor" Democrat sessions on the floor of Congress didn't even accept some of the amendments, and since the Republicans were split within themselves, it was recommitted by a 30-ot margin.

The revision included a 'states right' amendment giving states the power in the past laws dealing with labor disputes, which many interpreted as seeking to wipe out Federal protection of labor's basic rights.

The confusion surround the controversy. Mr. Durkin had resigned because of the Taft-Hartley Act revision. He had accused the President of renegeing on a promise to back a specific set of modifications in the bill.

This, in short, was what President spoke to in when he spoke to the convention Friday. In his speech, he promised aster to avoid a revival of the bill and to give consideration to all of labor's rights.

In the aftermath of the labor vote he did not receive much enthusiasm, and one labor official wished there were more to comment on in the President's speech. For all of Eisenhower's prestige, which the Republicans are living on, their frequent talk of a "dynamic economy," it hasn't availed to any large degree the ill feeling towards the Administration in an election year. Republicans are seeking votes and yet are not revealing anything for it, its only obvious they should get nothing.

Its likely, too, the labor vote will remain that way until 1956.

The Dissenter

Brother Rat Is Watching Over You

By MARTIN DUCKMAN

They took one look at me and started to run—all except the one who was so frightened that she couldn't move. Then she fainted. The others raced down the long, dimly lighted hall where I couldn't follow—their dormitory. Their rat cage bobbed back and forth in their hands.

I stood there with an empty look on my face, wondering why they should be running from me that way. After all, I'm only a rat. I'm not mean and don't have that demented gleam in my eyes—well, at least its not due to birth.

I went back to the one who had fainted and revived her with a bucket of Soda Shop coke. Gradually she came to and by the same way as its counterpart, cold water.

"Gosh, I thought you cap didn't you," she muttered weakly.

I told her that I hadn't lost it. I was a freshmen and didn't need one. She screamed and, but before she passed out she tore her ID card into four pieces and swallowed it. Well, destroying your ID card is one form of suicide, and it was her business, so I left her lying there.

Etcetra Etchings

The Soap Opera: A Love Of Life

By DAVID DREIS

Aha ! I have it. I have at last discovered the way to make a must like the Life Savers presidents! . . . by writing soap opera oodles of love . . . It's a cinch —I've discovered how to write the below-the-boondocks soap opera. A girl will enter in the story claiming to be his wife. This will delay the marriage for a year at least with details, and it will be found out that his own best friend was after the war ! amnesia is implied. In fact, the girl he might have married her during this period. And we'll make the coincidence fair, for hero and heroine will get together finally. Meanwhile our heroine will . . . nope. I won't let you in on everything . . . after all, I have to write it myself.

Seriously, radio serials are probably the one big factor in the popularity of radio over television and video is even the match with their act of dra- knows little about him she's in love with him.

In the next month we'll have to watch the heroine make her debut together again. This is a must for sigh true love never smooth. Finally we'll have an air (that's the best word for it) romance about the hero. A girl will enter in the story claiming to be his wife. This will delay the marriage for a year at least with details, and it will be found out that his own best friend was after the war ! amnesia is implied. In fact, the girl he might have married her during this period. And we'll make the coincidence fair, for hero and heroine will get together finally. Meanwhile our heroine will . . . nope. I won't let you in on everything . . . after all, I have to write it myself.

Seriously, radio serials are probably the one big factor in the popularity of radio over television and video is even the match with their act of dra- ma. As for the writing, it isn't too much. It's like written in Dick Tracy and getting the hero in one jam after another . . . yet these programs are ari to extend the storybeyand the average vaudeville. Mary McKay, 26-year old leading lady of "Love of Life" (that's soap opera) video went to the dressing one afternoon and six months later returned. The part didn't even miss her as it took a joont around Europe and when she returned she got some aspirin if could prevent her head from bursting.

Screen stars have come from the archives of the soaps and radio serial. Frank Lovejoy is a noted actor on those shows and met his wife Joan Banks on the radio called epics. Ann Albertson was one of those then went to the films and went to bark. Oh well. . . . There still nothing like soap opera . . . Thank goodness.

A Better Measure

Another Dust Bowl May Be Forming

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

During the recent Conservation Government Conservationists pondered over another Dust Bowl which may forming in the southern Great Plains. This was the same area that was affected by a more disastrous Dust Bowl in the 1930s.

Fear of another drought and strong winds, similar to those of 1855, similar to this year, has brought the Conservation Service disaster campaign to that which struck the region 20 years ago could again be in the making. The area affected included western sections of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and the eastern parts of Colorado and New Mexico. Twenty million acres were reported damaged at the end of April with millions of additional acres in danger.

Causes of this Dust Bowl are the same as those responsible for the damage in the 1930s—mainly prolonged drought, overcultivation of marginal lands unsuited for growing, plus high commodity prices during and after World War II. In Baca County, Colorado for example, cash yields for wheat rose from 64 cents in 1938 to 48 dollars in 1947. Wheat acreage expanded from 25,000 to 360,000 acres.

The cause of the trouble was that most of the new land brought on cornstand poor and which produced only during periods of abnormally heavy rains. Aided by the drought conditions and decreased by lack of rain, the result was soil erosion with the accompanied killing of the vegetation.

The Department of Agriculture, however, too late, has begun to give serious thought to this strong problem. It is equal in national importance to the Communist menace which is threatening us from within in that the prevailing view in Washington is that perhaps the wheat and cotton acreage allotments and even the cost-sharing program under which the government pays the farmer for conservation measures undertaken by themselves may have served to encourage exploitation of the soil not suited for farming. Various counter measures are being considered to rectify this present situation but forbidding crop limitations, coverage of such land and reseeding of farm land where repayment is based on the value of the lands. Land that should not have been cultivated once the emergency was over but put back into crops. Grass that would rebuild the soil and give us a reserve to fall back on if the drought returned.

The blame for this program lays not with the present administration alone but with the two previous administrations so as. Measures to prevent a repetition of the present disaster have been taken long ago.

It is hard for this writer to believe that the nation as a whole will not remember. What legislation have not learned by previous mistakes which rose to power instead of letting politics interfere with the welfare of the nation.

Let us hope that the right men will be traveled in the future not only concerning agriculture but with international affairs as well. That whatever may have been the mistakes of the past will be eliminated by the vanguard of previous experience.

PROSPECTIVE INTERNS MUST APPLY

All students who expect to serve their teaching internship second semester of this year must have their applications in by 12:00 noon, Friday, October 1, 1954, the teacher internship office has announced.

Forms should be picked up at the Internship Office in Education, at the earliest possible moment because the required data to obtain a considerable amount of information in order to fill out the form properly.

Seven Seas

TUES. SPECIAL
JUICY FILET MIGNON French Fries Chef's Salad $1.00

WED. SPECIAL
PIZZA PIE Chef's Salad 85c

THURS. SPECIAL
SPAGHETTI Lemon Ice Box Pie 85c

Abilene Christian Defeats FSU

Abilene Christian's depressing 13-0 victory over FSU Saturday night did bring one touch of happiness—no matter how perverse.

It can be easily recognized with just one glance at next year's schedule, for there, in black and white, the team's 1955 opponents are named; and yes, not once are the men who strike fear into the hearts of all good Seminoles mentioned.

Saturday night's loss to the Wildcats was the second time in two years that FSU had suffered a 13-point defeat at the hands of Abilene. Last year the Wildcats spotted the losers 7 points and came back to win easily, 20-7.

Injuries to key players like versatile end Jimmy Lee Taylor, fullback Ronnie Kinn, and elusive Buck Metts hurt the Seminoles badly.

FSU obviously never reached potential in the game, and only in the third quarter when they came momentarily to life and got inside the Abilene ten-yard line twice, did it appear that the Seminoles even had their mind on football.

The most pointed weakness was lack of blocking.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

(ACP)—Here are some quips from light moments in the college press:

"A pledge should be obscene, but not absurd"—the Cavalier Daily, University of Virginia.

"The American Flag is 178 years old, but does the one in front of the Administration building have to look that way?"—the Student Printz, Mississippi Southern College.

"Figures don't lie, but girdles condense the truth."—the University of Oklahoma Daily.

Billy Graham, FSU right halfback is shown here going for a short gain in the second quarter against Abilene Christian Saturday night. FSU lost, 13-0.

Baby Seminole Rally Fails; Ramblin' Wrecks Win, 19-7

The first half plagued Florida State last weekend as Georgia Tech's "B" team coasted to a 19-7 win over the Seminole Bees after racking two early scores Friday night in Moultrie, Georgia.

Five thousand fans, attending the dedicatory game of Mack Tharpe Memorial Stadium, saw FSU's ground game net minus two yards as Tech ran up a 13-0 lead before intermission.

The Baby Seminoles came back strong in the third period as Bill Paskalakis and Bob McCauley almost went all the way on runs of 25 and 46 yards respectively.

A four yard running pass from quarterback Vick Printz to Paskalakis culminated a forty-eight yard touchdown drive early in the fourth quarter. Paskalakis converted to make the score 13-7.

Tech added another six points on a 35-yard drive just before the final gun.

Printz turned in a good job at quarterback, while Emil Abood, running from right half, crashed into the Tech line for good, short yardage time after time.

MEET ME at the MECCA

Enjoy our tasty meals while relaxing in our air-conditioned store.

Make New and See Old Friends

"For Better Food at Lower Prices"
111 South Copeland

WELCOME STUDENTS

VISIT US FOR ALL YOUR NEEDS IN WEARING APPAREL AND HOME FURNISHINGS

Ladies' & Men's Wear
Spreads - Sheets
Blankets - Rugs
Piece Goods

Mendelson's

Keepsake Diamond Rings
Bulova & Elgin Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 E. Monroe St. Phone 3-2442

SLEEP LEARNING
"The Re-olution in Education"

Now . . . you can literally "sleep your way through college"—actually learn languages, poetry, prose, tables of numbers, vocabulary words, lecture notes—ALL WHILE YOU SLEEP!

Illustrated Booklet, "Learn a Language—While You Sleep," tells astonishing results—gives complete instructions on how any student can make device cheaply, with no work involved—no mechanical experience necessary.

Sleep-learning is not luxurious in any way—does not disturb sleep. Your money back if results not obtained. Clip this ad—send for book-let today. (Price $2.00).

114 S. 35th Ave.-Omaha 3, Neb.
Sleep-Learning Research Assn.

Make Nic's Toggery Your SWEATER Headquarters

We have the largest sweater selection In Tallahassee—Why not stop in and see

Our CASHMERES
NYLONS
LAMBS WOOL
ANGORA & WOOL
ORLONS

COLORS:
PINK
NAVY
BLACK
OXFORD
TOASTI
CHARCOAL BROWN
BABY BLUE MELON
GRAY

Priced from 10.00

Nic's Toggery

Next To Seven Seas

Seminole Spotlight

By Pierce Lehmbeck
SPORTS STAFF

Coach Tom Nugent's ambitious tribe of Seminoles are finding their trail to the Nation's hit-time rating perhaps a little rougher than they might have expected. However, winning or losing, they seem destined to obtain their goal.

While as a team, they have taken two successive home-steadling dubbings, several individuals have broken through into the limelight of the star-studded Southeastern United States football world. There, they are firmly implanting FSU as a name to be known and respected.

After his first week's performance against the University of Georgia, tackle Al Mackowiecki was deemed Florida's "lineman of the week" by the SEC's sports scribes. His repeat performance against Abilene Christian College Saturday night certainly demonstrated this point to its extent. Many have termed his staunch defensive work as the Seminoles' number one of offense.

FEAMSTER IMPRESSIVE

Although having somewhat of a rough first outing with the Seminoles in the Georgia fray, giant end Tom Feamster came back against Abilene Christian to turn in one of the most impressive single performances ever witnesses on the Seminole home grounds.

Against ACC Saturday night, his pass snaring ability twice put the Tribe in scoring territory only to have the Christian eleven tighten up and cause the drives to fall short. His side of the Seminole defensive forward wall was labeled "hands off" by the ACC quarterbacking.

Another member of the Seminole tribe forcing himself into the eyes of the public is sophomore halfback Lee Corso. Although weighing only 165 pounds, Corso makes up for any lack of size that he might have with unprecedented fight and speed.

These qualities he exhibited in both the Georgia and Abilene games. His intercepting of the Georgia pass was the outstanding defensive feature of that tilt and his hard running ability was the main cog in a sputtering offense.

TAYLOR'S LOSS DEEPLY FELT

Many think that if end Jimmy Lee Taylor had not been injured on the first play of the Georgia opener he would be right up there alongside the best in the Southeast. Taylor was a little All-American nominee during the 1953 campaign and came into the first game on that occasion. If and when he does round back into action he will certainly bolster these 1954 Seminoles.

With such a talent-sprinkled unit, it seems that the Tribe should be on its way. Very few of the starting eleven will be graduating this year. We think that all they have to do is to do that first big one and then from that point on, "watch out."

Wheels who get around wear an ARROW...Button-Down

SUSSEX B.D.
DOVER
MITT

It's the one shirt that says—"You're really sick u." And that campus-classic . . . the Arrow button-down shirt . . . is ready in a solid variety of styles like the traditional Cordon Dover. With all these perfect-fitting Arrow shirts, you'll get "button-down correctness" . . . PLUS a lift that gives a man his individuality. $4.50 in white broadcloth; white oxford, $5.00—same price in color!

ARROW SHIRTS & TIES
UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • CASUAL WEAR

MEET YOUR OLD FRIENDS
---And Make New Ones
at The SWEET SHOP
701 W. Jefferson

We have a complete line of drug sundries—Tussy's cosmetics. Our Soda and Luncheonette Depts. serve fine foods at a price that students can afford to pay

—Y'ALL Come—

FSU, Cards Clash; Both Teams Winles

Two win-hungry football teams will meet in Parkway Stadium at Louisville, Kentucky, Saturday night as Louisville's de-emphasized Cardinals meet Florida State's budding Seminoles.

While FSU was being shut out by Georgia and Abilene Christian 14-0 and 13-0, Louisville was absorbing 33-13 and 13-0 reversals at the hands of Murray State and Wayne.

The loss to Wayne was the Cardinals tenth straight. FSU started the string last year by drubbing the Kentuckians 34-0 in Campbell Stadium, the scene of Louisville's 41-14 triumph in the series opener two years ago.

Head Coach Frank Camp has tackled this year's tossed-down schedule with fifteen lettermen returning from last year's squad which won only one of nine games. Only four of the nine 1953 opponents appear on this year's slate of foes.

FIREPOLE FOR FALSE ALARMS

MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IN TUXEDO ACCOMPANIED BY VERY ugly friend

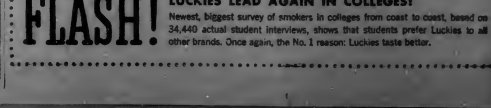
STUDENTS!
Got a Lucky Droodle in your noodle?
SEND IT IN AND MAKE $25

Want to pick up $25? Make up a Lucky Droodle and send it in. It's easy.

If you want to find out just how easy it is, ask Roger Price, creator of Droodles. "Very!" Price says. Better yet, do a Droodle yourself, like the ones shown here.

Droodle anything you like. And send in as many as you want. If we select yours, we'll pay $25 for the right to use it, together with your name, in our advertising. We're going to print plenty—and lots that we don't print will earn $25 awards.

Draw your Droodles any size, on any piece of paper, and send them with your descriptive titles to Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure your name, address, college and class are included.



While you're droodling, light up a Lucky—the cigarette that tastes better because it's made of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better.

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

©A.T.Co. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company "AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES"

FLASH!

LUCKIES LEAD AGAIN IN COLLEGES!

Newest, biggest survey of smokers in colleges from coast to coast, based on 34,440 actual student interviews, shows that students prefer Luckies to all other brands. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better.

Welcome to Quality Dry Cleaners
FOR EXPERT
CLEANING
PRESSING
REPAIRING ALTERING
CALL OR GO BY
2-5097
215 W. College

MALONE'S BOOK STORE
Everything For The Student
FSU T-Shirts, Sweat Shirts, Felt Goods' stuffed animals), FSU & Fraternity Stationery
All at
MALONE'S
107 S. COPELAND

Holland's
Restaurant
Catering to the finest in food in cool, pleasant surroundings with continuous dinner music.
We serve strictly U. S. choice and prime beef, only fresh vegetables and crisp salads.
HOLLAND'S MOTTO
We Cannot Serve All the Food in Tallahassee . . .
So We Serve Only the Best
Our Kitchen Is Always Open for Your Inspection

On Campus with Max Shulman
(Author of "Dobie Gillis" and "I Was a Teen-age Dwarf")

I WAS AWARDED A RIBBON AND PROMPTLY PUT IT IN MY TYPEWRITER

First of all—how you?

How do I come to be writing a column for Philip Morris in your campus newspaper?

I'll tell you how come.

It all began on a summer night. The air was warm, the sky was full of stars, and I sat in a cane-bottomed chair on my verandah, peaceful and serene, smoking a cigarette, humming the largo from Death and Transfiguration, and Wormsing my dog.

Into this idyllic scene came a stranger—a tall, clean limbed stranger, crisply-cued and crooked-grinned, loose and lank. "How do you do," he said, "My name is Loose Lank and I am with the Philip Morris people."

"Enchanted," I said. "Take off your homburg and sit down." I clapped my hands. "Charles!" I called. "Another chair for Mr. Lank."

Obediently my dog trotted away and returned directly with a fan-back chair of Malayan rattan. He is the smartest dog in our block.

"I'm sorry I don't have a Morris chair," I said to Mr. Lank. "That would be rather more appropriate—you being with Philip Morris and all.

Well, sir, we had many a laugh and cheer over my little witticism. When we had finished laughing and cheering, we wiped our eyes and Mr. Lank pulled out a fresh package of Philip Morris. He yanked the tage and the pack sprang open with a fetching little snap.

"Did you hear that fetching little snap?" asked Mr. Lank.

"Yes," I said, for I did.

"Cigarette?" he said.

"Thank you," I said.

We puffed contentedly for three or four hours. Then Mr. Lank said, "I suppose you're wondering why I'm here."

"Well," I replied, my old eyes twinkling, "I'll wager you didn't come to read my meter."

You can imagine how we howled at that one!

"That's a doozy!" cried Mr. Lank, giggling wildly. "I must remember to tell it to Alice when I get home."

"Your wife?" I said.

"My father," he said.

"Oh," I said.

"Well," he said, "let's get down to business . . . How would you like to write a campus column for Philip Morris?"

"For money?" I said.

"Yes," he said.

"My hand, sir," I said and clasped his. Warmly he returned the pressure, and soft smiles played on our lips, and our eyes were bright with the hint of tears, and we were silent, not trusting ourselves to speak.

"Cigarette?" he said at length.

I nodded.

We lit up and puffed contentedly for eight or ten hours. "I understand you've made quite a study of college students," said Mr. Lank.

"Yes," I said, blushing modestly. "I have been collecting them for years. I have over four thousand students in my basement right now."

"In mint condition?" he said incredulously.

"Students don't come in mint condition," I explained. "They go to great expense to acquire the 'beat-up look.'"

"How interesting," he said. "Tell me something more about them—their feeding habits, for example."

"They are omnivores of prodigious appetite," I said. "It is wise not to leave food about when they are present. Their favorite food is a dish called the Varsity Casserole—one scoop raspberry ice, one scoop raw hamburger, twelve nuts and maple syrup."

"Fascinating," said Mr. Lank. "And what are students interested in chiefly?"

"Each other," I replied. "Boy students are interested in girl students, and girl students are interested in boy students."

"This seems to me an admirable arrangement," said Mr. Lank. "But is it true even in these parlous days of worldwide tension and dreadful armament?"

"It is always true," I said. "It isn't that college students don't know what's going on in the world. They know all too well. They're perfectly aware of the number of lumps waiting for them—but meanwhile the lumps are springy and the juices run strong and time is fleeting."

"What will you write about in your essays?" asked Mr. Lank.

"About boys and girls," I said. "About fraternities and sororities and dormitories and boarding houses and dances and sleighrides and hayrides and cutting classes and going to classes and cramming vertebire and BMOC's and BWOC's and professors who write new texts every year and the world's slowest humans—the page boys at the library."

"And will you put a pleasant word about Philip Morris from time to time?" asked Mr. Lank.

"Sir," I replied, "I can think of no other kind of word to say about Philip Morris."

We shook hands again then, and smiled bravely. Then he was gone—a tall silhouette moving erectly into the setting sun. "Farewell, good tobacconist!" I cried after him. "Aloha, aloha!"

And turned with a will to my typewriter. ©Max Shulman 1954

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette.

8-Station Network Airs FSU Games

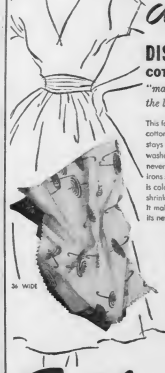
An eight-station network has been formed to broadcast FSU football games, Eddie Cubbins, athletic business manager, has announced.

Ben Letson, owner of Quincy station WCNH will direct the broadcasts over the Seminole Football Network. Jim Kirk, general manager of Ocala station WSOP, will handle play-by-play accounts of the games, assisted by Vernon Arnette.

Kirk is a 1952 graduate of FSU and an experience sports announcer, according to Cubbins, while Arnette also has wide experience in the field.

Letson says that present plans call for airing all of the 11 games on the Seminoles' schedule, and added that negotiations are under way to bring several more stations into the network. Present member stations are WTAL, Tallahassee; WCNH, Quincy; WDLP, Panama City; WMOP, Ocala; WWPF, Palatka; WTAN, Clearwater; WPAL, Plant City, and WIPC, Lake Wales.

Classified Ad



LOST—Pair of eyeglasses in red leather case, with inscription, DR. MARGOLIS," and Miami address engraved on the case. Will the finder please return the glasses to Barbara Anderson, 209 Jennie Murphree. Reward.

LEARN TO FLY
With Grover Shuler
SEMINOLE FLYING SERVICE
Phone 2-3121
In Main Hangar — Municipal Airport
As Low As $5.00 Per Lesson
Tallahassee's Only Flying Service

GARNET N'GOLD
631 W. TENNESSEE
Delivery For SEAFOOD &
CHICKEN BOXES
also
Announcing Something Brand-New and an Economical as a Sandwich Called
BUDDY-BURGER BOX
Originated Here in Tallahassee by Buddy, the Proprietor, Delivered So Hot You Can Hardly Touch It.
CALL 2-2892

PUSH BUTTON CLUTCH
weighs ONLY 40 pounds!
KIEKHAEFER
MERCURY
Mark 5
Troll all day at a crawl . . . have plenty of power for a fast run! Famous Mercury engineering gives you tomorrow's outboard today . . . with Full Reverse, Truly Weedless Operation, Low-Cost One-Piece Gear Housing, Waterproof Ignition and Spark Plugs, All-Weather Reliability — and Mercury Full Service Parts!
AUTHORIZED MERCURY
OUTBOARD MOTOR DEALER
SALES AND SERVICE
Sell it fast at YON'S
HARDWARE

Pomona Semester To End Quieter On Reading Course

CLAREMONT Calif. I.P. —The last three weeks of each semester may be pretty quiet affairs at Pomona College beginning with the 1954-55 academic year. Dr. F. Raymond Iredell, dean of the faculty, announces that the faculty has approved a three-week reading period for upper division courses at the end of each semester.

Participation will be at the option of the instructor, but it may be desires call up to three class meetings during the period. All regular course assignments not in the term papers must be submitted by students before the period begins. Students are being urged to re-organize extra-curricular activities in such a way that the period will be kept free of social and other non-academic events.

"Students have frequently suggested that they do not have sufficient opportunity to do uninterrupted reading when they would profit most by it," Dr. Iredell said. "After lectures and class discussions have opened up significant problems and provided a method of approach to a field, it is felt it would be profitable to have time for independent study and reflection to cover a considerable amount of material in an independent way and round out the work of a semester."

NEWS SHORT

The Florida Flambeau has an unusually large amount of advertising matter and relatively little news copy on pages three and four today. The explained Editor-in-Chief Bob Poliom, is due to the budget allsied the student newspaper this year, which makes increased advertising revenue necessary to continued existence.

Report Reviewed

(Continued on Page 4)

quested as well as a chaplain and chapel fund. Since that time however, a university chaplain has been appointed. Student assistantships were raised important by the students but they raised the pay for such work too low. Work, loans and scholarships were raised important by the students.

Eighteen percent felt too much pressure was applied on them to have them declare majors early in college and maintain those majors. Freshmen in general thought better of the counseling services than upperclassmen, according to the report. Greek letter societies received favorable response. Equal emphasis on all sports was requested. Less than two-thirds of the students the report revealed, had confidence in the Honor System, and, as it apparently the case now, interest in student government ran low. All except graduate students felt that the variety of curricular offerings was adequate. M. D

PERFECTLY NORMAL

(ACP) — At Oklahoma City University a coed placed a want ad in the school paper to recover some lost articles. Among the items she advertised were two mechanical pencils, a purple formal, a $3 check, one shoe, a pajama bottom, a suit of long underwear and a white shirt.

"It's normal for a girl to lose these things," she said.

BY DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT

(ACP)—At Albany, New York, State College held its first dawn dance recently. Called the "Bunny Hop," the dance began at 5 a.m.

For Prompt Courteous Service
Phone 5-5000
DEAN'S
Watch and Jewelry Repair
MAGNOVOX SETTING
Room 12, Child Bldg.
109 W. College Ave.

"Fashion Begins Beneath"
MAE WELLS
Blouses, Lingerie and Girdles
106 E. PENSACOLA ST.
Telephone 2-0221
Tallahassee, Florida

America's most popular WALK-OVER

available in 190 sizes
So greatly in demand, the Broadway is available in 190 sizes...4 to 15, AAAA to EEEE —a world's record for perfect fit. Handsomely styled in choice calfskin. Custom toe. Hugs your ankle neatly. Come in and see how smart it looks on your feet. Polished black or Bridle tan.
BROWN'S MEN'S WEAR
100 S. MONROE

STATE
TODAY
"Dawn At Socorro"
Rory Calhoun
WEDNESDAY
Magnificent Obsession
Jane Wyman — Rock Hudson
FLORIDA
TODAY
"Hell Below Zero"
Alan Ladd
WED. THRU SAT.
"Knock on Wood"
Danny Kaye
CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
TODAY & TOMORROW
"Springfield Rifle"
Gary Cooper
THURS. THRU SAT.
"Tumbleweed"
Audie Murphy
PLUS
"Kid from Left Field"
Dan Dailey
PERRY'S OUTDOOR
TODAY & TOMORROW
'His Majesty O'Keefe'
Burt Lancaster
THURS. THRU SAT.
"Carnival Story"
Anne Baxter
PLUS
"Beachhead"
Tony Curtis

ATTENTION
FSU STUDENTS and FACULTY
AIR-CONDITIONED
SILVER SLIPPER offers you
10% Discount on Regular Dinners
Enjoy the Finest in Food
OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK
5 P. M. — 12 P. M.
Phone 2-4961 For Reservations
2000 So. Monroe

THIS IS IT!
L&M NOW KING SIZE
OR REGULAR
BOTH
Same Low Price!

It's the FILTER that Counts and L&M has the Best!
L&M is sweeping the country . . . a smash success, overnight! No cigarette ever went so far so fast, because no filter compares with L&M's exclusive miracle tip for quality or effectiveness.
From L&M you get much more flavor, much less nicotine . . . a light and mild smoke. And you enjoy all this in king size or regular, both at the same low price.
Our statement of quality goes unchallenged. L&M is America's highest quality and best filter tip cigarette.
Buy L&Ms—king size or regular—they're just what the doctor ordered.
L&M—AMERICA'S HIGHEST QUALITY FILTER CIGARETTE

The Florida Flambeau

Power Deals Looked At See Editorial Page

Polio Situation Covered See Below

VOL. XL, No. 3 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1954

Leon County Illness Diagnosed As Infantile Paralysis

Nimkoff Urges Student Senate To Get Charter

President Calls For Seven Major Goals In Annual 'Address'

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Seven general projects are recommended to Student Senate Wednesday by Student Body President Milton Nimkoff in a brief state-of-the - university address.

Nimkoff stressed as a major goal obtaining a student government charter from the state. He plans to the student senators from the rostrum of the State House chamber in the Capitol building. Nimkoff warned that only such a charter would state diligence and discre-Nimkoff also requested an open program for student suggestions" methods enabling ideas to procure off-campus a student blood bank; an attempt to shorten "that will work"; admission of the student statute; and certain student administrative changes, including procedure of defense counsel rights and women's judiciary.

Nimkoff proposed that a committee stating that all student associations and publications "must be self-directed as possible." He probed the student insurance plan adopted at the present on National Student Association by the senate.

The executive announced that he expects the state of FSU by next year now in the process of study.

His address keynoted the senate's session, of which was taken up by a discussion committee, student organization, funds.

Several appointments of President Nimkoff were tendered to the Student senate, and referred to the Elections and Appointments Committee for preliminary study. Confirmation of these appointees at the next senate session will probably take place next Tuesday's meeting.

Appointed by Nimkoff as university secretary of Finance were Sam Kelley, budget committee; Evelyn Mudd, funds committee; and J. T. Williams, elections committee.

Phil Doyle was appointed clerk of honor court, and Dave Kennedy, who recently resigned from Honor Court, was appointed Attorney General.

Senator James Mears, chairman of the Elections and Appointments Committee, announced that his group will hold open hearing on the appointments Tuesday, 7 p.m. in the senate senate chambers in Dimmick building.

Nimkoff without dissent said he to provide for a special session to study charter matters. The bill was introduced to Sen. James Moore.

The committee is to be composed of five Senators, the president of the Student Body, President of the Student Body, Attorney General and the Chief Justice of the Honor Court.

The committee's function will be to study student government laws and all other schools, and to recommend legislation where improvement is felt necessary.

Senator Ken Gatlin introduced a bill to provide for deposit of student travel money to campus banks. The bill was passed by senator by senate, provides for the gathering of information from campus organizations and formation of a plan for the disbursement of money.

Gatlin moved that the introduction of the bill be considered on its second reading so that the measure could be voted at that time. He realized that one organization has already applied for travel money but said that no procedure has been defined for disbursement of such money.

Gatlin's motion was opposed by Senator Gordon Gaster. Gaster said Jimmy Hilton, who counted that the bill was not too important a matter to be passed without further study

(Continued on Page 4)

One FSU Freshman Selected Among 35 Cheering Finalists

Patricia Ann Harris, freshman, was selected as the new cheerleader from a group of 35 final contestants.

The candidates were judged on the basis of their execution of the cheers, style of delivery, personality ability, poise, personal appearance, and enthusiasm.

Betty Ann Monroe, head cheerleader announced that the freshman tryouts are scheduled after the Fraternities complete their rush to enable each fraternity to sign a pledge as candidate. All other girls are invited to come out, she noted.

DISCUSSION IN SENATE CHAMBER—Student Senators from Florida State University argue over matters of proposed bill during the University's session held in the Senate Room of the Capitol Building Wednesday afternoon. The Senate may hold several other sessions there this year.

Junior Class Schedules Picnic As First Special Event Of '54

The Junior Class Picnic scheduled for Friday, October 8 at the Reservation will be the class's first big event, according to vice-president Hans Tews.

Buses will leave the Women's Gym at 5:30 p.m. to provide transportation to the picnic for the juniors, said Tews, and that food an entertainment will be provided at the Reservation for everyone.

Originally planned as a dance, the event was recently changed to a picnic, said Tews, "This was because of the time limit." He declared: "We felt that it would be impossible to make a large dance a success in such a short period of time."

He said that the event was changed to be a picnic because the officers wanted to get all the Juniors together to improve class spirit, and that is easier to do at an informal party.

"All Juniors will receive invitations in the mail shortly," he noted. "These should be dropped in the campus mail box if the recovery plan to attend the picnic."

Entertainment at the picnic will be arranged by the Social Recreation class taught by Dr. Mary Kate Miller, associate professor of Physical Education for Women. Charlotte Venable, member of the class, said that the Junior picnic is a group project and that they are planning a well-balanced entertainment program.

"Square dancing will be the main event," she said. "We will have lively, up-to-date records and several real "country-style" callers. Organized competition and other entertainment events, using camp facilities, have been planned.

"There will be plenty of fun for all Juniors after the picnic," she continued, "and we expect the outing to be a wonderful chance for everyone to get together."

AAUP Journal Printed In FSU; Kobre Is Editor

The first edition of the AAUP Journal, the new publication at Florida State University, was released this week by the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Sidney Kobre, professor of journalism, chairman of the publications committee , said the newspaper will be published by the local chapter of AAUP "about twice a month." It will contain news and features concerning AAUP, particularly items of interest to professors in the University.

Circulation of the first paper was between 500 and 600. All faculty members receive copies of the paper, revealed Dr. Kobre.

The one-page miniature-sized edition featured an article by Professor Sarah Herndon, English chairman of the membership committee, explaining some of the objectives of the local organization. Participation in the organization, she said, offers an excellent forum for a free discussion of university matters which concern faculty members.

The "professors' paper" also announced the appointment of the FSU chapter of AAUP which will be held on Monday, October 4, at 8 p.m. in the Union Auditorium. Guest speaker for the first meeting will be Dr. A. J. Brumbaugh, director of the Study of Higher Education in

(Continued on Page 4)

Modern Language Department Teaching Spanish To 'Youths'

By ANN STANLEY

FSU's Demonstration School has launched a new project of teaching Spanish to the younger set of scholars in the language laboratory.

Spanish is now being taught to children beginning with kindergarten. This method of instruction was started for the first time here on an experimental basis last year and is being fully taught now by Mrs. O. B. Purvis, assistant professor in the Department of Education.

There are at least 90 of these elementary pupils of Spanish now and 30 more will be taught before the year is out.

It is the belief of the Demonstration School that children should be made aware of cultures, races of people, and educational standards other than their own.

He theory is that children from kindergarten to the age of twelve years are the most receptive and adaptable age. In teaching this new level, time is very important. Five minutes is the average time attention and interest can be held.

Youngsters from five to eight are very anxious to learn new languages in regard to everyday occurrences. Grammar and already familiar such as "Three Little Indians" and "London Bridge" are very popular in Spanish.

All instruction is oral rather than written. Children may watch the instructor's mouth and expressions to interpret his pronunciation and emphasis.

"The earlier the child is exposed to a foreign language the more natural it will be," explained Mr. Perez, who came to Florida this year from Texas where this new method of teaching is already in progress.

Many interested parents are interested in their children learning Spanish or any other language as it aids greatly as it is revealed.

This project is also backed by the Foreign Language Department which encourages primary instruction for teachers in this field if it is adopted throughout the state at all elementary public schools.

Send Off Players

Students are urged to be at the Airport today at 12 noon to see the football team off for their clash with Louisville, Coach Bowden does not let them know we're behind them all the way," explained Betty Ann Monroe, cheerleader.

Slips Assigned FSU Activities By Fred Vogel

Tickets in the Student Activity Booklet, received by every Florida State University student at registration, have been assigned as follows, according to the Office of Student Activities:

Form 1, Football, Oct. 9; 2, 1st Major Public Speech Production, Oct. 29-30 and Nov. 1-3; 4, Football Homecoming; Nov. 13; 5, Football, Nov. 27; 8, Basketball, Dec. 4; 7, Basketball, Dec. 6; 8, Artist Series, Ballet Theater, Dec. 6-7; 9, 2nd Maj. Public Speech Production, Dec. 10, 11, 12; 10, Basketball, Dec. 14; 11, Basketball, Dec. 18; 12, Basketball, Dec. 20; 13, Artist Series, Columbus Boys' Choir, Jan. 11-12; 14, Basketball, Jan. 15; Basketball, Jan. 22; 16-20, May be assigned as needed; 21, Artist Series, Date to be announced; 22 Football Date Ticket Nov. 27; 22, Football Date Ticket, Nov. 27; 23, Basketball Band Ticket, Oct. 9.

Tickets number 22, 23, and 24, according to Fred J. Vogel, director of Student Activities, may be used in buy extra "date" ticket for FSU grid battles at half price.

Mr. Vogel also stressed that students who lose their ticket books have to pay $1.00 to replace them. He stated that the students may receive individual tickets for performances by starring a waiver. All ticket negotiations are being handled by Miss Ann Overstreet, secretary to the student activity office in the basement of Longmire.

Miss Overstreet advised The Flambeau that several ticket books have been found. Students may claim them by presenting their ID cards.

Film 'Classics' Are Scheduled By Film Club

Fourteen feature films and six shorts constitute this year's offering of the Florida State University Film Club. Season memberships are now on sale.

In cooperation with the General Extension Division of Florida, the FSU film club annually presents a series of outstanding motion pictures, some of them foreign with English subtitles. Many are classics of American production.

The work of the British actor Alec Guiness constitutes much of this year's Film Club fare.

The Film Club began its history as an activity of the Faculty Wives Newcomers Club but soon expanded to accept membership from any interested student or townsperson who wishes to join.

Longmire Auditorium and Opperman Music Hall will serve as theaters for a while. Upon completion of Westcott Auditorium that hall will be used.

There will be two performances each screening day this year, as was the procedure last year. Memberships cost $2.50 and may be obtained by sending check or money order to the Film Club, Box 3040, Campus Mail, FSU. Individual tickets are not sold. Performances at 6:30 or 8:30 p.m. showing should be indicated.

Mr. Dewey Goes to Town, an American film of 1939, initiates and opens the season on October 14. Dinner Music in the White Heil ('British '22) will pair with The Gentleman in Room Six (British '31) on November 4.

The rest of the program includes: Mayerling (French, 1936); Variete (German, 1922); December 9, Chapin Festival (American 1916-) and Diary (French-American); January 8: Pepe Le Moko (French, 1937); Graduation Ball (French, 1940);

January 20, Paisan, (Italian Film); February 10, Martin and Lewis (1949); February 17, Topaze (French 1951); March 3, Chekov Festival (Czechoslovakian 1946) and Bearer Valley (American); March 17, Mayerling (French-American, 1943) March 31, Louisiana Story (American 1941) and Song of the Prairie (Russian 1951-52).

April 14, Lavender Hill Mob (British 1951); and Martin and Gaston, (French 1953); April 28, Symphonie Pastorale (French 1946) and Day In Mr. Hulot Goes to Washington, (American, 1949).

OFFICIAL NOTICE

For Assistantships

Students who have received students assistantship appointments must sign petty forms in the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, room 203 Westcott. Student assistants who fail to sign their forms by 5 p.m. next tomorrow may not receive their checks on the 15th.

All students with student assistantships must sign these forms, even though assistantships were held last year. The only students exempt from this requirement are students who work for meals.

THE VOICE OF A UNIVERSITY—WFSU-FM is on the air from 2 to 4:30 p.m. daily, and on special feature, will broadcast the FSU-University of Louisville football game at 2:00 p.m. EST, Saturday. At the controls at Hirsh, chief radio announcer of WFSU-FM.

WFSU-FM Broadcasts Game Between FSU And Louisville

WFSU-FM, 91.5 megacycles on the FM dial has announced that it will broadcast the Florida State University versus University of Louisville football game, Saturday, at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, and 2:00 p.m. Central Standard Time.

Jim Kirk, a member of FSU's 1953 graduating class will describe the play-by-play descriptions of the game. Kirk will be assisted by Vernon Arnett in charge of the half-time program.

All of the residence halls and most of the sorority and fraternity houses have FM receivers, spokesmen revealed. FM sets with headphones will be placed in the Student Center and in the student lounge of the Longmire Building for the convenience of those who do not have access to FM sets.

WFSU-FM has been on the air since the last of the 1954 Spring semester. It is on the air seven days a week from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Offices are located in room 115 of the Music Building.

The station is well equipped compared to others of like size, say station officials. It has a new dual-channel console, and turntables playing records of 78, 45, or 33-⅓ r.p.m. Two tape recorders are used by the station to record campus events for later use. Another attractive feature of the station is located on an air conditioned building.

FSU students interested in radio work are urged to join the WFSU staff. Auditions for announcers will be held next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday from 2-5:30 p.m. in room 115 of the Music Building. There is no salary offered for the work, but the opportunity is extended to students who wish to gain experience in this field.

Medical Scholarship Open For Women

The Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania is now offering a four-year tuition scholarships to Florida State University female students, according to Dr. Glover E. Tully, Director of Vocational Guidance and Placement.

Applications for these scholarships must be turned in before February 1, 1955, and may be obtained from the Office of the Dean, The Public Ledger Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

1954 Debates Include 'Talks' On Red China

"Resolved, that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist Government of China." is the national debate question to be argued by FSU debaters for the 1954-55 season.

The question was chosen this summer from ballots cast by all colleges and universities in the United States. They will use this debate resolution along with the discussion question, "How can the American Educational System best meet the needs of our society?" in all intercollegiate competition, according to spokesmen for the University Debate Team.

The Ninth Annual Alabama Discussion Conference is the first intercollegiate event of the season. The debate resolution and discussion topic discussion question will be used this year, said two FSU students, Tom Woods and Bill Twyford received recognition for debate, extended speakership.

The debate squad is planning its Annual Fall Forensics Mixer for October 4, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 208 History The Mixer is the first meeting of the year and the debaters invite all interested persons to attend.

Last year two members of the Florida State University Debate team met members of two Universities in India. The Indian team was their point, based on "Whether or not "India's Peace Plan Was Workable." Thus was the first time that members of the Indian debate had met FSU debaters on our campus.

The 1953-54 international debate featured members of Universities in Britain. The Australian team was their final opponents. Their topic was "Resolved, that the English system of Government Ownership of Radion stations is superior to the Public Enterprise System used in America.

Jewish New Year Is Account Of Great Tradition, Ceremony

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

Rosh Hashana, which is one of the most solemn holidays in the Jewish religious holidays, ushers in a ten day period of repentance ending with the second important solobay and perhaps the most holy Jewish holiday of the year, Yom Kippur, the "Day of Atonement."

According to tradition, Rosh Hashana is the day on which God judges the fate of each man. An old Jewish legend says that on this day three books are placed before the Almighty.

One is quite thin and contains the names of all the righteous people of the world who are condemned to a year of trouble and unhappiness. The second book, which is even thinner contains the names of the very good people in the world who are given a year of peace and happiness.

The third and largest is one in which the majority of the people are listed. This is the wholly good or bad.

The legend says that what happens to these people depends upon the sincerity of their repentance and the way they act during the ten days.

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, and the last day of the holiday is the day forgiveness from God and from man is sought. On this day almost all Jewish men and women fast and spend the entire day in prayer and worship.

The Jewish tradition declares that the fast of Yom Kippur was acceptable to God only if it lasts for good deeds toward man. Simply asking for forgiveness is not enough. Every man must try to atone toward whatever that is possible.

Health Officer Declares Polio Is 'Very Mild'

Doctor And Prexy Urge That Students Remain Calm

In a statement issued to students and faculty of Florida State University regarding the polio epidemic in Leon County, president Doak S. Campbell announced yesterday that normal activities of the university will be continued as usual.

"We are, of course, deeply interested in and feel a responsibility for the welfare of every person connected in any way with the University," said president Campbell.

"After full discussion with the public health authorities and acting upon their advice, we are continuing the normal activities of the university without any significant change," he continued.

"We shall keep in close touch with the health authorities at all times and shall pass on any further information or recommendations that may be received," President Campbell concluded.

In a special release to The Florida Flambeau yesterday, Dr. J. M. Bistowish, head of the Leon County Health Unit, stated that the idea that the disease affecting this county is not polio but "here comes polio" is untrue.

"Doctors from all parts of the United States concur with the diagnosis of polio," he said.

"State-wide papers have printed misinformation and comments based on only the first two of a series of tests, which in their entirety did prove polio," continued Dr. Bistowish.

At the same time, Dr. H. G. Hathaway, FSU physician, also condemned against rumors or panic.

Dr. Hathaway stated Wednesday that there is no reason for restricting FSU students to campus.

He pointed out that if the student body was to contract the disease, all intercollegiate academic events would have already fallen ill, the incubation period being from seven to fourteen days.

The Florida Flambeau learned at presstime that Miss Thomasina Wells, junior at Florida A&M University, has admitted Wednesday night to the Tallahassee Memorial Hospital with polio. Dr. Hathaway, university physician said the case is "extremely mild" and that Miss Wells is thought to have contracted it while visiting a friend's aide in Tallahassee Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Hathaway noted that the increased number of students in the infirmary are there due to the epidemic of polio, which usually drops off the first of the week.

Every student who enters the infirmary, he stated, is being observed for the slightest weakness and "none" have shown signs or symptoms of polio, he declared.

Dr. Hathaway advised students to follow the usual rules of good health, to go on about the business of "Big Game Gangs, and not to get panicky."

Leon Health Unit head, Dr. Bistowish, said that he believes the epidemic to The Flambeau yesterday, noted that in every case reported, the patient has been over the age of 22. He further stated that none of the cases have been of the permanent paralytic type.

Leon Health Unit officers say statements such as the following, which appeared in Wednesday's Tampa Tribune, were "unauthorized":

"The capital city's 1954 total cases diagnosed as polio surged toward the 100 mark today, but deaths were raised whether a polio-like disease, masquerading under other names, is complicating the epidemic.

"Some doctors have been calling the polio here the 'Tallahassee strain' of the disease, because cases are not responding well mild, and a government health specialist has raised a question whether all cases diagnosed here are actually infantile paralysis."

Dr. Martin D. Ritchie, specialist from the U.S. Dispensary, Alabama laboratory of the U. S. Public Health Service, said that tests on a group of patients here had not shown a virus that is usually considered only as a polio virus."

Rumors have also been frequent and unfounded in Tallahassee for the past few weeks, according to officials.

The Live Oak Rich School canceled a football game with Madison High School last Friday night, despite official advice that it would be safe to play the game as long as teams and spectators did not mingle.

Senate Should Solve Controversy Surrounding Private Power Deals

Senator William Langer fulfilled his vows to investigate the controversial Dixon-Yates private power contract: his anti-monopoly subcommittee began its inquiry Wednesday. The only Republican proponent of public power in the Senate, maybe with the exception of Senator John Sherman Cooper, he has said if Congress wouldn't provide him with the funds, he'd provide them himself.

His going ahead on the matter, even though the joint House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee is supposed to hold hearings on the same thing, has resulted in some fireworks in the form of disguised opposition.

Senator Butler popped up out of the audience and called the hearings "premature" and said the Senate has "refused funds" to finance it. Butler was there at the request of an absent committee member, the well-known McCarthy apologist, Senator Dirksen, a tidelands oil, private power advocate.

But disguised opposition or not, Langer's subcommittee at the moment is a duplication of effort, until at least the joint committee can or can't find some substantial answers to some disturbing questions. Why did the Administration go all out to help Dixon-Yates? Why did the White House order the Atomic Energy Commission to buy electricity from Dixon-Yates when both the AEC and Tennessee Valley Authority had recommended that TVA build any extra capacity needed to supply the AEC's needs?

The joint committee has the Senate's authority to investigate this; it has invited various witnesses including Democratic National Chairman Mitchell to testify, but it has postponed its inquiry twice, and has not begun yet. With the elections looming out of the distance, it's likely nothing will start until after November.

Senator Langer is disregarding all of this, because he thinks the Dixon-Yates issue has crossed into anti-monopolistic functions. We think it has, and we hope his persistence in the controversy will get some concrete answers in addition to the headlines it'll receive.

The Last Breath

The junior Senator from Wisconsin, Joseph McCarthy, is at last on the defensive. His irresponsibility has caught up with him. His bluster and arrogance had no effect upon the Watkins Committee, a staunchly conservative group.

Six colleagues of his have voted to recommend to the Senate that Senator McCarthy be censured for conduct that is "contemptuous, contumacious, denunciatory, unworthy, inexcusable, and reprehensible." The fiery vigor of the report surprised many.

At first glance this means little, even if the full Senate does take the advice of the Watkins Committee. A censure vote, however, will in effect tell the Senator that the Senate will take no more from him. It will tell him that he has gone too far.

His supporters have now come up with the argument that he is being "censured" because what he said is disliked. They forget to realize how many unfounded accusations Joe McCarthy has made and never backed up, with even a bit of truth.

A bitter fight is expected in November. Senator McCarthy will be in the middle of it, too. But already his last, gasping breath can be heard.

The Polio Problem

We would like everyone to read the lead story in today's paper concerning the polio situation in Tallahassee and on this campus.

In the story President Campbell emphasizes the close contact the University is keeping with health authorities; Dr. H. G. Hathaway, FSU's Chief Physician advises the students to follow the general rules of good health and not get panicky; and Dr. J. M. Bistowish, head of the Leon County Health Unit, confirms definitely that the virus is polio.

In addition, on page four today, The Florida Flambeau is printing a polio facts display prepared by the Sister Kenny Foundation. It should be read carefully and remembered.

Fortunately, there has been only one case reported at FSU. It could be much worse. The polio epidemic is something many others towns have experienced, and often it has been worse. During a crisis especially, the full cooperation and assistance of the student body is needed.

To combat this epidemic, we must not only observe and closely follow health rules, but also, realize that in a time of crisis, clear-thinking and mature judgment should be exercised. Don't listen to rumors and believe only what is officially confirmed.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Realize that buttermilk is butterless,
Thick and creamy and utterly utterless.
—Don Rapp

The Booklist

University Study Report Reviewed

This is the second in a series of three articles appearing in The Florida Flambeau [illegible] the findings of the University Study Committee's Report which was recently published. The last will appear next Tuesday.

II

The most sweeping administrative change requested by the University Study Committee is the establishment of a Basic Division in which each student would be enrolled until he had completed 62 semester hours or reached junior standing; and satisfied general education, physical education, ROTC and departmental requirements. As a student in the basic division, he would take certain departmental courses recommended by whatever school or department he chooses to major in. The Basic Division would have charge of a revamped General Education program.

By 1955, recommends the committee, general education requirements should be reduced to 36 hours in communications, social and natural sciences and humanities, required of all students. "Advanced work," says the study group, "can be based on assumption of this common experience."

By September 1958 the committee's recommendation says, General Education should be reduced to 33 hours in the above named fields. However, all advanced departments and schools would be encouraged to require additional work in general education of their students. Relevant to the change is a suggestion that interrelated courses such as speech and written communication, history and social science, and biology and physical science be merged.

A proficiency in math equivalent to the present 105 course would be required for graduation, with a remedial course at the 100 level provided for students failing to meet that requirement. Some exemption by examination from general education requirements should be provided for, according to the University Study Committee.

In line with the drastic revision of general education and the scope of a student's freshman and sophomore years, establishment of an office of a Dean of Instruction is urged in the committee report.

In addition to advising the president on administrative and curricular matters, the Dean of Instruction would supervise and coordinate all academic deans as well as the Dean of the Basic Division and officers of other departments and divisions relating to the student and education.

Establishment of a variety of two-year terminal programs is urged. Such programs would be for students not desiring four-year courses, particularly in business, nursing and home economics.

Academic advisement, counseling and guidance would be part of the program under the Dean of Instruction, according to the suggestion of the University Study Committee. Vocational and educational counseling would be combined, as "By their very nature they are inextricably interrelated and it is not realistic to try to separate one from the other."

The university placement service, severed from vocational guidance and counseling should become an important office on its own, according to the committee.

The report urges a separate and competent study of the Business Office with a view toward making recommendations that might increase quality and efficiency in that department. Offices of a similar nature in their relation to the students are requested to remain open on Saturday.

Consolidation of such departments within schools as the biological sciences is urged.

(Continued on Page 4)

The Florida Flambeau
BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Joy Robertson, News Editor — Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor	Joyce Pottar
Campus Editors	Martin Dyckman, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors	[illegible], Dick Victory
Sports Staff	Bob Gutting
Photographer	Laird Anderson
Copy Editors	Sylvia Parrish, Willie Smith, Connie Coleman
Amusement Editor	David Dreis
Art Consultant	Franklin Adams
Cartoonist	Con Horn
Junior Staff	George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.
Mary Liz King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff	Virginia Vaughn, Pat [illegible], Mary Wogan
Distribution	Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity
Exchange Editor	Irma Cox

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17

Telephone 2-8[illegible]0, extension 6821
211, 21[illegible] B[illegible]
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Point Of Order

Catch That Simile!

The simile is out of fashion; but there was a time when to be able to strike a clever comparison was one of the brightest ornaments of a literary talent. Just why the simile has passed from vogue is a complicated question but a fair answer might be had in pointing out that precision in writing has a premium on it nowadays; and most similes, at least the memorable ones which can be checked, tended to fuzzify lingual effects. In substantiation of this contention a copy of a certain estimable collection of similes was obtained and the ingredients put to a test.

All sorts of relative qualities - to - be - compared like "high," "loud," "pretty," "silly" were ignored in favor of a couple of exactly definable words. Take, for instance, "white." Now, "white" refers to the absence of color in an opaque object and the presence of all colors in illumination. Everyone knows what "white" means and what it looks like. But for some reason very distinguished writers were not at all satisfied to let a white thing they were describing go simply as white.

Checking in this dictionary of similes, there turned out to be 216 examples of white-as's. The strangest part of it was that a good portion of the things that were supposed to be paragons of whiteness were not at all what one would choose to have his teeth look like. There was white as a bean, as a lime, as a baby's arm, a doll, a fish, a live terrier, a statue, silver, sunbeams, soap, gulls, moonshine, wax ashes, the lips of passion, Irish linen, a chicken, and so on—all the considered comparisons of either well-known writers or else of that irrepressible Anon.

Then, quite a few white-as's were realized on the strength of a whiteness which at best remains problematical. For instance, there was white as a ghost, white as a shroud-enfolded ghost, white as a sinner's shroud, as a whale's tooth, as chastity, his neck cloth, sin

(Continued on Page 4)

From Other Colleges

NSA Congress

A lot of what NSA does is probably just blowing off steam—but it's a good indication that American students can still get hot under the collar.

A lot of NSA recommendations may have no real significance—but they are accepted as The American Student's Opinion by important people. That's why the National Student Association's lobbying on the tax bill for exemption of college-goers earning more than $600 was important. That's why many government groups, such as UNESCO, consider it, and it alone, the official student voice.

The University Student Assembly must decide this year on whether to become a permanent member of NSA. A lot of the things they'll consider will be tangible personal values such as those offered by the very inexpensive student foreign tours. These things are nice, they are not reason enough to join the organization.

The NSA Congress this year was described by Time magazine as "conservative and realigned . . . in expression even more than in politics." This is an inaccurate view of the proceedings. The 700 attending students passed measures quietly, true, but after commissions and sub-commissions had gone through violent discussions. Things like desegregation and exchange programs with Russian "student" editors will not be discussed calmly by college students.

No, NSA hasn't gone conservative. But it has learned to deal with important issues in a quiet, responsible way instead of making the headlines by its hot-headedness.

The measures endorsed by the student congress hit at the important issues in college life: desegregation, academic freedom, avoidance of censorship of the college press. The approved recommendations were not revolutionary, they were quite conservatively liberal statements. But they indicate the beliefs of American students from all parts of the country. They will affect national affairs to the extent that they are almost universally thus considered.

With such power, NSA automatically represents the University—and every other college group — whether the schools like it or not. If that be the case, isn't the University to feel that Texas opinions should in actuality as well as in name be expressed?

The influence of the delegation from Texas was felt. For instance, one of the Texas delegates explained the sociological problems that makes abrupt, roughshod desegregation in the South impossible. His remarks were recognized when the committee did not adopt over-strong suggestions.

NSA membership costs University students one penny a year. A small price for a chance to speak up in an organization that is headed by important men. The penny-per-person isn't an extra appropriation—it fits snugly into the Student's Association's present budget.

Some people will say NSA has turned conservative. Some will say it's always merely blowing off steam.

But NSA is talking. And you, as students, are being heard.

—The Daily Texan

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"It's only Ed's sister with the laundry."

The Point Is

Power Contract Needs Interpretation

By BOB FOLSOM

The great controversy over control of atomic energy that had its bitterest arguments back in July is still simmering, only to a slightly less degree. It may again reach a boiling point, with Senator Langer's subcommittee jabbing at it again.

The newspaper aspect of this controversy is interesting. During the past few months it has received an almost unimaginable amount of space in newspapers, ranging from straight news stories to interpretative pieces to editorials. And yet I don't believe the vast majority of the people know any more about it than "its just a fight between 'big business' and public power"—connotations which leave much to be desired.

The people can't be blamed too much for their ignorance in this matter either. The newspapers have not given as complete a picture as might be possible, and naturally no interested person should concern himself with news reports alone.

Basically the issue revolved around this: President Eisenhower directed the AEC last June 16 to contract with the Dixon-Yates group, comprising Middle South Utilities, Inc., and the Southern Company, for construction of a $107,000,000 steam generating plant at West Memphis, Ark.

The plant would feed 600,000 kilowatts of electrical energy to the TVA in the Memphis area to replace a similar amount that TVA is supplying to the AF plant at Paducah, Kentucky.

The papers faithfully reported this. Two newspapers, which are universally read, the New York Times and New York Herald-Tribune, gave the 13-day filibuster excellent news coverage. Most other papers picked up wire service stories, though the St. Louis Post-Dispatch gave the public good interpretative material—whether it was read is another matter.

But back to the NY Times. It's the paper that should be picked on, naturally since it is synonomous with journalistic perfection. They, more than anyone else in the country, gave a better picture of the filibuster, when most of the fight came out.

But for all their coverage their editorial outlook was [sur]prisingly lacking. In their [first] editorial on this subject, [sev]eral phrases such as "mea[n]ingless flow of eloquence" a[nd] "frittering away of valua[ble] time" showed a basic misco[n]ception of what the Senate a[c]complished during the fi[li]buster. Such as the amen[d]ment added permitting [the] Federal Government to b[uild] nuclear power reactors. On [the] surface this may not seem [so] much but consider the mo[ney] spent by the Government [in] developing atomic energy, a[nd] then have a bill come out [of] committee which would p[ro]hibit the building of "ya[rd]stick" plants for the generat[ion] of electric power, particula[rly] since the AEC itself is [the] largest single power consum[er] in the world. In another e[di]torial they failed to note [the] significance of the mandat[ory] licensing of patents.

The Herald-Tribune, Rep[ub]lican through and through [in] a series of editorials ti[tled] "Obstruction in the Senat[e]" and "A Chance for Priv[ate] Power" clouded the issue wh[...]

(Continued on Page 4)

The Dissenter

'Dissend Is The Basis Of Democracy'

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Ever since I first named this column "The Dissenter," I have been intending to explain why I chose such a name for a journalistic endeavor, and what the name means. This time is as good as any.

According to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, "to dissent" means to differ in opinion; to disagree.

Some people have the mistaken conception that a dissenter is a professional nonconformist, a habitual griper, or a hopeless misanthrope.

A dissenter is only a person who speaks freely when he has something to say and the majority of those around him differ in their opinion. He doesn't make it an exclusive policy to disagree, but he is usually careful that he is thinking for himself and not using someone else's prejudgement.

Dissent has always been the basis of democracy. In fact, the English government pays the leader of the opposition for guess what purpose?—to oppose the government.

It doesn't take much intelligence to realize that even if you believe what the majority believes, having someone around to disagree is going to do you a lot of good. For one thing, it keeps you awake to new ideas. It stimulates your thinking. And, in a democracy, where you have to outnumber and outvote your opposition, those opponents make your fight all the more worthwhile.

But lately dissent has taken on a tinge of subversion. Patriotic Americans have fallen under the spell of selfish political leaders to whom dissent is a thorn in the side. So now anyone who disagrees with the policies of McCarthy is not merely disagreeing with the man—by the very act of disagreement he becomes a traitor.

We seem to have forgotten that there are more than two sides to any issue. A man can disagree with you for a different reason and for a different purpose than the other man who has just told you where to get off.

It is no longer safe to disagree with those who make our policies. If we are in favor of more freedom for labor, and the GOP isn't, or if we think the TVA should remain a public institution unhampered by private interest, we are not merely disagreeing with the Republican philosophy of government. We are branded socialists. There is nothing wrong with being a socialist, but since we have dared to disag[ree] it becomes convenient for th[ose] in power to associate socialis[m] with Russian communism a[nd] then were are we? In dan[ger] of being out of work, out [of] luck and out of teeth in so[me] parts of our country.

To differ with those [in] power or with the major[ity] does not imply subversion [or] communism. As a matter [of] fact, most of those brande[d] with the red epithet in Amer[ica] today disagree with Mc[Carthy's] methods of "fight[ing]" Communism. They be[lieve] he does it more go[od] than harm. They are forge[t]ting, however, that unity [of] purpose and disunity [of] method are no longer co[m]patible.

They should be, however.

Idealistically, we must let t[he] other man have his say—[no] matter how much in error [or] how steeped in deceit. To do [so] is to do more than to safegua[rd] our own right to speak fre[ely] —it is to protect some mo[ral] values decent men have alwa[ys] held dear.

To get back to the beginn[ing] this is what I have in m[ind] when I title this column "T[he] Dissenter." I don't always d[is]agree, but if I feel like disse[nt]ing I will.

Lately It Seems

EDC Death New Communist Win

By ORCHID ALONSO

In Paris last month, the 95 Communists in the French National Assembly added their votes to 67 votes of the Gaulist group to defeat the European Defense Community plan.

While the Communists sang the Internationale and the non-Communists sang the Marseillaise, alternative plans for the departed EDC were formulating in the minds of the leaders of France and the United States.

Reports vary on other alternatives, but to all viewers, there is indication that in spite of the fact that the French killing of EDC was not unforeseenable, not much planning was made in advance to meet it.

Although it is a widespread opinion that Germany's admittance to NATO is the best alternative to date, consideration must be given to France's veto power in NATO, and in all probability, France's rejection of the EDC was not merely a refusal to join forces with Germany, but a reluctance to arm Germany in any way.

There is a strong possibility that Germany could be admitted to NATO through a triangular arrangement with the United States and Great Britain, much as Yugoslavia is attached to NATO through the pact with Greece and Hungary.

But even this last suggestion has its drawbacks, as France would still be in a position to hinder Germany's sovereignty . . . especially since "theoretically" France still has a one-third interest in the West German occupation. (The other two being Great Britain and the United States.)

Actually, because of the many wrenches that France could throw in the mechanism to rearm Germany, the other free countries of the world are apparently waiting for France's next move to ease the problem. Word from France, however, suggests that French leaders have stated that to "ever" vote for unrestricted German rearmament is impossible.

A breakdown of the voting in the French Assembly on EDC (which vote incidentally, was on the issue of postponing, not killing), shows that the Gaulis[ts] and the Communists voted to k[ill] EDC nearly to the man. C[on]versely, the Popular Repub[li]cans, described as being "Ce[n]ter" and the Independent R[e]publicans, the "Right," pit[ted] all their voting power to sa[ve] EDC.

All the other groups rep[re]sented split their votes alm[ost] equally.

If things continue as they [do] on the German-French orde[r] the Communists will have un[]doubtedly added another notc[h] to their gradual dissembling [of] the free world.

• • •

While ambling and gambol[ing] through the wicked integra[ted] North (?) this summer, a sta[te]ment by Fred Othman, colum[n]ist for the Washington Da[ily] News (Not New York) caug[ht] my eye: "Coy . . . means de[]mure, as in sweet young thin[gs] . . . also shrinking modestly . . . So Sen. Joe McCarthy (R-Wis.) looked a rough, tough major gen[]eral name of Ralph Zwicker, [in] the eye . . . and said: 'Genera[l], don't you be coy with me.'"

Etcetera Etchings

Technical Head Recalls Hood-Winks

By DAVID DREIS

There's a teacher at Florida State who's sacking the loot just for conning the public. In other words (fitting a-ahem-college senior) I know an instructor who earns his salary by creating optical illusions for the public. His name is Charles Reimer, technical director for the Department of Speech.

Reimer, who looks as if he knows how to relax (but doesn't) is usually smoking a cigarette through a holder (Doctor told him to keep away from cigarettes). He has a sublime look resembling Douglas McArthur in sun glasses and corn-cob pipe, but there the resemblance ends. He just returned from Korea as a non-com.

A broad, maybe sadistical smile comes over Reimer when he talks of his 'hood-winks.' Reimer introduced to the "Life With Father" cast last year a sunny-side-up egg made out of a slice of bread with a sliced peach on top. "I think I got the idea from a prop list, but I don't remember where."

"We really had a time with one prop when we did 'The Man Who Came To Dinner.' It was an Egyptian mummy case." (I tried to act nonchalant about the subject as if Egyptian mummy cases were quite a common thing to me.) "In this play they put an actress into the case and send her to some far off country. (Sweet play, no?) The mummy case had to be strong enough to hold the actress and light enough for two men to carry her off. It took a week to do." (I was simply aghast!)

Of course Reimer doesn't do all his work. He has able assistance from his staff of students in his classes. In "Romeo and Juliet," Juliet had to set up her own balcony and await Romeo. After Romeo proposed, she simply took it down and walked off stage. In the dark, of course.

In favor of Egyptian and Greek plays because the sets are imaginative, Reimer feels he's in a rut with Victorian era plays. "Now they're doing 'Charley's Aunt' set in the same era. Wh[o] ever thought of doing th[at] play?" (I shuddered).

Is he for modern plays? "Well, today's modern pla[ys] have too many sets (I told yo[u] Reimer knew how to relax) and on the most part they['re] too sexy. (I remained unmove[d] and gentlemanly as I stifled [a] cheer.")

Although FSU's Houdini ha[s] a Masters degree he lacks on[ly] 12 hours from a Ph.D. "They'r[e] all in the wrong subject thoug[h] and it would take me 12 yea[rs] to graduate." Reimer was a[n] instructor in the Department o[f] Art before transferring to th[e] subterranean area of the Depart[]ment of Speech.

Reimer claims he's even tem[]pered. "Mad all day long."

However, he found opposi[]tion from many students wh[o] claimed bewilderment just how he keeps his temper down. "I like people to make mistakes. That's the only way to learn. I learned, didn't I?"

He sure did.

FSU Takes To Road After Losing Openers

Seminole Spotlight

By Jimmy Joanos
SPORTS EDITOR

An Important Club

With the arrival of big time sports on the Florida State University campus, the importance of the school's letterman's club is enlarged. Its aims to develop better cooperation between athletes and other members of the student body can play a vital role in the progress of our university.

We are familiar with campuses where athletes are separated by an invisible curtain from the other students. They act, feel, and are regarded as belonging to a separate cult. Until now this has not been the case at FSU.

Away from the playing field, athletes are playing key roles of leadership at our institution. Varsity football center Bob Crenshaw has gained the respect of his entire class and is leading them as Junior Class President. Quarterback Harry Massey is likewise President of the Senior Class.

President of the Student Body Pete Nimkoff is a former quarter-miler and letterman in track.

It is a credit to a large university today to be able to boast that many of its athletes are also serving their alma mater in other fields.

Baseball letterman Bob Hudson at the helm of the Man's F Club has announced the first meeting of the school year to be held Tuesday at 8 pm in the Trophy Room of the Student Center. He urged all men who have earned varsity letters to attend this very important meeting.

In addition to president Hudson, officers of the F Club are vice president—Carlos Fraundorfer (track), secretary—George Carnes (football), treasurer—Rick Benson (basketball), program chairman—Max Long (baseball), and social chairman—Lee Corso (football).

Unitas Is Dangerous—

John Unitas, the University of Louisville quarterback who will lead the Cardinals against FSU tomorrow, has an impressive record. During his three previous years of football, Unitas has completed 203 of 392 passing attempts for an outstanding 52 per cent. His aerials have gained approximately 3,000 yards and 24 touchdowns for Louisville.

He is a smart field general and a great defensive back. University of Tennessee coach, Harvey Robinson, last year called Unitas, "the best QB I saw this year." Although hampered by a leg injury the first two games this season, Unitas is slated to start tomorrow night. John Unitas' leadership could make the Cardinals a hard team to stop.

Seven Seas

FRIDAY SPECIAL
TASTY SHRIMP
$1.00
FRENCH FRIES — CHEF'S SALAD

SAT. SPECIAL: Half Fried CHICKEN, F. F.—Chef's Salad $1.00
MON. SPECIAL: VEAL CUTLETS, F. F.—Chef's Salad 85c
SUN. SPECIAL: TURKEY DINNER, All the Trimmings $1.00

LOOK BETTER—FEEL FRESHER
IN SUITS DRY CLEANED
Our 7 Point Sanitone Way!

① ALL DIRT OUT
② SPOTS GONE
③ ODOR-FREE
④ PERSPIRATION REMOVED
⑤ BETTER PRESS LASTS LONGER
⑥ COLORS AND PATTERNS REVIVED
⑦ COSTS NO MORE THAN ORDINARY DRY CLEANING

You will marvel, too, the first time you try our revolutionary Sanitone Dry Cleaning and see how much better it is. Try it today!

Superior Cleaners
308 S. MONROE ST
"Across the Street From Sears"

TO FACE CARDINALS—Center Bob Crenshaw, picture above, will again be in the Florida State University starting lineup tomorrow afternoon when the Seminoles take the field against the University of Louisville Cardinals. The 178-pound junior served as game captain last week when the Seminoles were defeated by Abilene Christian College, 13-0.

Seminoles Expected To Beat Louisville; Rated Big Favorite

By ALAN WHITMARSH

Two young teams which have found the rebuilding road rather rough during the first two games of the season will clash tomorrow afternoon when the Florida State Seminoles resume action against the University of Louisville, on the latter's field.

Both teams were defeated in their first two games, FSU dropping 14-0 and 13-0 decisions to Georgia and Abilene Christian respectively, while Louisville lost to Murray State, 53-13, and Wayne, 13-0.

In addition, both teams have made frequent use of freshmen. Coach Tom Nugent has used all 19 Freshmen in both games, while Louisville has two freshmen halfbacks as starters, and has had to make frequent use of the remaining freshmen on the squad, since only 15 lettermen returned from last year.

With the exception of a couple of banged up halfbacks, the Seminoles should be in top condition for the game. The return of fullbacks Ronnie King, Joe Holt, and Tommy Thompson will ease a critical situation at that spot. The two injured members are Billy Graham and Lee Corso, both left halfbacks. Graham suffered a broken nose and Corso a dislocated wrist, but both should see action.

Seminole fans well remember a Saturday two years ago, when an inspired Louisville eleven, sparked by sophomore quarterback John Unitas, swarmed over Florida State, 41-14. Last year, however, FSU gained sweet revenge with a 58-0 victory which initiated a ten-game Louisville losing streak which still continues.

Unitas is a Senior now, and Cardinal fans are claiming that his absence from the first two games due to a leg injury, was a big reason for Louisville's defeats. Unitas is a sensational passer, and with targets like Gene Sartini and John Becker, certainly cannot be overlooked in the Seminoles' defensive plans.

Both teams have had offensive troubles in their opening contests, but either is capable of exploding at any time. For this reason, if defenses are lacking, tomorrow's game could prove to be a real fireworks contest between two teams who have had little chance for offensive activity this year.

BASKETBALL TRYOUTS

All freshmen and transfer students interested in trying out for the 1954-'55 basketball team are requested to report at West Campus gym on Monday, October 18, at 3 30 p.m., Coach J. K. (Bud) Kennedy announced.

He said they must bring their own equipment, and emphasized that tryouts are open to all interested students.

Official basketball practice for the coming season gets underway November 1, Coach Kennedy concluded.

Michigan State's Macklin Field Stadium has a seating capacity of 50,745. Last year, however, they drew more than 51,000 spectators in four of their five home games.

STATE
Today Thru Tues.
"MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION"
with
JANE WYMAN
and ROCK HUDSON

FLORIDA
Today and Tomorrow
"Knock On Wood"
with Danny Kaye
Sunday thru Tuesday
"Gambler From Natchez"
Dale Robertson—Debra Paget
Thomas Gomez
Technicolor

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN Theatre
Today and Tomorrow
"Gid From Left Field"
Dan Dailey—Ann Bancroft
plus
"Tumbleweed"
Audie Murphy—Laurie Nelson
Sunday and Monday
"Never Let Me Go"
Clark Gable — Gene Tierney
Tuesday and Wednesday
"She's Working Her Way Through College"

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR Theatre
Today and Tomorrow
"Carnival Story"
Anne Baxter
plus
"Beachhead"
Tony Curtis
Sunday and Monday
"Three Sailors and A Girl"
Jane Powell—Gene Nelson
Gordon MacRae
also
Rocky Marciano and Ezard Charles Fight

Dunkel Rates Irish-Purdue Game Tough; FSU 4 Touchdown Favorite

By DICK DUNKEL

When Notre Dame's No. 1 college football team plays Purdue next Saturday, it may be facing its strongest opponent of the season.

That won't be in accordance with the pre-season script, a document which now reposes in the ash can. But the Boilermakers, after showing an abundance of power in their 31-0 conquest of Missouri last Saturday, have a sturdy Power Index of 108.2, good for ninth place nationally.

The Irish figure is still 12 points higher—at 118.6—which means that N.D. has been 12 points stronger against the same relative rating of opposition. However, the season has just started and ratings haven't had much time to jell.

After playing the No. 1 team on Saturday, Purdue's next opponent will be the No. 2 team, Duke.

The Blue Devils, meanwhile, will try to maintain their robust 117.2 rating against their ancient rival, Tennessee (98.9) this weekend. Thus, Duke rates 18 points higher than the Vols, but the latter showed signs of revival in trimming Miss. State, 18-7, last week.

Friday night Baylor 14 over Miami, Fla.; Maryland 14 over UCLA; and Wichita 35 over Drake.

Saturday—East: Boston College 26 over Temple; Brown 4 over Yale; Columbia 1 over Princeton; Fordham 12 over Rutgers; Harvard 30 over Mass U.; Holy Cross 1 over Colgate; Navy 11 over Dartmouth; Penn 1 over Wm. & Mary; Penn State 4 over Syracuse; Minnesota 9 over Pitt; and Mississippi 29 over Villanova.

Saturday—South: Alabama 4 over Vanderbilt; Auburn 4 over Florida; Ga. Tech 10 over SMU; Kentucky 6 over LSU; Miss. State 16 over Ark. State; No. Carolina 3 over Tulane; Rice 35 over Cornell; So. Carolina 6 over W. Virginia; Texas 18 over Wash. State; TCU 3 over Arkansas; Texas Tech 18 over Okla. A&M, and Va. Tech 5 over Clemson.

Dick Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

EXPLANATION: The Power Index ratings are past performance averages. For example, a 90.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger per game than a 80.0 team, against equally rated opposition.

Games Of Week Ending October 3, 1954

AMONG TOP 150

Higher Rates		vs	Lower Rates
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1
Baylor	107.3	vs	Miami, Fla.	*93.2
E Ky State	*78.0	vs	Murray St	61.0
Kent State	*88.4	vs	W. Reserve	88.3
Maryland	115.1	vs	U C L A	*101.3
Wichita	86.0	vs	Drake	*60.2
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2
Abil. Chris'n	78.1	vs	Memphis St.	*73.0
Alabama	*91.0	vs	Vanderbilt	87.0
Auburn	98.2	vs	Florida	*95.0
Boston Coll.	96.0	vs	Temple	*80.4
Boston U	83.4	vs	Connecticut	*80.2
Brig Young	64.2	vs	Colo. A&M	*80.5
Brown	81.1	vs	Yale	*77.3
California	105.0	vs	Ohio State	*101.0
Cincinnati	*92.0	vs	Tulsa	88.3
Colorado	102.2	vs	Kansas	*75.7
Columbia	*70.2	vs	Princeton	69.0
Delaware	78.0	vs	Lehigh	*67.0
Denver	88.2	vs	Wyoming	*79.2
Duke	*117.2	vs	Tennessee	98.9
Fla State	87.3	vs	Louisville	*80.7
Fordham	78.9	vs	Rutgers	*66.0
Georgia	*93.8	vs	Texas A&M	86.0
Ga Tech	98.0	vs	S M U	*88.3
Hrdn Sim's	*75.0	vs	Trinity, Tex.	74.0
Harvard	*78.3	vs	Mass U.	48.0
Holy Cross	*81.5	vs	Colgate	80.4
Illinois	87.0	vs	Stanford	*81.9
Indiana	*72.7	vs	Coll. Pacific	72.0
Iowa	*107.4	vs	Montana	61.3
Kans. State	*88.3	vs	Missouri	75.0
Kentucky	*81.0	vs	L S U.	84.7
Lafayette	*72.2	vs	Carnegie T.	52.1
Miami, O.	94.0	vs	Marquette	*78.3
Michigan	*98.0	vs	Army	96.0
Minnesota	98.7	vs	Pittsburgh	*87.3
Mississippi	101.6	vs	Villanova	*73.3
Miss South'n	92.1	vs	N Texas St.	*74.5
Miss. State	*91.3	vs	Ark. State	73.7
Navy	98.7	vs	Dartmouth	*88.0
Nebraska	*84.6	vs	Iowa State	72.0
N Mexico	*78.4	vs	Utah State	62.1
No Carolina	78.0	vs	Tulane	*75.8
NotDame	*118.6	vs	Purdue	108.2
Ohio U.	*74.1	vs	Toledo	55.4
Oregon	*88.4	vs	Utah	74.3
Penn	*86.3	vs	Wm. & Mary	85.7
Penn State	99.3	vs	Syracuse	*94.0
Rice	*110.0	vs	Cornell	73.5
Richmond	*78.1	vs	V M I.	86.4
San Jose St	75.2	vs	Idaho	*86.3
SELouisiana	*82.0	vs	La. College	58.4
So. Calif	106.0	vs	Nor'western	*88.0
So. Carolina	*88.7	vs	W. Virginia	81.0
Texas	*97.0	vs	Wash State	72.3
T C U	*88.0	vs	Arkansas	86.0
Tex. Tech	*106.0	vs	Okla A&M	87.0
Tex. West'n	77.2	vs	Tempe State	*88.3
Virginia	*63.0	vs	G. Wash'ton	67.5
Wake Forest	*67.7	vs	N C State	61.1
Va. Tech	83.0	vs	Clemson	*78.3
Washington	86.1	vs	Oregon St	*77.4
Wisconsin	110.2	vs	Mich State	*103.4
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 3
Great Lakes	80.2	vs	Xavier	*88.3

OTHER SOUTHERN

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1
Chattanooga	*81.1	vs	Tampa	68.3
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2
Appalach'n	*81.6	vs	Elon	37.0
Ark A&M	*40.4	vs	Conway St.	22.2
Austin	49.3	vs	S F Austin	*45.1
BethanyWV	*31.0	vs	WVWesl'n	13.0
Centre	*88.7	vs	Maryville	28.7
Davidson	88.5	vs	Citadel	*46.3
Delta St.	60.0	vs	S E Mo St.	80.3
E. Carolina	*55.0	vs	Catawba	43.1
E. Tenn St.	52.3	vs	W. Carolina	*30.3
E. Texas St.	*80.3	vs	S W La Inst.	88.3
Furman	*61.7	vs	Presbyterian	47.0
GlenvilleSt.	*52.3	vs	Fairmont St	38.1
Hamp.Syd	*38.0	vs	Emory Henry	30.0
How Payne	*34.1	vs	SW Texas St.	88.0
McMurry	57.2	vs	Lamar Tech	*58.0
Marshall	*50.0	vs	W Michigan	45.2
Millsaps	*31.0	vs	Livingston St.	21.0
Mor Harvey	*52.4	vs	B. Wallace	53.0
Newberry	*50.7	vs	Len Rhyne	42.2
NWLouisia'a	*57.4	vs	McNeese St.	22.1
Ozarks	*33.3	vs	E CentOklaSt	10.0
SHoustonSt.	*48.0	vs	Tex Luth'n	23.7
Shepherd	34.0	vs	Rand Macon	*38.3
Southern St.	37.0	vs	Ark. Tech	*34.0
Sul Ross	*64.0	vs	N.Mex.A&M	67.3
Tenn Tech	*57.4	vs	Morehead St	30.1
Texas A&I	*36.0	vs	Corp. Christi	27.0
W Ky State	*63.0	vs	Mid Tenn St.	52.0
WLibertySt	*30.0	vs	Salem	10.0
W Texas St.	*64.5	vs	Midwestern	37.0
W Va Tech	38.2	vs	Concord	32.0
Wofford	*38.3	vs	Guilford	36.6

NATIONAL LEADERS

Notre Dame	118.6	Mich. State	103.4	Illinois	87.2	Alabama	91.0
Duke	117.2	Colorado	102.3	Arizona	87.7	Miss. State	91.3
Wisconsin	114.2	Ohio State	101.0	Minnesota	98.7	Kentucky	81.0
Maryland	113.1	Mississippi	101.6	Arkansas	95.0	Oregon	88.4
Rice	110.0	U C L A	101.3	Florida	95.0	Kans. State	88.2
Oklahoma	108.8	Auburn	98.3	Syracuse	94.0	Denver	88.3
Iowa	107.4	Penn State	99.3	Miami, O.	94.0	Vanderbilt	87.0
Baylor	107.2	Georgia Tech	98.0	Navy	98.7	Pittsburgh	87.3
Purdue	108.2	Tennessee	98.4	Miami, Fla	93.3	Okla A&M	87.0
Texas Tech	106.0	T C U.	98.0	Miss South'n	92.1	Boston Coll.	96.0
California	105.0	So. Carolina	88.1	Cincinnati	92.0	Nebraska	84.6
So. Calif.	106.0	Texas	97.0	Stanford	81.9	L S U.	84.7

Copyright 1954, by Dunkel Sports Research Service
(*) Home Team   ● Rating unavailable

Record Ticket Sale Indicated For FSU 1954 Grid Battles

If ticket sales to date are any indication, this should be the greatest football season in Florida State history.

In two games this fall, FSU has drawn over half of last year's record attendance of 52,515, and advance sales for the Villanova game are far greater than expected.

The purchase of 2,308 tickets by the Independent Grocers Association has assured the largest turnout in Campbell Stadium history for the Villanova game, October 8.

This makes it practically certain that attendance records will set a new mark before the remaining two games, one of them the Homecoming contest, are over.

Customers of Food Markets will have an opportunity to buy one reserved ticket ($) at half price with a $5 order, or two tickets at half price with a $10 order. This is the first football ticket promotion of this type in Tallahassee, but it has already proved highly successful in Philadelphia, where 170,000 tickets have been sold for Villanova's two home games.

Tallahassee grocers who are handling this pioneer ticket promotion are Willis Groceries No. 1 and 2, Hall's Market, Grow's Grocery, and Barineau's Super Market.

IT'S MALONE'S BOOKSTORE
FOR ★ Everyday Supplies
★ College Outline Series
★ Pocketbooks
★ Stationery
"Everything For The Student"
107 S. COPELAND

FAIVER'S Drive In Rest
1312 W. TENNESSEE
Tallahassee's Newest and Most Beautiul Dining Room
AT PRICES You CAN AFFORD
OPEN 11 A. M. TO 12 P. M.
SAT. 11 A. M. TO 1 P. M.
SERVING DELICIOUS NOON WEEK DAY LUNCHES FROM 60¢
Our Famous Southern Fried Chicken
¼ Fry, Salad, French Fried, 2 Rolls 75c
½ Fry, Salad, French Fries, Rolls $1.25
Italian Spaghetti, Garlic Bread 1.00
FOR A LATE EVENING SNACK—A PIZZA PIE OR GOLDEN BROWN WAFFLE

...and how it started.

TERESA WRIGHT says: "Up to 16, my knowledge of acting had been gleaned from seeing movies. When I saw my first professional play, that was it: I only wanted to act. I got into high school plays, wrestled props at Provincetown, understudied, sat for months in producers' reception rooms. One rainy night, sick with a cold, I read for a good role, and got it!"

Start smoking Camels yourself!
Make the 30-day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days — see for yourself why Camels' cool mildness and rich flavor agree with more people than any other cigarette!

SUCCESS STORY:
Camels—America's most popular cigarette... by far!

for Mildness for Flavor CAMELS
AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Nimkoff's Speech To Student Senate

Mr. Chairman, Members of the Student Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen, and Freshmen. I appreciate the opportunity to speak face to face with you in these august surroundings, rather than behind closed doors in smoke-filled secrecy. Before many years, I hope and expect that some of you will be serving Florida and its adult consciousness in these same chambers.

Those of you who have studied the Orient, may be familiar with Lin Cho-Sie, the Chinese sage. The Chinese regarded him as the perfect traveler because he never knew where he came from where he was going, or when he would arrive. It seems I have noticed a number of modern Lin Cho-Sies wearing fat-caps lately. But if Student Government is to be of value, we must know not only where we stand now, but where we are headed.

When I learned through the Florida Flambeau that this was to be titled "The State of the University," I felt such a heading was somewhat pompous and presumptuous. I still feel it is, because there are countless areas of Florida State University life of which I am totally unaware. But at least it is no misnomer, for I do want to examine briefly the "State of Student Life," and some of its goals.

Freshmen have declared this year that ours is a friendly campus. Fortunately they seem to find it congenial. But its interpersonal relationships certainly can be improved. The Greek-to-dependent relationship is superior to that so many, perhaps most schools, but it is inferior to that in others.

Inter-Fraternity relations still need a stiff shot in the arm. I believe they will receive this from leaders of the Inter-Fraternity Council. As our school grows constantly larger, it becomes almost impossible, yet ever more important, to maintain a close relationship between students, faculty and administration.

And the University is cognizant, I believe, that as an entity, its relations with old and young of the state of Florida, that is its public relations, may still be improved.

As the recent report of the University Study Committee suggests, in various areas of undergraduate and graduate life, problems of various magnitude arise. The effects of some, if not dealt with, may be far-reaching, I trust, for instance, that all of us would agree that all recognized student publications — whether newspaper, magazine, handbook or yearbook—must be as self-directed as possible. Indeed this measure of freedom with responsibility is to be desired for all student activities.

I do not mean to imply that in the past spring and summer of this year, we were standing still. The Student Party already has fulfilled one of its major promises in the current accident insurance plan. And an interesting study of the National Student Association was completed recently and submitted to this body. There are, however, many things not done which might well be done in nursery fashion. Let me range over a few of these.

The University sorely needs an Honor Program, so that superior students may realize more from their courses, under the Oxford-European method, and so that mediocre students may be lowered in superiority.

The number of applicants for part-time student work far exceeds the number of jobs on campus. A sound method for students to procure off-campus work is demanded, and I believe it will be forthcoming shortly.

The student body needs a student blood bank, created by student donation, so that any one of us who requires a transfusion and cannot afford commercial plasma, can tap the bank to relieve the emergency.

The student body needs either an honor system that will work or a proctoring system that will protect the honorable. A committee representing Student Government and the administration will shortly begin work on this.

Within Student Government itself, our Constitution and statutes, as ever, require re-examination. Some revisions in the executive branch of government are needed, I believe, within the cabinet, and in the judicial system as well. Particularly, I hope provision may be made for defense counsels who will be available from the Attorney General's office, to work in men's and women's courts as well as in the Honor Court.

Surely all of these intra-student government matters I mention, are secondary to one of our major goals. And that is the obtaining of a charter for the Student Government of Florida State University.

To accomplish any of these tasks will require, as you know, considerable dilligence and discretion. As one who political experience is limited to the executive branch of government, I would not and will not presume to tell the legislators how to procede, nor what legislation to produce.

Our major purpose in filling these chairs today is, I'm sure, to produce tangible and intangible benefits for our student body and university. Fact division of Student Government must be allowed its own freedom by the others. All of Student Government must be under-girded by the administration. With all of us working toward a common goal, I know that the "State of Florida State University"—a year from now—will be better than we find it today. Thank you.

Church News

METHODIST

Rev. Austin Holliday will present the program for the Wesley Foundation on Sunday, October 3, beginning with Sunday School at 9:30. Sunday evening supper will be served at 5:15 followed by the fellowship hour, at which Dr. Glenn James, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, will be the speaker. A reception will be held in honor of members of the Wesley Players cast after the Monday evening service at Trinity.

The square dance in honor of freshman and transfer students scheduled for Saturday, October 2, has been postponed until 8 o'clock Friday, October 8 in order to prevent interference with fraternity pledge night.

METHODIST MEN

The Methodist Men's Club will hold its first meeting of the year at 8 p.m., Tuesday, October 5, in the East Lounge of the Wesley Foundation. Refreshments will be served.

Alfred Holderbach, vice-president, announced that new members will be taken in and the plans for the coming year and the filling of executive vacancies will be discussed.

CATHOLIC

The Newman Club will hold a Harvest Moon Festival on Sunday, October 3, at 5:30. Everyone is invited to the old-fashioned pig barbecue, followed by a dance. The price is 75c per person.

The initial coffee hour at the student center will be given in honor of the Flambeau staff on Tuesday, October 5, 3:30 to 4:45.

The daily Rosary devotions for October will begin Friday, October 1, at 6:30 p.m.

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP

Westminster Fellowship will brand all new Presbyterian "stock" Saturday night at the annual Bar-None "fall round up." All incoming students are invited to the recreation hall of the Westminster House at 7:30 for the branding.

Square dancing, guitar music, skits and refreshments will be featured according to Jim Kaufman, who is in charge. Everyone is asked to wear dungarees.

Power Deals

(Continued From Page 2)

It really should have been prepared clearly.

The Post-Dispatch interpreted it more clearly by saying the pow'r deal would "infringe on the separate powers of Congress, impair the independence of independent agencies, damage both AEC and TVA, deny the principle of competitive bidding and establish a very undesirable precedent of public subsidy for a private utility."

It took an English paper, the great and liberal Manchester Guardian to hit the nail on the head, they said; "To adopt a method which is likely to cost the Government at least a million pounds more each year is a strange method of saving the taxpayers' money. To grant a contract to one particular company, which can then make a substantial profit out of building and operating the generating stations to meet the Government's demand, is a stranger way of fostering free enterprise."

Catch That Simile

(Continued From Page 2)

Torrivers, as an angel, the thoughts of an angel, an infant's spirit, the bright side of sorrow, as a cloth, a bandaged thumb, an embodied hush, as fear as death.

This last, white as death, ascribed to Bulwer-Lytton, immediately stimulated a search through the opposite of white. There were eighty-eight entries and sure enough, in plain black and white, was "Black as death—Bytes." Certainly this alone would shake one's faith, if not in Byron and Bulwer-Lytton, at least in similes. But, going on to see just how unblack black could get, the following semantic fumies were discovered: black as a thundercloud, black as snow in London, as beads, as gunpowder, as your hat, as autumn's sky, as a winter sky, as ink, as oven, a berry.

So far this may seem to infer that all similes are useless, perhaps actually misleading, literary devices. On the contrary. Occasionally a considered comparison turns up which so exactly hits the mark that it all but compensates for a hundred other ineptitudes. Such a one came from the pen of William Butler Yeats, "Black as black," he wrote. Now, who can gainsay that?

—From Topics of The Times.

Chemistry Majors Plan Get-Together

Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society plan a social get-together at the home of Dr. Werner Herz, 7 p.m. tomorrow, spokesmen for the club announced today.

The mixer will offer a chance for chemistry majors to become acquainted with each other and with ACS, they explained.

Fairly new to the Seminole scene, ACS last year attended the American Chemical Society meeting at Gainesville, conducted tours of the Science building during Homecoming, and sponsored an all-topic program, spokesmen revealed.

Nimkoff Urges

(Continued From Page 1)

and a second reading.

It was recommended that last year's procedure be used for drawing up student travel budgets.

Gatlin urged passage of the bill on behalf of his Organizations and Finance Committee, as well as for the benefit of Donn Teal, Secretary of Finance, and Fred Vozel, Counselor for Student Organizations.

He said that all student travel money comes out of one fund item this year, instead of from individual budgets as it did last year. Gatlin protested that his bill would not institute a plan of disbursement, but that it would merely provide for a study to aid those concerned in deciding how much money should be allowed to student organizations for travel and for what individual expenses.

Sen. Gaster introduced a resolution, which passed unopposed, calling for distribution of information on infantile paralysis to FSU students in view of the epidemic now appearing in Leon County.

A prominent visitor at the Senate meeting was Dean of Students Dr. Ralph R. Oelesby, who was seated at the rostrum and later introduced to the Senate. Only a few students appeared in the State Senate chamber to witness the meeting. One reason for holding the session in the State Senate chamber was to attract interested students. The president's cabinet was also present.

AAUP

(Continued From Page 1)

Florida, the Journal announced.

Dr. Brumbaugh is expected to elaborate on the growing needs of Florida's educational system. "All eligible members of the faculty are invited to attend this first meeting," Dr. Maurice M. Vance, History, president of the FSU chapter, said.

University faculty members, graduate students and graduate assistants are "eligible" under certain conditions for membership in the association.

University Study

(Continued From Page 2)

Another such consolidation would be that of anthropology and sociology.

Another major administrative change would be revision of the FSU constitution by a faculty-administration committee. In suggesting this, the Study Committee recommends that the work be related to the Board of Control.

A major recommendation is that a committee of six members, three appointed by the President and three elected by the Faculty Senate, study carefully the intercollegiate athletic program of the university and make recommendations for strengthening the program while at the same time placing it in appropriate perspective to the total program of the university.

"The University Study Committee further believes," the report says, "that intercollegiate athletics should be controlled by a faculty committee at least part of which is elected by the Faculty Senate.

An interesting recommendation is that the university not be prohibited from expanding into fields already developed by the University of Florida, except in certain highly specialized areas such as medicine.

A general tightening of scholastic standards is recommended, with failure to earn at least 15 quality points during any academic year sufficient grounds for a student being prohibited from registering the following year.

Expanded opportunity for superior students is urged and the report asks that special programs for their development be submitted to the Faculty Senate by the Honors Committee.

Waiving of registration and other fees for students on scholarships, assistantships or fellowships is also asked.

Admission requirements would not be materially changed, nor would present scholarship policy. Most divisions of the university would, however, undergo constant self-study if a majority of the University Study Committee suggestions are adopted.

M. D.

POLIO FACTS

Prepared by the SISTER KENNY FOUNDATION as a public service

WHAT TO DO WHEN POLIO STRIKES

CALL YOUR DOCTOR! EARLY APPLICATION OF KENNY TREATMENT IS IMPORTANT IN PREVENTING CRIPPLING. ADMISSION TO A KENNY TREATMENT CENTER IS ARRANGED THROUGH YOUR DOCTOR. THE FULL KENNY TREATMENT IS ADMINISTERED BY FULLY TRAINED KENNY THERAPISTS.

It's College Time at Nelly's Shop. For the Finest in Ladies' Apparel Sportwear, Lingerie, Visit Nelly's SHOP 102 E. College Ave.

APPROVED by faculty and students

PAPER-MATE PENS

★ Perfect size for purse or pocket
★ Click — point out
★ Click — point retracts
★ Wide choice of school or college colors

$1.69 FOR TRADER

New! Exclusive! "Silvered-Tip"

Silvered-Tip Refills in Red, Blue, Green, Black 49¢ for smoother, easier, faster writing

Now! Write legible papers and notes because Paper-Mate never smears, blots or clogs! Guaranteed leak-proof! No stoppages—more than 70,000 words without refilling.

Keepsake, Diamond Rings Bulova & Elgin Watches

PAUL TURNER JEWELER REPAIRS

107 E. Monroe St. Phone 7-1067

FAIVER'S DRIVE-IN

TALLAHASSEE'S LARGEST AND FINEST

1804 S. MONROE

OPEN 5 DAYS A WEEK—11 A. M. TO 12 P. M.
SAT. OPEN 11 A. M. TO 1 P. M.

FREE MOVIES

7 NITES A WEEK

JUST ORDER ONE OF OUR FAMOUS SANDWICHES OR BOX DINNERS AND WATCH THE MOVIES FREE

FAMOUS FOR

FOOT LONG HOT DOGS 25¢

HAMBURGERS THE WAY YOU LIKE 'EM 25¢

FREE DELIVERY AT ANY TIME—7 DAYS A WEEK

WANTED!

Secretary for Pres. of Student Body APPLY IMMEDIATELY

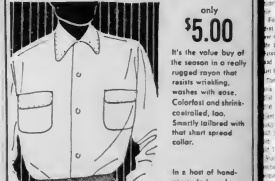
Typing—Shorthand—Dictation 214 Longmire

COMO AND HOGAN

Perry Como, top TV and recording star, and Ben Hogan—only active golfer to win 4 national championships, enjoy a Chesterfield during a friendly round of golf.

WHAT A BUY — CHESTERFIELD King Size (at the New Low Price) and Regular

Like Ben and Perry you smoke for relaxation, comfort and satisfaction. In the whole wide world no cigarette satisfies like a Chesterfield.



You smoke with the greatest possible pleasure when your cigarette is Chesterfield—because only Chesterfield has the right combination of the world's best tobaccos—highest in quality—low in nicotine.

In short, Chesterfields are best to smoke and best for you.

LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA'S COLLEGES

you get so much for so little in the McGREGOR

LOST WEEKENDER

only $5.00

It's the value buy of the season in a really rugged rayon that resists creases, washes with ease. Colorfast and shrink-controlled, too. Smartly tailored with that short spread collar.

In a host of handsome shirts and brilliant pastel shades that never lose their sparkle. Sizes: s, m, ml, l.

Alford Bros., Inc.

212 South Monroe

FOR THE BEST IN SHOE REPAIRING TRY

PALACE SHOE SHOP

Established 1914

121 E. PARK AVE.

I D Cards
Needed For Game
See Below

The Florida Flambeau

Campus Cheer Plans Underway
See Below

VOL. XL, No. 4 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA TUESDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1939

FSU National Social Sororities Pledge 264 Women

Students Must Show ID Card For Admission

Cubbon Announces New Ruling Starts At Villanova Game

To gain admission to the Ist Stand for football mes, students will be required to present their ID cards along with their stuent tickets at the gate, Ed Cubbon, athletic business nager, has announced.

The ruling will take effect with Florida's Villanova game, Cubbon said. He said "abuse" of the student ticket policy is responsible for regulation. He noted that student tickets will be stamped with the word "STUDENT," for part of the season.

Students bearing their ID card to escort only one non-student, or guest. Children of married dents are excepted from this ule according to Cubbon.

Purchase of coupons for student tickets will always begin at o'clock Tuesday, the week of game and run to one o'clock Saturday for the Villanova game and five o'clock Friday for the ter two home-after-season games.

The date ticket for the Villaova game will be at full price, ch is sections 11, 12, 13, 14 in sections 8 and 10. Date ets for the Furman and Miami -Southern games will be at full ice: $1.25 in sections 11, 12, 13 and $1.80 in sections 8 and 10.

Student spirit at the two bowl games has been praised by those from all over Tallahassee. Cubbon passed on comments to newspaper that, "they are pleased about the turnout and of the students and that everything they have ever will at FSU."

Coach Wagner, the football team and the Athletic Committee are highly pleased and encouraged by the enthusiasm of the ents, "The Georgia officials kept in their praise at the turnout means in which the dents did reveal their spirit they were here and it is ise of hospitality that will ke the game a school affair outside," said Mr. Cubbon.

Thousand ninety-six students ended Loafing Seminoles in the ge Christian game in quite few weeks. This was a drop less than the 6 413 students ho were turned out for the ing game with the University Georgia.

Cubbon said he is happy to that no students had to sit ed end zone for the Athletic ation game.

Bill Cubbon, "Our faces were ed because we needed a rough seats in the East Stands for the students for the Georgia but this was corrected for the Athletic Christian game with 6 more seats added in the end section."

Approximately 100 of these seats were not used at the Miami game. The Athletic Committee has ed two additional sections to be provided in the student section. will be provided. At the present ime reserved seats are sold out. ld stand line through the 50 for Saturday's ball line.

Scholarship Exams Slated In Suwanee Hall On October 19

Examinations for 125 State Scholarships for the preparation Teachers worth $400 each will given October 19, at Florida te University in the Suwanee Hall beginning at 8:30 a.m. The examination is being held the benefit of students already enrolled in the university who are students in elementary or secondary.

Dr. S. T. Lastinger, director of examinations at FSU, said it is important that interested students under their application blanks directly from the Scholarship Office, Tallahassee. These blanks will cover high school English, science, social studies and mathematics. A scholastic average of "B" will also be given. Scholarship winners will be required to sign a pledge to teach, following graduation, in the public elementary school for at least the number of years for which he receives scholarship aid.

FRESHMEN EXAMS MAKE-UP

Dr. De Graff, Test Service Bureau, announces make-up examinations for Freshmen, Transfers and delinquent students in Room 203 Science Building at 2:30.

ACE Psychological Exams 4:00 p.m.

Minnesota Personality Scale 3:15 p.m.

Charity Drive Will Be Highlighted By Dance

The 1954 Campus Chest charity drive, which begins next Sunday, will be highlighted by a Campus Chest Dance October 15 and the Sigma Chi Derby and Dance, to be held the following day.

The Campus Chest Dance is scheduled to begin at 9 p.m. in the Suwannee Room and run to until 12. An orchestra and three combo's will play continuous dance music.

The Derby is slated for Saturday, October 16, beginning at 1 p.m. at the hand practice field by the Geology Building and will be followed by the Sigma Chi - sponsored dance which starts in the Student Center at 8 p.m.

General chairman Graham Carothers said that seven events will be held at the Sigma Chi Derby, with competition to be provided by the 14 Florida State University sororities. "New this year," declared Carothers, "will be a Key Hunt, Broom Hockey and a Dizzy Race."

In the Key Hunt event, a large box comparable to a cement trough will be filled with flour. A key bearing the name of each sorority will be hidden in it, and at a signal the entries will get into the box and begin searching for the keys. The first one to find the right key will win.

The Dizzy Race will require the entries to run around a baseball bat in the ground several times with their eyes closed, then return to a straight line to the starting point. Other events that will be on obstacle course race, a pie eating contest, a three-legged race and a "Secret Event" upon which Carothers declined to comment. Student Body President Peter Nimkoff will be master of ceremonies during the Derby.

Also a big attraction this year, a sorority-wide beauty contest to select "Miss Derby of 1954" will be held. The winner will be crowned at the dance in the Student Center, for which Sigma Chi will be the host and the "Devilaires," a new dance band, will furnish the dance music. Mr. Stephen Winters, assistant professor of geology, will be master of ceremonies during the contest.

A motorcade will begin before the Sigma Chi Derby at Doak S. Campbell Stadium at 1:30 p.m. announced Carothers. "Every sorority will have a car entered in this parade and other cars are invited," he added. The destination will be the Derby grounds.

The theme of this year's Campus Chest charity drive is "All Hands Help," and the goal is one dollar per student. All money received will go to the following organizations: World University Service, 40 per cent; March of Dimes, 15 per cent; Red Cross, 10 per cent; Tuberculosis Foundation, 10 per cent; American Cancer Society, 10 per cent; and National Association for Mental Health, 15 per cent.

A representative of the Campus Chest will be stationed at the Student Activity Office in Longmire Building between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily beginning October 10, to receive student donations.

'Carousel' To Be Presented In Opperman

Briggs, Grimm To Direct Light Opera Guild's Production

Rodgers and Hammerstein's Carousel will be presented in Opperman Music Hall on December 10, 11, 13, and 14 by the Light Opera Guild under the direction of Dr. Robert L. Briggs and Miss Betty Jane Grimm.

Based on the Ferenc Molnar play, Liliom, Carousel was first produced in New York by the Theatre Guild in 1945, starring John Raitt, who is currently appearing in the Broadway production: Paiama Game.

The musical comedy takes place on the coast of New England around 1873 and 1888 where a carnival is underway.

John Zilles will play the part of Billy Bigelow, a tough carnival barker who falls in love with Julie Jordan, a flirt, played by Delana Driver.

Bigelow and Billy's troubles begin when he learns that he is about to become a father and is short of funds. He attempts an attempted robbery, he commits suicide, and goes to a carnival, trying to redeem his soul.

"If I Loved You," "June is Bustin' Out All Over," "You're the Use of Words'rt?," "This Was a Real Nice Clambake" and "You'll Never Walk Alone" are but a few of the numbers that will be sung.

Other singing roles include Carrie Pipperidge, played by Ellen Bowe; Nettie Fowler, as Enoch Snow, Joyce Craigin played by Betty Ann Hall; Jigger Fowler, portrayed by Martha Hopkins, and Charlaine Weeks as Mrs. Mullin.

Important dramatic parts are played by Herbert Fisher as the First Heavenly Friend; Kenneth Nelson, as Starkeeper; Ray Parish, played Mr. Snowden; Jerry Connell, as First Policeman; Jack Atkinson, portraying the Captain; Bill Peoples, taking the part of Second Policeman, and Jean Rhodes, as Dr. Seldon.

Student chairmen of the cast include June Knight, Karen Kimpel, Gail Jackson, Deborah Hamilton, Betty Rowell, Barbara Foster, Susan Linebaugh, Amy Lou Barnhill, Darnell Sherry Brown, Bruce Linebaugh, Ralph Nolan, Willard Schiffermuller, Jerry Connell, Jack Atkinson and James Kearce. Carolyn Glenn, Jean Rhodes.

Other members of the chorus are Cailly Nelson, Patricia Hall, Gretchen Berle, Joyce Pullan, Lenell Robinson, Carol Owen, Roberta Pace, Carol Ann Hall, Jeanne Hall, Diana Hilbebrand, Carole Nydegger, Martha Jane Hopkins, Gerard Hall, Jon Short, and Sheldon Torn.

According to Dr. Briggs, the cast is unusually talented and produced so much talent that it was necessary to audition to eliminate property various candidates. The result is a team of performers and actors that will do justice to this delightful and fascinating score . . . The chorus itself is replete with fine voices and dancers. It presented a big second cast were one needed," continued Briggs.

When asked why he chose Carousel, Dr. Briggs replied, "It's a fascinating opportunity as Broadway and its continued success in terms of the musical bill that came from its stage have served to keep it in the minds of the American people for the past eight years."

The performance will be made shortly concerning a call for dancers to assist in one of the principal scenes of the show.

Graduates, Faculty Invited to Coffee in Lounge, Thursday

All graduate students, faculty members and mature students are invited to attend the Open House Coffee Hour in the latter lounge of the Longmire Building, Thursday, October 7, from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., according to secretary Morris O. Shelton.

President and Mrs. Doak S. Campbell will be the principal guests.

Plans for a coffee hour to be held on every Thursday afternoon up to September 18 have been made by your class officers, Jack Atkinson, Bill Flambeau and "This Week" for further information concerning the programs, be continued.

Senate To Consider Nimkoff's New Appointments Tomorrow

Consideration of appointments of Student Body President Pete Nimkoff will highlight tomorrow's meeting of the Student Senate, which meets at 4:15 in Longmire Building.

The Senate Elections and Appointments Committee will meet before the chairmanship of James Moore, will hold an open hearing on Nimkoff's appointments tonight at 7:30 in the Leverett Student Senate chambers. Their report will constitute the basis for action by the Senate.

Up for confirmation are Dan Kennedy, Attorney General; Pat Dekle, clerk of Senate; and the following members of the Honor Council: William Kelley, budget committee; Evelyn Hall, rules committee; and J. T. Williams, auditing committee.

Nimkoff said yesterday that he anticipates no objection to his appointments.

Tuesday's meeting of the permanent Elections and Appointments Committee is open to the public. The committee's procedure last spring was to allow any student, faculty member or group to or a word of support for any appointee, to speak at an open hearing. It is understood that the committee will follow the same procedure again this fall.

Also on the agenda for tomorrow's Senate meeting are reports of Senators Nancy Vaughn, Bill Flambeau, Jack Mansfield, and Jo Jones, secretary.

On the agenda for Wednesday's Senate meeting, in addition to appointments, is the report of Senator Jean Jones, secretary, on the Student Services and Education Committee.

According to Senator Halford, her committee's report will concern the cafeteria management. She did not reply on whether or not her report will discuss reported cases of student discontent in the university cafeteria, but indicated that a representative of organization for students will be discussed, recommended or referred to.

Dr. Tully Seeks Assistantships For Students

The Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement hopes to be able to secure graduate assistantships for all the "most promising" cases within several weeks, according to Director Dr. Oliver B. Tully.

Dr. Tully said that job applications are better this year than last, "but at the same time we have more graduate students to assist, plans all the applicants in the first two weeks, we feel that given several weeks we will be able to take care of the most promising cases."

Dr. Tully said that the Placement Office has a dozen first-semester Freshman to their respective assistantships. "We don't advocate that they try to work part-time unless they have no other means of support," he declared. "We think it best if students until he has had at least one semester under his belt to tackle a job."

To be eligible for a student assistantship at Florida State University, a student must fill out an application form in the Placement office.

Jobs become available from time to time at the office as employment agencies in the various departments on campus needing employees. These cards are then examined and the employer has in mind is the way the job is filled.

Placement office counselor, Mr. Hoffman, said at the time a student who has filed application for work comes into the office occasionally, he will be told that employment card has just arrived and sends him to the office. Otherwise, the Placement Office has no need and cards to student.

(Continued on Page 6)

Flambeau Reporter Questions Reading Habits Of Students

By OSCAR JOHNSON

It's funny, but some people think that it is possible to read a newspaper like this in a minute or two flat.

"It's simple," they say. "Just pick it up while you're waiting through the line your way to keep your appointment with the physics committee. You can carry your pearl-handled revolver in your right hand and read the paper from your left. Or, grab one in the Post Office and have to send out a special pledge pin to your pen-pal in Gainsville."

The simplest procedure seems to be to glance at the pictures on the front page, see what you know, then look for a nice, short, easy-looking story. If there is one on Florida, or the first three paragraphs — say, about how, Mr. Hoffman's lecture and the use the Dean of Off-Campus Optium Smoking last night; or the report of a casual on Chumbalaya Campusment of Chronic Calisthenian Disorders, sponsored by the Florida State University Committee of Granite Mobile Admirers.

At this point most readers assume a gingery-eyed stare and silently scream that their order deposit in the nearest field vat are disposed of.

There are, of course, several parties (not beer parties) on campus that do read the Flambeau avidly from cover to cover: the administration, which scrutinizes every story for criticism of the administration - if any is found, the author's name goes onto the Black List.; certain classes in Journalism, which insert grit capable pleasure out of picking every paragraph, sentence and word apart; and many student advisors read it to see if their names are misspelled or omitted. Mostly Everybody On The Flambeau Reads the Flambeau."

But it is now clear that the majority of readers measure this paper by the 5 All I get out of college was ten pounds of Flambeau.) rather than in quality (Flambeau is hard to read, but terrific.) Does anybody know what it takes to put out a paper like this?

The Editor slaves over his editorials, the sports writers write out of art, all the while realizing that only a minority of people will read them.

The News Editor lashes the Associated Press reportorial staff with her whip for days in a gargantuan effort to get the copy to on time.

The Managing Editor sits around doing little until one frantic afternoon when all the stories are turned in. She then has to write them over, rewrite all of them, set up the makeup for the paper, and endure mental agony

(Continued on Page 6)

Infirmary Alert To 'Possibility' Of FSU Polio

The Florida State University infirmary and staff remain alert to possible cases of infantile paralysis on campus as the total number of cases count ever over the one hundred mark mark.

Forty-one members of the Florida State University sorority and gamma globulin immunization shots to protect them from any further spread of the disease. He had from the mother of one of the K A s who is from Tallahassee Memorial Hospital with a mild case of polio.

Dr. Ralph Smith Unit has announced that these shots are available to students over 3 years of age who has come in close contact with an infantile paralysis victim and who shows immunization.

The duty of each student to have been cleansed as having polio, Miss Thomasazine Wells, is reported. Miss Wells is employed at Tallahassee Memorial Hospital. She has been quarantined mild and thought to have been contacted while Miss Wells was under a physician's care when she is now hospitalized.

As long as there is a good chance of an University student gatching the polio virus, the infirmary authorities say, shows everyone who enters for muscle weakness, even in cases of head colds, should be given a shot.

"We are not hiding anything," Dr. Smith said, "but always in a statement to THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU, speaking of the polio cases, the word campus polio cases is being used. We don't want to have any reports of infantile paralysis, we will let people on the outside know about it," Dr. Hathaway.

Dr. Hathaway noted that the staff of the infirmary will meet Thursday night for a complete discussion of student discontent in the university cafeteria, but refused to say whether or not any organization for students will be discussed, recommended or referred to.

Rat Court To Meet Tonight In Outdoor Theater As Slated

There will be no postponement of Rat Court this week and freshmen who have received summonses will be tried in the court's first session tonight at 8 in the Music Amphitheater, Chairman Bert Carr, Jr. announced when asked by reporters.

Members of Rat Court are Dusty Rhodes, chief justice; Bert Carr, Jr., Bert Carr, associate justices; Rob Reynolds, Barbara Hyer, Carl and Dick Morgan, Mary Ann Sue Mizell and Fay Moses, alternate.

UPPERCLASS WOMAN NEEDED

There is an opening for an upperclass woman to represent a nationally advertised brand of cigarettes. Applicant must be a Tallahassee resident. If interested, contact the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement for further details.

16 FSU Groups List Names Of Pledges Friday

Rushing That Lasted Five Days Ended With Announcement

Sixteen national social sororities at Florida State University have pledged 264 students as a climax to five days of intensive sorority rushing on campus.

Judith Smith, FSU president of Panhellenic, made the announcement this morning. Sororities not making their pledges will hold deferred rushing in two weeks.

Pledges in their sorority classifications are:

ALPHA CHI OMEGA: Gloria Maxine Hannon, Patricia Ann Harris, Norma Joyce Smiley, Mary Alice Wade, Jarrusil Bradfield, Carola Jane Daley, Mary Allyson Duval, Elizabeth Ann Hodges, Barbara Jefferies, Susan Caryl Silcock, Mary Kathryn Dell Ann Mace Holcombe, and Marilyn Seraigh.

ALPHA DELTA PI: Sarah Sandra Moore, Carol Louise Stephens, Jo Anne Suber, Judy Burch, Carolyn Addie, Carolyn Jeness Ann Cochran, Julia Barbara Stone, Betty Ruth Lovett, Maryland Miller, Sarah Alice McKethan, Martha Jane Hopkins, Ann Marie Hendrix, Nancy Jean Dvorak, Carol Francis Green, and Waldo Stearns.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA: Miss Sue Barnett, Ann Elizabeth Knight, Robbie Ann Turner, Dot Corp, Martha Jane Snyder, Barbara Ellen Blanchard, Mary Ruth Johnson, Betty Jean Folds, Barbara Ann Kline, Jacqueline Shirley Metz, Rose Mary Stephenson, Eleanor Long, Evelyn Moll, Mary Lucille McAlister, Marlene Pittmen, and Sally Mann.

ALPHA OMICRON PI: Ann Hitt, Elisabeth Lauder, Marilyn Perkins, Ann Clark, Geralyn Barbara Martha Hall, Sandra Hancock, Barbara Kline, Lorell Reynolds, and Lynn Shirley.

ALPHA XI DELTA: Clair Louise Dixon, Jeanne Whitten, Carolyn Baker, Mickie Dobbins, Eleanor Irvin, Carol Keele, Gail Pelot, Jean Ann Pelot, Patricia Louise Petering, Stephanie Povlovich, Geraldine Rhodes, Sandra Schatzman, Sara Loraine Stalnaker, Mary Virginia Stevens, Ann Welch, Charlotte Shope, and Mary Faye Williams.

CHI OMEGA: Janis Lanier, Pickens Talley, Betty Jane Woodward, Mary Ann Brewton, Janet Johnson, Madeline Johnson, Joanne Posey, Ann Gerdes, Mary Ann Hall Humphreys, Barbara McCartney, Mary Virginia Moore, Mary Ann Martin, Gail Moodey, Betty Odom, Martha Grunard, Allyson Hamilton, and Mary Ann King.

DELTA DELTA DELTA: Joan Wadsworth, Margie Lou Hicks, Miriam Miller, Kitty Borland Ann Hall, Jeanne Hendrix, Mary Gray Sala, Peggy Phillyaw, Barbara Dees, Ann Hall, Mary Lou Loretta Lewis Susan Kirkconnel, Matilda Hume, Rissa Sarah Graves, Ann Hall Jones, Carol Collins, Beverly Brown, Nancy Hamlin, and Wynnifred Addick.

DELTA GAMMA: Annette Robinson, Jacqueline Hamilton Sapp, Judy Ahrens, Lois Buckner Dundas, Christine Ann Lewis, Beth McDonald, Alice Vernon Benson, Linda Rose Howell, Ann Dixon, Christine Mackenzie, Margaret Lois Miller, Virginia Lee Robson, Martha Marie Whitehurst, Ann Vinson, Mildred Allyn Smith, Barbara Elaine Sprouse, Barbara Jeanne Petty, Virginia Hayward and Barbara Ann Williams.

GAMMA PHI BETA: Barbara Brooks, Elizabeth Sue Wynne, Betty Ann Lee, Mary Ann Tomsillieon, Elaine Joyce Thomas, Virginia Ann Brannan, Kathleen Mae Crutchfield, Dorothy Edith Dodd, Jerri Lou Hinson, Jacqueline Nadine Dicoe, Joanne Thomas, Barbara Ann Wilson, and Sue Ellen Davis Raines.

ALPHA DELTA PI: Ann Farquharson, Noanne Stubbs, Betty Veal, Mary Eleanor Rose, Elizabeth Ann Clark, Gerelyn Polly Ann Alsweet, Mary Louise Peacock, Jeannie Kinlaw, Hale Martha Lillian Bowden, Marsha Bowen, Elizabeth Ann Bowden, Mary Ann Barbara Mead, Marsha Grant, Barbara Jean Little, and Nancy Miller.

ALPHA EPSILON PHI: Sylvia, Sarah Monroe, Diane Rosenzall, Jane Anderson, Marcia Myrick, Linda Lou Arnold, Pat Lee Bruce, Joan Cundiff, Patsy Mumford, Mary Elizabeth Tomline Clare Standley, Mary Ann Bedell, Mary Ann Hall, Karen Bedinger, Joan Cassity, Ann Gravely, Netta Ruth Bar- (Continued on Page 6)

Assistant Publisher Of 'Time' Gives Report On World Affairs

A first-hand report on current world affairs will be given Friday by Time-Life newsman, John Scott in the Student Center Trophy Room, according to the School of Journalism and division of social science, sponsors.

Open to Florida State University students and the public, the lecture will begin at 8 p.m. Sponsors add that Scott is just back from a trip to Europe, Africa, the Middle East and for the past two years has been assistant to the publisher of Time Magazine.

In 1941, Scott filed his first dispatch from an overseas post for TIME, from Japan. A year later he became a contributing editor for the magazine in New York.

In 1943 he was in Washington covering the State Department for Time. Later that year he went to Sandalla, Sweden to Stockholm where he was chief of the Time and Life bureau until 1945. For the next three years he was chief of Time's Central European Bureau in Berlin.

He returned to the New York office for an interlude, and in 1951 was editor of TIME, Inc., as a Nieman Fellow resident.

Short speeches are to by delivered by Dr. C. W. Ermey, head of the Department of Speech, Dr. Wayne Minnick, chairman of the Political Science, and Dr. Gregg Phifer, associate professor of speech.

Dr. Phifer has extended a special invitation to all freshmen interested in public speaking and forensic activities to attend this meeting.

Freshmen have always taken a considerable part in intercollegiate debate both at home and on the trips throughout the Southeast, spokesmen noted.

Debaters Slate Discussion On 'Weakest Sex'

"Resolved, That Women are the Weaker Sex," is the topic for a humorous debate to be given at the Biennial Fall Forensic Meet tonight at 7:00 p.m. in 206 History.

Fred Roberts and Norma Trigg will be debating, affirmative and negative, respectively. The program also includes color slides taken at last year's debate tournament.

The fall mixer is traditionally an informal debate squad meeting, the first in a series of debate squad sessions held every Tuesday evening through most of the school year.

The outlook for the 1954-55 season will be discussed by Tom Woods, senior debate manager.

Memories Of 'Rushing' Brings Remorse, Doubt To Frat Man

By WILLIE SMITH

Before the rushing scene fades from our minds, it might be fitting to review the past few weeks.

As far as I can remember, it was a pretty rushed up jumble of bids thrown at me from all sides. The rules with big visions of getting off on a good foot as far as school work goes, be now forgotten. I have been told that the end seems unforeseeable.

Not only was the rushee fallen behind in his studies, but he has been the victim of late night decisions of his economics colleagues. Every evening after the meeting many people and seeing them at their very best, he has been the victim of the desire to go "Greek" or remain "independent."

The "Greeks" meanwhile had seen the rushees at their very best and now had to vote on who would be acceptable to their organization.

The question I want to raise is, can persons who are going to live with each other for four years know his fellow man after only two or three weeks of a shotgun relationship?

It seems to me that a more satisfactory plan should be adopted by the different fraternity and sororities on our campus. It would be better in the long run for the school, "Greeks" and the individuals themselves.

If rushing was put off until its second semester or even until the sophomore year, the students would have a better understanding of their fellows and his mind would be made up as to what to do, and he would not have been firmly planted in his college work.

Flambeau would benefit in that the administration and staff of the freshmen would improve because the rushee would not have a chance to settle himself to college standards.

The fraternities and sororities on the country do not allow pledging until the end of the first semester, and only after the students has already made his grades. The "Greeks" do not suffer because of this policy, but in the long run benefit.

Instead of rushing at the outset of the new year, they must wait until they have shown good chance to see college life without the big rush that characterizes our campus the beginning of each year.

The new students should be able to sit back and relax and get into the swing of things. They should be able to look at each fraternity and sorority and make this decision with a time element taken into consideration.

Florida's Brief Reflects Judicious Approach Towards Desegregation

The brief filed by Attorney General Ervin reflects the judicious and realistic attitude displayed by State officials in the desegregation ruling. They deserve praise for the continuing and calm manner in which they have accepted the ruling.

In the Florida brief, the many problems arising from the desegregation plan are pointed out. They seem almost overwhelmingly difficult, yet they are not unsurpassable. The problems include: the conversion to a non-segregated school system entailing a revamping of the building program; the future outlook for Negro teachers, the academic difficulties that may be experienced between white and Negro students; the policeman's lack of confidence in his ability to maintain order in the event of forced desegregation; the moral, health and economics differences between white and Negro students; the various safety factors in mixing white and Negro students, and perhaps the major factor, that children reflect "the deep-seated prejudices and antagonisms felt by their parents."

This brief largely pinpoints this issue by stating that "time and tact and wisdom" are needed in bringing about a true realization of the goal set by our highest court, and that desegregation must be a gradual and lengthening process. We are in full accord with this gradual adjustment program. To think that desegregation can be attained or brought about overnight will lead to almost certain violent resistance.

Florida, so far, has not followed in the footsteps of its associate states in implementing and carrying out the ruling desegregation. In Georgia we have seen the stand taken—the people will vote in November on whether to retain the public school system; in Mississippi it is reported secret councils are being formed to combat it; in Maryland and Delaware, widespread and bitter resentment has already broken out. In the latter state it has reached the ridiculous stage—an Association for the Advancement of White People is looking for support.

The desegregation was carried out quickly, perhaps too quickly, in these Northern border states where it was believed the people weren't as ingrained toward segregation as in the more Southern areas. What has happened is naked evidence that desegregation must take place gradually but surely.

Though people here have kept their heads about them, the brief says opposition organizations are springing up, some of which through their literature encourage violence. Also, 79 of the 176 members of the legislature were polled and 40.5 per cent of them "wanted to preserve segregation indefinitely by whatever means possible." This reaction was bound to follow the ruling—nothing can still prevail and take command. They cannot realize desegregation is now inevitable.

The universities could go a long ways in fostering a practical attitude towards desegregation. Definite thought should be given towards the idea that desegregation could be started at the college level. Students are away from the "deep-seated prejudices and antagonisms" of their parents, and at this older age, have a clearer picture of society's needs. Moreover, they certainly possess a better rationality at this level.

When the arguments for enforcement are presented to the Supreme Court in December, we hope that they will be given the utmost thought. It could go a long ways in preventing the predicted resistance and in calming inveterates.

Mr. Nixon's Oratory

The correction of the quotation of Vice President Nixon's speech at Hunter, N. Dak. on Sept. 12 did not remarks much more edifying. Mr. Nixon had been quoted as saying that the Eisenhower Administration had "kicked the Communists out of the Government, not by the hundreds, but by the thousands."

This is a difference only in degree. Mr. Nixon's statement, while technically accurate, leaves the misleading impression that persons discharged as security risks are necessarily connected with communists and fellow travelers. The impression is the exact opposite of the professed aim of the Eisenhower Administration in its security program. It serves to perpetrate a misconception among voters that the Government is riddled with unfaithful or unqualified employes, and it undercuts efforts to strengthen morale in the civil service. Even allowing for the extravagances in which both political parties have indulged during the campaign, it is dirty pool. The Republicans can not have it both ways. They cannot keep the security program out of politics and at the same time continue to use it as a sort of Chamber of Horrors for their campaign orators.

—From the Washington Post and Times Herald.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Wonder why cars have wheels?
Its perfectly permissable for automobiles.

—Don Rapp

The Booklist

University Report Is Reviewed

This is the last in a series of seven articles appearing in The Florida Flambeau concerning the Florida Educational Association Report which was published recently.

The Division of Student Welfare did not fare too well under the scrutiny of the Study Committee which recommends that personnel and costs be reduced. A suggestion, open to controversial issue is that residence hall counsellors and advisor should be recruited from graduate students in academic, curricular, vocational or educational majors, thus benefiting the staff's efforts to social, regulatory and disciplinary subjects.

Improvement of dormitory study conditions is urged, as well as reduction in the number of planned house meetings. Development of graduate students' morale is stressed.

Although every recommendation cited so far bears directly on each and every student at Florida State University, the Study Committee's policy on student government and student-faculty relations is revolutionary and worthy of direct quotation:

"That a special committee make a study of Student Government and student-faculty relations. Such a committee might consider

"A more liberal policy by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs in reviewing student policies, student body representation, faculty and student advisory committees (athletic, artist series, and the like) with the extent of admission of students to general and special faculty meetings and committees."

"Revision to this issue is a later suggestion that a reorganization and smaller Faculty Senate hold its meetings open to the public, with the agenda released before hand (which has been requested by the student body on numerous occasions.

The Study Committee recommends that a joint faculty-student committee explore the feasibility of approval of the student government constitution by the Board of Control as is the case with the University of Florida.

Study of improvements of the hospital-health services is also advocated.

Another suggestion is that faculty advisors to the various branches and committees of the Student Government be replaced by a faculty-student advisory board to Student Government to be set up instead.

Cellinas on individual extracurricular activities are suggested as well as more appropriate scheduling of these activities.

Reduction of the activity fee for graduate students is suggested, with the proviso that they benefit little from it. Bearing in mind that the FSU out-of-state tuition fee is "one of the highest in the entire South" the committee advocates that the "substantially" or "discontinuing of this fee.

Religious lectures and convocations are suggested as means of reformulating the University's interest and stake in the ethical and religious values of modern life." An inter-faith religious service in which "denominational claims" would have no part is suggested for each Sunday throughout most of the year. Colleges of Florida outside the university would provide for an inter-faith chapel on campus, according to the Study Committee. Private enforcement for the above-mentioned religious activity would be sought. Control of the FSU program of religious activity should be vested, according to

Continued on Page 4.

The Florida Flambeau
BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor Joyce Potter
Campus Editor Martin Dyckman

Sports Editor Dick Ogburn
Sports Staff Jim Jeanes, Dick Victory
Photographer Carl Gutting, Laird Anderson

Copy Editors Silvia Parrish, Willa Smith, Connie Coleman

Amusement Editor David Drea
Art Consultant Frank Di Alma
Cartoonist Don Mohn
Junior Staff George Goldstein, Jerrold Bernstein

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.
Mary Liz King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff Virginia Vaughn, Pat Robson, Mary Wogan

Distribution Members of Alpha Phi Omega
Advisor Fraternity

Telephone 7-8000 extension 6821
211, 213 Language Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published here weekly by students of Florida State University.

Inside Dope

A Better Measure

'Vest-Pocket' War

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

Six miles from the China mainland on the islands of Quamoy and Little Quemoy are 50,000 Chinese Nationalist Troops fighting an increasing "Vest-pocket" war with the Chinese Reds.

It is this "little-war" along Red China's southeast coast that affords the people of China hope of freedom. For the forces of Chiang Kai-shek are the only open resistance the Chinese Communists have to fear.

It is for this very reason that proponents of the idea that the United States should abandon the Nationalists do not make sense. With the ever present threat of invasion by China's troops the Communists must keep several divisions employed along their warcoast which might otherwise be put to use in Burma and elsewhere in Asia.

Not only from a military point of view do these proponents fail to reason accurately, but from a humane standpoint as well. On Sept. 13 the Peiping radio announced that American bacteriologist Hsuh F Redmond of New York had received a life sentence after being arrested in Shanghai as a spy for the United States. Last December it was reported that Redmond had been arrested April 26, 1951. Repeated protests by the country have been ignored.

Not only have Americans been abused by these people but the British and other nationals as well.

Statements that the Chinese people are satisfied with their new government are disproved by the recent escape of thousands of Chinese from the mainland to the Nationalist-held Tachen Islands. 500 miles north of Formosa, and the rejection recently of Red prisoners in Korea to return to their homeland. To this writer, it is not a sign of contentment.

The importance of Quemoy to the eventual freeing of Red China can be seen from the fact that in the closing stages of the civil war on the mainland in 1949 the Reds attacked the island only to be repulsed after suffering heavy losses. Since then Quemoy has been a base for coastal raids and spying forays by Nationalist guerillas. Nor with the Red threat of invasion has the population exactly fled. Quemoy stands in their way.

With this evidence anyone who believes the Chinese Reds are stamped out all resistance to their regime and that peace in Asia will be restored by abandoning China is mistaken. For history tells us only too well that the Communists will not be satisfied until they have conquered the world.

Letters To The Editor . . .

Dear Fellow Students:

We want to make our Honor System at FSU successful, but we cannot hope to do this without the cooperation of everyone.

The Honor System will be strictly enforced this year. Anyone who violates the Honor Pledge, which we have all signed, will be brought before the University Honor Court with the possibility of being expelled from school. So do make one point clear . . . If you are anyone violating the Honor Pledge, and you do not report that student, you are just as guilty as he is in breaking the Honor Pledge. When you see someone being dishonest in a classroom you should report that student to your professor, who in turn will report it to Jerry Meyer, Chief Justice of the Honor Court, or you can contact Jerry yourself.

Several people have asked how they can get on the University Honor Committee. If you really are interested in working on this committee write to Bruce Ann Munroe, Box 3065, Campus Mail, and give your name, your class, and your campus address.

I really feel that if each of us will do our small part in upholding the Honor Pledge, our Honor System will become a living part of FSU.

Sincerely,
BETTY ANN MUNROE
Secretary of Honor

To The Editor:

At last the football seating has been put on a good basis. I can finally see what is going on. In the past there was so much noise going on about me that I could pay no attention to the action. But all my friends and I would sit about cheering, yelling and just being generally unAmerican. But now, no longer bothered by all this, I can quietly appreciate the subtleties and deeper intricacies of football. Now, with two complete strangers on either side of me I no longer feel that I must put on this front of general school-hating and exuberance. And besides this it saves me the bother of having a date with me any more. You generally never know whom you are taking until the day before, and by that time it is too late to get tickets. How ingenious are the inner recesses of the Athletic Business Office. Now I can tell my friends with one stone: I find that I can study better at the game than I can at my dorm. It's so much quieter. Ah, Utopia!

Yours for better appreciation of the fine points of football,

MARCELLO TRUZZI

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

Close, the odds are 40 to 1 that someone in here will flunk, unless, of course, he should decide to drop this course.

The Point Is

China Lobby Needs Exposing

By BOB FOLSOM

For the readers who enjoy Herblock, and perhaps may not accept the full meaning of his fine cartoon in today's paper, his explanation is merited.

The right to lobby was established in the first amendment. "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for redress of grievances."

There have been many definitions of lobbying. One study said: "At its highest level, which it attains more often than is perhaps generally realized, lobbying is a positive good. At its common level, it is not always harmful, is far more often than not detrimental to the welfare of representative government. When it falls to its lowest level, as it has often done in our time, it is morally indefensible and a criminal offense against the people." Herblock, referring to one of his cartoons against farm lobbying said: "I think there's a difference between dirty farming and gold digging, between a chiseler and a cow and a guy with a crowbar's rake."

The lobbyist might be an ex-Congressman or a public-information bureau. The real estate lobby may employ a public relations counsel, the American Legion may influence veteran legislation, or the AMA may influence health legislation. But they are all there for one purpose: to influence Congress to pass or veto legislation pleasing or displeasing to their particular group. Neither is that or may not benefit the American people.

The China lobby has been one of the most notorious in Washington. Herblock has depicted it perfectly. In its drapes-like fashion, it hides the faces of those who support it, for little is known about these men.

Back in July, 1951, Senators Morse and McMahon presented a resolution calling for an appropriation of $50,000 to enable the Foreign Relations Committee to find out whether any attempt had been made by any foreign representative to influence U. S foreign policy adversely. Basically, this piece of legislation gained widespread publicity for a short time. But only the surface was about a week. The resolution gained little support and after the publicity died down, the resolution did, too. This was the first attempt to expose a China lobby, and it failed. There hasn't been one since.

Why did it fail? Influence, probably. It is known that little about the China lobby is only "Chinese"; its funds are American-

The Dissenter

A Citizen Forms The NAAWP

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The radio announcer, in a voice laden with alarm and sorrow for his country, was telling of the race riots in Baltimore. He was telling how Governor Lane's request and responsible American parents had finally incited their children to attack, curse and jeer at those who had committed no crimes were that their skins were black.

And then the voice on the radio moved on to a related topic—a man named Bevley W. Bowles Jr., an ex-marine, who has been named by the Tampa Tribune as a native of Florida.

The announcer told how this structure Bowles, who calls himself president of a National Association for the Advancement of White People, has been preaching animal integration in Delaware, and collecting membership cards as much as $50 in his segregation wildcat, according to the announcer.

What the announcer said next had me laughing grimly in my self-righteous public service record of the little-man-who-would-be God named Bowles.

According to the Tribune Bulletin, Dunedin, Fla., police, who have been keeping close track of the man's movements, took the unusual step of issuing a following statement to the people of Delaware so that they would know what manner of man is leading them in a crusade against Negroes named Bevley W. Bowles Jr., an ex-marine, who has been named by the Tampa Tribune as a native of Florida.

The statement told how Bowles is the public interest and for the public protection in view of the prominent part he is taking in the organization of a NAAWP group in Sussex County.

"Because of the many addresses made by Mr. Bowles and the number of contributions accepted by him, state police believe that the people of Delaware deserve to know his background.

Sketches

An Idealist Named Joey

By DICK VICTORY

Joey was about the most likeable guy I've ever known. At least for a while there, anyway.

Even the idealistic have to be old stuff after a time.

I suppose no one thing made Joey different. He was meticulous; but Lucy, a girl, was almost equally so. He was a fantastic idealist — especially about women. He really believed in love. He was kind to and Lucy came along.

He first met her in a dimly-lit cabaret in L. A. She was sitting on the bar drinking whiskey sours with a girl friend, and after that first night, when he felt sure that he had successfully hornswoggled her from afar for five months thinking, because of the poor light, that she was about her own age and she a happily-married mother of two, he knew.

This false notion finally dissolved, Joey moved in.

His first encounter with her were through flowers. I imagine that under the then pre-meeting period, he sent her a hundred boxes, all tagged in some debonaire manner. "The mysterious stranger" . . . "Your passion killer" were the two he liked best, of course he never revealed his true identity.

His next decision was to telephone her, and he did, double talking and acting the imposter, but never the same imposter.

By this time, there was a definite crisis. He decided he had to meet her directly and eliminate this horrible shame under which he was living.

So he phoned again in no longer keeping his true identity secret.

"Who?"

"Joey Judson. Can I see you?"

"Depends."

"On what?"

"Pendy, when you want to see me."

"Oh. . . ."

"Well?"

"Tonight all right?"

"O.K. Tonight. Boy. 10 . . . If you don't mind, I'm busy."

"Of course, of course. Goodbye."

"Bye", and click.

Love. . . .

Restless and eager, Joey rot there as I 3:30.

Knock. . Knock.

Who's there?

Joey.

Pause and then, Joey who? Judson . . . Don't you remember?

Oh yeah, that's right. You're Joey.

Muffled voices and then the door opened and a well-dressed man stepped past Joey and disappeared down the hall.

Something later told me that Joey tried to stick his head through the door on rolling bars on a bridge that night and he must have been having vivid visions of Lucy because he still to this day has a scar on the bridge of his nose and, two or three on the back of his right hand.

But getting back to that idealism business, I knew he was in love through love's it the first time I saw him afterward because of what he said to me and thought he can't repeat it here, believe me. It was profound. I have to admit, though, that when Joey and I got together last on the golf link he had his shoulder and admitted that those few weeks after the first meeting and before the incident were the happiest of his life.

Etcetera Etchings

'White Wing' Dislikes Parades

By DAVID DREIS

It was early morning on Times Square. A hazy atmosphere was flaming past the row of first rum mirror houses as the dawn was coming up like thunder to coin a cliche. Over at the Duffy Square memorial in the center of the street was a White Wing putting a dismitied name for a street cleaner.)

Sam was a modest street sleaner-er-White Wing. He was proud of his work. Why, he'd seen more important men in parades than anyone. He wouldn't tell you—if you asked—about his exploits with the broom and pail, but he had them.

"I just hate parades. They're such nuisances."

"But—I stumbled here to show humility—

"Son, I don't mind cleaning up. After a few years on the job, you have to be sort o' It's but you've never seen Times Square more spotless, if I needed a negative. Here on Times Square we don't have many parades. They're run up and down Fifth Avenue . . . but just get one big parade going and the whole front is filled with litter. Dis voice dropped as if he was playing his Dradivel's "There's no end" in throwing paper slither. Cheers, okay, but ticker tape is another story. I can't see it."

"Is there any parade that you didn't or don't mind cleaning up?"

"Well, I do have to admit that I like Veterans parades pretty interesting. And the folks are in such a good mood that . . . but New Year's Day?

(Continued on Page 4)

"He was arrested by the Baltimore city police on March 12, 1953, on five charges of false pretense. Disposition of these charges is unknown—but he was fined $18 and costs on each charge. At the time of his arrest in the city of Baltimore he was wanted in Tampa, Fla. In connection with bouncing checks. Authorities at Tampa later advised Baltimore that other charges had been made in their cases and that Bowles was no longer wanted there. Warrants were also on file in the sheriff's office at Belair Md., on two counts of issuing bad checks. He was arrested and returned to the sheriff of Belair on April 1, 1954, the charges were nolle prossed (prosecution withdrawn) on the prosecutor's office.

"At the time of his difficulty in Baltimore, Mr. Bowles was an officer and part owner of the Bryant Bowling Co. and is alleged to have paid wages to some employees of the firm with bad checks."

According to the Tribune Bowles claims that the last

(Continued on Page 4)

Seminoles Earn Their Initial Victory Of Season, 47-6

Seminole Spotlight

By DAVE MORRIS
SPORTS STAFF

There are two wall-known factore involved in win[nin]g football games. One is to score points. Tha other [is t]o keep the opposition from scoring mora points.

Florida State proved in lte first two games that it [had] the defensive potantial to win, but thair offense was [bott]led up by big and experiancad dafensive outfita plus [a li]ttle rain.

Saturday's sleughter of Louisville was statisfying in [th]at tha Seminoles discovered their scoring potential. [Th]e land and air bombardmant, which produced sevan [to]uchdowns scored by as many players proved that [th]ey have tha punch needed.

Prospects for fattaning their season's record on tha [las]t remeining foes appear to be good.

[Vi]lanove will eithar be reeling or on tha rebound [wh]en they meet the Seminolae here Saturday night, hav[ing] been beaten decisively by Syracuse and Mississippi, [..] and 52-0.

The Wildcats, one-tima roaming Eastern powerhouse, [hi]red formar Philedalphia Eagles assistant Phil Reagan [..] this year. The new coeching staff missed the bene[fit] of a spring practice session, meeting tha team cold [th]e first of the seeson.

Earle Edwards, former Michigan State end coach, [is] in his first year et North Carolina State. The Semi[no]les can axpect to run into soma of that tricky Michi[gan] Stata style of multiple offanse when they travel to [Ra]leigh a week from Saturday. The Wolfpack is win[les]s in three starts, having lost to VPI 30-21, North [Ca]rolina 20-6, and Wake Forest, 26-0.

Next and roughest tast of tha season is Southeastarn [Con]ference giant Auburn, who ranked among the top [team]s in the nation before being upset by Florida. Tha [Pl]ainsmen had previously drubbad Chettanooge 45-0.

The Tribe climaxas three weeks awey from home [Octo]ber 30, when they meet Virginia Military Instituta in [Lyn]chburg. Nugent's formar charges opened with a loss [to li]ttle Davidson, 19-0, but came back to upset George [Wa]shington, 16-14, and beet Richmond, 19-0. The two point [mar]gin over George Washington was achieved on the last [play] of the game, whan tha hard charging VMI lina [pin]ned the GW quartarback in his own end zone for a [saf]ety.

Following an open date, Furman comes here to [fu]rnish the Homecoming opposition. Reportedly weak[en]ed by graduation, the Purple Hurricanes sandwiched [a] 11-13 loss to Miami between victories over Newberry, [..]-6, and Presbyterian 27-0. Seminola rooters are hoping [th]at they haven't retained the same charm that they [ha]d in dropping FSU twice in tight games at Campbell [St]adium.

The Indians then go to DeLand to meet their oldest [..] rival, undermanned Stetson, for tha eighth time. [The] Hattars got thair only win—14-6—in 1947 in the first [gam]e of modern football played at newly founded Florida [Stat]e University. In 1952 they managed to gain a tie. [..] McQuillian, who raturns this yeer as head coach [afte]r an absence of many yeers, issued an emergency cell [to t]he student body for man power at the outset of the [cam]paign. The Hatters thus far have lost to Davidson, [..] and beaten Troy State, 18-14.

Mississippi Southern, the cindarella team of the [South]east, comes to Tallahassee for the homa finala on [Nov]ember 27.

Tha Seminoles close out the season against the Tam[pa] Spartans, who whipped Mexico, 31-26, previous to [los]ing to Chattanooga, 28-6.

Taking an optimistic view point and hoping Lady [Luck] smiles our way in this season of upsets, this writer [..] State to finish with a 7-4 mark. Auburn and Missis[sippi] Southern are the big obstacles left on the Seminoles' pat[h].

Tribe Explode After Taking Early Defeats

The Florida State University football team, quita sterila for two waaks, turned the Louisville gama into a good thing for tha second straight yaar by giving the Colonels a 47-6 inferiority complax Saturday at Louisvilla.

Thus the Seminoles have run up a two-year total of 106 points against the losers. State won last year, 59-0.

An interesting parallel shows that it was also from Louisville that the Seminoles won their first game last year, first suffering reversals at the hands of Miami and Abilene Christian. This season, FSU had previously bowed to Georgia and Abilene.

Saturday's game saw FSU start slowly than bust the game wide open early in the second quarter.

The game helped Coach Tom Nugent give the fine-looking freshman crop more game experience. He cleared the bench early in the last half in an attempt to keep the score down.

It will be remembered that after last year's rout, Nugent was accused of deliberately running up the score against the Colonels. However, Saturday, FSU was so infuriated after the Georgia and Abilene frustrators that not even wild horses could have stopped State from seeking to make a swinging door of the Louisville goal line.

Senior right halfback Billy Graham led the offensive efforts for the second straight week. Freshmen Bill Weaver and Buddy Reynolds, both halfbacks, gave Graham plenty of support on the running plays.

Back in action for the first time since he injured his knee in pre-season practice, Fullback Ronnie King showed good power on plays up the middle.

Up front, All-America tackle candidate Al Mackowiecki made the hair of opposing linemen stand on end all afternoon with his vicious line play.

Nugent seemed most elated over the play of the freshmen.

"They really gave us the pick-up that got our offanse under way. Defensively, we had too much depth and brawn far them. Once we wore them down, all we had to do was coast."

Creating favorable impressions with Nugent besides Weaver and Reynolds ware freshmen ends Ham Bisbee and Ronnie Schomburger. He called their play "outstanding."

Two highly regarded freshmen guards, Buddy Bryant and Leo Baggett, suffered ankle injuries and both may be lost for the Villanova contest.

Meeting Slated For All Interested In 'Warpath Club'

Betty Ann Munroe, head cheerleader, announced a meeting of all students interested in forming a Warpath Club for either the cheering section or pep rallies.

The first meeting will be held Wednesday night at 7 p. m. in room 410 of the Longmire Building.

A bonfire and giant pep rally will take place Friday night at 7 p. m. on the east side of the Student Center to cheer for victory in the Villanova game. The cheerleaders, football team, and band will all be on hand. "Students are urged to begin filling the wire enclosure for the bonfire with wooden crates, books, papers, anything burnable—except Westcott"—said Miss Munroe.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS — by Dick Bibler

"Naw, he wasn't th' hero of th' game . . . he got his pants ripped off on th' last play."

'Intramurals' Department Plans Most Extensive Program Yet

FSU's biggest Intramural sports program ever will open October 10, it was revealed recently. The program will be both for men and women, with leagues divided into Dormitory and Fraternity divisions.

The highlight of the year comes at the end of the football season when the championship touch grid game is held between the winners of the different leagues. The contest will be played under the lights at Doak S. Campbell Stadium.

Throughout the year points are awarded to individuals and to teams that participate in the program.

The sports are divided into teams and dual or individual events. A certain number of points are given for entering; additional points are awarded for games or events won.

Points are also given to teams when their sports manager attends a meeting of the Man's Recreation Association on the following basis: five points for attendance by regular sports manager; three points for a substitute.

No team will receive entrance points in a sport in which more than two games have been forfeited.

In the event a team tournament ends in tie for first place, each team shall receive winner's points. An extra contest will be held to determine which team is to receive the intramural award.

Caine Mutiny Starts Tomorrow At State; Stars Bogart, Ferrer

Climaxing more than two years of preparation and production, Columbia Pictures brings the movie version of the Pulitzer Prize winning book, The Caine Mutiny to the State Theater, tomorrow through next Tuesday.

Stars of the film are Humphrey Bogart as Queeg, the erratic captain; Van Johnson as Maryk, the sturdy executive officer, Fred MacMurray as Keefer, the "brain" of the mutiny; and Jose Ferrer as Greenwald, defense counsel at the court.

Newcomer Robert Francis steps from an army uniform into the role of Willie Keith. This is his first motion picture role. Also a newcomer is May Wynn who plays a night club songstress.

During the filming of one scene, Van Johnson was supposed to dive into the ocean fully clothed, to secure a stray paravance. Two navy marksmen with powerful rifles watched for sharks. As Johnson was swimming back to the ship after tying the target to a line one of the marksmen stopped a shark in its deadly tracks.

New processes about which the studio is still tight-lipped, were developed in the filming. Film footage shot at sea, while the company was on location in Hawaii, forms the backbone of the typhoon sequence. Camera crews deliberately set out to sea in search of storms and recorded them in color by Technicolar at the risk of their lives.

Starting tomorrow at the Florida and continuing through Saturday is Johnny Guitar, starring Joan Crawford and Sterling Hayden. Also in this film are Mercedes McCambridge and Scott Brady.

In Johnny Guitar, Miss Crawford dons levis and six-guns, as furious opposition threatens her frontier saloon, strategically located on valuable land through which will pass a new railroad.

A Bullet Is Waiting, plays at the Florida next Sunday, Monday Tuesday. In the film, Rory Calhoun is seen as a fugitive accused of manslaughter who is tracked by Stephen McNally, brother of a man slain by Calhoun.

Torrential rains force sheriff and prisoner to take refuge at Brian Aherne's isolated ranch high in the rugged Sierras where Jean Simmons, as Aherne's daughter, is attracted to Calhoun. Overpowering hate figures prominently in this film.

RAT CAPS AVAILABLE

Rat Caps will be sold Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Student Center. Sophomore officers urge all Freshmen not having rat caps to purchase them at this time, or be subject to Rat Court.

Dick Gutting, Trampoline Champ, To Re-Enter National Competition

By GEORGE HEPTOFIGLIO

Dick Gutting, National AAU and NCAA trampoline champion, recently stated that he will again enter competition after a two-year retirement.

Gutting reached this decision when he learned that this year's winner may be selected to represent the United States at the Pan American Olympic games to be held in Mexico City next summer.

Dick's athletic career dates back to 1945 when he was a diving champ for the Chicago YMCA. He started tumbling there in 1946, and when the "Y" obtained the first trampoline in the Midwest he began to work out on it.

At that time the trampoline was not used in competition, so Gutting concentrated on his tumbling. He won the Central AAU novice tumbling championship in 1947 and, the following year, copped the Central AAU junior tumbling title. At this time trampoline was also entered in competition and Gutting won his first title—the Central AAU trampoline title of 1948.

Although this was only his first year of competition, Gutting went on to win a second place on trampoline in the National AAU in 1948.

A year earlier Gutting had joined the University of Chicego's famed Acrotheater Gym Club where he met and worked with such gymnastic greats as coach Bud Beyer, National Collegiate All-Around champ in his college days, Bill Goldie, Harold Frye and Shorty Bedard, all National or former National champs in tumbling.

It was also at the Acrotheatre Gym Club that Dick met Bill Roetzheim, who later became one of the United States outstanding all time gymnasts. It was Roetzheim's postcards of the beautiful Florida scenery and sunshine that later convinced Gutting that FSU was the place for him.

In 1948 Gutting teamed up with Tom Mullineaux, a former pupil of his, and under the sponsorship of the School Assembly Service, traveled throughout the midwest lecturing in high schools on Physical Education as related to trampoline and tumbling.

In the fall of 1950 Mullineaux and Gutting split up. Gutting coming to Florida State and Mullineaux going to Michigan State. Gutting began his college career majoring in music but after one year discovered that "I couldn't blow my nose, much less a trumpet, so I switched to Physical Education."

This cost Gutting one year of college, as his music credits were not transferable. During his freshmen year at school Dick won the Florida AAU tumbling and trampoline championships, the Georgia AAU and Southeastern AAU trampoline Gutting successfully defended titles.

During the 1951-52 season his Florida, Georgia, and Southern Intercollegiate trampoline titles, plus taking first place on the trampoline in all dual meets. He also won the Florida AAU and Southern Intercollegiate tumbling titles.

Gutting rates his Southern Intercollegiate tumbling crown as one of his proudest accomplishments, because he beat Steve Mitakis, Georgia's great tumbling champ, who the following week took third in the National collegiates. Dick climaxed the season by winning the National Collegiate trampoline title.

It was after Dick's outstanding performance at the NCAA that the roof fell in. Action was taken to have him declared ineligible for NCAA competition. This was due to the fact that he had been reimbursed financially for the lecture tour he took part in during the 1948-50 school year. The rather amusing point about this incident is the fact that no protest was registered until after Dick had won the championship.

As one of the more active workers of the famed FSU Gymkana Troupe, Dick has spent much of his time during the last two years taking part in "Career Day" programs for high schools throughout the Southeast.

Dick's part in the Gymkana shows is the grand finale of the entertainment, namely his trampoline act. According to gymnastics coach Dr. Price this is one of the outstanding displays of acrobatic showmanship in existence today.

Among his many other achievements, the fabulous Gutting has also managed to work his way through school the past four years. During the years he could be found in a variety of jobs—sweeping the floor in the infirmary, painting "No Parking" signs throughout campus, or playing the trumpet with a dance band.

During the 1953 school year many more honors were added to Dick's growing list. He was initiated into Gold Key, ODK, Scabbard and Blade, the FSU Hall of Fame, and was written up in the 195? Who's Who Among College Students.

This year beside being active in ODK, Gold Key and Gymkana, Gutting has also been appointed Battalion Commander in In his spare time he can be seen the Army ROTC and chairman of the Military Ball committee, coaching the Tallahassee Tumbling tots on Landis Green.

Incidentally Dick is also a charter member of Gymnastics and received a band letter for the Marching Chiefs in 1951.

The International Students will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Student Lounge, basement of the Longmire Building, announced Sam Bapista, Foreign student advisor.

All foreign students are urged to be present and U. S. students interested in joining the organization are invited to attend.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

FOOTBALL THROUGH THE AGES

The football frenzy is upon us. But let us, in the midst of this pandemonium, call time. Let us pause for a moment of tranquil reflection. What is this game called football? What is its history? Its origins? Its traditions? These are not idle questions, for when we have the answers we will appreciate even more fully, enjoy even more deeply, this great American game of football.

First of all, to call football an American game is somewhat misleading. True, the game is now played almost exclusively in America, but it comes to us from a land far away and a civilization long dead.

Football was first played in ancient Rome. Introduced by Julius Caesar, it became one of the most popular Roman sports by the time of Nero's reign. The eminent historian Sigafoos reports a crowd of MMCLDDXVIII people at the Colosseum one Saturday afternoon to see the Christians play the Lions.

With the decline of the Roman empire football fell into disuse. The barbaric Huns and Goths preferred canasta. However, by the Twelfth Century A.D. football had emerged from its twilight and risen to its rightful place in the firmament of European pastimes. The eminent historian Sigafoos reports that the whole continent was in the grip of wild excitement in the year 1192 when the Crusaders, under Freddie Barbarossa, journeyed all the way to Damascus to play the Saracens in the Fig Bowl game. The Crusaders squeaked through, 22 to 21, on a field goal by Dick Coeur de Lion in the closing seconds of the game.

October 21, 1512, will ever remain a red letter day in the history of football. On that day Leonardo da Vinci, who has often been called "The Renaissance Man" because of his proficiency in a hundred arts and sciences, was painting a picture of a Florentine lady named Mona Lisa Schultz. "Listen, Mona baby," he said as she struck a pose for her portrait, "I keep telling you—don't smile. Just relax and look natural."

"But I'm not smiling," she replied.

"Well, what do you call it?" he said.

"Gee, I don't know," said Mrs. Schultz. "It's just an expression, kind of."

"Well, cut it out," said The Renaissance Man.

"I'll try," she promised.

And try she did, but without success, for a moment later the artist was saying to her, "Look, Mona kid, I'm not gonna ask you again. Wipe that silly grin off your face."

"Honest to goodness, The Renaissance Man," said she to him, "it's no grin. It's just the way I look."

"Well, just stop it," said Leonard testily and turned away to mix his pigments.

When he turned back to Mona Lisa and saw the smile still on her face, he became so enraged that he seized the nearest object—a casava melon, as it happened—and hurled it at her with all his strength. Showing great presence of mind, she caught the melon and ran with it from the studio until The Renaissance Man's temper should cool.

This was, of course, the first completed forward pass.

Another date dear to the hearts of all football fans is September 29, 1442. It was on this date, according to the eminent historian Sigafoos, that a sixteen year old lad named Christopher Columbus tried out for the football team at Genoa Tech. He failed to make the team because he was too light. (He weighed at that time only 12 pounds.)

And why, you ask, is this date—September 29, 1442—so dear to the hearts of all football fans? Because young Columbus was so heartbroken at not making the team that he ran away to sea. And if that hadn't happened, he never would have discovered America. And if Columbus hadn't discovered America, the world never would have discovered tobacco. And if the world hadn't discovered tobacco, football fans never would have discovered Philip Morris—which, as every fan knows, is the perfect companion to football. As Sigafoos, the eminent historian, says, "Land's sakes, I can't even imagine football without Philip Morris. I'd sooner go to a game without my raccoon coat than without my neat, rich tobacco-brown snap-open pack of mild vintage Philip Morris Cigarettes which come in regular or king-size at prices young and old can afford. Land's sakes!"

The end of football in Europe came with the notorious "Black Sox Scandal" of 1587, in which Ed Machiavelli, one of the Pisa mob, paid off the University of Heidelberg Sabres to throw the championship game to the Chartres A. and M. Gophers. It was a mortal blow to football on the continent.

But the game took hold in the American colonies and thrived as it had never thrived before. Which brings us to another date that remains evergreen in the hearts of football lovers: December 16, 1771.

On that date a British packet loaded with tea sailed into Boston harbor. The colonies had long been smarting under the English king's tax on tea. "Taxation without representation," they called it, and feelings ran high.

When on December 16, 1771, the British ship docked at Boston, a semi-pro football team called the Nonpareil Tigers, coached by Samuel (Swifty) Adams, was scrimmaging near the harbor. "Come, lads," cried Swifty, seeing the ship. "Let's dump the tea in the ocean!"

With many a laugh and cheer the Nonpareil Tigers followed Swifty aboard and proceeded to dump the cargo overboard in a wild, disorganized and abandoned manner. "Here now!" called Swifty sharply. "That's no way to dump tea overboard. Let's get into some kind of formation."

And that, fans, is how the "T" formation was born.

©Max Shulman, 1954

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette.

M&N Cafe

Everyday Luncheon
SPECIALS
for 75c

SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN
CHOPPED STEAK
VEAL CUTLETS
All With Two Vegetables, Salad, Drink, Dessert

TUES.—Whole Shrimp, French Fries, Chef's Salad Seafood Sauce 85c

WED.—Broiled Filet Mignon, french fries, Salad, mushroom sauce $1.00

THURS.—Whole Broiled Lobster, french fries, salad, Lemon Sauce $1.00

BEST & CHEAPEST FOOD IN TOWN
E. JEFFERSON STREET

IT'S MALONE'S BOOKSTORE FOR

★ Everyday Supplies
★ College Outline Series
★ Pocketbooks
★ Stationery

"Everything For The Student"

107 S. COPELAND

baby doll details on dress-up taffeta

Carole King JUNIOR

From the make-believe lacing that trims the bodice, to the velvety flowers that frame the throat—a pretty innocence marks this date dress. Has its own petticoat.
Sizes 7 to 15 . . . . $14.95
In Black

WILSON'S NEW SECOND FLOOR OF FASHIONS

P. W. WILSON Co.
Since 1837 Tallahassee's Favorite Department Store

Sororities

(Continued from Page 1)

vard, and Frances Eleanor Noel.

PHI MU: Marcie Blount, Jane Barnett, Dinne Elizabeth Duncan, Penny Louise Edwards, Sara Lou Jackson, Ardis Laddoo, Sue Anne Mayo, Mona Gay Miles, Betty Clark Dopson, Barbara Ensor, Mary Jane Oliver, and Janice Russell.

PI BETA PHI: Gloria Johnson, Betty Lou Whittle, Ivy Carer, Jean Hayden, B. J. Jackson, Dorian Colcin, Mary Riley Finley, Lucy Crossland, Mary Shira Foley Stewart, Becky Glass, Adria Ann Whittle, Betty Hatton, Sarah Jane Griffin, Mary Anne Hendrix, Gail Hannaman, Elaine Knight, and Priscilla Moss.

SIGMA KAPPA: Nancy Buchan, Jackie Pierce, Jeanne Hefner, Pic C. Smith, Beverly Alexander, Cynthia Maxon, Amy Sisson, Sherry Whitley, Janice Grosser, Edmarie Mundt, June Sellar, Betty Benton, Margaret C. Roberts, Pat Copeland, Sandra Davidson, Mary Ann Smith, Mary Walter, Victoria Walter, Carolyn Webb, Kay Kelsheimer, Jeannette Kent, Sarah June Mun, Christine Weeks, and Pat Weeks.

ZETA TAU ALPHA: Patricia Louise Boukwaw, Frances Randolph Dutton, Selby Pauline Allen, Christine Gunsorhus, Mary Naomi Powell, Mary Margaret Meadows, Barbara Burkhardt, Barbara Elaine Haines, Mary Margaret Williams, Mary Jo Jones, Ann Margaret Kelly, Mary Patricia Peace, Ruth Marie Shuman, Ann Reeves Williams, Lala Ann McDonald, Sue Baldwin Purvis, La Quita Joy Renfroe, and Rosemary Rhyne.

A.C.E. SLATES MEETING

A meeting of the FSU Association for Childhood Education will be held tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in the Longmire Auditorium.

Officials urge dull men and women interested in working with children aged two through twelve to attend the meeting and get acquainted with present members. New members will have an opportunity to select a committee activity for the coming year.

Bats In The Belfry? Must Be! Chas. Lajoie To Fix Ding-Dong

For the past three years the temperamental chimes in Westcott tower have been broken. Mr. Charles Lajoie, assistant resident engineer, who has been absent from work recently because of illness, promises to have the chimes working again before long.

Last spring the chimes clammed up for the third time when the new Westcott Auditorium was electrically joined to the old building, causing a power defect. The resulting wax set down at that time because there was still some electrical work to be done.

Since then, many things have happened to delay repairing, said the assistant resident engineer. Shortly before school opened, Lajoie started up to the tower to adjust them, but was stopped by workmen who were laying a floor.

Flambeau Staff To Meet Weekly With FSU Administration

Through regular Friday afternoon press conferences The Florida Flambeau and the FSU administration hope to work for better student-administration, understanding and relationship.

Two representatives of the Flambeau met with Dr. A. B. Martin, vice-president, last Friday afternoon to discuss the proposal, as well as certain other issues which may be pursued further at a later date.

Dr. Martin assured Editor-In-chief Bob Folsom and Campus Editor Martin Dyckinsu that he will give as much assistance to the paper as possible.

Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president, told the Flambeau representatives that the administration will not be out to withhold information, but rather that such information will be forthcoming whenever possible.

Dr. Martin said that the administration should not be thought of as cloaked behind closed doors.

Several issues were discussed informally at the first meeting with Dr. Martin but not entered into deeply.

Tryouts Scheduled October 6, 7, 8, 12 For Dance Group

The Theater Dance Group tryouts will be held October 6, 7, and 8 from 6:45 to 7:45 and on October 12, at 7:30, Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, sponsor, has announced.

The first three dates will be for the purpose of learning certain dance patters, she said. Final tryouts will be held on October 12. The tryouts will take place in the Dance Studio in the basement of Dorothy Dickinson. She added that members will be placed to show the location of the studio.

"To stimulate interest and develop appreciation of modern dance in its members and the public is an object of the Theater Dance Group" she noted.

Study Report

(Continued from Page 2)

the study group, is a committee of faculty and students within the University.

Directly imporuant to the students also is the faculty. The group of people who carry out the university's instructional function is studied extensively in the report.

Measures are asked for study of situations in which a faculty member remains in any rank below full professor for more than 5 years. Probation period in any rank would be set at five years instead of three.

An interesting addeliuh at this the report defends in strong lanruage academe freedom and free speech, and that in this "the University must lead, not take its cue from the public."

Study of salary practices is urged, as well as sabbatical leave for faculty every seven years. Reconstitution of faculty Senate has already been mentioned.

Students who so far have been pleased with the recommendations in the report may darken somewhat at the suggestion that faculty and staff be given reserved parkina

A faculty club is suggested.

Support of research work is stressed and importance of visiting professorship is made clear.

Increased appropriations and support for the library is asked. It is suggested that new systems of library classification be considered, and that the present open stacks be confined, at least for the present.

Progressive air-conditioning of "all" campus buildings is suggested, as well as expansion of the Student Center into a Student Union with full recreational, conference, and auditorium facilities. Expanded facilities for married students are asked.

It has been by no means possible to touch even vaguely on all that was covered in the final report of the University Student Committee. The report itself should be read for complete understanding of the facts and suggestions reported. Students with more time may study the sub-committee reports as well. These subcommittee reports were consolidated into the final version.

In general, the feeling is that the report represents a liberal turn in the university's growth. Many of the recommendations concerning student life have been planks in campus political party platforms. Suggestions concerning academic and curricular matters would make for longneeded modernization of the university's educational set-up. Discussion of the university's service responsibility to the people of the state is worth reading.

As with all extensive works, there has been and will be controversy over the report of the University Study Committee. The students are primarily concerned. It is hereby suggested that they be well informed. A copy of the report, as has already been said, may be checked out in the reference room of the library.

Tully Seeks

(Continued from Page 1)

dent applicants telling them there is a job available.

Whoever is the first to answer the employment card seat is by a department or group has the best chance of getting the job. If the employer accepts the student for the job, the employer fills out a recommendation for a student assistantship which is sent to the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement.

The office then sends the student who has been accepted for employment a call card to come and sum "payroll papers", according to Tully. The student assistant expects to be paid on time, unless the job is off-campus.

In the case of an off-campus job, the second "call card" is not sent, since the student is not paid through the FSU payroll office. However, Mr. Baker said the Placement office expects students who apply for off-campus jobs through the office to report whether or not they are successful so that the necessary changes in the record of available jobs may be made.

A Citizen

(Continued from Page 2)

case involved five Negroes who "refused to come to jus office" to collect their pay as the white workers did."

Maybe they felt it wouldn't be safe for them to enter his office. Which doesn't excuse bad checks.

The foregoing does, however, show you somethinu of the character of a man who would say, according to quotation, "My three year old daughter will never attend a school with Negroes as long as there is a breath in my body and sumpowder will burn."

Now I doubt that his daughter cared much about whether she will go to school with Negroes or not until her father filled her head with the same type of rubbish that Hitler used to plunge the world into World War II.

It does leave you with the idea that perhaps the men must be after the money he can see from rabid race haters without care of the results.

And the whole business leaves me with a very bad taste in my mouth and a hopeless feeling in my heart—that any society can spawn such creatures and such feelings and such hatred.

There will always be men and women who must justify their meaningless existence by persecuting and stiffling fellow human beings who are different from them in some way or who do not believe what they believe. They shall always invent excuses such as tradition or supremacy to rationalize their despicable actions.

But I cannot classify as human the men who lead them, whether for monetary gain, instability of mind, or what. You can see for yourself that motives may lie behind such actions.

Flambeau Reporter

(Continued from Page 1)

wondering whether the second lead story will ever get turned in.

The reporters are the ones who are supposed to write the news. Several of them also have columns on page two in which they are given free license to blast everything from the latest issue of Mad Comics to the gum on the bottom of the third seat, second row, room 302 History Building.

There are other memoirs on the Flambeau staff, also a few upperclass members known as the Business Staff. They are the ones responsible for selling all the pretty ads that clutter up the paper and requisitioning basic requisals for the rest of the staff: the press cars for the senior staff, champagne for the waier coolers and television sets for the news room.

This all goes to show you should forget your Geology 101 class and spend your time appreciating the magnificence of The Florida Flambeau.

'White Wing'

(Continued from Page 3)

hated Douglas MacArthur's. Too much type and too little music. Well, this is a amusement column and parades are as much a part of the amusement section as anything. This is just one of the things which I had this hiatus. In future columns I'll be writing what a strip-teaser thinks about and how a publicity woman controls her conscience.

SURFACE NOISE: Eddie Fisher finally announced his engagement to Debbie Reynolds. . . . When you see Hitchcock's "Rear Window" the stupendous close photography will have the girls feeling as if they're kissing Jimmy Stewart and have the men feel as if they're being kissed by Grace Kelly . . . better than 3-D.

New trend for publicity men is to get pulpit in for their stars by panning the Doxy fashions . . . Jane Russell's publix man was smart . . . quoted her that she likes it. . . . Mike Todd's up at the break of dawn to see Marilyn Monroe's dress fly up over an air draft were treated, but scene was'nt to be used in the film . . . could be a publicity ass. . . . Saw "Hell Below Zero" in air-conditioned theater. Kept saying the title over and over . . . Seems to me that the joke box at the Student Crater could stand a few more laughs. When the bop comes on only a few dance to contrast to the large number that dance the ballads . . . . Agree? . . . .

Journalism Honorary

Suma Theta announces the first meeting of their Journalism Club to be held Thursday, 7 p. m. in Room 401, Longmire . . .

All members are urged to be present for the election of new officers and the discussion of plans for the coming year, announced Warreo Cobb, president.

'Charley's Aunt' Year's First Play

"Charley's Aunt," by Brandon Thomas will be the first production by the department of speech it was announced today.

The "perennial favorite has been played continuously since the turn of the century by such outstanding performers as Joe Perrer, Robert Q. Lewis and Jack Benny.

Perrer du the play in New York a few years ago. Lewis played it in summer stock last summer and Benny appeared in the screen version a decade ago. More recently, comedian-dancer Ray Bolger appeared io the musical "Where's Charley" takes from the stage play.

The cast has not yet been announced for "Charley's Aunt," but Dr. Lynn E. Orr has been chosen to direct. October 29 and 30 and November 1 and 2 are the dates for the production to be held in the Augusta Conrad Theater, History building.

ACCOUNTING MAJORS

Mr. Charles H. Moore of the United States General Accounting Office will be on campus Thursday, October 7, 1954.

Mr. Moore will meet with all accounting majors of this year's senior class interested in seeking employment with the U. S. Accounting Office. The meeting will be in the Club Room of Longmire from 1:30 to 3:30.

Seven Seas

TUESDAY SPECIAL
JUICY FILET MIGNON
FRENCH FRIES
CHEF'S SALAD
$1.00

WEDNESDAY SPECIAL
PIZZA PIE
CHEF'S SALAD
85c

THURSDAY SPECIAL
SPAGHETTI
LEMON ICE BOX PIE—85c

SPECIAL PRICES FOR BANQUETS
LET US KNOW FOR RESERVATIONS

TRIPLE PLAY...

in handsome rayon flannel with a worsted finish. Broeath the box jacket with its contrasting bands . . . a neat weskit. Charcoal with cream and light grey over cream weskit, brown with cream and cafe au lait over cream. Sizes 7-15, 8-16.

$16.95

Steyerman's Style Shop
118 S. Monroe

AIR CONDITIONED
STATE Theatre
FIRST RUN PICTURES
TODAY
"Magnificent Obsession"
Jane Wyman
Rock Hudson
Tomorrow thru Wednesday
"Caine Mutiny"
Humphrey Bogart
Van Johnson
Fred MacMurray
Jose Ferrer

AIR CONDITIONED
FLORIDA Theatre
TODAY
"Gambler From Natchez"
Dale Robertson
Tomorrow thru Saturday
"Johnny Guitar"
Joan Crawford
Sterlyn Hayden
Scott Brady

AIR CONDITIONED
CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Today & Tomorrow
"She's Working Her Way Through College"
Virginia Mayo
THURSDAY
"Jubilee Trail"
Vera Ralston
Joan Leslie
PLUS
"Yukon Vengeance"
Monty Hale

AIR CONDITIONED
OUTDOOR DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Today & Tomorrow
"Ride Clear of Diablo"
Audie Murphy
THURSDAY
"Hell's Halfacre"
Wendell Corey
PLUS
"Fort Defiance"
Dane Clark
Ben Johnson

SHIP ARRIVED TOO LATE TO SAVE BROWNING WITCH

FLASH!

LUCKIES LEAD AGAIN IN COLLEGES!
Newest, biggest survey of smokers in colleges from coast to coast, based on 34,440 actual student interviews, shows that students prefer Luckies to all other brands. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better.

'Charley's Aunt' FIRST NAME IN GENUINE
OF BOSTON HANDSEWN MOCCASINS
CLASSIC LOAFER

☆ Army Russet Calf*	7.95
☆ Black Calf	7.95
☆ Black Bucko Suede	9.95
☆ Grey Bucko Suede	9.95

3½ to 10 B to AAAA

Ours Alone
MILLER'S Cootery
*available in AAAAA width

STUDENTS!
Got a Lucky Droodle in your noodle?
SEND IT IN AND MAKE $25

Want to pick up $25? Make up a Lucky Droodle and send it in. It's easy.

If you want to find out just how easy it is, ask Roger Price, creator of Droodles, "Very!" Price says. Better yet, do a Droodle yourself, like the ones shown here.

Droodle anything you like. And send in as many as you want. If we select yours, we'll pay $25 for the right to use it, together with your name, in our advertising. We're going to print plenty—and lots that we don't print will earn $25 awards.

Draw your Droodles any size, on any piece of paper, and send them with your descriptive titles to Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure your name, address, college and class are included.

While you're droodling, light up a Lucky—the cigarette that tastes better because it's made of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better.

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

DROODLER, Copyright, 1952, by Roger Price

©A. T. Co. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — IS OUR CALL FOR CIGARETTES

English Coffee Hour Honors Authoress See Page One

The Florida Flambeau

Senate Delays Nimkoff Appointment See Below

PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

VOL. XL No. 5 FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1954

Grubbs Slates Frosh Election For Oct. 20

Candidates Should File With Secretary Soon As Possible'

Florida State University freshmen will have their first experience with university government on October 20, the scheduled date for the Freshman Class Election to begin.

Jones of the Freshman Class are up and I hope there will be great interest in university government with the coming election," Secretary of Elections Bennie Grubbs said Wednesday.

Mr. Grubbs lauded procedures of Freshmen who plan to be candidates in the election as follows:

If Freshmen interested in running for a class office must file a Declaration of Candidacy with the Secretary of Elections between October 19-25.

Declaration of Candidacy will be filed on a form prescribed by Elections Committee.

Students may change the office for which he declared his candidacy any time prior to 5 p.m. on the eighth day (Oct. 25) before primary day, but no student may declare his candidacy for more than one office at any given time. A student may also withdraw his Declaration of Candidacy any time prior to noon of the day before primary day.

There are no academic qualifications for Freshman officers, but he must be a candidate for office who is under penalty of suspension by Honor Court or violation of the Honor Pledge.

There will be no distribution of posters or any other campaign literature prior to 5 p.m. October 20. No posters nor campaign literature may be active soliciting or votes shall take place within 50 feet of the Student Union Building, the West Hall Student Center, the Seminole Club and Westcott Building.

Expense limits for candidates are: Class Presidents—$25, University Senators $25 and all other minor officers $15.

The candidates and girls may not exceed the prescribed limit. A cash expenditure is the spending of money by a candidate or the spending of money by persons in behalf of a candidate for the purpose of campaigning for him. A gift is the receipt of anything of value by which money is secured on campaign materials such as printing.

An expense estimate of all cash expenditures the candidate contemplates during the whole time of the primary and final, and a final estimation of all gifts received must be filed.

This estimate must be filed with the Secretary of Elections no later than noon, October 20, after a student can be placed on the official ballot.

No ballots will be issued a Certificate of Candidacy with the estimate of expense limits.

Ballots will be elected by the Student Council are Class President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, Social Chairman, University Senators (3 men and 3 women from each class by vote of the whole body.

Mrs. Grubbs revealed that the possibility of using voting machines is being investigated, but if not, we hope to use the IBM voting machines used in the past year."

October 2 is primary day for elections of the Freshman class to be administered the oath of office and sworn in during the meeting for the final of the Freshman Elections.

"AND THEN SHE SAYS TO ME . . ."—Sophomore Class Vice-President Ray Wagner testifies against Kat apprehended for not wearing cap at the first 1954 Kat Court session held Tuesday. In background Chief Justice Dusty Rhodes (in black robe and sacks) solemnly listens to evidence, as other judges struggle over the decision—Guilty or Not Guilty. The next meeting will be Tuesday night in the Music Building Amphitheater.

Twenty-Two Frosh Tried Tues. At First Session Of Rat Court

Approximately 22 Freshmen were sentenced to varying penalties at the first session of the 1954 Rat Court, held Tuesday night in the Music Building Amphitheater.

Probably the lightest sentence was given to two freshman women, who were made to do an about-face and walk off the stage. Their prosecutor, had maintained they were guilty of "mental cruelty to upperclassmen," but his charges was considered so outlandish that he was thrown into the pool in front of Student Buglino by onlookers after the court session.

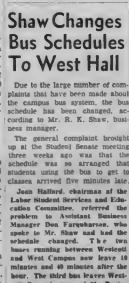
At the beginning of the Rat Court trial, a short talk was given by Fred Vogel, Counselor for Student Organizations. Vogel said that the Rat Court was a tradition that should be enjoyed by Freshmen and Sophomores alike, and that it should be a "rich and meaning-ful experience."

Mr. Vogel assured the Freshmen that the Rat Court had very little authority in making any court on the penalties but we hope you will respond in a cooperative spirit. It's almost school spirit to nationalism in that both often make individuals do what they would not choose to do otherwise. He made an appeal for all students to enter into the spirit of the Rat Court. "In order for the traditions of our university to carry on, each year it becomes the privilege of the Sophomore Class to sort of bore holes in the Freshmen's heads and pour in things for them to regress later."

"It can be a thing of good sportsmanship and fun," he continued.

The year's first case was brought against Freshman Betty Jo Aserroll, who had been seen in the Student Center without a Kat Cap on. Sophomore Class President Ort, acting as master of ceremonies, asked the court if it was found the girl guilty or not guilty—sort of a silly question. She was found guilty and sentenced to carry her books to class in a brown paper bag.

The proceedings of the court were often punctuated by shouts of encouragement to the Freshmen, jeers for Ort, and caterwauling from the large crowd of students assembled in the amphitheater. As in times past, every case was adjudged guilty.



Some of the penalties imposed: a woman told to attend classes for two days without make-up; a male told to wear his pants rolled up to the knees for two days; a male sentenced to scrub chewing gum off a table in the cafeteria; a male told to sell Flambeaus for two cents each to raise money to buy a replacement; and the five women made to wear "I Am a Rat" bibs in the school colors for three days; a woman told to hold the door open at the Amber House for 30 minutes; and a male told to "dig on a bench by Westcott pool and fish" for a certain amount.

(Continued on Page 4)

PAYROLL PAPERS DUE OCTOBER 10

Students who have received student assistantship appointments from the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement must sign their payroll papers in that office before October 10.

Students not meeting this deadline will not have their names on the supplemental payroll for October 25, announced Mrs. Fletcher, Vocational Guidance and Placement secretary.

John Scott

editor for the magazine in New York.

In 1943 he was in Washington covering the State Department for Time and for three years after 1944 was chief of the magazine's Central European Bureau in Berlin.

New Fraternity Group Revamp PKA; 'Mature'

"Something new in fraternities" has arrived on the PSU campus. That is how Tom Hall, president of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, describes his recognized organization, in which "mature outlook" will be featured and to which the member's religion will make no difference.

"There will be no 'hell week'," said Hall. "In its place there will be a help week' work done for the university, sororities, local organizations in town, etc.). There will be no personal activities toward active members by pledges—meaning that pledges will be no slighting of cigarettes, washing of cars or shining of shoes enforced upon them.

"Academic standing and participation in university activities will be stressed," Hall said.

Editor's Note: Although university fraternities no longer refer to their initiation of pledges as "Hell Week," but rather "Help Week," Hall's objection rose further and removes other forms of hazing.)

"We think the Inter-Fraternity Council should lead the way," Hall told the FLORIDA FLAMBEAU, "and make it a university-wide Help Week where fraternities are concerned.

"The chapter serves with a recent article in the Flambeau in which it told the delay of rush week," commented Hall. "This includes promoting better study habits and helping freshmen to get over the hump, and to adjust to the fresh hours. We don't want to get students started on the assumption that social life should be placed ahead of academics—we believe it is not possible for the student to serve the fresh nor the frats to know the students on a one-night basis.

THE FLAMBEAU learned from reliable sources that whether a prospective member is a Christian or a Jew will make no difference in the fraternity. They said the only provision will be that the prospect measure up to the standard of maturity desired by the chapter.

The members also told The Flambeau that their composite grade average is approximately 1.7 higher than that of any other fraternity on campus. This is, however, unofficial.

Most of the members were among a group of freshmen the last year attempted to form a fraternity of their own, but were unable to get official clearance.

Dance Groups Start Free Dance Lessons On Tuesday Nights

Cavalier and Cotillion, men's and women's dance fraternities, have announced the beginning of their annual series of free lessons for student Organizations.

Beginning Tuesday night at 7:30, Cotillion will be the group to have invited all students interested in learning to dance or improving their skill to attend these sessions, at which the fox-trot, Viennese, box, mambo and rumba steps will be featured.

A short meeting of the clubs will be held at 7 p.m. in the trophy room of the Student Center, officials announced.

This year's sessions will be held every Tuesday night, according to the announcement.

Dispute Blocks Final 'Decision' On Appointee

Gaster Cites Clause Halting Approval Of New 'Attorney'

A constitutional objection raised by vice-president Gordon Gaster prevented Dave Kennedy from being confirmed as attorney general at Wednesday's Student Senate meeting.

Gaster's objection rested on a constitutional clause which says that the President must confer with the vice-presidents before making cabinet appointments. Gaster maintained, during discussion over the full Senate, that he had not been consulted at any time in specific reference to Kennedy. Gaster said that he had no personal objection to Kennedy, but he was in opposition to the method.

The Senate Elections and Appointments Committee, of which Jim Moore is chairman, reported that on the basis of Gaster's letter to the committee, they recommended awaiting the appointment back to Student Body President Peter Nimkoff with no statement either against or in favor of Kennedy's appointment. Gaster also adopted as a resolution a letter tended by the Moore Committee, chiding Nimkoff for "rushing" consideration of appointments.

Moore's committee turned in favorable reports on four other Nimkoff appointees. They were confirmed by the Senate. They were Pat Dekle, clerk of honor court; Bonnie Tyre, secretary of the budget committee; Evelyn Moll, Cyber Dialogue editor; Kennedy and J. T. Williams, chairman of the auditing committee.

Cyber Dialogue of the Senate meeting were as address by Dr. R. R. Oglesby, Dean of Students. Senator Joan Hallard's report on student employment in the cafeteria, discussions of transporting most of the student body to Auburn, Alabama, for the football game there last October.

Dean Oglesby told the student senate that student government should be taken seriously. "Business government is real government," he said, adding that what the senators did affects the university and the state as well.

"All real government is limited," Dean Oglesby formerly a professor of political science, told the senate. Constitutional government is the best kind of government, he said.

Senator Joan Hilford reported on the discussions of several members of her Labor, Student Services and Education Committee, at meetings concerning meetings with Miss Dorothy Dodd, director of the University Food Services.

In answer to questions regarding the cafeteria's work in cooperating with full-time employees in the Student Union, Miss Dodd said that irregularities of student schedules and greater economy were the reasons for employing student help, Senator Hilford.

The food services director additional a report 15 per cent markup on most items, Hilford reported.

Concern over the food service set-up was voiced by many Senators during the discussion, according to Hilford. Miss Tracy Hall, Senate Secretary, said it is the intention of not using student help.

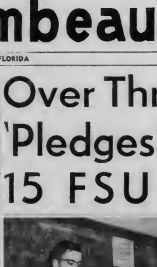
Hilford reported that about 75 per cent of all student assistants have officially been found to do satisfactory work. She explained the Senators on procedures whereby a student assistant can appeal through the office of Dr. Tully, director of vocational guidance and placement, if he feels he has been dismissed unjustly.

Susan Quarterman, of the Campus—Coed committee, reported before the Senate to request Senate approval of the planned allocation of chest funds.

The Senate will consider her request at the Wednesday meeting and vote on it at the meeting the following week.

Vice president Gaster called Senate attention to a plan to transfer the Student Union Building to the PSU game there on the 30th. The Senate as a whole appeared in favor of the plan, and undertook to back it at the regular 7:30 p.m. meeting next Wednesday in the Student Organizations Room.

Senator Joan Hilford of the Social Committee was given general charge of planning the occasion.



APPLICATIONS FOR LOANS

Loan applications must be completed and in the Office of Guidance and Placement by Friday before the Tuesday Student Help Committee meeting at which they are to be considered.

These meetings are held once a month on Tuesday.

PLACEMENT OFFICE

Over Three Hundred 'Pledges' Listed By 15 FSU Fraternities

AS RATTLE RAGES—Fred Roberts reads from notes as he upholds the affirmative in a debate over "Resolved, That Women Are the Weaker Sex". A Forensic Mixer Tuesday night sponsored by the speech department. At right is Norma Trippodo, his opponent, who listens attentively for pay. Illogical reasoning she may use against Roberts later. See story for details of debate.

Campus Debators Stymied On Question Of The Weaker Sex

At the Forensic Mixer sponsored by the speech department Tuesday night, it was declared that men fear women—and conversely that women feel inferior to men —in an illogical debate to settle the question "Resolved That Women are the Weaker Sex."

The affirmative stand was upheld by Fred Roberts, Sophomore from Miami, who held "All women are inferior to all men, at some men, at a few men, at some time, in everything both men and women can do."

Roberts based his statement that women feel inferior to men on the fact that if a male were to tell a female "That's a nice-looking dress you have on," she would reply "Oh, this old rag?" or "It fit?" But, he explained, if a male says to a female, "That's a sharp shirt you're wearing," the answer will be "Yes, it's real terlin'."

Defender of the negative, Norma Trippodo, Sophomore, viewed Roberts' logic with the observation that when a woman marries a man he expects her to do anything from cooking breakfast to handling affairs of moment. Miss Trippodo also said that men are obviously weaker than women. "Webster's definition of weakness refers to the inability to resist an outside force," she declared.

"I intend to prove that men are very susceptible to outside forces, the main one being women."

She had earlier claimed that women are superior to men mentally, emotionally and also logically in answer to the stand of her opponent that men are superior physically, emotionally and mentally.

In order to prove his point that women are weaker physically, Roberta tried everything from edging records out of men and women in the Olympic games, to confronting Miss Trippodo with a a spring outfit for muscle-building. The latter of the contestants proved to be the mentally superior one by the

"Since the dawn of history, less than 1,000 women have edged records out of men," Roberts quoted from an article. Miss Trippodo answered that a man who is driving an automobile "doesn't know where he is going, but he knows that he is there before he turn right or left. Where he is going, he is."

Roberts declared "A good wife is the workmanship of a good husband." Miss Trippodo in reply, "A good husband is the workmanship of a good wife."

"The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," concluded Miss Trippodo.

The charges, counter-arguments and assertions were aired in alternate debates by the affirmative and negative. Miss Trippodo had the last word in a one-minute "Last Word," which was her due as a woman.

Plan Launched For 'Jaunt' To Auburn Game

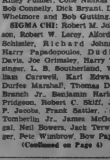
A proposal to transport Florida State University Students by bus to the State-Auburn game on October 23 was brought before the University Senate at its meeting Wednesday afternoon.

As outlined before the senate, the plan would provide chartering as many Greyhound buses as necessary to carry "2,000 or more students" possible to the game at a cost to each students of $5.00 for a round trip ticket and ticket to the game inclusive. They would return by bus the same night.

Mr. Fred Vogel, Counselor for Student Organizations, said that he would give his full support to the plan as would Dean of Students Ralph R. Oglesby.

The proposal was referred by the senate to the Social Recreation Committee, headed by Senator Joanne Joanos. At presstime Joanos was still checking with Leon Council Health Unit officials for approval of the trip.

Joanos told that definite action would be taken before delegates said we get a definite OK from all health officials.



When contacted yesterday about the proposal, PSU Chief Physician, H. G. Hathaway, gave full endorsement, saying "Go to it."

"I see no reason why the epidemic of polio in Tallahassee should prevent the trip," he said, "plane—trips or anything else.

"We have no cases on campus at the present time and there is no one we even suspect of having polio."

(Continued on Page 4)

English Coffee Hour Features Talk On Late Florida Author

Russell Reaver

Mrs. Cruse Scott and Phil Simmons writers like Phillip Wylie, author of Tomorrow and Generation of Vipers, Thomas Dewitt Talmage who wrote Battle Sermons and Fort Everglades and Rob White will be among the guest speakers in the next few months

Dr. Russel Reaver will speak on Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings at the second English Coffee Hour from 4 to 5 this afternoon in the Westminster House.

This year's series on Florida writers would have included the author because she has not been for her untimely death this year.

Dr. Reaver will talk of the Pulitzer Prize winner's contributions to the field of fiction. He will also read one of Miss Rawlings' short stories "Benny and the Bird-dogs."

"Benny and the Bird-dogs" has been called by Macdonald Cowley newspaper literary critic, "a masterpiece in the language."

Some of the books that Miss Rawlings wrote were South Moon Under, Golden Apples, Cross Creek, Cross Creek Cookery and The Yearling.

The latter, a Pulitzer Prize winner was made into a movie a few years ago.

The English Coffee Hour sometimes called the Reading Hour or Browsing Hour or Book Hour is an informal weekly party to which all students and faculty are cordially invited, reported Mrs. Olive Cross, this year's program director.

A Storybook Example Of How Not To Handle A Tense Situation

Policemen are an underpaid lot today. Too many do not want to invite themselves into this state of being, usually because they have to eat. It then follows that men of not too high calibre often have to be taken into the ranks. They may be arrogant, inexperienced and hot-headed, and often they handle a tense situation in a bad way. Much of the disrespect for policemen stems from this lack of adequate judgment.

This disrespect for the police in general, and for the Tallahassee police in particular, was heightened considerably by three hasty actions last Saturday night on the FSU campus. It was a storybook example of handling a tight situation in the worst way possible.

Not only that, the incident as reported in the Tallahassee Democrat and over the wire service, has been telescoped out of proportion.

We beginners are often told to check and double-check our facts before presenting them. We can in this case recommend that the local newspaper and wire service do the same thing. The newspaper reporters relied on the Tallahassee police for their source of information. They did not care to question or hunt down, in usual and recognized journalistic fashion, reliable eyewitnesses who have the entire incident. There were many of these witnesses, they were not out to gain headlines, nor would they have distorted their version.

The eyewitnesses to the parade said that on Saturday night, the Tallahassee police, after investigating 'a weekend series of disturbances', arrested an FSU student and charged him with trying to free a pulled from an arresting officer (this was also explained as resisting arrest), with disturbing the peace, and with petty larceny of a sign from a sorority house. It also said the student ran when he was first spotted, and when he came out of hiding, a police officer tried to arrest him but a group of other college boys stepped in to aid him. The police officer fired his pistol into the air twice and the student surrendered.

The crime this student committed was placing a building construction sign in front of a sorority house. He has been confronted with a petty larceny charge, for what really is a mere college prank that happens on college campuses throughout the country. We believe it was something the officer could have easily solved on the spot if he had kept a calm and resigned air about him. It is one thing when you are handling a desperate criminal, another when you catch a college student with a building construction sign. But the officer did not and thereby was the direct cause of the other two offenses charged against the student.

When the student ran after having a spotlight shined on him, the policeman fired two shots into the air, and the student returned. The policeman did not do it to disperse the crowd. The policeman then rammed his pistol into the student's stomach. The student did not "tussle" with the policeman, nor did he try to "snatch the officer's pistol." He merely tried to push it away in a natural instinct. He was willing to go with the officer, but a hammerlock was placed on him. The peace that was disturbed was caused by the hot-headedness of the police-man.

There was no attempt to free the student by his fellow students. As a matter of fact, he told them to go back in the fraternity house.

The Tallahassee police, in their distorted version of this incident, and the newspaper reporters who picked it up and spreading it state-wide in an untruthful manner, have done this University and the student a gross injustice that should be righted. It has been pounced on gleefully and without thought. There has even been a headline that read: "FSU Sprority Theft Charged to Student."

They have violated to the farthest degree, the very standards and ideals they represent and advocate: truth and justice.

Thieves, Honest Men and Poets

The fate of FSU's "Traipsing Trophy" was settled, though its history was not, with the arrival of a large package at the University Post Office Saturday.

This trophy first became a topic of discussion in the middle of September, when the Gamma Phi Betas, who had won it last year as a homecoming float award, began to take notice of its absence. (It had been missing five months by then.)

Last Saturday a package containing the two-and-a half foot tall gold cup arrived by campus mail, wrapped in brown paper and covered with the crudely-lettered address "Gamma Phi Beta".

The Post Office immediately called up the sorority, saying it had something the sorority "would be interested in." For on the outside of the package was the following poem:

"Please don't shed tears.

We want but laughter.
So here's the trophy
That you've been after."

Not surprisingly, no one knows who sent the package.

The sorority said later "We wish to thank whoever has returned our silhph, and we plan on keeping it—even after the Homecoming."

We wish to commend the honesty of the poets on campus. Perhaps the return of the trophy will serve as an example to the rest of the practical jokers here who are also holding articles pilfered in the past.

At any rate, we believe we have heard the last of FSU's "Traipsing Trophy".

News For Veterans

GI Home Builders con ors are reminded to give veteran-purchasers a non-vet warranty that their homes have been constructed in substantial conformity with Veterans Administration approved plans and specifications.

H. F. Dickerhaber, Manager, Pass-a-Grille Office, said that while the one-year warranty is being put into effect Oct. 1 1954 under the Housing Act of 1954, which stipulates that all new housing purchased with the aid of VA or Federal Housing Administration guaranteed or insured loans must carry the warranty, the warranty does not apply to existing homes which have been sold for more than a year. It applies only on new homes for which VA issues a Certificate of Reasonable Value on or after Oct. 1, 1954.

Builders or sellers of new housing will give each veteran-purchaser a warranty in a form which has been prescribed by the VA. A copy of the warranty, on which the veteran has acknowledged receipt, must be forwarded to VA by the lender before VA will guarantee or insure the loan.

Notice of any substantial nonconformance with plans and specifications must be given by the owner of the house to the warrantor within one year from date the veteran takes title or the house is initially occupied, whichever is earlier. The terms of the warranty will run to successors or transferees in event the property changes hands before the expiration of the warranty. The warranty terms prescribed by VA are identical. For homes which VA GI financing where FHA has made compliance inspections the warranty form prescribed by FHA will be used.

VA emphasized that the one-year warranty required by the law does not in any way limit or abridge other rights or privileges a purchaser may have under any other warranty or implied warranty.

VA said it will be up to the lender to enforce his rights to VA by the lender before VA will guarantee or insure the loan.

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ... Joyce Porter
Campus Editors ... Marvin Dickinson, Dick Norman
Sports Editors ... Jim Starnes, Dick Watkins
Sports Staff ... Carl Cannon
Photographer ... Lloyd Anderson

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.
Mary Lou King, Advertising Mgr.

Circulation Manager ... Virginia Vaughn
Pat Robinson, Mary Wogan
Distribution ... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Copy Editors ... Silvia Perrin, Willie Smith, Connie Coleman
Amusement Editor ... Don Dolberg
Art Consultant ... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ... Bill Cannon
Junior Staff ... George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service 420 Madison Ave., New York 17

Exchange Editor ... Irma Cox

Telephone 2 8000, extension 6821
211, 213 Longmire Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

"Pleased To Meet You, I Think"

From Other Colleges

Desegregation Stand

The Wheel believes that the greatest effort which Emory could make toward relieving racial strife in the South and toward improving the lot of both the white and Negro races would be action toward the admittance of qualified Negroes to the University.

Most intelligent southerners admit that segregation is losing its foothold and, in all probability, will eventually disappear in southern schools. Virtually the entire deep South prefers that integration be avoided, and on this point The Wheel fully agrees.

For any exception in the schools to be absolutely all at once—from grade one to graduate school—is a mistake. The people of many sections of the South are neither ready nor ready to accept unsegregated public schools. And people as used to freedom of choice as the Americans cannot be forced to do something they do not wish to do. It is right or it is wrong.

No matter what the Supreme Court may rule in December, immediate integration of the races is impossible — barring some stupendous act of God. But change is coming each year the attitude of the white South is in general more liberal toward Negroes. This change, however, is not in the least painless, and that's where Emory comes in.

We feel that the place which would arouse the least public disapproval and reaction for making the first steps toward integration is the private education within the South. It seems reasonable to assume that, with the ice broken, the state educational systems would join in the swim, each as the water may seem at first.

Emory has many legal, social and political roadblocks to admitting Negroes at Emory, but for this the many legal, social and political roadblocks to admitting Negroes at Emory, but for this the many legal, social and political roadblocks are even done without opposition.

Emory must decide if she feels that she can afford to be great.

—From The Emory Wheel.

Letters To The Editor . . .

Integration Necessary
To the Editor:

Your editorial in the October 5th copy of the Flambeau showed much insight into the problems of desegregation of the schools. In a broader sense, however, it seems inevitable that the whole social structure of our society must be altered in order to adjust itself to the desegregated school system and the social disruptions of the two races. There will be no racial distinction between black and white. The "Frenchtown" will gradually vanish from our society for the races will become one neighbor. Such seemingly revolutionary changes will gradually work their way into our society and will probably accommodate a host of new social problems. The private school will flourish; many communities until the people get used to accepting the Negro as part of their society. Moreover there will long remain a line of demarcation between the races.

The most satisfactory solution to the problem of desegregating the schools is to start the two races together in the easiest, single levels and have them gradually working up to the higher grade levels. In this way much prejudice will be avoided and human beings rather than classed will prevail.

Sincerely yours,
SHELDON SEAGROVE

School Spirit?

An Open Letter to the Student Body

Rio FSU made its break into BIG-TIME FOOTBALL." NO! The members of the football team have entered that big-time competition but these men do not make FSU. It is true that they represent the university at games away from home but it is up to the student body to represent FSU at its home games.

Even if an opposing university wins the football game they can hold the university in high respect. This is important. We don't want to be thought of as "that football team from Florida" where we spent an evening playing football and then went home. This impression can be conveyed if all the action is on the field of play. The student body has so let it be known in no uncertain terms that they are proud of their team, win or lose, and are behind them all the way.

Let's all get together and put FSU into the BIG-TIME league! Let's back our big team to the hilt. Let's let everybody know that we are proud of our team no ma when the visitors go home the proud comment will be That Florida State team has a good school spirit. Never in my life have I seen such school spirit displayed. Those people are really behind their team. With school spirit like that there is no reason why that team shouldn't be on the top of the league in a year or two.

It's up to you, the student body, to make this possible. The time is drawing all to close. Get out your support. Now let's see if you get out there and beat Williams with all the support you can give em.

—BILL MUNROE

DAY STUDENTS MEET MONDAY IN LONGMIRE

Day students will meet Monday afternoon at 4:00 in the Students' Lounge of the Longmire Building for organization and elections of officers. Gloria Parrish, vice president, will preside in the absence of Bill Moody, president.

"The only clue I'll give you is that it came from the student cafeteria."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

WFSU-FM AIRS VILLANOVA GAME

Florida State University's radio station, WFSU-FM will be the only local station covering the FSU-Villanova game at 1 p.m. Saturday in Doak Campbell S adium.

The Point Is

An Atypical Romance Is Filmed

By BOB FOLSOM

This summer I spied a short item in a morning newspaper that answered a question I'd been prying around in for five years.

It was a movie item, and said "Jet Pilot" which RKO put into production in 1949, shortly after Howard Hughes gained stock control of the company, finally is going to be released. Then it gave the names of the movie stars that will be in it, John Wayne and Janet Leigh.

The "finally" held some significance for me because I was a the same location that Janet was shot at, and for those five years, off and on, I wondered what happened to it. Not that I'm so crazy about the flicks only curious about them.

The movie location was an air base near San Francisco. Word got around that a movie was being filmed and everybody stalked the movie stars. Especially when it was heard that Janet Leigh, fiance though they learned she wasn't going to be there, and everyone gave the director a dirty look, trembled and started drifting off.

Everybody, but everybody else was there, including a guy who once owned the world's fourth largest air force and also, an F-80 painted to resemble a Russian jet.

Each day, Paul Mazur, who owned the plane, would take off in the camera plane, and shoot action shots of the F-80, the camera with a Russian star and light blue all over. Oftentimes, the jet would shoot down the camera, with the cameraman swirling on a pivot to get a shot of the approaching plane. A pool was started to see how low it could get. But it never touched the camera.

In addition to Mr. Mazur and the flight crew, was the director who had two cities and a healthy look, the producer-writer, Mr. Phil Cochran of cliff dwelling fame, who was technical advisor, and the production manager in a low life. An assignment of cameramen and technical workers rounded it out.

It seems the movie will be a romance-adventure with Wayne portraying an Air Force colonel, and Janet, a Russian aviatrix. Wayne is supposed to fall in love with her. Not very common occurrence since you don't have colonels falling in love with Russian airbrunes at every turn. Maybe instead of breaking up the engagement (if there is one) he just bumped her plane down, with her in it.

Why the movie was held for five years I haven't found out. Maybe that would be an interesting abridgment. Perhaps the State Department was to blab about. Hollywood films romances in this attitude is the unlikely diplomatic relations could be broken because of it. Or could be good publicity for the Air Force After seeing Wayne in his blue uniform with eagles and ribbons, it might be persuasive enough that all the youngsters will go out and join up.

Lately It Seems

Rat Court Is Valuable, Educational

By ORCHID ALONSO

Rat Court met Tuesday night at the amphitheater. The court was much better organized than it has been in the history of Florida State University.

The new machine is an existence today that could measure the amount of School Spirit that the rat cap stunt fosters, but in all probabilities it is very high. School Spirit is at a new high.

Fred J. Lawton, Counselor For Student Organizations, delivered the opening address, stressing the value Rat Court was a tradition that should be upheld by freshmen and Sophomores alike, and that it should be a "rich, meaningful experience."

Vogel further outlined the rich heritage of Rat Court and that has made Rat Courts the envy of all the schools he considered With the thought uppermost in his mind that Rat Court is a series fostered for school spirit, Vogel likened school spirit to nationalism in that both often make individuals do what they would not choose to do otherwise.

He ended his address by appealing to the Freshman class that they respond in a "cooperative spirit."

Rat Court is very definitely, in the minds of those people associated with it, a thing of good sportsmanship and fun.

It is obvious that most of the fun is associated with the upperclassmen, but it is also very obvious that most of the freshmen have chosen to cooperate also have fun.

Rat Court is serious, in spite of statements to the contrary, that the Rat Court has no value. Rat Court has never claimed to have any But the attitude of the freshmen and as is the case in this university, Rat Court, orderly and well planned is a "rich, meaningful experience."

It is welcomed, because in spite of the attempts to push the "coercion and stupid sentences" the rat court serves as educational and valuable service.

It saturates the new freshmen with facts that are essential! It familiarizes him with his officers. It exposes him constantly to the Alma Mater, the Fight Song, and most important of all, they are made aware of the Honor Pledge. After a year should be quite familiar with anything on the campus it is the honor pledge.

The Dissenter

Rat Court Is Time, Energy Wasting

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Rat Court crowned Monday night that it is nothing more than an innocuous waste of time and energy. The sentences could hardly have been placed with the term better and Rat Court demonstrated that its conception of a useful part of college life is infinite.

It was obvious from the start that any freshman with enough "school spirit" to wear the Tiger colors considered nothing he's to be subjected to a laughable penance. which was certainly appropriate for the type of crime he committed.

Since tradition dictates that the freshmen must be embarrassed and ridiculed in some way before they can be allowed the white degree of university life, one thinks the penalties handed down by the Rat Court might be at least be of some use to the school.

I fail to see any value in sentencing two girls to collect jars of human hair, or in letting more than one freshman in four-leaf clovers which can be bought encased in plastic as souvenirs, or most five-and-dime stores.

I can't even see any merit in sentencing a freshman who was still 160 copies of The Florida Flambeau to sell on campus, since the paper is given away to help with. As for opening a Coke bottle with your teeth —are FSU upperclassmen too drunk to do that themselves? Well, at least it's a good way to embarrass a freshman.

The Tiger spirit was obviously foremost in mind when the Rat Court assigned their penance. Why not have the girls to wear hits inscribed with the title "I am a Rat," and thereby create positive opposition from the University Leaders? Or, why not may claim his edict detrimental to business.

The closest Rat Court came to handing down a "useful penalty" was in ordering one boy to carry a sign reading "Beat Villanova."

You don't run into any of many things which Rat Court could assign to freshmen, such as the need for a new bell in existing school events or even picking up paper litter from the campus. Rat Court could however, be dedicated to the high and noble purpose of educating and humiliating the freshmen solely to provide spectators for the fraternities and upperclassmen, which is a very insane mission.

It is time that Rat Court has no legal authority behind it — that neither the administration nor the Student Government has ever seen fit to grant the power of compulsion. I hope all the freshmen realize that because if a first year student has something more important to do, he made free of he should'n't feel any less obligated to the obedient Rat Court.

There is an unpleasant affectation connected with the freshmen who don't come stacked up as poor sports by the Rat Court and by some of their own classmates as well. This is an unhealthy aspect of Rat Court. Education is more important than pleasure the Rat Court should realize.

(Continued on Page 4)

Etcetera Etchings

Darro's Saga As A Juvenile Star

By DAVID DREIS

If you're a movie-goer or have been a good deal of the medium at one time or another, you've seen several of the series starring Frankie Darro, once America's greatest B-picture film juvenile. Shirley Temple was in A-pics for Fox.

Darro had a rough life—as a kid star. He reviled letters from studios asking him to be seriously consider their daughters—when he grew up. Of course, I'm kidding. But they did they know now, they wouldn't have written.

There's talk of an automobile accident and an arrest for drunk driving as a fashion child star. His name wasn't in the newspapers, but many people surmised it was Darro. Whether it was or wasn't, the child star had to grow up in Hurry.

Frankie was under contract to Mascot pictures, which was the number one B picture company. Then Columbia, though producing many top-flight high-budgeted films was a several second-raters. Monogram remains kins, but under the new name Allied Artists they're spending more for better pictures. Anyway, Mascot was considered the equal of these and as long as they stayed in business Darro had a Job, either headlining with Tim Tie, Jr. or rounding around the lower with Bobby Blake and Leo Hall. Then Mascot's lot became barren and Frankie was a thing of the past. Monogram was growing up fast. Too fast.

He must've tried the major movie companies, but was never cast in anything. Screen Gems had a budget. Darro meant nothing to big-budgeted films and he wouldn't get cast in the big films so . . . maybe Monogram pictures. They were the only ones left. Jean Parker and Paramount's Richard Arlen and Jennifer Jones and Lon Chaney and Lloyd Nolan and Lloyd Bridges all started with Monogram and Paramount's Richard Arlen and Jennifer Jones and Lon Chaney and Lloyd Nolan and Lloyd Bridges all started with Monogram Lippert pictures using slipping stars for low-budgeted productions. Monogram was growing up and Frankie wanted to go with it.

Years passed and Frankie's earnings were running out. In the middle-fifties he was playing in a Monogram teenage series starring Freddie Stewart and Jane Frieszer. If you remember the series, Darro played the antagonist like Reggie in the Archie comic-strip. It wasn't success, but it was a steady salary.

Last week Frankie Darro's wife sued him for non-support of their child. Frankie reported that film roles have been scarce lately and "I'm only blood out of a dime." Frankie can be seen in the new Paramount comedy "LIVING IT UP" with DEAN MARTIN and JERRY LEWIS. He plays a bellboy telling that Jerry won't live through the night. See the picture to find out if he makes the heck I'm talking about.

Jeff Corey and Gloria Leo Barker has given up his Tarzan roles for leading westerns at Universal-International. Lena must've felt like Cheetah at the Jungle Room.

Lee's replacement is quite a hunk of man making him the 12th jungle man since Elmo Lincoln did it in silents . . . others who made their names running from limb to limb were Herman Brix (Bruce Bennett), Buster Crabbe and, of course, Johnny Weissmuller . . . Gloria raves to Tarzany fans, "Jane in the Night" the late-night musicilon over WTNT is the best thing since sliced bread . . . Jerry Lewis is great impersonator of Maurice Chevalier, Stan Freberg's impersonations of Ronald Colman and Boris Karloff are terrific . . . no bop . . . Rich Hollister, comic deejay, commenting about Peter Potter's nightly radio show of judging records . . . Hell! Who he has fifty-six stars on his show judging!

I only used FSU students . . .

Seminole Spotlight

By Jimmy Joanos
SPORTS EDITOR

What They Think—

An old axiom goes, "If you want to know something just an athlete, ask his teammates." Adhering to this ox, your column today is devoted to relating to you me of the things being said by FSU's gridders about one another. This writing is the result achieved after private terviews with several FSU gridders.

Some Seminole had to be chosen as the most outanding gridder following FSU's first three games, it ould probably be tackle Al Makowicki. By the way, is 6-1, 215-pound senior and guard Al Pacifico have been ected to lead their teammates into the Villanova fray co-captains. Makowicki, who hails from Monaca, nnsylvania, last season was selected to the All-Florida ate team eleven.

Guard Jerry Jacobs is as consistent as they come. Yes, ren always count on him to turn in a good performance." Center Bob Crenshew is the leader in the nsive department. Regardless of how rough the going ay it seems that his spirit never seems to dwindle. At ng grounds, pivotman Crenshaw is "light but makes up for it with courage."

Halfback Billy Graham has been the most potent running weapon at this point of the season. He is the leader among a large repertoire of gifted speed merchants. Sophomore Buck Metts, although hampered by a shoulder injury, is contributing heavily to the FSU running game. In 1955 Metts gained 381 yards in 58 carries to average 6.5 per carry. Billy Odom, Lee Corso, Carl Grann, Buddy Reynolds, and Bill Weaver are all halfbacks capable of holding their own in the stop and go department. Reynolds and Weaver are freshmen.

As for power-runners, fullback Gene Cox is as rough as they come. Fullbacks John Griner and Joe Holt can open the mail, too. In addition, Griner and Holt are extremely valuable on the defensive.

Quarterback Harry Massey is the team's most experienced and smoothest ball-handler. Freshman field general Ted Rodrigue is the leader among Seminole passers. QB Lee Swantic has all-round ability.

Possible Return Of Taylor Strenghens FSU's Hopes For Villanova Victory Here

By ALAN WHITMARSH

Revitalized after last week's convincing victory in Louisville, and considerably strengthened by the possible return of first-class end Jimmy Lee Taylor, the Florida State Seminoles continue their determined quest into big-time football tomorrow night against Villanova, in Campbell Stadium.

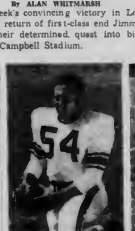
Taylor, who was named to the Little All-America squad last year, worked out this week for the first time since he suffered a concussion in the opening contest with Georgia. Coach Tom Nugent said that if "he could get into proper condition fast enough" that Taylor would see action in the Villanova game.

Nugent also announced that he was considering the use of a modified two-team plan Saturday, similar to the one used successfully by Florida. However, due to injuries in the line, he is hesitant to disturb the backfield and at the ends.

The Seminole coach listed one prospective combination as Harry Massey at quarterback, Buddy Reynolds and Billy Graham at the halves, and John Griner at full. The other combination will see Swantic at quarter, Billy Odom and Bill Weaver at the halves and Seminole King, fullback.

The knee injury to freshman halfback Graham Lee Corso starred the Louisville game, brought about a tentative altering combination at the ends as follows: Ronnie Schoenburger and Bud Leonard at left end, Jimmy Tvrdo and Tom Feamster at right end.

Center Bob Crenshaw and soph guard Al Pacifico were selected co-captains for the game. Due to injuries in the line man guards Leon Bryant and Leo Baggett, and a lack of tackle depth, both of these boys along with guard Jerry Jacobs will probably have to play most of tomorrow's game.



In Villanova, the Seminoles will be meeting a sophomore-studded squad which has had the going rough in their two opening contests, dropping 18-2 and 42-6 decisions to Syracuse and Mississippi respectively.

Coach Tom Nugent is quick to point out, however, that Mississippi did most of its ground gaining in the air against Villanova, and since the Seminoles passing attack has only been seen so this season, the FSU coach said that he rated the game "just about even."

Villanova, too has had injury troubles. The Wildcats will be without the services of sophomore quarterback Johnny Perzuolo, who suffered a shoulder separation in the Mississippi game. Perzuolo had been directing the Villanova attack for the most part this season.

Outstanding on the Wildcats' roster are ends Mike Matyek and Pete Cassidy and center Joe Viverito. Matyek, who is the team captain, has been on the receiving end of most of the Villanova pass connections this year. Injuries to tackle Joe Leichtweis, halfback Bill McGarry and end Don McComb will also trouble the Wildcats tomorrow night.

Last week's contest clearly indicated a strong scoring potential end depth in the FSU squad when seven different men, including all of the Seminole quarterbacks, scored touchdowns. This scoring potential should be put to a strong test tomorrow night against a Villanova team which seeks revenge for two early defeats.

SOPHOMORE GUARD Al Pacifico will co-captain the Seminoles tomorrow night at Campbell Stadium when they meet villanova.

AL MACKOWICKI, tackle, has the Florida State University Villanova fracas tomorrow night at Campbell Stadium.

Dunkel Favors Florida State; Top Grid Teams Meet This Weekend

By DICK DUNKEL

A couple of intersectional dream games are on next Saturday's college football schedule.

The nation's No. 1 team, according to the Power Index, meets No. 3 at the same time that No. 2 is tangling with No. 8. All four are undefeated, and results of these games could bear heavily on the eventual national championship.

Purdue, Power Index leader, with 115.7, will be at home in third-place Duke, whose 111.4 rating is about 4 points lower. This means that the Boilermakers have been about 4 points stronger, per game, against the same relative rating of opposition.

Following are other outstanding pairings of the coming week-end, with latest rating differences:

Friday night: Miami, Fla. 98 over Holy Cross; Southern California 3 over TCU.

Saturday—East: Army 19 over Dartmouth; Boston College 12 over VMI; Colgate 18 over Rutgers; Cornell 18 over Harvard; Notre Dame 29 over Pitt; Penn State 45 over Virginia; Princeton 18 over Penn and Yale 21 over Columbia.

Saturday—Midwest: Iowa 30 over Michigan; Mich. State 22 over Indiana; Minnesota 18 over Northwestern; Missouri and SMU, even; Ohio State 13 over Illinois; and Okla. A. & M. 8 over Wichita.

Saturday—South: Alabama 30 over Tulsa; Arkansas over Baylor, even; Auburn 6 over Kentucky; Florida 21 over Clemson; Georgia 3 over No. Carolina; Ga. Tech 11 over LSU; Maryland 22 over Wake Forest; Mississippi 18 over Vanderbilt. Miss. State 17 over Tulane; Oklahoma 10 over Texas; So. Carolina 25 over Furman; Tennessee 21 over Chattanooga; and West Virginia 42 over O. Washington.

Saturday—Far West: California 17 over Oregon; Navy 3 over Stanford; Colorado 5 over Arizona; and UCLA 27 over Washington.

Dick Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

The Home Team ratings are post performance averages. Example: Home team's rating is 10 points better than visiting team's rating if home team is 4 points better (points) than visiting team.

Games Of Week Ending October 10, 1954

AMONG TOP 150
Higher Rated	Power Rating	Lower Rated
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8
Boston U.	+20.1 vs. Fordham	77.4
Dayton	+8.1 vs. Marshall	87.3
C'ge State	+5.1 vs. Tenn. Tech	64.6
Miami, Fla.	+17.1 vs. Holy Cross	98.0
Memphis St.	+10.1 vs. Wichita	87.3
So. Calif.	+109.0 vs. T. C. U.	92.3
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9
Alabama	+20.2 vs. Tulsa	69.4
Arizona St.	+10.1 vs. Utah St.	68.3
Arkansas	+10.2 vs. Baylor	86.8
Auburn	+8.2 vs. Kentucky	100.3
Boston Col.	+12.1 vs. VMI	68.2
Brown	+9.1 vs. E. Illinois	58.5
Bucknell	+12.3 vs. Lehigh	87.0
California	+14.2 vs. Oregon	91.4
Cornell	+18.3 vs. Harvard	87.1
Dartmouth	+19.1 vs. Army	97.4
Duke	+29.3 vs. Rutgers	89.6
Colorado	+10.3 vs. Arizona	67.2
Florida	+21.2 vs. Clemson	89.4
Delaware	+10.1 vs. Temple	68.3
Fla. State	+20.1 vs. Villanova	89.7
Georgia	+3.2 vs. No. Carolina	91.3
Georgia Tech	+11.1 vs. LSU	89.2
Ga. Tech	+11.1 vs. L. S. U.	89.2
Harvard	+18.3 vs. Cornell	87.1
Illinois	+13.1 vs. Mich. St.	89.4
Kansas	+10.1 vs. Wash. Univ.	68.3
Kansas St.	+10.1 vs. Missouri	68.3
Kentucky	+8.2 vs. Auburn	100.3
Memphis St.	+10.1 vs. Dayton	87.3
Miami, O.	+8.0 vs. Xavier, O.	68.2
Michigan	+13.2 vs. Indiana	89.4
Michigan St.	+13.1 vs. Illinois	89.4
Mississippi	+18.3 vs. Vanderbilt	89.7
Missouri	+10.1 vs. Kansas St.	68.3
Navy	+20.1 vs. Stanford	89.7
Missouri	+10.1 vs. K. St. U.	68.3
Nebraska	+10.1 vs. Pittsburgh	68.3
N. Carolina	+3.2 vs. Georgia	91.3
N. Carolina St.	+10.1 vs. Kansas St.	68.3
Notre Dame	+29.1 vs. Pittsburgh	89.6
Ohio State	+13.1 vs. Illinois	89.4
Oklahoma	+10.3 vs. Texas	89.6
Okla. A&M	+10.3 vs. Wichita	87.3
Penn State	+21.3 vs. Virginia	89.6
Princeton	+13.3 vs. Penn	89.6
Purdue	+13.3 vs. Duke	111.4
Rice	+10.1 vs. Texas Tech	68.3
Rutgers	+29.3 vs. Georgia	91.3
Southern Cal.	+109.0 vs. T. C. U.	92.3
Stanford	+20.1 vs. Navy	89.7
Syracuse	+18.1 vs. Penn	89.6
Tennessee	+10.1 vs. Chattanooga	68.3
Texas A&M	+10.3 vs. Rice	89.6
Texas Tech	+10.1 vs. Rice	68.3
Tulane	+10.1 vs. Miss. St.	68.3
U.C.L.A.	+109.0 vs. Washington	92.3
Utah	+10.1 vs. Utah St.	68.3
Utah St.	+10.1 vs. Utah	68.3
W. Virginia	+10.1 vs. O. Wash. Univ.	68.3
Wash. St.	+10.1 vs. Idaho	68.3
Wash. Univ.	+10.1 vs. Kansas	68.3
Wyoming	+10.1 vs. Colo. A&M	68.3
Yale	+13.3 vs. Columbia	89.6

THE SOUTHERN
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8
Davidson	81.5 vs. Presbyterian
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9
Appalachian	81.5 vs. Len. Rhyne
Auburn	100.3 vs. Kentucky
Carolina	89.7 vs. Clemson
Carolina	89.6 vs. Georgia
Citadel	81.5 vs. Presbyterian
Clemson	89.7 vs. Carolina
E. Tenn. St.	81.5 vs. Lenoir Rhyne
Florida	89.4 vs. Florida
Florida St.	89.7 vs. Wake Forest
Furman	89.7 vs. Ark. State
Georgia	91.3 vs. Georgia
Georgia Tech	89.2 vs. L. S. U.
La. Tech	68.3 vs. Mercer
Maryland	89.7 vs. Wake Forest
Mid'Tenn. St.	68.3 vs. Middle Tenn.
Mississippi	89.7 vs. Vanderbilt
Miss. State	89.7 vs. Tulane
Morris	68.3 vs. Mercer
N. Carolina	91.3 vs. Georgia
N. C. St.	89.7 vs. Clemson
Rollins	68.3 vs. Mercer
Tennessee	89.7 vs. Chattanooga
Texas A&M	89.6 vs. Rice
Tulane	89.7 vs. Miss. State
Vanderbilt	89.7 vs. Mississippi
Virginia	89.6 vs. Penn State
Wake Forest	89.7 vs. Florida St.
Washington	89.7 vs. Maryland
Wash. & Lee	89.7 vs. Davidson
W. Va. Wesleyan	68.3 vs. Morehead St.
Wofford	89.7 vs. Furman
Westminster	89.7 vs. Bethany, W.
Wm. & Mary	89.7 vs. Richmond

Cutting classifications

Copyright 1954, by Dunkel Sports Research Services

NATIONAL LEADERS
Purdue	115.7	Tennessee 104.7
Princeton	113.3	Missouri 104.6
Duke	111.4	Colorado 103.8
U.C.L.A.	109.0	Oklahoma 103.6
Notre Dame	108.1	Navy 103.4
Southern Cal.	109.0	Ga. Tech 103.2
Maryland	107.9	Michigan 102.8
Wake Forest	107.9	Michigan St. 102.8
Mississippi	105.9	Vanderbilt 102.7
Oregon St.	105.8	Stanford 102.7
Cornell	105.7	Virginia 102.7

Baylor	89.6	Syracuse 89.7
Texas	89.6	Illinois 89.4
Ga. Tech	87.8	Miami, O. 89.4
Navy	87.8	Ohio State 89.4
Stanford	87.8	Indiana 89.4
T.C.U.	87.5	So. Carolina 89.4
Penn	87.5	Florida 89.4
Wisconsin	87.5	Wash. State 89.4
Minn. State	87.5	Wichita 87.3
Dayton	87.3	Memphis St. 87.3
Okla. A&M	87.3	Dartmouth 87.1
Harvard	87.1	Cornell 87.1

"Everything For the Student"
at
MALONE'S BOOK STORE
127 E. COPELAND
Stationery — Modern Library
Sundries — Geagula Series
Art Supplies — Felt Goods
Phone 3-1066

Student Insurance
• UP TO $1000.00 FOR ACCIDENTS
• COVERS 12 MONTHS, 24 HOURS PER DAY
• COVERS AT HOME— TRAVELING & VACATION
• $1000.00 ACCIDENTAL DEATH BENEFIT
• UP TO $1000.00 FOR LOSS OF ARM, EYES, LEGS, ETC.
• STUDENT RATE OF $8.90 FOR 18 MONTHS
CONTACT JACK HOUSER
Phone 2-2266 or Phone 3-0960

While Shopping
VISIT
AIR-CONDITIONED
BENNETT'S
Complete Soda and Luncheonette Department
SPECIAL—
DOROTHY GRAY CLEANSING CREAM
Regular $2.00 Size—NOW $1.00
Regular $3.50 Size—NOW $1.75
FOR FAST MOTORCYCLE DELIVERY
CALL 2-8980 OR 2-4430
Bennett's DRUG STORES, INC.

DON'T FORGET
the
10% Discount On Regular Dinners
For F.S.U. Students and Faculty
at the
SILVER SLIPPER
2000 So. Monroe
OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK 5 — 12 P. M.
"Enjoy the Finest in Food"
PHONE 2-4961 FOR RESERVATION

Cubbon Slates 'Family' Sector For H'Coming

Parents and students will be able to sit together at the Homecoming football game with Furman and at the Mississippi Southern football game Thanksgiving weekend, announced Athletic Business Manager Eddie Cubbon today.

The Student Section has been set aside for FSU students and one accompanying "date." At present the Student Section takes up half of Aisle 13, and all of Aisles 12, 11, 10, and 9. This section starts on the 45-yard line and runs through the 50 to the goal.

Due to the great demand by students for tickets outside the Student Section for parents and relatives, the other half of Aisle 13, and all of Aisle 14 will be designated as a Family Section where students may sit with their relatives, announced Cubbon.

Students may buy one ticket at half price and as many tickets as desired at full price for this family section, he explained. The Student Section is still set aside only for FSU students and one guest.

Family tickets will go on sale Tuesday, October 16, and run to 5:00 p.m. Friday, November 12, for the Furman game. Five o'clock Friday, November 26, will be the deadline for the Mississippi Southern game. This early coupon exchange is merely to accommodate those students wishing a group of seats with their family, according to the announcement.

Coupon exchange for tickets to the Student Section will begin at 1:00 p.m. on the Tuesday prior to each home game as usual.

AM LOOKING FOR two enterprising salesman who want to earn $12-$15 for every 80 investment. This item is just what your classmates want at a price they can't resist. For information send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to 408 Magnum, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Tarpon Announces Tryouts For Women Wishing Instruction

Annual tryouts of the Tarpon Club will be held the latter part of this month for girls interested in synchronized swimming.

Classes will be conducted by members of the club for the purpose of instructing interested prospects. Those interested should report to the swimming pool in the Women's gymnasium between the hours of 4:30 and 10:30 p.m. on October 12, 13, 14, 19, 20, 21.

According to Betty Ann Theobald, president of Tarpons, the tryouts are scheduled for 8:30 through 10:30 p.m. October 28 for those names beginning A through M; and N through Z on October 27. All finalists will compete on October 28.

DAY STUDENTS

Men and women Day Students who are using the lockers in the Longmire Basement Lounge are asked to identify themselves at once and number on the list posted on the bulletin board in Longmire.

MISS ADAMS,
Director, Longmire Building.

YOUR PORTRAIT IN OILS. A perfect Christmas gift for family and friends. Contact: Dorothy Dean Van Emeren, 675 West Jefferson.

TRAFFIC COURT NOTICE

Office hours, for any student who wishes to pay a traffic fine, will be Monday through Thursday, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Longmire.

Traffic Court will hold its sessions Tuesday evenings at 8 and any student not appearing for his violation must contact Chief Justice Jane Wardlaw or have his case desk with according to regulations.

LOST: A blue Schaeffer Lifetime Pen with the name Dottie Jackson engraved on the gold band. Please return to Longmire lost and found or call 3-265.

Genuine
PAPER-MATE PEN
Silvered-Tip
REFILLS
in Red • Green • Blue • Black
Only 49¢ each
Exclusive new Paper-Mate Silvered-Tip Refills means smoother, faster writing! Just 10 seconds to insert...never blots...dries instantly. Get Paper-Mate Refills wherever pens are sold.

Hey It's Cool
at the AMBER HOUSE
for
Food That's Fine
Broiled Fish — Roast Pork & Dressing
Liver & Onions
7 A. M. Till 11 P. M. Sun. - Thurs. 7—12 Fri. & Sat.
105 S. Copeland

L&M NOW KING SIZE
OR REGULAR!
Both Same Low Price!
EFFECTIVE FILTRATION
L&M FILTERS
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
KING SIZE
Much More Flavor Much Less Nicotine!
MIRACLE TIP
It's the FILTER that Counts and L&M has the Best!
L&Ms have already won the quickest, most enthusiastic nation-wide acceptance a cigarette ever had. Now, L&M comes to you in king-size, too... the same great cigarette — at the same low price as regular.
In either size — only L&M Filters give you real full-flavored smoking enjoyment-plus the Miracle Tip — the effective filtration you need. You get much more flavor — much less nicotine — a light and mild smoke. Remember, it's the filter that counts... and L&M has the best!
Buy L&Ms king-size or regular. JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED!
AMERICA'S HIGHEST QUALITY FILTER CIGARETTE

Theater Dance Group members, above, fashion modernistic poses as stage as part of last year's activities. Tryout sessions for the 1954-55 group were held earlier this week, and final tryout will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Dance Studio in the Women's Gym.

AIR CONDITIONED
STATE
FIRST RUN PICTURES
FLORIDA
TODAY & TOMORROW
"THE CAINE MUTINY"
Humphrey Bogart
Van Johnson
Fred MacMurray
"Johnny Guitar"
Joan Crawford
SUN. & MON.
"A Bullet Is Waiting"
Rory Calhoun
CAPITAL
AIR CONDITIONED
TODAY & TOMORROW
"Jubilee Trail"
Vera Ralston
plus
"Yukon Vengeance"
ALSO Marciano-Charles Fight Pictures
SUN. & MON.
"Paula"
with Loretta Young
AIR CONDITIONED
CLIMAX
TODAY & TOMORROW
"Fort Defiance"
Dane Clark
plus
"Hell's Half Acre"
Wendell Corey
SUN. & MON.
"Merry Widow"
with Lana Turner

M&N Cafe
Everyday Luncheon
SPECIALS
for 75c
SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN
CHOPPED STEAK
VEAL CUTLETS
All With Two Vegetables,
Salad, Drink, Dessert
FRIDAY–Seafood Plate $1.00
Chef's Salad – French Fries
SATURDAY–1½ Golden Brown Fried
Chicken
Regular 1.25, Now 95c for Students
MONDAY–Meatballs, Spaghetti and Casserole 65c
"BEST FOOD IN TOWN"
119 E. Jefferson St.

When you pause ... make it count ... have a Coke
DRINK Coca-Cola
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY Tallahassee Coca-Cola Bottling Company
"Coke" is a registered trade mark. © 1954, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Class Expects Big Turnout At First Picnic

Approximately 150 Florida State University Juniors are expected to attend the Junior Class Picnic today at the Reservation. Vice-President Rana Tevis said this week.

Busses will leave the Women's Gym for the picnic ground at 5:30 and 6 p.m., said Tevis. "The picnic itself will begin promptly at 6:30. Busses will return to the campus at 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, and whenever enough people want to leave."

Tevis urged Juniors to wear informal clothing, such as dungarees and slacks to the outing so that they might enjoy better the full slate of events.

Entertainment will include square dancing and social dancing, to alternate on the roof of the boat house at the Reservation, volleyball, pine-pong and shuffleboard. Entertainment has been arranged as a project by the social recreation class taught by Dr. Mary Kaie Miller, associate professor of physical education for women.

Free food will be provided at the picnic by the Junior Class, said Tevis. It will include hamburgs, cheese sandwiches, coleslaw, baked beans, sheet cake, ice cream and tea.

Pledges

(Continued From Page 1)

Laird Benedict Anderson, Mark Movold, Bruce Jacob, Joe Bagby, Billy Swigert, Dan Harris, Dick Walker, Carlos Watson, Sam Waldon, Jack Davis, Mel Fleischer and William Phillips.

SIGMA NU: Bill Benner, Charles Brown, Ken Cannon, Bob Wade Crews, Gordon Dixon, Bob Dunkel, Jerry Hamilton, Rocky Holland, Richard Houser, Leslie Jones, Fred Kenny, Carl Moie, Aubrey Odom, Roger Murrah, Dick Shevlin, Earl Strickland, Tommy Tompson, Jerry Tucker, Norris Wright, Jim Newton, John Callahan and Fred Frost.

PI KAPPA PHI: James Clark, Bruce Cole, David Cooper, Ernest A. Diaz, C. Joseph Emmons, Gilbert G. Fernandez, John Garrett, Neil Gray, Dick Hendry, Alfred Hoffiander, Val Hopkins, Tom Hoole, Bob Hutchins, Frank Kaner, Danny Mentzinis, James Nettles, Thomas Nobles, Paul Perry, Burnett Sidwell Jr., Leroy D. Scott and Danny Wells.

KAPPA ALPHA: Ken Abbott, Bob Blanton, L'unerson Branch, Fred Brinkoff, Bobby Butler, Earl Cain, J. P. Clark, Dix Darnell, George Day, Bill Dean, Ben Dudley, Bud Eubanks, Gene Edenfield, Bob Fountain, Bob Gregory, Harry Hair, Dick Hauff, Arbie Herring, Leon Howell, Clayton Jones, Buddy Jordan, Joe Mack Jordan, Jim Kearce, Bill Kirkland, Pierce Long, Frank Marshall, Jerry Merrill, Bob Miller, Palmer Munroe, Ed Odom, Doug Palmer, Billy Payne, Bill Proctor, Jerry Roberts, Dixon Robinson, Charlie Slater, Joe Smith, O. B. Smith, Bill Strickland, Harry Whitehurst.

PHI DELTA THETA: Ronald David Walden, Donald Noel, Daniel G. Butler, R. Gale Porter, Gary Bailey, David W. Marcell, Field Frierson, Earl Reid, Harry McCann, Dan Owens, Mike Conley, Chuck Burns, Williams DuBois, Ed McCall, Jimmy Webb, Pete Mitchell, Sonny Ciasca, John Bond, Benny Bindschadler, Jimmy George Peirsalis, Leo Martin Young, Bob Malloy, Paul Jones Jr., Eugene Estridge, Bob Mathews, Bill Swilley, Buddy Reynolds, Tommy Thompson, Bill Weaver and Willie Gardner.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON: Stuart Gould, Vic Prunty, Jerry Daniels, Jerry Henderson, Steve Dean, Carmen Bataglia, Bobby Dunn, Bobby Crawford, Bobby Blow, Ed Threadgill, Jack Pickett, John Lake Roberts, Don Morgan, Tommy Turpin, Dick Fletcher, Bill Haynes, James Browning, Bert Daly, Phillip Hunt, Jim Wade Lee Fulcraft, Bonner Blue, George Kyle, George Hill, Paul Morgan, Bob Richard, Ken Hearn and Don Preisner.

DELTA TAU DELTA: Bob Bumpass, Lloyd Carruth, Dick Posseni, Tom Prideon, Robert Newman, John Word, Don Van Nus, Harold Lambert, Grant Combest, Hank Taffe, Larry Meredith, Jim Fadison, Ted Wyley, Nelson Geiger, Sherwood Williams, Bill Harvey, Jerry Couch, Dean Platt, J. L. Powell, Don Cooper, Bob Jernigan, Art Good.

TAU EPSILON PHI: Harry Bernard, Don Schwartz, Don Thicher, John Perry, Murry Stoddart, Jerome Bernstein, Mort Lazner, Jack Schlosberg, and Mike Kinsbrunner.

The Dissenter

(Continued From Page 2)

time boys who have to base somebody to fulfill their sophomore years.

Rat Court seems, however, to be one of those moribund institutions which have no purpose but won't die out so long as nobody is harmed physically or emotionally. Rat Court is innocent enough.

But if Paul Ort and the members of Rat Court still think they're going to ask twentieth century Americans to pillory themselves in stocks (Salem and Providence, here we come!) and insult them as "poor sports" when they refuse, there is going to be a great big fight with Rat Court the loser.

Fall Styles Cropping Up On Florida State Campus

By JOYCE POTTER

The Tallahassee countryside is beginning to take on the fall look which means that FSU coeds will soon be taking their "cold weather outfits" out of the mothballs.

The bouffant summer styles with full skirts and dozens of petticoats will be replaced by the longer slimmer style of the winter skirts and suits.

Christian Dior Parisian designer, caused quite a sensation this summer when he came out with the slim, slim, dresses which de-stressed rather than stressed the feminine figure.

Regardless of the concensus of opinion especially the men who completely disagreed with Dior's, his styles are making headway in the winter fashions.

The boxer suit with no waist line is a big favorite. Flannels and tweeds are the most popular material for these bulky jackets and pencil slim skirts.

These suits would not be complete without blouses and sweaters and this winter the blouse note is all new. Wool jerseys will be the best compliment for suits

A new style blouse slated to make its debut this winter is the wind breaker which is worn over a skirt and tied at the waist by means of a drawstring.

The back is puffed where the front is flattened as if you were heading into a wind.

Another note in blouses is the ladies shirt fashioned after the men's dress shirt. The only difference in the shirts is that the masculine style buttons to the right while the feminine style buttons to the left.

These shirts will be made in a variety of materials from pastel colors to checked gingham, stripes and prints. Come spring, the sleeves can be shortened or completely removed for hot weather wear.

Tweeds and flannels will also be the most popular materials in skirts. The slim style will probably win out over the ever popular pleats. A favorite outfit will be the matched skirt and sweater.

White bucks march out front in the foot-wear parade for both male and female. Making a close second and third will be black and grey suede.

Black suede heels are the favorite Sunday and date time wear. Red, brown and black leather are also favorites.

A basic wool dress that can be dressed up or down for the occasion is an essential for every wardrobe. A light grey flannel is ever popular with red or black accessories.

Hats and gloves are important in every girl's wardrobe. This winter new shades of red, purple, green and brown take shape in velveta and felt. Cocky feathers find their resting place atop many hats. Companions to the hats will be gloves in all styles from the shorties to the long glove for dressy affairs. Tiny pearl appliques also dress up the gloves.

Belts, bracelets, and detachable collars will be a must to get through the winter season.

With homecoming in the not too distant future, thoughts turn to the clothes problem for the name, dance and Pow Wow. If the weather is like last year, perhaps a sun dress would be more appropriate than the usual hints weighty wool suit.

But regardless of the temperature, wool suits will be the most popular apparel for the game with heels and an occasional hat making its appearance.

For the dance filmly formats of taffeta and nes will take the spot light. The bigger the skirt the more popular the dress. Skirts and sweaters will be appropriate for the pep rallv.

The major problem at the present is what to wear to football games. Last week an occasional wool jersy blouse was spoted, but the reigning favorite was tailored dresses and skirts and blouses.

Richt now, winter seems like a remote possibility, but ane of these days "it's gonna turn cold."

IT'S FOOTBALL TIME AGAIN and Joy Simmons, FSU Sophomore, is all set for the big game in her black plaid linen jumper with detachable dickey and velvet bow. A black clutch bag and sunds basis make the outfit complete.

Rat Court

(Continued From Page 1)

of time. Ort was the prosecutor for the latter case. He said that when he asked the Freshman to recite the Honor Pledge, "He had the audacity to read it off a sign on the wall." This case was met by shouts of "Not guilty" from onlookers.

The session was presided over by Judge Dusty Rhodes, who, clad in a long black robe, seemed to maintain a dignified air throughout the trials.

Several students cornered beforehand to act as "counsels for the defense" for the accused Freshmen in an attept to make the Rat Court admit it has no authority, but Court Judge Rhodes did not consider defense attorneys necessary. It was also reported that an ambitious Sophomore had completed a list of 59 names for admission to the Rat Court, but that he was persuaded beforehand not to do it, by other Freshmen.

Many of the penalties had to do with bringing certain subjects to the Rat Court trial next Tuesday. These included the signatures of all the Rat Court members; two bags of human hair; four-leaf clovers, and the signatures of five football players, written on an egg.

As part of Rat Court procedure, each accused Freshman was required to place his right hand on the Pow Wow, raise his left hand and repeat the definition of a Freshman. Several were asked to give the definition of an upperclassman and a recitation of the Honor Pledge. In one instance, two women failed to repeat the Honor Pledge, the definition of an upperclassman, or the Alma Mater.

The Rat Court was composed of Shirley Morgan, Danny Rodriguez, Barbara Hughes, Rhodes Chief Justice; Martha Sue Mizell, Roger Beel, Barry Fay Moses, and Frankie Shinbura.

Enjoy the Wonderful Food in Cool, Restful Surroundings
at
The Seahorse
Tallahassee's Only Cafeteria
"It's the Economical Place to Go"
Pensacola at Adams Street
Near the Capital

We Want
ONLY TWO LIVE WIRES
(Male or Female)
Who Would Like the OPPORTUNITY to establish themselves in lucrative campus business. Our nationally advertised product is a novelty which is catching on like wild-fire throughout the country. Here is PROFIT with no sales resistance!!!
For More Information Write
MOKEY-POKEY, INC.
5 West 19th St.
New York 11, N. Y.

Keepsake Diamond Rings
Bulova & Elgin Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1441

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY!
THIS COUPON
GOOD FOR... $1.00
On the Purchase of Any
• SKIRT • SWEATER
• BLOUSE • SPORTSWEAR
Selling for $5.00 or More
Linden's
"TALLAHASSEE'S LEADING APPAREL SHOP"

ADULTS 'TIL 2 P.M.—50c AFTER 3 P.M.—73c ALL CHILDREN ALL TIMES 14c
STATE
NOW SHOWING THRU TUESDAY
At last on the screen!
HUMPHREY BOGART as QUEEG
JOSE FERRER as GREENWALD
THE CAINE MUTINY
and introducing
ROBERT FRANCIS MAY WYNN
VAN JOHNSON as MARYK
FRED MacMURRAY as KEEFER
Color by Technicolor
Screen Play by STANLEY ROBERTS • Based upon the Pulitzer prize winning novel by HERMAN WOUK • Directed by EDWARD DMYTRYK
A COLUMBIA PICTURE • A STANLEY KRAMER PROD
BOX OFFICE OPEN DAILY—12 NOON—OPEN SUNDAY ONLY AT 2 P. M.
FEATURES AT: 12:25 — 2:40 — 4:55 — 7:10 — 9:25 P. M.

"I STARTED SMOKING CAMELS 24 YEARS AGO. YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM FOR FLAVOR —AND BELIEVE ME, CAMELS ARE REALLY MILD!"
Wm. H. Brecknan
REAR ADMIRAL, U. S. N. (Ret.)
Commander of the first Nautilus, submarine which sank Japanese carrier at Battle of Midway; awarded three Navy Crosses, today, a Baltimore chemical company executive.
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

SUCCESS STORY...
AND HOW IT STARTED...
ADMIRAL BRECKMAN says: "I popped at Baltimore Polytech, found I liked math and electrical engineering — required subjects for a Navy career. But it was getting licked in lacrosse by the Navy plebes that got me interested in Annapolis. My best one appointment came when two ahead of me failed an exam and I worked hard to graduate, got into sub chaser, did some teaching, eventually earned my own sub command."
SUCCESS STORY
Camels — America's most popular cigarette . . . by far!
Start smoking Camels yourself. Make the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days — see for yourself why Camels' cool mildness and rich flavor agree with more people than any other cigarette!
For Mildness for Flavor
CAMELS
AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

Edith Taylor Pope Is Coffee Hour Guest (Sex Story)

The Florida Flambeau

Oppenheimer Case Is Reviewed (See Editorial Page)

VOL. XI, No. 6 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1956

Senate Votes To Back Plan For Auburn Game Trip

Nomination Is Re-Submitted To Legislators

Group Will Act On Nimkoff Choice For 'Attorney General'

The appointment of Dave Nimkoff as attorney general was re-submitted to the Student Senate Wednesday afternoon by Student Body President Pete Nimkoff, and referred to the permanent Elections and Appointments Committee for further study.

Last week a Senate quorum failed to return the appointment back to Nimkoff after no recommendation, based on constitutional protest raised by Senate vice president Gordon Rogers.

Rogers's appointment will come up for confirmation next week as will the following appointments: Betty Willmon as Senate secretary of elections, Jay Neal as Senate Parliamentarian, Jack Pickett, Senate Wirt sillaugh, Lucius Mercer, and Pete Wimberly, elections committee, and Fred "Pat" Patterson secretary of organizations.

Senator Jim Moore, chairman of the Elections and Appointments Committee, told the Senate he was not to report on appointments pending confirmation by Vice-President Coates' asked the presidential appointments be sent out of the committee for consideration at that time. Nimkoff's appointment of Dave Murray to the Junior Women Senate seat vacated by Louise Dee. Miss Dee, who has left Miss Murray in the Senate this last year, did not return to school.

At present there are only five Senate seats out of the maximum quota of six.

Senator Moore is to bring the appointment out of committee confirmation failed for lack of a three-fourths vote.

Senate passed a bill changing the last day for Senate budget expense estimates to the day, instead of the Saturday before primary day. All primaries are held on Tuesdays.

Senator Jim Jonnes, who introduced the bill, told the Senate the extra week would aid the elections committee in making up their budget. According to the Senator, the extra week would be required for the expense estimates must to be later than noon of the Friday and the special election required by 7 p. m. that evening.

The bill was passed on its first reading by a two-thirds vote with the Senate rules of procedure.

Senate passed a bill allocating $50 to the Student Association of campus chest drive, as well as to allows World University Service, March of Dimes, Red Cross, 10%; Tuberculosis Foundation, 10%; Cancer Society, 5%; Crippled Children Foundations, 5%; and the American Association for Mental Health, 5%.

State pays most of the service for fraternity plans for Homecome mum jaunt to Auburn Alabama for the football game next Saturday.

Vice president of Legislative Affairs Carole Moore, presiding officer at the Senate, told the Flambeau that Senators Jim Jones, Nancy Vaughn, Ken Moore and Jimmy Jones would have been appointed the special committee to study student government.

The committee was established Monday recently. Its job will be to study student government and set other schools with similar boards among student organizations and increasing efficiency of student government.

FSU Twirling Club Offers Instructions Saturday Mornings

The Seminole Twirling Club will give free instruction in the fundamentals of baton marching and strutting Saturday.

Registration for the class will be held in the Tropical Room of the Student Center from 8 to 9 a.m. Instructors will be Jeff Franklin and Dick Puckett. Both, known as the Flying Floridians in the FSU's Marching Chief's Band, will instruct the classes.

The twirling club will meet today and each following Saturday morning on the band practice field across the street from the Student Center.

Franklin and Puckett, sophomore pre-law, have won State and the Junior National in Chicago in 1951.

Museum Plans Five Exhibits, All Varied, For 1954 'Session'

'Dawnbeat' Is Latest Feature On Display; Gundrum Collection To Be Viewed Soon

By WILLIAM R. BROWN

The Florida State Museum is going into its fourth year now and plans five exhibits this year.

Curator Russell West revealed today that the current exhibit entitled "Dawnbeat" will be open until the 30th of this month. With the removal of this present exhibit he stated that the Gundrum collection will be put on display beginning November 8.

This exhibit will include authentic reproductions of stone cellars, statues, and the sacred stones, or "zemis." Also Cuti cutting stones will be shown along with the small stone seats of this collection. According to West, Gundrum is known to have made some reproductions so realistic that they have even fooled the authorities.

At the present time, besides the "Dawnbeat" exhibit two additional exhibits have been set up. The first is a chart showing the Evolution of Culture. It starts in its contemporary way the evolution of energy from the human body, to energy via airplant, then energy from fuel and the atomic energy.

The second exhibit, recently set up, is one with material accounts and examples of primitive art from the Apalachee Indians and the Spaniards who came over at that period in history. Since these Indians occupied an area near Tallahassee it should be of interest to all of the students here, explained West. The Indian's primitive blazes and hammerheads are shown along with dishes used by the Spaniards who occupied this region at that time.

A vivid cross-section of civilization is exhibited and some of the articles on display are borrowed from the Museum of Natural History in New York.

The Florida State Museum uses a lot of material from other museums, giving the best of interpretive displays from other cultures and civilizations, according to the curator. They have, in the past, borrowed materials from New Mexico and Illinois in the way the museum covers a well-balanced cross-section of each subject on display.

At the conclusion of try outs last week, Coach Jack Haskin had logged numerous "promising recruits," and will send the best part of the show. Those shown are as follow: Ends, Jimmy Allen Adolf, Charlotte Alcaro, Jerry Barber, Mary Berkins, Bob Blanton, Roy Beaity, Patsy Boulware, Elaine Brewton, Powell Brewton, Mitch Carey, Larry.

Mary Cawthon, Barbara Chaffin, Charlotte Chandler, Jean Cheek, Mary Joe Crum, Pat Dewberry, Betty Doerrell, Sandy Sheriff, Nancy Ford, Ann Farquharson, Jackie Gemilio, Chris Gilchrist.

Becky Glass, Martha Grimard, Howard Hardway, Joan Hardway, Pat Harris, William Harris, Ruth Harvard, Jean Hayden, Sharon Hayes, Charles Hendrix, Jane Hicks, Majel Pinson.

Jim Hall, Dottie Hopgood, Jerry Iverson, Lynwood James, Janet Johnson, William Jones, Beryl Jones, Jerry Kelly, Sandy Lee, Wilbur Kirkland, Elaine Kolasky, Beverly Lee, Jeanne Long.

Dave Marcell, James McDaniels, R. A. McPee, Marilyn Miller, Tom Mitchell, Marlene Morris, Jerry Mullenax, Sherrill, Sue Sloan, Frank Smith, Gary Smith, Nancy Stech.

Hilda Stevens, Joe Tarbuck, Bonnie Troyer, Susie Tyler, Nancy Via Clere, Jerry Wade, Wilma Mary Walker, Vicky Walters, Dorothy Washington, Carol Ann Weaver.

Mary Ann Whittle, John Winningham, Jan Williams, Jean Williams, Barbara Wyatt, Patsy Sech, and Betty Rodges.

Dreis Named To Help Book Dance Bands

David Dreis, FSU senior, has been appointed as a one-man executive committee on dance bands for student organizations, President Pete Nimkoff announced. The Florida Flambeau yesterday.

According to Nimkoff, Dreis was appointed to handle all arrangements dealing with booking agencies and to assist those organizations in selecting bands and booking them for occasions here.

Nimkoff said that official approval of Mr. Fred J. Vogel, president of the Florida Union, will still be required to contracts with dance bands. He stated that Mr. Dreis will serve a go-ahead on this one-man committee.

Nimkoff said that as Student Body President he has received many complaints about the bands and booking agencies, which he is turning over to Dreis.

"Dreis is there to help," commented Nimkoff. "In the past we have received complaints about the calibre of our dance bands," the chief executive said.

Dreis, who is amusement editor of the Flambeau, already has had wide experience with FSU Bandstage productions and has been a professional entertainer.

(Continued on Page 7)

Soviets Differ In More Than Just Language, States Scott

The Soviet people are not just people from some other nation who happen to speak Russian, according to John Scott, TIME-LIFE newsman, who addressed journalism classes on the Florida State University Campus this week.

Scott, who spent a number of years in Russia in a Siberian construction plant as a welder before the second world war, has just returned from a tour of the Middle East.

Since the days of Tamerrelein, people have been picked out from the common millions in Russia and planked into the museum cities, some of which survive the abrupt change, and some of whom do not survive the overthrow of the Czar and the establishment of the Soviet Union today, said Scott.

Scott compared the Soviet and Russian man named Shalnaut, whom he met while working in Magnitogorsk, USSR, from 1932 to 1937. According to Scott, Shalnaut was the best worker in the factory from a small Tartar village.

The Russian villager had never seen an electric light, a train, or a car. He learned to read and seen a hammer but never used one.

He washed once a year, holding the belief that parasites denoted personality.

Scott said that Shalnaut's only interest in his job was the larger bread ration coupon he received. Unable to speak or read Russian, Shalnaut attended courses in the evenings and learned to read, broadening his intellectual horizons rapidly according to Scott.

Scott told the class that after five years in the city, Shalnaut washed regularly, dressed better, and was a fairly competent technician, although he had little perspective on the truth about the world outside Russia.

In spite of the backwardness of the majority of the Soviet people, Scott said that economically, Russia has been able to bridge the gap in their production of heavy production and manufacture of the tools of war and peace through various means. He cited the plan stolen from the U. S. and England by espionage, and their use of brains imported from Germany.

Scott concluded that within a decade or two, the Russian manufacture of items now common to the American home, such as TV and washing machines, will be in the hands of millions with our economy.

Aside from anthropological differences, Scott pointed out that the Russians have a very different concept of words and agreements. Scott cited as instances the words the U. S. and Russia differed on the meaning of "compromise." At the Potsdam conference, according to the TIME-LIFE newsman Russia asserted that there were three railroads in Trieste. The U. S., knowing there was only one, took time to prove the fact to the Russian delegation.

Scott said the Russians then offered to "compromise" and said there were two.

The basic psychology of the U. S. and Russia differed, Scott said.

(Continued on Page 7)

'Circus' Makes Halftime Debut At N.C. Game

Haskin Announces List of 'Performers' Chosen Last Week

"Flying High", Florida State University's student circus is rapidly completing preparations for its 1954 production, according to Coach Jack Haskin.

One of the first shows of the season will be a performance during the half-time at the North Carolina State-FSU football game, which will be played away this weekend.

Haskin said that the North Carolina State Band will throw three runs in the center of the field during halftime and "Flying High" will give seven acts while the band provides music. Featured will be the Quartette Adagio, The Cloud Swing Pair, Double Trapeze, The Web, The Clown-Magician, The Comedy Bull Act and the Cover Fold.

The circus is undergoing practice and preparation for this year's successful season, said Haskin.

At the conclusion of try outs last week, Coach Jack Haskin had logged numerous "promising recruits," and will send the best part of the show. Those shown are as follow: Ends, Jimmy Allen Adolf, Charlotte Alcaro, Jerry Barber, Mary Berkins, Bob Blanton, Roy Beaity, Patsy Boulware, Elaine Brewton, Powell Brewton, Mitch Carey, Larry.

Mary Cawthon, Barbara Chaffin, Charlotte Chandler, Jean Cheek, Mary Joe Crum, Pat Dewberry, Betty Doerrell, Sandy Sheriff, Nancy Ford, Ann Farquharson, Jackie Gemilio, Chris Gilchrist.

Becky Glass, Martha Grimard, Howard Hardway, Joan Hardway, Pat Harris, William Harris, Ruth Harvard, Jean Hayden, Sharon Hayes, Charles Hendrix, Jane Hicks, Majel Pinson.

Jim Hall, Dottie Hopgood, Jerry Iverson, Lynwood James, Janet Johnson, William Jones, Beryl Jones, Jerry Kelly, Sandy Lee, Wilbur Kirkland, Elaine Kolasky, Beverly Lee, Jeanne Long.

Dave Marcell, James McDaniels, R. A. McPee, Marilyn Miller, Tom Mitchell, Marlene Morris, Jerry Mullenax, Sherrill, Sue Sloan, Frank Smith, Gary Smith, Nancy Stech.

Hilda Stevens, Joe Tarbuck, Bonnie Troyer, Susie Tyler, Nancy Via Clere, Jerry Wade, Wilma Mary Walker, Vicky Walters, Dorothy Washington, Carol Ann Weaver.

Mary Ann Whittle, John Winningham, Jan Williams, Jean Williams, Barbara Wyatt, Patsy Sech, and Betty Rodges.

Honorable Mention Award Given Hurst For Marble Bust

Ralph Hurst, instructor in the Florida State University arts education department, has received honorable mention in the New Orleans - Southern State Arts Exhibition at the Isaac Delgado Museum in New Orleans October 7.

The award was given for a sculptured marble head entitled "Prophet," announced officials.

Hurst, along with Harold Stutton and William Watson of the FSU department, had had his ceramic work selected for inclusion in the 1954 National ceramic collection to be sent to Syracuse, N. Y.

The graduate graduate student in arts education at FSU, received the award for his painting, awarded at the Southeastern Exhibition at the Atlanta Art Center in the Ruth Munson of Art, September 30.

Hurst, who is in his first graduate students at FSU, will have an exhibition of his ceramic and washing machines, will be on the campus with our economy.

Aside from anthropological differences, Scott pointed out that the Russians have a very different concept of words and agreements. Scott cited as instances the words the U. S. and Russia differed on the meaning of "compromise." At the Potsdam conference, according to the TIME-LIFE newsman Russia asserted that there were three railroads in Trieste. The U. S., knowing there was only one, took time to prove the fact to the Russian delegation.

Scott said the Russians then offered to "compromise" and said there were two.

The basic psychology of the U. S. and Russia differed, Scott said.

(Continued on Page 7)

WHAT THE HECK IS A MAMBO?—Members of Cavalier and Cotillion, FSU men's and women's dancing honoraries, are shown above attending instructions in the art of dance given in Student Center Ballroom. No fatalities were reported. The group will hold dance lessons only on Tuesdays and not on Thursdays as printed erroneously in THIS WEEK.

Director Cites Large Increase In Attendance

A 300 percent increase in university and college students in Florida was predicted by Dr. A. J. Brumbaugh, Director of the Council for the Study of Higher Education of Florida, in an address to the American Association of University Professors this week.

Dr. Brumbaugh, appointed by the State Board of Control to study higher education, expects the present thirty thousand to increase, and number from ninety to one hundred and five thousand by 1970. To cope with the problem, Dr. Brumbaugh recommended a number of large schools in the beautiful unpopulated areas as well as several private schools throughout the state.

Three types of educational programs were proposed: a two-year terminal program, a general course similar to junior colleges and a four-year university course emphasizing the sciences and scholarship.

Dr. Brumbaugh's study included economic growth and population trends for the purpose of determining how much money will be available for the educational program.

"Every student who wants higher education deserves it and should get as much as his needs and abilities require," said Dr. Brumbaugh.

At this first meeting of the AAUP, the new president, Maurice M. Vance, of the History Department, explained the purpose of the organization. Its basic functions are to promote sociability and contact between the professors of various departments and provide a channel of information and discussion on educational matters among the professors.

Program chairman, David E. Christiansen, announced that future programs would consist of discussions concerning faculty-Tallahassee relations, membership, and salary questions, will highlight monthly meetings.

Edith Taylor Pope To Appear As Coffee Hour Guest Today

Mrs. Edith Taylor Pope of St. Augustine, author of six novels and a alumna of Florida State University will be guest speaker at the English Coffee Hour today at 4:00 p. m. in the Westminster House, according to Mrs. Olive Cross of the club's program committee.

Mrs. Pope will be received at the Coffee Hour by Mrs. Doak S. Campbell, Dr. Hudson Rogers, head of the English Department, Dr. Russell Kerns, and Mrs. Olive Cross.

Dr. William G. Dodd, now Dean Emeritus of the College of Arts and Sciences, once Mrs. Pope's English professor at Florida State, will interview the author. Mrs. Pope spent many an hour career as a writer to Dr. Dodd. It was while she was a student of Dr. Dodds that she began to write her first published novel, Ned Magnolia, with its Tallahassee college campus and Goodwood plantation setting.

Now the wife of State Senator, Verle Pope, this will be Mrs. Pope's first official appearance on campus since she graduated in 1922.

This morning she is being entertained by Mrs. Thomas M. Stoel, at the Goodwood mansion.

Also honoring her during this visit to Tallahassee are Mrs. LeRoy Collins, wife of the Governor-nominee, and Mrs. Ralph Cawthon.

Mrs. Pope's most ambitious work is the historical novel, River In the Wind, a long story of the Civil Reconstruction in the 1870's. Important Florida pioneers appear in the plot including Ancestors of Mrs. LeRoy Collins and Mrs. J. Velma Keen, both Tallahassee women.

ALL STUDENTS INVITED TO LISTENING PARTY

Dr. Day students are invited to a listening party in the Florida Hall reverention room at 8 p.m. next week, the State-North Carolina State football game.

Refreshments will be sold with all proceeds going to the Campus Chest.

Dave Kennedy New President Of 'Young Democrats' Activity

Dave Kennedy was elected president of the "Young Democrats" at the first reorganizational meeting of that group Tuesday evening in Longmire building. The Florida Flambeau learned today.

Other chosen to head the club are Ken Gaskin, Vice president in charge of Activities; Phil Springer, Vice President in charge of Membership; Jack Norton, Vice President in charge of Publicity; Dorothy Watkins, Secretary; Vernon Williams, Treasurer; and Russell Alderman, Sergeant at Arms.

Dr. Hilton Roady of the department of political science was named faculty advisor by the group.

According to Kennedy, Victor Cawthon, Chairman of the Leon County Democratic Committee and Charles L. Pierce, also a member of the County Democratic Committee, will attend the next meeting of the group and discuss organizational problems.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, October 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the Longmire building.

Phil Springer, Vice President in charge of Speakers, announced. "This year we hope to have speakers before our meetings of outstanding public officials from the three branches of government. We shall attempt to get Chief Justice B. K. Roberts of the Florida Supreme Court, former Senator Claude Pepper, former Governor Millard Caldwell, and Governor-nominee LeRoy Collins."

WEST HALL MEN ADVISED ON RUSH

Senator John Bickford announced last night in answer to numerous complaints, that there is "definitely a bus service direct from West Hall to the campus in time for 8 o'clock classes."

A bus, she said after a conference with assistant business manager, Don Farquharson, leaves West Hall at the quarter past 7:40 each morning.

Annual Senior Investiture Set For Oct. 20

Dr. Venita Shores, senior class sponsor, explained at the first junior meeting Wednesday night that the traditional investiture ceremony is the official recognition of the students as seniors.

Investiture will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 20 in the Auditorium at 8 p.m. followed by a reception. Seniors were requested to choose a Sophomore brother or sister to cap them at the ceremony. The Seniors will wear their robes with the informal collar and the Sophomores will wear white at Investiture.

The Sophomore - Senior breakfast has been postponed until further notice.

Dr. Shores outlined the immediate past history of academic regalia and showed the group the three different outfits for the holders of Bachelors, Masters and Doctors degrees.

The Senior class executive council composed of the representative from each dorm, sorority and fraternity was introduced to the meeting. The council will help plan the formal class activities for the year and aid in publicizing Senior class activities.

Dodie Phail outlined the social activities for the year and urged officers of the UOA were introduced. A social hour closed the meeting giving the seniors an opportunity to become better acquainted with one another, according to reports.

The Nortar Board said Senior Block Books at the meeting to seniors who failed to get them in registration. The Nortar Board includes all senior activities for the year, class officers and the super dean for all occasions.

'Nominal' Rate Announced for Bus, Roundtrip

Students Slated To Arrive In Auburn At Noon; Leave 8 p.m.

The Florida State University Student Senate passed a unanimous resolution Wednesday to get plans in motion for a mass movement of students to the FSU-Auburn football game Oct. 23.

Publicity chairman Don Walls said that buses will leave FSU at 7 a.m. on the day of the game and depart from Auburn in the return trip at 8 p.m. live same day.

The cost of the trip will be $5.50 for round trip, $3.00 for a ticket to the game, plus the cost of meals. Miss Walls said that students making the trip could plan to eat one lunch along and that dinner will be eaten in Auburn.

She said that plans called for the buses to arrive in the Alabama town at about 12 noon. The game, Auburn's Homecoming will end at 2 p.m. After the game students will have time to tour the Auburn campus, eat dinner and board the buses (8 p.m.).

The FSU students will sit together at the game. The tickets for the trip will be marked with a number to help maintain order and will be distributed by Student Senate Center, Amber House and Westcott Building Monday, according to Walls and Mansfield, in charge of tickets.

Women will have late permission to 2 a.m. Chaperones for women will include signing out the night before, making arrangements to leave the dorm early and return through the dorm after 2 a.m. Dean Dorothy Tower, in charge of the Registrar's office Monday, will send a full list of regulations will be prepared soon and sent out.

Last week the project to send upwards of 3,000 students to Auburn was given full support by FSU Cheer Leaders. H. G. Matthews. He said that he can "see nothing but complete splendor now in Tallahassee should interfere with university activities—"rips or anything else".

It was announced by the Senate that the Marching Chief Band will be in charge of halftime activities at the Auburn game with the FSU circus, "Flying High." Those in the Senate Chief Band's performances at the half, it was added.

Miss Walls said that the Greyhound buses chartered for the trip will stop at two miles outside of Auburn, where a caravan will be formed to escort the rest of the way to the campus.

Arrangements for the trip are being handled by the Student Social and Recreation Committee headed by Jimmy Chance. Other committees working on the project and chairmen are Publicity, Walls and Tava; Marsgaret Ann Ballinger, Arrangements, and Fred Mansfield, Tickets.

The project has received the support of the administration, Dr. Ralph R. Oglesby, Dean of Students; Dr. Louis D. Corsa, Dean of Men; Katherine L. Warren, Dean of Women; Dr. A. B. Martin, FSU Vice President, and Fred Cone, Counselor for Student Organizations.

Faculty, Staff 'Top' Red Feather Drive; First To Go Over!

The Florida State University Division of the Tallahassee Red Feather Campaign has gone over its goals in the solicitation of funds, Coleman Wood, Community Chaplain, said this week.

"We had a goal of $8,000," he added, "and now we have had turned in $7,361, and all indications are that the total will be nearly $9,000."

Members of the staff contacted said that the Campbell, honorary chairman; Dean Thomas Rowsell, Mr. Red Rose, Mrs. Robert Vernon, Mrs. George Parkin and Dr. Sam Noel.

Dr. Noel said that contributions came from the faculty and administration. "We are expecting the students to do as well in their Campus Chest drive Nov. 1 and 2, and we are confident all in theirs," he concluded.

Last-Ditch Efforts Are Attempted To Influence November Election

Within the past week some major events have occured on our national scene which deal directly with and or have definite bearing on the November elections. They are: the postponement of scheduled hearings on the Dixon-Yates private power contract, and the announcement that 6,926 federal employes have been fired or resigned under the new security program.

Each of these events happened with one eye cast on the polls. But each have turned out slightly cross-eyed. They were calculated by the Republicans to hoodwink the American public. We would like to deal at some length at these happenings.

The Dixon-Yates Contract

The timorous congressional leaders, already afraid to face a showdown on Joe McCarthy before the November elections, postponed the Senate-House Atomie Energy Committee hearings on the Dixon-Yates contract. Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa and Representative Cole of New York attempted to give it the brush-off by stating that an overwhelming number of committee members found it impossible to participate in the hearings because of campaign responsibilities.

By this postponement action, it would seem the Republicans have removed the last obstacle that might hurt their prestige and power at the polls. It should also be obvious, however, that the Dixon-Yates contract has aroused tremendous public controversy, and the equalizer would be simply to stand up and answer the questions. This hasn't been done; the hearings have been an on again, off again affair since September.

In approving the postponement, the Democrats put themselves in the same boat.

The surfaced facts alone, arising from the contract, do not appear appetizing. The American Public Power Association and Tennessee Valley Authority have voiced disapproval of the contract; they have attempted repeatedly to obtain a copy of the contract, to no avail, even though it will have a direct bearing on their member organizations. A majority of the Atomic Energy Commission voted against the contract. And moreover, it was let without hardly a trace of competitive bidding.

In the last days of the 83rd Congress an attempt to ram through the bill eontaining the contract was made. Fortunately, the filibuster stopped that. But the story concerning this giveaway of public power hasn't been fully heard yet. It can be, if the administration will face up to its own deals.

Firing of Federal Employes

With the announcement that 6,926 employes have been fired, the administration is now playing a king-size "numbers game." And the Civil Service Commission in making the announcement has become a second voice, or more appropriate, a tool for the Republieans.

These figures were released to substantiate Vice-President Nixon's eontinuing statement that communists, fellow-travelers and security risks have been ousted from our government "by the thousands." It does not do that. The report said 618 cases of sex perversion, 2272 employes indicating convictions for felonies or misdemeanors, and 1743 employes indicating "in varying degrees activities, subversive associations, or membership in subversive organizations," were fired. All these people are grouped under the classification of "security risk." Which means that anybody who resigns or is fired from the government can be termed under the generalization of "security risk."

Where are the communists? The list did not reveal a single communist, or spy. If some of these "security risks" were Communists or spies, they should be tried under the existing laws.

In their last-ditch and purely political efforts to influence the voter, tha administration has tried to dupe the public into thinking our government is still crammed full of spies and subversives, which it is not. In addition to causing this fear, inducing lack of confidence in governmental organizations, it has succeeded also in whittling away at our basic rights.

Campus Chest Drive Opens

Sunday marked the opening day for Florida State University's own version of the Community Chest drive. The Campus Chest The drive, pegged All Hands Help, is slated to run for two weeks.

Each year, students and faculty members are encouraged to give to this drive, which is the sole campaign for charitahle purposes operating on campus. The funds gathered will be allocated proportionately to The World University Service (helping less fortunate students to achieve an education), The March of Dimes, Red Cross, Tuberculosis, Cancer, National Association for Mental Health, and the Local Service Fund.

Part of the process of developing into a mature citizen includes gaining an appreciation of the privilege of making contributions to a worthy cause. Campus Chest seeks to encourage students to develop such an attitude towards giving. The goal this year has been set for one dollar per student, a very small sum, considering the help and encouragement it lends. It's doubtful a better way to foster good will and lasting friendship among the needy, both here and abroad, can be found.

One of the most heartening features of Campus Chest is the tremendous cooperation being given by the various campus organizations. Each fraternity, sorority, and residence hall as well as several of the individual organizatinns, are striving to do their part by offering activities in which each and every student can participate. Truly an example of all hands helping.

We commend the student leaders of this drive for their fine efforts and we hope the student body will respond generously to the plea of All Hands Help.

A Campus Traffic Hazard

There is a bad situation existing at the junction of West Call Street and Jacksonville Boulevard (the street that runs from the Library past the three Frosh women's dorms, Longmire Building and the old Demonstration School). It has existed in a mild form for a long time, but since this campus has recently become saturated with cars, it has become serious.

The East approach to this junction is over the crest of a hill and makes it impossible to tell until the last few seconds for the drivers coming out of Jacksonville Boulevard if there are any cars coming even though they obey the stop sign.

Last year an accident occurred there causing serious damage to two cars; the drivers were unhurt. But an accident could occur injuring the driver, and or occupants. University busses have to make this trip on hourly runs. Hundreds of cars traverse the same route every day. It is not hard to imagine a driver, perhaps not familiar with the streets of Tallahassee, speeding over the hill just as a bus or car labors slowly around the turn.

We don't think we are overemphasizing the potential danger of this spot. We ask that drivers be especially careful at this junction. Also, we believe that a Slow sign, placed on the hill in a position so as to warn drivers traveling East on Call Street, will go a long way towards alleviating this traffic hazard.

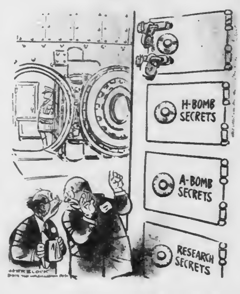
Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Notice the shapes on a beach?
Some short, some tall, but most out of reach.
—Don Rapp

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor — Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Featura Editor — Joyca Potter
Campus Editors — Martin Dyckman, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors — Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff — Bob Gutting
Photographer — Laird Anderson
Copy Editors — Sylvia Parrish, Willie Smith
Amusement Editor — David Dreis
Art Consultant — Franklin Adams
Cartoonist — Con Horn
Junior Staff — George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein



JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.
Mary Liz King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff — Virginia Vaughn, Pat Robson, Mary Wogan
Distribution — Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity
Nationally Representad by National Advertising Service 420 Madison Ave. New York 17.
Exchange Editor — Irma Cox

Telephone 2 8000 extension 6821
211, 213 Longmira Building
Mamber Associated Collegiata Press

Tha Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

"The Top Top One? That's The Dixon-Yates Contract"

Sketches

People I Knew

By DICK VICTORY

Bill Wright and Jerry Oliver lived in a little whitewashed apartment with chipped paint before they left school and everybody I know really was to like them and the place.

They rented it out from a gray old couple, real nice people. All the guys used to say that the couple reminded them of their grandfather and grandmother.

The apartment itself was over a garage and sat about a hundred feet in back of the bungalow where the man and his wife lived. There was never anything in the garage but a few dirty 10-gallon gas cans and some boxes belonging to the man because like Jerry used to say, Who can afford a car?

You had to walk up the outside stairs along the east side of the building to get upstairs to the apartment. The stairs were old-fashioned and almost went straight up, and besides that, the 11th step was rotten and you could see through parts of it where the knots had been punched out. It looked dangerous, but nobody ever stepped on it. It used to look funny to see some joker stumbling up the stairs, but when they got to that 11th, some instinct carried them safely over. Kind of uncanny, in a way.

The old man that rented out the place was too old to work any more but he was good at fixing things and after the boys had been there a while, he told them he liked them too well to see one of them fall through that rotten board and break a leg, so he was going to fix it. He was really going to, too, but Jerry talked him out of it; said he was kind of used to it, and besides, it kept strangers out.

Bill and Jerry had the rooms upstairs where they ate and slept pretty well fixed up. At least, as well as they could afford. They had a small icebox and a stove in the kitchen and sometimes at night a bunch of us would clear the little kitchen table and sit around playing cards or just sit around and talk about things. Someone usually really got wound up, too, and I remember the time Charley Harris got hot and told a big dark guy to go to hell and the guy tossed him through the kitchen window before any of us could stop him. Charley ended up with a broken hip and a loose somethine. I think Charley's father was a lawyer, but I don't think anyone ever got sued.

Just before Bill left school he lost the job he had and didn't get a check for 18 straight days when he was expecting one and he had to live for three days on a quart of milk. Jerry was pretty broke, too.

A little after that Bill told us he was going to have to leave and Jerry said he might as well too, so they both joined the Air Force. I received a letter from Bill a while back saying he was training for radar out west and Jerry was an AP someplace.

Most of the guys still around that knew Bill and Jerry don't like to go by the apartment any more, they even try to avoid it. Because every time you pass that place and see the cracked paint and all, you can't help feeling a little pleasure, a little pain.

The Lift File

The Newspaper Game

Does it ever occur to readers how their newspaper comes to them so neat, how there manages to be no blank spaces at the bottom of pages, how stories don't break off at the tops of pictures or ads without picking up somewhere else? Probably not, because certainly newspaper people rarely go around wondering why tomatoes don't turn up in beer cans. The magic device by which newsmen perform their own industrial marvel is the galley proof—a piece of inexpensive-type paper about three inches wide and two and a half feet long on which stories are seen and edited before they the published. No matter how a writer has sent his fond creation to the printer—whether be has handscripted it in pen or in pencil, typed it in pica or elite face, triple double or single spaced it—it always emerges from the dark recesses of the composing room in the nicest lines of equal breath and depth.

This galley proof is then turned over, not usually to the original writer but to one of his associates whose job it is to perform a miracle of subtlest compromise and make it fit with other similarly treated stories into an allotted space. It's a sticky, tricky miracle that must be accomplished many times a day, day after day. Take for instance the Book Review, distributed with The Sunday Times. Most of its pieces have been done by writere in absentia, many of them eminent men in their own fields who have labored hard at giving a precise statement of their views. Say that one such statement has been chosen for a single-column opening. A single column allows exactly $11\frac{1}{2}$ inches of text, but the writer's piece measures on the galley proof $12\frac{1}{2}$ inches. What is to be done? As for the physician with the unhappy diagnosis to report, there is noth-

(Continued on Page 7)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS — by Dick Bibler

The Point Is

Oppenheimer Case Brought To Light

By BOB FOLSOM

Only a short time after he was concluded to be a "security risk," the inwardness of the case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer is being brought to public light.

Two articles and a book contribute major efforts toward solving the arguments surrounding Dr. Oppenheimer, though its really a matter of whom to believe in these presentations. For many, I hope, it's easy.

The articles are "The Oppenheimer Case" by Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr. in October's Atlantic Monthly, and "We Accuse!" by Joseph and Stewart Alsop in October's Harper's. Both articles clearly vindicate the scientist.

The book, The Hydrogen Bomb by Time magazine's Washington correspondents, James R. Shepley and Clay Blair, Jr., is a condemnation of Dr. Oppenheimer and most of the scientists who supported him and or participated in the atom and H-bomb program. Though the book isn't available here, U. S. News and World Report for Sept. 24 prints considerable excerpts from it, and their condensation gives a pretty complete picture of what the book has to say.

Dr. Edward Teller, Admiral Lewis Strauss and William Borden, all of whom are lauded because they supported the H-bomb development. Those who didn't support it belonged to the "anti-weapons" faction, whose leader the authors say was Dr. Oppenheimer.

They are depicted as a sinister conspiracy neglecting the welfare of our country. In other words, if you didn't hew the line for an all-out or "crash" effort towards H-bomb supremacy, you were a part of the "anti-weapon" faction. Dash all moral consequences that may have existed in the minds of men who created this monster, yet take the biased testimony of a few to construct a case against Dr. Oppenheimer. That is what the authors hava done.

The man who was chairman of the AEC in the period when the H-bomb was actually built, Gordon Dean, had this to say about the book: "A horrifying combination of little knowledge, outright untruths and questionable motives."

Mr. Schlesinger derived his article on Dr. Oppenheimer from the 992-page transcript of the Personnel Secur[ity] Board hearings. He has given a studious, thorough [and] thought-provoking review, b[ut] much of what he says is g[one] into deeper by the Alsop brot[h]ers.

They accuse the AEC [in] particular and the Americ[an] government in general, of [a] shocking miscarriage of jus[t]ice" in the case of Dr. Oppe[n]heimer. And they accuse A[d]miral Strauss "and certain [of] Oppenheimer's accusers, [of] venting the bitterness of [] disputes through the secu[rity] system of this country."

This is where, I think, m[] of the matter lies. In 1947 [] Oppenheimer was given una[ni]mous clearance by the AEC [of] the very things he was co[n]victed of in 1954. But not u[ntil] Admiral Strauss became cha[ir]man of the AEC in 1953 w[ere] these flimsy charges magn[i]fied out of proportion.

In their article, the Also[ps] write devastatingly of Stra[uss'] motives.

These tremendously inte[r]esting articles are read[ily] available. After reading the[m] I believe all free-thinki[ng] people will know what choi[ce] to make in the Oppenheim[er] case.

The Dissenter

The Difference Between Men, Boys

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

We're going to have to do something about the little boys who are getting very big-time drunk at our football games.

(The difference between a little boy and a man is that a man doesn't start brawls when he gets drunk; a little boy does.)

At the first game I saw a thoroughly loaded resident of the student section nonchalantly toss away the bottle he'd just drained of its whiskey. Fortunately it missed a girl sitting three rows lower, but it just barely missed.

At the second game there was one incident which is reported to have been caused by drinking. 'Incident' is an understatement.

Nobody needs to be told what happened at the third game. Some little boys got really heman drunk and there was a great big fight.

On my way out of the stadium I noticed three or four empty quart whiskey bottles under one bench.

I've heard that armloads of empty bottles ware collected by the concession boys after the game.

No one has ever called me a prude or a moralist, since I believe that it is a man's right to drink when he wants to.

But somewhere we have to call a halt to irresponsible inebriation, and a football game is one place where getting drunk is anything but harmless.

No one has gone to the hospital yet because of a drunken brawl in Campbell stadium, but we came close to it last Saturday night. A football crowd is a high-tension assembly to begin with. People are packed closely together. The situation is dynamite—and alcohol is the fuse. If only two people start fighting many others can be seriously hurt. A brawl is a serious matter.

All over campus goes up the cry that with Big Time football goes the rah-rah tradition of having a high time in the stands. That's a fallacy. Nothing excuses primitive pandemonium.

One of the purposes of glorifying football is public relations. It can't be said that it's good public relations to have a bunch of drunks on your hands or to have 8,000 people see someone carried off in a stretcher because he got in the way of a flying bottle or got pushed down an exit ramp because of someone else's childishness.

These things don't happen at big league baseball parks [] and they don't need to happ[en] in big-time football parks.

Frisking every person wh[o] enters Campbell stadium woul[d] be a hard task, and an un[]pleasant one. Still, the st[a]dium is on campus—and ther[e] are certain rules about drink[]ing alcohol on campus. I al[so] find it hard to believe a tick[et] taker can let someone in, par[]ticularly in warm weathe[r,] without spotting the qua[rt] bottle he's smuggling.

Someone who's going to g[et] soused at a football game ca[n] do it just as easily somewhe[re] else, where innocent peopl[e] are not going to get hurt, a[nd] where the enjoyment of a foo[t]ball crowd is not going to b[e] shattered by some irrespons[i]ble, loaded jerk.

These jerks come in all ag[es,] sizes and shapes. They hav[e] one common characteristic [—] they don't care about anybo[dy] but themselves.

Before something happe[ns] to ruin the name of th[is] school for a long time to com[e] and before the administrati[on] really cracks down to the ex[]treme, it is up to us to se[e] that the little boys of all ag[es] —our classmates, associate[s] and parents—work up a littl[e] dignity at least while they'[re] in our crowd.

Etcetera Etchings

Nobody's Umpiring Joe, Marilyn

By DAVID DREIS

(Amusement ed's note: This is a useless column, but while it is not important, is—I hope—entertaining PURE GOSSIP!)

Last year's Etcetera Etchings expressed my opinion that most Hollywood marriages begin with "I do" and end with "Adieu." In other words, the marriage ceremony has the bride keeping the bouquet, but throwing the groom away.

Of course, front pages across the nation are gossiping about Marilyn Monroe and Joe Dimaggio. This was one marriage that was set to work out —at least better than a January to October marriage, anyway. The hitching caught most gossip columnists with their rumors down.

To pinpoint the actual reason would be hard. One basic point which has always been known is that DiMaggio hates publicity and Marilyn loves it. At least, it's essential and prevalent in her profession. Even when he was the Yankee clipper and until his last days at the Automatic Toaster (He always popped up), Dimaggio shied away from publicity. The last straw was the time someone called Joe "Mr. Monroe."

I frankly think, Marilyn and Joe won't divorce—at least, not now. A reconciliation is in the future. I could be wrong, but Marilyn's begging for a return title match. La Monroe's a sick girl from overwork. It's hectic going into one film before the end of another.

As far as marriage is concerned, Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher are the big news. They've apparently straightened out religious difficulties because Debbie comment[ed] "What religious differenc[e?] We both believe in God." Ed[]die really got going this sum[]mer with the screen princ[ess] and both parents met an[d] talked it out. It was rumor[ed] he got pretty serious abo[ut] Terry Moore, but she straight[]ened him out. Couldn't ha[ve] been that serious.

Another marriage in th[e] offing is that of Pier Angel[i,] the MGM Italian import, an[d] singer Vic Damone also un[]der Metro contract. Pier wa[s] a pair with Kirk Douglas bu[t] they weren't as fortunate a[s] Debbie and Eddie—religiou[s] difficulties were too much with Douglas, Jewish and Pier, Catholic. Damone i[s] Catholic. Kirk eloped with a non-pro a month ago and Pier, it was rumored wa[s]

(Continued on Page 7)

A Better Measure

Policy Is Seen At 'Cross-Points'

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

Once again it would seem that United States policy toward China is at cross-points. The latest example of this being U. S. action halting Nationalist attacks on the Red-held mainland and adjacent islands.

This "no retaliation" order coming in the face of a reported Red build-up opposite Formosa would make it appear that the United States has once again backed down in the face of Russian opposition in an area where loss of face means the same as death.

On the Red held island of Amoy, which is six miles from the Nationalist stronghold of Quemoy, Nationalist planes have been pounding a reported buildup area of 110,000 Communist troops. Now they must remain silent.

The position held by the United States is that Chiang's troops are to be used for defensive purposes alone. Bombing such areas is not considered defensive but offensive, although Webster defines the word defensive as "SERVING to defend or protect."

Washington apparently fears that a continuance of such attacks might bring on a general war, even if Russia didn't have such a fear when she ordered the invasion of South Korea.

It is interesting to note that on the fifth anniversary of Communist China's existence which was the first of October, she ordered her army on the alert to invade Formosa. This order being given by Gen. Peng Teh-huai, Chinese Communist Minister of National Defense and former commander of Red Chinese troops in North Korea.

At the same time the U. S. Seventh Fleet has been given orders to "protect" Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands. This nullifying of Chiang's only arm of defense would seem to contradict the orders issued to the U. S. Seventh Fleet as well as making the U. S. Military-Aid Mission to Free China a waste of time.

Evidently not taken into consideration at the time was the question of seating the Red Regime in the United Nations, where she would hold a veto power in the Security Council with Russia. Time and again the Soviet Union has attempted to seat the Reds, only to be blocked by the United States and her allies.

With each vote, however, more and more of our friends are ask[]ing why not seat Red China [in] the U. N.? The Nationalist Gov[]ernment doesn't even repres[ent] the people of China and is on th[e] last legs anyway.

The best answer we could give would be the continuing pounding of Red China's coast[]al bases by the Nationalists. For a government capable of unleashing such attacks is def[]initely not on its last legs. And given backing from the United States equaled in Rus[]sia's backing of Red China she could indeed do any invading that needed to be done.

As for representing the peo[]ple of China, there are approxi[]mately 100,000 people living on the island of Quemoy alone with a civilian population estimated at 20,000 on Little Quemoy. The population of Taipeh, capital of Formosa, holds some 700,000 civilians not counting the rest of the island and islands off the China mainland.

Let us hope that after losing over 140,000 American lives in Korea and after the loss in Indo-China this cross-points of opin[]ion in our policy will disappear and the definition of the word "Defensive" re-appraised.

Campus Chest Dance Set For Suwannee Room, 8 P.M.

Drive Will Wind-Up Saturday, Oct. 23

By OSCAR JOHNSON

The annual Campus Chest Dance, which begins tonight at 8 in the Suwannee Room will feature the dance music of The Commodores, The Overtones, the Devilaires and The Ravens, according to general chairman, Shirle [illegible] general chairman, Shirley [illegible]

The dance will be an informal affair and tickets are priced at $1 per couple. Last year the dance received a large turnout and was one of the main contributing factors in the success of the drive.

Chairman of publicity Mary Peg Cannon said that great effort has been shown by the dormitories fraternities and sororities in their projects for the Campus Chest charity drive. "Support now," she declared.

In cooperating with these projects and putting something into the charity drive, you will get a lot back out of it. There is great satisfaction in the knowledge of having helped a worthy cause.

We should remember that perfect breeds strife, while daring brings life."

Variety Show

The Sigma Kappa Variety Show last night was one of three events that have taken place so far in connection with the drive. At intermission winners of the two contests had not been selected, it could were that a program of songs dances, pantomimes, tap-ra dance, instrumentals, comedy and many other acts were performed by most of the Florida State University fraternities and sororities.

Balloon Sale

The first event of the 1954 Campus Chest charity drive was Phi Kappa Tau fraternity's balloon sale at the FSU-Villanova football game last Saturday night during which approximately [illegible] was realized. The second was Phi Mu sorority's House of Ice held after the game, which raised a gross profit of $27 for the chest.

Betty Coed

The Betty Coed—Joe College Contest, sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi fraternity and Delta Gamma sorority, is already underway, with voting scheduled to end today. Entries, sponsored by most FSU fraternities and sororities, will be judged according to the amount of money raised in support of them in the form of votes. The winners will be crowned at the Campus Chest Dance tonight.

Voting places are located at the Student Center, the Amber House and the FSU Dining Hall and will be open until 6 p.m. Officials urged members of all groups with candidates entered to enlist support for them and increase the amount of money for the Campus Chest.

Faculty Auction

Scheduled to take place Tuesday, October 19, in the Faculty Auction sponsored by the Sophomore Council, Ina Jean Pruitt will act as auctioneer of the event, which is to start at 7:30. Jane Soper, Sophomore Council president, said that faculty members will bring home-made foods, including cake, cookies and other pastries; also two tickets for the Homecoming football game on the 30-yard line will be auctioned. The auction will be held directly after Rat Court.

Council President Soper said that any faculty members who have not been contacted may bring donations to the auditorium theater any time during the day.

Box Supper

The FSU Women's "F" Club will hold a Box Supper on Landis Green from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday, October 21, said club officials. Price for the meal will be 65 cents, and it has been described as comparable to anything available in a restaurant.

In case of rain the Box Supper will be held in the Suwannee Room.

Sigma Chi Derby

The annual Sigma Chi Derby is to take place tomorrow afternoon beginning at 2 at the hand practice field by the Geology Building and will be followed by by the Sigma Chi sponsored dance which starts at the Student Center at 8 p.m.

Seven events will be held at the derby, with competition to be provided by all 16 sororities. One of the more unusual events will be the Key Hunt in a large box filled with flour. A sorority-wide beauty contest to select "Miss Derby of 1954" will be held in connection with the derby. The winner will be crowned at the dance that night.

Pie Party

The Alpha Delta Pi Pie Party is scheduled for Sunday, October 17, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the sorority house. Officials said that the Pie Party was begun with the first Campus Chest at FSU and is now a tradition.

To Sell 'Services'

Another of the many unusual events during the drive is sponsored by the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, which will sell its services to fraternities on campus. This will involve cleaning up the upstairs rooms at a total cost of $25 per fraternity. Officials said that several fraternities have already pledged re-operation, and that others are urged to join in.

Sorority Projects

A similar service project will be sponsored by Alpha Omicron Pi's who will wait on fraternity tables for 10c a head. Zeta Tau Alpha sorority plans a Cake Walk at Westcott Fountain October 30 at 8 p.m.

Many solos are in progress, sponsored by sororities. Gamma Phi Beta sorority is selling posters every other day from 1 to 4 p.m. at Westcott Building and will sell it at the Sigma Chi Derby.

Alpha Xi Delta will sell pencils during the drive; Alpha Chi Omega plans to sell fudge; Delta Zeta is sponsoring Shoe Shines and Pi Beta Phi will make a donation of money saved by sacrifice of its members. Other sororities had not announced plans at press time.

Frats Busy, Too

A partial list of fraternity projects is as follows; Alpha Tau Omega, Scarf Sale; Kappa Alpha, Tail Gate; Sigma Nu, Tug Thrue; Sigma Phi Epsilon, Turkey Contest; Tau Epsilon Phi, Donations; Phi Kappa Tau, Cookies; and Lambda Chi Alpha and Theta Chi will sponsor a Charity Bowl football game. The Can-Can and football game will be held after October 22.

Dorms Hold Sales—14 PT, BPC

Virtual sales have been planned by the women's dormitories. These include Sandwiche, Apple Cider, Cookie, Fudge and Doughnut Sales. The dorms will also sponsor a carnival, supper party and a variety show. The men's dormitories plan to make donations as a contribution to the drive.

Smorgasbord

The annual Kegs Hall Smorgasbord will be held Sunday night from 6 to 8. Admission will be 75 cents and all proceeds will go to the Campus Chest. Officials said that the smorgasbord will include "all the food you can eat."

One of the features of the Campus Chest charity drive this year is the chart in Westcott Building upon which large paper "coins" will be placed during the course of the drive to mark the progress.

Where It Goes

All monies received by the Campus Chest will be allocated to the following: World University Service, 40 per cent; March of Dimes, 15 per cent; Red Cross, 19 per cent; Tuberculosis Foundation, 10 per cent; American Cancer Society, 10 per cent; National Association for Mental Health, 10 per cent, and local service organizations, 5 per cent.

A representative of the Campus Chest will be stationed at the Student Activity Office in Longmire Building between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily during the drive to receive student donations. Money may also be mailed to Mr. Fred Vogel, Counselor for Student Organizations, Campus Mail.

KAPPA SIGMA

The new members of Kappa Sigma fraternity were initiated at Suwannee Country Quarry, Wednesday. They are Ronald Anderson, John Casbergue, Paul Cooke, Donald Riedel and Jackson Henry.

The Kappa Sigma pledges are Larry Keck, Walter Lehmen, Tom Brockman, Bob Brady, Richard Folsom, Jerry Wheeler, Bruce Fancher, Bernie Huffman, Gene Striegle, Jack Striegel and Al Dayer.

Also Pemton Bennett, Bill Jones (Prestgrove), Bill Jones (Pensacola), John Whitmingham, Jim Holt, Ronnie Anderson, Lamar Allen, Lyman Hammond and Bill Bryant.

BANG! YOU'RE DEAD!—Distinguished Campus Chest officials fire "cannon" to signify opening of the charity drive on October 10. Stars-faced girl in center points to hole made in Student Center roof. "All Hands Help" is this year's slogan. Left to right are Dick Wagner, Mary Ann Cawthon, Gordon Gantz, Shirley Traylor and Susan Linebaugh.

OUR BOYS WILL SHINE TONIGHT—Delta Zeta sorority members polish shoes on steps of fraternity house. Girl at left is prepared to catch seated purchaser in case of a fall. Fund drive goal is one dollar per student.

YUMIE! YUMIE!—Glee-ful students enjoy lollypops on d support the Campus Chest at the same time. "Good Wow, this is the best yet," declares boy at right. "I n aren't had so much fun since I won Bermuda shorts."

WESTCOTT CEREMONIAL RITES—Mary W. Davis, right, is revealed giving token ceremonial offering to Ben Davenport as tribute to Rain God represented by ambrella. The Gamma Alpha Chi, women's advisory honorary, also sells ice cream there for the Campus Chest. Flavor is Dutch chocolate.

IT HAPPENED THIS WEEK—Members of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority assume chorus poses at silent movie skit held at Opperman Music Hall Thursday night for the Campus Chest. More dramatic expression of girl, center,

Foundation Aid Considered For Postdoctorates

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announces the availability of a limited number of postdoctoral fellowships in medicine and the related biological sciences.

These fellowships are awarded as a part of the National Foundation's program of professional education for which more than $10,000,000, in March of Dimes funds have been appropriated since 1938.

These fellowships are offered to candidates who are preparing for careers in scientific research and or academic medicines. They are not awarded to investigators for the support of a research project. Special consideration will be given to applicants interested in such fields as: bacteriology, biochemistry, biophysics, orthopedics, pediatrics, surgery and epidemiology.

Eligibility requirements include: an M.D., Ph.D., or equivalent degree. U. S. citizenship or application for citizenship and sound health.

Selection of candidates will be made on a competitive basis by the National Foundation's Fellowship Committee. Fellowships will be awarded for a period of one to three years and in rare instances may be extended to five years.

Stipends ranging from $3,600 to $7,000 a year are allowed, the specific sum being determined by marital status and number of dependents. The institution in which the Fellow receives his training may request compensation of $500 to $1,000 a year.

For consideration by the Fellowship Committee in February, applications must be received by December 1; for consideration in May, applications must be filed by March 1; for consideration in November, by September 1.

For further information and application blanks address: The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Division of Professional Education, 120 Broadway, New York 5, N. Y.

SIGMA KAPPA

Six former pledges of Sigma Kappa initiated this week are Joyce Campbell, Rita Dollar, Lillian Harvard, Ruth Kershaw, Ann Mackara and Shirley Williams.

Women's 'F' Club Taps 19; Considered For Cinnie Brown Voted President

New officers were elected and initiates taps were chosen for the Florida State University Women's "F" Club last week in a meeting to plan the strategy for the coming year, spokesmen announced this week.

Elected were Cinnie Brown, president; Ann Yeomas, vice-president; Betty Evans, secretary-treasurer and Janet Reed, assistant secretary.

The taps, called "Goats", were chosen in accordance with ability in sports and maintenance of a 1.0 overall average said spokesmen.

The following women were tapped: Patti Andrews, Evelyn Arneson, Marge Bell, Shirley Burrell, Linda Cleveland and Marilyn Coffey.

Also Sylvia Closter, Jean Curtis, Harriet Davis, Clara Gilchrist, Jean Johansen, Glorida Lantz, Betty Ann Threlkeld, Carolyn Thompkins, Dee Thomasson, Nina Wall, Nancy Wehner, Margaret White and Marilyn Woodworth.

The "F" Club "Goats" for some time in the future, will run errands, do projects and visit and entertain members. Said spokesmen, "The height of the activities will be initiation at the Reservation on a week-end known only to the members."

After the "big weekend," the club will take part in and sponsor the "F" Club's annual box supper for the Campus Chest. The supper will take place on Thursday, October 21 on Landis Green.

In case of rain it will be held in the Suwannee Room.

'The Egyptian' Featured Now; Payne Western Also Playing

In a few instances a choice had to be made in favor of illusion over authenticity to avoid the ridiculous. Egyptians of 3,300 years ago were nearly many times five feet tall; consequently, chariots, weapons, and furniture were re-scaled in proportion to the actors.

Likewise, many of the modes, manners and customs were softened to suit the sensitivities of the censors.

Others in the film are Gene Tierney, Michael Wilding, Bella Darvi, Peter Ustinov and Judith Evelyn, with a large supporting cast.

Silver Lode, a saga of the old West, plays today and tomorrow at the State. Comprising the star names in the film are John Payne, Lisabeth Scott and Dan Duryea.

Payne plays a rancher whose wedding day becomes riddled with bullets when a United States marshal interrupts the marriage ceremony to charge him with a cowardly killing.

Payne has three hours to prove his innocence and to uncover the person, cast as the bandit, as a desperado with a lying tongue bent on revenge.

Miss Scott is seen as the most desirable girl in Silver Lode, a small Western town, who remains true to her man when he seems guilty.

Physical Handicap Fellowships Given For Rehabilitation Work

Florida State University students may apply for National Foundation Fellowships in the social sciences related to the rehabilitation of the physically handicapped, according to a recent news release.

The report stated "Because persistent physical handicaps lead to urgent social and psychological problems, and because rehabilitation of the physically handicapped individual depends upon appropriate personal, family and community attitudes and services, it is desirable to have the problems in this field studied by able representatives of many professions.

"Since it wishes to encourage social scientists to acquire professional skills in the field of health service, the National Foundation offers a limited number of fellowships to candidates who are interested in the emotional, psychological and social factors related to rehabilitation of the physically handicapped."

Application may be made to the National Foundation at any time during the year, but no fellowship will be activated earlier than the first of the next month following committee action. It was noted, Candidates must have demonstrated competence in their professions as indicated by academic position, research productivity or service record, or show unusual promise as graduate students with not less than two years of completed work toward a Ph. D. degree.

Applications must be received by March 1 for consideration May 1; September 1 for November 1; and December 1 for February1.

Application forms and additional information may be obtained from "Division of Professional Education. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, 120 Broadway, New York 5, N. Y.

ALPHA DELTA PI

On Friday, October 8 Alpha Delta Pi sorority initiated Jane Bryson and Jo Ann Bynum.

Amusement Section

Chaplin Silents Featured On Film Club Schedule

By ELKE FRANK

Lovers of cool comedy and drama are in for a treat during the 1954-55 season of the Florida State University Film Club, according to Dr Adolf Karl, president.

The first film shown in the Lonsdale Auditorium last night at 8:30 was "Dr. Devil and Mr. Hyde." Directed by Frank Capra. It starred Jean Arthur and Gary Cooper in the early film roles.

The two British movies, "Man in the Winning Suit" to be shown with "The Gentleman in Room Six" on November 4, and "Lavender Hill Mob" which will be presented on April 14 have been enjoyed by many audiences here and abroad. Both Alec Guinness, British actor, is an outstanding comical movie actor.

Another highlight of this year's program will be the Chaplin Festival on December 9. It is a 20-minute preview of Chaplin as well as the adult movies each month. If enough seats are available two or three children may be brought to each meeting. Requests for that program, announced the film president.

This year's films have been selected by the 600 members of the club during the 1953-54 season. Last spring each subscriber was asked to rate from a list of about 150 internationally known movie classics, the ones they considered to be shown during the 1954-55 season. Further special suggestions were encouraged. From these, a committee of six members arranged this year's program. The same procedure will be followed this spring. explained Dr. Karl.

Because of limited space in Opperman Music Hall, only about 600 memberships are available. However all of our subscriptions have not been sold yet, and checks are still being accepted" stated Dr Karl.

The Film Club operates without subsidies. Movies are rented through the Film Council which is sponsored by the General Extension Division of Florida in Gainesville. Because of the lower rates offered, the subscription rates more than cover the rental costs for the films. Last year the surplus money, which amounted to $150 was given to one of the FSU scholarship funds, and, according to Dr. Karl another $150 will be made this year.

"These movies should be of interest to anyone because of their international aspects and cultural values." Dr. Karl declared, and since they will be shown in their original languages with English subtitles, modern language majors will greatly benefit from them."

Last year all subscriptions were sold out, and the larger part of the members consisted of FSU Faculty and townspeople. The number of student members was limited to 200 which originally was an activity of the Faculty Wives Newcomers Club, is becoming one of the regular entertainment features of this campus.

There will be two performances each screening day this year. Memberships can be obtaining by sending $7.50 by check or money order to the FSU Film Club, Box 2049, Campus Mail. Preference for the 6:30 p.m. or 8:30 p.m. showing should be indicated. No individual tickets will be sold, but subscriptions will be available after the first performance, October 14, until all places are filled. Since the membership cards and programs will be sent by mail, subscribers are reminded to send their names and correct addresses with the applications.

The first performances of this season will be given in Opperman Music Hall and Lonsdale Auditorium. Seatings have been reserved for Wednesday Audiences after it has been completed.

All Film Club performances are informal.

On Campus with Max Shulman
(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

MY COUSIN HASKELL

I have a cousin named Haskell Krovner, a sweet, unspoiled country boy, who has just started college. A letter arrived from him the other morning which I will reprint here because I know that Haskell's problems are so much like your own, Harold Watter.

Dear Haskell the thinks my name is Haskell too.),

I see that you are writing a column for Philip Morris cigarettes. I think they are keen cigarettes which taste real good and which make a pleasant picture when you open the pack, and I want to tell you why I don't smoke them.

It all started the very first day I arrived at college. I had just gotten off the train and was walking across the campus, swinging my cardboard valise whistling snatches of Victorian Harvey Girls and other latest tunes, admiring statues, petting dogs and girls, when I spied a sudden I ran into the fellow with a blue jacket, gray pants, and white teeth. He asked me was I a freshman. I said yes. He asked me did I want to get places on campus, make a big name for myself, and get pointed at in fashionable ballrooms and spas. I said yes. He said the only way to make all these keen things happen was to join a fraternity. Fortunately he happened to have a pledge card on him, so he pricked my thumb and I signed. He didn't tell me the name of the fraternity or where it is located, but I suppose I'll find out when I go active.

Meanwhile the fellow comes around every week and collects his dues which are $100. Lately he has been collecting $10 extra each week. He says this is a fine because I missed the meeting. When I pointed him that I can't go to meetings because I don't know where the house is, he hands me an arm.

I have never regretted joining the fraternity because it is my de-arest wish to be somebody on campus and get pointed at in spas, but you can see that it isn't cheap. It wouldn't be so bad if I slept as the house, but you must agree that I can't very well sleep at the house if I don't know where the house is.

I have had to rent a room. This room is not only hellishly expensive, but it isn't the kind of room I wanted at all. What I was looking for was someplace reasonably priced, clean, comfortable, and within easy walking distance of classes, the downtown shopping district, the bowling and my home town. What I found was a bedroom in the home of a local cootermonger, which in dingy, expensive, uncomfortable, inconvenient, and I don't even get out the bed till after 9 o'clock in the morning when my landlord goes off to mong his cooters.

Well, anyhow, I've settled and started going to classes. But first, I had to pay my tuition. This came to a good deal more than the advertised rates. When I asked the bursar what the extra money was for, he told me lab fee. When I said I wasn't taking any labs, he said I was being psychology which counted as a lab because everybody was there. When I offered to bring my own mice, of which there are plenty in my room, he tweeted my arm.

So I paid the man and went to my classes where I found that my prof possessed high purity but summers writing brand new textbooks. Over to the bookstore I went, saw the prices on the textbooks, and collapsed in a gibbering heap. At length I recovered and made indignant demands to speak to the proprietor, but they told me he drunk truly because he'd taken his own home for the day. There was nothing for it but to buy the books.

Next I turned to romance—and found it. Harriet, her name was—a great, strapping girl. I first eyed her leaning against the statue of the Founder of the University. I talked to her for several hours without effect. Only when I mentioned dinner did she stir. Her milky little eyes opened, she waved a heavy arm, seized my nape, and dragged me off to a dimly lit place called The Trap where everything was a la carte. She ordered cracked crab ($1.75), rutious chateaubriand ($7.00), a bouckle of fresh frog (like the French fry), an artichoke (like the leaf), and compote (like the grape).

After dinner she lapsed into a torpor from which I could not rouse her, so home I trod. I trod, I banged my glass with my fork, I did bird calls of North and South America, I pinched her huge pendulous jowl. I rubbed the legs of my credenza pants together. . . But nothing worked, and finally, I had to sling her over my shoulder and carry her to the door. Thus ended the vast amusement of everybody along the route.

But it was not the jeers of bystanders that bothered me. It was the hernia. Fortunately, medical care for students is provided free at the college dispensary; all I had to pay for were a few extras, like X-rays, anaesthesia, operating room, forceps, hemostats, scalpels, sponges, catgut, linens, towels, prostitutes, and nurses. They would not, however, let me keep the nurses.

So, dear, cousin, if you see me these days without a Philip Morris cigarette, it is not because I don't like Philip Morris cigarettes. I do—I flip when I taste their mild rare vintage tobacco. But I can't afford cigarettes. I can't even afford matches, what with fraternity dues and room rent and lab fees and textbook prices and my girl Harriet and medical care.

Well, I'll write you again soon. Keep 'em flying.

Yr. Cousin,

Haskell

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette.

Musical Spirit Again Invades Opperman Hall

By MARTY REEVES

The spirit of a musical comedy has once again invaded Opperman Auditorium, as rehearsals get underway for Rodgers and Hammerstein's Carousel, to be presented by the Light Opera Guild in Opperman Music Hall December 10, 11, 12, and 14.

Meeting every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday night, the group has shown a maximum of enthusiasm and cooperation, according to Dr. Robert L. Braun and Miss Betty Jane Grimm, co-directors of the production.

"The kids get intoxicated with the spirit of the show like a happy case of measles," said Miss Grimm. "It's really a glorious and thrilling chorus experience to a lot of kids who are vocally capable of taking the lead parts but jealous of the types for the characters to be portrayed," she added.

Due to the size of book, Miss Grimm has been having the chorus memorize the songs by use of pictures, with rather comical results at times, she says. In one instance the boys stood on their chairs singing "look at them cleans," and point downwards which, by coincidence, happen to be right where the girls are sitting.

Miss Grimm went on to tell how the directors were having trouble at first getting the boys to sing the "Blue High, Blow Low" song cheerfully. They finally solved the problem by having them stand on the line, "Blow High," and sit down with a bang on "Blow Low."

Although most of the leads are cast in major roles, the chorus is also varied group, including people specializing in such subjects as cheerleading, ballet, and modern jazz. "The group as a whole is talented, however," said Dr. Braun, and "there are a lot of little basic things they already know and don't have to be told."

The costumes, which will be rented, are main problem at present as they will be more varied than usual. Each member of the chorus must be dressed individually.

Tryouts for another phase of the musical, the Ballet Corps, will be held in Opperman Music Hall, Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 p. m. Dr. Briggs announced. Frasers Stables will be the curtain-raiser for the dance corps, which will be included in the second act, he added.

The role of Louise, one of the principal characters, must be played by a girl who can dance as well as act. This part will be cast from the dance group selected for participation in the production, the director said.

Both men and women will be needed for this ballet scene and all interested students are asked to attend the tryouts.

Volunteers for constructing scenery will be called for "before the month is out," it was also announced.

Local Movies Are Scheduled

A list of the campus films sponsored by Student Government and other groups throughout the year is provided below. Films show Monday at Landis Hall, Tuesday at Sherman Cawthon, Wednesday at Florida Hall, Thursday at Florida Hall and Friday at West Hall. All showings begin at 7:30 except at West Hall scheduled at 8:00 p m

The films are: Life Begins at 8:30 Monty Woolley, October 19; Hox Green Was My Valley Greer Garson, October 26; With A Song In My Heart :Susan Hayward:, November 2; Stalag 17 William Holden, November 16; and All About Eve :Bette Davis:, November 23.

Bia Jim McClain John Wayne, November 30; Lydia Bailey Dale Robertson, December 7; Farewell To Yesterday's January 4; Malbor Salem Humphrey Bogart, January 11; and Prince of Players :Rex Harrison:, January 18.

Man on a Tightrope :Fredric March:, February 1; Million Pound Note :Gregory Peck:, February 8; Les Miserables :Michael Rennie:, February 15; Junior Miss :Peggy Ann Garner:, February 22; and Shane :Alan Ladd:, March 1.

Niagara Marilyn Monroe:, March 15; Bird at Paradise Debra Paget:, March 22; Cheaper by the Dozen :Clifton Webb:, March 29; Shows of Kilimanjaro :Gregory Peck:, April 12; So This Is Love :Katherine Grayson:, April 26; A Lion In the Streets :James Cagney:, May 3; and Valley of the King :Jeffery Hunter:, May 10.

Lost: Blue-green and silver fountain pen in the Student Center last Saturday morning. 9:30. Please return to THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU office.

GO MAN GO—FSU students Bill Hall, Grover Baker, Dale Sylvester and Bleas Sudduth are frozen in action during performance. They won Barkershop Quartet contest in Daytona last weekend (See Story).

'Memory Four' Ranking High With Quartet Contest Judges

By PAT MARSTON

Barbershop singing must have been a distinct product of the Gay Nineties, but to four well-tonsiled Florida Staters it is still a serious business, even iq 1954.

The 'Memory Four,' members of the SPEBSQSA, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America took second place honors at the Dixie District Barbershop Quartet contest last weekend.

The quartet, which rates among the top four in the nation, is composed of John Condra, David and "Danny" Whipple and Gene Colcord.

Though first place went to the Sunshine Four, a group from Miami, the 'Memory Four' was right on white suits and white bucks got the most applause, according to Briggs. and "there are a lot of little basic things they already know and don't have to be told."

The costumes, which will be rented, are main problem at present as they will be more varied than usual. Each member of the chorus must be dressed individually.

Tryouts for another phase of the musical, the Ballet Corps, will be held in Opperman Music Hall, Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 p. m. Dr. Briggs announced. Frasers Stables will be the curtain-raiser for the dance corps, which will be included in the second act, he added.

The role of Louise, one of the principal characters, must be played by a girl who can dance as well as act. This part will be cast from the dance group selected for participation in the production, the director said.

Martin Players Slate 'Catholic Week' Drama

The Newman Club will present The Sinner Saint, a one-act play to open Catholic Faith Week.

The dates of the play are October 22, 23 and 24. It is put on by the Martin Players.

The play will be given in the back yard of the Newman House in arena style. George Goldstein, Jeanne Hoiard, Sheldon Hacoter, Dan Gorman and Joe Fasinasan have roles in the play.

Father Fredrick Schroder is the club is in charge of the play with George Goldstein and Pat Marston directing.

Dance Group Taps 37 New Members After 1954 Tryouts

The Florida State University Theatre Dance Group announced today that 37 of the applicants have been tapped into the organization.

Chosen from the 90 students who tried out are: Anne Louise Young; Mc Lanelin Henry Pannell, Sidney Burr, Joan Cassidy, Jackie Chesley, T K Cyburn, Lauren Coker, Peggy DeBolt, Janice Eberly, Jackie Gealdin, Ann Graves, Jackie Hailey, Barbara Hazlett, and Ruth Harvard.

Also, Ann Hyer, Jean Hayden, Rosemary Hollander, Patricia Van Hyning, Betty Inman, Julie Ivie, Julia Jones, Beverly Laurent, Eleanor Lotz, Mack Manning, Sheila McGinnis, Patricia Miller, Sarah Monroe, Marilee Morris, Sue Rogers, Joni Saunders, and Gayle Sisler.

Jane Stainback Tommie Sue Tanner, Francis Stokes, Carol Thatcher, and Mary Pase Williams. Also were among those tapped. The new members along with the old ones will begin work on the Columbine production of the Dance Group "An Evening of Dance" scheduled for later in the year.

INTERNS MUST APPLY FOR INTERVIEWS

All interns who has not made an appointment for senior interviews with the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement must do so immediately, either at 203 Westcott or by calling 5281, it was announced recently.

Theater Season's Plays Named; 'Charley's Aunt' Heading List

Thomas, Sarayon, Miller, Elliat Playwrights Represented Here In Department of Speech's Most Interpriising Schedule

By DAVID DREES

The Department of Speech has named the four other plays that will join "Charley's Aunt" for the 1954-55 theater season.

Already in rehearsal is the Brandon Thomas farce "Charley's Aunt" scheduled for performances October 29 and 30, November 1 and 2. Dr. Lynn E. Orr, head of the drama is of the department, is director of this first production.

Following "Charley's Aunt" will be a Children's Theater presentation with performances just for children, but featuring FSU students. The play, "Cinderella" will held auditions in the very near future. The play will be acta November 14, 15 and 20 with possible afternoon and evening performances on these days.

The famed William Saroyan play "The Beautiful People" comes next on the schedule with Conradi theater showings on December 10, 11, 13 and 14. It will be directed by Dr. Paul Denver, beginning his directorial chores for the year. He takes the next year. "The audience didn't want them to leave the stage. The applause was thunderous," reported the News-Journal.

The contest, held in Daytona Beach Sunday, featured 10 quartets from eight southern states. Five were selected as finalists and winners were selected on the basis ni points received in the preliminaries and final caaaing.

Per their qualifying numbers, the Memory Four sang "Mobile Bay" and "Carry Me Back To Old Virginy." For the finals they again presented "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and "When Twilight Comes Stealing."

Actually barbershop singing is nothing new for this group. They have been at it for the past five years—since they were together at Miami Edison High School.

The Whipple twins are both juniors and sing bass and baritone. Condra, also a junior, and Colcecroft, the youngster of the quartet and a sophomore, handle the lead.

Prior to this contest, the Memory Four's best achievement was turned in at a Dixie District Contest at St. Petersburg last spring. They missed qualifying for the national contest by only 23 points out of a possible 1,000. They finished fourth in a 20-team field, according to David Whipple.

First place winners of the recent contest, received a cup while the three top winners received tie clasps with the "District Contest" emblem set in a gold shield.

PAPER-MATE PEN makes note-taking push-button EASY

New "Silvrad-Tip" writes the way you do . . . fine, medium or broad . . . without changing points. Refills available in blue, red, green or black ink. Get a Paper-Mate Pen today!

• Bankers approve
• Ink can't smear or transfer
• Can't leak

Silvrad-Tip refills . . . 49¢

$1.69 Fair Traded

Ringling Museum, from Italy.

Auditions for "Cinderella" and "The Beautiful People" will be held soon and rehearsals for the two plays will go into action almost immediately thereafter.

AROTC Program Adds Five Officers To Staff

Five officers and non-commissioned officers have been added to the staff of the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) unit at Florida State University, according to Lt. Col. Philip S. Greene, Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

The new additions are Capt. Charles F Greer, Capt. Charles C. Wilson Master Sergeant Andrew L. Crowson; Sergeant First Class Royce Martin, and Sergeant First Class Robert A. Stewart. The two captains are holding positions as Assistant Professors of Military Science and Tactics.

MALONE'S BOOK STORE

Stationery
Sundries
Art Supplies
Penguin Series
Modern Library
Felt Goods

"Everything for the Student"

107 S. Copeland Phone 3-1066

AT WILSON'S . . .
As seen in SEVENTEEN
harlequinade Tommies

. . . gay, romantic TOMMIES* styled by Harry Berger in a pre-shrunk, exclusive ribbon-twill flannel, to make a hit is dormitories, sleeping or lounging.
In Red, aqua and gold. Green, blue and pink. Lime, coral and turquoise.
PROPORTIONETTE* sizes to fit your height as well as your size. Also Junior sizes 9 to 15.

• all covered seams
• buttons to last 133% longer
• four-adjustment waistband
• generous bun-sized cut

A.—COLUMBINE Night Shirt. Regular Sizes 32 to 38—4.95

B—PRETTY BABY Pajama. Baby Pants and Shirt to match (No Night-Shirt)—3.95
Regular sizes 32 to 38—5.95

C—HARLEQUIN Pajama. Regular heights 32 to 40. Tall 34 to 40—Tony 32 to 38—3.95

TINY if you're 5'2"
REGULAR 5'2" to 5'6"
TALL if you're over 5'6"

Tommies ARE MADE ONLY BY RAYON INCORPORATED. The U.S. Pat. Off.
LOOK FOR THE TOMMIES® LABEL

LINGERIE—FIRST FLOOR

P. W. WILSON CO.

SINCE 1837 TALLAHASSEE'S FAVORITE DEPARTMENT STORE

Welcome Students
Tallahassee Cafe
SPECIAL
6 HAMBURGERS FOR $1.00
TO GO
Phone 2-9649
658 W. Tennessee

Seminoles Even Record With 52-13 Rout Of Villanova

From The Sidelines

By Alan Whitmarsh

Sports Staff

Florida State University moved into the nation's grid-headlines Saturday night, and one of the biggest reasons was that a passing game which had been dormant for the Seminole attack on previous occasions came to life in surprising potentcy.

The FSU attack was brought to life under the expert guidance of Len Swantic, 175-pound sophomore from Orlando, Ga. Virtually unknown as a Seminole signal-caller before this, Swantic did no less than connect on 13 of 19 aerials for 226 yards, fire three touchdown passes and score once himself. This fiery sophomore gave definite flashes of things to come last week against Louisville, and came into his own Saturday night.

In Swantic, Coach Tom Nugent may have finally found the quarterback he has been searching for through the past year, one who can fill all three capabilities of the job—a good signal-caller, good passer and a good runner. Len was all three against Villanova, of that there is no doubt.

In addition to his steller passing exhibition, Len gave a strong display of ball-handling finesse, at times fooling the Villanova team, but the entire Campbell Field gathering as to where the ball was or who was in possession of it.

In the seasons start Swantic was relegated to a third team behind Senior Harry Massey and Freshman Ted Miller. Massey, hopefully found that while he was an expert field general and a good runner, he was not to be desired with his passing. Rodrique's name seemed to be sharp in the Georgia contest, but he didn't seem to find his targets when given a crack at some Christian.

All-Around Quarterback

Mr. Swantic began looking into the ranks for an all-around quarterback. He didn't look long after finding Len Swantic, who has built a lot of Massey's running and a sharpness in his passing which Rodrique never had.

In speaking of the State passing attack, it would be well to mention the name of a giant end who seems to have never himself with glory before the 1954 season—Ted Drake. Picked on many "All" teams in previews, big Tom Feamster put on what was without a doubt one of the greatest performances of his career on Saturday's game.

Besides playing his usual tremendous defensive game, Feamster was a constant threat on the offensive end of the line. Time and time again, Feamster was open for passes, but the opposing defenders across the goal line with him. Perhaps the year is over this combination of Swantic to Feamster will make headlines as one of the best in the nation.

Perhaps the most encouraging aspect of this Florida State team is that it is composed of but eight seniors and 20 juniors, underclassmen. Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors have all been key men in the Seminoles attack and will continue to be such in the years to come, for here is the making of a fine football team.

Miles To Join Gutting; Will Perform For FSU

By BOB GUTTING

Bob Miles, veteran Seminole cross country star, has graduated last year, but he entered school this fall and will again enter competition for Florida State. Miles, starlighter for collegiate competition, Miles will enter the AAU and National AAU. He will put Miles in the harness as Dick Gutting the National trampoline champion who was declared ineligible for collegiate competition.

Miles, senior year on the cross country was the Florida State one point maker. He won most points for the state last year's National AAU cross country meet, took first place honors at the Florida AAU meet and two seconds at the Southern Conference meet, at the National AAU meet this year in addition, Miles racked up many valuable points to help upset the favorite gym team.

Miles beginning in grammar school back in the Pennsylvania City of Brotherly Love, he graduated from the Germantown High School in 1951. It was during his senior year that Miles first tried a gymnastics and became familiar with the apparatus.

After graduation in 1946 Miles went to work for a Philadelphia firm as junior executive but soon developed contacts with gymnastics by competing with Philadelphia Turners. It was at this time that Miles met Walter Atlantic flying rings champion by edging out Joe Pace who is now another PSU star from Philadelphia. Joe and Miles the previous year became same event. Since the tools have come around each other, with Miles excelling on each occasion.

In 1950 Miles became convinced there was no future in working for a living and to same to college. He picked Florida State because he was impressed by the athletic program and knew the gym team would build up to championship status.

Miles' first was during the famous Dr. Hanley Price's second year at gymnastics coach when the team was in the midst of shaping into the champions that they are today.

Among the first thing Miles did upon entering Florida State was to go out and win the flying rings championship of the All-American team. Following this is an almost unbelievable record of wins while competing under the garnet and gold.

Among his many wins are the National AAU flying rings championship (1951), and first place all-around at the Georgia AAU.

This was followed by the Florida AAU in 1952 with a first place in the flying rings plus a place in calisthenics, side horse high bars and all-around, third place in calisthenics, side horse and still rings! After this came the Georgia AAU and a second place on the flying rings, and third on high bar and all-around.

During the 1953 season Miles placed fifth in the all-around event at the National AAU, first place on flying rings and long horse at the Southern Intercollegiate, a first place long horse and flying rings, second place calisthenics and third on side horse, high bar and parallel bar at the Florida AAU.

The solid mannered, easy going Miles is currently employed by the universities audio visual department, and although a prospect for the 1956 Olympics, rarely boasts about his ability on his favorite apparatus, the rings. (He has, however, one weakness: a gymnastics trophy mounted on the bookcase of his two-lone Oldsmobile).

Hutchins Calls Football Game A' Nuisance'

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Robert M. Hutchins, under whose presidency the University of Chicago abandoned football in 1939, has written an article in this week's issue of SPORTS ILLUSTRATED called, College Football is an Infernal Nuisance, protesting that we Americans are the only people in human history who ever got sport mixed up with higher education.

Hutchins is now president of the Fund for the Republic, but in the face of a recent move to try to reinstate football at Chicago, he states his violent aversion to the distractions and immorality of the sport as the collegiate level.

According to Hutchins, Chicago dropped football because the game hampered the university's efforts to become the kind of institution it aspired to be one devoted to education, research, and scholarship. "Intercollegiate football," he says, "has little to do with any of these things and an institution that tries to do well in them will have to concentrate upon them and rid itself of irrelevancies, no matter how alien or profitable."

Accepting sport in its proper place as attractive and valuable, he adds, "No other country looks to its universities as a prime source of athletic entertainment, and anybody who has watched, as I have, 12 university presidents spend a day cavorting and sweating the Rose Bowl agreement, or anybody who has read—or who hasn't? — portentous discussions of the "decline" of Harvard, Yale, or Chicago because of the recurring defeats of its football team must realize that it is in America its a different world."

He doubts that it is a better world, he says. "I believe that one of the reasons why we attach such importance to the results of football games is that we have no clear idea of what higher university is. We can't understand these institutions, which if we have eradicated from one; but we can grasp the figures on the scoreboard."

Decrying the fact that football has become a symbol of college life, even the quintessence of the modern campus, Hutchins quotes the late Jeff Cravath: "Nearly all college and all leading big-time schedules have been arranged upon the open market to obtain the ray material. They must bid for the best players and make concessions to keep them. The fact that the system does not always perfect honest, scalpers and football gigolos is immeterial."

He points out that a college president must know the corrupt practices that are being used to build his football squad, but if he tries to stop them he runs afoul of precedent alumni on the board of trustees or head of athletic or alumni with endowment-available money. The president needs that money to keep the school going.

Hutchins' hope for a solution of the university's dilemma lies in the slow but steady progress in intramural football, in the time when people will not pay to see collegiate ball.

"Intramural football," he says, "has reached this point, we shall be able to distinguish sport and higher education. Students can play (or not play) as they wish; their friends and kin attend and applaud if they like. It will be clear that this is a relation from higher education, not the main purpose of it. Students will come to college to study. Alumni will believe that this is something a normal, reasonable young American can properly do. Donors will understand that they are asked to support the institution not because it has succeeded in exploiting a few boys who are huskier and faster than those representing another college, but because when they give it, their money will be well spent in improving education and advancing knowledge. The colleges and universities will be set free to be as good as they know how to be."

"This," he concludes, "happened at Chicago."

Terry Rice.

BACK OF THE WEEK—Following FSU's 52-13 victory over Villanova last week, Quarterback Leonard Swantic was selected for Florida Intercollegiate back of the week. Against Villanova, Swantic completed 13 of 17 passing attempts.

TOM FEAMSTER—Six-foot seven-inch Tom Feamster, FSU end, was the Florida sportswriters choice as lineman of the week following Florida State's victory over Villanova. In the first four games of the season Tom has caught 11 passes and scored four touchdowns.

Independents, Greeks 'Off' For 'Mural Basketball Crown

Intramural basketball at Florida State University got off to an exciting start in the dormitory league Monday night and in the fraternity league Tuesday night. Tuesday's closest game saw the Arx Fraternity defeat the Pirates in a 22-20 contest with the Pirates.

Individual high point honors for the night went to Jack Mathis who scored 26 points for Senior Hall in their defeat suffered at the hand of the Baptist Students, 41-33.

In other Monday night games, the Penthouse Gang defeated Newman Club 30-19 and the Rebels won over Methodist Students, 45-23. The Rebels were led by a 16-point performance by Jim Duce. For the Newman Club, Arnold Bobson split the cords for 12 points. Magnolia Hall drew a bye for the night.

In the fraternity contests Tuesday night, ATO, SN, PKA, SAE, KA, SC and DTD emerged victorious. The ATO's defeated TEP, 40-33. A smoothworking Sigma Nu organization turned back the Kappa Sigs by a score of 46-16. Fred Fuller with 15, points led the Sig Nu team. Also of special interest alumni on the board of trustees or board of regents or alumni with endowment-available money. The president needs that money to keep the school going.

Hutchins' hope for a solution of the university's dilemma lies in the slow but steady progress in intramural football, in the time when people will not pay to see collegiate ball.

"Intramural football," he says, "has reached this point, we shall be able to distinguish sport and higher education. Students can play (or not play) as they wish; their friends and kin attend and applaud if they like. It will be clear that this is a relation from higher education, not the main purpose of it. Students will come to college to study. Alumni will believe that this is something a normal, reasonable young American can properly do. Donors will understand that they are asked to support the institution not because it has succeeded in exploiting a few boys who are huskier and faster than those representing another college, but because when they give it, their money will be well spent in improving education and advancing knowledge. The colleges and universities will be set free to be as good as they know how to be."

"This," he concludes, "happened at Chicago."

Terry Rice.

The Yardstick

(Four-Game Totals)

FSU		OPP
57	Total First Downs	42
31	By Rushing	21
20	By Passing	16
6	By Penalty	5
1206	Total Rush-Pass Yardage	1000
152	Number Rushing Attempts	152
1040	Yards Gained Rushing	580
166	Yards Lost Rushing	166
874	Net Yards Gained Rushing	466
19	Number Passes Attempted	74
46	Number Passes Completed	28
71.1	Per Cent Passes Completed	37.8
332	Yards Passes Completed	534
11	Av. Gain per Pass Completed	7.1
2	Passes Intercepted By	3
66	Yards Returned	136
1	Fumbles Lost	1
7.4	Average Yardage per Game	250
130	Average Gain Rushing	131
83.1	Average Gain Passing	66.8
214	Average Gain per Play	216
3.7	Average Gain Rushing	2.8
5	Touchdowns	3
697	Yards Punted	716
36.2	Average Punt	37.3
1	Punts Returned	11
1	Yards Returned	10
1.0	Average Return	0.9
4	Kickoffs Returned	16
73	Yards Returned	400
18.2	Average Return	25
27	Yards Penalized	27
13	Total Touchdowns	3
5	By Rushing	2
2	By Passing	1
1	Extra Points Attempted	3
1	Made	3
0	Missed	0
2	Total Points	18

PLAYER SCORING

Player	TDs	EPA	EPM	TP
Tom Feamster—RE	4	0	0	24
Len Swantic—QB	3	0	0	18
Billy Graham—BB	2	0	0	12
Ted Rodrigue—QB	1	0	0	6
Jim Duce—RE	1	0	0	6
Ted Miller—QB	1	0	0	6
Harry Massey—QB	1	0	0	6
Bobby King—FB	1	0	0	6
Billy Odom—LB	1	0	0	6
Jim Wynne—LB	1	0	0	6
Jerry Hyde—RH	1	0	0	6
Lee Coleman—RT	1	0	0	6
Ted Leonard—LB	1	0	0	6

PASS RECEIVING

Player	Atts.	Comp.	Int.	Gain	Pct.	TDs
Tom Feamster—RE	11	7	0	218	64	4
Jim Duce—LE	4	2	0	70	50	1
Buddy Reynolds—LB	4	2	0	70	50	0
Ted Rodrigue—QB	1	1	0	30	100	1
Billy Graham—BB	1	1	0	30	100	0
Bud Leonard—LB	1	1	0	30	100	0
Bob Weaver—RH	1	1	0	30	100	0
John Grimes—FB	1	0	0	0	0	0
Ted Miller—QB	1	0	0	0	0	0
Jimmy Wynne—LB	1	0	0	0	0	0
Ben Schomburger—LB	1	0	0	0	0	0
Bobbie King—FB	1	0	0	0	0	0
Joe Hutt—FB	1	0	0	0	0	0
Jim Green—RH	1	0	0	0	0	0

RUSHING

Player	Atts.	Gain	Loss	Net	Av.	TDs
Graham	16	97	13	84	4.6	1
Massey	27	107	17	90	3.3	1
Reynolds	19	102	12	90	4.7	0
Pricat	16	70	10	60	3.7	0
Rodrigue	17	78	23	55	3.2	1
Duce	14	68	5	54	3.8	0
Miller	12	48	3	45	3.7	1
Swantic	19	45	23	22	1.1	1
Bobbie King	5	24	2	22	4.4	1
Bertolds	3	24	3	21	4.6	0
Hyde	5	21	0	21	4.2	1
Wynne	10	36	20	16	1.6	1
Mundy	13	54	38	16	1.2	0
Weaver	3	16	0	16	5.3	0
Forsythe	5	13	1	12	2.4	0
Schomburger	1	3	0	3	3.0	0
Cox	2	3	0	3	1.5	0
Green	1	0	1	-1	-1.0	0
	182	708	168	542	3.3	6

PASSING

Player	Atts.	Comp.	Int.	Gain	Pct.	TDs
Rodrigue	19	7	1	224	36	2
Massey	22	6	2	167	41	1
Swantic	19	13	1	226	68	3
Pricat	4	2	0	30	50	0
	65	28	4	726	43	6

TOTAL OFFENSE

Player	Rush	Pass	Gain	Av.
Swantic	45	226	268	13.4
Massey	27	167	194	7.2
Rodrigue	55	54	173	10.1
Pricat	113	30	143	8.4

ODOM SCORES—Florida State Fleet halfback Billy Odom is shown scoring in the Seminole's 52-13 victory over Villanova last Saturday night.

Stock Named On Collegiate Swim Team

Florida State University's outstanding breaststroker, Ernie Stock, has been selected a member of the All-America collegiate swimming team.

Scotty Little, chairman of the College Swimming Coaches Association of America made the announcement.

Stock, who hails from Royal Oak, Michigan, is the second performer and the first swimmer in FSU history to win All-America rating. A diver, Roger Slater, was selected in 1950 and 1951.

Last spring Stock placed fourth in the 100-yard breaststroke at the NCAA meet in Syracuse. N. Y. His official best time for the event is 1:01.1. However, unofficially, he has covered the distance in less than 60 seconds.

FSU Coach Sim Stalls regards Stock as one of the finest swimmers that he has coached. Said Stalls, "Ernie has all the greatness of a natural athlete. We expect him to be even better this season."

JOBS AVAILABLE

A position teaching Business Education and a job for sales work in a local firm are now open, the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement has announced.

The teaching job is for four nights a week at $3.22 per hour, requiring a B.S. in B.S. degree.

The selling job is part-time and is only open to a student with no morning classes.

Seminoles Clash At Raleigh Tomorrow

By SPORTS WRITER

The new look in the Florida State University football team, as reworked as a Benrus bill, is attributable to a factor unobserved by most fans—sharp blocking, and especially downfield.

Of course, the 52-13 rout of Villanova last Saturday night brought to light the high individual potential of a few huskies like Tom Feamster, Len Swantic and Al Makowiecki. But as the coaches know, individual play is secondary as such.

This is not to say the coaches don't appreciate the outsized effort on the part of those previously un-heard of and others too, yet when a team so completely dominates another there has to be a reason. and that, as always, is the play of all concerned.

The N. C. State contest coming up this week should prove conclusively, one way or another, just what kind of team the Seminoles are. N. C. State thumbed William and Mary last week, 26-6.

This much we know about our team now:

Good depth at the ends with Feamster and Jimmy Lee Taylor the first-liners, Jim Duce and Bud Leonard and others are round but mean.

Aside from the strongboy, Al Makowiecki, he made three tackles on the goal line stand first Villanova series of downs! the tackle situation seems to be one of strength, with Bob Barber, Ray Staab and Don Fewell all who had a chance and appear about equally suited.

With linemen hobbling freshmen Leon Brysan and Leo Bagenz, the tackle at guard falls more and more on Al Pacifico and Jerry Jacobs, two solid defensive men.

With the development of yearling centers Hubert Ackerman and Bill Cullom, Bob Crenshaw's burden is made a little lighter, but still demands Bob's attendance in crucial spots.

The backfield situation is one of plenty, with good runners—and passers.

Coach Tom Nugent has centered practice sessions this week on defense in an effort to stop the N. C. State power attack, which includes variations of the single wing, double wing and T-formation.

Of course, for pure variations, FSU can present quite a few in their split-T and "I" formations plays.

Offensivewise, the "slip" and "lock" team system is liked as well by Nugent that it appears to be today. And it is easy to see why after the Villanova rout, in which Seminoles completed 13 of 17 passes for 332 yards and five touchdowns. Total yardage was 478.

The State eleven has scored 99 points in its last two games, with 47 coming in the Louisville game.

The squad is presently in good shape with only Leo Baggett, freshman guard, injured and figured to be out the rest of the season. Flip Ha has a chipped ankle bone.

If the Seminoles can get past the Wolfpack Saturday it will show them a very fine mark in games won and lost for the first time this year. FSU will meet Duke in its two first contests, 14-0, by Georgia, and 13-6, by Abilene Christian.

Prep 'Volleyballers' Play Here Tomorrow; Odeneal In Charge

The second high school volleyball tournament sponsored by the Florida High School Activities Association will be held on the Florida State University campus tomorrow, beginning at 9 a.m.

The tourney, sponsored by FSU, will be limited to high schools within a 45 mile radius of Tallahassee.

Bill Odeneal, of the FSU department of physical education, who is handling details for the meet, said the tourney will be one division, and all teams will play according to the United States Volleyball Association rules.

A double-elimination system will be used, with trophies to be awarded first and second place winners.

IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

Dr. Frederick Hunsicker, Daily Nebraskan, University of Nebraska, coms these suggestions on what you can do if you should fall on the dance floor during a fast number:

1. Just lie there—they'll think you're resting.

2. Start singing—they'll think you've had a bit too much of the hot.

3. Start mopping the floor with your handkerchief—they'll think you work there.

Entries may be mailed to Dr. Howard Dasheel.

Odeneal, also head volleyball coach, has been asked by the State Department of Education to visit this month seven northern air force bases and lecture to physical training personnel.

Odeneal will fly from base to base setting up basketball and volleyball clinics. Bases he will visit are Pepperell, Ernest Harmon, Sidi Slimane and New Foundland; Nars arcaush, Sondrestromfjord and Thule in Greenland and Goose Bay in Labrador.

Odeneal reported this week to Wrestler Field Mann, for a full issue of arctic clothing and travel orders.

IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

Dr. Frederick Hunsicker, Daily Nebraskan, University of Nebraska, coms these suggestions on what you can do if you should fall on the dance floor during a fast number:

1. Just lie there—they'll think you're resting.

2. Start singing—they'll think you've had a bit too much of the hot.

3. Start mopping the floor with your handkerchief—they'll think you work there.

Florida State Is Favored By Ten

By DICK DUNKEL

Next Saturday's Wisconsin-Purdue game, to be played at Madison, will not only be a key contest in this year's Big Ten championship. It may also go a long way toward determining the 1954 national leadership.

The Badgers and Boilermakers are now rated 1-2 in the Poll Index rankings and for Purdue it will be its first game in the new against opponents ranked in the top three.

The Boilermakers, always noted for their scrutan schedules, beat Notre Dame, 27-14, back on Oct. 2, and now face the conductor of the national leader. Then, last week, Purdue tied third-place Duke, 13-13, while Wisconsin —the mighty Badgers who took over the No. 1 spot after licking Rice, 13-7, last Saturday.

The ratings: Wisconsin 114.1— Purdue 113.6. Thus, on the comparative ratings, the Big Ten Badgers have made themselves the favorite by only one-half a point.

Other significant pairings of Saturday's latest Power Index differences, are:

No. 2 Duke, 11 over No. 14 Army, at Durham.

No. 4 Ohio State, 10 over Iowa, at Columbus.

No. 5 Notre Dame, 7 over Michigan State, at South Bend.

No. 6 Oklahoma, 29 over Kansas, at Lawrence.

No. 7, Rice, 14 over SMU, at Houston.

No. 8 Miss.-supp. 38 over Tulane, at Oxford.

No. 9 UCLA, 11 over Stanford, at Los Angeles.

No. 10 Minnesota, 18 over Illinois, at Minneapolis.

Dick Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

EXPLANATION: The Power Index ratings are based on comparative scores, carefully adjusted for all relevant factors, including strength of schedule, scoring ability, defensive strength, etc. The Index figures represent points above or below the mythical average team, which is rated at 100.0.

Games Of Week Ending October 17, 1954

AMONG TOP 150

Higher Number Indicates Greater Strength

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15
Boston Col. 120.2 vs Holy Cross	98.0
Detroit 109.2 vs Villanova	89.3
Miami (O.) 107.2 vs Dayton	93.2

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16
Alabama 123.0 vs Kentucky	98.0
Arizona 103.4 vs Wyoming	96.3
Arkansas 109.0 vs Texas A&M	107.1
Auburn 104.0 vs Georgia	93.0
Baylor 107.1 vs Texas Tech	94.0
Boston Col. 120.2 vs Holy Cross	98.0
Brown 102.2 vs Harvard	97.0
California 108.2 vs Washington	101.0
Clemson 103.2 vs Furman	93.0
Colgate 102.2 vs Cornell	97.0
Colorado 107.0 vs Kansas St.	97.0
Columbia 102.2 vs Penn	97.0
Cornell 102.2 vs Colgate	97.0
Dartmouth 102.2 vs Penn St.	97.0
Detroit 109.2 vs Villanova	89.3
Duke 111.0 vs Army	101.1
Florida 107.0 vs Miss. State	98.0
Florida St. 107.0 vs N. C. State	96.0
Georgia Tech 107.0 vs Auburn	93.0
Harvard 102.2 vs Brown	97.0
Holy Cross 120.2 vs Boston Col.	98.0
Houston 107.0 vs Rice	107.0
Illinois 107.0 vs Minnesota	107.0
Indiana 107.0 vs Michigan	107.0
Iowa 107.0 vs Ohio State	107.0
Kansas 107.0 vs Oklahoma	107.0
Kansas St. 107.0 vs Colorado	107.0
Kentucky 107.0 vs Alabama	107.0
Louisiana St. 107.0 vs Miss.	107.0
Maryland 107.0 vs Navy	107.0
Michigan 107.0 vs Indiana	107.0
Michigan St. 107.0 vs Notre Dame	107.0
Minnesota 107.0 vs Illinois	107.0
Miss. State 107.0 vs Florida	107.0
Mississippi 107.0 vs Tulane	107.0
Missouri 107.0 vs Oklahoma St.	107.0
Navy 107.0 vs Maryland	107.0
N. C. State 107.0 vs Florida St.	107.0
Notre Dame 107.0 vs Michigan St.	107.0
Ohio State 107.0 vs Iowa	107.0
Oklahoma 107.0 vs Kansas	107.0
Oklahoma St. 107.0 vs Missouri	107.0
Penn 107.0 vs Columbia	107.0
Penn St. 107.0 vs Dartmouth	107.0
Pittsburgh 107.0 vs Syracuse	107.0
Princeton 107.0 vs Yale	107.0
Purdue 107.0 vs Wisconsin	107.0
Rice 107.0 vs Houston	107.0
Rutgers 107.0 vs Temple	107.0
Southern Cal. 107.0 vs Stanford	107.0
Stanford 107.0 vs Southern Cal.	107.0
Syracuse 107.0 vs Pittsburgh	107.0
Temple 107.0 vs Rutgers	107.0
Tennessee 107.0 vs Vanderbilt	107.0
Texas 107.0 vs Texas A&M	107.0
Texas A&M 107.0 vs Texas	107.0
Texas Tech 107.0 vs Baylor	107.0
Tulane 107.0 vs Miss.	107.0
Vanderbilt 107.0 vs Tennessee	107.0
Villanova 107.0 vs Detroit	107.0
Virginia 107.0 vs Wake Forest	107.0
Wake Forest 107.0 vs Virginia	107.0
Washington 107.0 vs California	107.0
Wisconsin 107.0 vs Purdue	107.0
Wyoming 107.0 vs Arizona	107.0
Yale 107.0 vs Princeton	107.0

OTHER SOUTHERN

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15
Tennessee 107.0 vs Vanderbilt	107.0

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16
Alabama 107.0 vs Kentucky	107.0
Arkansas 107.0 vs Texas A&M	107.0
Auburn 107.0 vs Georgia	107.0
Baylor 107.0 vs Texas Tech	107.0
Clemson 107.0 vs Furman	107.0
Florida 107.0 vs Miss. State	107.0
Florida St. 107.0 vs N. C. State	107.0
Georgia Tech 107.0 vs Auburn	107.0
Houston 107.0 vs Rice	107.0
Kentucky 107.0 vs Alabama	107.0
Louisiana St. 107.0 vs Miss.	107.0
Maryland 107.0 vs Navy	107.0
Miss. State 107.0 vs Florida	107.0
Mississippi 107.0 vs Tulane	107.0
Navy 107.0 vs Maryland	107.0
N. C. State 107.0 vs Florida St.	107.0
Oklahoma St. 107.0 vs Missouri	107.0
Rice 107.0 vs Houston	107.0
Southern Cal. 107.0 vs Stanford	107.0
Tennessee 107.0 vs Vanderbilt	107.0
Texas 107.0 vs Texas A&M	107.0
Texas A&M 107.0 vs Texas	107.0
Texas Tech 107.0 vs Baylor	107.0
Tulane 107.0 vs Miss.	107.0
Vanderbilt 107.0 vs Tennessee	107.0
Virginia 107.0 vs Wake Forest	107.0
Wake Forest 107.0 vs Virginia	107.0

NATIONAL LEADERS

Wisconsin	114.1	Colorado	107.0
Purdue	113.6	Navy	106.1
Duke	111.0	Georgia Tech	107.0
Ohio State	110.0	Auburn	107.0
Rice	107.0	Georgia	107.0
Notre Dame	107.0	Baylor	107.0
Michigan St.	107.0	Texas Tech	107.0
Oklahoma	107.0	Miss. State	107.0
Kansas	107.0	Florida	107.0
Michigan	107.0	Florida St.	107.0
Iowa	107.0	N. C. State	107.0
Army	101.1	Miss.	107.0
Kansas St.	107.0	Tulane	107.0
Colorado	107.0	Texas A&M	107.0
Navy	106.1	Texas	107.0
Georgia Tech	107.0	Arkansas	107.0
Auburn	107.0	Alabama	107.0
Georgia	107.0	Kentucky	107.0
Baylor	107.0	Tennessee	107.0
Texas Tech	107.0	Vanderbilt	107.0
Miss. State	107.0	Virginia	107.0
Florida	107.0	Wake Forest	107.0
Florida St.	107.0	Penn St.	107.0
N. C. State	107.0	Pittsburgh	107.0
Miss.	107.0	Syracuse	107.0
Tulane	107.0	Princeton	107.0
Texas A&M	107.0	Yale	107.0
Texas	107.0	Penn	107.0
Arkansas	107.0	Columbia	107.0
Alabama	107.0	Cornell	107.0
Kentucky	107.0	Colgate	107.0
Tennessee	107.0	Dartmouth	107.0
Vanderbilt	107.0	Harvard	107.0
Virginia	107.0	Brown	107.0
Wake Forest	107.0	Rutgers	107.0
Penn St.	107.0	Temple	107.0
Pittsburgh	107.0	Boston Col.	107.0
Syracuse	107.0	Holy Cross	107.0
Princeton	107.0	Detroit	107.0
Yale	107.0	Villanova	107.0
Penn	107.0	Miami (O.)	107.0
Columbia	107.0	Dayton	107.0
Cornell	107.0	Wyoming	107.0
Colgate	107.0	Arizona	107.0
Dartmouth	107.0	Stanford	107.0
Harvard	107.0	Southern Cal.	107.0
Brown	107.0	California	107.0
Rutgers	107.0	Washington	107.0
Temple	107.0	Wisconsin	107.0
Boston Col.	107.0	Purdue	107.0
Holy Cross	107.0	Rice	107.0
Detroit	107.0	Houston	107.0
Villanova	107.0	Illinois	107.0
Miami (O.)	107.0	Indiana	107.0
Dayton	107.0	Iowa	107.0
Wyoming	107.0	Kansas	107.0
Arizona	107.0	Michigan	107.0
Stanford	107.0	Minnesota	107.0
Southern Cal.	107.0	Ohio State	107.0
California	107.0	Oklahoma	107.0
Washington	107.0	Kansas St.	107.0
Wisconsin	107.0	Colorado	107.0
Purdue	107.0	Navy	106.1

Copyright 1954 by United Sports Research Service

"What Was Wrong With Charlie's Crack About Dogs?"

NOT ALL GREEN

Although most people picture Jack as leafy green, it ranges from white to spinach. There is a white variety, chlorometanite, and occasionally yellow, blood red, or mauve pieces are found. Jade may be transparent or opaque, plain or mottled.

The Soo Canal between Lake Superior and Lake Huron is sometimes called the "billion dollar mile."

Expert Shoe Repairs
PALACE SHOE SHOP
established 1914
across from the Post Office
121 PARK AVE.

Emergency Service Via Radio Begins At Alligator Point

Emergency message service to from Alligator Point has been offered by Dick Durant, maintenance superintendent of the Florida State University Oceanographic Institute, according to a recent report.

Durant, an amateur radio operator, recently bought himself a two-way "ham" radio. The report said that federal regulations forbids Durant to transmit routine messages, but allows him to send emergency messages.

A university staff worker, Durant said he would be happy to put his radio to use fo anyone living, vacationing or spending the day at Alligator Point in the event of an emergency.

The other end of the two-way system is the FSU Electronics Laboratory on West Campus.

• A complete Dry Cleaning Service
• Guaranteed Dry Cleaning
• Repair Service
Phone 2-0652
"JUST ACROSS THE STREET FROM SEARS"
"Serving Since 1926"
SUPERIOR CLEANERS
308 S. Monroe

Letters To The Flambeau . . .

A Committee for Interracial Study?

To the Editor:

The Flambeau is to be complimented for its fine editorial of last Tuesday in which it discussed the position taken by our state government in relation to the Supreme Court decision regarding segregation in the schools. The brief filed by Attorney General Ervin is a tribute to the open-minded attitude taken by our civic and governmental leaders. And we Floridians cannot but be proud that we have taken another positive step toward the attainment of one of our cherished democratic goals.

The formal declaration of our willingness to achieve de-segregation in the schools places the responsibility on each of us, individually and collectively, to work actively to solve the tremendous problems which lie in our path. Attorney General Ervin has recommended that de-segregation be a "gradual and lengthening process." It is clear, to all of us, Negro and white alike, that the goal will not be reached within a few weeks or months. On the other hand, we cannot be complacent, we can no longer "let this problem work itself out," we must start to work on these problems, together, now.

We as students can make a major contribution to this work. The Flambeau's editor wisely points out that we live in an atmosphere of rationality away from the frictions and antagonisms. However, I do not agree that it should be primarily the responsibility of the administration to "foster practical attitudes towards de-segregation." This is something that we ourselves can do.

It seems to me that at the basis of these problems we face is a need for more person-to-person contacts between members of the two races. It will only be through such contacts that we shall arrive at a realistic understanding of our common needs and desires, our uniqueness and our differences, and it is only through such a realistic understanding of each other that we will be able to solve our problems in peace and harmony.

It is with this frame of reference in mind that I suggest to our student government and to all interested students that we here at FSU form an Interracial Study Committee. Such a committee could set up a continuing series of conferences to which we could invite similar groups of Negro college students. Here we could meet together and discuss our common problems, with the objective of working toward a practical method of racial integregation in the schools.

ROBERT M. HILARIDES.

Rat Court

Fellow Students:

The first Rat Court, last week, was quite successful, in spite of the opinion of one frustrated journalist. We are confident that if the interest, enjoyment and good spirit which prevailed in the first court continues, FSU's unique system of Freshmen orientation will improve even more.

Naturally, some errors have been made, but we are planning to have all minor points of injustice cleared up so that no upperclassmen will find it necessary to write or talk in such a way as to hurt the effect of the orientation program.

Freshmen, always consider the source of information before you reach a conclusion. A small minority of individuals are seeking attention with, perhaps, some purpose in mind, disregarding the fact that they may be stifling an objective which is, conceivably, greater than a personal objective.

Hasing, which is done on a very small scale here, is a traditional aspect of college life. We don't ask the University for any rigid enforcement of the "Rat Rules." All we hope for is good sportsmanship on the part of everybody involved—all of the students. And incidentally, if an upperclassman doesn't agree with the practice being used, since it isn't affecting him in any way, it is very easy to ignore the matter completely unless he has something constructive to say or do.

As one campus politician so aptly quoted last spring, "He who throws mud may not only miss the mark, but also get his hands dirty."

PAUL ORT,
Sophomore Class
President.

Football Seating

To the Editor:

I was wondering if a letter from my echo-chamber, another from my senator, additional ones from my parents, teachers, and employer, and a sworn affidavit duly notarized, each stating that I am a student of FSU this semester, along with the statement that I have to obtain with a good deal of trouble and inconvenience, would be sufficient to allow me to see the remaining football games on our campus. You will pardon me for foretelling to mention my ID card; I have one of those too.

I realize that I am being somewhat sarcastic, but I get angry due to all of the red tape involved everytime I go to a football game. It is much easier for people not connected with the University to get into a game than it is for us students. And I should like to know the justification for charging full price for date tickets. Athletic officials use the argument that it costs money to have cold heads come over to play us, that is true, but it is also true that we students and our families pay taxes to the state which in turn appropriates money to the educational institutions with money the University takes in, which your fiscal officer always conveniently underestimates in order to get larger appropriations. Why should we students have to pay such a large student activity fee and then turn right around and pay the same for things which officials use for argument that it costs money to have cold heads come over to play us, that is true, but it is also true that we students and our families pay taxes to the state which in turn appropriates money to the educational institutions with money the University takes in, which your fiscal officer always conveniently underestimates in order to get larger appropriations. Why should we students have to pay such a large student activity fee and then turn right around and pay the same for things which officials use for argument that it costs money to have cold heads come over to play us, that is true, but it is also true that we students and our families pay taxes to the state which in turn appropriates money to the educational institutions with money the University takes in, which your fiscal officer always conveniently underestimates in order to get larger appropriations. Why should we students have to pay such a large student activity fee and then turn right around and pay the same for things which officials use for argument that it costs money does?

Then too if you wish to sit with someone you have to go to a megamammy of trouble running around trying to find everyone in your party in order to get their booklets and get the bracs. Often we don't know who we are going with until just before the game then we never get to sit together, which adds greatly to the enjoyment of the game.

I frankly think that the system used last year worked much smoother and everyone I have heard discussing the situation was much better satisfied with it. Officials have used the argument that they wish to give townspeople the opportunity to obtain tickets the students don't use. Except for the Georgia game this year there have been and will be plenty of seats for them. Fully half of the crowd at that game came to see Georgia play, and not FSU.

One more question that puzzles me. Why is it that I as a student can buy a ticket on the 50 yard line the day before or of the game, yet when I go to get tickets several days before I get stuck on the 20 yard line. That has happened to students who for some reason don't pick up tickets by the imposed deadline have to pay for them. That is very considerate, don't you think?

What happened to the notice that appeared in the papers that upperclassmen would be given the better seats? I am a Senior, have waited in line on Wednesday for every game, and I have yet to get one better than the 15 yard line.

Very truly yours,
J. D. BOWIE

Pi Phi's Contribution

To the Editor:

We, the Pi Phis of FSU, would like to take this chance to explain our new Campus Chest project. Our plan this year is that each member of our sorority shall donate one dollar to the charity drive, since that is the overall campus goal per person. This dollar must be saved by giving up something that hurts a little.

It is interesting to see what things are most important to "arrow" girls. One girl is giving up her monthly hair cut. (Oh well, what is shaggy hair, if it's for a good cause.) A nightly visit to the Union Soda Fountain House will be forsaken for seven nights to form another girl's contribution. A dime store tube of lipstick instead of a more expensive one-lasts saves another dollar for Campus Chest. The sacrifice of one bobby record (how will she survive?) and a dollar's worth of cigarettes is also being done.

Savins money by giving up a luxury seemed to us to be in keeping with the spirit of Campus Chest, reminding us that the contributions of our people so much less fortunate than we. We hope to reach our goal this year, not by work, but by will power.

THE PI PHIS

The Main Event

To the Editor:

The main event was in full swing. Everyone had their full attention focused on the gentlemen in the ring. FSU was ahead on points. The crowd sensed a knockout.

The "knockout", however, came from a different source. Overtaken with excitement, or was it the result of too much "spirit", some overenthusiastic gladiators thought that the ring should pick up the audience so that they could say "hello" to Mother, Father, and Aunt Jo. Right for the camera started the action in the stands. Before anyone could shake the scene, a few of our more youthful students started to make with the fisticuffs. Even a shoe or two was thrown into the masses.

Before the "cops" could move in, a few of the stalwarts looked as if a Haviam gang had worked them over with their brass knuckles.

This farce set did not fare so well either. Besides being insulted by the machinations of such playful boys, they were stepped on and mauled as if its Amboy Dukes had just passed through.

It also was observed that one of the more aggressive semi who was in the middle of everything, played a disappearing act when "Tallahassee's Finest" finally arrived. It shows exactly what the color of this gualliet is like inside. Need more be said?

I would advise these active gentlemen to form a boxing club of some kind. The way they all went to work, perhaps FSU could become the college boxing center of the world.

WILLIE SMITH

Enjoy GOOD RIDING
Trot-A-Way Stables
Old St. Augustine Road
INSTRUCTION - BOARDING - TRAINING
Dial 2-8535
Capt. G. A. Tascot G. A. "T" Tascot, Jr.

AIR CONDITIONED
STATE Theatre
HIGH-FIDELITY PICTURES
Today & Tomorrow
"Silver Lode"
JOHN PAYNE
Sunday & Monday
"Duel in the Jungle"
with
DANA ANDREWS

FLORIDA
Today Thru Tuesday
"The Egyptian"
EDMUND PURDOM
VICTOR MATURE
MICHAEL WILDING
JEAN SIMMONS
GENE TIERNEY
BELLA DARVI

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Today & Tomorrow
"Jack McCall, Desperado"
George Montgomery
PLUS
"Killers From Space"
Peter Graves
Sunday & Monday
'Plymouth Adventure'
with Spencer Tracy

SUNNY SOUTH'S OUTDOOR
Today & Tomorrow
"Overland Pacific"
Jack Mahoney
—plus—
"Crazylegs"
Elroy Hirsch
Sunday & Monday
"Act of Love"
with Kirk Douglas

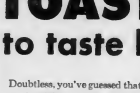
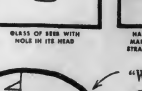
AROTC Promotions For Sixteen Cadets Made By Campbell

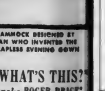


New appointments to temporary rank and promotions in the Air Force ROTC squadrons were made recently by Lt. Col. Paul W. Campbell, Professor of Air Science. All are seniors and are in their last year of AFROTC training. It was noted. They are:

Cadet Chaplains John P Casbergua, Robert N Clarke, Raymond L. Koehler, George C. Martin Jr., John N. Rooney, Richard N. Wagner Deem C. Paul, William C. Sandel, Anthony J. Wheat, Erich R Weber, Thomas E. Perkins III and J. T. Williams Jr.



Cadet First Lieutenants are David Cutting, Richard D. Ireland, Clyde N. Walker and James H. Tanaka.



DUVAL'S JEWELRY
FINE DIAMOND BUYS
As Little as $2 Down on Fine Diamonds Up to $100
Your Credit Is Good,
So Come in and Use It.
"It's Smart for All to Shop Duval."
Phone 2-2811 104 College Ave.

Kopecka Diamond Rings
Bulova & Elgin Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 E. Monroe St. Phone 5-1447

TOMATO SANDWICH MADE BY AMATEUR TOMATO SANDWICH MAKER

GLASS HOUSE OWNER BY MAN WHO NEVER HEARD OF OLD PROVERB

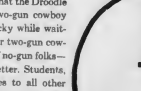
OUTSIDE WORLD AS SEEN BY LITTLE MAN LIVING IN BEER CAN

RICH SARDINE WITH PRIVATE CAN

What makes a Lucky taste better?

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

Doubtless, you've guessed that the Droodle at the right is: Careless two-gun cowboy enjoying better-tasting Lucky while waiting in ambush. Lots of other two-gun cowboys—and many millions of no-gun folks—agree that Luckies taste better. Students, for example, prefer Luckies to all other brands, according to the latest, biggest, coast-to-coast college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason is that Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike is the cigarette of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.



"WHAT'S THIS?" asks ROGER PRICE author of The Rich Sardine for solution and paragraph at left

GOT A LUCKY DROODLE?
If you've got a Lucky Droodle in your noodle, send it in. We pay $25 for all we use, and also for many we don't use. Send as many as you like with your descriptive titles to: Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.
*DROODLES, Copyright, 1954, by Roger Price

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
CIGARETTES

A.T.Co. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

GLASS OF BEER WITH HOLE IN ITS HEAD

HAMMOCK DESIGNED BY MAN WHO INVENTED THE STRAPLESS EVENING GOWN

TODAY THRU WEDNESDAY
ADULTS 50c
ALL CHILDREN 14c
ONLY CINEMASCOPE COULD ENCOMPASS THIS WONDER OF WONDERS!
20th Century Fox presents DARRYL F. ZANUCK'S production of
THE EGYPTIAN
COLOR by DE LUXE
The Dancing Slave Girls! The Thundering Chariots!
The Golden Gods! The Anointed Pharoohs!
The Legions of the Hittites!
The Glories and Transgressions of Egypt,
3300 Years Ago!
The story of Sinuhe, The Egyptian who forsook eternity for the perfection of love!
Photographed with the revolutionary lens in CINEMASCOPE
JEAN SIMMONS · VICTOR MATURE · GENE TIERNEY · MICHAEL WILDING · BELLA DARVI · PETER USTINOV and EDMUND PURDOM as "The Egyptian"
Screenplay by MICHAEL CURTIZ · Screen Play by PHILIP DUNNE and CASEY ROBINSON COMFORTABLY AIR-CONDITIONED
FLORIDA
—SEE IT FROM THE BEGINNING—
Features Start This Program at:
1:40 — 4:10 — 6:40 — 9:10
SHOWING AT OUR REGULAR LOW CINEMASCOPE PRICES

Sophomore Hop Date Is Changed

The date for the Sophomore Hop has been changed from October 30 to November 8, according to Ruth Williams, Sophomore Class Social Chairman.

The change was made because there were many other activities scheduled for the original date involving sophomores.

The Freshman-Sophomore Field Day is still to be held on October 30.

Men's 'F' Club Elects Bod Hudson, President

Bob Hudson was elected president of the newly-formed men's "F" Club at its last meeting of the previous semester.

Other officers selected for this year were Carlos Fraundorfar, vice-president; George Carnes, secratary; Rick Benson, treasurer; Max Long, program chairman; and Lee Corso, social chairman.

The meeting scheduled for tonight has been postponed till next Tuesday due to conflict with rush week activities.

Nobody's Umpiring

(Continued on Page 2)

heart broken . . . not too heartbroken.

SURFACE NOISE:

One of the most popular teen-age idols was found at a hotel fire standing in his robe. Next to him was the leader of his fan club; a contest winner for a date with him. She too had a robe on. The reporters to keep the girl's name out of the paper didn't print the article, but the idol's press agent kept trying to get it in. Nice love affair, eh?

Jane Powell is set for the altar with Pat Nerney, the former husband of Mona Freeman (a likeness, no? Jane, if you fans remember, divorced Gerry Steffen to marry Gene Nelson He went back to his wife and there she stood, with divorce papers in her hand. Susan Hayward and Jeff Chandler have resumed dating after many years. When they were in Brooklyn together, Ira Grossel (Jeff) had a crush on Susan Marrener (Susan) but lost touch with each other after they graduated from the Feagin School of Drama and Radio in New York. Grace Kelly and dress designer Oleg Cassini, a regular two-some . . . John Bromfield, divorced from Corrine Calvet, no longer living well . . . Victor Mature's divorce after six years of marriage was quite a shock . . .

I wish FSU's celebrated student pianist would get off that 'holier than thou' kick . . .

Newspaper Game

(Continued on Page 2)

ing left to do (dangerous as it is) but "cut."

Now, there are two ways to cut a story. One is the line-here-line-there method, which necessarily often does a certain violence to the writer's style; then there is the one-big-chunk method, which tends to be cleaner but more drastic. Different stories, of course, lend themselves more to one method than the other. But also the verbal surgeons themselves have leanings. Just as no two writers will write a story the same way, nine times out of 10 no two cutters will cut a story the same way. Though perhaps only cutters recognize the fact, cutting is an act of negative creation and consequently a very individual affair. It should be said, too, that under pressure even the most picky cutter tends to favor excising whole paragraphs or lopping off the ends of paragraphs. The deletion of a single word at the start of a paragraph will often necessitate having the printer "reset" it all, whereas working from the bottom up is like slicing off pieces of cream cheese.

That's the problem when the story is what the editor calls "strong." When the story is short, it is quite different. If it is not overly short—say, only a few lines short—the empty space can be "eaten up" by slipping pieces of lead or cardboard between the lines. That is why on occasion readers see some columns in a newspaper looking more "open" than others. There is a saying among printers that a newspaper couldn't be printed without "cardboards." But, if the empty space is too great to be "eaten up" this way, another bet short of writing more copy is enlarging the art work in the vicinity, still another is filling in with some small, pertinent separate item. In the Book Review, the editor can occasionally solve this difficulty and at the same time perform a service by placing an "Author's Query" at the bottom of a story.

Making everything fit in a newspaper is something like writing a sonnet. The mechanical rules are frighteningly strict, but having to abide by them sharpens the wit and often sharpens the product.

—From Topics of the Times.

THEY'RE ON THE WAGON

(ACP) — At Hardin-Simmons University, pranksters dismantled a full-size chuck-wagon, then caried it piece by piece to the third floor of a classroom building where they reassembled it and left it for morning classes.

They did the complete job without benefit of lights.

Marines Seeking Candidates For Platoon Leaders Classes

Marine Corps Officer Procurement Officer has announced that applications are now being accepted from students who desire to earn a commission in the Marine Corps while completing college.

Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors, pursuing a course of study other than pre-medical, pre-dental, theology, pharmacy or music, are being selected for the Platoon Leaders Class. All training is conducted during two six week summer classes. Candidates receive $149.05, as pay, for the first class and $183.45 for the second class. Uniforms, food and travel allowances are also furnished. Members of the Platoon Leaders Class are deferred from induction. Commissions are tendered upon graduation from college.

Seniors and graduates may apply for the OFFICER CANDIDATE COURSE. Commissions are tendered to candidates who successfully complete a ten-week training class after graduation from college. Mid-term graduates are now being enrolled for the 13th OCC which convenes March 1955. Candidates eligible for the 13th class must be graduated by Feb. fifteen.

Training for both programs is conducted at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia. Successful candidates are appointed to commissioned rank in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve and must agree to serve on active duty for three years.

Officers commissioned through either program are initially assigned to the Officer Basic School, also at Quantico, for five additional months of instruction. Many officers then receive specialist training in various fields including aviation, artillery, tracked vehicles, supply, engineering and others.

The Marine Officer Procurement Office will visit the campus during the school year, however, anyone interested may see or write to Captain F. R. Hittinger Jr., Officer Procurement Officer, Room 547, Peachtree-Seventh Building, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia.

Group To Talk On Journalism, Good Or Bad?

Five Florida State University professors and a Tallahassee Democrat executive will take part in a panel discussion titled "What's Right, What's Wrong with Journalism?" Thursday, October 21, at 7 p.m. in the Student Lounge of the Alumni Building.

Dr. Malcolm Parsons, from the Department of Public Administration, Mr. Stephen Winters, assistant professor of geology, and Dr Lewis Killian of the Sociology department will give their opinion of "What's Wrong with Journalism" Prof William Slaughter and Dr. Sidney Kobre from the School of Journalism and Mr. Malcolm Johnson, former Florida AP head and presently associated with The Tallahassee Democrat, will defend the journalism profession.

Sigma Theta, Journalism Club, is sponsoring the panel discussion, which is open to students and faculty.

New officers of Sigma Theta include president, Jean Carr; secretary, Quinton Moore, and Treasurer, Addie Summers. Social chairman is Kathleen Jones; program chairman, Betty Bishop, and publicity chairman, Mac Hardeo. Dr. Sidney Kobre is faculty advisor.

Soviets Differ

(Continued from page 1)

is to live up to agreements, said Scott, while the Russians feel the agreement is no longer valid when the constellation of forces changes.

Although Russia is re-opening doors to large numbers of foreign delegations, Scott revealed that the discontented majority of the Soviets are segregated where such delegations will not come into contact with them. Scott said that Moscow and such centers are largely populated with people the government wishes the visitors to see and interview.

As told by Scott, his tour of the Middle East revealed that Russia now controls one-third of the 34 daily newspapers in Syria, making the Syrian press practically a communist news organ.

According to Scott, the Russians are also doing their best to convince about a billion people in southeast Asia, Africa, and the Middle East, that they are objects of western imperialism.

He referred to the recent U. S. trade and alliance agreements and told how the Soviet Union is using them for propaganda purposes.

Scott returned only two weeks ago from his tour of the Middle East.

PI KAPPA PHI INITIATES

Recently initiated as brothers into Pi Kappa Phi fraternity were Wally Reichert, John Adams and Bill Boatwright.

Mademoiselle's New Board Contest Starts

For the college girl who would rather pick her future than drift into a job, Mademoiselle magazine is sponsoring a College Board Contest.

This contest gives the girls who win, according to reports, a chance to go to New York, transportation paid, to spend the month of June, on salary, in the Mademoiselle offices.

Twenty guest editors from all over the country will work side by side with the magazine editors, helping to write and illustrate the 1955 August College issue.

They will interview celebrities, visit advertising and publishing offices, attend fashion openings, the theater, and parties as highlights of their visits it was noted.

A prerequisite to becoming a guest editor is being a college board member. On the college board, the student is given three assignments which may win $50 for them or be published in the magazine. From these college board members, the guest editors are picked.

To be eligible, one must be a woman student enrolled in an accredited college and under 26 years of age.

Entrants must write a 1,500 word criticism of Mademoiselle's August, 1954, issue, or if they cannot find that issue, may use the September, October or November issues.

First the issue as a whole must be discussed—what is good or bad and suggestions for changes—then select the field that is most of interest and criticize it in detail.

A sample of the applicant's work may be submitted also on a separate page the name, class year, college, home address, major and minor, extra curricular activities and summer jobs of the applicant must be listed.

Entries are due at Mademoiselle College Editor, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York, prior to November 30, 1954.

Simpson Elected Proxy Of Phys Ed Association

Shirley Simpson was recently elected president of the Florida State University Physical Education Association, The Florida Flambeau has learned.

Other officers are A. J. Bassett, vice-president, Pat Rooney, secratary; Betty Evans, program chairman; Doris Holt, social chairman, and Ann Grayson, publicity chairman.

Non-Student Help

(Continued from page 1)

cents per hour and receive their money in the form of meal ticket. Non-students are paid 60 cents per hour. For banquets, both students and non-students receive 78 cents per hour.

The Labor, Student Services, and Education Committee of the Student Senate, headed by Senator Joan Halford, is conducting a study of the food service organization. A preliminary report was given at a regular session of the Student Senate on October 6. Concern over the food service set-up was voiced by many Senators during the discussion. According to Halford, Miss Tracy said the food services have no intention of not using student help.

Halford reported that about 75 per cent of all student assistants have officially been found to do satisfactory work. She enlightened the Senators on procedures whereby a student assistant can appeal through the office of Dr. Glover E Tully, director of vocational guidance and placement, if he feels he has been dismissed unjustly.

The food services director admitted a 50 per cent mark-up on most items, Halford revealed.

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY!
THIS COUPON
GOOD FOR... $1.00
On the Purchase of Any
• SKIRT • SWEATER
• BLOUSE • SPORTSWEAR
Selling for $5.00 or More
Linden's
"TALLAHASSEE'S LEADING APPAREL SHOP"

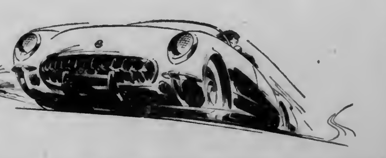
Talquin Inn
FINE FOODS
WONDERFUL SEAFOODS
AIR-CONDITIONED

Our Specialty
Choice Steaks
Private Dining Rooms
For Parties and Banquets
HOURS
Week Days 5:00 P. M.—1:00 A. M.
Sunday—12:30 P.M. — 1:00 A. M.
FOR RESERVATIONS CALL
2-9041
Harry A. Taylor, Prop.
NEW QUINCY HWY.
Intersection of Hwys 90 and 20

STUDENTS - - -

It's MOON'S for Fraternity and Sorority Gifts of All Kinds . . .
Also for Watches and Fine Diamonds.
Moon's Jewelry Co.
105 E. College Avenue

as advertised in Seventeen



Tramp along happily
IN Penobscot
TRAMPEZE

7.95
CROWN NEOLITE SOLES
• Gold Suede • Brown Calf
• Black Suede • Black Calf
• Brown Suede • Ivory Calf
• Grey Suede • White Buck
Strickland's
fashion in footwear
on college avenue

If you drive for the sheer zest of it you owe yourself this hour!

If your hands rejoice in the precise balance of a fine gun or the sweet response of a racing sloop . . . then you owe yourself an hour with the Chevrolet Corvette.

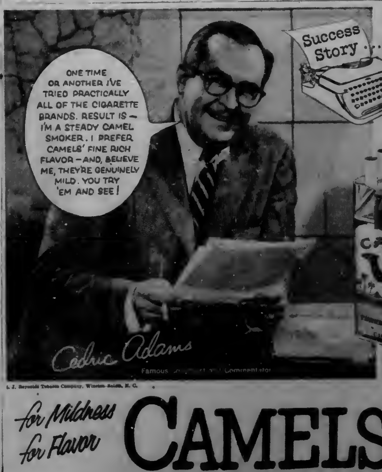
You'll find it is, quite literally, like no other car in the world—a heart-lifting blend of the true sports car with all that is best in American engineering.

There is the velvet smoothness of a Powerglide automatic transmission (but with the classic floor selector-lever).

The trouble-free durability of a Chevrolet "Blue-Flame" engine (but with three side draft carburetors to unleash its flashing 150 horsepower).

The ruggedness of an X-braced box girder frame (but with the astonishing impact resistance of a glass-fiber-and-plastic body).

Luxurious seating for driver and passenger in deep foam rubber (but cradled in the traditional security of bucket seats).



Generous luggage room, the panoramic sweep of a deeply curved windshield, the flair of tomorrow's styling (but within the polo-pony compactness of a real road car).

The Corvette blends all this and more. For it is a driver's car . . . a low-slung torpedo with a center of gravity only 18 inches above the concrete . . . with outrigger rear springs that make it hold to the road like a stripe of paint . . . with a 16 to 1 steering ratio that puts needle-threading accuracy at your finger tips.

Frankly, the Corvette is a "limited edition," made only in small numbers. It is intended only for the man or woman to whom driving is not just transportation but an exhilarating adventure, a sparkling challenge to skill and judgment. If you are one of these, then you owe yourself an hour with a Chevrolet Corvette.

Call us now and let us set up a demonstration run . . . for in a short 60 minutes you can discover that motoring has a whole new dimension of delight.

Make a date to drive the Chevrolet Corvette
150-h.p. overhead-valve engine with three side draft carburetors • Four-leaf outrigger springs in rear • Powerglide automatic transmission • Center-Point steering, 16 to 1 ratio • Form-fitting individual seats • Full instrumentation, with tachometer, oil pressure gauge, and ammeter.

...and how it started

CEDRIC ADAMS says: "When I was at the University of Minnesota, learning to be a reporter for the Daily, I lived on peanut butter sandwiches. It took me nine years to graduate (with time out to earn tuition!) When I married and went to work as a cub for the Star, I lived on love and macaroni. I worked like a horse writing about everything on earth, before I made the grade as a columnist. Now I'm eating better – even better than a horse!"

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF!

Make the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days – see for yourself why Camels' cool mildness and rich flavor agree with more people than any other cigarette!

SUCCESS STORY: Camels – America's most popular cigarette . . . by far!
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.
for Mildness for Flavor
CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE than any other cigarette!

Foreign Students Attending FSU Get Lasting First Impressions

Local Organizations To Aid International Club Get 'Oriented'

By JAYLEEN ROBERTSON

La[illegible] impressions as well as first impressions of the American way of life will mean more to students from abroad attending Florida State University this year according to Sam Baptista, FSU's first full-time foreign student adviser.

Baptista feels that many foreign students come to universities in the United States and get a good education and picture of American life on a college campus but that some return to their own countries without ever having visited an American home or knowing much about the American community.

The International Student Club at FSU will work with the Rotary and Women's Clubs of Tallahassee this year in an effort to bring about better mutual understanding of "home life" here and abroad. Students from abroad will spend the seasonal holidays in homes of Tallahassee townspeople.

Among the first impressions some of the international students have received are those of Miss Samonsri Bunnag from Bangkok, Thailand.

When asked if she found any major differences between FSU and Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok where she was an undergraduate, Miss Bunnag commented on the manners of American students in the classroom.

"The teacher does not seem to mind the manners of students," she said. "In Bangkok we must stand when the professor enters the room and remain in a straight position while seated for lecturing. Here, she continued, "the students are allowed to put their feet on the chairs and lounge."

The Thailand student pert and pretty said she found FSU very friendly but the dating customs different. Miss Bunnag said [illegible] and boys in her home [illegible] may go [illegible] in groups but couples may never go [illegible] alone.

As for music, Miss Bunnag prefers [illegible] classical [illegible] and is not particularly fond of American jazz.

Miss Bunnag is one of 20 students from Thailand attending FSU this year. This is the largest group ever representing one foreign country in a single year at the University.

Khaloof A. Al-Jada'an, [illegible] the first FSU student from Iraq. Hailing from Baghdad, Al-Jada'an is a graduate student studying social welfare and community organization.

Complimented on his fluency in speaking the English language, Al-Jada'an explained that English is compulsory in Iraq, and that all students study the language in primary, intermediate, secondary and university schools.

Al-Jada'an plans to return to Iraq when he completes his education at FSU and work for the Office of the Ministry of Social Affairs in organizing rural communities.

Both Miss Bunnag and Al-Jada'an said they are particularly pleased with the wide variety of courses offered at FSU. They commented on the lack of elective courses in universities in their homelands.

Another newcomer to FSU is Miss Lourdes Hilario Mendoza from Tondo, Manila, in the Philippine Islands. Miss Mendoza is a graduate student doing intern work in dieties and plans to be a dietician when she returns to the Philippines.

A total of 124 students from 45 countries have enrolled here in the past month, 70 of whom will return to their homelands after completing their education. Thirty-six of the 124 are [illegible] and plan to apply for United States citizenship while the remaining 18 are students from U. S. possessions.

In addition to Baptista's idea for giving students from abroad a better impression of American home life, plans are currently under way to sponsor a Tallahassee Day for the international students.

Tallahassee Day will be set aside for official get-togethers between the students from abroad and members of the local community.

A TRIO of FSU foreign students and Sam Baptista, foreign student adviser, look up at the new Westcott Auditorium. Left to right, Baptista; Khaloof A. Al-Jada'an, Bakhdad; Samonsri Buonag, Thailand; and Lourdes Mendoza, of the Philippine Islands.

The U.S. Olympic Teams need your support

Send a contribution to
U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM FUND
848 North Michigan Ave., Chicago 11, Illinois

Church News

HILLEL

Services will be held Saturday at 9 p.m. at Temple Israel on October 16. Guest speaker will be Rabbi Josephson. An Israeli program will be the main feature of the Hillel group the following night, Sunday, at 8:15 in the Temple.

New officers of the group are President: Alan Cordish; Vice-President: Murray Beerman; Secretary: Alona Godfried; Treasurer: Eva Sass; Social chairman: Marilyn Lloyd; Cultural Chairman: Nathan Soibel; Music Chairmans: Sheldon Torn and Judy Nattulien; Reporters: George Goldstein and Jerome Bernstein.

BAPTIST

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the Baptist Student Union will hold a house party at the Reservation this afternoon and Saturday until 12 noon, according to Director Mary Elizabeth Ainsworth.

The party will leave the Student House at 5:00 p.m. today. Guest at the event will be Mrs. Lloyd Rees, Baptist Student Director of the University of Miami, who will speak on a book Land of Many Worlds about Brazil, said the FSU director. Mrs. Rees will also show slides taken during her recent visit to Brazil.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The Christian Science Organization of FSU holds its weekly meetings on Thursday evenings at 7:00 in Room 217, Music Building. A study room is maintained for all interested in reading material on Christian Science in Room 240 of the Suwannee Room Arcade every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. All students and faculty members are welcome to attend the weekly meetings and to use the study room.

CANTERBURY CLUB

Temporary [illegible] Hall will be open for students only between the hours of 3:00 and 10:00 p.m. The former hours of 7:00 a.m. until dorms close will be resumed when the permanent chaplain arrives in November.

Sunday morning there will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 8:00, and Morning Prayer and the Sermon at 11:00. There will be meeting of the Canterbury Club Sunday night.

METHODIST

Affiliation Sunday for Methodist students will be October 17 at the four local churches in Tallahassee. Buses will leave from the Wesley Foundation to take students to the churches following the Sunday school service at 9:30.

The Deputations committee will take charge of the week's activities at the fellowship hour beginning Monday and Tuesday evenings. Deputation workers will eat supper at the foundation and hold training programs in deputation work.

The programs will be lead by Mrs. James C. Rowan, wife of the pastor of South Side Methodist Church in Jacksonville.

Hartman Seeking Students' Poetry For Anthologies

Students interested in poetry at Florida State University have been invited to submit original verse for possible publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Dennis Hartman, Secretary of the National Poetry Association, said "The recognition afforded by publication will reflect [illegible] on the author as well as the school. Over a hundred thousand manuscripts have been submitted to the association in the past ten years. Of these about 4000 have been accepted for publication."

Manuscripts must be typed or written in ink and must include the student's name, address, name of college and college address. Closing date for submission is November 5.

NEW ADDITION—Construction on the new Kappa Sigma, social fraternity, house will begin soon. Estimated to cost from $110,000 to $125,000, the house will be located at 112 South Woodward Street. It is expected to be completed by the first of May, and will be owned by the chapter.

KA, SAE, ATO Pact Signed; Peace Reigns

Ed. Note: The Florida Flambeau prints the following as a service to the fraternities concerned.

WEST TENNESSEE NON-AGGRESSION PACT

WHEREAS in recent days a tremendous inconvenience and concern has been brought to bear upon members of Kappa Alpha Order and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity as a result of membership of both organizations having trespassed upon the premises of the other resulting in loss of property, including commode seats, cannons, trophies, lions, signs, charters, flags, shields, pictures, scrap books, and other valuable property.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the members of the Gamma Eta Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order, the members of the Florida Beta Chapter of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, and the members of the Epsilon Sigma chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity do hereby and under this seal agree to herein specified provisions of this past, to be known as the West Tennessee Non-Aggression Pact.

Section 1. No member of the Gamma Eta Chapter Kappa Alpha Order, no members of the Florida Beta Chapter of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, and no member of the Epsilon Sigma Chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity shall enter into the home or trespass upon the premises of the other organization and abscond with property belonging to the other under any conditions.

Section 2. This pact shall in no way, however, exclude the right of any of the aforementioned corporations to place paint upon the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Lion located in front of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity House for the express purpose of enhancing its beauty. Nor shall this pact exclude the right of members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity to enhance the beauty of haircuts belonging to members of rival fraternity, should said member be captured in the act of painting the Sigma Alpha Epsilon lion in such a way as to enhance its beauty.

SIGNED SEALED AND WITNESSED ON THIS THE FIFTH DAY OF OCTOBER IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD NINETEEN HUNDRED FIFTY-FOUR BY THE FOLLOWING REPRESENTATIVES OF THE THREE ORGANIZATIONS CONCERNED

SIGNATURES:
Jerry R. Meyer
J. Munday Crews
Lou Hatta[illegible]

Seminole Barber Shop
New, Modern — Air-Conditioned
75c Haircut
75c Shampoo
75c Massage
25c Tonic
65c Shave
652 W. TENNESSEE ST.
OPEN 6 — 6 P.M.

ATTENTION!
INTERNS AND JANUARY GRADUATES
Order Graduation Announcements
Before Leaving Campus
10c each
Sample at UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
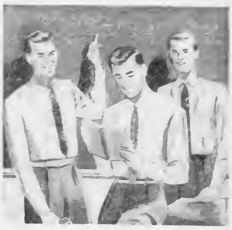
IN THE STUDENT CENTER



Seven Seas

7 DAYS SPECIAL

FRIDAY
TASTY SHRIMP $1.00
French Fries — Chef's Salad
SUNDAY
TURKEY DINNER $1.00
All the Trimmings
TUESDAY
Juicy FILET MIGNON $1
French Fries — Chef's Salad
THURSDAY
SPAGHETTI 85c
Lemon Ice Box Pie

SATURDAY
Half-Fried CHICKEN $1
French Fries — Chef's Salad
MONDAY
VEAL CUTLETS 85c
French Fries — Chef's Salad
WEDNESDAY
PIZZI PIE 85c
Chef's Salad
SPECIAL PRICES FOR BANQUETS

318 South Monroe

Color + collar + comfort =
The right ARROW Shirt for you!

You don't have to be a math major to figure it out. Arrow shirts offer you so many fine colors and patterns in your favorite collars, that it's a breeze to have plenty of style in your wardrobe.

Shown above are, the Sussex button-down in a neat tattersol check, and the smooth Radnor "E" in solid colors. Both $5.00. The goodlooking Arrow Sussex in a well-bred stripe, $4.50. They're comfortable, "correct"—thrifty too.

ARROW SHIRTS & TIES
UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • CASUAL WEAR

We hold a "full house"... of colorful Arrow shirts

Any man can get a hand from the ladies when he spruces up his wardrobe with color. And right here are colors and patterns a-plenty in fine Arrow shirts. Want a check? A stripe? A pale pink? A cool blue? We have 'em, and they're in the collar size and style that's right for you. Get down today—our selection is at its peak. RIGHT NOW! There are Arrow shirts for as little as $3.95.

Mendelson's

JACK WEBB AND BEN ALEXANDER
You know them best as Sgt. Joe Friday and Officer Frank Smith — stars of Chesterfield's award-winning "Dragnet" on TV and Radio. They're now starred in the movies, too, in Warner Bros.' great new picture, "Dragnet."

WHAT A BUY! Chesterfield regular and king-size. (Both at the same price in most places).

Jack Webb and Ben Alexander want what you want from a cigarette. Relaxation, comfort, satisfaction. They know where to find it—because in the whole wide world, no cigarette satisfies like a Chesterfield.

Chesterfields are best to smoke because they alone have the right combination of the world's best tobaccos.

Chesterfields are best for you because they're highest in quality, low in nicotine.

Try a carton of Chesterfields today.

CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU

LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA'S COLLEGES

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The Florida Flambeau

PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1954

VOL. XL, No. 7

Tickets On Sale For Auburn Trip (See below)

Freshman Must File For Elections (See below)

Tickets Being Sold Now For Auburn Game

Buses Will Leave From Gymnasium Saturday, At 7 a.m.

Ticketsfor the Florida State University - Auburn football game October 23 will be on sale through Wednesday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Amphitheater House. Westcott Building and the Student Center, according to Student Affairs spokesman.

The price for a round-trip ticket to and tickets to the game may be bought at the Student Center through Friday for one dollar. All tickets will be for reserved seats.

No tickets may be purchased by a group, such as a fraternity or sorority, which has at least 35 members who wish to go by a total of $700.01, according to the spokesman. In such cases the group should take the money to the office of Mr. Fred Bell, counselor for Student Organizations, in Longmire Basement. A bus will then be ordered.

Individual students will receive a receipt with a bus number printed on it, which must be presented to the bus driver before departure. Buses for the game will leave the Women's Gym at 7 a.m. Saturday, while no buses will take on students and chaperones at the conclusion of the group residence.

The Auburn game weekend is expected to attract more than 5,000 persons to the Plainsmen campus, according to Student Affairs officials.

Student officials said that Auburn will arrive in the Florida capital at about 12 noon. The Auburn-FSU game is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. Buses will leave at 8 p.m. after dinner for students who will have time for the game to view the Auburn campus.

There will be no stop for food on the trip, only rest stops. The University Cafeteria will put up box lunches to be eaten en route, for 50 cents each. Those will include fried chicken and egg salad sandwiches.

Rooms may be reserved at Tallahassee hotels for the Auburn game during eating hours. Only a few rooms will be reserved, which are to be turned in at the departure site Saturday morning. Meal coupons will be required to further the game weekend.

A parade including the FSU band, queen and cheerleaders will be held in Auburn prior to the game.

The trip will be considered a "first trip, and women students are not slated for it. Friday, "Every student is expected to act in such a manner as to be a credit to the university" according to Dr. Katherine I. Mahan, Dean of Women.

Other rules cited are: No drinking by students and no pedestrians will be allowed for games on the busses.

There will be no drinking. Students are expected to occupy 100 per cent. seating capacity assigned to the busses. If a student is not at the bus at the time assigned for departure, the bus will leave without the student. On return, no bus will wait for departure for any student.

Women students making the trip have late permission until 2 a.m. Sunday.

Arrangements for the trip are being handled by the Senate Social and Recreation Committee headed by Jimmy Joanos. Other committees working on the project are being with chairmen as Recreations, Joan Tavel; Arrangements, Margaret Ann Bellamy and Tickets, Fred Manley.

COMMITTEEMEN SPEAK TO YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Young Democratic Club of Florida State University will sponsor a forum tonight which will include addresses by Leon County Democratic Chairman Victor Cawthon, and Charlton L. Pierce, member of the Democratic committee, according to Dave Kennedy, president.

Everyone is invited to attend this meeting, to be held Tuesday at 7:30 in Longmire Auditorium.

Stokes Sets Deadline For Sandspur Scripts

The deadline for all Sandspur copies is October 26, announced Patricia Stokes, chairman. The Sandspur will be announced November 3.

Dean Teal has been appointed to the script committee, and the fiction and speech departments will aid in the judging.

Tryouts have been tentatively scheduled for the second week in November, but students are requested to watch The Florida Flambeau for the exact date.

Flambeau staff photo by Laird Anderson

MUDDLED IN MERINGUE—At least that's what those sorority hopefuls call it as they go all the way to win the pie eating contest in the Sigma Chi Derby held Saturday on the hockey field.

Theta's Place First In Derby; Eiler Named Sigma Chi Queen

The Kappa Alpha Theta sorority garnered 16 points to win the Sigma Chi Derby Saturday afternoon, before a crowd of onlookers numbering an estimated 300.

Second, with 14 points, were the Sigma Kappa's, and third, with 12 tallies, were the Pi Beta Phi's.

Laura Eiler, of Alpha Omicron Pi, was crowned queen of the Sigma Chi dance held that night in the Student Center to climax the day of fund-raising for the Campus Chest. Jean Hayden, of Pi Beta Phi, was runner-up.

Judges for the contest in which the events took place were Miss Jane Adams, director of Longmire Building; Dr. Jimmy Carr, assistant dean of men; Dr. Paul Reynolds, assistant dean of the college of arts and sciences, and Col. Phillip S. Greene, professor of military science and tactics.

Mr. Stephen Winters, assistant professor of geology, was master of ceremonies at the Dance.

Sigma Chi Derby chairman Graham Carothers told THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU that $38.89 was raised for the Campus Chest during the afternoon.

In the first event, an obstacle race, Kappa Alpha Theta came home first in the person of Pat Meredith. The Tri Delts came in second. Alpha Gamma Delta is third, and Sigma Kappa fourth.

Kappa Delta captured the second event, a pie-swallowing contest with Shirley Sasser outclassing the Chi Omegas, Kappa Alpha Thetas and Alpha Delta Pi entries in that order.

Three Sigma Kappas ran head-to-head across the line in the third event to place ahead of Delta Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta and Pi Beta Phi, the order they were placed.

Pat Peters, Alpha Chi Omega soloist, won event number four, a singing contest. Near her, Pi Beta Phi placed second, Delta Gamma third, and Alpha Omicron Pi fourth.

Carmine Ranieri, of Alpha Gamma Delta, outclassed Chi Omega, Kappa Kappa and Alpha Xi Delta entries to win a broom hockey contest.

Gamma Phi Beta entries won the sixth event, which the principal requirement was to run themselves into a dizzy condition and then attempt equilibrium by hanging finish the race. Alpha Omicron Pi, Phi Mu and Alpha Gamma Delta placed second, third and fourth respectively.

Future Teachers Abandon FSU For Major 'Internship' Program

The student population of FSU will suddenly shrink by 176 next week-end as 81 sophomores and 83 secondary education interns leave for eight weeks of teaching in respective schools.

This is a requirement of all students working for a teacher's degree in Florida public schools and is usually taken during the senior year.

Among the students interning in elementary education, several times more are assuming duties in primary than in intermediate education, according to Mr. R. R. Schultz, coordinator of placement and visitation of interns, while the most popular subject is English, with social studies and men's physical education following by a small margin.

The interns will scatter to all parts of Florida, with Hillsborough the most popular county, followed closely by Leon, Polk and Pinellas. The interns will return to campus following the Christmas holidays.

Any school may be chosen provided it isn't the one the intern graduated from, said Mr. Schultz. This is because the students and other teachers might tend to think of him as a student rather than a teacher, he explained.

As the borders of expenses falls on the intern, "we do attempt to place them in their home town or where there are relatives," Mr. Schultz said. "Sometimes there is more than one high school in their hometown so the intern could live at home and not have to teach in his old high school," he added.

There are a few interns in the new Demonstration School and local schools, he said, "but this is limited by personal hardship cases or when the situation is such that better than could be found elsewhere."

"We had fewer interns this year than we've had in the past five years," observed Dr. R. L. Goldsberry, director of Student Internship, explaining that this is normal, however, as that age group is smaller right now.

FSU is one of the leaders in this program, according to Dr. Schultz, who says, "Our internship program is one of the oldest and most respected of the best developed in the country."

Body Debates Two Nimkoff Appointments

Appointments of Student Body President Pete Nimkoff will again be debated by Student Senate when it meets tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 in Longmire Building.

Still awaiting confirmation is the appointment of Dave Kennedy to the post of Attorney General, while the Senators have yet to approve the appointment of Germaine Murray to a vacant junior women's Senate seat.

The permanent Elections and Appointments Committee, of which Senator Jim Moore is chairman, is expected to report on these appointments tomorrow, under reconsidering confirmation or rejection. The Moore committee was to meet yesterday afternoon at 5.

While the Kennedy and Murray appointments have been before the Senate several weeks, several other students named to office last spring have yet to be approved by the Moore committee.

Betsy Williams was appointed under-secretary of elections. John M. Smith, Jack Pickett, Hinkie McCullough, Lupita Merritt and Peta Winebrenner were named to the elections committee, and Fred "Pat" Thornton was designated secretary of the organizations.

Confirmation of Dave Kennedy as attorney general was held up Wednesday night when the Moore Committee recommended his appointment be held back in front of Pete Nimkoff with no action either for or against Kennedy.

Moore based his report on a letter from vice-president of men's affairs Gordon Gaster, who complained that he had not been consulted by Nimkoff when the latter made the appointment. Such consultation is required by the Student Body Constitution.

Nimkoff, after consulting with his vice-presidents, set the appointment back to the floor at last week's meeting, when it was again referred to the permanent Elections and Appointments Committee.

Germaine Murray was appointed to the vacant senate seat when senator senator Harry Lindsay did not return to school this semester. Miss Murray was the only seat in the Spring elections last year but was edged out by three other candidates, among them was Miss Dee.

Vice-president Gordon Gaster announced he have the appointment brought out of committee consideration at last week's meeting of Senate, but his motion failed for lack of a two-thirds vote. Committee chairman Moore told the Senate at that time his group would be ready to report at this appointment.

According to vice-president of Legislative Affairs Coyle Moore, who presides over the Senate, the senate may spend time discussing the mass jaunt to Auburn this Saturday.

Freshmen Election Clinic To Be Held After Rat Court

Paul Ort, president of the Student Association, announced that a Freshmen-elections clinic will be held in the Student Center Amphitheater following the second session of rat court at 7:15 p.m. and the Senate session.

Ort urged all freshmen interested in running for class offices to take advantage of the clinic.

"The meeting will be short", he said, "but should be of great benefit to potential politicians."

Several upperclassmen who have been successful in campus elections will be in charge of the instruction, according to Ort.

Chest Grows As Functions Realize Profit

Variety Show Nets $150; Funds Climb In Dormitory Sales

The highest donation so far to the Florida State University Campus Chest charity drive has been made by Sigma Kappa sorority, whose Variety Show Thursday night cleared over $150, according to sorority spokesmen.

In other events held last week, Sigma Chi fraternity donated $40 to the drive as a result of its Derby and dance; and two dormitories reported profits of over $80 each.

At the Sigma Kappa Variety Show, Delta Tau Delta fraternity won first prize with its parody of Swan Lake, while Gamma Phi Beta sorority won women's first prize with a pantomine of "How Could You Believe Me When I Said I Loved You?" Winning sorority in the Sigma Kappa show was Kappa Alpha Theta. Alpha Omicron Pi Laura Eiler was chosen derby queen and crowned at the dance Saturday night.

North Carothers Hall made over $90 for the Chest with its spaghetti supper last week. Freshman president Winnie Altman said that two thirds of the dorms helped in the project and over 200 suppers were sold. "We are very pleased," she said. Co-chairmen were Vivian Campbell and Elvira Alvares.

Chairman Mary Ann Turpin reported that Florida Hall has made $90 so far by selling hot dogs at the football game, to make $150 in all.

Carol Turknett, chairman of the annual Campus Chest Dance, said that turnout was poor at the event. All maintenance, the bands and the dance hall were donated, she said, but the dance still failed to net over $40. "The music was very good, though," she added, "and those that were there had a fine time."

Spokesmen at Bryan Hall said that the dorm's drive netted over $50 for the drive by selling food in the dorm. That amount was raised last year by Bryan.

Reynolds Hall will sponsor a bake supper tonight in the dormitory recreation room from 5 to 7 p.m. Tickets are now being sold for the dorm for 85 cents, and the residents are planning a "wonderful meal" and entertain Helen Nemeth. Food is also being sold to the residents there during the drive and a goal of $100 has been set.

Broward Hall will hold a Variety Show with girls from first floor participating, tonight at 10:30 in the parlor. Tea also have been planned, including dancing, singing, piano playing, baton twirling and a pantomime.

Landis Hall is selling food to residents, as is Gilchrist, Jennie Murphree Hall has started a Book Auction, two box suppers, cookie sale, ice cream sale, carnival, fashion show and a stuffed animal auction, according to spokesmen.

Alpha Omicron Pi Beauty Auction will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Music Building Amphi-

(Continued on Page Four)

"This Could Be Very Interesting"

Frank, Author Of 'Mr. Adam

Mr. Pat Frank, noted author, will be the guest speaker at the Meet the Author Series of the English Coffee Hour Friday, the series committee announced Monday.

The Coffee Hour with be held at the Westminster House from 4 to 5 p.m. All students have been invited to attend. The committee said that the program last week, which featured Mrs Edith Taylor Pope, was well received by an audience of over 200 students.

Mr. Frank is now living in Mt. Dora, Florida and working on his fourth novel. Described by the committee as a celebrated journalist, Frank was a foreign correspondent for New York and Washington dailies during World War II.

Eight years ago his novel, "Mr. Adam", hit the best seller list. The committee said "It is the story of the astonishing results of an atom bomb explosion which blew the slats of Mississippi off the map and left all mates in the world sterile, except one man who was at the bottom of a lead mine in Colorado at the time of the explosion."

"It was up to him to save the human race and so he was taken over by the government for his unique powers. The story is a satire on bureaucracy in government and very humorous."

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM IN ACCOUNTING

Accounting majors applying for positions with the U. S. Department of Accounting must take a Civil Service examination Saturday, November 20, the Office of Veteran Affairs and Placement has announced.

Applications for the test, as well as additional information, may be obtained in the Vocational Guidance Office, 203 Westcott, where they must be filed before October 25.

'Weather Men' Do Research On Hurricanes

The hurricane hunters who tracked the destructive route of "Hurricane Hazel" as it roared into Yankee land has nothing on the hurricane hunters who live in Florida State University.

Dr. Lee Seymour and Dr. Neel Lancer, assistant professors in the meteorology department, who were leading research on hurricanes report that students and members of the meteorology department flew into a couple of hurricanes in their early stages this summer.

One jump ahead of the weather department, they discovered, Hurricane "Carol" before she ever became a full-scale blow. Record on several facts about it, they found her speed to be about 35 miles per hour, according to Dr. Seymour.

When the Navy planes, who are on a constant search for storms during the hurricane season, discovered this "Carol" they found the wind to be 60 miles per hour.

For studying hurricanes in tropical disturbances, the meteorology department uses a B-50 bomber, which is specially designed for this purpose. It has often been called a "flying laboratory."

Surveys are made by the students from the plane to find out what actually goes on in a hurricane, beginning their study when the storm is still small.

At the present time, there is no known process for hurricanes, but new methods may bring about certain preventative measures, sources revealed.

The special work of the Meteorology department is being sponsored by the Air Force of the Air Force Cambridge Center in Cambridge, Mass.

'Declaration of Candidacy' Are Due Tomorrow

Expense Estimates Must Be Turned In Noon, October 29

Freshmen planning to run for class offices in the primary elections on November 2 begin filing their declarations of candidacy tomorrow, according to Betty Jo Grubbs, Secretary of Elections.

Declarations must be filed by next Monday afternoon at 5, the secretary warned. She added that expense estimate blanks listing total estimated expenditures and gifts must be submitted to the elections committee by Friday noon, October 29th.

Active campaigning will begin next Tuesday afternoon at 5, she told The Florida Flambeau. She asked freshmen to comply with the elections rules and not distribute poster or other campaign literature until that time, adding that fines and or disqualification can result from violation of the statutes.

Declaration of Candidacy forms and expense estimate blanks may be obtained at the office of the Director of Longmire Building, Room 207, at 8 a.m., at 10 p.m. on weekdays and 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday, she said. Miss Grubbs added that the completed forms can be turned in there as well, or at the Amphitheater Box office on the second floor of Longmire Building at 5 p.m.

Miss Grubbs stressed the importance of deadlines for declaring candidacy on Monday and submitting expense statements by Friday noon. She requested all candidates to familiarize themselves with the statutes from the Student Government office, as rules governing campaigning and elections are detailed in detail in the statutes.

Miss Grubbs urged prospective candidates that expense limits are set for each presidential candidate, $25 for fraternity aspirants, and $10 for other offices.

Members of the meteorology department flew into a couple of hurricanes in their early stages this summer.

One jump ahead of the weather department, they discovered, Hurricane "Carol" before she ever became a full-scale blow. Record on several facts about it, they found her speed to be about 35 miles per hour, according to Dr. Seymour.

When the Navy planes, who are on a constant search for storms during the hurricane season, discovered this "Carol" they found the wind to be 60 miles per hour.

For studying hurricanes in tropical disturbances, the meteorology department uses a B-50 bomber, which is specially designed for this purpose. It has often been called a "flying laboratory."

Surveys are made by the students from the plane to find out what actually goes on in a hurricane, beginning their study when the storm is still small.

At the present time, there is no known process for hurricanes, but new methods may bring about certain preventative measures, sources revealed.

The special work of the Meteorology department is being sponsored by the Air Force of the Air Force Cambridge Center in Cambridge, Mass.

Gymnastic Enthusiasts Hold Meeting Tonight

SITTING DOWN ON THE JOB—In what officers of Gymnastics never do. Gymnastics, newly organized gymnastics honorary named (Left to Right) Jay Schwartzman, president; Bob Gutting, vice-president; Anita Wall, secretary-treasurer; Jim Moore, treasurer.

BY BOB GUTTING

Gymnastics the new honorary fraternity organized at Florida State last spring, will have a regular meeting Tuesday, 7 p.m. in the Womens Gym, according to Jay Schwartzman, president.

The fraternity is not limited to gymnasts but is open to anyone in the Gymnastics Gymkana organization, he said.

The purpose of the organization, as stated in it's constitution, will be to "promote and maintain an interest in gymnastics, Gymkana, and pageantry, to cultivate an appreciation for sportsmanship, beauty of line, form movement and to promote a fraternal spirit among members of Gymnastics."

Charter members of the FSU chapter include gymnasts Dick Gutting, Don Holder, Dick Dalton, Miles Joe and Carmine Renzana. Larry Weston and Pat Simonetti. Other charter members are Bill Rostafinm and Omer Rabbett, both currently in the Army, and Jack Sharp, now in the Air Force.

Other charter members who are not gymnasts are Jay Schwartzman, Clarence Rice, Mary McKeel, and Mrs. Hartley Price. Who were nominated for membership for active participation and support of Gymkana and gymnastics on campus.

At a meeting last May the first group of pledges were initiated into the organization during an impressive ceremony that

(Continued on Page Four)

Records May Soon Clear Away Yalta Conference Controversy

"Three to three and three to mine," cried the ancient to Macbeth. "And thrice again to make up nine."

It was the late Senator Robert A. Taft, campaigning for re-election in the autumn of 1949, who gave the first respectable voice to the thesis that Yalta split the world—"three to three and three to mine." Since then hundreds of political speechmakers have pictured the meeting of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin on the shores of the Black Sea in 1945 as a huddle of witches on a darkling heath.

Some aspects of the Yalta conference have been kept secret in the archives of the State Department. That has done nothing to dispel the assiduously cultivated idea either that Stalin outsmarted Roosevelt and Churchill, that Roosevelt and Churchill deliberately handed Eastern Europe over to Stalin's enslavement, or that Alger Hiss somehow managed to turn the trick.

Even last year, when Charles Bohlen, the interpreter at Yalta, undertook to dispel the vapors of mystery, his testimony at a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was "secret." It helped little that reporters later peered together from some committee members a tame account of what he had to say.

We do know that failure of all the opensky proposals placed in the Big Four agreement resulted squarely from Soviet refusal to honor the agreement. We do know that Roosevelt at Yalta was dealing with two men grappling for victory and not military allies. No human knew, at the time of Yalta, that the atomic bomb would explode. We had learned at Tarawa and Saipan that Japanese resistance was fanatical and murderous. With intuition of that Japanese militarily expectable, it was of the most vital necessity to keep 1,900,000 Japanese troops on the Chinese mainland. The Chinese Nationalist troops had already been driven back into the remota Southwest and only Russia's entry into the war could keep the Japanese force pinned down in Asia. We lost no love then for the Germans or the Japanese.

That was the setting for agreement that Russia would get the Kuriles, the Southern half of Sakhalin Island and rights to two bases and railways into Manchuria. By the lights of 1945 it was a sound bargain.

As to Europe, we do know that Soviet refusal to permit free elections (guaranteed by the Yalta agreement) was responsible for enslavement of the satellite nations We do know that neither in mood or military strength were we prepared to intercede by force. It may have been unwise, but it was so.

As to the positive good of Yalta, in the same perspective of hindsight, the conference produced the initial condition for creation of the United Nations. It has become fashionable to belittle that organization because neither it nor anything else yet devised by man has been able to shower the seeds of loving kindness on all the nations of the world. But it must not be forgotten that without the United Nations the world might already have been drenched in blood again—beginning with Greece, Iran, Turkey, Trieste, Israel, Indonesia, Korea or Indochina.

We know that long last the State Department is preparing to publish the secret records of the Yalta conference. The first volume, appearing perhaps in December, will include the notes and records of Alger Hiss, now serving his sentence for perjury and swearing he had never slipped secret documents to a prewar Communist spy ring. The mystery of Yalta will be blown away in a blizzard of truth, and the Yalta conference will gradually move into the center of political argument into the calm of vistas of history.

—From The Louisville Courier-Journal

McCarthy And The Educated

A Gallup poll has asked the American public, "Do you think the Senate should or should not give a vote of disapproval of Senator McCarthy?" In one breakdown it showed better educated people more inclined to vote against McCarthy than are those with less formal education.

The vote by education levels:

	College	H. Sch.	Gr. Sch
Should disapprove	55	43	37
Should not	28	37	37
Undecided	17	20	26

Now, if only all peoples were better educated:

Did-la-Ever . . .
Take a walk by the dorm called Landus?
And look up and wonder how those girls can standus.
—Don Rapp

Thurber Unmasked, Confesses Plot

(Ed. note: the astounding of James Thurber and Elliot Arnold have lifted from the NY Herald Tribune all more or less individual themselves.)

Well! Elliot Nugent and I have been exposed at last as the authors of the jacked pack.

In a recent review of "The Male Animal" written for the unavailable and silent Boston Conde Nast, Bob Benchley, Jr., The Playgoer, that valuable journal's drama editor and critic, said that The Playgoer's purse is enabled "Afternoons Admitted to Playhouse Attraction. The performance of the un-American play that we put on by the Laguna Beach Community Players is the proof. The Playgoer's searching analysis:

"But what a shame to turn the top-notch talent at the Playhouse to the preposterous end of a play which holds sincere Americanism up to ridicule.

"The Thurber-Nugent comedy is funny—until the end. Whether the author meant it, the conclusion of three acts, one gets the impression of the play told that as a group, collective truckers, administrators and even realistic fancy wives are harmless in detail, today in the eyes of big business and are unappreciative of the integrity of the teaching profession.

For the most part the characterizations of Professor Tom Turner, "The Male Animal" are valiant, dissolves in the comic-strip problems of the professor and his wife. But the bases of the entire plot is the question of the propriety in class reading of a letter by Bartholomew Vanzetti, who was executed in 1927 with his companion, Nicola Sacco, for a holdup murder in Massachusetts.

"The merits of the Sacco-Vanzetti case are not the issue in this review, but the glorification of a letter which is presented as a monument to the martyrdom of anarchists in a poor taste in this community."

Yuccha! Did I say that? I have gone so long without being detected. Our comedy ran a total of eighteen months in New York in 1940 and 1941, and it has played scores of other cities and towns. It is true that a keen Washington Investigator for "Reports" was through the play when it was produced in the nation's capital a year ago, but he dismissed it briefly, with a tired shrug, as another of the familiar attempts to identify anti-communism with fascism, and his warning was buried in the voluminous pages of "Variety."

Now, that I have been unmasked, I shall, in all modesty, do a full confession. First, should, I want to absolve my colleagues from any and all taint of guilt. The plan to undermine the security of the United States in three acts was entirely my own. I had never knew what was going on.

While it was busy thinking up comic lines and action, I felt I was busy contriving a false premise. My character, Joe Cronin, was simple enough; freedom of speech is a good idea and should be preserved, The message was approximately as subtle as hot-dog and was intended to occupy the attention of audiences while the real propaganda of the play performed its subtle devilry in the back of their minds. My hellish over-all purpose was, of course, to destroy Americanism's faith in revered wives, whom I can't abide, to show that one trustee is as useless as one vice president, and to rear a monument to the martyrdom of anarchists.

The Playgoer missed a couple of other fascinating clues. It worked in, perhaps too subtly my effort to prevent the building of college football stadia, my special pleading on behalf of extra-marital relations, and my attack on the competence of Republican Presidents, which shows up in the line "Hoover can't write as well as Vanzetti," and in people who laughed at that line later thought it over privately and publicly, and joined either the Democratic, or the Communist, or the one I went on at 21 after the play. I couldn't be expected to subscribe everybody.

The clippings from the London Daily News" were sent to me by a friendly gentleman whose name I cherish. And he will obviously bear watching and I don't want him watched. In a most encouraging way the review he wrote, "I do wonder if your drawings are considered shamefully anti-Nazi and anti-Female." They are, indeed, and that is why I call it a brazenly fine four years ago. Professional patriots were clinkins in on me.

One of them had actually sent me with a grim word of warning, an old review in The New Masses" of one of my books containing the line "Thurber has been boring from within for years." My

(Continued on Page 4)

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Monoging Editor

Feature Editor Joyce Porter
Campus Editors Marion Dickson
Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors Jim Joanos, Dick Vickers
Sports Staff Bob Gutting, Alan Williamish, Dave Mackey
Photographer Lacil Anderson

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.
Mary Liz King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff
Circulation Mailing: Mary Pat Murphy
Secretary

Copy Editors Sylvia Parrish, Willie Smith, Bernice Rosenthal, David Dreis
Amusement Editor Frankie Adams
Art Consultant Con Horn
Cartoonist Jerry Gallagher, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jan Bradfield

Advertising Manager
Exchange Editor Irma Cox

National Representative, Inc., 420 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y.

The Florida Flambeau, is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Telephone 5-8000 extension 682
Member Associated Collegiate Press

"Heart Attack. Poor Chap. Send Flowers And Last Him As A Security Measure."

The Lift File

The Cold Season

This is the proper season for the autumn cold, and everyone will naturally has one. The result is as usual, with the sound of the sneeze being heard in the land, and the unfailing fall cries being seen vaguely, as through a burning mist of tears.

Just what causes this common cold still interests all medical scientists who are working the same, but why it should come just now is even more puzzling. The winter cold obviously can be blamed on exposure and that of the spring on going out heedlessly without a coat. The summer one comes, of course, to coincide with the start of the long awaited vacation, and it is a result of nature's peculiar system of checks and balances. But why the autumn cold, the cold which appears in the air as crisp and dry, and when there can be no such simple explanation to either sleet or 98 degree heat? Can it be due to reaction from the summer cold? No, the theory won't fit it cann' although out on the shore of Lake Erie the situation may differ somewhat.

But no matter, for the autumn cold is here, and here it is to stay are the complaints. Loud, and of the truth must be known, both foolish and unwise. For good things can be said of the autumn cold and it is not entirely an evil.

The best time to have the autumn cold is, of course, on a Monday. During the week-end before (the preliminaries cause little discomfort. The cold can be felt creeping its way along, and this can be used as an excuse for not doing disagreeable things. The grass should have been cut on Sunday for the final time this year but with all energy needed for resisting the cold, this necessarily had to wait. So close was the cold on Sunday that it clearly was unwise to go on a picnic with people who talk a great deal, or to assist in moving winter clothing from their mothballs in the attic. The smell of mothballs is overpowering when a cold is coming on and also was unwise to take down the screens on Sunday morning, or to wash the windows, or to help with the housework by doing the dishes. Plumbing the hands in hot dishwater mingles well brine on a high fever and this should be avoided The way in which to spend Sunday when a cold is coming on is to read the newspaper thoroughly, then turn to television, all the time not moving from the most comfortable chair in the house That is real resistance

By Monday the cold has won, and this fact might as well be admitted. Handker- chiefs are taken over the week-end the cold is firmly entrenched. The cold is established until later. It ceases come hard, but this feeling will vanish with the realization that Monday is just the miserable start of another miserable week-end.

The question of whether to start home or not also is a cause for worry, for it is only Monday, and the big things of the week can be considered until later. It is with this decision to stay home that the autumn cold begins to show its real value, to easily pay for itself Breakfast must be delivered in the sufferer's bed, for he is after all, a patient with a disease whose cause is yet unknown.

As every sufferer from the autumn cold is learning again, the only sure cure for a cold is to permit it to run its course, if the patient takes good care of himself he should be on the way

Continued on page 4

Old Rule Book

By JEAN TEDDER

If the gods who begin this time of year to complain about the present women's rules could take a look down on the applied when the male animal was conspicuously absent on this campus, they'd never believe their eyes.

Per instance, the official student handbook used to advise all women attending FSCW each term to bring with them six midi or blouse and pairs of cotton stockings

Mademoiselle downtown would be prematurely gray if this rule were still in effect. "Students must be in the gym wearing proper contract debts in the city." By the by, the "city" of that day had a population of 5,193.

Every afternoon at four parties would be shot to pieces by the rules requiring students to remain in their rooms from 2 to 4 and on Sunday night "proper attire absolute must."

The rule books of this day contain long lists of items unmentionable. Among the things on the black list are:

1. It is forbidden to receive gentlemen callers Indoors except may receive callers anywhere only in the city." Why did Juniors get a special dispensation? Could it be the Dean of Women had designs on Mr. Ed's Junior?

2. It is forbidden to attend card parties or dances.

3. It is forbidden to attend movies except on one specified Monday out of each month unchaperoned may go in groups. Juniors or Seniors may go unescorted. (What a change from the block long lines in front of re old cinema every week-end!)

This rule isn't fathomable but it is intriguing." Attendance at breakfast is required every morning except Monday morning."

These rules are followed by the parenthetical note that "The rules are easy and require only diligence and ladylike deportment."

The Point Is

Southern Neighbor Holds Electio

By BOB FOLSOM

The elections next month have overshadowed another election which will be held at about the same time—that of Cuba's. On November 1st the Cubans will go to the polls to select a president. But thats as far as the democratic processes will prevail.

Whereas it's still a toss-up between Democrats and Republicans here, it's pretty conclusive that General Fulgencio Batista will replace himself as Cuba's president.

In August, General Batista resigned, because their constitution prohibits a man from office in the period of campaigning. He turned the presidency over to Carlos Hevia Castillo, who was Secretary to the President. The constitutional secession calls for the Minister of State to be president, but Castillo resigned, sought and got the resignation of the minister and then named his own man to the post.

In addition to his own Progressive Action party, numerous other parties are supporting him, while the opposition comes from other factions which are not offering too strong a fight. From all indications it would be useless on their part anyway, since the General obviously controls the government, has the army solidly behind him, and generally, has gained much popular support through his economic and social reforms.

Because his rule is so complete, the press, radio and TV do not speak against him. When I visited Havana last year, there was only one paper printed in English, The Havana Post. The closest it came to printing anything anti - Batista was the American baseball scores.

If there is any less closely, you will see an atmosphere of caution. General Batista got the presidency by overthrowing the Socrata government in March, 1952, and since then coups are common in the Latin countries, it's necessary to rule with an iron hand. Uniformed guards are placed outside of Havana's military buildings. At the police headquarters, both in an old, walled Spanish fort, two policemen stand watch with carbines.

For the tourist who does want to concern himself with Cuban politics, there is much to do in Havana. It is still here, there, and the city is quiet and hot. When it rains in Havana all there is a breeze that blows off of the bays a sodden heat. Malecon, a wide boulevard running the length of the city, is the place where the sights are many: the capitol building, modeled after our own, Morro Castle, the fortress of the bay, the main thoroughfare, where apartment of stark, white stone, the born in the signal light. Rum is cheap in Havana, some places, the more cheap one's. Cuba Libres are back in March, 1952, and start to exist in these places, usually form of white rum is sold in bottles, and bottle of cracker going off under a can.

The Dissenter

On Causes, Ideals, Philosophies

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

It's hard for someone who believes in the equality of mankind to understand and comprehend the pollution of the South regarding segregation and discrimination.

People to whom a man's color or national origin or religion is the sole criterion—I am one of them—also have a hard time getting along in places like Baltimore or Detroit or the Pacific Coast or the American Southwest because Negroes are not the only racial group to suffer the hatred of white and Christian fanatics.

Intolerance is something that cannot be explained readily, because it is irrational. Intolerance has no reason, grounded in no fact. Hate abuses form, not logic, discrimination can not easily be reconciled with knowledge.

People who will defend the dignity of other humans less fortunate than they do it sometimes because they spring from races or religions equally subject to prejudice, and can understand only too well what hell it is to be the victim of such hatred. No one has ever been taught by their environment to be amiable against other races and religions and, later in life, can see no reason for intolerance. Still others have minds which are too clear to accept doctrines such as that which says a man must be kept segregated from you because he is black.

They share one belief—that all men are indeed created equal, that they are all indeed endowed with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—unhampered by segregation, discrimination, or other form of arbitrary slavery.

The idea which no man is better than another is explained readily, because it is quite different at all is only a philosophy. It can't be proved. It is a beautiful, wholesome philosophy, and one with the course of time. It will win.

That is what the liberal mind possesses a ammunition against traditions of intolerance and irrational discrimination—a philosophy. An idea is all that it is. It has to convince a southerner that there is no reason to see a black man at the rear of the bus, and no reason in keeping him from sharing the same benefits you have.

A belief is the only armament that can defeat it. All the wasted lives by persecuting Jews, Poles, Mexicans or other nationality group

It's a belief which pits humanity, kindness, sympathy and mercy against force, sanity, and hatred which are just to foster more hatred

It doesn't have much chance of success, but it has a chance does reason, based upon fundamentals can convince a man that it is human to make himself a slave to hatred, bigotry and one else?

Why? Why keep fight Why not close your mouth enjoy life yourself?

—Martin Dyckman

But perhaps it's because I don't believe. I don't believe it's because progress is every year, every time a Negro is admitted, writes a new chapter in history of justice. every day somebody sticks his neck out sticking up for a black man, every fair trial, whenever men like Hiller are beaten. men like Talmadge decline he is sure to.

But perhaps it's because belief is too meaningful abandon.

Etcetera Etchings

Reviewing Time Is Near, Heh! Heh

By DAVID DREIS

In a few short days, it'll be about time for me to start reviewing duties. Some people will think I'm grossly unfair judging from my style, but I'm not. Others will feel I'm exactly right. Indeed, I'll feel myself unfortunate. I know one thing: all critics have their favorites. I own that to you, dear reader.

Reviewing, a rather humble writer, differs from criticism in that it is easier. It consists of putting down a purely personal opinion of the play and movie around campus. It doesn't strive to capture literary values or artistic values although occasionally you might find it seeping through my reviews. Here's how:

First and foremost I will not pretend to be objective because I've found it's pretty dull reading, and it will take away the personal opinion which I have been told by fairly well-known Pastime Editors to be the "proper" way to review.

As I've already mentioned, I will be honest. Complimentary words always make me more honest. I'm not sure why, but personally they know I always appreciate the genuine value of entertainment but prefer the sensual or commercial side of the substance. I don't think that preferring the commercial side is wrong, but reviewer's that say what people buy is commercial—are classed as cynics.

One of the highest compliments any reviewer can get is one like I received last year. After criticizing some aspects of a show I thought needed it, one by the directors that he thought the review was quite honest.

Last year, my job to review the Newman Club was taken from me. There were nice smiles from the club members and economical remarks about giving the play a good review. I looked forward my seat and watched the play. At intermission a little girl sitting next to me turned to me in the side and whispered, "You know, the Flambeau reviewer is over there and he's trying to hide my blushing."

The point I'm trying to make is that I don't review a play to make Fun of it, but to keep in mind what I would do, but I don't give I mean I don't give it a good review just after I see it. Then I remember the astonishing factors of the production . . . and I change it.

Many reviewers have been known to be "kind" to a show during a production only to "kill" it in being "trite." Maybe it's because they don't make a good show or because they don't like the laughs in contrast to the groans An hour or so after an awful long time.

SURFACE NOISE. Bing Crosby says he'll give up singing in a few short years and concentrate on heavy dramatics. This can do it, too . . . he's done it . . . predicts marriage within five years for Princess Margaret . . . Frank Sinatra's dramatic work as a Psychopathic killer in "Suddenly" also produced some fine acting . . . nothing sent . . . Frank Sinatra's

A Better Measure

Reds Apply Propaganda Pressures

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

Japan, the most industrial nation in the far east, is beginning to feel the power of a new propaganda offensive from Red China.

The Japanese, a people who respect success above anything else, are being told by the Communists that the United States is on the way out, and that they should look toward China for the building of a new Asia.

For proof they cite the "defeat" the American suffered in Korea and the French in Northern Indochina. "Look at us," they claim. "We have pulled China out of poverty and misgovernment and have created equal footing with America and the Soviet Union."

This propaganda has stirred the Japanese curiosity on greatly that they have sent three unofficial delegations to China. One professor conducted tours of this new formidable China. In fact, one of the delegations included members of all the major political parties in the country, the Parliament.

At the same time these delegations were crossing the sea of Japan to the mainland, a third Chinese returned 357 Japanese prisoners of war and civilian technicians to the Communist-controlled island. The prisoners were among those men being held by the Chinese Japanese army that surrendered in 1945.

Friends and relatives from all parts of the country gathered upon the seaport of dissembarkation to welcome the men home after so many years. To their surprise almost every returnee looked refreshed and strong.

When interviewed many of the returnees had stirred China in terms of peace and reconstruction, with much success in raising the standard of living. One professor went so far as to say that it was foolish for Japan to re-arm. Another said that the Japanese follow the lead of Red China or they'll share the social security and pension system that is the birthright of every Chinese citizen. Another man, still in a wide-shirt . . . well, slim for tight skirts . . . by Sandra Dee . . . Jerry Lewis' head keeps dazing such controversial characters: Dean Martin and the Dodgers . . . and draft-dodger and G. Dee Hoke who had his steno sing his characters . . . Jerry and McCarthy incidents . . .

"My dear" dowdy . . . Lana Turner's State Theater ever flinish remodeling the Ritz Theater . . . Bing need in all seven years time in this town . . . another reason Jerry Lewis Alone Clifton Webb . . . Bob Cornel Wilde among others . . . Paramount picture . . . November 12th's issue of The Times will be Oscar tabulations and predictions.

Tribe Scalps Wolfpack With Second-Half Rally, 13-7

at GOOD AS EVER—After suffering a mild concussion in FSU's first game two seasons, Senior end Jimmy Lee Taylor of Jacksonville has demonstrated that he is his same old Little All-American self. His catch of a touchdown pass Saturday night in Raleigh gave his Seminoles their first and scene in their 13-7 victory over N. C. State.

Seminole Barber Shop

Haw, Modern — Air-Conditioned

75c Haircut 75c Shampoo
75c Massage 25c Tonic
65c Shave

613 W TENNESSEE ST. OPEN 6 — 6 P.M.

MALONE'S BOOK STORE

Fine Books At The Prices
You Can Afford—35c to $2.45

Modern Library Series
Ancher Book Series
Mentor Series
Walter Foster Series
Great Art Series
College Outline Series
Penguin Series

107 S. Copeland Street

IF IT'S LEATHER, WE REPAIR IT

CAPITAL SHOE FIXERY

118 E. Jefferson St. Tallahassee

Phone 2-1846

North Carolina Defense Tight In First Half

Massey Passes To Taylor, Graham For FSU Scores

By ALAN WHITMARSH

Quarterback Harry Massey completed only two passes for the Florida State Seminoles Saturday night, but those two clutch throws saved the Seminoles from eminent defeat and gave them a 13-7 victory over North Carolina State at Raleigh.

Massey rode the bench for the entire first half in favor of Sophomore signal - caller Len Swantic, then came off the sidelines midway in the third quarter to pitch a touchdown pass to Jimmy Taylor which put the Seminoles back in the contest. He repeated this performance with a toss to Billy Graham in the waning minutes, bringing victory to Florida State for the third straight game.

If Massey was a hero, perhaps even more so was Freshman end Ronnie Schamburger. It was he who broke through to partially block an attempted punt by North Carolina State's George Marinkov. One play later, Massey pitched to Graham for the winning tally.

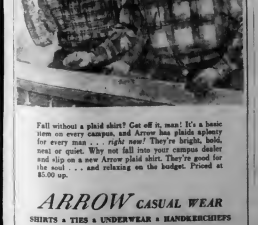
Two crucial pass interceptions and a fumble deep in FSU territory kept the Seminoles in constant trouble during the majority of the first half. However, the forward Wall, led by Al Pacifico and Tom Feamster, again and again repulsed the charging Wolfpack after their early touchdown.

The Seminole offense finally got rolling in the late stages of the second quarter, but after marching to the State 20, FSU found their passing inadequate to reach the promised land, and lost the ball just before the half.

Harry Massey

A fumble at the North Carolina 25 set up the final FSU scare midway in the third period. After gaining a first down at the 12, the Seminole attack bogged down when Ronnie Kisz dropped Swantic's aerial in the end zone. At this point Massey entered and fired the payoff pitch to Taylor to make it 7-6. N. C. State.

Of great importance in the Seminole victory was the sensational punting of Freshman fullback Ted Versprille. Versprille's great booming punts, 82 and 83 yards respectively, pulled the Seminoles out of a jam both times when the Wolfpack threatened to take the ball and score.



In all, the Seminoles punted five times for a composite average of 44.4 yards per kick, better than average.

The Florida State offense continually bogged down for the same reason that it clicked in the Villanova game—passing. The Seminoles connected on only 9 of 22 aerials Saturday at Raleigh, as compared to 13 of 17 hits by Len Swantic alone in the Villanova game.

(Continued on Page 4)

Like Plaids? We've Scads!

all ARROW-labeled for comfort and style

Fall without a plaid shirt? Get off it, man! It's a basic item on every campus, and Arrow has plaids aplenty for every man . . . right now! They're bright, bold, neat or quiet. Why not fall into your campus dealer and slip on a new Arrow plaid shirt. They're good for the soul . . . and relaxing on the budget. Priced at $5.00 up.

ARROW CASUAL WEAR

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS

From The Sidelines

By Tom Kuhn

Sports Staff

FSU TIES GATORS

Florida State's fighting football team is currently tied for second as the best college grid team in Florida. The University of Miami is currently enjoying honors as being top team in the state. They have a 5-0 record. Florida State, with their record of 3-2, is tied with University of Florida for second.

Tampa is fourth best team in the state as they now enjoy a 2-2 record. Stetson is the celler dweller of the five. They have only won one game this year, while dropping three.

Also the Florida State Seminoles have the second longest winning streak of the season. They have won their last three contests. They dropped the first two. Miami is first.

In five rough gridiron battles, the garnet and gold Seminoles scored 112 points, while their opponents have scored 53. The Seminoles were held scoreless their first two games, but in the next two they scored 99 points. In their most recent contest, FSU took a close 13-7 victory o'er North Carolina State.

MASSEY'S BIG NIGHT

Harry Massey, one of the quarterbacks on the FSU grid team, had his best night of the season last Saturday night. The big senior pulled the game out of the bag, as he hit Jimmy Lee Taylor and Billy Graham with touchdown passes. These two FSU'ers accounted in the second half when FSU was trailing, 7-0.

It was a bad night for "Big" Tom Feamster, because the North Carolina football squad had him bundled up like a package. It was not his fault that he couldn't get into the open and be hit with passes, but North Carolina must realize now, that when they put three or more men on one player, it leaves another one in the clear.

The Intramural cage season has begun, and teams in both of the two leagues will be battling it out for top recognition. So far Sigma Nu is looking like they may become champions of the Fraternity League, while SAE thinks just the opposite. Sigma Nu has a couple of lads that played on the state champion basketball team of two years ago. They are Bill Benner, and Bob Dunkel. They are undefeated so far, as they have downed Kappa Sigma, and Delta Tau Delta. SAE has won one game so far, but they have some pretty good ball handlers on the team.

DORM INTRAMURALS

In the Dormitory League, the Penthouse Gang of West Hall have their eyes fixed on winning the championship. But so do the West Hall Rebels. Both of the teams are undefeated in two contests. Don Spillie coaches the Penthouse Gang, while Harry Hall is the head man of the Rebels.

Florida State University's gridiron team will not play another football game at home until November 13, when they meet Furman in their homecoming . . . Florida State basketball team will go to the Sugar Bowl cage tourney this year. Other teams there will be Georgia, Georgia Teachers, and Florida . . . Hal Schauss will be the number one player on the FSU tennis team this season . . . Lambda Chi Alpha will meet Theta Chi in a benefit football game sometime in the middle of December. It will be a tackle football contest . . . . FSU's junior varsity grid team currently tied Tindell, 13-13.

A man's proud of his plaid ...

If it's one of these thrifty, manly Arrow plaids. Choose your type, neat or bold, Arrow makes just what the Sportsman ordered, inexpensive-indispensable!

Deep in and sports up. All these lively plaids just rips for plebs!. $5.00 up.

Mendelsons

Hoifitz To Be Featured At Initial Film Program

The first in a series of films sponsored by the University Symphony will be shown this afternoon at 8 p.m. in Opperman Hall.

Josha Heifitz and Emanuel Bay will be featured in a film program of some of the more popular violin works.

The University Symphony with the co-operation of the Audio-Visual Aids Department will sponsor these musical movies during the Tuesday afternoon recitals in Opperman Hall at various times during the year, it was announced.

Auburn Clash To Be FSU's 'Toughest'

Tigers Dangerous Ramblin' Wrecks After Losing To

FSU's ambitious Seminoles face their sternest challenge of the year Saturday at Auburn when they clash with the tough Tigers, fighting mad after successive one-touchdown defeats at the hands of Florida, Kentucky and Georgia Tech.

This contrasts greatly with FSU's current three-game winning streak. The Seminoles have defeated Louisville, Villanova and N. C. State in that order.

The main problem that State must solve is obviously the development of a defense to stop Auburn's famed X and Y teams. They also must stop Mr. Bobby Freeman, one of the top quarterbacks in the Southeastern Conference.

A Seminole victory also hinges on the resurgence of an air arm as potent as the one that sank Villanova beneath the 53-13 score.

Coach Tom Nugent will probably hold off on his decision of who will start at quarterback until he gets a look at a few of the Seminole practice sessions. So far this season, Massey, with the ends, is has been the most unpredictable position on the team.

FSU will be in good physical condition for the contest, with only freshman halfback Bill Weaver definitely out. He has suffered a possible broken jaw. Since reaching the high points of success in the Villanova game the 18 completed passes the Seminoles slipped to nine last week and apparently must concentrate on their aerial game to neutralize the huge Auburn linemen.

Ralph Jordan, Auburn's head coach, has indicated that he has no lineup change as a result of the defeat by Georgia Tech.

"We know we're playing our best boys now and we'll keep on playing them," he said.

Jordan said none of his players were injured in the Tech contest.

Auburn has won only one game this year, beating Chattanooga, 45-6, in their first game before dropping the three squeakers.

Godfrey Lectures On Plant Hunting In African Jungle

Plant exploring in South Africa will be the subject of an illustrated lecture given by Dr. Robert K. Godfrey in the new auditorium of the Geology building at 8 p.m. tonight.

Godfrey, a new member to the other two hunter twins of Sweet Venity."

"No, my companions," I would reply with a gentle but firm smile, "we must turn homeward, for the cock has long since crowed."

"Twas not the cock," they would answer, laughing merrily. "Twas but the nightingale doing his imitation of a chicken."

And, wave enough, twas. Crafty, madcap Sam Leghorn. How I miss his gaiety and wit! I never tired of hearing his imitation of a chicken, nor he of giving it. I wonder what's become of him. Last I heard he was working as a weatherman in Tacoma.

Oh, we were a wild and jolly gang in those days. There was Sam Leghorn with his poultry imitations. There was Henda Watts who always wore a lampshade on her head. There was Freddie Corn who stole a dean. There was Cap Queey who always carried two steel marbles in his hand. There was Emily Hawp who glided her goose mother.

Yes, we were wild and jolly, and the wildest and jolliest was I . . . But not right away. I blush to admit that in my freshman year I was dull, stodgy, and normal. I finally corrected this lackluster condition, but for a while it was touch and go. And, dear reader—especially dear freshman reader—be warned: it can happen to you.

The reason I have been brought to mind so much of late as to bring you a message each week. There is no more important message I can give you than the following: College can be wonderful. Don't loose it up with studying.

That was my mistake. At first, cowed by college, I studied so much that I turned into a dreary, blinking creature, subject to dry-mouth and nail-biting. By my third year this dismal condition prevailed—but then I started the real function of college. And what is that? I'll tell thee I learned the real function of college. And what is that? I'll tell you what: to prepare you to face the realities of the world. And what do you need to face the realities of the world? I'll tell you that—brains, that's what you need. And how do you get poise? I'll tell you how: not by keeping your nose in a book, you may be sure!

Relax! Live! Enjoy! That's how you get poise. Of course you have to study, but be poised about it. Don't be like some dean who spend every single night buried in a book. Not only are they not learning poise; they are also eroding their eyeballs. The truly poised student knows better than to make the whole semester a chore with studying. He knows that the night before the exam is plenty of time to study.

Yes, I've heard that lots of people have condemned cramming. But have you heard who these people are? They are the cheerful light and power interests, that's who! They want you to sit up late and study every night so you'll use more electricity and enrich their baking coffers. Don't be a sucker!

Clearly, cramming is the only sensible way to study. But beware! Even cramming can be overdone. Take it easy. Go to the night before your exam, eat a hearty dinner. Then get a date and go out and eat another hearty dinner. Then go park somewhere and fool up a Philip Morris. Enjoy the peaceful pleasure it offers. Don't go home until you're good and relaxed.

Once at home, relax. Do not, however, fall asleep. This is too relaxed. To take wakefulness, choose a chair that is not too comfortable. For example, take a chair with nails pointing up through the seat—or a chair in which somebody is already sitting.

Place several packs of Philip Morris within easy reach. Good mild tobacco helps you to relax, and that's what Philip Morris is—good mild tobacco. But Philip Morris is more than just good mild tobacco; it is also cigarette paper to keep the good mild tobacco from spilling all over the place.

Place a pad on the uncomfortable chair and the Philip Morris. Now you need light. Use the lit end of your Philip Morris. Do not switch the electric power on and off.

Read your textbook for a slow, poised manner. Do not underline. It reduces the re-sale value of your book. Always keep your book in prime re-sale condition; you never know when you'll need getaway money.

As you read you will no doubt come across many things you don't understand. But don't panic. Relax. Play stone records. Remove a pillow. Go out and watch some night crawlers.

Relax. Be poised. Stay loose. And remember—if things really close in, you can always take up teaching.

© The Makers, 1934

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette

Hey! Students . . .

LET US DEVELOP AND PRINT YOUR SCHOOL DAY SNAPSHOTS

WE HAVE ALL YOUR PHOTOGRAPHIC NEEDS

Tallahassee Camera Center

"Across From The Florida Theatre"

123 N. Monroe St. Ph. 2-8771

SOPHOMORE FLASH—Buck Watts, Sanford's gift to the football world, also on the mend after being hurt in an early contest, in good form once again and showed off plenty of action when the Seminoles fete rapped Auburn away from home.

Gilchrist Hall To Hold Reception Thursday At 8

Gilchrist Hall will have its formal faculty reception Thursday, October 21, in the parlor from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Those working on the committee for the reception are: Loretta Castellino, social chairman; Shirley Traxler, house president, and the house councelors, Miss Cobb and Mrs. Wilson. They will be assisted by the Gilchrist honorary house members Marjorie Judy, Mr. Thomas Wright and Mr. Stephen Winters.

Enjoy
GOOD RIDING

Trot-A-Way Stables

Old St. Augustine Road
INSTRUCTION - BOARDING - TRAINING
Dial 2-5835

Capt. G. A. Tascot G. A. "T" Tascot, Jr.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

STUDYING MADE SIMPLE

Senior Investiture Scheduled Tomorrow 8 p.m., Amphitheater

The traditional Senior Class Investiture will be held tomorrow night at 8:00 p.m in the Movie Building Amphi-theater according to class officials.

The junior class speaker will be Dr. Ralph D. Oerdin, Dean of Student Welfare. Dr. Sam Neel, University Chaplain, will give the Devotional.

The processional line will begin forming at 7:30 p.m. Officers of the class will lead the line followed by Senior Student Body Government members.

The Seniors were reminded this week that they should choose a sophomore senior or junior to trip them at this exercise. The Seniors will wear robes with the formal collar for girls and black ties for the men, according to Carolyn Johnson, Senior Class Secretary.

Seniors who have not picked up their caps and gowns may do so today at the Book Store. she revealed.

There will be a reception in Lemaire immediately following the investiture for Seniors and their Sophomore brothers and sisters

At the Senior class meeting last week, a committee to work on the President's Birthday Party was appointed The members are Warren Cobb, chairman, Sylvia Rabb, Chan Coulter, Frances Helmes and Dick Moorer.

North Florida Fair Parade Scheduled For Next Tuesday

The North Florida Fair parade has been slated for Tuesday, October 26, in Tallahassee, announced Arthur M. MacCarthy, director

The parade will be divided into three sections Each section, according to the announcement, will be a small parade within itself Invitations have been extended to Florida State University, through Dr. A. B Martin, to have as much university participation as possible.

University units invited to march in the October parade included the FSU Circus performers, Gymkana athletes; Seminole Football Team and ROTC and any other groups desiring to enter.

As in previous years, Director MacCarthy has issued an appeal for convertible automobiles to be used for the parade. state, county, city and university units who will also be featured in the parade Convertible cars on the FSU campus are especially desired for the parade and the owners are asked to contact the FSU Public Relations department or leave their cars for participation. Convertibles will be driven by the owners.

Chest Grows

(Continued from Page One)

theater just after Rat Court Jess Jean Pruitt will be auctioned off and faculty members will bring 1 sandwich food, including cake, cookies and other pastries., also two tickets to the FSU Homecoming football game. These will be on the Skyand line

The Betty Cord-ior College contest has been rescheduled for October 27, 28 and 29, according to announcement.

FOR THE BEST IN SHOE REPAIRING TRY PALACE SHOE SHOP 1 stair, Basement 114 121 E. PARK AVE.

CAMERON'S
Texaco Service Station
CARS CALLED FOR & DELIVERED
GREASING WASHING POLISHING
Corner W. Tennessee and Copeland
Phone 3-0619 Tallahassee

When you pause... make it count... have a Coke
DRINK Coca-Cola
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY Tallahassee Coca-Cola Bottling Company
"Coke" is a registered trade mark. © 1954, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

THE LAST SMILE BEFORE MAKING LIKE THE LONE RANGER—Left to right are Inky, Tarry, Ballboy and Jackie, all Shetlands affiliated with FSU's riding club. Bob and Spur. Also in picture are Tyda Yarborough, Bill Wescott, Pat Wallace and Bill Stranch.

Louck Makes Study, Reports On Physical Education Grads

A study of the men physical education graduates of Florida State University was made recently by Donald Louck, member of the men's physical education department.

Louck said that the survey was undertaken primarily to determine the applicability and needs of the graduates, their teaching situations, and as a means of improvement of the program of teacher education.

The results of the study were reported as follows:

"Frank commences concerning the strengths and weaknesses of the physical education curriculum were solicited. A rating scale for judging the value of the various courses yielded information which pointed out the individual and relative attention of members of the departments.

The survey revealed, among other things, that:

1. Exactly two-thirds (67%) of Florida State University's physical education graduates are still teaching. In practically every instance where the graduate had left the teaching field it was for a more lucrative position in the business world. The types of work for which the physical education graduate forsook his chosen field run the gamut from restaurant operator to F.B.I. officers.

2. Thirty-two per cent of the graduates were no longer living in Florida. This, despite the fact that Florida is rapidly increasing in population and consistently improving teaching conditions and teaching salaries One explanation for this exodus might be the fact that many of the physical education graduates were students from states other than Florida. These graduates were merely returning "home."

3. Only 47 per cent of the graduates contacted were teaching physical education. However, 70 per rent of the graduates still teaching were teaching in their area of concentration, physical education. Along with physical education, science seemed to be a popular teaching choice, according to the individuals reporting.

4. Slightly over one-half of the teachers completing the questionnaire were coaching football and basketball. In general, the physical education graduates were involved in coaching two or three sports during the school year. One person reported coaching five sports. Only five now were able to concentrate their efforts in one sport. This indicates that the physical education major should take advantage of the opportunity while in school to participate in and become familiar with several phases of the athletic program.

5. The lowest salary received for teaching during the 1953-1954 school year was $2,500; the highest, $4,100, with the average for the group reporting, $3,244. For the school year 1953-1954, the page was from $2,700 to $4,900, with the average salary $3,661. This represents an overall average increase of $417, due primarily to the $350 blanket raise voted by the state legislature 1953.

6. When asked why they had dropped out of the teaching field, replies such as the following were frequently given: better working conditions in other fields, more security, lack of cooperation and equipment, more intrigue and challenge in the business world.

7. In answer to a direct question concerning teaching freedom, only seven per rent indicated anything other than complete freedom for selecting course content and teaching techniques. This should be encouraging to those earnestly preparing for the teaching profession.

8. Graduates were asked to rate the professional courses which they had studied at Florida State They were given a scale of value which they felt the courses had for them in their current work. On a scale, 1-5, with the five representing a rating of "great value" and the one being given for the professional physical education courses was 4.12. The nonprofessional courses received slightly lower ratings.

9. Some more important features of the survey was obtaining recommendations for strengthening the program of Physical Education teachers here at Florida State. These suggestions were carefully studied by the staff of the Department of Physical Education for them and when considered significant, were marked for further study."

Thurber Unmasked

(Continued from Page 2)

writings and drawings had been "the whole American dignity of American womanhood, the whole area of the dignity of American manhood, while seeking to establish the doc ur ourinary way out, and I felt that I had better quit while I was ahead, and before my passport was withdrawn.

While I am confessing to my disloyalty, that common cold of the American writer, I might as well go the whole way. Two years ago a sensitive publication known as the New Yorker newspaper took issue with me in the matter of wanting, or other and worse, it "do not know what Mr. Thurber's politics is."

Well, it's just as devious as everything else about me. In 1932 I voted for Herbert Hoover for President of the United States. This was clearly an insincere move on my part to throw off suspicion and lull the fears of the F. B. I. I am now working on a subversive play about the late Harold Ross and "The New Yorker." a title which can be changed overnight to "The New Worker." This is why I was selected, at a secret meeting held in a basement in 1925 and attended by Gen. George C. Marshall, Dean Acheson who wore a phony beard), George Kaufman, co-author of "The Solid Gold Cadillac," the subtle assault on free enterprise, Sinclair Lewis, author of "Babbitt," a distinguished attack on the profit system, and Marc Connelly, now president of the notorious American Institute of Arts and Letters.

My new play will subtly show up Harold Ross in his true colors, as an unscrupulous man. He once asked me, "Is Marxism the same as Communism?" You see, he wanted to find out whether he had to join two parties or only one. I must go now. I think the agents have come for me.

SOCIAL WELFARE JOB AVAILABLE HERE

Students interested in Social Welfare work in Connecticut should contact Mr. Farmer, Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement.

Mathis Given MRC Award, Stevens Tells

Jack D. Mathis of Tampa and La Porte, Indiana, a senior student majoring in Advertising at Florida State University, was named recently as one of fifteen students in the United States to receive one of the 1953-54 Market Research Council of New York awards.

The announcement was made by J. Richard Stevens, Associate Professor of Marketing and Advertising at Florida State University, who sponsored student entries in the competition as part of the class work in his courses in Advertising Research and in Marketing Research and Analysis last spring.

Mathis was also advised in developing his project by Dr. Royal H. Ray, head of the Department of Advertising at FSU.

The winning entry used extensive secondary research data to plan advertising policy and program recommendations for a natual Chicago manufacturer of industrial equipment. The entire study was then made into an effective graphic selling presentation of the conclusions, such as would be presented by an advertising agency to the executives of the manufacturing company.

Florida State University and Tulane University were the only colleges in the South to receive awards for winning entries.

FSU Editors

(Continued from Page One) groups interested in maintaining freedom of information.

According to Eugene L. Hartwig, junior chairman of the NAPCP and managing editor of the Michigan Daily, action on an official violation of press freedom would begin when the editor of a campus paper involved notified the executive committee chairman of the Association.

All official information on the activities of the ACP convention was released.

SOPHOMORE HOP INVITATIONS HERE

Formal invitations to the Sophomore Hop are available to any freshmen who contact Alice Gunnand by next Tuesday. Sophomores do not need invitations for their annual dance. Grucsa of sophomores will receive invitations in the mail Miss Gulnand's post office box number is Box 2457.

ALPHA XI'S INITIATE

Recently initiated into the Alpha Omeca chapter of Alpha Xi Delta were: Barbara Evans, Shirley Moore, Jean Turner, Joan Scott, Corinne Mason, and Ann Yeoman.

Gymnastic

(Continued from Page One)

was presided over by Dr. Danford, head of the athletic department. Those initiated include Jim Tanaka, Marty Lou Byerly, Dahlen Koder, Frances Stokes, Barbara Vickers, Anita Wall and Bob Gutting.

Gymnastics was originally formed by Dr. Price in 1933 at the University of Illinois. Cut off from the budget because of the depression, a group of Gymnasts banded together to put on a Gymkana show. Their efforts were so successful that they formed their own organization, Gymnastics, under the direction of Dr. Price.

The Gymnastics organization on this campus is designated as the Alpha chapter. Among other things it boasts two Olympic men—Bill Roetzheim and Don Kelder.

Charter member Bill Roetzheim also represented the United States in competition against Czechoslovakia, Japan and in the Pan American games in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Dick Gutting, another charter member, is also well known in gymnastic circles for having won two National trampoline titles—the NCAA title in 1952 and the NAAU title in 1953. He is also a member of the Gold Key and ODK at FSU.

Jack Sharp was active in gymnastics while at FSU and won championships including the NAAU flying rings crown in 1952 at Boulder, Colorado. At last report, Jack was at Penn State studying meteorology for the Air Force.

Jack Miles won the All-American rope title in 1949, 1952, the NAAU flying rings championship title in 1950, the same year. Jack has the distinction of holding the only All-American title on the team.

Gene Rabbitt also distinguished himself in the gymnastics world. He won the NAAU side horse championship four consecutive years, 1949 to 1952. He also won the NCAA side horse title in 1950 at West Point, N. Y. Gene Rabbitt, now at the Commline, have long been active in gymnastics before their graduation in June compiled a record of twenty individual titles between them.

At the last meeting of the season on last May 6th officers were chosen for a period of one year. These officers include Jay Schlenker, chairman; Jean Turner, president, Bob Gutting vice-president, Ann Wall, secretary; Jim Tanaka, treasurer, and Barbara Vickers, historian.

Tribe Scalps

(Continued From Page 3)

The outstanding ground gainers continue to be Junior Billy Barnes and Sophomore Lee Corso, who were the starting halfbacks in last night's contest. Together, they ground out 74 of the meager 105 yards which the Seminoles were able to muster along the ground.

Again, the FSU ground attack stalled with the chips down, and it appears more and more that if the Tribe is to win any ball games, and they're winning their share, they will have to depend on their solid front line and a good passing attack.

Passing has been the key which has unlocked the door to all three of FSU's victories this year, and the Seminole defense will be watching ground attack to go with their aerial warfare.

They might surprise a lot of people before the season is over.

HOMECOMING BONFIRE

Betty Ann Munroe, cheerleading captain, urges students to begin collecting trash for the Homecoming bonfire, a 30-foot blaze slated to be held in the lot east of the stadium immediately following the Pow Wow.

Humor Magazine Editor Rice Wants Fresh Talent For Staff

Positions on the staff of Smoke Signals, Florida State University humor magazine, are open to interested students. Editor Bob Rice, announced this week.

"Smoke Signals is open to any student, with or without journalism experience, who desires to work in art, creative writing, circulation, exchange, advertising or magazine production," he declared.

Beginners on the humor magazine are given a semester's trial period, then named to a junior staff if they qualify. Rice urged interested students to contact one of the editors at the Smoke Signals office at the Longmire Building.

Editor Rice said that the new Smoke Signals is approximately one and half inches smaller but that a considerable amount of money was saved in its printing. Speaking of other changes, he stated, "The major changes in policy include closer co-operation among faculty advisor, Student Publication Board and magazine staff; a general 'clean-up' of humor content; a better balance of content between photographs features and art; a training program for future staff members and delegated responsibility through editors."

Rice said that students in the FSU Art Department will do part of the Smoke Signals art work in future issues, but added that more student work turned in will be carefully considered. "We want a wide variety of student work," he declared.

Smoke Signals is also interested in knowing of strange or odd hobbies that students may have for stories in its regular feature department.

Rice said that the deadline for all humor to go in the next issue will be October 17. "I am looking forward to a very good magazine," he commented.

Editor Various departments may be reached in the Smoke Signals office in Longmire during the publication week-end.

Bob Rice, Editor in Chief—Mon., Wed., and Fri. from 4 to 5 p. m.

Nan Hillman, Business Manager—Mon., Wed., and Fri. from 4 to 5 p. m.

Margie Hunter, Humor Editor—Wed. from 2 to 4 p. m.

Mary Harris, Exchange and Circulation Editor—Tues. from 4 to 5 p. m.

Jean Heidel, Cartoon and Photo Editor—Mon. and Fri. from 4 to 5 p. m.

"For other times, please call 4721 for appointments," said Rice. "These people will welcome help in all fields, from typing to taking subscriptions."

SCHOLARSHIP HOLDERS TO MEET THURSDAY

All scholarship holders are advised that the first meeting of this year of the Scholarship Club is slated for Thursday, October 21, at 5 p.m. in Room 301 Education Building.

Following the first get-acquainted meeting, interested students may join by paying a $1.00 fee, which includes membership and the annual banquet, it was noted.

Dine In Comfortable Atmosphere
Complete Dinners From $1.50 up
Approved by AAA
Let Us Plan Your Banquet or Luncheon Our Private Banquet Room Has A Capacity of 110
TALLAHASSEE Dining Room
1630 North Monroe Phone 2-3428
Mr. Bishop, Mgr.

STATE
Today
Through Saturday
"Rear Window"
With
James Stewart
COMING SOON
"Dragnet"

FLORIDA
Today
"The Egyptian"
EDMUND PURDOM
VICTOR MATURE
JEAN SIMMONS
Tomorrow Thru Tuesday
"Woman's World"
June Allyson
Clifton Webb
Cinemascope

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Today & Tomorrow
"Blowing Wild"
With Gary Cooper
Thursday
"Without Reservations"
John Wayne
PLUS
"Trail Blazers"
Monty Hale

PERRY MOMENT OUTDOOR
Today & Tomorrow
"Dial M for Murder"
With
Ray Milland
Thursday
"Jesse James Vs. Daltons"
Barbara Lawrence
PLUS
"Captain John Smith And Pocahontas"
Anthony Dexter

Sweet and Low
OUR FAMOUS 3 WAY CONVERTIBLE
by Cover Girl dress flats by PRIMA
7.95
Convertible
☆ Black Kidskin
☆ Red Kidskin
☆ Navy Kidskin
☆ Black Suede
☆ Brown Suede
Sizes 4 to 10 Widths S-N-M
WEAR IT THREE WAYS . . .
1. As a cute strap shoe
2. Remove the strap for a slick little pump
3. Turn the strap over for a smart two-tone
Ours Alone
MILLER'S Cootery College Ave.

Over 1,000 Tickets Sold For Auburn Game (See below)

The Florida Flambeau

Senate Confirms Kennedy (See below)

Vol. No. 5 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF UNIVERSITY STATE, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1954

Ticket Sale For Auburn Game Extended Here

Over 1,000 Tickets Reported Sold; Box Lunches Not Selling

...e thousand tickets ...e Florida State University ...tbreak game with Auburn ...e been sold, announced ...die Cubbon, Athletic ...ons Manager, this week. ...ons said that as of ...noon, 1019 game ...ets were sold for one dollar ...h added that 300 more ...ere ordered for sale to- ...ay. It will be sold in the ...ate Ticket office at the ...Stadium.

...S. B. Adams, FSU Man- ...of Food Service, said ...the University Cafeteria ...to be open at 6:30 Saturday ...ing to provide breakfast ...cafeteria who plan to at- ...the game. However, be- ...ack of response, box ...will not be sold for ...ing. Sandwiches only will ...sold.

...ks of the Amber House ...ounce announcement that ...ill be open early to ...dents going to Auburn, ...same.

...Fred Vogel, Counselor for ...Organizations, said that ...ver, buses are ...depending on whether ...ne fifth one is filled.

...ll houses for the Auburn ...me have been filled. About ...ne students are needed ...fill this bus which will ...ve unless filled. Those ...ll interested please see ...the CPSO office.

...ssion $1.50

...ampion said that ...e commencement with the pep- ...e been well pleased with ... Dr. Herb McCosh, ...ssor of Physical Educa- ...Men declared that the ...ions that students are ...the team. The Auburn ...Education director, Mr. ...ed that it coin- ...e Auburn. FSU's dancers ...e the culmination of the ...

...Body President Peter ...ief coordinator for this ...ies are open at Au- ...ial invitations for ...dents to attend.

...Night—Party at Pi Alpha ...

...Night — Parties at ...Sigma Nu, and Theta Chi ...

...Dance at the Phi Delta Theta ...

...free informal dance at the ...ball room. All FSU stu- ...especially invited.

...the fraternities will be ...to co-operate in locating ...who need housing, said Mon- ...

...The FSU Band, Cheerleaders ...Girls will be at the game. ...Wilson, Band director, ...said that the circus will give ...performance similar to the one ...the North Carolina game in ...

...The Marching Chiefs will play ...half-time through the half- ...and the form three rings ...to be held in conjunction ...the ring ...which can be set ...to 30 seconds, will be put up ...the center ring. Performers ...will carry streamers of per- ...from three to the four ...corners of the field," said Hag- ...

...Also along with performers, ...ers at the game will be ...Golden Pair, Virginia Cooke, ...Rose, Ralph and Bob ...Warren Comedy Ball, Char- ...and Phyllis Patten in Pan- ...Trouple, Quartette Adagio, ...Hensman, Jim Holt, Eddie ...Bell and Charlie Andrews, ...Smith Web, Sue Herndon and ...Magazine, William Ed- ...Tommy Wells and Bobbie ...

...Prizes for the game will leave ...by Women's Gymnasium at 7 ...on tomorrow, and should ar- ...in the Alabama town by ...hours. The game, Auburn's ...homecoming, will begin at 2 ...and the busses will leave ...at 8 p.m.

...FSU students will have re- ...served seats and sit in one sec- ...

Freshman Flunkies' Slate First Meeting For Next Thursday

...The initial meeting of the ...Freshman Flunkies will be held ...Thursday, October 28. Fresh- ...Flunkies is a service or- ...sponsored by Freshman ...Women for the purpose of ...ing work in conjunction with ...Women's Senate to perform ...helpful services around ...campus. All freshman women ...are invited and urged to attend ...the meeting, said spokesmen.

...This year's Flunkies will have ...work constitution according to ...Ann Glassman of the constitu- ...tional committee. Jo Jones ...has been serving on the commit- ...tee appointed by Women's Sen- ...ate Phoebe Jackson, Mary ...Ann Freeman, Dot Wells ...and Jean Tedder.

SAVE YOUR CONFEDERATE MONEY, BOYS—just give those Yankee dollars to the men at Kappa Alpha. Shown above, members of the KA confederate army, col lect tolls for Campus Chest from unsuspecting motorists who wandered too near the makeshift toll gate in front of the Amber House.

Campus Chest's Fund-Raising Projects Continue Successfully

Dormitories, fraternities and sororities participating in the Campus Chest charity drive have been reporting success in their projects as the final week draws to a close, general chairman Shirley Traxler said Thursday.

J. Mendez Crews, president of Kappa Alpha fraternity, revealed that a total of $2.25 was cleared by the group in a Tell Gate put across a Tallahassee street Wednesday. He added that the project enjoyed "almost 100 percent cooperation."

"We also received 10 Franks, a bus token and six sweet rolls," Crews continued. The items were promptly ate the rolls."

An informal dance will be held in the West Hall lounge tomorrow night from 8:30 to 11:30 for the benefit of the Campus Chest.

Music for the dance will be provided by juke box, and a charge of fifty cents per couple will be made.

"Decorations for the dance will include tables, candlelight, and waiters. There will also be no records for the juke box, including the 'boos' and spokesmen. It was added that more tables are available now and that many people can be accommodated.

A cakewalk sponsored by Zeta Tau Alpha sorority Wednesday night netted $45 for the Campus Chest, announced members. A profit of $2 was reported for Reynolds Hall as a result of a box supper, and first floor Broward Hall, along with Sigma Nu fraternity, told of successful projects.

Second floor Broward Hall sponsored a Variety Show last night with a profit of $20 collected and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity hopes to clear $25 in the Turkey Sale do far $40 forth ni tickets have been sold.

Bachmann-Turner Overalls Auction cleared over one hundred dollars for Campus Chest according to the Council President Jane Soper.

Among the items that were auctioned, she said, were "a date with nine cute Bryan girls, a free roaster, a dinner for two at President Campbell's home, and all types of clothing. One of the most popular items was a record of Chopin's Waltzes by Percival Kilpatrick, which sold for $6.50. Ina Jean Pruitt and Eugene Berry, the auctioneers, kept the sales going at a lively pace."

This week the Campus Chest

(Continued on Page 4)

Frosh To File For Candidacy By 5, Monday

Florida State University Freshman students who are seeking office in the Freshman Elections must file Declarations of Candidacy in the University Government Association Office, 314 Landis Hall before 5 p.m. Monday, October 25, according to elections officials.

Secretary of Elections Betty Jo Grubbs this week stressed the importance of meeting the deadlines and conforming with all elections statutes and regulations.

Miss Grubbs added that any office seeker may change the office for which he had declared candidacy until 5 p.m. Monday, Also, declarations may be withdrawn at any time until noon of the day after primary day, she continued.

Distribution of posters and all other campaign literature will begin at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Cash expenditures allowed are $10 for offices of Class B Senators and $15 for other offices.

Copies of Elections Statutes are available to candidates and students in the University Government Association office, Miss Grubbs said.

The Freshmen will have their chance for revenge on the Sophomores soon.

On October 30 at 2 p.m. the two classes will face each other in do-or-die competition, which may result in the freshmen becoming sophomore class President Paul Ort in the fountain in front of Westcott if they win.

Sponsored by the sophomores, the events will include an archery relay, footwear, a Jitterbug contest, 100-yard dash, basketball throw, football throw, and an "ivy-diny" race, ending with a tug-of-war.

Sponsor for freshmen class officers should have some part in organizing the freshmen said Paul Ort, who pointed out that this would be a good opportunity for them to meet their class.

Investiture Of Seniors Held In Amphitheater

The 1955 graduating class was officially recognized at the traditional Senior Investiture, held Wednesday night in the Mood Building Amphitheater.

The investiture was symbolized when Florida State University President Doak S. Campbell capped senior president Harry Massey as other Seniors were capped by their Sophomore brothers and sisters.

After the investiture, the class is entitled to wear the formal academic regalia, caps and gowns, and receive all traditional rights enjoyed by Seniors.

Following the devotional by Dr. Sam Noel, University Chaplain, Dr. Ralph Hefley, Dean of Students, gave the Investiture address. He was introduced by President Campbell.

Dr. Oglesby's talk was titled "Educational What For?" and he explained to the assembly, "I think this is capable of a fairly simple answer: to prepare you to assume your responsibilities as a well-rounded human."

He added that specifically, this means that you will be well with your hands or with your brain or both. He said also it involves the ability to be an efficient teacher, businessman or nurse.

"I don't know more to it than this," Dr. Oglesby continued. "It also involves a willingness to accept responsibility as regards your family and ability to make adjustments in getting along with and living in a friendly and agreeable manner with your neighbors. And finally a recognition of the omnipotent power of your Creator."

After the ceremony, both Seniors and their Sophomore brothers and sisters retired to the Longmire Building where a reception was held in their honor.

Included in the receiving line were President Campbell, Director and Mrs. Oglesby, and Senior Class sponsors Dr. Richard Moore, professor of home and family life, and Dr. Grace Pate, professor of physical education for women.

Pledges Honored At Autumn Dance Tonight, 9-11 P. M.

The Autumn Twilight Ball will be held tonight in the Women's Gym from 9-11 p.m. Sponsored by Panhellenic in honor of the new fraternity and sorority pledges, the dance is formal.

Billy Sowell Band will provide the music and a Pledge Princess will be crowned at 10:15. Five finalists were chosen from individual sorority essays on the topic "What it means to be a pledge" and the winner will be announced at the Student Center on Wednesday in which only hour voted.

The finalists are: Mary Race, Zeta Tau Alpha; Sue Herndon, McClintnes, Kappa Delta; Grey Bala, Delta Delta Delta; Jerry Barber, Alpha Phi Omicron Pi; and Janet Johnson, Chi Omega.

A floor show featuring dancing girls sent by the sorority and fraternity pledges is slated for 10:30 p.m. Tom Bright will be the Master of Ceremonies.

Ireland, Fadigan To Co-Direct Gymkana

Co-chairmanship of the annual Gymkana, today announced the chairmen for the 1955 Gymkana, Gymkanas, titled "Toyland Capers".

Chairmen of the committees planning the 1955 event are: General Mens Co-chairmen, Bob Ireland and Jim Fadigan; General Womens Co-Chairmen, Barbara Vickers and Frances Stokes; Coordination and Mens Senior Manager, Jay Schnurman; Woman Manager-in-charge Jean Haight; Co-captains, Varsity Gymnastics Team, Don Hefner and Dick Ireland; Student Director, Tallahassee Recreation, Jack McNabb; Assistant Director, Tallahassee Tumblers, Celeste Wilson.

Homecoming Deadlines Set On Decoration

Fodigon Announces Contest For Queen Will Begin Soon

Plans for the 1954 Homecoming at Florida State University were put in motion this week as chairman of the various committees met and outlined plans.

Alan Sundberg, chairman of the committee on house decorations and Jim Fadigan, chairman of the homecoming queen contest, have announced the regulations concerning their respective projects.

According to Sundberg, all sketches for houseconting house decorations must be in by October 27. The sketches may be turned in at room 114, Education building, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through the deadline day. Sundberg announced that sketches will be reviewed and may be picked up between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Friday, October 29.

Attempts will be made to prevent duplication of themes and ideas, said Sundberg, and in instances of identicality the organization will be notified in order that they might alter their plans.

Preference will be given to the group which first submitted the idea.

Judging of all house decorations will take place at 7 p.m. Friday, November 12, and 13 or the following day, November 13, the decorations chairman revealed.

Sundberg listed the following suggestions on homecoming decorations:

Decorations should observe acceptable standards of good taste, should be original and should reflect adversely upon the organizations using them. Don't forget that the theme should be used by your organization.

Decorations should be planned to withstand rain and wind. The decorations that are ruined by rain or wind are demoralizing.

Cleverness, humor, ingenuity and directness of the idea are appreciated. Decorations which have obscure meanings or which detract from the value of homecoming decorations.

Decorations will be viewed by experts from early in the morning until late at night. If you plan to decorate during the evening hours, plan them with this in mind.

Fadigan has announced that all pictures of candidates for Homecoming queen must be returned in at the main office in Longmire Building no later than 5 p.m. Friday, October 29. Official pictures are to be depicted in a special issue of the Flambeau to be held out placed in a competition spot.

Fadigan said the pictures must also meet the following requirements: 8 by 10 inches in size, glossy finish, black and white, and must be a head and shoulder's picture. The pictures are to be placed in an envelope with the name and address of the candidate, said Fadigan. Fadigan announced the Homecoming queen chairman.

The pictures will be posted in the main floor of Westcott on Wednesday, October 27 at 3 p.m. preliminaries. Five finalists will be selected from this group and the queen will be crowned at the play-off game on November 20, with the final selection of the queen and her court.

All calculations and counting of votes will be done by I. B. M. machines and announcement of the new Homecoming Queen and her court will be made at the Pow Wow November 13, said Fadigan.

On Friday night, November 12, the Pow Wow will be held in Westcott Quadrangle. The event will consist of a show of fireworks and skits, put on by different sororities and fraternities. Before the Pow Wow, preliminaries will be held to choose the best skits to be presented at the Pow Wow. "Flying High" is the theme Sam Murray Circus, and Gymkana will also take part in this year's Pow Wow.

Following the Pow Wow, there will be a huge bonfire on the east side of the stadium and the student body will have a giant pep rally. The queen, her team, the cheerleaders, and the student body will be present to the rally. Plans are being made for the football game against Furman on Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

The Homecoming Dance each year is sponsored by the Gold Key. Bob Poley has been named student chairman of the dance this year and the faculty adviser is Hal Smith, a counselor at Senior Hall. Homecoming dance will be held at the Suwannee Room on Saturday night, November 13. The

(Continued on Page 4)

Kennedy Confirmed For Attorney General By Student Senate

Critical Report On Attorney General Choice Brings Debate

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Senator Jim Moore, who asked the Senate to move into executive session but could not muster enough support for his request, proved to be the only vote against the confirmation of Dave Kennedy as Attorney General.

The hassle began with the report of Moore's permanent Elections and Appointments Committee. The report said that although the committee found Kennedy qualified for the office of Attorney General, and said he had many progressive ideas and the knowledge for the job, his extracurricular activities would prevent him from carrying out his duties "to the fullest degree."

Senator Ken Gaulin moved to confirm the appointment of Kennedy, made by Student Body President Pete Nimkoff, in spite of the negative report handed in by the Moore committee. Gaulin pointed out Kennedy's clarity in his stand regarding Kennedy's extra-curricular activities.

The committee chairman said that previously Kennedy was unable to meet with the permanent appointments group at an Honor Court hearing, a constitutional question regarding appointments.

After further questioning, he intimated that Kennedy's work would interfere with his duties as Attorney General. He quoted Kennedy as saying the latter could "get off any time" But noted she appointee's activities and argued "To do a good job he cannot be as diversified as that."

Gaulin protested that Kennedy had the necessary qualifications, and that Student Body President Pete Nimkoff knew what he wanted when he made his choice of an attorney general.

Attacking Kennedy's record, Moore referred to the time when Kennedy, as a freshman Senator, missed eight meetings during the year because of his membership on the varsity tennis team. At that time, he said, Kennedy was brought up for impeachment.

Senator Jimmy Joanos joined Pete Nimkoff in defending Kennedy, noting that if the Attorney General were for some reason unable to attend an Honor Court session his assistants could handle his responsibilities. He took issue with Moore on the latter's remarks on the issue of Kennedy's freshman absences.

Citing Kennedy's membership in Gold Key, Phi Alpha, Honor Court last Spring and his chairmanship of this year's summer orientation, Joanos declaimed

(Continued on Page 4)

Frank, Author Of 'Mr. Adam' Slated To Speak Here Today

Mr. Pat Frank, noted author of Mr. Adam, will be the guest speaker at the English Coffee Hour today at 4 p. m. at Westminister House.

This week's issue of the SATURDAY EVENING POST features a short story by the author, titled "Prexy Was a Pro Up," which was reportedly based on Florida State University's all nanme therein are fictitious.

Mr. Frank is now living in Mr. Adam's home in Pensacola on his fourth novel. According to the committee in charge of the Meet the Author Series, Frank was a foreign correspondent for New York and Washington dailies during World War II.

Mr. Adam, Frank's best seller book which was published three years ago, is a satire on bureaucracy in government and very humorous," reports the committee.

His current short story in the SATURDAY EVENING POST solves the question—"What can a football coach do when Uncle Sam's call of his dreams is the president of the college?"

Miss Olive Cross, head of the coffee hour committee, extended an invitation to students interested in creative writing, to attend the coffee hour today.

The coffee hour, at Westminster House, today at 4 p.m., sit on the floor, drink coffee, eat cookies, and hear a real, live successful Florida novelist tell how he makes his living that way," said Mrs. Cross.

"Ask him questions, get his autograph if you want it, buy one of his books if you're rich, and leave at 5 p.m." she declared.

Freshmen Hear 'Politicians' At Election Clinic

Approximately 25 Freshmen took advantage of the Sophomore class-sponsored clinic for candidates, discussion on the forthcoming Freshmen election.

The clinic, held on Tuesday after the Faculty Auction, was divided, after a short preliminary meeting, according to the total of 11 offices which are open: president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, chairman three Women's and three Men's Senators, Social chairman, Reporter by Jane Soper, Carolyn Close, Ruthie Williams, Jimmy Sales, Ray Mercer, and Jack Bryan.

It was pointed out that no campus political party would have anything to do with the election, and that there were absolutely no party connections with the meeting.

Candidates for Freshmen offices were instructed to contact the Freshmen in their part of the Sophomore-Freshmen day organization.

This is the first time that such a meeting has been held here. The purpose of the clinic was to orientate the possible candidates into the Florida State University Student Government system, and to create an opportunity for the introduction among the future candidates.

Moore's Move For 'Executive Session' Fails

Senators Vote 18-1 To Accept Kennedy; Murroy Vote Tobled

During almost two hours of debate Wednesday afternoon, the Student Senate confirmed Dave Kennedy as attorney general but failed to reach confirmation on the appointment of Germaine Murray to junior women's Senate.

Kennedy's appointment came before the Senate several weeks ago as did Student Body President Pete Nimkoff's other appointee, Germaine Murray. Murray was named by the chief executive to fill the seat vacated by Mary Louise Dye who edged out the former in the Spring elections and did not return to school this semester.

In both cases the question, whether or not extra-curricular activities would be too exacting on the appointee to permit him to endeavor his self well, was a factor.

The Senate permanent Elections and Appointments committee, headed by Jim Moore, came in a negative report on Kennedy but recommended Miss Murray. In each case chairman Moore voted against the Nimkoff appointees.

After lengthy debate on Miss Murray, Senate voted to table the issue. According to Sturgis' Code of parliamentary Procedure, the rules observed by the Senate, Miss Murray was neither rejected nor confirmed to the vacant Senate seat.

Before debate the Kennedy and Murray appointments, the Senate was asked to go into executive session by Senator Jim Moore, chairman of the elections and appointments committee. The Senate voted down this request.

Moore, claiming that "personalities" would be aired, asked for executive session, to which the outsiders, representatives of the press or any other non-senators may be present. In executive session, members of the legislative body are bound not to reveal the happenings of the meeting.

Bill Stanclk, senior Senator, countered Moore's request, commenting that what happened would eventually leak out, but the executive session would stay in session.

(Continued on Page 4)

For details on Kennedy and Murray debates see elsewhere in this issue.)

"If we have something to say about these appointees," he stated, "let us be man enough not to be in the dark."

Senator Ken Gaulin termed holding a secret session undesirable, and Senator Jimmy Joanos protested that the chief executive and the appointees in question had the right to know what went on. Senators Jimmy Sales and Fred Mansfield upheld Moore's request, Sales arguing that things might be said which would later

(Continued on Page 4)

Catholic Faith Week' Begins Sunday With 'Outdoor' Mass

The First Catholic Faith week to be held here will begin Sunday at 10 a.m. in the Music Amphitheater, with an Outdoor Mass narrated by Dr. James W. Mc Donough of the art department.

A male Gregorian choir will sing the mass, the first event in the Newman-club sponsored week of events, to which both Catholics and non-Catholics are invited, report officials.

Catholic Faith Week is similar to Jewish Education Week and Intelligent Faith Week, both of which are held annually later in the year. The objects of all are to educate students and townspeople on the various religious faiths in the United States.

Co-chairmen of Catholic Faith week are Virginia Sparks and Bob Ireland, officials said.

On Sunday afternoon there will be an organ recital by Gregorian Music, played by Frank Carney, at the Newman House on West College Avenue. The recital will be followed by Franciscan Priest, Father Peter C. Sheridan, will be guest at this event. They said a religious art display on the "Marian Year" will be featured.

At 8 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, lectures will be held in Longmire Auditorium. On Monday evening Father Dray the Newman House lawn Suwannee Makers' Interlude by Henri Gheeon. will be presented by the Martin's Players. Letter Guild, THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU was told.

(Continued on Page 4)

The play will be followed by a "Living Rosary" and a lecture on the "Queenship of the Immaculate Conception," by Father Sheridan. Catholics say that the Living Rosary ceremony has been held by their church quite often at important feasts and events and "is a beautiful service."

Monday morning at 7, a Rich Mass will be celebrated at the Newman House. The coffee hour that afternoon at 3:30 will honor Father Ray-ner Dray, also a Franciscan. An art display on the Mass will be shown in the upstairs parlor of the Newman House, officials of the organization revealed.

At Tuesday afternoon's coffee hour, guests of honor will be the Sisters of St. Dominic, and the priests from Blessed Sacrament Parish. A display on the Stations of the Cross will be featured.

THE CROWNING GLORY—President Doak S. Campbell caps junior class president Harry Massey sophomore, the investiture of Seniors held Wednesday night in the music amphitheater.

Freshmen, Upperclassmen Should Evaluate Student Offices, Officers

Although independent of the partisan battles characteristic of the Student Body elections the past few years, the debut of the Freshman into the realm of politics on this campus has always been a spirited one.

Freshman Class Elections this year will be held November 2, with active campaigning beginning next Tuesday. There is no better way, perhaps, in which the freshman can better learn the functions of his student government than by taking an active part in the student elections, all the while making an earnest effort to grasp the issues at hand.

But it is not just up to the Freshman, but to the student body as a whole to evaluate the officers they have sent to office. The Florida Flambeau this week prints a run-down on the Senate meeting and here we will try to present a view of the Student Senate and their latest moves.

Kennedy Best Choice

After two weeks of discussion, the Student Senate came through with a confirmation of Steve Kennedy as Attorney General. In his new position, Kennedy will occupy one of the most important positions on Student Body President Peter Nimkoff's cabinet.

There is probably no man better qualified for the post. Kennedy, a pre-law major in the field of political science is cited as having the experience and interest needed to hold down the job and hold it down well.

At the Senate meeting Wednesday the Elections and Appointments committee, headed oy chairman Jim Moore, turned in an excellent report on Kennedy, basing their objections on his extra-curricular activities and on his near-impeachment as a freshman senator. It was pointed out, however, that Kennedy now has virtually ended curricular activities, and his repeated election to Student Body offices and honorary posts more than make up for the past record.

Gaster-Moore Conflict

Political speculation on the long wait on Kennedy's confirmation centered lately on men's vice-president Gordon Gaster. Gaster charged that the first move to appoint Kennedy was illegal because President Nimkoff had not complied with the constitution in selecting Kennedy without first "consulting with the three vice-presidents."

On the Kennedy controversy, Senator Jim Moore was perhaps sincere in his stand against Kennedy, although the senate's overpowering affirmation was in effect a vote of confidence for Kennedy. It is noteworthy to add that Moore upheld his opposition to the last, while this was not the case with some of the others. It is always refreshing to see in the senate someone who puts his personal convictions before partisan and personal criticism.

Prior to the debate on Kennedy, Senator Moore made an attempt to table the issue into an executive session, barring all outsiders. Moore contended that "personalities" might be discussed which could hurt the persons involved. Senator Stancik pointed out that information leaking out of a closed meeting might be distorted, while in answer to Moore's contention that it might not help the senate to have their personal opinions on an appointee aired, Senator Gatlin countered that the students had the right to know "what kind" of senators they had elected.

Confirm Or Appoint?

One point of concern in the Student Senate's actions of the past has been the mistaken idea that the constitutional clause which endows them "the power to confirm or refuse presidential appointments also gives them the power to "select" appointees.

In particular objecting to various appointees over the years, the Senate has demonstrated a desire to select, rather than confirm. With a dissenting vote it can stop the appointments of a person legally appointed by the Student Body President, and in that way see a person who is personally preferred by some Senators get nominated for a particular post.

If a Senator has a valid objection to an appointee, then by all means he must speak up. But it is not the Senate's job or prerogative to object merely for the the reason of preferring one person over another.

The Lift File

How It Feels To Be Mugged

How does it feel to be mugged? The Grand Inquisitor was seeking first-hand information, and he asked the question of a man who had been the unfortunate the experience that we read about and hear about as not uncommon in this city today as happening to other people, with no part of town exempt from the police Commissioner has called the terror crime wave.

The man under interrogation had served in a war and never felt a wound. He had lived for fifty years his business had taken him to every part of New York at any hour of the day or night he had never in all that time suffered any violence or even threat of violence to his person.

A few nights ago pursuing a routine of many years, he used his latch key to let himself into his walk-up apartment house and had just got in the. Then he happened

"It happened so quickly," the man said, "that I didn't have time to get scared. I was pinned from behind with an armlock around my shoulders, hauled on the nose and expertly relieved of my wallet and the loose change in my trousers pocket.

Two men were on the job and they must have followed me in when the spring on the door was slow in closing it behind me. They were quite through the same door before I saw the face of either one or got more than an impression of a pair of short stocky figures.

I stood there with a curiously detached feeling — the money was gone and I was out of that piece. Then I noticed that streaks of blood from my bleeding nose were falling on the front of a brand-new suit I was wearing.

That annoyed me and the ahrious recourse was to get where there was cold water to mitigate the damage.

I climbed the three flights of stairs to my own flat, opened that door with another key from my key ring—it seemed that the key ring and the walking aids I always carry were still in my hands—proceeded to the bathroom and looked on the water and saw that it worked on the blood stains.

Then I went to the phone and called the police; but didn't expected them to recover the swag but because it seemed the right thing to do. Which it was not more than three minutes after the cell went in that there was a loud knock on my door and two cops walked in—I'd left the room and asking me questions about what had happened and whether I needed an ambulance to take me to the hospital.

I was glad to say I did not, but I gave them a description and a quite description of the muggers. The cops seemed disappointed but departed most politely after making a call on my phone and telling me that a detective would be along presently.

"In fact the detective came in as the big men in blue were on and he eased me the same questions the cops had asked.

"Since I could tell him nothing more, I lighted a cigarette— then found I still did not offer my guest one—and we sat down to discuss the incident of the evening and the police situation in our metropolis.

"It seemed a fair fact that Commissioner Adams had said we needed 7,000 more cops and wanted 1,000 more for the department, and suggested that if they had been there I could stop my block there might have been no incident.

The detective was of opinion that the prowling radio car was more effective in controlling crime—if, of course, the cops are to answer a call, they are apt to arrive after the horse has been stolen, and the thieves have left town.

"Then the detective, a very pleasant gentleman, noticed that my nose was still leaking into a bib and that I was distributing the drops of blood on my trousers. So he suggested that he'd go along and advised me to let it flow so that the bleeding would stop.

But I know, of course, that I was just going to have no more damage than a bloody nose when I might have been beaten up good and plenty. It was clear that my muggers were only after money and that's about how to get it the easiest way for all concerned.

"Even the bash on the nose was, I fancy, just a part of a professional routine, for the arm-lock had made me quite helpless in a way."

—From Topics of the Times

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor — Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor Joyce Porter
Campus Editors Martin Duckman, Dick Simpson
Sports Editors Jim Jeanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff Bob Cutting, Jack Wormuth, Don Cox
Photographer David Morris
Land Anderson
Copy Editors Sylva Parrish, Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusement Editor David Dess
Art Consultant Franklin Adams
Cartoonist Jim Dugan
Junior Staff George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein, Mary Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jan Bradfield

Business Staff Mary Wogan
Distribution Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity
Telephone 3-8000, extension 6821, 211
Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office at Tallahassee, Florida
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by the students of Florida State University.

Advertising Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17
Exchange Editor Irma Cox

"That's No Eagle"

The Point Is

Campus Political Activity Is Useful

By BOB FOLSOM

The formation of a Young Republican club, and the reorganization of the Young Democrats organization is noteworthy, and I hope they continue to build membership.

It's likely there are many students here who can argue on the issues of the day, can argue on the issues of a fair and intelligent pace, and these are the groups that could foster student participation in local and national political issues at the same time. It would enlighten the political atmosphere among students which seems to be sadly lacking on this campus.

The local political atmosphere isn't too difficult to determine. Several reasons could be pinpointed. Probably most of the student just doesn't concern himself with this subject, because he has little time to afford, or else he cares little about it. Politics, or even its discussion is an engaging subject, and for those who do take the time out to read and study it, often there is no outlet for their stand on various issues.

Those who don't care, should stop and consider what their vote means. For the interested, perhaps the above groups will arouse some fire.

As for the organization themselves, Republican spokesmen say their club will offer a two-party forum on campus concerning local and national issues plus an opportunity for many students to take a close inside look at the Republican Party and find out what it has to offer. Democrats say I'd like to see discussed the Republican philosophy of decentralization of authority.

They have issued a pamphlet, a rather intangible product, stating that the lines of the people are the lines of their party. Formulated, this seemingly clear statement just doesn't concern himself with this subject, because he has little time to afford, or else he cares little about it. Politics, or even its discussion is an engaging subject, and for those who do take the time out to read and study it, often there is no outlet for their stand on various issues.

The local political atmosphere isn't too difficult to determine. Several reasons could be pinpointed. Probably most of the student just doesn't concern himself with this subject, because he has little time to afford, or else he cares little about it. Politics, or even its discussion is an engaging subject, and for those who do take the time out to read and study it, often there is no outlet for their stand on various issues.

Sketches

People I Knew

By DICK VICTORY

There are a few guys you associate with bars. You can't help it. You can try to ill there line after cafe-orfice, but it won't work.

Tom struck me like that. He was small and tan and the corners of his eyes were always dark pink. his eyes were inclined to droopine. also his voice was always surprising. It was deep in volume and strong, almost melodious He wasn't goodlooking in the conventional sense, but he had no end of friends, always attracted by his be-back? air. Human nature seems to be like that

I think he preferred to drink by himself, too. Sometime every time I saw him entering or leaving the Lounge—glass where he used to drink a lot at night—he was alone I lived in the same boarding house with him for a year. It stood right across the street from the Lounge and sometimes at night I would go out on the balcony and wait for him to come home.

I saw him come out of the Lounge walking slowly, placing each foot carefully but without the him of a stagger, and casting forlorn shadows with his back to the bright street light. I would go on into my room before he got up the stairs. He never liked to talk on those kind of occasions

I could always easily hear him tread hy on his way to the bathroom. then hack again. He always came in quietly and I never heard anything out of him after he closed his door and I don't know whether he stayed up later or not.

On Fridays and Saturdays the bathroom and the hall directly outside always smelled strongly of cheap gin. It was really terrible but none of the guys that roomed there took more than grumble a little. I guess they figured that might reduce it to a similar state next weekend. And nobody could ever blame Tom for it even if they wanted to because he held anything better than anyone I knew.

And there was another thing about Tom. If he wanted to get drunk he really had to work at it. It didn't come easy. He would sit there in a booth and down drink after drink with a terrible grimness. That's where he was different. He didn't want laughter back-slapping or any of the rest. Just wanted to be alone.

One night I was sitting about two booths down watching him start to drink and the Lounge was almost deserted. Only myself, Tom and a long-legged young man in a black leather jacket were in the place. besides the two waiters. The latter was painted with shadows. counter-shadows.

I sat there for two hours and watched him. Finally the young man in the leather jacket walked past me and slid into the booth with Tom. He must have been drinking and Tom didn't seem to see him at first and when he did he said something short and nasty. The man got up and walked a few steps away, changed his mind and came back and hit Tom just above the right eye with an ash tray.

I walked home with Tom that night. He had a hard time getting his breath and several times almost fell down on his face. He looked like a buzzard that has had the "flying dust" rubbed from its wings and can only flip through the air in squares. Thats how he was walking—in squares.

I went up to his room with him and on the way he said he didn't know anything about getting in with him. but not everybody. "You know what I mean," he said. "there's just some people a guy doesn't like to drink with."

I never knew ANYBODY he liked to drink with.

How Not To Flunk!

By WILLIE SMITH

Now that students have met the V.I.P.'s on the campus—including the Faculty Advisor—they have settled a football game or two, had aptitude and other tests taken, settled down with roommates, and been rushed off their feet by the watch over them and give them rules on the campus. the time has come for serious thinking. Freshman, where you came the men from the bois? The freshman year in college is not the 13th grade of high school. College freshmen no longer have a paternal high school teacher or principal to watch over them and give them a friendly and personal push toward graduation.

Parents are far removed and cannot see that homework is done, or hold the student's hands when they get homesick. It is a very cozy and confusing experience!

Now is the time to make a sensible schedule — a schedule that will include study, extra-curricular activities, sleep, and fun—all of these in their place and with the proper emphasis accorded to each.

It isn't going to be easy. Temptation to "date" too often, to join too many outside activities, to continue the good times of the high school—all these have to be met and licked. The almost overwhelming desire to be "one of the gang" is ever present. The student cannot hope to continue in college if he tries to cross through his freshman year.

The sound program is the first thing clearly followed

(Continued on Page 4)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

The Dissenter

True School Spirit Is Ambitious

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Tom Nugent and the Seminoles have been playing great ball . . . and it's pretty cool here in Tallahassee . . . but it was an "I'll never have a pansy raid. If we are to believe the cheerleaders and student enthusiasts, I'm afraid there is no school spirit here.

Kramer, however, is getting his name from inside readers of the beat-sailer "Not As A Stranger." The role of the strong surgeon Dr. Joseph Ransom is played by Mitchum and letters have been coming in like crazy. Many people don't realize that Mitchum is a perpetual Doctor Kildare, to handle the role, but Mitchum was cast for several reasons. Kramer explained his casting: "I felt that Mitchum's surprise since I started work on the picture, that I knew he'd have found most of them are big rugged men. They are butchers, but they are also sensitive men in the nature of the work they do. It takes a strong man to cut up human bodies, but it also requires the strain of hours over an operating table. I felt that Mitchum had strong personalities — Mitchum, Broderick Crawford and Charles Laughton — and could play the role."

Kramer's final comment is, "They said I can't do the part. I say I can. That's what makes horse races." I'll stick to Mitchum as a competent actor. Anybody forget SURFACE NOISE. Paramount's "White Christmas" starring Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye and Vera Ellen is one of the best musicals to hit the screen in years. It is a films and not taken from the

So I guess all we can do is dream.

I hope nobody takes my comments made in the forecasting seriously.

Tulane University's pansy raid, in which a group of students ed the theft of her unmentionables was criticized for lack of "cooperation," is an object lesson in the art of confusing issues and of misplaced values.

I don't think Tulane would be so quick to write it off as "childish" or "foolish" because the frivolity of her students had turned to violence.

How is it possible to confuse "school spirit" with an organized, well-aimed panty raid? Just what is school spirit?

School spirit, in the minds of those dedicated to building up their universities, should manifest itself in an all-around interest in university and academic life. Not just football spirit, or pep parade spirit, or "keep-the-campus-clean" spirit, but all around citizenship. Percentage of voting turnout for campus elections is a fairly reliable gauge of school spirit.

School spirit will generally be strongest at a university whose students can be proud of their institution because it has a high level of academic education-in all ways—in developing the students' personalities, character, social maturity AND intellectual. Harvard and Columbia are two of these schools, to be specific.

Let's go further, as we do on the premise that an immature girl has a "panty raid" complex, immature, indeed decidedly unhealthy, it is a sign that she is repressing emotions by possessing, seeing and/or fondling women's undergarments.

It follows that when student participate in "panty raids" they are betraying the fact that their schools have failed to develop in them any sense of maturity; that their university have not met the task of building their characters; that institutions in question has flunked out in developing a citizen.

Consequently, a riot or panty raid is not school spirit but is conversely a manifestation of LACK of pride in one's university. Students who are truly proud of their school don't need to shew it in primitive ways.

It is only at the school which fails in its all-around responsibility that football again mob demonstrations must necessarily be as indications school spirit.

Ecetera Etchings

Selecting Star Roles Is Tough Job

By DAVID DREBS

When a producer makes a film, he doesn't just put a lot of names together and hope for a box-office roaster. He thinks about it a lot and if that actor isn't busy that he wants, he'll postpone it until he tries to get him. Sometimes he must take second-best, but it is the director's job to make him top-best. The casting director, of course, can do anything he desires, but he gives his aide just as much thought.

Take the recently released "From Here To Eternity" was being cast, Frank Sinatra and Montgomery Clift were not had a difficult time influencing the right people. The producer, director, and writer were unanimous in saying the singer over-qualified for the role. There was a question to Sinatra after he produced announced the role to the singer with, Sinatra wasn't liked and his marital difficulties had made him a "bad risk." But the role of Maggio was likable.

Montgomery Clift, known for his high-caliber production, had a lot of criticism tossed at him for playing Lt. Colonel Jackson in "The Caine Mutiny." It was well known that Clift and actor John Hodiak wanted the roles. He got it in the Broadway play, "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial." However, the criticisms were tossed at Johnson because he had always played the "nice guy" dream boy. In his mid-thirties and still playing bobby sox roles.

Kramer, however, is getting his name from inside readers of the beat-sailer "Not As A Stranger." The role of the strong surgeon Dr. Joseph Ransom is played by Mitchum and letters have been coming in like crazy. Many people don't realize that Mitchum is a perpetual Doctor Kildare, to handle the role, but Mitchum was cast for several reasons. Kramer explained his casting: "I felt that Mitchum's surprise since I started work on the picture, that I knew he'd have found most of them are big rugged men. They are butchers, but they are also sensitive men in the nature of the work they do. It takes a strong man to cut up human bodies, but it also requires the strain of hours over an operating table. I felt that Mitchum had strong personalities — Mitchum, Broderick Crawford and Charles Laughton — and could play the role."

Kramer's final comment is, "They said I can't do the part. I say I can. That's what makes horse races." I'll stick to Mitchum as a competent actor. Anybody forget SURFACE NOISE. Paramount's "White Christmas" starring Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye and Vera Ellen is one of the best musicals to hit the screen in years. It is a films and not taken from the

Will Jeff Davis Appear Again?

By JOYCE POTTER

Fall supposedly brings a new look on campus, but when the fall compares to the appearance that the Freshmen bring when they begin to plaster their pulchritudinous eyes and banners on any and everything.

Their slogans range from "Nell's the Belle," Pick Nick," "For John it's Fun, "Hail's the Gal," "Stan's the Man," to "Go Jor Joe," "Get On the Ball With Fred," "Go Ray Today," and right on down the line.

During the 1952 Freshman elections an anonymous character named Jeff Davis was responsible for form of "Down with Yankee indifference, corruption, and special interests on campus."

As the story goes Jeff had always wanted to be somebody. Even when he was a child his mother always told him that he would never amount to anything, that he would be a bum just like his father.

However, Jeff was determined to overcome this handicap. When he was in elementary school, someone drew a lurid picture of the principal on the board, which the teacher asked who did it, the class said nothing. The teacher whaled the dickens out of poor Jeff.

When he went to high school he thought it would be different, but he also was like laughed at because of the clothes he wore and the funny way he talked.

Then Jeff entered FSU. He read in "For Florida Freshmen" about the coming Freshmens elections and decided that this was his chance. Spending his last $4.50 for posters he began his campaign.

His idea for a platform developed one night in the Amber House when he heard a group of KA's joking. He thought their reasoning sounded pretty logical.

Not daring to meet people in public because he knew what the outcome would be, Jeff stayed in his room and made posters for the campaign.

But alas on election day, poor Jeff, who had been disappointed, silently disappeared from the FSU campus. Election officials still grit their teeth when Davis is mentioned.

Not all the platforms are quite as radical as Jeff's but every candidate must have a platform or promise that finds its basis many is a simplification of the registration process.

After waiting in line for hour on the eventful day, changing the schedule completely and standing out afterwards, every President that he can reform the system.

Another favorite, especially with the girls is the changing of the rules and regulations for freshmen women. Not having been before cannot be known if it is hopeless case. they have given many promises.

One candidate a few years back promised that he would do something about the women's regulations. "If the men could be treated like men, then the women should be treated like the gentlemen they are supposed to be" was the slogan. He intimated that the

(Continued on Page 4)

Nugent Eleven Faces Tough Auburn Team Tomorrow

Seminole Spotlight

By Jimmy Joanos
SPORTS EDITOR

The Auburn game should give Seminole fans a chance to see just their squad can do against one of the better teams of the Eastern Conference. Although the Plainsmen at present hold a won 6, lost 3 record in the conference a closer look at their past performances will show that they are stronger than this conferences record indicates. In the three Southeastern Conference teams no team has scored more than three touchdowns against the Tigers. Although beaten by one of the SEC the marain of victory for their opponents has been exceeded seven points. Two conquerors of Auburn have been Florida, Kentucky, and Georgia Tech by respective scores of 19-13, 21-14, and 14-7. On the other hand, let us consider Auburn's only performance of this far this season, against a non-conference foe. In their first game of the year, the Plainsmen blanked Chattanooga 45-0.

In the Southeastern Conference Auburn ranks fourth in total offense. They have averaged 300.3 yards per game Basing on the defensive play of the Auburn Tigers during their last two games Auburn ranks ninth in the SEC for that phase of play.

BACKFIELD BACKS

Auburn backs are among the best to be found. Fullback Joe Childress has averaged six yards per carry this season in 37 tries. His total yardage totals out to 223 yards.

Halfback Dave Middleton has an even better average at 8.8 yards a try. He has compiled 318 yards in 75 carries. I might add that he weighs in at 185 pounds and runs the 100-yard dash in 9.8 seconds.

Bob James, halfback, last year led the Southeastern Conference when he averaged 6.7 yards a carry. Although his performances this year haven't met pre-season expectations, he could become the Tigers' best back before it is all over.

The passer of the Auburn team is quarterback Bobby Freeman. In four games he has completed 25 passes in 40 tries for 297 yards. Coupled with end Jim Pyburn, as a receiver, the duo is a passing combo of high esteem.

POTENTIAL GYM GREAT

It seems that another PSU gymnastics great is in the making. Jimmy Hanks, a junior, in four weeks of practice at rope climbing is already good enough to make the varsity team and will probably compete in all future meets.

During the four-week period Hanks has cut his time from 8.8 seconds to 5.3 for the 30-foot climb. In his first try he couldn't even reach the top.

STEADY PERFORMER—Jerry Jacobs, 208-pound guard, has been one of FSU's most consistent performers this season. The six-foot junior is an all-round outstanding performer who masters both offensive and defensive play. He will be in the starting lineup at left-guard when Florida State meets Auburn University tomorrow afternoon.

BASKETBALL INTRAMURAL SCORES

Monday Night		Kappa Alpha	35
Newman Club	33	Sigma Phi Epsilon	28
Air Force	22	Delta Tau Delta	39
Baptist Students	46	Tau Epsilon Phi	34
Magnolia Hall	12	Phi Delta Theta	14
Penthouse Gang	38	Phi Kappa Tau	13
Senior Hall	37	Sigma Nu	21
Rebels	32	Lambda Chi Alpha	14
Pirates	36	Wednesday Night
Tuesday Night		Baptist Students	37
Alpha Tau Omega	35	Methodist Students	23
Kappa Sigma	24	Newman Club	40
Theta Chi	33	Senior Hall	39
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	33	Magnolia Hall	33
Pi Kappa Alpha	23	Pirates	34
Pi Kappa Phi	18	Rebels	24
		Penthouse Gang	29

Nips, Tucks Face Tiger X-Y Teams

The Florida State Seminoles will fight the Auburn Tigers with a little of their own medicine tomorrow afternoon at Auburn. In contrast to Auburn's famed "X" and "Y" teams, the Seminoles have come up with their "Nip" and "Tuck" teams.

The two-team system has been working out best in the backfield with the Seminoles in games to date, with a lack of depth preventing Coach Tom Nugent from fielding two complete line formations.

Lee Swantic heads one FSU backfield combo, with Lee Corso, "Buck" Metts and John Grimer filling it out. Harry Massey is at the helm of the other with Billy Odom, Billy Graham and Joe Holt or Ted Versprille joining him.

The Seminoles go into this game with only one casualty keeping them from top team condition. Freshman halfback Bill Weaver suffered a fractured jaw in the North Carolina State game and may be out for the remainder of the season, though Coach Nugent has talked of getting him in the game should he allow him to play. Metts is replacing him at right half.

In Auburn, FSU will be facing a fighting team which has lost three straight games by one touchdown after winning three against Chattanooga. The Tigers have dropped decisions to Kentucky, Florida and Georgia Tech in that order.

The Seminoles will have to contend with the slinging Bobby Freeman and Bob James, two of the SEC's finest quarterbacks. No matter which of them is in the lineup, the Tigers are potential scoring dynamos.

Another thing that the locals must guard against is the danger of Auburn's breakaway runners. On several occasions last Saturday, North Carolina State runners were able to break loose for long runs which might have set up Wolfpack scores but for a sturdy FSU forward wall.

Coach Tom Nugent was highly pleased with the way the Seminole forwards contained North Carolina State on numerous occasions when the Wolfpack threatened to score last week.

The steady work of born ilks Al Makowiecki, Jerry Jacobs, Al Pacifico, and many others has made the FSU forward wall a tough nut to crack in the last three games.

If the Seminoles are going to go places they will probably have to depend on a sharp aerial game. This phase of the FSU attack slacked off some in the N. C. State game, but if it could be brought back up to the high degree of accuracy found in the Villanova game, Auburn might be in for a loo of trouble.

Thus far, Sophomore Lee Swantic has been the standout in the passing attack. Swantic hit 13 of 17 aerials in the Villanova contest, and with good protection he can become one of the sharpest passers in the South.

The four touchdowns registered by Tom Feamster lead the team in scoring, and Tom is sure to be one of the major targets for FSU quarterbacks tomorrow afternoon.

Any contest which features a sharp passing game on one side, and a powerful running attack on the other is bound to produce plenty of fireworks, and this one will be no exception. Auburn is fighting mad after three straight defeats, while the Seminoles are riding the crest of a three-game winning streak.

If both teams are ready, this should turn out to be the Seminoles' toughest game of the year.

BILLY GRAHAM—Seminole halfback Billy Graham has been c potent weapon for FSU throughout its four five games of the current season. In last week's 13-7 victory over North Carolina State it was c pass from quarterback Harry Massey to Graham that accounted for Florida State's winning TD.

LEAGUE STANDINGS

Dormitory League	W	L
Rebels	4	0
Penthouse Gang	3	0
Baptist Students	3	1
Newman Club	1
Magnolia Hall	1	1
Air Force	1	3
Methodist Students	1	3
Senior Hall	1	3
Pirates	0	4
Fraternity League
Garnet Bracket:
Alpha Tau Omega	3	0
Sigma Nu	2	0
Pi Kappa Alpha	3	1
Delta Tau Delta	2	1
Lambda Chi Alpha	1	3
Tau Epsilon Phi	0	3
Pi Kappa Phi	3	3
Kappa Sigma	0	3
Gold Bracket:
Phi Delta Theta	3	1
Theta Chi	3	1
Kappa Alpha	2	1
Sigma Chi	1	1
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	1	1
Sigma Phi Epsilon	1	1
Phi Kappa Tau	0	3

CLASSIFIED ADS

LOST — Eye glasses in red leather case. Outside beam name of Dr. Margolis with Miami address. If found, please return to Barbara Cooper, Jennie Murphree Hall.

Keepsake Diamond Rings
Bulova & Elgin Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
108 E. Monroe St. Phone 3-1402

B-r-r-r-r-r !
SWEATSHIRTS - - WE GOT 'EM
COLD WEATHER SWEAT SHIRTS
ALL SIZES — F.S.U. INSIGNIA
(in the Student Center)
UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE

STATE
TODAY & TOMORROW
"Rear Window"
with
JAMES STEWART
GRACE KELLY
SUNDAY & MONDAY
"The Bounty Hunter"
with RANDOLPH SCOTT
FLORIDA
TODAY thru TUESDAY
"A WOMAN'S WORLD"
with
JUNE ALLYSON
CLIFTON WEBB
CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
TODAY & TOMORROW
"Without Reservation"
JOHN WAYNE
plus
"Trail Blazers"
MONTY HALE
SUNDAY & MONDAY
"Lili"
with
LESLIE CARON
MEL FERRAR
SUNBURST DRIVE-IN THEATRE
OUTDOOR
TODAY & TOMORROW
"Jesse James vs. Daltons"
BARBARA LAWRENCE
plus
"Capt. John Smith and Pocahontas"
ANTONY DEXTER
SUNDAY & MONDAY
"Sins of Jezebel"
PAULETTE GODDARD

The New
Garnet N' Gold
DELIVERS
SEAFOOD AND CHICKEN
We Cater to Large Picnics and Parties.
Can serve all types Seafood (Swordfish to Combination Boxes)
Hours—10:30 A. M. to 11 P. M.
53 W Tennessee Phone 2-2892

FAIVER'S DRIVE-IN
1804 S. MONROE
TALLAHASSEE'S LARGEST AND FINEST
OPEN 5 DAYS A WEEK—11 A. M.—12 P. M.
SAT. OPEN 11 A. M. TO 1 A. M.
FAMOUS FOR
FOOT LONG HOT DOGS 25c
HAMBURGERS THE WAY YOU LIKE 'EM 25c
FREE DELIVERY AT ANY TIME
7 DAYS A WEEK

GENUINE
HAND LACED, HAND BEADED
LEATHER MOCCASINS
Glove-Soft Leather

Cream Colored
Sizes 4½ to 9
$2.99

COLORS: White or Red
Sizes 4½ to 9
$3.99
Howard's Shoes, Inc.
107 East College
"Shoes For Entire Family"

Undefeated Miami Rated Over Maryland; Tigers 17 Point Favorite

By DICK DUNKEL

Results c fine Wisconsin-Ohio State and Mississippi-Arkansas games scheduled for next Saturday should shed considerable light on the national college football ranking situation.

All four participants are undefeated, are leaders in their respective sections, and are ranked in the Power Index Top Ten.

Wisconsin, current P.I. leader, with 114.4 must face Ohio State (109.1) in the Buckeye new Columbus ballyard. By subtraction, their ratings show almost 7 points in Wisconsin's favor. That's the amount, per game, by which Wisconsin's record has the edge — against comparable opposition played by both teams to date. But records will probably mean very little when they pull lout the stops on this one.

Little Rock will be the locale when Ole Miss (106.8) runs into Arkansas (104.4), with less than a point difference in the ratings.

Other national leaders show the following Power Index differences over their Saturday opponents.

No. 2 UCLA 38 over Oregon State.

No. 3 Oklahoma, 34 over Kansas State.

No. 4 Purdue, 7 over Mich. State.

No. 8 Army, 46 over Columbia.

No. 8 Minnesota, 18 over Illinois.

And in other leading games around the nation the Index analysis shows:

Thursday—South Carolina 4 over Clemson.

Friday night—Detroit 36 over Tulsa; Miami, Fla., 1 over Maryland; and Wichita 11 over Denver.

Saturday—East: Boston College 37 over Springfield; Boston U. 18 over Holy Cross; Brown 31 over Temple, Colgate 3 over Yale; Dartmouth 7 over Harvard; Navy 23 over Penn; Pitt, 1 over Northwestern; and Princeton 16 over Cornell.

Saturday — Midwest: Cincinnati 30 over Xavier; Colorado 18 over Nebraska; Illinois 8 over Syracuse; Iowa 18 over Indiana; Missouri 9 over Iowa State; and Miami, O., 13 over Ohio U.

Saturday — South: Alabama 18 over Miss. State; Auburn 17 over Fla. State; Baylor 18 over Texas A&M; Duke 24 over N. C. State; Florida 3 over LSU; Georgia 7 over Tulane; Ga. Tech 7 over Kentucky; Rice 2 over Texas; SMU 32 over Kansas; TCU and Penn State, even; Va. Tech 18 over Virginia; Wake Forest 8 over No. Carolina; and W. Virginia 48 over Vmi.

Saturday—Far West: Oregon 13 over San Jose; St. California 4 over California; Col. Tech 20 over Washington 1 over Stanford.

Power Index pairings for all of the weekend's games follow:

AMONG TOP 150

Higher Rated	Lower Rated
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21
So Carolina +20.9 vs Clemson	9.6
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22
Chattanooga +23.1 vs Texas St.	6.7
Detroit +36.0 vs Tulsa	15.1
Furman +23.1 vs Davidson	6.7
G Washton +29.9 vs Emory	10.1
Miami, Fla. +1.0 vs Maryland	0.0
Wichita +11.0 vs Denver	0.0
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23
Alabama +18.1 vs Miss. State	21.0
Arizona +22.3 vs N Mexico	+13.4
Army +46.0 vs Columbia	0.0
Auburn +17.0 vs Fla. State	0.0
Baylor +22.1 vs Texas A&M	9.7
Boston C +37.0 vs Springfield	0.0
Boston U +18.0 vs Holy Cross	+7.2
Brown +31.0 vs Temple	0.0
Cincinnati +30.0 vs Xavier, O.	0.0
Colgate +3.0 vs Yale	0.0
Dartmouth +7.0 vs Harvard	0.0
Duke +24.0 vs N. Carolina St	9.6
Florida +3.0 vs LSU	0.0
E Ky State +13.0 vs Morehead St	6.7
Georgia +7.0 vs Tulane	0.0
Ga Tech +7.0 vs Kentucky	0.0
Illinois +8.0 vs Syracuse	0.0
Indiana +18.0 vs Kentucky	0.0
Iowa +18.0 vs Indiana	+6.4
Kansas St +34.0 vs Kansas	+13.4
Miami, O. +13.0 vs Ohio U	0.0
Minnesota +18.0 vs Illinois	+6.4
Missouri +9.0 vs Iowa St	0.0
Navy +23.0 vs Penn	0.0
Nebraska +18.0 vs Colorado	0.0
Penn St +0.0 vs Pittsburgh	0.0
Rice +2.0 vs Texas	0.0
S Methodist +32.0 vs Kansas	+13.4
Stanford +20.0 vs Washington	1.0
Temple +7.0 vs Villanova	0.0
Tennessee +18.0 vs Wash & Lee	+6.4
Texas Tech +20.0 vs Wyoming	+6.4
Tulsa +36.0 vs Miami, Fla.	1.0
Vanderbilt +18.0 vs Mississippi	+6.4
Virginia +18.0 vs Va. Tech	0.0
Wake Forest +8.0 vs No. Carolina	0.0
W Virginia +48.0 vs Vmi	0.0
Wisconsin +7.0 vs Ohio State	0.0
Yale +3.0 vs Princeton	0.0
Youngstn +26.0 vs Akron	+13.4

OTHER SOUTHERN

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22
Ark Tech +42.5 vs Little Rock	41.0
Memphis +15.0 vs Western, Ky.	0.0
Miss Col +42.5 vs Delta St	41.0
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23
Arkansas +104.4 vs Mississippi	106.8
Auburn +17.0 vs Florida St	0.0
Carr Memphis +42.5 vs Miss Col	41.0
Carr Western +42.5 vs Memphis	41.0
Chattanooga +23.1 vs Texas St.	6.7
Citadel +42.5 vs Presbyterian	41.0
Clemson +20.9 vs So Carolina	9.6
Davidson +23.1 vs Furman	6.7
Delta St +42.5 vs Ark Tech	41.0
Florida +3.0 vs LSU	0.0
Georgia +7.0 vs Tulane	0.0
Ga Tech +7.0 vs Kentucky	0.0
Kentucky +18.0 vs Ga Tech	0.0
Little Rock +42.5 vs Ark Tech	41.0
Miami, Fla. +1.0 vs Maryland	0.0
Miss Col +42.5 vs Delta St	41.0
Miss. State +18.1 vs Alabama	21.0
Mississippi +104.4 vs Arkansas	106.8
Mississippi +42.5 vs Ole Miss	41.0
Morehead St +13.0 vs E Ky State	6.7
Memphis +42.5 vs Carr Western	41.0
Presbyterian +42.5 vs Citadel	41.0
Tennessee +18.0 vs Vanderbilt	+6.4
Texas A&M +22.1 vs Baylor	9.7
Texas St +23.1 vs Chattanooga	6.7
Tulane +7.0 vs Georgia	0.0
Vanderbilt +18.0 vs Mississippi	+6.4
Wash & Lee +18.0 vs Tennessee	+6.4
Western, Ky. +15.0 vs Memphis	0.0
Wyoming +20.0 vs Texas Tech	+6.4

NATIONAL LEADERS

Wisconsin	114.4	Duke	102.9
UCLA	109.1	Ohio State	102.9
Oklahoma	109.1	Colorado	102.5
Purdue	108.1	S Cal	102.3
Ohio State	102.9	Rice	102.2
Navy	102.9	Texas	102.2
Notre Dame	102.9	Texas Tech	102.2
Michigan	102.9	W. Virginia	101.9
Army	102.9	Penn State	101.8
Arkansas	102.9	Oregon	101.7

Maryland	97.7	California	89.9
Miami, O.	97.6	Miami, Fla.	89.8
Cincinnati	97.6	LSU	89.3
Boston U.	97.5	Washington	89.1
Navy	97.4	Wyoming	88.9
Tulsa	97.3	Vmi	88.8
Princeton	97.2	Yale	88.7
Penn	97.1	Tennessee	88.6
Michigan St.	96.9	Boston C.	88.5
Oregon St.	96.8	Dartmouth	88.4
Washington St.	96.7	Villanova	88.3
Pittsburgh	96.6	Clemson	88.2
Kansas	96.5	Wake Forest	88.1
Kansas St.	96.4	Wichita	88.0
Washington	96.3	Colgate	87.9
Syracuse	96.2	Wm & Mary	87.8
Illinois	96.1	Holy Cross	87.7
Iowa	96.0	Harvard	87.6
Missouri	95.9	Villanova	87.5
Nebraska	95.8	Furman	87.4
Iowa State	95.7	Wm & Mary	87.3
Miami, O.	95.6	Va. Tech	87.2
Mississippi	95.5	Memphis	87.1
Ole Miss	95.4	Texas St.	87.0
Rice	95.3	Chattanooga	86.9
Texas Tech	95.2	Furman	86.8
Texas	95.1	Davidson	86.7
Baylor	95.0	Citadel	86.6
Texas A&M	94.9	Presbyterian	86.5
Arizona	94.8	Memphis	86.4
Arizona St.	94.7	Carr Western	86.3
Wisconsin	94.6	Carr Memphis	86.2
Ohio State	94.5	Miss Col	86.1
Duke	94.4	Delta St	86.0
Colorado	94.3	Ark Tech	85.9
S Cal	94.2	Little Rock	85.8
Rice	94.1	Ole Miss	85.7
Texas	94.0	Mississippi	85.6
Texas Tech	93.9	Arkansas	85.5
W. Virginia	93.8	Miss. State	85.4
Penn State	93.7	Auburn	85.3
Oregon	93.6	Florida St.	85.2

* Home Team † Rating unavailable
Copyright 1954 by Dunkel Sports Research Service

Dr. Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX
The Power Index ratings are golf performance averages. Example: Ohio State's 109.1 mean against 10 opponents means that if Ohio State played a 10th team against whom it had average opponents it would win by 109.1 points.
Games Of Week Ending October 24, 1954

VISIT
FRANK'S
. DRIVE-IN
FOR GOOD FOOD
HOT TURKEY SANDWICHES
BARBECUE FOODS
OUR SPECIALTY SEAFOODS
2027 NORTH MONROE
"Twelve Years Serving Tallahasseans"
PHONE 2-9074

FAIVER'S RESTAURANT
1312 West Tennessee
JUMBO HAMBURGERS
all the way . . . 50c
FOOT-LONG HOT DOGS 25c
and
PIZZA PIES
Serving for two $1.00
Serving for Four $1.50
OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK
11 a.m. 'till 12 p.m.
Saturday 11 a.m. 'till 1 a.m.
FAIVER'S RESTAURANT
PHONE 2-4578 TALLAHASSEE

Catholic Faith

(Continued from Page One)
will speak on "The Divinity of Marriage" and Dr. Paul Coughlin, will speak on "Medical Morals in Marriage."

On Tuesday, Dr. James V. McDonnell will speak on "Eucharistic Art." Following this Father Raymond Ambis, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Parish, will conduct a panel on the Mass.

Officials of the Newman Club and a performance by the Sisters of the Lady of LeLeche in St. Augustine will be made to close the week on Friday afternoon and Saturday. Bus tickets, they said, may be obtained from Don Gorham at the Newman House for $2.00 per person. The bus will leave at 5 p.m. on Friday afternoon and will return Saturday evening, they said.

Campus Chest

(Continued from Page One)
nonwealth, which is to tally results of the drive, was put up at the Student Center, according to publicity manager Mary Fenn Cawthon.

"The spirit of the drive so far has been wonderful," she continued. "The response is gratifying."

General Chairman Traxler reported the results of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity Apple Sale last week as $75, while Alpha Chi Omega fraternity has gained $96 selling fudge. Donations include the Inter-national Students Club, $2, and the Student Nurses Association, $9.

"We hope to have all money turned in by the end of next week," she noted. "Groups may turn in profits to Mr. Fred Vogel, Counselor for Student Organizations, in Lonemire basement."

Genuine
PAPER-MATE PEN
Silvered-Tip
REFILLS
in Red • Green • Blue • Black

Only 49¢ each

Exclusive new Paper-Mate Silvered-Tip Refill means smoother, faster writing! Just 10 seconds to insert ... never blots ... dries instantly. Get Paper-Mate Refills wherever pens are sold.

It's MALONE'S
BOOK STORE
FOR ★ Everyday Supplies
★ College Outline Series
★ Pocketbooks
★ Sundries
"Everything For The Student"
107 S. Copeland

Come in and Visit the "New Shoe Dept." and See the Newly Remodeled French Shop

as seen in Seventeen!
as loved by everyone!

RED KID
BLACK KID
BROWN KID
BLACK SUEDE
BROWN SUEDE
NAVY SUEDE

just 6.95

our super-scoop in shells!
with soft-toe, soft-back!
skin-flexible soles!
any-hour good looks!

THE FRENCH SHOP
106 E. College

Dr. Hardee Attends Educational Board Meeting In Atlanta

Dr. Melvene D. Hardee, Director of Vocational Guidance and Counselor at Florida State University, is attending a meeting of the Southern Regional Educational Board in Atlanta, Georgia, this week.

Dr. Hardee was the director of the summer workshop financed by the Southern Regional Educational Board, which was held at Mars Hill, North Carolina, from August 15-26, 1954, and its principal theme was "Contemporary Youth in Higher Education. Dr. Hardee's purpose in attending the meeting in Atlanta is to make a report to the SREB on the success of the workshop.

Dr. Hardee is a member of the Southern College Personnel Association. This organization has been in existence for some time and Florida State University has been very active in the Association during the past years.

This past summer at a convention of the American College Personnel Association, which is an organization of guidance and personnel workers all over America, Dr. Hardee was elected the national Secretary-Treasurer.

Critical Report

(Continued from Page One)
"I do not know his record since then . . . the students have given him their support."

Gatlin argued further for Kennedy, supported by Joanos that he raised the appointee's status as a pre-law political science major as a qualification.

Senator Moore, pressing his doubt that Kennedy would be able to appear at Honor Court on any occasion, challenged Senator Joanos' assertion that the assistant Attorney General would handle the top man's responsibility if he couldn't attend.

Beverly Duperrouzel, whose appointment as an assistant attorney general the Senate later confirmed, replied "That could be one of our duties" to Moore's question.

Vice-President of Men's Affairs Gordon Oaster moved the previous question, that of confirming Kentucky Hall, was taken by roll call, was 18 for Kennedy, 1, Moore's vote, against him.

Among those voting for Kennedy were Senators Bill Stancil, Jo Jones, Fred Mansfield and Nancy Vaughn, members of the permanent elections and appointments committee.

FSU CHEMISTS REPORT DISCOVERY—Miss Barbara Nally, graduate student in chemistry and Dr. Earl Harden, associate professor of chemistry, shows above, are discoverers of a new hypothesis in biochemistry.

Stewart Stars In Rear Window; Woman's World Plays Florida

An air of suspense prevails throughout Paramount's technicolor movie Rear Window starting today and tomorrow at the State Theater. The stars of the film are James Stewart and Grace Kelly.

In the movie, Stewart portrays a photographer for a national picture magazine who is confined to a wheel chair with a broken leg for the entire film. With little else to do he wiles away the time by looking out of the rear window of his Greenwich Village apartment.

What he sees is a courtyard below and the windows of more than 30 apartments opposite him and the occupants therein.

At first his interest in his neighbors is merely that of normal curiosity, folk, he watches a composer struggling with a melody. He sees a thwarted spinster lady, designated as "Miss Lonely Hearts," attempt to set a man.

He also sees a beautiful young dancer frustrated by a composer while dressed in leotards. He calls her "Miss Torso."

There a one couple that hold his attention; a jewelry salesman and his wife, a bed-ridden invalid, who spend most of their time quarreling. These actuments and the mystery as the story progresses.

One morning Stewart looks in at their apartment and notices that the woman is missing from her bed. Later he sees a large trunk being moved and the husband making mysterious trips to his flower plot in the yard.

Later that night, when the woman's dog digs up a set of knives, Stewart is sure that Game Overmanns, Raymond Burr, has murdered his wife.

This is where his trouble begins Other actors in the movie are Thelma Ritter and Wendell Corey plus a large supporting cast.

Woman's World is now playing at the Florida Theater. This technicolor movie is Cinemascope starr Clifton Webb, Jane Allyson, Van Heflin, Lauren Bacall, Fred MacMurray, Arlene Dahl, Cornel Wilde.

How Not To Flunk

(Continued From Page 2)
by a realization that now he is on his own: that he has come to college to prepare himself for an adult life; that to be the Don Juan of FSU is not the most important thing in life. It's going to take real intestinal fortitude for the new student to go to the library when a jam session is scheduled; to be able to shut himself up in a room and study like heck when an attractive member of the opposite sex is beckoning to her class when some of the other fellows egg him on.

A good scholastic record in high school will not necessarily see a freshman through. It is sometimes even a handicap, because if he starts cruising, he may find himself coasting clear out of college and becoming a mere statistic—a statistic that says that of the one million new students entering colleges and universities this Fall, about one-third will fail to graduate.

This is D-Day, H-Hour, and even M-Minute! If the student finds that he cannot stay in college for reasons other than financial ones, it will nine times out of ten, indicate that he is mentally back home in high school and has refused to grow up and face facts; that he does not have the willpower to apply himself and put the values where they belong and do the necessary amount of studying.

Do you want to be a statistic or do you want to get the education that will settle you, mentally and spiritually, for the important adult life ahead of you?

THE DEPARTMENT OF SPEECH
Announces
Charley's Aunt
by
Brandon Thomas
October 29, 30, November 1, 2
CONRADI THEATER
8:15 p. m.
TICKETS:
Students—40c and Activity Stub No. 3
GENERAL ADMISSION—75c
All Seats Reserved
Box Office Opens Wednesday, October 27

Church News

Wesley Foundation

Services will be held at the Wesley Foundation, Methodist student group, Sunday, October 24, beginning with Sunday School at 9:30. At this time Miss Ruth Pyche, Landis Hall residence counselor will speak on "Making Christ a Living Reality on Campus—in the Dormitory."

Immediately following the Fellowship Hour, during which supper will be served at 5:15, Dr. Elston Roady will speak on "The Social Nature and the Social Situation." Mrs. Glenn C. James will discuss "The Church's Attitude Toward the United Nations", and Miss Joan Guthrider will speak on "The Student's Attitude Toward the United Nations"

Gamma Delta

Gamma Delta, Lutheran Student Organization, held formal initiation service for Meta Vishi, Susan Strock, Mary Beaskki, Lucy Gnaedi, Bob Summer, Fred Schille, Jack Sinclair, and Willie Chabek, at Epiphany Lutheran Church, October 17.

Sunday, Gamma Delta's Founder's Day will be celebrated as a dinner, open to the conregation. Proceeds from this dinner, which is charmaned by Bev Reinhold, will go to Campus Chest.

WESTMINSTER

The Westminster Choir plans a number of performances throughout the semester at local churches.

The choir, which is an outgrowth of the Presbyterian student chorus exsists for a quarter of a century, is under the direction of Karl Mohr.

Among its scheduled appearances are a choral program at the Quincy First Presbyterian Church on Oct. 31 and a Bach Cantata, Gott, der bei Sann' an Schlaf at the First Presbyterian Church in Tallahassee, November 21.

The choir has a rehearsal at 6:45 each Thursday evening at Westminster House and also a rehearsal at 5:30 in the Presbyterian Church in Tallahassee at 5:30 each Sunday evening. These rehearsals and performances are open to anyone who is interested in participating in them.

Jeff Davis

(Continued From Page 2)
present regulations are a carry over from the time when girls could not think for themselves. (Poor Soul.)

Most of these politicians base their qualifications on past honors and activities which yeal, "president of the society for the preservation of the ostrich, secretary of the national lilliac club, president of the honor society for placers watches and vice-president of the political party to revive the southern union.

But regardless of what their platform or promises will be, come election time there will be a bevy of Frosh out for office!

Student Senate Split on Murray's Appointment

Ed's Note—The following is a detailed description of the Senate argument Wednesday on the appointment of Germaine Murray to Senate.

BY STAFF WRITER

Ten Senators voted for confirmation of Germaine Murray's appointment to the vacant junior women's Senate seat while only nine voted against her. A vacant elective office can be filled only by a two-thirds vote, however, and the majority vote in the Senate Wednesday was not enough.

Following the failure of the motion etching her confirmation, Senate decided the issue until the entire question was tabled. Tabling action was taken either for or against the appointment of Miss Murray.

Following the defeat of the motion, Senator Jimmy Joanos appealed to those who voted against Miss Murray, asking them to state their reasons. He protested that he was not questioning the right of the dissenting Senators to vote as they pleased, but was seeking actual reasons for any objection to her seat. Senator Bill Stancil, who had voted against Miss Murray, said he voted as he did because he thought there are women in the Junior Class with "qualifications above hers."

Carolyn Close challenged members of the election and appointments committee to explain why they voted against Miss Murray although their committee had recommended her unanimously.

Senator Jo Jones, a member of the committee referred to, explained that the opinions of students she had talked to were responsible for her decision to vote against Germaine Murray.

Women's vice president Jean Tavel hinted that political party affiliations were biasing individual thinking, and said that there so "we're forgetting our responsibility." Vice-president Tavel pointed out that Miss Murray was fourth in a field of only four women running for the three seats last Spring. The speaker cited Miss Murray's experience as a June Counselor at camp and said the latter is capable of working with all students on campus.

Senator Joan Halford, another who voted against Miss Murray, said simply she felt there could be somebody more qualified, and Senator Bobby Temple, another dissenter, said that he knew of someone else who wanted the office.

"Maybe there are others, but where were they at election time?" retorted Senator Jones.

When questioned by Senator Carolyn Close, Senator Temple named Harriet Love as the "other" person he had in mind.

The theme that Miss Murray's extra-curricular activities would interfere with her Senate duties drew angry criticism from Senator Margaret Ann Ballinger, who said she felt Senators "We're none to talk—every one of us has more to do than we should."

Senator Bill Stancil spoke for Miss Murray, criticizing his dissenting colleagues for what he termed as "setting ourselves up as best from our classes." He claimed Miss Murray's grades, which he referred to as "quite high" and her past interest in student government as qualifications.

Presiding officer Coyle Moore pointed out that the vice-president Joan Tavel and spoke on behalf of Miss Murray. He challenged Senator Temple to name the organizations to which the latter belongs, in an effort to disparage charges that Miss Murray would be too preoccupied to discharge her own duties in the Senate well.

"Do you think you have time to be a good Senator?" challenged Coyle Moore.

"I could be a better Senator," replied Temple. He added, however, that he does not plan to run for office.

Continuing his defense of Miss Murray, Coyle Moore argued, "We ought to have an interested person in Senate. If others were interested, why didn't they run for Senate?"

He cited some of Miss Murray's activities, saying that she has less to do than "most of us in here."

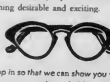
"I'm inclined to believe that there are other reasons. We should set aside prejudices," he stated.

Vice-president Gordan Gaster challenged Stancil's choice of a senator to fill the seat vacated by Mary Louise Dee, stating, "We have our choice of any junior female. Our president is just as individual. If we reject his appointment, he will look for one."

Carolyn Close pointed out that Senate's choice of alternates approved of Germaine Murray to fill Dee's seat. "If you want a job well done, give it to a busy person," she pleaded.

After vice-president Tavel asked for postponement of the issue vice-president Gaster moved to end discussion on the motion before the Senate, then to reconsider the vote which rejected Miss Murray. Miss Tavel then moved to table all discussion. Considerations was tabled 10 for the motion, 9 against.

INTERNS



Interns who wish to receive the Florida Flambeau while they are away at their respective schools should pay $.25 to Dr. R. L. Moore, Senior Class Advisor, or Harry Massey, Senior Class President before leaving.

Enjoy
GOOD RIDING

Trot-A-Way Stables
Old St. Augustine Road
INSTRUCTION - BOARDING - TRAINING
Dial 2-5835
Capt. G. A. Tacot G. A. "T" Tacot, Jr.

A Little Imagination in the selection of frames can change the wearing of glasses from a humdrum, everyday experience, into something desirable and exciting.

• Drop in so that we can show you what we mean, with our fashion - styled Guildcraft spectacles.
Frames Repaired and Lenses Duplicated
Jackson Optical Dispensary
LOCATED IN MOON JEWELRY CO.
Phone 2-0522 105 E. College

GET MUCH MORE FLAVOR
MUCH LESS NICOTINE !
L&M...Now King Size or Regular!

It's the FILTER that Counts and L&M has the Best!

Why do L&M sales soar higher every day? It's the one filter cigarette that gives smokers a taste they can enjoy — a filter they can depend on. Now L&M comes king-size, too, at the same low price as regular.

In either size—only L&M Filters give you the Miracle Tip—the effective filtration you need. Get much more flavor—much less nicotine—a light, mild smoke. Yes,—it's the filter that counts ... and L&M has the best!

BUY L&Ms King-size or regular.
JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED!

L&M—AMERICA'S HIGHEST QUALITY FILTER CIGARETTE

The Florida Flambeau

Art Gallery Featuring Famous Artist (See story)

Friday Is Deadline For Expense Statements (See below)

VOL. XL. No. 9 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — TUESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1954

Senate Debate On Appointee Will Continue

Murray Opponents Steadfast; Changes In Voting Rumored

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The appointment of Gerald Murray to fill the vacancy in junior women's seat in student Senate will be decided again by that legislative body Wednesday afternoon.

The appointments by President Jo Nimkoff produced lengthy debate at last week's meeting of student Senate, at which time the matter was tabled.

Nine Senators voted against confirming Germaine Murray to the vacant Senate seat, while 10 Senators voted for her. A two-thirds vote, however, is required to fill a vacant elective office.

Senate Senators who opposed the appointment at last week's meeting predict no weakening in their ranks at tomorrow's session. There were reports that a few Senator would switch to the majority faction, after learning which supported Miss Murray at last week's debate.

Senator Chase Sophomore Senator and a representative of The Florida Flambeau Saturday night that she was reconsidering her affirmative vote in the light of the discussion she and others had on numerous occasions.

Senator Ian Moore, chairman of the permanent Elections and Appointments Committee of the Senate, who went against the committee's recommendation and voted against Miss Murray's appointment, said Saturday there would be no dwindling of the anti-Murray vote.

Similar comments issued from representatives Gordon Gasior, Jimmy Carter, Scies and Senator Bruno who declined to be mentioned by name.

Some reiterated his stand that there are other women in the Junior class better qualified than Miss Murray for the vacant senate seat.

"I want positive reasons why I should vote to confirm any individual for any appointment," he stated. "Lacking those reasons, I won't vote for her."

Under a constitutional decision Germaine Murray, if confirmed, will not qualified to compete for another junior women.

Votes asked to name the "other women" he referred to, Moore in saying nothing further because I don't feel we should draw names into this."

At last week's meeting, Miss Nimkoff cited the qualifications of Joan Halford, Fred Mashburn, Bob Bentley, Bill Dempsey, Sally Bobby Temple, Jo Jones and Jim Moore as Germaine Murray's.

Women's Vice-president Tavel Morrisseau yesterday, was unexamined regarding comments at the debate at tomorrow's meeting and indicated she will change her stand from support of Germaine Murray to opposition depending upon what facts are allowed as possible Senate.

Student Body President Pete Nimkoff, who appointed Miss Murray to the Senate after Mary Louise Dee, who edged out Miss Murray in the Spring election, did not return to school to be a standing shehind his choice.

I am going to do my best to get Germaine Murray's name through the Senate," he pledged.

The controversy at last week's meeting centered on two suppositions. That Miss Murray would be too busy to discharge her duties well and that there are other women in the Junior Class better qualified for the office.

Supporters of Miss Murray contended that she is no busier than most of the present Senators, and argued that Miss Murray is well qualified, as well as being the only person to show interest in the office.

The time of whether to confirm or reject her appointment was tabled after the Senate had been in session almost two hours, according to Lyle Sumner, president of the Student Body who presides over Senate meetings, the matter will automatically be on the agenda this week.

Also to be discussed at a resolution which would define both Senate and Senate Committee vacancies. In the former case Senate would consider a simple majority as a majority of those present and voting, and a two-thirds majority as two-thirds of those present and voting. Both measures appeared timed at disposing the negative effect of tabulating votes.

Senate meets at 4:15 in the Panhellenic chambers on the second floor of Longmire Building for their meeting.

Applications for membership in various freshmen have been in attendance preparatory to running for the ist freshman Senate seat.

Ray Eberle Selected To Play For Homecoming, Says Foley

Dance To Be Held Nov. 13; All Ticket Sales Start Nov. 4

Ray Eberle has been selected as the orchestra leader for the Homecoming Dance on November 13, it was announced today by Dance Chairmen Bob Foley and Hal A. Smith.

Eberle, a former crooning sensation with the late Glenn Miller's orchestra is following in the footsteps of Vaughn Monroe and Bob Crosby by combining his bandleading with his singing.

Publicity chairman Jimmy Jones announced that tickets will go on sale November 4 through the 12 at the Student center and the Westcott building. Admission is $2.50 a couple.

Eberle's combined the top singer in the country by music journals in a featured role with Glenn Miller, became Miller's vocalist at 18. Just before the war he went out on his own and the war disrupted his career.

The war over Eberle formed his current band and has become one of the mid-west's largest name orchestras. After appearing in several motion pictures he became a featured singer on the Fred Waring Broadcasting System. How he broadcasts over WFIX-TV in the mid-west.

Ray Eberle

Eberle's brother Bob, also a band vocalist for many years with Jimmy Dorsey, has appeared in many night clubs including the Clover Club in Miami.

David Dreis, appointed to a special committee to select name bands said, "while I had nothing to do with this selection, I am certain that Ray Eberle will provide an evening of fine dance music. He joins such homecoming dance orchestras as Sammy Kaye, Vaughn Monroe and Tex Beneke in providing a memorable evening."

Sophomore Class To Discuss Details Of Sophomore Dance

Details of the Sophomore Hop, to be held on November 6, will be discussed at a meeting of the Sophomore Class slated for the Amphitheater tonight.

The meeting, which will follow the Rat Court Session, according to Sophomore Class President Paul Ort, begins at approximately 8 p. m.

Ort urged that as many sophomores as possible attend the meeting, to discuss plans for the Sophomore-Senior Breakfast. The breakfast was postponed indefinitely early this year.

According to Jane Soper, sophomores may nominate candidates for the Sophomore Hop Queen tomorrow and Thursday at the Student Center and Amber House. She also noted that the voting would take place at the same sites on Monday, with finals slated for Wednesday, Nov. 3.

Permission has been granted for sophomores to wear jeans, slacks, shorts or pedal pushers to the Freshman-Sophomore Field Day events.

Also to be discussed at the meeting tonight, according to sophomores, is the Freshman-Sophomore Field day. This phase of the meeting will be led by Ort.

The Meet, scheduled for Saturday, at 2 p. m. at the Band practice field gives the freshmen an opportunity if they win, not only to abandon the rat caps, but also to dunk any sophomore of their choice in Westcott pool.

Ort announced that tonight's Rat Court Session would be a "last ditch campaign" and asked that upperclassmen be on hand to witness it. He also stated that the "dreaded stocks" would be on hand and would "definitely be used on shameless rats."

PHILOSOPHY CLUB TO MEET THURSDAY

The FSU Philosophy Club will hold an organizational meeting Thursday, 8 p.m. in Room 410, Longmire Building, temporary chairman Phil Springer has announced.

Charley's Aunt Opens Here In Four Day Run

Curtains To Go Up For First Showing Thursday At 8:15

Thursday evening will officially begin the Department of Speech's theater season when the curtain goes up on Charley's Aunt for a four-day run in the Augusta Conrad theater.

Tickets will go on sale tomorrow morning in the building.

Directed by Dr. Lynn E. Orr, head of the speech department, drama area, the play features Eberle Thomas as the eccentric who the masquerades as his best friend's aunt.

The purpose of the masquerade is to act as official chaperone one of the boys' girlfriends as they can propose to them. This role has been played by many great performers through the 62 years that the play has been produced.

Others in the cast are Duane Lanchester, Dick Crawford, Kent Schroeder, Nancy Cobbett, Juanita McAnnally, Harold Poe, Franklin Adams, Anita Wall and Julia Pfeil. Orr of this cast only two performers, Thomas and Lanchester, have been on the Augusta Conrad stage before.

Curtain time for each performance will be 8:15 p.m. All seats are reserved and reservations can be made by calling extension 2051. Tickets will also be held at the box office prior set at 40 cents for students and 75 cents for faculty and townspeople.

Lighting will be under the direction of Charles Hutchins who will sets and properties. Mrs. Frances Levine makes her debuts as costumer for the Department of Speech with this play. She is replacing Dorothy Daniel who is in England on a Fulbright Grant.

Senior Hall Holds Barn Dance Friday In Women's Gym

Cake cutting ceremonies and a floor show will highlight the Senior Hall Hallowen Barn Dance this Friday evening in the Women's Gym.

Couples are invited to attend this affair from 8 until 11:30 p.m., it was announced by Hall Chairman, social chairman of the dorm.

Wearing costumes is optional and those who choose to do so are urged to go with feminity regulations. "Informal dress including dungarees, levi's and jeans" was the wording stated Mattmaan.

Ballroom dancing and square dancing will be carried out the evening's events. "It does not matter if you know how to square dance or not," commented Mattman.

Last semester Senior Hall held a similar dance and will make it an annual affair, according to Mattman. Working on the dance are Pat Hutchins, Jean Schwartzman, Duncan Gray, Elston Henley and George Goldstein.

Catholic Week Outdoor Mass Witnessed Sunday By 400

Some 400 spectators assembled in the Music Amphitheater for High Mass Sunday at 10 a. m. Narrated by Dr. James V. McDonough, the mass marked the first event in the Newman Club-sponsored Catholic Faith Week.

University Chaplain Samuel R. Noel Jr., told THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU, "This is the first year that we have had Catholic Faith Week on campus. Father Prefets and the Newman Club are to be commended for the very excellent program which they have planned. It is my hope that through programs such as this we can develop increased understanding and good will between the various religious faiths represented in our student body."

Highlighting the week on Catholicism so far have been an organ recital of Gregorian music played by Frank Carney at the Newman House on West College Avenue Monday afternoon, and a 7:30 p.m. the Marian Study Guild presentation of "Sausage Maker's Interlude," a play by Henri Ghéeon.

Following the play, a "Living Rosary" and a lecture on the "Doctrine of the Immaculate Conception," was given by Father Sheridan. Listeners commented that Father Sheridan's lecture was "most inspiring and very effective."

This afternoon's coffee hour will honor the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, the Sisters of Blessed Sacrament Parish, and the Sisters on the Stations of the Cross.

Also today, Dr. James V. McDonough will speak on "Liturgical Art," to be followed by a panel on the Mass led by Father Raymond Amico, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament parish.

As a conclusion to Catholic Faith Week, a pilgrimage to the Shrine of the Lady of Leche in St. Augustine will be made on Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. The Newman Club said. Bus tickets are $5 per person and may be obtained from the secretary at the Newman House. The bus is scheduled to leave at 1 p.m. Friday afternoon, and will return Saturday evening.

SOPH COUNCIL MEET SIGN UP

All Sophomore Council women are asked to go by the Longmire Bulletin Board in the Longmire Building today and Thursday for Sophomore Hop King and Queen nominations.

Rudd Issues His Opinions On Wagoner

City Judge John A. Rudd issued the following statement on the case of William R. Wagoner in The Florida Flambeau late yesterday.

Rudd explained that he was offering these opinions solely for constructive purposes and did not intend to cast any aspersions or criticism on the Flambeau.

The body of the statement reads:

The Court after hearing all evidence and duly considering same finds the defendant, William R. Wagner, guilty of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace and with fleeing to avoid arrest.

In so ruling the Court feels that perhaps this whole unfortunate affair could have avoided if the college students involved had acted as men instead of juveniles.

The Court further feels that publicity of matters that come in the university paper was incorrect, uncalled for and served no useful purpose. The only purpose it could possibly have achieved would be to create a wider breach between the university students and law enforcement officers. I hope it is not the purpose of the Florida Flambeau to create dissension and disorder in law enforcement officers.

The defendant in this case has done nothing more than hundreds of students have done in the past apparently, and the main reason this case has received any emphasis was because of the unmanly and unlawful act of fleeing on the part of the defendant thereby creating a dangerous situation that caused the enforcement officers involved to threaten to exert severe force.

The standard of conduct and behavior in time of a crisis is far higher and restrictive upon those who live in a law enforcement officers. The law provides for law enforcement officers to exert whatever force is necessary, and is further provided that the law enforcement officer that has become unlawfully those involved in a fracas, to hand an officer is arrested.

The Court is not going to impose any sentence in this case but let this order act as a standard for future conduct and that is, a standard of conduct that the law applies equally to all. This Court is aware of college students and considers disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace to be a college men.

The Florida Flambeau could serve a very useful purpose if it would attempt to create a better American Citizen. City of Tallahassee and its police officers. A newspaper can not be to dissension-minded to be a success. The world is too small to criticize it in a few needs all mediums disseminating news of a constructive nature since so not as a stabilizer and a creator of good will and good feelings.

Ridicule never helped anyone.

Delta Sigma Pi To Hold Meet Thurs.

Delta Sigma Pi, business fraternity, will hold its second meeting of the year at professional meetings, Thursday, October 28, at 8 p.m.

Lee Clowers, president of the fraternity listed a special invitations those in the School of Business who have a special interest in banking to attend. Transportation will be provided for all members and pledges interested. Clowers said that departure will be the circle in front of the Western Building.

'Bit And Spur' Holds Meeting Tomorrow At 7

Bit and Spur, Florida State University's newly-activated riding club, has begun its first semester since the adoption of its new constitution, according to President Bill Stancik.

The club's first official activity, said Stancik, will be a "Get Acquainted," party to be held in Longmire Basement Lounge Wednesday, October 27th at 7:30.

Stancik said that everyone is encouraged to attend. "The purpose of the party is to introduce the officers and old members to prospective members, so I urge everyone interested in riding to come Wednesday night and we'll be more than glad to answer any questions you have about the club."

Stancick continued that one difficulty is often encountered among students who are interested in riding but have little or no experience and think that this makes them ineligible. The purpose of the club is to provide instruction, he explained. Two instructors are attached to Bit and Spur to provide free instructions to members.

Projects scheduled by the club for later in the year include a closed horse show, and several demonstrations and horsemanship which will be open to the public. A novelty feature of the organization is his "Prince of Wales Club," which is open to all members who have fallen or been thrown from a horse.

Officers of the club are Stancik, Lyda Yarbrough, vice-president; Pat Holmes, secretary; Bill Smith, treasurer; and Tom Breese, social chairman. Mr. Ralph Wickiser, Department of Art is the club adviser.

NOTICE TO VETERANS

Students who have had at least 90 days active military service may have their military service evaluated October 25 through November 12. Students are requested to give separation papers, GED tests results, and any certification of military service they have while on active duty to Miss Dorothy Cleveland, Room 103, days through Fridays 8:00-12:00 and 1:30-4:30.

Frosh Election Scheduled For Next Tuesday

Expense Statements Due Friday; Blanks Available Weekday

Expense accounts for all Freshmen who plan to run in the Freshman Class primary elections, November 2, must be turned in by Friday, elections committee member, Mitzi McCullough, said this week.

She continued that this is necessary in order for their names to appear on the official ballot. Expense estimate blanks are available in the office of the Director of Longmire Building from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. on weekdays, she noted.

The completed form," said Miss McCullough, "can be turned in there or at the Student Government Association office, 314 Longmire, between 4 and 5 p.m."

As of Monday morning, Freshmen who had announced candidacy were: President of Class, Graham R. Tuschke and Tom Mosher; Vice-President, Jack Charles, Marilyn Mason, Tom Spain, Jean Hemmans, Jim Clark, Don K. Lewis and Joe Smith; Secretary, Barbara Craig, Judy Johnson, and Louise Peacock.

Treasurer, Bob Hutchins, Sarah Alice McMillan, Barbara Burkhardt, and Pickens Talley; Social Chairman, Kaye Kinnel, Sara Anne Whiting, Rea Bush.

Bush's senate, Mack Mannas, George Irvin, Jr., Don Talebon, Peter Dunn and Jan Kasabuski. Declaration of Candidacy was scheduled to end at 5 p.m. yesterday.

Committee member McCullough added that each person campaigning will begin today at 5 p.m. "All posters or other literature appear before that time, the candidate may be fined or disqualified."

"Candidates should read carefully the section in the elections code on campaign posters. No nails or tacks may be driven in trees or in the walls of buildings.

CAMPAIGN LETTERS

Freshmen running for office in Thursday's primary elections may submit campaign letters to The Florida Flambeau by noon for publication in Friday's edition.

The letters, which must be turned in at the latest Wednesday, may not be more than 250 words, due to the volume expected. They may be typed, and it shall be held responsible for the damage if the individual whose name is placed is not identified."

The four polling places for the Freshman Class Elections will be Westcott Building, the Student Center, the Commons Club and West Hall. Members of the elections committee and Sophomore Council, it was continued, will be authorized to keep the polls open and enforce all regulations of the elections code.

Names of Freshmen who had declared candidacy but prior to Monday evening were given to the Florida Flambeau last night at press time. They are:

Class President, Karl Belyeu, Jim Bennett, Jr. (Jan) Keros; Vice-President, Martha Douglas and George Kite; Secretary, Jean Hemmans, Mary Jane Albers and Martha Orisard.

Treasurer, Peggy Edwards, Barbara Jean Little, Carolyn Baker, Sa'sane Stokes, and Kay Stebbs; Social Chairman, Elaine Gilmore, Glenda

Men's Senate, Kaye Horton, James Baird, Bill Stripland, Jack Taylor, Jim Kennedy and Ronnie Shoe.

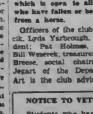
Women's Senate, Barbara Chambers, Linda Crossland, Lis Lander, Elaine Brenton, Malibu Hunt, Jacqui Charles (changed to Women's Senate from Vice-President), Ethel Pendleton, Mary Ann Hall, Starr Culpepper, Carol Kerr, Lis Carey and Martha Hall.

Others completing the list of Freshman candidates.

'One Man' Exhibit By Famous Artist Opens Tonight At FSU

(See Photo on Page 4)

Karl Zerbe, famed artist-teacher, will open a one-man exhibition tonight in the University Art Gallery. The exhibit is sponsored by the official opening of his Tallahassee exhibit from 7:30 to 9:30 tonight in the University Art Gallery.



One of the founders of abstract patterns in American art, Zerbe has been called "the most versatile artist-teachers in the country," according to Dr. Adolph Kari, director of the School of Art in the Department of Art.

Zerbe's Florida Show will be an FSU Homecoming feature, presenting 52 versatile works made up of watercolors, oils, pastels, gouache, six opaque water colors, three drawings and nine woodcuts.

Dr. Kari announced that this exhibit is one of the most important ever held in the Southeast. Any institution that goes through the trouble to present a show like this should.

For the current academic year, Zerbe is a visiting professor in the university's Department of Art. He is on leave for the first time in 17 years from the Rodon Museum School of Fine Arts where he heads the painting department.

Born in Berlin in 1903, he grew up in Paris, Frankfort, and Munich. His work has been bought by his first one-man show in 1932 at the age of 19. Almost immediately he was traveling scholarship which allowed him to spend the next three years in Italy and Greece.

Karl Zerbe

Since Zerbe came to this country in the early 1930's and soon began receiving critical and financial recognition as an artist. Art Digest called him "one of the few artists in America, he is a product of many national streams."

At present Zerbe is working about 20 advanced art students. He has nearly completed five paintings during the six weeks he has been in Tallahassee, intended for the opening of a new show in New York.

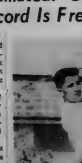
"Most amateur art consists," Zerbe said, "of trying to find a style." He says that the artist must be a student of life, and study birds, trees and color tones in nature. He has

(Continued on Page 4)

Outstanding Amateur Golf Champ Boasting Impressive Record Is Freshman At Fla. State

By WILLIE SMITH

Fresh out of high school and sporting a background few people can experience in a lifetime, Dick Hauff of Chicago is the newest addition to our growing athletic department.



Within a five year span, Hauff has competed in more than 100 golf tournaments. He has been the winner or runner-up in 15 of these major tourney and third or fourth in fifteen others.

Hauff will appear in a guest November 4, in Chicago, on Sports Highlights, nationally famous radio-TV program which interviews sports celebrities Saturday Evening Post and Esquire magazines are in the process of writing features on Hauff for future publication.

Hauff stands five feet, five and a half inches and weighs in on one hundred and fifty pounds. Born in Bandersnatch, Iran, in 1936, Hauff came to the United States when he was eight years old and has since become a citizen. He was educated by Major Frank Hauff of Chicago. Five years ago Hauff started his career in golf and he says that it was the financial aspect that brought his attention to the game.

At the age of twelve, Hauff played his first game, shooting an 83 for 18 holes. Hauff placed third in the first tourney he entered in the National Junior Tournament for the Herald-American Junior Open, when he was only thirteen.

Since then he has been written about in the Professional Golf Association magazine, Golf Monthly, Sports, Golf Digest and in numerous papers. He has appeared on radio, television, and has been seen in sports newsreels throughout the country.

Dick Hauff

(Continued on Page 4)

Flambeau staff photo by Joe Caldwell

NEWEST THING IN TRACK—Shown above are members of the cast of 'Charley's Aunt' during a rehearsal. Spokesman said on banana peels will be allowed on stage.

Vice-President Nixon Continues The Old Cliches Of 'Trumanism'

When history is recorded it's likely the crowning achievement of Vice-President Nixon's pre-election hoodwinking will be his naked implication that the Democratic Party is closely associated with the Communist Party. He arrived at this in an easy but not entirely new fashion.

All he did was bring up the stale cliche that the Truman program covered up and cleared the Communists and the security risks. Then he said: "Why is the Communist Party of the United States fighting so desperately and openly for the defeat of Republican candidates for the House and Senate and for the election of an anti-Eisenhower Congress? Part of the reason can be found in the fact that the candidates running on the Democratic ticket In the key states are almost without exception members of the Democratic Party's left-wing clique which has been so blind to, and has tolerated, the Communist conspiracy in the United States."

Using the well-known numbers game, he also cited 12 cases to substantiate his charges against the Truman administration. But obviously it can be shot full of holes. It was a matter of "security risks." He outlined an example by saying a government employee's record showed him to be a member of the Young Communist League during 1936-38, that he attended CP classes, and that he was a dues paying member of the party.

This member worked in Government during Truman's administration and then when the Republicans came in, this person was fired.

We suppose this is to mean the Republican administration is a fearless defender of democracy, while its opponents apoaremtly condoned these "security risks" in our government.

In actuality, this is only a small appetizer. We are never fed the main course. We are not told if the person might have later renounced his membership, we are not told if the person committed any acta of treason, we are not told if the person might have faithfully served his country —we are only told he was once a Communist Party member, and therefore is a "security risk."

There are many others: Communist Party members turned informer, people who have renounced their membership, people who associated with former members who still work for the government. These people aren't labeled "security risks."

With his vague inconsistencies, Mr. Nixon has taken over the smear campaign from Joe McCarthy lock, stock and barrel. He is also prolonging the atmosphere of national insecurity.

It is, of course, a typical showing of what politicians will do in an election year. But it's doubtful any election year has seen this kind of campaigning. Its unfortunate too that the Vice-President has taken the leading role as mudslinger. In doing so, he assuredly has rebuked the Chief Executive, probably to the pleasure of the Republican "old guard."

Surely the voters aren't so gullible as to believe everything Mr. Nixon has fed them. The Republicans seem to think so, though. If they're wrong, Mr. Nixon has pulled the stops on his fast slipping party.

Some Ambitious Plans

The Justice Department's plans to prosecute Owen W. Lattimore are indeed ambitious.

Mr. Lattimore is under indictment on charges of lying to the Senate internal security committee in testifying he had never been a follower of the Communist Party line or a promoter of Red interests.

U. S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl had thrown out four of seven previous charges against Lattimore. Two were reinstated by an appeals court.

Then on Saturday in a precedent setting move, the U.S. attorney handing the case filed an affidavit accusing the judge of bias and prejudice. In what seemed to be an attempt to weed a clear path towards Lattimore, the affidavit accused Judge Youngdahl of having "fixed, personal bias and prejudice towards the government." The judge flew into the affidavit.

Just exactly what the motives of the Justice Department are can only be speculated on. We think a judge will recognize any substantial evidence. We also believe a U. S. District Judge should bear more confidence than this, or not be awarded his position in the first place.

Perhaps the judge best sums it up. He said "the affidavit was based upon the virulent motion that a U. S. judge who honors and adheres to the sacred constitutional presumption that a man is innocent until his guilt is established by due process of law has a 'bent of mind' that disables him from conducting a fair and impartial trial to which both the accused and government are entitled."

Avoiding A Scandal

An Arkansas bank president who has been sharply criticizing the proposed Dixon-Yates deal is right about one thing at least. Unless this entire deal with a chosen syndicate is made public there will be a national scandal, says Arthur E. McLean, president of the Commercial National Bank of Little Rock. Mr. McLean says he wants to save Mr. Eisenhower—whom he voted for and hopes will make a great President—from such a scandal.

Yet the fact that this Dixon-Yates power scheme seem hard to convince that frankness is going to be necessary. Representative Cole of New York, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said only the day that he plans to give concerned departments and agencies of the Government alone an opportunity to be heard when hearings start Nov 4.

What about the 149 public power systems in the Tennessee Valley, with an investment of $400,000,000 at stake, who want to be heard? What about the American Public Power Association, whose member systems throughout the country may be adversely affected? What about the Von Tresckow group, which offered a competitive bid and got only a cold shoulder and a deaf one?

The kind of hearing Mr. Cole is speaking of is not the kind Mr. McLean is speaking of, or the kind the country needs. It would not avoid scandal, but authenticate it with the force of law. Senator Chairman Cole and other Dixon-Yates defenders would do well to start thinking in terms of a hearing in which attention is given to every proper witness and every relevant fact.

—From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch,

Did-Ja-Ever . . . .

Make liars out of Morris chair?
It's better then on a circular stair
—Don Rapp

College Tries Liberal Policy Of Class Cuts

Chestertown, Md. (I.P. —Washington College has liberalized class attendance following an extended study made by its Academic Council. The faculty expressed the belief that to require more students would result in a higher standard of academic performance

Under the new policy, juniors and seniors who maintain averages of 1.75 or better through their last complete semester shall be allowed unlimited absences. Further, juniors and seniors whose averages for the preceding semester were 2.00 or better shall be permitted unlimited absences regardless of their cumulative averages. The present grading system is based on a numerical value of 3.00

Detailed surveys of the two upper classes indicate that under the new cut system the number of students excused from required class attendance would be approximately tripled. These new regulations are effective immediately. They are promulgated on the assumption that privileges extended may be withdrawn at any time at the discretion of the faculty and the administration.

Under this liberalized system there is no control over the total number of class absences permitted to a student shall not be required to attend. The privilege of absence from grading treated lightly. However, such indulgence as illness, death in the student's family, regularly scheduled military activities, and participation in scheduled college activities, and participation in other legitimate occasions shall be deemed sufficient for excuse of the unlimited cut privileges.

Excused absences will not be given by reason of weddings, jobs off campus; attendance at fraternity or other conventions except as one of two official delegates; veterans' business other than medical; interviews for positions; financial transactions. Exercise of the privilege will be authorized for use in emergencies only.

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ... Jinnie Porter
Campus Editors ... Martha Dickman, Jay Robertson
Sports Editors ... J. Joanes, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ... Bob Gunning, Alan Whitmore, David Morris
Photographer ... Lloyd Anderson

Copy Editors ... Sylvia Parrish, Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusements Editor ... David Dries
Art Consultant ... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ... Con Horn
Junior Staff ... George Goldstein, Jerome Bowen, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jen Bradfield

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.
Mary Liz King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ... Mary Wogan
Distribution ... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service 420 Madison Ave., New York 17
Exchange Editor ... Irma Cox

Telephone 2-8000 extension 6621 or 211
Entered as second class matter at the Florida Union, Tallahassee, Florida.
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Lately It Seems

All Opinions Are Not Convictions

By ORCHID ALONSO

Convictions. Lately it seems as if that is the only thing people want to talk about. And The Flambeau started it all. In Friday's editorial, in reference to Senator Jim Moore, it was stated that it was refreshing to see someone in Senate who stood up to their convictions even when losing point was he could ever gain.

Now every Senator with an opinion is bawling with indignation. "We have convictions, as we've got pride."

The main reason for this ever to that there are also others who have convictions. For instance, we cite the maddening circumlocutions governing the Senate's sessions on Student Body President Pete Mankin's appointment of Germaine Murray to fill the vacated seat of Junior Senator Marie Louise Dee.

Some Senators have decided opinions on whom the president should or should not appoint for that office, and these Senators wish to call their political footballing "convictions." We have a decided conviction that such a feat is not their business nor Pete-right.

If we adhere to the "intent of the law," then we have to reasonably assert that since the Student Body President is given legal power to appoint, and the Student Senate legal power to confirm or reject these appointments, then it is the sole job of the Student Senate to confirm or reject the President's legal appointments on valid grounds.

The far the most disheartening blow to our convictions is to see Senators who claim power to have the authority not only to reject an appointment with no real grounds, but to suggest a specific party whom they were sure could do a better job.

Now we have no convictions to offer on whether Miss Murray or Miss Harriet Lowe (suggested as a possible replacement of the Nimkoff appointment) would be better. We simply have no convictions as to whether President Nimkoff did the best he could when he maintain our conviction that it is not up to the senators to decide that question, unless they can cite specific instance to prove their arguments. Without proof they have neither case nor reason.

Hmmm. It has been suggested that to alleviate the mistaken identity in so far as whom is going to do which job . . . that the interested parties do some long range thinking and planning and make some suggestions to the President, forthwith. Of course, we know not whether any member of the present Senate is capable of such long range planning. It seems almost as if they specialize on quick trigger fingers.

. . .

Coming soon—election promises and party platforms—what our elected officials are doing about them . . . or just plain what are our elected officials doing? Personally, after seeing a few Senate sessions and setting a report on Supreme Court proceedings we could almost apply some Amber Nimkoff therapy . . . What do you know good—or are you no good?"

The Dissenter

GOP Smear Tactics Are Ineffectual

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The smears are working well for the Republicans. They stand in danger of being described soundly as the good men they are doing.

When the dawn breaks on November 3rd, there will undoubtedly be a lot of soul-searching among Democratic strategists, but the current Republican campaigning on the part of the Republican top echelon and their spokesmen in the press and radio have nobody to blame for their defeat but themselves, if they lose.

One of the things they may have learned in this current campaign against the Democratic Party is that smears and ineffectives at best, possible name-calling and Communist sympathizers next door, don't work.

Confusing anything which Democrats do with the benefit of too many with Communism is a favorite Republican tactic which is failing so well now. The people are beginning to realize that even thefts of public property as the Dixon-Yates Deal are worse than a little Red-baiting, a favorite term "creeping socialism."

Those days when Democrats were broken, pledges which haven't been kept, pots of gold which haven't been discovered, and into thinking the Republicans happily very small."

The smears and innocent mudballs have ranged from McCarthy's wild "twenty years of treason" charges to the Republican pamphlet issued by the Young Republicans Club here on campus.

The FSU Young Republicans circulated a bulletin recently, in which they said that Adlai's Democratic party visitors is coming to Florida. They ruined with coherence the Democratic party, however by simple insinuations to Democrats that they're not political.

In the average American mind, left-wing means Communist. To call anyone left of the center or the truck driver or the boss' daughter a Red is ridiculous. It doesn't have the time to analyze politics in detail, left wing simply means Red, and Republican use of the extreme right which is Fascism, Nazism, is not Communism, to him.

Confusing anything which Democrats do with the benefit of too many with Communism is a favorite Republican tactic which is failing so well now. The people are beginning to realize that even thefts of public property as the Dixon-Yates Deal are worse than a little Red-baiting, a favorite term "creeping socialism."

Those days when Democrats were broken, pledges which haven't been kept, pots of gold which haven't been discovered, and into thinking the Republicans were for them—they are things of the past, and the Republicans are desperate.

They have made charges which they know to be untrue to prove. They claim no many "security risks" have been found, but like a snowball thrust into an oven on the side of their boast dwindles and dwindles.

Senator Richard Russell of Georgia put the Republicans on the spot recently when he pointed cute in Air Force appointments. He said Republicans who are screaming about alleged Democratic security weaknesses.

Senator Irving Ives, running against Governor Averell Harriman in the Democratic New Deal state, has so far wisely refrained from calling Averill Harriman, a dictatorship and the New Deal public servants, a communist conspiracy or security risk or loyalty risk. Ives has stung other types of mud, but he has kept away from the popular propaganda of the rest of his party. Perhaps he realizes the futility.

Their smear campaign, many feel, is in the forming, has fallen apart because it is too fantastic. They won't realize the campaign issues are not Communism, but national issues until after the election—when they will probably have lost.

But when the Republicans don't focus as well on National issues, either,

Etcetera Etchings

'Subtle Tones' In Movies Pay Off

By DAVID DREIS

Sex is such a beautiful substance and Hollywood is making the most of displaying it in thrills within the Breen office. Of course Hollywood does display it for many years and no fraternity smoker would be complete without Hollywood efforts, but Hollywood proves that by not "pulling-it-out" the sex sensation is experienced—if I may use the terminology.

The last movie I saw was Hahn's The Young Caruso starring some Italian warbler and -shem-Gina Lollobrigida. Now I'm not a person with Marie Lanza and Ann Blyth movies, but Gina, I mean in the romantic sense. It was during the Italian Neo-Realism Films Export which dub in English speech so perfectly that you didn't realize it's an Italian film—except for their extra comedians.

Of course the word is suddenly for American films and Gina is their new star. Recognized because it was indeed subtle. Formerly conservative Italy was appreciative of the British films was seen dressed in a tight fit, low cut dress also was as 'subtle'.

Now in Hollywood Fox is making The Seven Year Itch with Tom Ewell of the Broadway version and Marilyn Monroe of any version. Of course Vanessa Brown and Sally Forrest held the sizzler roles on the stage The scene where Marilyn's dress is blown by a warm vent has been well publicized, but let me tell you of another scene

A Better Measure

Two Party Comparison Is Shown

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

The old saying that 'history repeats itself' can be seen in action on the FSU campus today in the new Republican Young Republican Club and the revitalized Young Democratic Club.

Both these clubs are working toward better government in State and National levels the same way the Student and State Parties are working for better means of student Government on campus.

The establishment of two party representation seems to be part of a nationality of ideas which is slowly but steadily destroying the one-party monopolies of the East, West and Southern parts of the nation.

The alignment of the voters to the national party instead of regional economic means of voting for the first time in American history. The country is on the verge of having a competitive two party system in the 48 states.

But exactly what does a two-party system mean to Florida and the south as a whole. The 1952 Republican Platform stated in regard to Civil Rights that "We . . . believe that it is the responsibility of every state to order and control its own domestic institutions . . .

Calling The Card

A Reappraisal

By WILLIE SMITH

You go alone and try to accept things the way they are as on the FSU campus. People come up to you with many peeves and they tell them there is nothing you can do about it. I dedicate this article to those individuals who have come to me and have voiced their opinion in wanting our school to grow up.

They come because they consider you a radical. You do not like the state and you're stick with it. So are the students stuck.

You're stuck with a school that has the plainness of "FSCW." The school is living in a shadow of its old self. These gripes stem from something.

The students are satisfied, then they are unsatisfied. Somone will come along with a rejuvenation program. For awhile the battle cry is carried by the student body. Then it fizzles out and we go back to the drab mainly way again.

These arguments are voced not only by me, but by many whom I have talked to. They must realize dissatisfaction the fact that FSU is still young and in its growing stage. Things cannot be changed over night. All must realize this fact. Their gripes center around three main points.

The students are restless. They want to be treated as adults. They wonder why the school still pampers them. They look at other schools throughout the country. They look at the University of Florida. What they see makes them sick and want to get out.

The University of Florida is under the same Board of Control as FSU is. U. of F. is what they consider a very progressive school in that the students are dealt with as adults.

What are they holding FSU back for? Are we a different type student? Don't we know how to conduct ourselves? Are we bad children? Why is it that when a student carries out a prank that most of us are guilty of, he is put on academic probation and must be in his room at 10 p.m. five nights out of the week? I wonder, you must too.

Faculty advisors are a must in any school. We need them to advise—not to run our lives. Instances have come up where students have been suspicioned in their thinking. We have rights that must be accepted by our advisors. Suppression certainly is not the answer to a more coordinated student-faculty relationship.

And for the students themselves We must learn to pull together. Everywhere you see divisions instead of working against each other, we must pull together. The Greeks and the Independents must learn to respect each other and become a solid student body. If this can be accomplished, and I can, perhaps the respect of the administration will be gained and then they will trust us the way we should now be treated.

We have the potential of being one of the best schools in the nation. Our physical plant is beautiful. We have the material makeup. We now need cooperation, and sitting around and talking about it will not give us what we say we want.

Letters To The Flambeau

Campus Chest Thank

Dear Student Body of FSU:

This year 40 per cent of the Campus Chest money goes to the Community Chest which is 5 cent to March of Dimes; 10 per cent each to the TB Association, Red Cross and National Association of Mental Health and 5 per cents to Local Service Foundations.

On behalf of these charities I wish to thank you for your generous contributions.

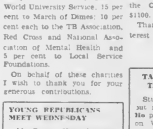
Most every organization has organized beautifully for Friday. I hope to publish a more detailed report of the results of the drive. At the present time the Chest has approximately $1100.

Thank you again for your interest in Campus Chest.

Shirley Frasier.
Chairman 1954-55

TALLY HO PICTURES TAKEN TOMORROW

Students who have paid for, but not yet had their Tally Ho picture taken may do so on Wednesday, October 27, in Union Ballroom. This is a chance for those who bought pictures but did not have them taken, announced Tom Woods, editor.



Those students who have had their pictures taken must come by the fourth floor of Landrum Building and pick up their pictures, Woods concluded.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS MEET WITH GUEST

Mr Payton Yon, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Tallahassee, will speak to the Young Republications Club, tomorrow

The meeting will be held in 410 Lonsmire at 7:30 p.m. The organization will make plans for their new programs to be given this year, and appoint committee chairmen.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Hunter's beefcake in Island of Desire. Marlon Brando got extra raves on corn shirt in Streetcar Named Desire. Yes, I certainly goes both ways. In the early forties men went wild watching Betty Grable strip in a flight of stairs. In the same time Lana Turner was up-staging at Jane Russell in The Outlaw, and now it's Marilyn. It seems to be box-offices and it's the box-office which supports Hollywood

Hollywood Gossip: The Las Vides Theater, counterpart to the long running Las Radio Theater is following the same format . . . they set stars who are not, have been in the past to play these roles on the newer tools in the box. . . . Sterling McGuire has been seen in the Olivia DeHavilland role in To Each His Own, Ann Blyth as in the Rina Crosby role on Mother Is a Freshman, and Jack Derek in the Montgomery Clift part in A Place in The Sun. Gene Stratter and Jane Russ cause claims Tony Curtis is 29 years old and that all the Hollywood heralds look pretty good with Lucille Grimes, the starlet showing as much effect as the chorus she directs . . . Dale Carver and Ellen Snow always refreshing . . . Shelley Winters will be on video one hour ALONE doing Sorry Wrong Number made famous on radio by Agnes Moorehead and on screen by Barbara Stanwyck. . .

However, we believe the Federal Government should take supplemental action within its constitutional jurisdiction to prevent discrimination against race, religion or national origin."

It was this section of the platform which resulted in the recent Supreme Court decision on segregation.

Dispite the Civil Rights plank, form the state of Florida made a large step in favor of a two-party system by voting Republican in the Presidential election. It would seem that the two American politics are achieving

(Continued on Page 6)

Revenge - Hungry Plainsmen Defeat Seminoles 33-0

From The Sidelines

By Alan Whitmarsh

Sports Staff

IT NOT BIGTIME—

What transpired on the Auburn gridiron last Saturday afternoon served to prove one thing, something that has been proved on three occasions this season, and on that one more occasion will be put to a test: Florida State University's football team is not big-time in any customary sense of the word, at least not THIS year.

Certainly, Louisville, North Carolina State and Villanova do not have "big-time" teams this year, that much is certain, and when the Seminoles have been pitted against three teams of better than average, though certainly not top caliber, they have failed miserably. Not only have they lost all three games, but to add insult to injury they could not score a touchdown on any of those three occasions.

We refer, of course, to Georgia, Abilene Christian and the ferocious Auburn Tigers. All three of these teams stopped Florida State's offense dead with the exception of the effective passing attack against Auburn. If in no other way, compare statistics of the three Seminole victories with those of their three defeats—and one can see the difference between a small and a big-time football team.

TIME IT SLOW

The Seminoles may be making the same mistake made by the university of Miami a few years back. As Florida State is doing now, the Miami school tried to move into the big-time with a little too fast—getting the schedule that they had the team to play it with. The results were disastrous, as they always are when you put the cart before the horse.

What makes the difference between "small-time" and "big-time" football? Is it in the size of the schools involved? Hardly, when schools of 6,000 students such as Auburn and Georgia Tech annually compete with and better some of the largest universities in the land on the football field. Why is our own school still evidently lacking in "something" which can vault them into the national football headlines.

That "something" of course, is big-time talent. In most of the FSU's ballplayers have come here from small high schools. Except in recent years, the Seminoles have been overlooked by the University of Florida or the University of Miami for the top high school stars in the state. A prominent go first-class without first-class talent.

FIRST CLASS TALENT

We used to go into the big cities, after the big boys, and get players who made state-wide headlines and will make state-wide headlines as college stars here. Many Southern coaches have advocated the policy of northern tours to get such players, but still many more have been able to make their schools attractive enough to top players of their own state and thus built up national powerhouses.

In a nutshell, the difference between large and small-time football lies in the caliber of the play. Not in the size of the school, the size of the players, but in the caliber of the players involved. In this respect, Florida State remains a big-time small-time class.

The schedules are made and the stage is set—but how many more performances like Saturday's Auburn exhibition can the "big" schools may come to the inescapable conclusion that the Seminoles are still small-time, and at present how right they are.

Classy Auburn First Stringers Used Full-Time

Game FSU Eleven Fumbles Costly As Tigers Score Early

By Sports Writer

The Auburn Plainsmen, their ire aroused, relentlessly pounded FSU's young and coming Seminoles at Auburn Saturday, 33-0.

Three factors figured prominently in the huge difference in score:

(1) It was Auburn's first home game and the students wanted to see a few points as the Tiger side of the ledger for a change. They did. Auburn coach Ralph Jordan had Bobby Freeman, Jim Pyburn and Fob James in the game almost throughout in an attempt—a successful attempt, we might add—to bury the visitors beneath a big score.

(2) Three straight losses had the Plainsmen in an ugly mood.

(3) The toughest, meanest, biggest bunch of linemen the Seminoles will face this year were rushing the FSU passers badly and offsetting inconsistent yardage the Tribe was getting through the airlanes.

A Fob named James was the biggest thorn in the side of FSU. James gained an average of 8.8 yards per carry, while running for 111 yards. He scored twice.

THE YARDSTICK

	FSU	Auburn
First downs	14	20
Rushing yardage	48	321
Passing yardage	137	106
Passes attempted	24	9
Passes completed	13	6
Passes intercepted	2	0
Punts	6	3
Avg. distance punts	31.2	30.3
Fumbles lost	3	0
Yards penalized	35	3.3

The Tigers heralded quarterback, Booby Freeman, also gave the Seminoles no little amount of trouble, scoring once and passing for another. He also kept the Seminoles off balance all day with his version of the option play.

A fake set up the first Auburn score in the first period when Billy Graham lost the ball on the FSU 27. Freeman scored on a sneak from the one. Fullback Joe Childress, another Plainsmen hero, kicked the point.

Early in the second quarter James sliced over from the two for the second Auburn score. A 26-yard aerial from Freeman to Pyburn set it up. Childress again converted.

Pyburn scored their third touchdown after taking a toss from fullback Freeman and moving 65 yards for the six points. The Seminoles saved a little face by blocking the extra point attempt, and Auburn lead at the half, 20-0.

FSU held the Plainsmen scoreless in the third quarter.

The third period also saw FSU penetrate their deepest into enemy territory. Freshman halfback Buddy Reynolds got loose on a 43-yard run to the Auburn 8, but after the Seminoles ran to the one Reynolds fumbled and Freeman recovered for the Plainsmen.

The winners went over twice in the final stanza.

The 33-0 final was the largest total an opponent has run up against the Seminoles in nine games and it was the third time FSU has been blanked this year, Georgia and Abilene Christian had previously turned the trick.

The lineups:

Florida State	Auburn
Left Ends—Schoenmurer, Leonard.
Left Tackles—Makowicki, Powell.
Left Guards—J. Jacobs, Gibson.
Centers—Crenshaw Arterburn, Culbreth.
Right Guards—Peerbhoy, C. Jacobs.
Right Tackles—Barnes, Shadix, Silvernail.
Right Ends—Fremster, Trado, R. Gibson.
Quarterbacks — Swatzle, Massey, Price, Rodriguez.
Left Halfbacks—Owen, Reynolds, Forsythe, Pankratz.
Fullbacks—Hall, Graham, Owen, Mott, C. Gibson.
Right Halfbacks—Ortner, Holt, Thompson.

Auburn
Left Ends—Pyburn, Hurst, Sanson, Whaley.
Left Tackles — Rogers, D'Agostino, Warren, Clark.
Left Guards—Scarbrough, Maxime, Hudson.
Centers—Lockhart, Smith, Reeves, Johns.
Right Guards—Brome, Atkins, Dansby.
Right Tackles — Nevin, Brackett, Tutt.
Right Ends—Hall, Long, Quarterbacks—Freeman, Tubbs, Left Halfbacks—Childress, Hall, Wilkins.
Fullback—Childress, Miller, Walsh.

MASSEY MOVES—Harry Massey, FSU's Senior quarterback, is shown he's skirting end for a short gain in the first quarter of Saturday's 33-0 loss to the Auburn Plainsmen.

Tribe Travels To Lynchburg For VMI Tilt

Keydets Have Lost Four Games While Winning But Two

FSU will play out-of-town for the third straight weekend when they journey to Lynchburg, Va. to meet the VMI Keydets Saturday.

The Keydets, formerly coached by FSU Coach Tom Nugent, will be seeking revenge for FSU's 12-7 upset victory of last year.

The teams have met one other time, in 1952, with VMI winning, 28-7.

Last year the Keydets won five and lost the same number.

So far this season VMI has won two and lost four. They won over George Washington, 16-14, and Richmond, 16-6. They have fallen to Davidson, 18-0, Boston, 44-0, Virginia, 21-0 and just last Saturday they bowed to tenth-ranked West Virginia, 40-6 in a Southern Conference game.

A week from the clash with VMI, FSU will meet Furman in their annual homecoming clash.

The only other home game this year will be against Mississippi Southern, Nov. 27 at 2 p.m.

Nov. 30 the Tribe will travel to DeLand to meet Stetson. The teams have met seven times, with FSU winning five, losing one and tying one. FSU edged the Hatters last year, 13-6.

The final game of the year, the Seminoles will play the University of Tampa, Dec. 6, in Tampa.

Honorary Tags Twenty Eight Women Here

Sigma Alpha Iota, professional women's music honorary fraternity recently tapped 28 new members.

Although not necessarily music majors, the new members are all sophomore girls of merit and have completed 12 semester hours with a 1.5 overall average and a 2-point average in music subjects, according to reports.

The new pledges are: Mary Fern Cawthon, Barbara Foster, Susan Lineburgh, Margaret King, Barbara Willis, Martha Kay Willis, Pauline Hecht, Martha Sue Hollis, Nina Pillsetz, Pat Simmons, Gail Jackson, Beth Parris, Char-Laine Weeks, Marcella Clardy, and Harriet Reinert.

Other new members are: Gwyneth Cooper, Constance Rodebaugh, Nancy Counts, Mary Jo Jones, Nancette Price, Florence Ann Allen, Nell Smallwood, Carol Owen, Louise Gillespie, Janet Sligo, Shirley Traxler, and Joan Kleis.

Held every other Thursday in the Music Building SAI members are presided over by Sue Humphreys, president, assisted by Jan Sikes, vice president; Joyce Thomas, corresponding secretary, Mary Richter, recording secretary, and Kathy Zappolo, treasurer. In addition, Mrs. Frances Pemberton, Mrs. Manley Whitcomb, and Miss Carolyn Oxford serve as advisers.

Membership is not limited to students and includes not only faculty but such well known people as Dame Myra Hess and Patrica Munsel as honorary members.

One of the organization's biggest activities, according to one of its members, is an annual American Music Program in December. In addition, musicales are given once a month but are mainly for the club members.

Sigma Alpha Iota members also sponsor the Light Opera Guild, and the Campus Sing jointly with Phi Mu Alpha, and may be seen ushering at Artist Series and other music recitals.

Professor Herz Receives Grant For Study of 'Lantana Camara'

Poisons of lantana are the subject of a research grant of $13,600 made to Dr. Werner Herz, Associate Professor of Chemistry, Florida State University, by the National Science Foundation.

The lantana camara plant contains a poison which sometimes the skin of cattle and sheep to sunlight. Ingestion of the plant by cattle may cause the development of lesions and ulcers, frequently severe enough to cause death.

According to a recent report, Dr. Herz's immediate efforts will be devoted to determining the chemical structure of the toxic principle. South African chemists first isolated a poisonous constituent of lantana found in their country. Dr. Herz has succeeded in isolating the compound in good yield from Florida lantana, and has evidence that the suggested chemical structure for the poison needs correction.

Collaborating with Dr. Herz in this research as a post-doctoral research associate is Dr. Bernard H. Braun. Dr. Braun, Ph.D. University of Illinois 1952, was previously associated with the Naval Stores Laboratory of Olustee, Florida, in research on turpentine products.

Phi Delta Theta

Six boys, Jack Buford, Del Swiney, Ernie Stuck, Kevin Milligan, Bill Plump and Gale Porter were initiated into Phi Delta Theta, October 17.

SEMINOLE PIVOT MAN—Bob Crenshaw, Junior center from Miami, turned in one of his best defensive games against Auburn Saturday even in defeat. Crenshaw, a linebacker, is already a two-year lettorman.

GREEK BASKETBALL INTRAMURAL SCHEDULE

Third Week

Time	Tue. Oct. 26	Thu. Oct. 28
7:15	KA-PKT	KA-PKT
7:55	SC-PKT	TC-SPE
8:35	TC-DTD	SC-SAE
7:15	SAE-SPE	DTD-LCA
7:55	PKT-PDT	SAE-PDT
8:35	TC-ATO	KS-PKA
9:30	KS-LCA	ATO-SN

Fourth Week

Time	Tue. Nov. 2
7:00	DTD-PKA
7:45	ATO-LCA
8:30	PDT-SPE
7:00	SN-SAE
7:00	KA-SAE
7:45	KS-SC
8:30	TC-SC

'Military' Honorary Initiates Five New Members at FSU

Scabbard and Blade, the Army ROTC honorary, recently initiated five new members into the organization. Cadet Major Walker Wood, president of Scabbard and Blade, announced that the five are: Cadet Major William Harris, Regimental Executive Officer; Cadet Captain Don Holder, Commanding Officer of Company A; Cadet Capt. Bill Procior, Commanding Officer of Company B; Cadet Captain James Padgan, Regimental Adjutant, and Cadet 1st Lieutenant Bill Orrick, Commanding Officer of Company K.

Cadet Major Walker Wood said that in order to be tapped for Scabbard and Blade, the ROTC personnel must have a B average over a two year period and show outstanding qualities of leadership. Cadet Major Wood further stated that the purpose of the Scabbard and Blade was to promote outstanding military students and to bring about better understanding between military and civilian aspects of the University.

FOR THE BEST IN SHOE REPAIRING TRY
PALACE SHOE SHOP
Established 1914
121 E. PARK AVE.

10% Discount
SILVER SLIPPER
For FSU Students and Faculty
OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK
8-12 P.M.
2008 SO. MONROE

FRESHMEN FLUNKIES SCOUTING MEMBERS

An interested freshman group has agreed to attend the regular meetings of the FRESHMAN FLUNKIES Boy Scouts at 7 p.m. in Sparks Auditorium.

Alderman Selected Day Student Prexy At Regular Meet

Delta Sigma Omega, Florida State University day students' club, elected new officers at its first meeting of the year.

1954 officials boarding Delta Sigma Omega are Sam Alderman, president; Mary Leonard, vice-president; Gloria Parrish, secretary-treasurer; and Tommy Lewis, parliamentarian.

Meetings will be held every second Monday at 3 p.m.

Audrey Jean Williams was elected chairman of the Homecoming committee and plans are being made for a day student decoration in front of Longmire building, they said.

ELI ROBERTS SERVICE STATION
Cor. W. Tenn. & Copeland
Tallahassee, Fla.
WE KNOW YOUR CAR
EXPERT LUBRICATION
MECHANIC—ROAD SERVICE
DIAL 2-8523

MEET ME at the MECCA
MAKE NEW AND SEE OLD FRIENDS
Open 7 A.M. CLOSE 11 P.M.
REGULAR MEALS
SHORT ORDERS — FOUNTAIN NOTIONS
"For Better Food At Lower Prices"
111 South Copeland

MEN'S F CLUB TO MEET WEDNESDAY

President Bob Hudson has announced that there will be a meeting of the "F" club Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in front of the Women's gym.

Hudson urges all members to attend.

"Everything for the Student"
GET YOUR
FSU ZIPPERSHIRTS
SWEATSHIRTS
"T" SHIRTS
ASSORTED SIZES
AT
MALONE'S BOOK STORE
107 S. Copeland

What makes a Lucky taste better?
"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!
College smokers from coast to coast prefer Luckies to any other brand. Luckies lead, and by a wide margin, according to the latest, biggest college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike is the cigarette of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—forms up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. This explains the Droodle below, which is: Eskimo seminar enjoying Luckies in bedly built classroom. Like all real cool people, Eskimos know Luckies taste better. So, get the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.
LUCKIES TASTE BETTER
Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!
BUTTERFLY SKIPPING ROPE
FIFTY-DOLLAR BOY SCOUT KNIFE
GHOST WITH CINDER IN HIS EYE
ALPHABET BLOCKS FOR ILLITERATES
DEPRESSED FLEA COMMITTING SUICIDE
TIC-TAC-TOE KIT
"What's this?" asks ROGER PRICE
For solution see paragraph above.
GOT A LUCKY DROODLE?
If you've got a Lucky Droodle in your noodle, send it in. We pay $25 for all we use, and also for many we don't use. Send as many as you like with your descriptive titles to: Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.
"DROODLES, Copyright, 1954, by Roger Price
P.A.T. Co. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Golf Champ

(Continued from Page 1)

ran and Eddie Arcaro. He has played with Marlene Bauer and has beaten her. His top tourney score was at the Herald-American Open when he shot a 66.

One of his best feats, according to Hauff, was a double eagle scored on a 500-yard par five hole. In tournament history this has only been achieved by three other men, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen. His drive covered 275 yards. His four wood shot covered 220 yards and he holed it.

Hauff when questioned, admitted that he was offered fifteen golf scholarships and three scholarships for football. He is now gained all-conference honors for his football feats in high school. Hauff has also been named the Pittsburgh YMCA Championship and Illinois District Championship. He went to the National Golden Glove Championship in 1953 and was beaten in the semi-finals

As for the future, Hauff says he wants to turn pro and follow the golf circuit around the world after completing college.

Dine In Comfortable Atmosphere

Complete Dinners
From $1.50 up
Approved by AAA

Let Us Plan Your
Banquet or Luncheon
Our Private Banquet Room Has
A Capacity of 110

TALLAHASSEE
Dining Room
1630 North Monroe
Phone 2-3428
Mr. Bishop, Mgr.

176 Students To Leave Campus For Statewide Internship Terms

One hundred and seventy-six students at Florida State University left the campus this weekend to serve as teaching interns for seven weeks in elementary and high schools throughout Florida.

A majority of the interns are senior education majors, but a number of them are graduate students and some are majoring in fields other than education. However, all of them are sent out by the school of education for on-the-job teaching experience, observing and assisting the regular teachers in many ways.

The students will be placed in their assignments from October 25 until the beginning of the Christmas holidays. They are classified according to the counties and schools where they will serve.

ALACHUA—Dorothy Boatwright, Gainesville J. J. Finley School; BAY COUNTY — Mary Carol Bess, Drummond Park Elementary; Alice Campbell, Cove Elementary; Panama City — Mary Ann McFarland, St Andrews Elementary; Jo Ann Snipes, Drummond Park Elementary; Joe Elizabeth Crouch, Joan Guard, Evelyn Hodge, Sadie Prescott, Miriam Sawyer, Bay High, Panama City BREVARD COUNTY — Susan Earle, Melbourne Elementary.

BROWARD COUNTY — Sylvia Chester, Cruisman Park Elementary, Ft Lauderdale, Bernie Wallace and Ruth Elin Ward, Naval Air Station, Ft Lauderdale.

COLUMBIA COUNTY—Mildred J. Hatch, Melrose Park, Lake City

DIXIE COUNTY — Joe Ann Brannen, Dixie Elementary, Cross City.

DADE COUNTY—Jessie Bartlett, Coral Way Elementary, Miami; Betty Jo Bullock, Curtis Elementary, Miami Springs Bobby Sue Davis, Archbishop Carroll Elementary, Miami; Carvane Davis Auburndale Elementary, Miami — Patricia Ann Jones, Allapattah Elementary, Miami; Margaret Kennedy, Shenandoah Elementary, Miami; Anna Mauch, Kirkpatrick Park Elementary, Miami; Marilynne Seaflight, Central Beach Elementary, Miami Barbara Ann Thompson, Dade Demonstration Miami; Suzanne Tindell, Allapattah Elementary Miami; Lanelle Woods, Coconut Elementary, Miami; Arnold Bohannon, Jackson High, Miami; Joan Marie Paris, Jackson High, Miami; and Stafford Taylor, Edison High, Miami.

ESCAMBIA COUNTY—Alice J. Cornwell, E. J. Woodham Elementary, Pensacola; Jo Anne Winter, Warrington Elementary, Pensacola; Richard B. Carroll, Tate High, Gonzales; Virginia Lee, Chaha, Junior High, Pensacola; Betty L. Shrub, Warrington High, Pensacola.

DUVAL COUNTY — Susan Bailey, Central Riverside Elementary, Jacksonville; Cynthia Brown, Brentwood Elementary, Jacksonville; Janelle Hall, Spring Park Elementary, Jacksonville; Alice Lamb, Spring Park Elementary; Patricia Lollar, Coca Cola Elementary, Jacksonville; Betty Parmer, Arlene Beaman Elementary, Jacksonville; Betty Kay Stephens, Elementary, Jacksonville.

Mary L. Babcock, Robert E. Lee High, Jacksonville, Dorothy Stanford, John Gorrie Junior High, Jacksonville.

GADSDEN COUNTY — Alice Lockwood, Cook, Havana Elementary, Havana; Henry Perrell, Greensborough Elementary; Perrine Williams, Havana Elementary, Havana; William Holston, Shanks High; Robert McMillan, Greensboro High; Vic H. Dempsons, Quincy High; Oscar Orr, Quincy High.

HARDEE COUNTY — Mary Elizabeth Miller, Wachula Elementary; Wachula

HERNANDO COUNTY — Nelda Whittle, Brooksville Elementary.

HILLSBOROUGH COUNTY—Patricia Alvarez, DeSoto Elementary, Tampa; Elizabeth Ann Bell, Mabry Elementary, Tampa, Jo Ann Hixon Macfarlane Elementary, Tampa; Lynn McNeil, Macfarlane Elementary, Tampa; Harriett Ramsey, Manhattan Elementary, Tampa; Mary Alice Smith, Broadwell Elementary, Tampa; Ina Jo Thornton, Gorrie Elementary, Tampa; Joann N Vogel Dale Mabry Elementary, Tampa; Jean Whitney, Bryan Elementary, Plant City; Vivian Campbell, Brandon High; Suzanne Limbaugh, Hillsborough High, Tampa; Nancy Mizzell, Robert E. Lee Junior High, Jane McNeely, Madison Junior High; Jane Williams, Hillsborough High, Tampa; Fagen, Memorial Junior High, Tampa; Mary A. Robertson, Wilson Junior High, Tampa.

JEFFERSON COUNTY—Nancy E. Rainey, Monticello Elementary

LEE COUNTY — Jenne Hoshaw, Edison Park Elementary, Ft. Myers, Velma Jones, Edison Park Elementary, Ft. Myers; Joel Limbaugh, Edgewood Elementary, Ft Myers; Frances Shofner, Gwynne Johnson, Ft. Myers

LEON COUNTY—Cobb Junior High, School—Dorothy McMillan, Danny Morris; Elizabeth S Stanton, Stephen Walker.

LEON COUNTY — Demonstration School—Jan Eichinger, Rosie Hall, Charlie Harrison, Linda Lane, Grace Schatman, Dot Adams, Joe Caldwell, Wynn Childress, William Rhodes, Cecil Colo, Richard Guthrie, James Tsiaka, Nancy Low, Edwin Weaver.

LEON COUNTY — Elementary School—Charlotte Bailey, Mary Stokes, Don Holder, Caroline Brevard, Charla Coulter, Virginia Phillips, Richard Cox, Peter Sullivan, Mary Lynn Perkins, Norma Sommerkamp, Bessie Marjorie Bullock, Marlene D Gregory, Ann Southerland, South Side, Phyllis Alvers, Nel Bryson, Don Tesh, Elizabeth Vann Harry, Clyde Walker, Leon High School.

LEVY COUNTY—Gladys W. Green, Wilcox

MANATEE COUNTY—Kalliope Demmose, Jesse P Miller, Bradenton, Martha Cherrington, Marion Junior High Guy Johnnes, Manatee County High.

MARTIN COUNTY — Ruth Keen, Stuart Elementary; Charline Caviness, Wromma Park Elementary Ocala

OKALOOSA COUNTY — Janet Goodrich, Eglin AFB School, Eglin Air Base

ORANGE COUNTY—Margaret Caseys Lake Silver Elementary, Orlando; Dorothy Johnson, Killarney Elementary, Winter Park; Mary Sheppard, Grand Avenue Elementary, Orlando; Ellen Whitemore, Delaney Elementary, Orlando, Margaret Ellsworth, Memorial Hi, Orlando; Betty Haynes, Boone High, Orlando; Mabel E Summers, Boone High, Orlando; Sarah L Woodward, Edgewater High, Orlando

PALM BEACH COUNTY—Betty Corbett, Belvedere Elementary, West Palm Beach; Mary Bibelhorn McNitt, New Beach Elementary West Palm Beach; Nancree Price, Palm Beach Junior High, Palm Beach; Carolyn Crumbley, Lake Worth High, and Sarah Hall, Delray William Bagan, West Palm High West Palm Beach

PASCO COUNTY — Gail Buttress, Dade City Elementary; Cordora F Platt, Lacoochee Elementary

PUTNAM COUNTY — Dorothy Dillard, Palatka High

POLK COUNTY—Jeanne Cromwell; Bryghem Elementary, Winter Haven; Dollie Elizabeth Fable, Central Avenue Elementary, Winter Haven; Joan Hogans, Dundee Elementary, Perma Crews, Effie Miller, Lake Morton Elementary, Lakeland; Barbara Gordon, Inwood Elementary, Winter Haven; Florence E Price, Dundee Elementary, Lakeland; Mabelle Snell, Barlow Elementary; Shirley Wachsmuth, Inwood Elementary, Lake Wales, Mary J Williamson, Brigham Elementary, Winter Haven; Dollie Elizabeth Fable, Central Avenue Elementary, Winter Haven

SARASOTA COUNTY — Dorothy Wells, Bonnie Rose Lovell, Pine Elementary, St Petersburg; Frank Bell, Lealman Junior High, St Petersburg; Jo Ann Cooper, Cogs High, St. Petersburg, Rosalie Hunsicker, Lealman Junior High, Sylvia Earle, South Side Junior High, St Petersburg Clarence Hamilton, Centennial High, Jane Mikesell, Clearwater High; John Norma Sommerkamp, Pennsylvania Academy, and Philadelphia Water Color prize.

SEMINOLE COUNTY — Jane Lundy Smith, Venice Elementary; Valeska Tavwood, Northeast Senior High; James Verrao, Northeast Senior High, Br Petersburg

ST. JOHNS COUNTY Mary Dash, Orange Street Elementary, St. Augustine; Mary Merlin, Hastings Elementary, St. Augustine

SARASOTA COUNTY — June Lundy Smith, Venice Elementary; in the preamble of the Republican platform when it said, "We maintain that man was not born to be ruled but that he consented to be governed; that government leadership "should set a high example of honesty, of justice and unselfish devotion to the public good." To this writer only a Democrat can truly assure this.

Not only will this "new blood" in United States politics influence domestic affairs but international affairs as well. It will as well The Democrats may not be perfect, but they certainly know how to conduct our national defense and relations with foreign countries, not only by discussion of opposite ideas will the right policy be found, but the only way to have this healthy sounding board in this country is with the two-party system.

CHEMISTRY

(ACP)—From the University of Rhode Island Beacon comes this chemical analysis of a woman:

Symbol: We.

Accepted Atomic Weight: 120

Physical Properties: Boils at nothing and freezes at nothing. Melts when perfectly treated and very bitter if not well-used. Decomposes in humid atmosphere exists.

Chemical Properties: Possesses excess affinity for gold, silver, platinum and precious stones Violent reaction if left alone Able to absorb a great amount of food matter. Turns green when placed beside a better looking specimen.

Uses: Highly ornamental. Useful as a tonic acceleration of low spirits and as equalizer of the distribution of wealth—is probably the most effective income reducing agent known.

Delta Tau Delta

Delta Tau Delta's pledge class recently elected officers for this semester They are Harold Bartholomew, president, Bascovich, Vice President; Richard Pasquale, Treasurer; Don Lee, Secretary.

SOPHOMORE CLASS MEETING

There will be a short but very important meeting of the Sophomore Class after Rat Court next Tuesday night, in Conn. Dodd Hall Auditorium, theater. At that time plans will be given in detail, and several other important matters will come up All members of the class are urged to attend.

STATE
TODAY
"THE BOUNTY HUNTER"
RANDOLPH SCOTT
WED.—NOV. 2
"DRAGNET"
JACK WEBB

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
TODAY & TOMORROW
"NAKED SPUR"
JAMES STEWART
THURS.-SAT.
"TEXAS STAMPEDE"
CHARLES STARRETT
ALSO
"ISLE OF THE DEAD"
With BORIS KARLOFF

FLORIDA
TODAY
"A WOMAN'S WORLD"
CLIFTON WEBB
JUNE ALLYSON
WED THRU SAT.
"BLACK SHIELD OF FALWORTH"
TONY CURTIS
JANET LEIGH
CinemaScope

FLEETWOOD DRIVE-IN OUTDOOR THEATRE
TODAY & TOMORROW
"LIVING IT UP"
DEAN MARTIN
JERRY LEWIS
THURS.-SAT.
"THEM"
JAMES WHITMORE
PLUS
"KILLER APE"
With
JOHNNY WEISMULLER

BROOKLYN BRIDGE NOW ON CAMPUS — Above is a wax painting of the Brooklyn Bridge done by Karl Zerbe, nationally-noted artist-teacher who is now conducting classes at FSU.

Art Exhibit

(Continued from Page 1)

joined a university ornithology group and recently took part in the coastal area bird count On the excursion he came across Alligator Lake bird Pleasure, Backbobs Gallery Downtown Gallery and Alan Gallery, New York.

Art Institute of Chicago, Art Institute, Detroit, and de Young Museum, San Francisco.

His awards include John Barton Payne medal, Virginia Museum of Fine Art Watson B Dickerman Art Institute of Chicago, Thomas Wall Matrix silver medal, Art Institute of Chicago, third prize Carnegie Institute Henry Schnakenberg prize, Pennsylvania Academy, and Philadelphia Water Color prize.

Two Party

(Continued from Page 1)

a nationalization which has been long overdue.

This deseclionalization at party politics was recognized in the preamble of the Republican platform when it said, "We maintain that man was not born to be ruled but that he consented to be governed; that government leadership "should set a high example of honesty, of justice and unselfish devotion to the public good." To this writer only a Democrat can truly assure this.

Not only will this "new blood" in United States politics influence domestic affairs but international affairs as well It will as well The Democrats may not be perfect, but they certainly know how to conduct our national defense and relations with foreign countries, not only by discussion of opposite ideas will the right policy be found, but the only way to have this healthy sounding board in this country is with the two-party system.

CHEMISTRY

(ACP)—From the University of Rhode Island Beacon comes this chemical analysis of a woman:

Symbol: We.

Accepted Atomic Weight: 120

Physical Properties: Boils at nothing and freezes at nothing. Melts when perfectly treated and very bitter if not well-used. Decomposes in humid atmosphere exists.

Chemical Properties: Possesses excess affinity for gold, silver, platinum and precious stones Violent reaction if left alone Able to absorb a great amount of food matter. Turns green when placed beside a better looking specimen.

Uses: Highly ornamental. Useful as a tonic acceleration of low spirits and as equalizer of the distribution of wealth—is probably the most effective income reducing agent known

Press And Sciences Discussed By Panel

By ANN DYE

Fallings of the American press in regard to the presentation of various types of news, and a defense of the press, were subjects for a discussion presented by Sigma Theta FSU journalism club, October 21 in the Longmire Alumni Building.

Dr. Stephen Winters, professor of sociology, opened the discussion. His subject being "Treatment of Science by Newspapers Backgrounding his discussions with an explanation that the American public today is more interested in the social scientific developments, than it has previously been. Dr. Winters brought out points which he feels could be improved in regard to newspaper handling of scientific news.

Although he stated "science in the news is getting a pretty good job done for it now," he said the reporters being trained today should receive a broader technical training in science to enable him to present a clearer and more intelligent story to his readers.

In defense of the newspaper, William Slaughter, FSU journalism professor, pointed out the handicaps under which a reporter must work. The time element under which he must work to meet his deadline, the space available for the particular edition in which the story is to be printed, and the clarity with which the subject is presented by the news source were pointed out by him as being the three greatest handicaps under which a reporter must work.

Under these circumstances, he said, "I think the best we can do is to their credit." Professor Slaughter said, and he further stated that he expected to see a "further trend to better and better handling of this type of story."

"How the Press Treats Social Problems" was the discussion topic of Dr. Lewis Killian, professor of sociology, and he emphasized what he called the tendency of many reporters to interpret social problem articles to get a "good story."

Malcolm Johnson, editor of the Tallahassee Democrat, pointed out that newspapers have come a long way in their presentation of the news, and he maintained that "a dual responsibility of the news source and the reporter exists," and he further maintained that "there is no room in any newspaper for anyone who can't get his facts straight, in time and in the allotted space"

Johnson said that he regarded to defend his profession against bad reporting, and maintain that correct reporting "can and is being done every day."

Professor Kenneth Vanlandingham, public administration, began by stating that news papers have an obligation to the public" because of the tremendous influence the newspaper exerts upon the people.

Approximately 50 persons attended the panel discussion.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

At the first meeting of the new Sigma Phi Epsilon pledge class the following officers were elected President Sonny Dave Vice President Dick Hutchison, Secretary and Comptroller Wally Jones and Chaplain Jim Victoria.

Recently initiated into the chapter were Bob Connelly, Riney Pulmer Bonny Nichols Jim Bryant, Don White and Bob Gutting.

Gamma Phi Beta

Gamma Phi Beta recently initiated Nancy Herold, Sandra McEwan into membership. The officers of the sorority pledge class include: Mary Jo Little, president; Jan Rainer vice-president; Betty Hall, secretary; and Alita Tomlinson, treasurer.

Delta Zeta

Doris Deputy, Diane Eddy, Jo Hood, Crystal Lee Johnson, and Janet Reed have recently been initiated into Delta Zeta. At a banquet held in their honor at a local restaurant Lee Johnson received the Scholarship Award. Jo Hood was chosen the most Loyal and received Pledge and Janet Reed received the Best Around Award.

DON'S MISS
THE GAY MIDWAY
With 20 Rides and Four Sideshows, or the BIG DISPLAY of all kinds of novel interesting exhibits
at the NORTH
FLORIDA
FAIR
FSU STUDENTS
ADMITTED FREE
Today till 6:30 p.m.
Tomorrow till
6:30 p.m.
Tuesday through Saturday
Plenty of fun for Everyone
FIVE BIG DAYS
Catch buses downtown to the Fair grounds on S. Monroe St.

"I lacked Confidence in myself...
TYPICAL COLLEGE STUDENT
but one visit to Arthur Murray's changed my whole life."
"Yes, I was always shy, reserved and ill-at-ease at parties. I had to see Arthur Murray's. At my very first dance lesson, I discovered my dormant ability to dance. In almost no time I became a smooth dancer, had new self-confidence and popularity."
109½ W. COLLEGE AVE
PHONE 3-2221

BROWNING TO SPEAK AT FTA METTING

The Future Teachers of America will meet tomorrow night in Longmire Auditorium from 7 to 8 p.m.

Mr. Ed Brownlee of the State Department of Education will speak at the meeting.

All who wish to may join the FTA at this meeting, spokesmen announced.

Plans will be made for the banquet, to be held on November 19

THE DEPARTMENT OF SPEECH
Announces
Charley's Aunt
by
Brandon Thomas
October 29, 30, November 1, 2
CONRADI THEATER
8:15 p.m.
TICKETS:
Students—40c and Activity Stub No. 3
GENERAL ADMISSION—75c
All Seats Reserved
Box Office Opens Wednesday, October 27

May we collar you soon...
in a smart ARROW Radnor?
With 50% of a shirt's style up in the collar, the man who wears an Arrow Radnor is more than a wet whip.
Choose a Radnor Button-down (above), a regular Radnor, or Radnor "E"—with "extra" room, shown at right. The Radnor "E" is also available with French Cuffs. They're all Arrow . . . all easy on the eyes and on the budget. Radnor Broadcloth prices start at $4.50; in oxford cloth, $5.00 white or colored.
ARROW SHIRTS & TIES
UNDERWEAR ▲ HANDKERCHIEFS ▲ CASUAL WEAR

WHAT EVERY YOUNG COED SHOULD WEAR

Gather round, girls. Snap open a pack of Philip Morris, light up, relax and enjoy that mild fragrant vintage tobacco while Old Dad tells you the latest campus fashions.

The key word this year is casual. Be slapdash. Be rakish. Be Impressive. Don't wear your new cashmere sweater. Wear a pea-jacket—boy blouse, like papa wears bottoms with an ermine stole, like a bocky saucier with a dirndl.

Dirndl, incidentally, is one of the truly fascinating words in the English language. Etymologists have puzzled over its origin for years. Some hold with Professor Stanley Ek that Dirndl is a corruption of Gertrude and is so named because it resembles the dairy worn by the women of that region. This theory is at first glance plausible, but one has to fall back on Occam's razor. Let's stick to women in the Dardanelle region because of the loathesome local custom of Dirndl polygamy.

(Another theory is advanced by Dr. Clyde Feh. Dirndl, says he, is a contraction of "dirty in the dell" and refers to the habitual appearance of the skirt. But again close examination causes one to abandon a plausible hypothesis. An every child knows, it is not "dirty in the dell" but "farmey in the dell", in which case the skirt should be called not dirndl but farmdl.

(There are some who contend we will never know the true origin of dirndl. These faint hearted Farnsworths should remember how everyone laughed at Edison and Franklin and Fulton and Marconi and Sandburg and Jackson, in new to name but a few—until the world, without breathing, as we know it today, would not be possible. The origin of dirndl will be found, girls, and anyone who believes the contrary is a hip-livered churl and, if he's within outside for a minute, I'll give him a thrashing he won't soon forget.)

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris and talking about the latest campus styles. Casual, we agree, is the key word. But casual need not mean drab. Liven up your outfits with a touch of flannel. Even the lowly dungaree and sweatshirt combination can be made exciting if you'll adorn it with a simple necklace of Cuban matched diamonds. With Bermuda shorts, wear gold knee-crystals. Be guided by the famous poet Cosmo Sigafoos, fellow brother Sam Ik was who invented the martini, who wrote:

Sparkle, my beauty,
Shimmer and shine,
The night is young,
The world is your oyster,
Cling to a leaf,
Hang on a tree,
Cruel on your belly,
It's time I dine.

(Mr. Sigafoos, it should be explained, was writing about a glow worm, as everyone knows, and not a fellow student, of course. Other subjects for poems: Who can ever forget his immortal Ode to a Bull Weevil? Or his Tweaking Along With the Tumbling Tumblebug? Or his Fly Gently, Sweet Aphid? Mr. Sigafoos has been inactive since the invention of DDT.)

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris and discussing fashions. Let us turn now to headwear. The motif in hats this year will be familiar American scenes. There will be models to fit every head—for example, the "Empire State Building" for tall thin heads, the "Jefferson Memorial" for squatty ones, "Niagara Falls" for dry scalps. Feature of the collection is the "Statue of Liberty," complete with a torch...hat actually burns. This is very handy for lighting your Philip Morrises, which is very important because no matter how good Philip Morrises are, they're no good unless you light them.

We come now to the highlight of this year's fashion parade—a man's fad that's sweeping the echt as it has in other campuses all over the country. All the jobs who are in the van, in the swim, and in the know are doing it. Even the squares will be buttoned, of course. You just don't see little three days unless you've got at least an anchor on your biceps. If you really want to be in the campus eye, get a four masted schooner, or a heart with FATHER printed inside of it, or a

I interrupt this column to bring you a special announcement. A former has just handed me the following item:

"The origin of the word dirndl has at long last been discovered. On June 27, 1953, Dusty Schwartz, Sweet Sioux, a local Indian fighter, went into the Golden Nugget Saloon in Cheyenne, Wyoming. The Golden Nugget had just reopened after being destroyed by fire. Dusty came out and did her dance in pink tights. Dusty Schwartz had never seen anything like that in his life, and he was much impressed. He watched with keen interest as she did her numbers, and he thought about her all the way home. When he got home, his wife Feldegar was waiting to show him a new skirt she had made for herself. 'How do you like my new skirt, Dusty?' said Feldegar. He looked at the large voluminous garment, then thought of the pink tights on the dancing girl. 'That skirt is darn dull,' said Dusty. 'Darn doll!' was later shortened to 'dirndl' which is how dirndls got their name."

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarettes.

On Campus with Max Shulman
(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

Charley's Aunt Opens Tonight At Conradi (See Story)

The Florida Flambeau

Student Senate Needs Insight (See Page 2)

VOL. XL, No. 10 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1954

Freshman Election Cost Listings Are Due Noon Today

Frosh Warned On Improperly Placed Posters

Committee Decides Majority Necessary for Legal Election

Noon today is the deadline for Freshman candidates to turn in expense statements, announced Elections Committee member Betty Wilson.

Statements may be turned in either at the Student Government office in Lanmure, or at the information desk on the first floor.

Candidates cautioned that they are held responsible to send that their campaign plans are carried out according to the Elections Code," said Miss Wilson. The Elections Committee reserves the right to remove any posters improperly posted. In such a case the candidate whose name appears on the poster will be fined."

The Elections Committee met Monday night to decide on rules for determining winners of Freshman Elections, explained Miss Wilson. It was decided that (1) A candidate must receive a majority of votes cast to be elected to office; a majority shall be defined as 50 per cent or more of the votes cast plus one vote.

In the case of [illegible] or multiple offices, such as Men's or Women's Senate, and more than the limited number [illegible] how in the position receive members. If there three persons receiving the highest votes will be elected (in accordance with House Court's ruling in the case of Chester Evans Elections Committee.

A Tuesday November 9, will be Freshman Election Day. Four polling places, University Cafeteria, Music Center, Westcott Building and West Hall, will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Miss Wilson said that the only Freshmen eligible to vote will be those who register their names and student numbers at the polls have number 9 checked on their cards. Voters must mark the ballot with an IBM pencil.

She advised Freshmen to read the instructions on the ballots carefully before adding that they will be disqualified if [illegible] on the ballot boxes.

In answer to candidates' questions concerning campaigning at the said, the committee stated that paint could be used on sidewalks, building, is considered as defacing [illegible] property.

Elections Committee members are Betty Wilson, Chairman, Bob Wilson, John Smith, Lou Bowden, Jack Pickett, Mary Ann McCall, and Jill McCullough.

ELECTION OPINIONS
By ATTORNEY GENERAL

Attorney General Dave Kennerly in the first of three opinions on elections, has ruled that IBM machines may be used in school elections, but that all ballots must be filled in at the first place open to the knowledge or care of all.

The Elections Committee last spring tabulated votes in a well closed room. Basis for decision on a clause in the Student Body Statutes, which states that "the counting of ballots shall be done in a public place." Kennedy ruled that IBM machines may be used at the discretion of the Elections Committee with the condition that the counting be done in a public place. A public place is one in which students may observe the counting of the votes.

In the second of the opinions, Kennedy defined a majority vote as 50 percent of the votes cast plus one. Taking for his precedent a case argued before Honorable Judge Bryan Simpson, in which cases of multiple offices where more than one required portion of candidates garner pluralities by the accepted definition that top two or three persons on the number of offices to be filled) will be considered elected.

In his third opinion Kennedy ruled that, according to the University statutes, goods of services given a candidate for election must count in his expense limit.

Kennedy added that "I would think that if one were to assume responsibility for the service or material received, the

(Continued on Page 3)

Dr. Leon Sherman

Sherman Goes To Japan; Will Track 'Storms'

Florida techniques for tracking hurricanes and issuing warnings will be taken to the Far East next month by a tropical weather expert, Dr. Leon Sherman, of the Meteorology Department at FSU.

Dr. Sherman has been invited by United Nations Education Scientific and Cultural Organization, UNESCO, to attend a symposium on typhoons in Tokyo, November, 9-14.

The purpose of the meeting is to improve typhoon tracking and warning services in the Pacific area according to Dr. Sherman. A typhoon is the Pacific area variety of the Atlantic hurricane.

Attending the regional meeting will be weather men from China, China, Guam, Hongkong, Formosa, Korea, Japan, Thailand, Okinawa, Philippines, Thailand, India, Singapore, and the USSR as well as other invited experts.

According to Dr. Cherman, the United States is not being represented as a country but only by experts who have been invited from this country.

The FSU Meteorologist was recently a member of a team of weather men from the Air Force Cambridge Research Center and the FSU Department of Meteorology who flew out of Patrick Air Force Base to study the storm conditions and other weather phenomena connected with tropical storms.

It was on this trip that they encountered Hurricane Carol in her earliest stages. A jump ahead of the weather Department of Cuba discovered the storm before it became a full-scale blow.

Research findings made by the weather team verified the existence of the "hyperbolic point" or calm wind companion believed to accompany all hurricanes.

Dr. Sherman's studies in hurricanes has been ignored for almost a hundred years although it is an essential part of the storm," Dr. Sherman said.

Dr. Meteorologist said that he would point out some of the things that they have learned in tracking hurricanes in the world, and flights with the Air Force out of Patrick Air Force Base in connection with FSU. He has also been asked to give a lecture at a public session of the conference.

On the return trip to the United States, Dr. Sherman will stop off in Hawaii for another conference.

The deadline for pictures of the Homecoming Queen candidates has been extended to Tuesday at 5 p.m. Pictures are to be turned in at Longmire Information desk.

Field-Day May End Reign Of Upperclassmen

Annual Meeting Of Frosh, Sophomores Set For 2, Saturday

Six weeks of keen rivalry between the freshmen and sophomores will come to a head tomorrow when the annual Field Day is held at 2 p. m. on the band practice field.

If the frosh win, as they did last year, they will have the privilege of throwing the Sophomores, including class president Paul Ort, into the Westcott pool. The open season on the sophomores will last until six p.m. if they win, announced Paul, who emphasized that no other form of revenge may be used.

Sponsored by the sophomores, the contests will include an archery relay, footlace, a pillow bar contest, 100-yard dash, basketball throw, football throw, and an "any-thing" race, a tug-of-war with a tug-of-war.

Prior to the events, elimination races will be held beforehand to help the classes choose their best men and members to enter the events. Individual competitions will be held within fraternities and sororities, it was announced.

Concerning the band, Ort said that "a movement is underway within the Marching Chiefs to have a freshman and a sophomore band present."

Ort also announced next year rules for identification and also the voter individual everyone" he said.

Due to the large number of people attending the Gainesville homecoming this weekend, publication is going to be greatly hindered at the field day, according to Ort, who urged all to urge everybody that is on campus to be there.

It was also announced that points will be taken off the freshman score for each punishment meted out at Rat Court tonight that isn't taken care of before noon tomorrow.

Judges will include the sophomore class officers and members of rat court. Polly Swain is in charge of publicity.

POLITICS IS HERE AGAIN—Patie Dunn and K. O. Morton are caught in the act of looking at a campaign poster put up for Freshman Elections. Primary day is Tuesday.

Rumors Of Possible Fraternity 'Homecoming' Boycott Cleared

Misunderstandings connected with a rumored fraternity boycott of the 1954 Homecoming Dance were smoothed out at a meeting Monday night of the Inter-Fraternity Council and Homecoming Dance Committee Chairman, according to co-chairman Hal Smith.

Smith said that a special IFC and dance committee meeting was held Monday to "clear up misunderstandings concerning the Homecoming weekend."

Points brought out at the meeting, according to Smith, were that the weekend is not and "never has been" closed; any parties come under normal university regulations, and that ticket sales will be limited to 2,200.

"Open houses and parties will be of a complementary nature to the Homecoming Dance," he added.

"I understand that some fraternities are planning house parties and others, after taking it up at meetings, have decided not to have special parties that night after the game."

Smith explained that "normal regulations" particularly refers to the fact that late permission will not be granted to any affairs except the Homecoming Dance.

The orchestra for this year's Homecoming Dance will be Ray Anthony and his band. Tickets are scheduled to go on sale November 4 through 12 at the Student Center, and the Westcott Building for $3.00 per couple. Co-chairman John Howard urged that students buy their tickets early, since the dance is expected to be a sellout. It will be held November 14, in the Suwannee Room.

FSU, Oxford's Debate Teams To Meet Here

"Liberty is threatened by the Welfare State," and "Admission of Red China to the U.N." are to be topics for Florida State debaters to two international debaters from Oxford University, England, November 24.

FSU's debate team for the two "one-man" debates, has not yet been definitely selected. Any graduate or undergraduate who has had experience in debate and would like to represent FSU in the debate should talk to Dr. Greg Piller immediately, it was announced.

Two debates will be held on Wednesday November 24, since exams will be delayed at noon for the Thanksgiving holidays. Both debates will be held in Longmire Auditorium and special invitations have been issued to classes of speech, English composition, political science, public administration and other international relations.

Both debates will be limited to a fifty minute class period including at least a few minutes for questions.

In accordance with the wishes of the visitors, there have also been any declares in FSU's series of international debates. Usually the audience is given an opportunity to vote on the "merits of the question" to be decided by the opinions on the validity of the proposition for debate. They have not been asked to judges which team did the better speaking.

The American pattern of decision debating is unique to ever country. Notably in England, India, Australia, and in some European universities takes a quite different pattern, it was noted.

JENNIE MURPHREE,
SENIOR HALL DANCE

Jennie Murphree and Gordon Hall are co-presidents of informal dance at the Student Center tomorrow night. It will be held from 9 to 12 p.m., with music by the Commodettes.

Sophomore Voting For Dance Royalty At 'Student Center'

Sophomores will vote on candidates for the Sophomore Hop King and Queen titles Monday and Tuesday of next week. Nominations were held earlier this week.

The complete list of nominees will be used in Monday's voting and the top ten boys and girls will be voted on in the finals, Wednesday. The two winners will reign, with the others acting as up the courts.

Ballot boxes will be located in the Center House and Student Center, open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and will be supervised by the Sophomore Council.

The Election Committee is made up of Council president Jane Soper, Claire Oliver, Bess Smith, Barbara Hayes, and Helen McClain.

Winners will be announced at the first show of the Sophomore Hop, which is being held on Wednesday for Sophomore and their dates only.

Last year's king and queen were Dorothy Crenshaw and Charles Geesler.

NOTICE TO VETERANS

Students who have had at least 90 days active military service subject to Veterans Administrative services evaluated October 25 through November 12. Students must bring their education papers, OKD Test results, and certificates showing service schools taken while on active duty to Miss Glover, HUB Wednesday, Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Gymkana's Queen Contest Set For Next Wednesday In Gym

Grace, beauty and poise will be the main judging points used in the selection of the queen who will reign over the Gymkana finals are held in the Women's gym Wednesday, November 3, at 7 p.m. Contestants will be judged at 6:30 p.m., attired in shorts, sweaters, and heels, according to Margaret Hollingsworth, chairman of the Gymkana contest.

Sixteen finalists will be chosen from the field of contestants, and each will reign as a member of the Court of Honor of 1955 and be presented at the five performances of Tryland Capers, November 29 through December 4. The Queen and two alternates will be chosen from this number at the last performance.

The 16 finalists selected will practice every Wednesday night in the gym until November 23, the first performance date. November 24 will be a dress rehearsal for all actors.

Any fraternity, sorority, or dormitory may sponsor a contestant, and entries are not limited. Each sponsoring group may have two or more girls. Entries should be turned in to the Gymkana office at the Women's Gym or to Miss Donaldson.

The members of this year's court will be featured as nursery rhyme characters. Ideas for costume are available in the Gymkana office. Some suggestions include Little Bo-peep, Little Miss Muffet Wee Willie Winkie, Little Boy Blue, Mary Mary Quite Contrary, Red White, and Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary. Finalists may organize dances or skits as a part of costumes through Dr. Harley Price.

Charley's Aunt Opens Tonight Ends Tuesday

Adams, Thomas Are Only Veteran Actors Featured In 'Farce'

By DAVID DREB

A feeling of optimism spread over the Augusta Conradi theater yesterday as members of the "Charley's Aunt" cast ran through final dress rehearsal before preparing to open up tonight at 8:15.

"Charley's Aunt" is definitely not a new play but it is probably a good example of a long-running play. Performances being done almost every one of its 63-year-reign.

The farce hasn't been confined to the stage either during this time. Two movie versions was first done in the days of the silents with a few actors whom nobody seems to recall. Jack Benny performed in the modern screen version in 1940 and Ray Bolger handled the musical adaptation in the "Charley" done in 1952. The latter film recently was circulated through the dormitories on the Student Government movie circuit.

On the Florida State campus, only two veteran actors are in the play. Bill Adams, who has been in "Papa Is All" during the summer has other plays to his credit. He played in nearly all of last year's productions and played the part in "Season and Rachel." The other student, Franklin Thomas, has been active in the departmental productions during his three years here. He is a member of Los Amigos social fraternity, and has been well-known for the character parts he has done. Thomas and Adams are roommates.

The advantage crew of "Charley's Aunt" is one of the largest that Director Carlos Charles Reimer, in charge of the technical effects, has each one on the prop committee responsible for a single prop. This is the way that Reimer gets the scenes changed in half the time it usually takes. Moving flats from one part of the stage to another is a time-waster, but Reimer's crew works like clockwork with a set pattern in the flats the props and flats do not get from and in. The actions also [illegible] Reimer's direction. Reimer, like myself, is indeed in peril.

The story of "Charley's Aunt" concerns the efforts of students who disguises as his friends' aunt in order that they may entertain two collegiate girl friends in their quarters. A rich gold-digger is after the aunt who is supposed to be a rich dowager. Many embarrassing moments are put into full swing and the quick changes are a high point of this hilarious farce. Tickets are scheduled to go on sale November 4 through 12 at the Student Center, and the Westcott Building for $3.00 per couple. Co-chairman John Howard urged that students buy their tickets early, since the dance is expected to be a sellout. It will be held November 14, in the Suwannee Room.

Rat Court To Hold Last Trials Tonight

The final session of rat court will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the amphitheater, according to Paul Ort, president of the Sophomore class.

All Frosh who received summonses for past courts and did not attend because of classes and other conflicts are required to be at this session.

"Punishments and assignments given at Friday night must be finished by Saturday noon," Ort stated. "Any frosh not doing so points will be taken off the Frosh score at the Saturday field meet."

Contest To Name Joe-College, Betty Co-Ed Will End Today

Voting for Joe College and Betty Coed ends today, according to contest chairmen Jane Sanderson, Delta Delta Delta, and John Adams, Pi Kappa Phi fraternity.

An annual Campus Chest project of the two groups, the contest chooses the typical Seminole couple. To vote, pennies are dropped in the box of the sorority, fraternity or organization for the boy or girl that they are going to support.

Voting started Wednesday at booths set up in the Student Center, Seminole Club and the Amber House.

The members of this year's court will be featured as nursery rhyme characters. Ideas for costume are available in the Gymkana office. Some suggestions include Little Bo-peep, Little Miss Muffet Wee Willie Winkie, Little Boy Blue, Mary Mary Quite Contrary, Red White, and Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary. Finalists may organize dances or skits as a part of costumes through Dr. Harley Price.

Joe College contestants and the groups sponsoring them are: Jerry Meyer, Delta Delta Delta; Carlos Hernandez, Alpha Phi Alpha; Bill Graham, Alpha Gamma Delta; Jimmy Hamilton, Alpha Omicron Pi; Jimmy Massinee, Alpha Delta Pi; Harvey Hall, Zeta Tau Alpha; Bill Bradberry, Alpha Omicron Pi; Jimmy Crosby, Sigma Kappa; Barry Mansey, Pi Beta Phi; Alan Bradberry, Alpha Omicron Pi; Bob Crenshaw, Kappa Delta; and Bob Elliott, Alpha Omicron Pi.

The girls voting for the title of Betty Coed are Ann Gravely, Pat Landis; Mary Beth Hollis, Suzna Alpha Epsilon; Barbara Ann Lieser, Pi Beta Phi; Betty Goodh, Kappa Sigma. June Watson, Florida Hall and Tau Epsilon Phi; Cyrl Hamilton, Alpha Chi Alpha.

Also Beverly Laurrel, Delta Tau Delta, Vivian Jones, West Landis; Myra Lay, Gilchrist; Jackie Goddard, Theta Chi; Eleanor Perkins, Jennie Murphree; Marlene Hayes, North Cawthon; Nancy Jo Ann Davis, Delta Zeta; Ann McGoma, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Shirley Lees, South Cawthon.

Senate Fails To Confirm Murray To Senate Post

Senators Ask That President Have Election

Flombeau Criticized For Printing Article On Murroy Debate

By MARVIN BUCKMAN

The Student Senate rejected the appointment of Germaine Murray to the vacant junior woman's seat in that legislative body at Wednesday's meeting.

After two weeks of debate and several complete hearings, the appointment, made by president Pete Nimkoff when Mary Louise Das did not return to school, although 18 to 8 in her favor, was not enough, for confirmation.

Amid charges that the only objections to Miss Murray were on personal grounds, Senator Carolyn Close, who had voted for Miss Das at the October 6 meeting, announced she was changing her vote. Other shifts of opinions she said she had obtained from many students.

Sen. Lillian Bullock, in intimat-

Robb White

Robb White Is Coffee-Hour Speaker Today

Robb White, author of the current best seller Our Virgin Islands, will be the guest speaker at the third Eagle's Coffee Hour Meet the Author forum event this afternoon.

Dr. Russell Reaver, chairman of the Coffee Hour, said that the hour will begin at 4 p.m. in the Westminster House across from the Amber House.

Mr. White's latest book, noted Reaver, has sold one and a half million copies in the United States, since being published in 1953, and is being made into a movie in England.

It was published in condensed form in Reader's Digest, he continued, and White also has an article in the November issue of the magazine.

Dave Cross, chairman of the program committee, declared that Robb White's appearance as an office he calls the "Dirty Room" out in the woods near his home on Satilla Plantation between Tallahassee and Thomasville, Ga.

"While hunting or fishing," she said, "or running the bulldozer. He plans each day's writing in his mind, complete to the punctuation, so that the actual typing is almost a mechanical operation."

"His short stories have been published in the Saturday Evening Post, and other leading magazines, and he has 14 successful books for juveniles in the world."

The students are invited to hear him today describe the experiences of himself and his Georgia bride on their island in the Caribbean," she concluded.

FUNCTIONS STOP FOR CELEBRATIONS

Armistice Day, by order for students, faculty and staff to participate in commemoration of Armistice Day, all University functions will be suspended from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Thursday, November 11. Classes will be resumed and all University activities after that date.

Homecoming: All University activities will be suspended at 12 noon on Friday, November 12.

Charles H. Walker, Registrar

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS MEET AT 7 P.M.

The FSU International Student Club will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the large lounge, Longmire Building. Mrs. Ruth Nichols, Foreign Student secretary of the committee of Florida's relations among foreign students, New York, will be the speaker. Students were invited to attend.

FSU Circus Travels To Georgia To Present First Performance

The first full circus performance of the year will be presented by "Flying Bigh" in Waycross, Southeastern, Georgia, this weekend.

...A troupe of 21 will leave at 8 a.m. today for Waycross where a show will be given tonight. Saturday evening, the troupe will perform in Savannah.

A total of 21 acts will be taken on the trip, including the tightwire, the highwire, the giant whort, and the single trapeze.

Members of the troupe making the trip include Ruth Williams, Lakeland; Virginia Ann Cook, Charlie Mathews, Miami Beach; Cal Porter, Pete Moses, Rod Smith, Jackie Fortune, Bobbie Temple, Ronnie Trower, Janet Graff, Betty Pachler, Marie Wadsworth, and Gail Kershaw.

Others are Charlotte and Bobby Lee, Linda Lee Brewington, Laura Sue, Ronnie Hall, Bill Stevens, Jim Byrd, Nancy Hanson, Harriett Williams, Eddie Wyatt, Jim Bob Vance, Frankie Harrison, and Duke Woodard.

Coach Jack Hankins stated that he wanted to give a show in Georgia before the club went on tour. He said the troupe will perform in other Georgia cities in the spring.

Senators Have Good Intentions But Insight Is Notably Lacking

"Be mine the privilege to supplement defect"—Browning.

The role played by members of the Student Senate on Wednesday was perhaps one of good intention, but their overall judgment and bearing was lamentable.

It could have been quite easily a paradox, too.

The Student Senate has for the past few weeks been discussing whether or not to confirm the appointment of a student to junior women's Senate. Last Wednesday, Senator Moore requested the Senate to go into executive session, claiming that "personalities" would be aired.

This would have been a secret session, barring everyone but Senate members, but fortunately it was voted down.

Conceivably, in an executive session, rumors could emerge that could be easily distorted. Executive sessions encourage irresponsibility because no one can be held for what he says. Moreover the only record of the executive session would be the minutes, which are skimpy and do not go into the issues in any entirety.

This did not, however, seem to matter to some Senate members. They did not feel they should get up in a public session and speak on what they believed to be right. As a matter of fact, we think Senate members are the ones that have telescoped this issue out of proportion. They have dropped their own subtle entities. Prejudies are many and contagious, and people are easily subjected to them, perhaps unknowingly.

Taking all this into consideration, if there is such a mystery surrounding this selection, why didn't the Student Body president consider it? We think he gave it proper consideration. We respect him and we uphold his judgment in choosing whom he believes to be a qualified person.

In an endeavor to present an accurate and detailed account on this whole issue, so that there may be no misunderstanding whatsoever, The Florida Flambeau has now been criticized and rebuked.

On Wednesday a Senate member said feelings were hurt partly because of the paper's stories. His fellow members acquiesced in this by giving him a long round of applause.

They did not, however, question this paper's accuracy. They merely criticized us because we printed, accurately and objectively, what they said in a public session.

We want to reiterate that Senate meetings are a matter of public record and concern. We believe what takes place in a public hearing should be printed, and the people who make statements should have enough integrity and conviction to say what they think and be responsible for what they say.

The Senators forget to realize they are in the public spotlight. They are always open to criticism and rightly they should criticize—when it becomes necessary. Notwithstanding, it is the same with individuals who want to place themselves in this spotlight.

Further, the Flambeau will continue not only to disseminate information, but also attempt to present an objective and complete text of campus happenings, including the Student Senate.

A Sad Commentary

The loyalty pledge which prevades our national atmosphere and makes us all questionable people has now reached out its tentacles and enfolded Air Force and Army ROTC hopefuls.

The Department of Defense Appropriation Bill (P.L. 458) passed by Congress during the last session bears a regulatory "rider" which says:

"No part of the funds appropriated herein shall be expended for the support of any formally enrolled student in basic courses of the senior Division, ROTC, who has not executed a certificate of loyalty or loyalty oath in such form as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of Defense."

This regulation does not apply to Navy ROTC, but directly affects Air Force and Army ROTC units.

There is the usual list of stipulations to the pledge: organizations which a prospective student must check if he once belonged to any of them, urging or supporting violent revolution, and so forth. Political implications enter into this which limit a person's basic rights.

Underlying this is the fact that the Department of Defense is in effect controlling admissions to FSU, which is certainly a direct violation of a free university.

We are told that no one at Florida State University has refused to sign the oath. Perhaps that bespeaks well for the loyalty of students. On the other hand, many students may have signed the pledge merely because it is the easiest thing to do.

Unless the student signs the loyalty pledge he may not enter a university that has compulsory ROTC, and this limits the number of colleges a student may attend.

In addition, as has been noted before, the ROTC program would probably be easier to run and more valuable for the students seeking commissions if it were composed entirely of voluntary cadets, and not weighed down with reluctant "draftees" who drag their feet and slow up the whole process.

Lastly, it is indeed a sad commentary that the loyalty oath doesn't really weed out subversives nor is it hardly effective for preserving security.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .

Spend an evening at the theater
And sit by a gal and try to date her?
Feed her your line and play it up big,
Then find out later she's wearing a wig.

—Don Rapp

Letters To The Flambeau

Political Tinge

To The Editor:

It has come to my attention that I am being mentioned around the campus as a Republican. I therefore demand space in your columns to clear myself of that contemptible charge, which bears all the earmarks of sensation-mongering and headline-grabbing.

In support of that smear, I suppose, are the circumstances of my having attended Republican colonizing cells and having authored statements of a distinctly Republicanistic tinge. As to my writings, any examination of them is clearly a violation of academic freedom and spells a threat to liberty of thought. And what if I was a charter member of a Republican front? I was just a college kid, not responsible for my actions.

It's true I waddle like a duck, quack like a duck, and associate with ducks. But I'm not a duck, I'm a Liberal! (wak)

VAN G. PETERSON.

The Football Picture

To the Editor:

I was very interested in seeing the repercussions that came from Alan Whitmarsh's sports column in last Tuesday's Flambeau. After speaking to staff members I have discovered that not only did the staff not know what the contents of the column was, but that in general they neither agreed nor approved.

Of the latter I am pleased. A newspaper, a campus newspaper that is, should always strive to avoid friction and to keep the students together on an issue like football — especially when the team has performed as well as it has.

Of the former, i.e. repercussions, I am disappointed that so many of the Nugent Eleven followers would take so to heart such a seemingly misinformed and unobjectiva account. Perhaps after three years Mr Whittmarsh will have associated enough with the team, the coach and the athletic department to be able to render just and fair opinions.

Not being too familiar with the process myself, I will not venture a statement regarding our football team, but I leave the question open to any interested parties to inform, through letters, just what calibre players we have on our team.

ORCHID ALONSO

Teaching Positions Under French Plan Are Being Opened

Opportunities to teach English in the secondary schools of France and Germany are open to American graduate students or secondary teachers under the Educational Exchange Program conducted by the Department of State, according to recent announcement.

Under the French plan, future teachers of French will be teaching conversational English in secondary schools and teacher-training institutions in France.

The German assistantship program involves the American students serving as assistants to teachers of English and will be assigned to institutions in German cities.

The closing date for applicants interested in the French plan is January 15, 1955, while the deadline for entering the German competition is November 1, 1954.

Basic requirements for the assistantship awards are U. S. citizenship, a bachelor's degree from an American College or university by the time of departure, a good academic record, a good knowledge of French or German (according to which assistantship is desired) and good health.

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ... Joyce Potter
Campus Editors ... Martin Dyckman, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors ... Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ... Bob Gutting, Alan Whitmarsh, David Morris
Photographer ... Laird Anderson
Copy Editors ... Sylvie Parrish, Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusement Editor ... David Dreis
Art Consultant ... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ... Con Horn
Junior Staff George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jeri Bradfield

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.

Mary Liz King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ... Mary Wogan
Distribution ... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service 420 Madison Ave., New York 17.
Exchange Editor ... Irma Cox

Telephone 2-8000 extension 6821
211, 213 Longmire Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

"Long Life"

The Lift File

Brain-Washing Cases

Some definite kind of judicial method for dealing with brain-washing cases must be established.

As things stand now, the Army is trying to fit psychologically-determined "crimes" into the mold of former types of war desertion cases. It's a square peg in a round hole. Brain-washing cases are something that military laws have never had to deal with before. When old time legal methods are applied to this new kind of case, injustice results.

Claude Batchelor was begged to come home. Emotional ties of all kinds were brought into play to win him back to the American life. But bringing the boy back to the States only to sentence him to lifetime imprisonment is wasteful and cruel. Unless he was meant to lead a useful American life, what was the sense in pleading with him to return?

Batchelor was consigned to life imprisonment, although other men in similar cases were given no term or else a much shorter one. Corporal Dickenson's sentence was much lighter; Lt. Col. Fleming and Col. Schwable weren't imprisoned.

The Navy and Air Force don't prosecute repatriated POW's as a matter of policy.

All of this shows that inconsistencies in policy, in decisions on certain cases, and in approaches to the problem exist. These inconsistencies must be ironed out. Justice is being overlooked by decisions that have no basis except outdated procedural practices.

Brain-washing is a horror that American courts haven't dealt with before. Much study of the situation, of the actual privations that the POW's endure, of the psychological effects on both weak and strong men, of the breaking point that men have—all this must go into deciding a new legal basis.

The various branches of the service should use the same basis for decision. And certainly all cases in the same branch should be treated similarly.

Until the new kind of judgment on brain-washed Communist-converts can be worked out, soldiers must fear a situation with communism or horrible physical and psychological harm on one side and fear of United States legal injustice on the other. The morale of the Army suffers immeasurably.

Claude Batchelor's case will be appealed. Perhaps the Court of Military Appeals, composed of civilians, will give a different decision based on new discussion of the case and new realization of public opinion.

But the over-all problem that Batchelor's case shows up so well will not be solved until the full impact of the situation is realized and a just basis of decision and punitive action, considering all the aspects, is established.

From the Daily Texan.

Senior Staff Opinion

By SENIOR STAFF

This column is being written to express the opinion of the majority of the Senior Staff of this paper regarding statements made by City Judge John A. Rudd. (It should be noted that the Senior Staff of The Florida Flambeau consists of the Editor, the Managing Editor, News Editor, Feature Editor, Sports Editors, Copy Editors, Advertising Editor, Campus Editors and Business Manager.

In a statement which The Flambeau printed Tuesday, Mr. Rudd offered constructive criticism to this paper concerning its editorial handling of the case of William R. Wagoner, saying "The court . . . . feels that the publicity given this case by the university paper was incorrect, uncalled for and served no useful purpose."

The Flambeau's Senior Staff feels that the publicity (an editorial in the October 8 issue) was correct, called for, and definitely served a useful purpose.

We would like to reiterate our stand which was set forth in the editorial. We still believe that our previous statements were accurate, logical and a true evaluation of the situation.

We would further like to point out to Mr. Rudd that the purpose of our student paper is mainly to uphold the rights of the students, and that in our October 8 editorial we did just that, to the best of our ability.

Let us make it clear that The Flambeau Senior Staff believes as strongly as ever that students' rights were grossly violated in the handling of the affair. Any statements to the contrary by the Tallahassee Police or Mr. Rudd are in error.

The editorial was in no sense an attempt to "riducule," as Mr. Rudd suggested. It was, to the contrary, an honest attempt to stand up for what we believed and still believe, is right.

CHEMIST INTERVIEWS STUDENTS TODAY

Mr. A. P. Girsitis of the Ethel Corporation will be on campus today to interview chemists. Students interested in talking to him should contact Mrs. Farmer, 203 Westcott, for an appointment, and application blank.

DAY STUDENTS MEET MONDAY

Delta Sigma Omega, Florida State University Day Students' organization, will hold a meeting Monday at 4:30 p.m. in the Student Lounge, Longmire.

Secretary Gloria Parrish said that Homecoming plans will be discussed and invited all students to attend.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"I better help that new student stretch his canvas—he seems pretty anxious to get started."

The Point Is

A Look At The One-Party Press

By BOB FOLSOM

Newspapers have often been referred to as the "one-party press." There seems to be an ingrained notion in people that when they see a newspaper print a few more columns about one political party, they assume the paper is favorable to that side.

This conception could be wrong, and is in some instances. In other cases, the conception of slanting the news may be correct. Sometimes, it is so obvious it hits you in the face; like for example, The Chicago Tribune.

The two easiest ways to slant the news are: (1) write the story so it inevitably creates a favorable or unfavorable impression with the reader, or (2) just bury the news happenings of a party's candidates, while his opposition gets prominent space. The paper that takes a stand editorially usually may have to be watched.

This notion always springs up again in those cases anyway, even though a like amount of space is allowed for both parties. The dire Republican New York Herald-Tribune deserves a commendation for its fair coverage and objective news reporting. Their editorials are atrociously Republican but their news handling is superb. Their Washington staff is one of the finest in the capital.

The slanting of news is of particular significance now, since the elections will be held next Tuesday.

How do our daily newspapers measure up to their partiality in news columns dealing with Democratic and Republican candidates?

A book just published by the University of Nebraska press, (which isn't available here, while reports on it are) called "One-Party Press, and written by Nathan B. Blumberg, assistant professor of journalism at the university and former reporter and editor, reveals that newspapers don't slant news as much as is generally believed. That is, if you want to rely on Mr. Blumberg's scientific study.

He could not survey every newspaper, and therefore has taken 35 representative papers of varying circulation in every section of the country.

The Miami Herald and the Atlanta Journal are two Southern newspapers in the survey.

His method was to study every issue of the paper for one mon[th] of the 1952 Presidential campa[ign] —the final 30 days, from Oct[.] to Nov. 4. The report said [he] measured the number of colum[n] inches devoted to campaign ne[ws] and pictures of each party o[n] the front page and on select[ed] inside pages. He noted the num[-] ber and size of photographs an[d] the number and size of headlines. He took other considerations in[to] hand, like the discounting [of] heavy news play when a cand[i-] date arrived in town. With oth[er] measurements, he arrived at th[e] conclusion while bias in news cov[-] erage cannot be scientifical[ly] measured, the existence of bi[as] can be determined.

Of the 35, 18 showed no evi[-] dence of partiality in the news column. The Miami Herald wa[s] in this class. Fifteen supporte[d] Eisenhower two Stevenson, and one took no stand. The Atlanta Journal was in the twilight class—"no conclusive evidence of partiality in news columns."

The report suggests somebod[y] to undertake to set up in advanc[e] a thorough-going survey of new[s] coverage in the 1956 campaig[n.] I second it.

Sketches

People I Knew: The Card Players

By DICK VICTORY

They had been playing cards for over four hours and the room was hazy gray with smoke. There were four of them, playing poker there in one of the dormitory rooms.

The players weren't saying much; there wasn't much to say and the quiet surrounding the game was only equalled by the quiet of the outside where the air brakes of a passing van could be heard and where occasionally, a night bird called, punctuating the still.

The door of the room was locked and the desk that the four were playing on held a like number of money piles. Most of the money was in change, dimes, quarters, and half-dollars and there were just a few bills, all ones.

Of the four players, one was far ahead in winnings, two were losing badly and the other was losing too, but not quite so badly. It was twenty minutes to three and the four players knew it because the clock faced them from the top bunk, changing expression with each fleeing minute.

The player that was winning looked up and said it was a twenty minutes to three and the other three glanced over the top of their cards and said nothing but one of them did look at the clock out of the corner of his eye so hard that the eye almost appeared crooked.

The winner didn't say anything again until they had finished the hand. He won. This time he tried to get a laugh out and said ten more minutes. The three just frowned and motioned with their hand for him to deal the cards. He said sure. He could feel the heat of their hate reach out and scorch his skin.

At seven minutes past three he tried again. He said damn, fellows, it's after three. We said three. They looked at his pile and kept playing cards and at the end of the hand one of the heavy losers had won.

The big winner smiled and scraped his chair. The three looked quickly at him, their eyes anxious but grim.

He started to say maybe next time but thought better of it an[d] instead tried to keep smiling. H[e] stood up and looked feebly at th[e] clock. He could hear it ticking.

The three pushed their chair[s] back away from the table in di[s-] gust and looked up at him. H[e] started to say something again bu[t] didn't. The three could see tha[t] he was really going to leave an[d] they looked at each other. And then, one of them reached out an[d] gathered all the money they had left between them and shoved i[t] into his pile.

He was startled and said hey what are you doing? He felt pa[nic] now and just wanted to get his ow[n] money there from the center o[f] the desk. He started to separa[te] his money but suddenly he stopped because he couldn't control hi[s] hand very well.

He finally banged his hand dow[n] on the middle of the pile and i[t] scattered, one dime dropping t[o] the floor. He was out of room be[-] fore one of them could put hi[s] shoe on it and stop the buzzing around it made as it spun.

The Dissenter

Elections Should Show True Spirit

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

A member of Rat Court sarcastically thanked me the other night for "completely ruining school spirit on this campus."

Somewhat mystified, I pressed him for an explanation. It soon came out that he was referring to an earlier "Dissenter" calling Rat Court a waste of time. According to my visitor, I have completely wrecked school spirit and am partly responsible for the freshmen in general discarding their rat hats.

I was pleased, of course, to thing that any column I could write could have such a strong effect either for or against anything 2But my pleasure was tempered by the fact that my visitor didn't know what he was talking about.

We will see Tuesday, by the turnout to vote in the freshman class elections, whether school spirit has really been ruined on this campus or not.

From the way the freshmen have been taking an interest in their campaigns, the reverse would be true. School spirit is much more accurately measured by interest in student politics than by obedience to a set of rules which at best a reonly distantly related to such intangibles as pride in one's school and an awareness to what is going on around yourself.

Tomorrow afternoon will see the classic competition of the sophomore-freshman field day, in which the freshmen will vie with their oppressors for the privilege of throwing away the rat caps they have thrown away long ago. Those who do show up will show up for the fun of competition and the thrill of throwing someone in the Westcott pool. There will be many candidates for office there who will recognize the political expediency of attending.

They will be there to have a good time. And not for school spirit.

It would be interesting, however, to examine some of the reasons why the freshmen have already discarded their rat caps and why they appear to be paying little attention to the menacing Rat Court. The freshmen of this year would do well to pay heed to the reason when it comes to running Rat Court next year.

The Rat Cap's main function is to help the freshman become a part of the college community. It not only helps him become ac[-] quainted with other members o[f] his class, both male and female, but it suggests to the returning upperclassmen that its wearer may need help in finding his way around and may need advice and experienced counsel as well.

Most students will go out o[f] their way to be friendly with a rat cap wearer; a few maladjusted ones will persecute them if they don't wear it. Is the latter school spirit?

The Rat Cap serves its purpose in getting the freshmen orientated and adjusted to university life.

Consequently, when they feel a part of the student body and throw their Rat Caps away, as they have done, it would seem that school spirit has benefitted, and the upperclassmen should be satisfied.

Some of them are, some of them don't care, and a few are very upset that they can no longer make the freshmen obey them.

We shall see, in the current campaign, and by their interest in student politics and student life, whether the freshmen are truly, as my visitor protested, lacking in school spirit.

Etcetera Etchings

Comic's Humor Is Strictly Business

By DAVID DREIS

Comedy teams have long entertained the public, but many times in the history of these double comics, humor and friendship have come only as business and nothing more.

Recently the big news concerned Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in that they might split up their million dollar mirth-making because of a 'feud' over a movie script. Dean thought it had too little of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis though it had the right amount (Tch-Tch) Of course, it was blown up to all magnitude by the press, but it's been well known that the wives of each has been claiming their boy was the brains of the unit. They finally rewrote the script of "Big Top" which stars JoAnn Dru and Zsa Zsa Gabor and kept the team together.

Abbott and Costello have long been 'just' business acquaintances and rarely mix after they get off the set. Of course, there has never been break-up talk from them, but from the numerous colyumnists.

The biggest fight in comedy teams was that between Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. A fight which broke up the team to such an extent that they almost went broke by themselves as they fought for comedy roles in Hollywood. Both gave up luxurious MGM contracts because they couldn't stand sight of each other. Stan Laurel was taken to a mental institution, it was reported, but never certain. He just disappeared from view for many years. Ollie Hardy appeared in a few films for Producers Releasing Corps. and with PRC he almost died out. Now, once again realizing that their efforts together are their only chance for success, they're on personal appearance tour in Europe and reviews claim them as great in the fifties as they were in the thirties.

Even ventriloquists have trouble. Edgar Bergan has long tried to break away from Charlie McCarthy and after the reviews on teevee's Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court in which Bergen proved to be the dummy, he'll think twice before moving without his crew.

Paul Winchell, a very talented ventriloquist, is also a very able dramatic actor, but people want to see the dummy Jerry Mahoney and Winchell lost a sponsor when he wandered without him.

SURFACE NOISE: . . . The Carousel production comes off the same time as the Department of Speech's play, The Beautiful People . . . Can't these two groups ever get together so that the theater-goers doesn't have to cram in see both these shows when many weekends there is nothin' doin . . . Downbeat, the music magazine is putting out a college amusement column . . . not bad, but this college was the pioneer in the new trend . . . Grace Kelly getting the greatest reviews as the wife of Bill Holden in Bridges of Toko-Ri . . . The Chordettes rendition of Mr. Sandman on Cadence is terrific . . . also the popular version of Don't Drop It is terrific with some unknown crew . . . Does anybody on campus have that terrific Pardon My Blooper record? It's the disc that has actual broadcasts of announcer's mistakes . . . on Jubilee records . . . In Rear Window Alfred Hitchcock was seen winding a clock for the potential composer . . . Columbia, preparing a double threat for Oscar committees with Caine Mutiny and On the Waterfront, wants to make it a triple threat by releasing their CinemaScope story of West Point's football coach of the 1900's . . . Tyrone Power, star and heavy share holder in the Long Gray Line has refused . . . better money if the film is released in the beginning of next year . . . and can run the whole time instead a part of one year and a little of another . . . besides Tyrone needs money now . . . he's readying divorce action against Linda Christian: a long-time marriage of five years . . . Ted Williams and Julia Adams may altar in the verrieneah future . . . Listen to TV's the Thing This Year . . . it's sexier than I Need It!

Tribe To Face Ex-Nugent Team At Lynchburg, Va.

FSU Rated Fifteen Points Over VMI

Dick Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

The Power Index ratings are just performance averages. Example: a 20.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, on the average, than its rivals opposed against each common opponent.

Games Of Week Ending October 31, 1954

AMONG TOP 150

Name	Rating	Name	Rating
Upper Sixties		Lower Sixties
FRIDAY'S OCTOBER 29
Texas	+32.0	Nevada	+7.4
Oklahoma	+31.0	Richmond	+7.3
Maryland	+30.0	Fordham	+5.3
SATURDAY'S OCTOBER 30
Georgia	+30.0	Colorado	+8.0
Tennessee	+29.0	Texas A&M	+7.0
Duke	+28.0	Texas	+6.0
Navy	+27.0	Utah	+5.0
Notre Dame	+26.0	Utah State	+4.0
Michigan State	+25.0	Wake Forest	+3.0
Michigan	+24.0	Villanova	+2.0
Oklahoma A&M	+23.0	Columbia	+1.0
Penn State	+22.0	Arizona	0.0
Kansas	+21.0	Rutgers	-1.0
Iowa	+20.0	Pittsburgh	-2.0
Ohio State	+19.0	Tampa	-3.0
Southern Cal	+18.0	Washington	-4.0
Syracuse	+17.0	Boston College	-5.0
Florida	+16.0	Mississippi	-6.0
Clemson	+15.0	Wyoming	-7.0
Baylor	+14.0	Pacific	-8.0
Arkansas	+13.0	Virginia	-9.0
Auburn	+12.0	Penn	-10.0
Miami, Fla.	+11.0	Kentucky	-11.0
Purdue	+10.0	Wisconsin	-12.0
Stanford	+9.0	Wash State	-13.0
Tulane	+8.0	Rutgers	-14.0
Tennessee	+7.0	No Carolina	-15.0
Texas Tech	+6.0	Miami, Ohio	-16.0
Virginia Tech	+5.0	Air Force	-17.0
U.C.L.A.	+4.0	California	-18.0
Holy Cross	+3.0	Dartmouth	-19.0
Va. Tech	+2.0	Wm. & Mary	-20.0
Wyoming	+1.0	Pittsburgh	-21.0
Illinois	0.0	Houston	-22.0
Wisconsin	-1.0	Iowa State	-23.0
Boston U.	-2.0	Detroit	-24.0
OTHER SOUTHERN
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29
Wofford	+6.0	Citadel	-7.0
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30
Abil Chris'n	+20.1	Lamar Tech	-20.1
Appalach'n	+13.1	W Carolina	-22.1
Ark A&M	+16.7	Ark Tech	-19.7
Ark Mines	+20.1	Arkansas U	-23.1
Austin Peay	+6.6	Ga Tech	-10.6
Bridgewater	+8.6	W Va Wesl'n	+1.3
Carson-N	+6.0	Presbyterian	-7.0
Centre	+13.0	Davidson	-13.0
Davidson	+24.0	W Va Tech	-7.0
Delaware	+6.0	Maine	+1.0
E. Tenn St.	+21.1	Houston St	-20.1
Emory	+9.0	Mississippi St	-9.0
Furman	+6.1	Hardin-Sim	+2.1
Glenville St.	+7.0	Ga Teach	-7.0
Hampden-S	+6.0	Roanoke	-6.0
N. Michigan	+6.0	Ohio U	-6.0
New Force	+21.0	Corp. Christi	+1.0
Lenoir-Rh	+6.0	Catawba	-6.0
Louisville	+6.0	Memphis St	-6.0
Marietta	+7.0	Howard	-7.0
Marshall	+6.0	Morris Harvey	-6.0
Middle Tenn	+6.0	Murray	-6.0
Mo. Mines	+7.0	Heidelberg	-7.0
Morehead St	+6.0	Eastern Ky	-6.0
Newberry	+7.0	Guilford	-7.0
Northeast La	+6.0	Northwest La	-6.0
Northern Ill	+6.0	Miami, Ohio	-6.0
Presbyterian	+6.0	Catawba	-6.0
Randolph-M	+6.0	Va Military	-6.0
S W La Inst.	+6.0	E Tenn St	-6.0
S E Austin	+7.0	Tenn A&I	-7.0
Southern Ill	+6.0	Ga Southern	-6.0
Tampa	+6.0	Stetson	-6.0
W Ky. State	+6.0	Louisville	-6.0
W Chester St	+6.0	Fairmont St	-6.0

NATIONAL LEADERS

Miami, Fla.	198.1	Penn	89.1
Hanner	108.1	Marshall, O.	89.1
Tulane	98.1	Kentucky	89.0
Rice	96.1	Wash State	88.0
Methodist	96.1	LSU	88.1
Navy	95.1	Illinois	88.0
Wisconsin	94.1	Michigan St	88.0
W. Virginia	91.0	Colorado	91.0
Maryland	90.1	Florida	91.0
So. California	91.0	Penn State	97.0

* Home Team

Copyright 1954, by Dunkel Sports Research Service

Try Banana Splits 35c

Fresh Fruit Sodas 20c Sundaes 30c

FRIDAY - OCTOBER 29

While Shopping . . . drop into our fountain room and ask for a dish of wonderful ice cream.

SPECIAL SALE

$2 Dorothy Gray Cleansing Cream for $1

$2 Dorothy Gray Blustery Weather Lotion for $1

BENNETT'S DRUGS

STATE

Today Thru Tuesday

"Dragnet"

with

Jack Webb

FLORIDA

Today & Tomorrow

"Black Shield of Falworth"

Tony Curtis — Janet Leigh

in Cinemascope

Sunday thru Tuesday

"Bengal Brigade"

Rock Hudson

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN

Today & Tomorrow

"Texas Stampede"

Charles Starrett

plus

"Isle of the Dead"

Boris Karloff

Sunday and Monday

"Dream Wife"

with

Cary Grant

COLONIAL OUTDOOR

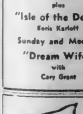
Today & Tomorrow

"Tham"

James Whitmore

plus

"Killer Ape"



Johnny Weismuller

Sunday and Monday

"Boy from Oklahoma"

with

Will Rogers, Jr.

"Twelve Years Serving Tallahasseans"

VISIT FRANK'S DRIVE-IN

FOR GOOD FOOD

HOT TURKEY SANDWICHES

BARBECUE FOODS

OUR SPECIALTY SEAFOODS

2037 NORTH MONROE

PHONE 2-9074

Freshmen Candidates

Treasurer

Freshmen!

I would like to take the opportunity to introduce myself. I am Bob Hutchins from Pensacola and I am seeking the office of Freshman Class Treasurer.

In the past, I have taken an active interest in student activities. In high school, I held various offices as well as participating in sports, dramatics and forensics. I would sincerely like to continue these various activities.

I consider the Freshman Class an outstanding class, not only because of its size but because I know it will make an outstanding record of achievement in all activities it pursues. We must also prove ourselves to be as good, if not better, than the previous classes. At times this will be hard, but in the end we will have proven ourselves and we will be an outstanding class. I would sincerely like to have an active part in this class and I with that you would consider me for treasurer.

Remember to get out and VOTE and may the best MAN win.

Sincerely,

BOB HUTCHINS.

Hi Freshman.

Allow me to introduce myself. I'm Barbara Jean Little—a candidate for Secretary of the Freshman Class. It is with a sincere desire to help you and to work for the best interests of our class and our university that I ask you to consider me as your candidate. My home is in Tampa, Florida, where I attended Plant High School. There I held the office of treasurer of National Honor Society, as well as other executive offices in various organizations at school and church. This experience, I believe—has given me the necessary background to serve you efficiently.

So when you cast your vote, remember — "Get the Most with LITTLE."

BARBARA JEAN LITTLE.

Social Chairman

Fellow Freshman,

More fun for everyone! That's my slogan, and if I am elected to the office of Freshman Social Chairman, I will see to it that you have more dances, parties, picnics, and everything else that goes to make your freshman year the best.

As past high school senator, secretary-treasurer of the Student Government Association, Vice President of the Spanish Honor Society, Keystone, and Beta Theta Omega Social Club, I have had much experience in the planning of social activities, and feel I am well qualified to be your chairman.

I have the time to spend on organizing your social activities, and a strong determination to do the best job possible. If elected, I will place the duties of this office above any other activities.

"YOU CAN'T MISS IF YOU VOTE FOR CHRIS!"

Sincerely yours,

CHRIS GINOCCHIO

Dear Freshman,

Now is the time for all good freshmen to come to the aid of their class! On Tuesday, November 2, it will be your privilege to elect the students you wish to represent the Freshman class.

One of the offices open is that of Social Chairman whose main objective is to help unify the freshman class through planned entertainment. The main project of the Social Chairman is to assist the vice president in planning the Freshman Carnival.

I would like to offer you my qualifications for this office for your consideration. I attended high school in New Orleans, therefore I had first-hand experience in seeing and taking part in the Mardi Gras and school carnival balls. I was awarded the Alumni Award as best all around graduate; was on the honor roll; a member of the yearbook staff, homecoming committee, and advertisement committees. You now have my qualifications and I hope that it will make your job of choosing your class officers somewhat easier.

JUST FOR FUN—IT'S SARA WHITING FOR SOCIAL CHAIRMAN.

Sincerely

SARA WHITING

(More Letters on Page 4)

BILLY ODOM

Senate Fails

(Continued from Page 1)

and a two-thirds vote two-thirds of those present.

Senator Ken Catlin, in a measure aimed at killing the motion, effect of abstaining votes, had introduced the resolution providing that only those who voted were to be counted in the decision.

Senator Jimmy Joanos urged defeat of Men's Vice-President Gaster's amendment, protesting that a person could vote against an issue without committing himself to a definite visible stand by abstaining, if those voting for a measure had to override abstaining as well as negative votes.

Gaster's amendment, passed and the resolution, as amended, passed also.

Vice-president Coyle Moore yielded the gavel to Men's Vice-President Gaster, and spoke in favor of a resolution he introduced asking the administration to rescind a new policy of subtracting one quality point per semester hour from a student's quality point total for a grade of "F" in a course.

The resolution pointed out that the policy is listed on page twenty-five of the catalog, and protested that such a policy is original this year.

Gaster introduced a resolution, which was passed, protesting the policy of deducting from a student's grade and quality point total if he passes a class either immediately before or immediately after a holiday.

Senator Joan Halford's committee on Labor, Student Services and Education reported concerning abstaining as well as negative votes.

Senator Bill Wagoner, a member of the committee, reported that the Dinning Hall saved $900 during the month of September by hiring full-time employees to replace certain part-time student employees.

Vice-President Gordon Gaster introduced a bill amending the Funds Committee regulations which he said would permit campus organizations to keep more than the one-third he said they are now permitted to retain from their fund projects.

Seminoles Ready After Tiger Loss

By ALAN WHITMARSH

Playing on foreign ground for the third straight week, the Florida State Seminoles will strive to move back into the winning ways tomorrow afternoon when they clash with the Keydets of VMI at Lynchburg, Va.

The Seminoles will probably move into this contest a one or two touchdown favorite against a team which has won but two of six contests this year, but in the light of past events, this may not mean an easy victory.

According to reports, the Keydets have been pointing to the Florida State game above all other this year. They would like to show their mettle each Tam Nugent that they are still a formidable force to be reckoned with.

Thus far, VMI owns wins over George Washington and Richmond, suffering defeats at the hands of Boston College, Virginia, West Virginia and Davidson.

The Seminoles and Keydets have met twice in the last two years, with each team emerging victorious once. Last year, FSU was on top, 13-7, and in 1952 the Virginia school took a 38-7 victory.

Florida State goes into this one in top physical condition with the exception of Bill Wewer, whose fractured jaw will keep him out for remainder of the season. Al Mackowiecki's bruised knee and Jimmy Lee Taylor's cut hand have both healed sufficiently and these boys will be all ready to go.

Sixteen lettermen are back from a VMI team which had an even record of 5-5 last year. The probable backfield is composed of Dave Woolwine at quarterback, Charlie Lavery and Jim Thornton at the halfbacks and Nick Servidio at fullback.

Lavery's running and the passing combination of Woolwine to end Ray Collins have been the most potent scoring punches for the Keydets, who, like the Seminoles, have been shut out on three occasions this year.

Once again, the starting backfield for Florida State is an uncertainty, and will probably remain so until the day of the game. Tom Nugent has been working with various combinations including the use of four different quarterbacks in nearly every game.

Either Len Swantic, Vic Primi, Harry Massey or Ted Rodrique might draw the starting nod, and none will be guaranteed of finishing the game.

Against Auburn last Saturday Nugent used from his previous of using two complete units to throw his best men into the game with the Plainsmen. With most of the squad back in top physical shape, he may go back to the "Nip" and "Tuck" system tomorrow.

If he should stick to the one-team system, however, the starting backfield alignment will probably have Lee Corso and Billy Graham at the halves and John Grimer at fullback, working with any possible one of the four quarterbacks.

Protection for the passers was one of the more glaring inconsistencies in the Auburn game, but despite that fact Seminole quarterbacks still managed to complete 12 of 23 tosses. Pass defense, on the other hand was one of the most encouraging aspects of the defeat.

Tom Pennster continues to lead the Seminoles in scoring, having tallied four times on passes. Billy Graham is the leading rusher with 139 yards in 38 carries, while Len Swantic remains the total offense leader.

After tomorrow afternoon, the Seminoles will take a two-week layoff before the big Homecoming game with Furman on November 13. With five games to go, the Seminoles stand at 3-3 on the season, and are given a better-than even chance to come out well on the winning side of the ledger at the end of the year.

COULD YOU TELL US THE DIRECTIONS TO LYNCHBURG? Ends Taylor and Fenstermaker figure as part of the big guns that Coach Tom Nugent is going to unleash in his barrage against VMI.

Malone's Book Store

for all your needs

Sweatshirts — Notions

Books — Stuffed Animals

Art Supplies — Stationery

107 S. Copeland — Ph. 3-1066

"Everything For The Student"

Keepsake Diamond Rings

Bulova & Elgin Watches

PAUL TURNER

JEWELER

REPAIRS

102 S. Monroe St. — Phone 3-1681

Dine in a Comfortable Atmosphere for a Breakfast Lunch Dinner

Complete Dinners From $1.50 Up

APPROVED BY AAA

Let Us Plan Your Banquet or Luncheon

OUR PRIVATE BANQUET ROOM HAS A CAPACITY OF 150

Open 6 A. M. 'Til Midnight Saturdays 'Till 2 a.m.

TALLAHASSEE DINING ROOM

1430 NORTH MONROE

Phone 3-4218

Mr. Bishop, Mgr.

When you pause...make it count...have a Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

"Coke" is a registered trade mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

CAMERON'S

TEXACO SERVICE STATION

Bring the Cars and Winterize

Before Cold Weather Bites

CARS CALLED FOR & DELIVERED

Corner W. Tennessee & Copeland

Phone 3-0619 — Tallahassee

ANTI-FREEZE WATER HOSES HEATER HOSES CLAMPS

WINSTON

brings flavor back to filter smoking!

■ All over America college smokers are flocking to Winston—the new filter cigarette real smokers can enjoy! Winston's got real flavor — full, rich, tobacco flavor! Along with that flavor, Winston brings you a finer filter. It's unique, it's different, it works so effectively!

The truly superior Winston filter doesn't "thin" the taste or flatten the flavor. New Winstons are king-size for extra filtering action — and easy-drawing for extra good taste. Try a pack of Winstons. You'll really enjoy 'em!

Winston tastes good — like a cigarette should!

WINSTON...the easy-drawing filter cigarette!

Freshmen Candidates Promise . . .

Men's Senate

Dear Freshmen

The student you elect to Senate should be an individual who is willing to represent in the Senate all the members of our class, not just one clique or group. He should be willing to go out and talk to you to find out how you feel about campus issues and then act and vote in the Senate according to your wishes.

I pledge, if elected, to give you that kind of representation, to give you the kind of representation you need so that your wishes may play a leading role in student government.

In the four years ahead, our class will have the opportunity to make an outstanding record. I hope you will let me serve you as your senator so that I may play an active part in bringing our class achievements to a high level.

Remember: To Achieve You Aims . . . Elect James."

Sincerely,
JAMES BAIRD,
Candidate for Senator

Fellow Members of the Freshman Class:

I have had experience in Student Government at both junior high and high school. However, I do not think that this is of any importance because a college year starts an entirely new and different life.

However, I think these qualifications would help me in carrying out my duties if elected as your student representative in the Senate. I am completely unbiased in my thinking toward any organization that may be represented on campus. Appreciating your help on election day, next Tuesday, I remain yours,

Sincerely,
RONNIE BLUE.

Hi Freshmen!

I am a candidate for Freshman Senator in the coming elections. I believe that I am qualified for this job through my activities at Palm Beach High School. I was a member of the Student Council for two years and was a chosen representative to Florida Boy's State.

I have the interest and the ability but I need your help and support in my campaign for Senator. Let's work together as a whole and make our class of '58 the best on campus. I am honestly represent the entire Freshman class.

By serving as your representative I hold myself responsible to consider all interests and ideas you submit to me and I will always be ready and willing to serve you.

GEORGE IRVIN JR.

Dear Freshmen:

The reason I am running for an office is a sincere desire to serve. If elected, I will uphold your standards and will work for a better and fair government. I hope to meet and talk with as many of you as possible, and I hope that you will find me qualified and will support me in my campaign.

You can vote for three--make McCann one.

Thank you,
HANK McCANN

Hello Freshmen.

I'm down to the best to meet as many of you as possible and talk to you concerning my campaign for Senate. I hope I will meet those of you I have not yet met in the next few days and be able to discuss my campaign with you.

My platform is simple. If elected, I will strive to carry out your desires in the Senate and will always be willing and eager to discuss your ideas and Senate business with you.

My most important qualification is my interest, ability, and desertio to serve you, the Freshman class. It is with these ideals that I ask you to elect me as your FRESHMAN SENATOR.

BILL ROCHE

Dear Freshmen:

I am writing before you as a candidate for Freshman Senator. If elected I will represent our class fairly and with sincerity. My platform includes:

1. I will work for a change in the present method of grading so that students will receive grade points are subtracted for grades of F. I do not think students should have to take a class away from other courses in which they have received the value of failing grades is another subject.

2. I will work in the Senate, if elected, to ask the university to establish a simpler registration procedure.

These are issues that are of interest and concern to us all. If you are interested in these and work to carry out this platform and will represent the interest of the freshman class to the best of my ability It is my earnest desire to have the PRIVILEGE of serving you as your Senator.

Sincerely
BILL STRICKLAND

To all members of the Freshman class:

I would like to serve you in the capacity of Senator, so I can take a part in the work of making the class of '58 the most outstanding class in the history of Florida State University.

My platform is simple. I feel that if we all work together we can achieve this goal. If you allow me to represent you I will at all times, by my acts and vote in the Senate in a manner of which you will always be proud.

I hope you will give me your deepest consideration and I hope to vote for your three men senators.

Sincerely,
BILL SWIGERT

To the Freshman Class:

I am anxious to serve you as your representative in the Senate.

I not only feel that I can do a good job but I am more than willing to devote my time, energy and past experiences in proving that fact to you.

Being independent of any committee or group, it is only the welfare and interests of the Freshmen class that holds my interests.

Seven big months lie before us. In that time accomplishments will tell the story. It is my ambition to be able to fill a chapter in that story of progress as your senator.

Sincerely,
DON TAICHER.

Women's Senate

Fellow Freshmen.

Tuesday you will go to the polls to select the people who will represent not only you but the entire Student Body in Senate. It goes without saying that I would appreciate your vote.

My experience in student government in high school qualifies me, I feel, for the job. I have been Student Government in operations here and am extremely interested in it.

Whatever you do or whomever you vote for, don't fail to vote.

Sincerly,
BERT BRAUN

Dear Classmates:

I hope that you will seriously consider my qualifications and candidacy for Women's Senator. My past record includes State Treasurer of Girls' State, membership on the student council, class officer, and other student government activities at Boone High, Orlando.

But high school qualifications are not enough. A Senator should be elected on her platform. My platform includes:

1. Extension of hours allowed for women students coming in late to the dorms on Saturdays to one hour per semester.

2. Extension of the deadline for women students going out day trips to 10 p.m.

3. More student participation in student government.

For these I will make every effort to carry out this platform.

I am sincerely interested in serving as your Senator and I hope that my platform merits your support.

Sincerely,
ELAINE BRENTON

Dear Freshman Students:

We like to be lauded but not ruled. So if elected as Freshman Woman Senator I will undertake no means and devices to give the Freshman body more control in running and maintaining the Freshman class.

What is a school without spirit? We can with all voice as much spirit and enthusiasm as in sacrifices and all those events as we did at the Auburn game? There must be a way! We will find it.

I will appreciate all support that you may wish to give me.

Sincerely,
JACQUI CHARLES

Dear Class of 1958.

During the past few weeks we have come to respect and love this institution which was once strange to us. Now we have a duty and privilege to have a voice in our Student Government. It is essential that we have a firm foundation from the beginning so that all work will be strong.

The Senate is the legislative body on this campus and plays an important part in our representation in student government. I will endeavor to fill the office of Women's Senator to the best of my ability, standing for and promoting good government and the interests of the Freshman Class. I will appreciate your support and will be the one of your three Freshman Women Senators.

Sincerely,
STARR CULPEPPER
Candidate for Women's Senate

Dear Freshmen.

While observing the Student Senate in session, I realized that I would very much like to express freshmen views to this group. In high school I gained the valuable experience necessary for this duty. I was a member of Student Council and held other executive positions as class vice-president, Vice-president of State Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y, and President of Youth Center. Through this I discovered the importance of student government in building good citizenship. I also discovered--through Honor Society, the value of scholarship--through sports and cheerleading, the value of team work and school spirit, and--through Philorship of the high school yearbook, the value of organization.

I would enjoy putting my abilities to work so that the Freshmen may have an active voice in university affairs.

Sincerely,
PETEY DUNN

FRESHMAN VOTERS.

It will be your privilege and duty to choose three girls to represent you on the Student Senate. As voters in the coming election, you hold in your hands unlimited power. It will be through you that our freshman class will either rise or fall. Therefore, it is your duty to think, and think hard, before you cast your vote.

I am running for the post of Women's Senator. It will be up to you to determine if I am qualified for this position. As for my past experience--I was awarded the American Legion Award for being the most outstanding girl in my graduating class. I was also given the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award. School organizations include: National Honor Society, Y-teens, Student Council, and numerous others.

If elected, I will do everything within my power to further the welfare of the freshman class. In our democratic form of school government, I will do my best to truly represent the views of our class.

The decision is now up to you. Vote for the candidate of your choice, but, make certain that you will fulfill your expectations.

DON'T BE A DEAD-PAN VOTE FOR ANY.

Sincerely yours,
KAY KAMINIS

Freshmen:

In considering the candidates for Women's Senate that you will be to vote for please consider Bobbie Schalley. Having served in Student Council for three years. I feel that I am qualified to serve you here at Florida State. I feel a responsibility to a member of National Honor Society and Gold and Scroll and feel capable of handling my subjects while holding a position in Student Government.

Perhaps my best qualifications are a sincere interest in people and making friends and a heartfelt desire to do my best in serving the Freshman class at Florida State University.

My sincere thanks are offered to all those who decided to back me in this election and I offer my services to you if you should fit the Freshman Class in every way possible.

Thank you,
BOBBIE SCHALLEY

Dear Fellow Freshmen:

Since it is impossible to contact every freshman individually, I am taking this opportunity to offer you my sincerest wishes and aspirations as a candidate for Senator this coming fall.

Because of my great interest, I have made the effort of finding out what the duties of a senator are to get it. These include: Day to day activities of campus life extended to 9 p.m.; regular group meetings, consisting of Senate, administration and other student problems and opinions; some investigations, reports and better sleeping conditions in women's dorms that the men now enjoy in their dormitories; and finding the key that will unlock the door so school spirit will flow abundantly. Now I am asking, my fellow freshmen, the rap can appear small but only three days separate us that Freshmen will not become lackadaisical and defeatist in spirit and they become one of the overpowering upperclassmen.

My main qualification as a candidate for this office is a desire to serve and a willingness to make an effort to find out what the student problems are and exert in the legislative scene way to relieve them. It is my desire to represent you in Senate "Bagdad" as one and I will support you later."

Sincerely,
ANNE STANLEY.

Dear Freshmen:

Election time is always of great importance. This coming election is no election--primarily to our Freshman Class. We have been given equal representation in student government along with other classes, therefore, it is our responsibility and privilege to elect experienced and competent Student Government leaders.

The Student Senate is a valuable service to this university." It is made up of students, chosen by their classmates, who are willing to devote time and effort to serving their fellow students. That is my desire, to serve you in every way I can. Election promises have become trite as I will not go into detail of such promising. If you elect me your senator I only pledge you unbiased and broad-minded representation. I have the desire to serve you and work in every way possible toward making our Freshman Class of 1958 the most outstanding Freshman Class on any campus.

In closing let me say:

"For a bigger and better FSU Elect ETHEL STEADMAN to Represent you!"
ETHEL STEADMAN

Dear Freshman

My aim and ambition is to be the first woman Governor of Florida in 1972 when you mark your ballot for governor remember Ethel Cleve as how "Steadman Is Cleve."

I begin my political career in the second grade when I was elected class president. In the years since I have used this as a foothold and I'm still climbing.

In this year of 1954 I am a candidate for the Women's Senate. Care should be taken in the selection of your three women Senators and I hope you will consider me when you vote.

Stop! Think! Vote wisely on November 2.

Sincerely,
CLEVE TOWNSEND

Hi There!

Tuesday is the election and I'm up to my neck in posters I haven't posted yet.

You see, I want to serve our class as your freshman senator. As for experience, I was active in the National Forensics League, National Honor Society, Spanish Honor Society, and the Student Council.

Representing YOU as your freshman senator would indeed be a great honor for me and I will make it up to you ten-fold. You will find there are no "We's" in my campaign except in speaking of my freshman classmates.

Your friend,
LOLDA VELASQUEZ.

Class President

Dear Fellow Freshmen:

During these next few days, most of you will be earnestly trying to decide which candidate will serve you best as Freshman Class president. This isn't going to be an easy job for you because you haven't had a chance to meet each candidate personally. In this campaign I'm trying to meet as many of you as is humanly possible. I hope that you won't mind me stopping you on the street and introducing myself, because I want to know each of you as a friend.

I have refused to make any wild promises in this campaign. I am running for this office on the basis of past record, pledging to you my every effort to improve our class. The best indication of what a candidate will do for you in the future is what he has done for others in the past. Deeds, not promises, really count. When making your decision you should carefully consider the past record of those who are running.

I am anxious to win this election. I want to win because I want the opportunity of serving you. Will you give me this opportunity?

Sincerely,
KARL EDWARDS.

Freshmen:

The future of '58 is perhaps the largest freshman class ever enrolled at FSU. It is my desire to see our class do outstanding especially by a large membership, but in many other phases. That I would include under three headings: Scholarship, leadership and spirit.

In announcing my candidacy for President of the Freshman Class, I would like to say I will endeavor to see that our class distinguishes itself in those respects if elected.

We are probably the first class to see the absolute chaos at FSU from a small college to a big university. In view of this change we can see that FSU is now less than ever a Tallahassee school. Therefore, many others of the University have been Tallahassean's. So not only that some of them have been qualified leaders. However, I feel that this is a State University, backing students enrolled from different sections of the state and nation and many foreign countries should be represented by officers coming from those sections.

I am a veteran of four years' Naval service, the latter two years in a Pedersen unit. I am 22 years of age. In high school I was active in all sports and various activities.

I ask you to consider me when you go to the polls next Tuesday.

Sincerely yours,
TOM NORLES

Fellow Freshmen:

I hope that you will consider my candidacy for Freshman President. If elected President I shall give freely of my time and effort to make a good President and to make this year a successful one for the freshman class. I want to make this letter brief and concise--my only promise is that I will work and work hard to make the record of this year's freshman class better than that of any previous year.

Sincerely,
JIM KEARCE

Vice-President

To the Freshmen:

Dum-Da-Dum-Dum . . . This is the campus: classrooms, dormitories, post office. I see them all. --I'm a Freshman. October 26--5:00 P.M.

The name JIM CLARK handed me--I checked the records exclusively and was told me that CLARK was one of the outstanding men from the "Lee-Perchet. I found that he wasn't resting on past laurels; however, he was already advocating great freshman participation and recognition!. He had great ideas which he was willing to contribute toward a more colossal and tremendous freshman carnival. This case required further investigation! I called for an interview. I was impressed with the candidate--I remembered the last thing he had said--"I want an opportunity to work with my fellow freshmen to make the class of '58 one which will be long remembered for its outstanding service and loyalty to FSU--I would appreciate your consideration of my name when you vote November 2. for freshman class vice president.

JIM CLARK.

Attention Newsat Secretaries.

Before I announced my candidacy for Freshman Vice-President I made sure I was qualified instead of going into a long letter that will probably bore you. I can simply say if you want to know my record ask anyone who knows me.

Since we are the longest freshman class of FSU so far, bigger things will be expected of us. I promise if you give me the honor of being your next vice-president, bigger, better and more things will be done for you and FSU.

So I will leave you with this closing thought which sums up my whole campaign. "GIVE STYLE A TRIAL."

Yours Very Sincerely,
GEORGE KYLE

Freshmen:

I would like to serve you in the capacity of Vice-President. I will not make any rash promises which do not pertain to my office. I will not interfere with any business which does not come under the jurisdiction of that office. I cannot promise to do anything other than the duties of the Vice-President of the Freshman class. But I do promise to perform those duties of that office. If you, want conscientious service I believe I can provide it for you.

DON K. LEWIS.

To the Editor:

During the past few weeks many or my fellow students have been asking me why I'm running for Vice-President of our Freshman Class. In this letter I wish to state my reasons.

First of all the Vice-President is the person who runs the Freshman Carnival. If elected I will see to it that this year's Carnival will be the highest and the best of any Freshman Class before or since. And for many to come! Secondly, I feel that the freshmen do not have enough voice in campus activities and if elected I will do my best to help them. Last but not least, I feel that the Freshman Class should sponsor a project that would benefit Florida State, not only this year, but in years to come. For such a project I have many ideas which, if I'm elected, I will put to use in the name of the Freshman Class so that our class may be proud that we have done something for the benefit of our school! In the weeks that I've been at Florida State, I have grown to love and respect this school. I feel that our class should be as much a part of this school as the upperclassmen are and hope to bring this feeling into reality if elected.

Sincerely yours,
TOM ADCOCK.
Class of '58.

Secretary

Dear Members of the Freshman Class:

I realize it is no easy job for I have seen results of two wars as for as many candidates for Secretary that you know only slightly one that will do a good job, for the qualifications of each are many and good. However one should see it right to vote for me. I shall try to serve you in every way I know how if elected. I shall put forth every effort to help you in any way I can.

Please consider each of us, and remember if elected I shall give my very best and with your help I will.

Sincerely
MARY JANE ALBERT,
Candidate for Secretary

Fellow Freshmen:

"If you could see yourselves as others see you, how different it would be." And so, in order that you may see Mary Louise Pearce as her friends see her, I allow a friend to describe her attributes I am Mary Louise Pearce's roommate and so I feel that I am able to tell you of her many qualifications for Freshman Secretary.

I have known Mary Louise at Miami Senior High School where I have seen results of her work as treasurer of a girl's service club, as president of National Honor Society for two semesters and as an active member of the student body. In those and other capacities I have received with her and I know her creative ability and sound judgment.

(More Letters on Page 5)

If elected, I know MARY LOUISE Peacock will be able to maintain a favorable balance between studies and Secretary of Freshman Class. She has always been a B student and is attending Phi on a teaching scholarship.

So please take my advice, elect Mary Louise Pearcek Freshman Class Secretary.

Yours truly,
WILMA SUE PAGEN.

Attention Frosh:

Posters, posters and more posters. As we look over the campus we are many names plastered on the doors, windows or any vacant place that happens to be in view. These are only names. What do they stand for? What is behind them? Are these names qualified to represent you, the freshman class at Florida State University?

Since all of you don't know me personally, my past experience in Student Government is the only means of showing you my qualifications. Respectively from the minds to the twenty-six offices, jobs have been: Vice-president of class, secretary of class, publicity secretary of Student Council, both the tenth and eleventh grades, co-ed leader of my student body (one boy and one girl in the twelfth grade. Other activities which will help me in representing you were: Beta Club, National Honor Society, and Civitans.

I would like the chance to prove myself to you for I would be proud to represent you as secretary of the freshman class and would do to the best of my ability. But this decision is left up to you.

MARTHA GRIZZARD,
Candidate, Secretary
Freshman Class.

Dear Freshmen:

My name is RUTH JOHNSON and I am a candidate for Freshman Class Secretary.

I attended Palm Beach High School where I was SECRETARY OF MY CLASS FOR TWO YEARS. I also served as Secretary of Student Council, Girls Choir, Pen-American Club and my district youth group. I was a member of National Honor Society and Student Council.

I feel that these experiences have qualified me to serve as your Class Secretary. Having enjoyed this work in the past and having the time to do a good job I feel certain that I will put your confidence in me --co-operate with the other officers to help make our class the best on campus.

In closing let me urge you that no matter who you vote for--VOTE.

Sincerely,
RUTH JOHNSON.

PAPER-MATE PEN makes note-taking push-button EASY

"Hang-It-Ease-ed-Tip" writes the way you do . . . fine, medium or bold . . . without changing points. Refills available in blue, red, green or black ink. Get a Paper-Mate Pen today!

- Ballpoint approved
- Ink won't smear or transfer
- Won't fade

Silvered-Tip refills . . . 49¢

$1.69 Fair Trade

FREE DESSERT TODAY!

to

FIRST 30 DINNER CUSTOMERS

BRINGING

THIS ADVERTISEMENT

to

The Amber House

for

Food That's Fine

7 A. M. Till 11 P. M. Sun. - Thurs.

7 - 12 Fri. & Sat.

105 S. COPELAND

NOTICE

OUR SERVICE HAS BEEN LOUSY!

BUT NOW!

We Have A LARGER KITCHEN
We Have 3 DELIVERY TRUCKS
We Have 5 Telephones
We Have 30-Minute Service

PHONES— 2-8208 - 3-2400 - 3-2409

The Corral

1621 So. Monroe St.

TALLAHASSEE'S MOST POPULAR DRIVE-IN

Leadership Conference Planned By Honoraries (See page one)

The Florida Flambeau

Polls Open Today For Frosh Elections (See below)

VOL. XL NO 11 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1954

Senators Will Discuss Bills, Appointments

Proxy Appointments Head Agenda Again New Posts Names

Presidential appointments, ...ave furnished the ...ate of contention for fac... in Student Senate re... will again occupy ...body's time at tomor... session. It is not ex... that dissension will ...ur, however.

...p for confirmation are Joseph ...y, senior men's Honor Court ...ative, replacing Dave ...ough who resigned to become ...dent. Pete Nunkoff's Ad... ...ge; Cecelia Ann ...ith as interim senior wo... ...ve representative to that ...ard, replacing Mary Ann ...Kee who is interning.

...d Dell Lee, interim senior ...ntative to Women's Judi... ...ard, replacing intern Nancy Lou ...on from Jean Carr; junior ...ntative to Women's Ju... ...ard, replacing Susan Phillips ...o did not return to school, and ...ck Bill as Secretary of Wo... ...ssembly.

...ator Jim Moore, who last ...k announced that sessions of ...onstitutional Senate election ...ppointments committee will ...old a secretary and the re... ...ll be declared except upon ...e Senate floor as expected to ...ve proxy appointments.

...on the Senate agenda ...e meeting beginning at ...k are two bills and a ...ution according to presiding ...r Cecile Moore, vice-presi... ...y of Student Body.

...d said that men's vice-presi... Gordon Gaaser's bill con... ...ds raised by Student ...ociations will be up for re... ...ration and Senate voting. ...ding to Moore, the bill ...ld permit campus organiza... ...g a blanket levy rather ...n they raise on campus. ...e commented that at this ...e no actual amount of ...ounds of funds raised, on ...ms of service to the Uni... ...ty.

...nator Joan Hallord's con... ...ion on honor student privi... ...ation is expected to in... ...e a bill which would allow ...ior honor court to be ...ed the first offense and in... ...ase the number of penalties which ...ors can hand down.

...e bill will introduce ...olution asking the admin... ...ation to rescind their ...ecision forbidding F grades so that ...e grades of a student's ...ntire body average when de... ...ining eligibility in fraterni... ...ies and societies.

...e also introduced a resolution ...at next week's meeting which ...ll be the new policy of ...ing the method to all students ...ad of F grades. Formerly ...y were returned from ...e envelopes used in computing ...PA's for Greek letter or... ...ations.

LIFE SAVING COURSES START HERE TONIGHT

...A Red Cross Senior Life ...ving course will meet ...m 8 p.m. in the East ...ium pool.

...ass will meet every ...and Thursday from ...0 to 9 p.m. until the ...e requirements have ...en met. Instructors will be ...ne Ross, Anne J. Witter ...d Jim Tanaka.

MEET THE AUTHOR—FSU art students above at latest English Coffee Hour meet Robb White, author of Our Virgin Island, who was guest speaker.

Flambeau staff photo by Laird Anderson

Left to right are Jackie Altman, Robb White, George Milton, and Cynthia Swarat. Milton and Swarat presented White with their illustration of his book.

300 Hear Author Robb White Speak At Westminster House

An estimated audience of three hundred students listened to Robb White, author of the best seller Our Virgin Island, Friday afternoon at Westminster House.

Mr. White, who was guest speaker at the English Coffee Hour's "Meet the Author" series, gave student writers a few hints for writing stories. He said that the writer should write for the reader and not to please himself. "If necessary, scrap the first few pages but keep going ahead. The idea being that the author should know his subject inside out," he declared.

The author said he was pleased over the attendance of a group of fifth graders who came from Chiross to tell him that their teacher had read The Haunted House to them. a popular children's book. He also received a warm welcome from several students from Georgia and from freshman Donald Rogers, a one-time neighbor of Mr. White from St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

White was presented with two illustrations depicting Our Virgin Island, done by FSU art students Jackie Altman and Cynthia Swarat. He declared that the illustrations were "better than any professional work I've seen."

Mr. White's latest book was published in 1953 and has sold over one and a half million copies in the United States. He was first published in condensed form in the Reader's Digest and has been being made into a movie in England. He has also written short stories for the Saturday Evening Post and other leading magazines. Other miscellaneous books include 14 juvenile novels.

SOPH HOP ENDS AT 12, NOT 12:30

Sophomore Hop officials announced last night that there has been a "repeated" error in the dance publicity regarding time.

Ruthie Williams, Sophomore Class social chairman announced that the dance will start at 9 p.m. and end at 12 p.m. instead of 12:30, as previously stated.

Conference on Leadership Set By Honoraries

The annual fall ODK — Mortar Board Leadership Conference is scheduled for Friday night and Saturday morning at Lake Bradford, spokesman said this week.

The conference offers a series of student and faculty-led discussions on the possibilities in and the problems of student leadership on campus, said Queiros Twiss Kappa president Jack Heeter and Mortar Board president Martha Garrett. The two presidents invited all interested students, leaders, would-be leaders, organization officers and sponsors to attend the over-night affair.

The conference will be highlighted Friday night by a weiner roast and square dance and there will be facilities for about 150 students to stay over-night. It was noted.

Students will be required to register at the Director's Office, Langsire Building Wednesday or Thursday, and a fee of fifty cents per person will be charged if the conference Friday night.

Discussion groups will consider student government, publications, scholarship, democracy, service and social organizations and their place on campus in the development and exercise of student leadership and service. Groups will also discuss the functions and responsibilities for student leadership in various positions secretaries, social chairmen, etc.

Fadigan Gives Directions For H'coming Vote

Preliminary elections for the Homecoming Queen will be held Thursday and Friday of this week, The only polling booth will be located on the main floor of Westcott, open between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Five finalists will be chosen and their pictures will be posted for the final elections on Wednesday, November 10. Results of the preliminaries will be posted in Room 214, Education Building, Friday evening.

The Election procedure was announced by the Election Committee consisting of John Smith, Missie McCullough, Lou Mervitt and Jack Pickett. Also from the Election Committee for this election because of their own candidacy in sororities were Dee Grubbs, Secretary of Elections, and Kay Wilson, Treasurer of Elections.

Each voter will be asked to register his name, student number, and have the No. 3 space punched on his ID card before his ballot will be accepted. Voters must vote for the maximum number of candidates which is five or the ballot will not be counted, cautioned chairman Jim Padgaon.

Gold Key Selects Six New Members For Organization

Gold Key, men's local honorary leadership fraternity, tapped six new members last Sunday night.

The new members tapped are Coyle Moore, Jimmy Jolene, Don Teel, Harry Howard, Bob Chesshire and Tom Weeks.

Officers of Gold Key are Bob Foley, president; Dave Kennedy, vice-president; Bob Canada, secretary; and Jack Bonner, treasurer.

Present members include Pete Nunnkoff, Dick Gutting, John Howard, Allan Sundberg, Don Hollis, Al Shuler, Tom Simmons and Bill Jones.

The purpose of Gold Key is to recognize leadership, scholarship, athletics and service to the university.

Dance Honorary To Stage Membership Tryout Tonight at 7

Tryouts for membership in Cavaliers, men's honorary dance fraternity, are scheduled for tonight, 7 to 8 p.m. at the Student Center.

Selection for membership, officials said, will be based on dancing ability, appearance, and personality. Cavaliers are required to dance four numbers, two "slow" and two "fast" as it was noted.

Partners for the entrants will be members of Coalition, the women's counterpart of the dance honorary. Members of both groups will take part in the judging.

Officials added that the dancing lessons will resume Thursday, November 4, continuing every Tuesday and Thursday through November 11. The Thursday night lessons will include social instruction in Rop, Mambo and Rhumba, officials said.

CONVENTION POSTPONED

The convention of the Florida Council of English teachers set to be held on the campus of Florida State University in Tallahassee November 5-6 has been postponed, Dr. D. L. Burton announced today.

Dr. Burton said a new meeting date may be announced later.

Seniors Invited To Sophomore Prom Saturday

Candidates Chosen In Royalty Contest 'Run-Off' Tomorrow

The Senior Class has been invited to come to the annual Sophomore Hop Saturday night, Sophomore Class Social Chairman Ruth Williams announced yesterday.

She declared that at a recent meeting of the Sophomore Class, it was decided to invite the sister (Senior) class to the function as special guests. The Seniors may invite dates from any class.

The Hop will be held in the Women's Gym from 8 through 12 p.m., and music will be provided by the 14-piece Commodore Band. Miss Williams said that the dance will be a no-corsage, but formal, affair.

She said that the goal of the dance is to have every Sophomore and as many Seniors as possible attending, and that Sophomore girls should ask their dates rather than assume they cannot ask for themselves.

Sophomores voted yesterday for ten candidates each for Miss of King and Queen of the Sophomore Hop. (A list of winners was not available at presstime) These 20 finalists will be voted on Wednesday at voting booths in the Amber House and Student Center, open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Miss Williams announced that a number of all committee chairmen will be held tonight at 7 in the Florida Hall Parlor. Friday at 7 p.m. will be held a "work party" at the gym to decorate for the Hop, under the chairmanship of that committee. "All Sophomores are urged and invited to attend" commented the Social Chairman. "Sunday morning at 9:30 there will be a 'clean-up-party' to clear the gym. We need all Sophomores that are interested there, too."

Chaperones are associate professor of Men's Physical Education Dr. Wynn J. Yon and his wife, "Flying High" Coach Jack Haskins and his wife. Sophomore Class sponsors are Dr. Tait, Dr. Mary Kate Miller, associate professor of Women's Physical Education and Dr. Eugene Schmidt, associate professor of social welfare.

Homecoming Dance Ticket Sale Starts, Limited In Number

Tickets for the annual Homecoming Dance will go on sale Thursday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Westcott Building and Bookstore, announced ticket chairman John Howard.

Sales will be resumed Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the same time and places. Howard continued, and will be sold Saturday until 3 p.m. Price is $2.50 per couple, and sales will be limited to 300, Howard noted.

BULLETIN

Sophomore Committees were called Monday to sign today on ticket bulletin board for ticket sales.

Ticket chairman Howard urged students to buy tickets early inasmuch as the sales will be limited.

Fifty Two Freshmen Contend For Offices As Balloting Starts

Flambeau staff photo by Laird Anderson

THE LAST ROUNDUP—Pat Court Chief Justice Dusty Rhodes is pinned to car by a group of enraged Freshmen as climax to Freshman-Sophomore Field Day ceremonies. Student at top center catches ancient Normandic shield bolivered to offer protection from upperclassmen.

Victorious Freshmen Doff Caps Drench Ort In Westcott Pool

By JOYCE POTTER

The spirit of the Sophomore and Freshmen could not be dampened even by the frigid waters of Westcott pool Saturday afternoon as the Frosh swept to a 67 to 23 victory over the Sophs at the annual field day.

In the battle to rid themselves of their red caps, the Frosh won first place in six of the ten events. Starting out the day was the Boys' 50 yard race. In this event Jack Terwilliger, Nuk Menacof and Mike Hillegas placed first, second, and third respectively.

The next event was the "tiny-diver" race which placed the Frosh girls against the Sophs. The object of the contest was for the relay teams of six girls to run up to a stick, run around it seven times with their noses touching it and then huddle back to the starting place. The Frosh took honors here also.

Chilin forth their athletic ability, Freshmen Hale Williams, Mike Conley and Bobby McNeill won the three positions in the football throw.

The ping pong ball throw for the girls, the wind was the deciding factor Gretchen Kerr, Soph, got with the wind to place first. A runoff for second place was called between Jane Crutchfield, Frosh, and Joyce Potter, Soph, with Crutchfield the victor.

In the boys' football relay the Frosh again won honors with the team of James Kavanagh, Bobby McPherson, Gus Karahalis and Jack Terwilliger.

However, Sophomore girls drew honors for their class as Ola Belle Buchanan came in first in the 25-yard dash. A run-off was called for between Frosh Peggy De Bot and Sophs Joyce Potter and Ann Pratt. De Bot placed second with Potter third.

(Continued on Page 4)

IBM Machines To Tally Votes Before Evening

Thirty Frosh Seek Election To Senate; Four Seek Top Post

The fifty-two freshmen aspiring to office who for a week have presented their platforms and qualifications to their classmates will know before very late tonight whether or not they'll be in the final race.

The polls opened this morning at 9 and remain open until 5 p.m. at Westcott Building and the Seminole Club.

As the ballots are being cast and counted through the use of IBM test and score scoring machines, the results may be posted around eight this evening, as was the case in the Spring elections last year.

Elections officials said the results would be posted in a room near the counting area on the main floor of Westcott Building. According to a recent ruling by Secretary of State Dora Kennedy, the election workers must tally votes in a place public to observers.

According to the official ballot announced by the elections committee, there are twenty-one candidates for the three seats in Women's Senate; four for the seats in Men's Senate; four each for President and Secretary of the Class; five for vice-president; six for treasurer and three for social chairman.

Candidates for Women's Senate are Polly Atwater, Bert Braun, Retina Brewton, Lis Carey, Barbara Chambers, Jacqui Charles, Mary Christopher, Mary Coppedge, Petsy Dunn, Betty Jean Fuller, Martha Hall, Melinda Fulme, Ida Jane Jackson, Jan Kamins, Carol Keels, Lis Lawley, Bobbie Schuyler, Ann Stanley, Ethel Steadman, Cleve Townsend and Lodo Velazquez.

Candidates for Men's Senate are James Baird, Ronnie Blue, George Eyle, Jr., Bill Roche, Kaye Norton, Hank McCann, Bill Strickland, Bill Swindell, Ben Vickers Jr.

Running for class president are Karl Brown, Bob Kelley, Tom Nobles and Graham Teschke.

The ballot for vice-president are Jim Clark, John Hannamin, George Kyle, Don Lewis, Jack Sparks.

Seeking the treasurer's office are Ken Hudson, Peggy Kennedy, Bob Hutchins, Barbara Jean Liddle, Wanda Stokes, and Pick Whitehead.

Candidates for secretary are Jean Bell, Jeanne Bullock, Sarad, Ruth Jenkens and Mary Louise Peacock.

Candidates for social chairman are Ree Beatrix, Karen Kimpel and Tommy Thomas.

According to elections committee policy and opinions of the observers there is a contested running for office must receive 40 per cent plus one of the votes cast for that office in order to be elected.

In the case of the Senate race, where three seats are to be filled in both Men's and Women's Senate, a candidate must receive 50 percent plus one of one-third of all the votes cast, since each voter may select three.

The probability arises that every office at stake in today's primaries will require another in run-offs next week since it has been uncommon for a candidate to secure a majority with as many candidates running for office as there are.

If no one wins a majority in either of the Senate races, for

(Continued on Page 4)

JOURNALISTS BOLD JAMBOREE SATURDAY

The first annual "Journalism Jamboree" will be held Saturday at the home economics cottage Bradford for all Journalism and advertising students, as well as the staffs of campus publications, the school of Journalism announced yesterday.

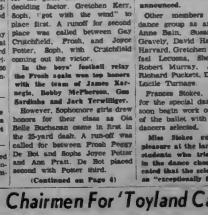
The event will begin at 4:30 and last until 7 p. m., with the total cost 35 cents for food and entertainment, according to the School of Journalism. This "Jamboree," they said, is open to all journalism students enrolled in the school or not.

Reservations must be made by Thursday noon with Mrs. Jones in the School of Journalism office.

Modern Ballet Dancers Cast For 'Carousel'

Seventeen Florida State University students have been selected as members of a special modern ballet group which will appear in the second act of "Carousel."

The musical version of Ferenc Molnar's Liliom featuring Richard Rodgers' music and Oscar Hammerstein's book, directed Roderne "Carousel" will be presented at the Opperman Music Hall, December 10, 11, 12 and 14.



Starred in a leading role as dancer-actor will be Barbara Vickers as "Louise," spokesman announced.

Other members of the new dance group as announced are Anne Beck, Joann Bell, Ann Gravely, David Harmon, Ruth Harvard, Gretchen Kirchoff, Rachel Lemons, Sheila McGinty, Robert Murray, Andy Odom, Richard Puckett, Don Rapp and Lucie Turnure.

Frances Stokes, choreographer for the modern dance group will soon begin work on preparation of the ballet, with the group of dancers selected.

Miss Stokes expressed her pleasure at the large turnout of students who tried for places in the dance chorus and indicated that the selected group is as "exceptionally fine one."

Price Reveals Chairmen For 'Toyland Capers'

GYMKANA CHAIRMEN for the 1954 production "Toyland Capers" are pictured above. Front row left to right are Jewels Pinkmore, Retsof Lucsons, Barbara Vickers, Margaret Donaldson, Jean Haight, Barbara Bynum, Sydney Kerr, Gerry Lebeau, Kathy Pence, Mary McAfee, Dorothy Stokes and Carol Anderson.

Second row left to right: Jack Miles, Al Redder, Jim Tanaka, Dick Gutting, Bob Murray, Jay Schwarzman, Dick Ireland, Janis Wall, Don Holder, Dr. Huntley Price, Bob Gutting, Jim Hanks, Jim Padgon, Tom Mc Nabb.

Clarence Hale has been named assistant director of the 1954-55 Gymkana production, "Toyland Capers," according to Dr. Hartley Price, director.

He also announced the names of other chairmen for the production which will be from November 30 to December 4, and which will feature FSU's gymnastic stars and the Tallahassee Tumbling Trio.

Dick Ireland and Jim Padgon were named general men's co-chairmen, with the women's co-chairmanships going to Barbara Vickers and Frances Bailey Stokes.

Jay Schwarzman was appointed men's senior manager, while Barbara Ronald and Jean Haight were chosen women's managers-in-charge.

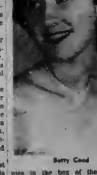
Co-captains of the Varsity gymnastics team are Don Holder and Jim Tolland. Mary McNeil is student director of the Tumbling

(Continued on Page 4)

Betty Gooch And Jimmy Messinese Chosen Betty Cord, Joe College In Annual Contest

Betty Gooch and Jimmy Messinese have been chosen Betty Cord and Joe College in the annual Campus Pin contest which closed Friday, and will be presented to each of the winners.

Sponsors by Kappa Sigma and Delta Pi respectively, Betty received 2500 votes while Messinese won with 4,000. Proceeds of the Campus Chest fund were split.



This contest, an annual affair sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi fraternity and Delta Gamma sorority, raises money for the Campus Chest fund and selects two typical FSU students.

Betty is the president of the Dance Group, a member of Delta, a junior cheerleader, Leonard Hall, on the Executive Council of the Newman Club, a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, and Campus Bowl contestant in education major and with a State Scholarship.

Football beads Messinese's list of activities. Having used up his year of eligibility, this two-year freshman is now acting as student assistant coach. Jimmy is also a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity, the Flambeau and FSU intramural basketball. He will graduate in February.

To vote, students dropped pennies in the box of the sorority, fraternity or dormitory sponsoring the candidate of their choice.

Last year's winners were Mary Lou Harrelson, of Alpha Xi Delta, and Charlie Minter, Alpha Tau Omega. The contribution made at that time to the campus Chest fund was approximately $180.

Betty Cord

Joe College

According to the chairman of this year's contest, Jane Banderson and John Adams, the contest was a success. "Considering the delay we had in getting started, we feel that it was very successful," they commented.

Freshmen Elections Today

If a trophy were to be awarded each year to the class adjudged as having the best citizenship, it would go to the freshmen class year after year.

In their class elections in the Fall, they show almost as much interest in student politics as the entire Student Body during the Spring election campaign.

We would like to see the Freshmen this year turn out to vote in a better percentage than ever before. We think it is a responsibility of citizenship, whether that citizenship be national, statewide, municipal or collegiate.

We hope that this year's freshmen class will, in the elections today, see to it that lethargy in the Spring elections becomes history as of last year.

They can do this by electing people on the basis of their merits, ability and sincerity, rather than on the standards of whether they are socially popular, belong to this-or-that fraternity or sorority, or are likely candidates for cover girls or matinee idols.

What these people whom they elect do in Student Government will determine, to a large extent, whether the Student Body again ignores its responsibility at the polls next Spring.

The freshmen can begin the transformation now by flocking to the ballot boxes in the elections today. Only they can decide who deserve to be elected.

Restatement Of Policy

When we published our first issue we stated that we wanted to give the students a professional and aggressive newspaper they would be eager to read. So far we have tried to do just that.

Accordingly, we have attempted to present national issues which concern, and usually affects the student in some way, directly or indirectly. We feel many students are uninterested about many national problems often because they are uninformed.

We have certainly taken a definite stand on some issues. If somewhere along the way we have left the impression that we are too one-sided, it is because we have criticized when we believed there was a violation of individual or a group's rights.

We have not tried to stifle or suppress any opposite viewpoints. We uphold, call upon and welcome any dissenting views or arguments that any individual or group would like to present.

We want to make this editorial page a sounding board for all opinions. We feel there is considerable latent talent on the campus, and we hope students will look upon this paper as an oulet for their creative abilities. Further, we will devote equal space to any individual or group who thinks his side should be heard.

We would like for these people to recognize that we have limited space. Also, we will not tolerate, either in the letters to the editor, or any other space, invidious attacks on any individual or group. We believe a firm and a respected position can be taken.

We hope now we have cleared up any misunderstanding that may have existed towards our policies.

Everyone can be heard in this paper if he wants to stand up and say something.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Notice that girls have legs?
Bumpy one, lumpy ones, and many like pegs.

—Don Rapp

"Oh, Say, Can You See ——"

Elections

Democrat Or Republican?

Today is Election Day—not only on this campus, but throughout the nation.

Here at Florida State University, Freshmen will go to the polls to elect their class officers and student government representatives. A complete report of this election and its candidates-elect will be found on page one.

Elsewhere elections will be held to determine the Gubernatorial and Senatorial candidates. The elections, particularly the Senate races, have wide significance. It should show whether the public's slow trend towards Republicanism, which was climaxed in 1952 with the election of a Republican President and Congress, will continue.

The President has urged the people to elect a Republican Congress, so that he can put his platform through. The Democrats believe he will not suffer if they gain the majority. Here is the rundown of both the Governor and Senate races:

GUBERNATORIAL

Thirty-three states will elect Governors, twenty-two have Republican Governors and eleven have Democratic Governors. In September, Maine elected a Democrat, Edmund S. Muskie, making the national line-up of Governors twenty-eight Republicans to twenty Democrats. Fourteen states, eight with Democratic Governors and six with Republicans, do not hold gubernatorial elections this year.

In the South, virtually every Democratic Governor is certain to be elected.

Florida: LeRoy Collins has no opposition. Georgia: Marvin Griffin has no opposition. South Carolina: George Bell Timmerman Jr. has no opposition. Alabama: James E. (Big Jim) Folsom is expected to win easily over Thomas Abernathy, a Republican. Tennessee: Gov Frank G. Clement has no opposition. Texas: Gov. Allan Shivers has little opposition from Tod R Adams, a Republican. Arkansas: Orval Faubus opposes Pratt Remmel, a Republican. Oklahoma: Raymond Gary opposes Reuben K. Sparks a Republican. Oklahoma has never elected a Republican Governor.

SENATE RACE

The Senate at the moment consists of forty-nine Republicans, forty-six Democrats and one Independent, Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon. The elections today involve twenty-two seats held by Democrats and fifteen held by Republicans.

In the South, the Democrats will reign again: Georgia: Sen. Richard B. Russell re-elected without opposition. Alabama: Sen. John Sparkman is certain of re-election over Republican J. Foy Guinn, Jr. Miss: Sen. James O. Eastland is expected to win easily over Republican James A. White. Louisiana: Sen. Allen J. Ellender, Sr. re-elected without opposition. So. Carolina: Democrat Edgar A. Brown has the party's support and his opposition comes from J. Strom Thurmond, whose name will not appear on the ballot. He is a write-in candidate. No. Carolina: Sen. Samuel J. Ervin, Jr., and former Gov. W. Kerr Scott are running for the two vacant seats. Republican Paul C. West is not given a chance. Virginia: Sen. A. Willis Robertson is assured of re-election without even campaigning. Tennessee: Sen. Estes Kefauver is also assured of re-election. Kentucky: Former Veep Alben W Barkley is said to have a substantial edge over Sen. John Sherman Cooper. Arkansas: Sen John McClellan re-elected without opposition. Texas: Minority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson is virtually assured of re-election.

In the Mid-Atlantic area, New Jersey is having a fierce fight between Rep. Charles Howell, Democrat, and Republican Clifford Case, with the former believed to be ahead. Delaware: Sen. J. Allen Frear, Democrat, opposes Republican Herbert Warburton, with the former expected to win. W. Virginia: Sen. Matthew M. Neely, Democrat, opposes Thomas B Sweeney, and is expected to win.

In New England, Maine re-elected Sen. Margaret Chase Smith. New Hampshire: Sen. Styles Bridges and Representatives Norris Cotton, Republicans, are expected to triumph. Mass.: Sen. Leverett H. Saltonstall opposes Foster Furcolo, Democrat, in what is judged to be a close race. Rhode Island: Sen. Theodore Green, Democrat, is favored over Walter I. Sundlun.

In the Midwest, Ohio has Representative George Bender opposing Thomas A Burke, Democrat, in what is considered a close race. Iowa: Sen. Guy M. Gillette Democrat is slightly favored over Republican Thomas Martin. Illinois: Joseph Meek, Republican, opposes Sen. Paul Douglas in what seems a close race. Michigan: Sen. Homer Ferguson is expected to win over Democrat Patrick V. McNamara. Minnesota: Sen. Hubert Humphrey is heavily favored over Val Bjornson, Republican. So. Dakota: Sen. Karl E. Mundt is a favorite over Democrat Kenneth Holum. Nebraska: Republicans are said to win the two seats here, where three Senators are to be elected for only two seats. Kansas: Sen. Andrew P Schoeppel, Republican, opposes George McGill in a close race.

In the West, Colorado's Lt. Gov. Gordon Allott, Republican, opposes John A. Carroll, Democrat, who is reported to have the advantage. New Mexico: Sen. Clinton P. Anderson opposes Gov Edwin L. Mechem in

(Continued on Page 4)

The Point Is

There Is No Popularity Test Today

By BOB FOLSOM

Two years ago, General Eisenhower and the Republicans cracked the supposedly "solid South", carrying Florida in the process, along with Tennessee, Virginia and Texas. It was indeed a worthy victory for the Republicans, and something to rejoice about. Especially so, in such areas traditionally Democratic.

Now, in November, 1954, the story is being circulated that the Eisenhower Administration's popularity will get its first test at the polls since the great sweep of 1952.

Not too happily. I cannot believe that. I don't think this is a test of popularity. I don't even think there's a test at all. Not in Florida, nor anywhere in the South.

The overall picture will show this is true. In Florida, Democrat LeRoy Collins will be the next Governor. Had the Republican gubernatorial candidate J. Tom Watson lived, he still would not have offered a stern fight at the polls. With his sudden death, the Republicans have lost a leader from their top echelon.

In the State Senate, the Republicans have one seat, in the State House, five seats. They are campaigning for congressional seats in the First and Seventh Districts. The incumbents are Democrats, usually recognized as a mark already in their favor.

Moreover, a Republican, Pinellas County Commissioner Sidney Parry, polled 250 county and state officials and came up with only two who believed President Eisenhower could carry the state if he were running today. The poll is probably totally accurate.

It isn't only like this in Florida. In the Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, South Carolina and Texas gubernatorial races there isn't hardly a whisper of opposition from the Republican side. All Democrats seem to be a shoo-in. It is the same with Senate races.

This hardly stands up as any popularity test. You can't have a popularity contest when all you have is one party.

The future outlook for the Republicans isn't good, either. Actually, it seems to be getting worse. What are the causes? They lie mostly with the Republicans.

Riding in on Eisenhower's personal appeal, they had the golden chance to offer the South a two-party system. But what they have accomplished in those two years, is evidenced in part by a lone event that's happening downstate: the only opposition offered the Democrats in the cur- rent elections are two cong- sional candidates.

There are other causes. O- may lie deeper than the at- with the Southern individu- There is the racial proble- which in itself, has unfort- ately turned much of the S- against the Republicans, j- because they happened to be t- Administration in power. A- other is the President's unw- illingness to stand up against t- opposition within his own part- and his taking repeated reb- from Senator McCarthy.

To go deeper, some of t- fault lies with the South's refu- to recognize another party. their allegiances, they forget realize that another party much to offer. Not only other party, but perhaps oth- also.

This one-party situation is a- palling. The distinguished ne- paperman, Hoddings Carter, it this way: "It means a co- tinuance of the dispirit- flaccid, generally meaningl- and, to most Americans, basica- alien system of one-party rule is a restricted kind of self-go- ernment which demonstrably h- hurt the South economicall- stunted its political growth a- hindered its social maturity."

The Dissenter

Writer To Record Accurate Events

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Some members of the Student Senate appear incensed over the complete coverage given a certain series of Senate debates by the Florida Flambeau and written by this reporter.

One of them gave vent to his feelings at the last Senate session, admonishing this reporter to "be careful" and protesting that "feelings were hurt."

What Senator Bobby Temple referred to was the coverage of the Germaine Murray debates in which the question was, Should or should not her appointment to a vacant Senate seat be approved?

Before the debates began several senators tried to force the Senate into executive session. Executive session is closed to all except senators, and they are supposedly bound not to reveal what goes on during the session of secrecy.

Their plea for privacy failed, and this reporter was able to report to the Student body at large what was said, who said it, and why the Student Senate refused to confirm Germaine Murray's appointment to the vacant seat in the junior women's senate delegation.

After the arguments were over and the senators who supported President Pete Nimkoff and his appointee had lost a long and valiant fight, some of their opponents felt somewhat guilty, perhaps.

The objection to Germaine Murray was partly on personalities, partly because she is a Kappa Alpha Theta and partly because some senators feel duty-bound to give President Nimkoff a fight whenever possible.

Some pretty low political blows were pulled and some very unfair things were said to keep the appointment from getting the required two-thirds vote.

Without seeming conceited about my coverage of those debates, I'd like to say that I think the type of politics evident in those arguments stuck out like a sore thumb to the students read- ing about them in the Flambeau. I think most students on cam- pus could see from that cover- age to what depths animosity in student government can some- times descend.

Yet when Senator Bobby Tem- ple arose and spoke and receiv- a sustained round of applause for his criticism of the Flam- beau's coverage, he did not crit- icise my accuracy in reporting nor did he criticize the objec- tivity of the articles.

Senator Temple said feelings were hurt because of them, and implied if the Senate had gone into executive session the Flam- beau wouldn't have found out what was said and no feelings would have been hurt. Senator Temple probably thinks that it's all our fault.

In a way, he is right. If the Flambeau had minded its man-

(Continued on Page 4)

Etcetera Etchings

Was Palooka A Drunkard Once?

By DAVID DREIS

Hollywood films sometimes take a few liberties which seem unjustified. Let me tell you about an old flicker I saw on video this summer. It was called Palooka, based on the character created by Ham Fisher in the comic section. The film was made in 1931.

So the film goes—if you don't know your comic history—Black-haired Joe Palooka played by Stuart Edwin is a contender for the middleweight championship of the world. His manager is a former showman Knobby Walsh played by Jimmy Durante. Palooka's mother is a former showgirl and his father just got out of prison—but Joe doesn't know this. (Yep, the film is taking liberties.) A bunch of crooks threaten Joe's mother that they'll tell him his father is an ex-con unless he throws the fight. Joe's mom refuses.

The cooks set out the Mexican Spitfire Lupe Velez to get Joe drunk. She does. (Everybody knows Joe drinks milk only.) A cigarette girl in the night club where Joe gets drunk takes him to her apartment and tries to sober him up. The cigarette girl's name is Ann Howe soon to be Mrs. Palooka. She sobers Joe up and gets him ready for the fight.

The next scene is the middleweight championship with the champ, played by James Cagney, waiting for Joe. Joe arrives and (not like the comic strip) loses the title fight.

The final scene has Knobby Walsh driving up to the Palooka home and Joe and Anne run out to meet him. Knobby shows off his wife, Lupe Velez and his baby who looks like him, played by Jimmy Durante. The scene closes with everyone laughing merrily and Joe glad he lost the fight. (Uh-yes, it doesn't exactly stick to the comic strip.)

To begin with Joe Palooka has blonde hair, is a heavyweight and has never lost a fight. His mother is a sweet little old lady and his father a garage mechanic. Ann Howe met him when her car broke down near the Palooka garage. Knobby Walsh is a former haberdasher and Joe beat up some guys who were swiping hats from his store. He doesn't drink liquor and even Edward G. Robinson can beat James Cagney. So, there. I hate to admit it, but the Joe Kirkwood series for video and Monogram pictures was better.

SURFACE NOISE: Columbia pictures has set its biggest production crew on Captain Calico when Clark Gable does his first for the company . . . everyone is writing screenplays for Gable or Brando hoping the companies will buy and get them to play it . . . a sure hit . . . Former FSU radio student Ann Chandley now at Mutual network in New York as a traffic girl . . . It's Bill Neblett who plays the bass viol at the Mecca . . . My Sister Eileen has always been a successful vehicle for a sharp cookie and a dumb blonde . . . It was first done on the Broadway stage from the best-selling book, then Rosalind Russell and Janet Blair did it on the screen . . . My Friend Irma of the radio is an off-spring from it . . . Ros Russell and Carol Channing teamed with Edith Adams for Broadway's musical adaptation Wonderful Town and now Judy Holliday, Janet Leigh and Aldo Ray have been filmed in a remake for Columbia . . . Mister Sandman is looming as a hit already . . . the best-seller is Vaughn Monroe's rendition—it's on the back of They Were Doin' the Mambo . . . people are listening to the Chordettes rendition and now the Four Aces have come up with a rendition . . . wow!

A Better Measure

Writer Replies To 'Smear Tactics'

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

When a columnist begins to write irresponsibly and uses "smear tactics" in his column, intentionally or otherwise, he violates the Canons of Journalism which states in part that a newspaper is free from all obligation, but that fidelity to the public interest is vital. It also says that while partisanship is editorial comment, if it knowingly departs from the truth it does violence to the best spirit of American journalism.

Quite recently there appeared in this paper a column that not only lacked facts but indulged in smear tactics as well. The subject matter pertained to national politics and the "Smear Tactics" being used by the Republican Party, in the current election, in an effort to defeat the Democratic Party.

At one point the writer stated that the Republican Party has "tried to imply to the American people that the Democratic Party is a party of stone-brained ineffectives at best, possible fellow-travelers and Communist sympathizers next best, and out-and-out traitors and spies at worst."

What he didn't say was that the men who made most of the above statements were repudiated by the party and the President himself. There was also some reference to McCarthy's "twenty years of treason" which is best answered by the fact that Senator McCarthy is being censured by a Republican controlled Senate for action unbecoming to a senator.

Also mentioned was the question of the Dixon-Yates contract. I wonder how many people know what this "theft of public property" is all about? First, the contract is a proposed contract for a new 107-million-dollar power plant to supply private power to the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) in replacement of some of the electricity TVA now furnishes the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). The question about the contract boils down to who can furnish the electricity cheaper. The Government or Private Enterprise? And what will it cost the taxpayer?

The answer to this will come when the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee meets November 4th for open hearings on the contract. Until then lobbying may be condoned, but smearing never.

Last of all the Republicans were compared on their "screaming about alleged Democratic security weaknesses" prior to 1952, and to the more recent pinpointing of cuts in the Air Force appropriations made by the present congress as asserted by Senator Richard Russell of Georgia. I wonder if it is exactly the same situation?

A columnist is given a fairly free hand in writing his column, but a columnist who is really a good journalist, has a responsibility to his reader. A responsibility of very great importance. Partisanship is indeed editorial comment; but when it knowingly violates the truth it is, in my opinion, subversive of a fundamental principle of the Journalism profession.

Young Republicans Give Platform

By WAYNE TERRY
and
DAN GORMAN
Acting President
Young Republican Club

More than a century ago the scholar De Tocqueville said: "The Americans combine the notions of Christianity and liberty so intimately in their minds that it is impossible to make them conceive the one without the other."

Freedom in our nation began on this principle. If America loses sight of the Divine Source of its strength, it will risk the loss of the liberty we all cherish so dearly. Enemies of decent government the world over know that the more quickly and completely they remove the idea of God from the hearts and minds of men, the more easily they can enslave free peoples. That fact in itself should inspire every decent American who believes in God to see that His spirit and truth are maintained in all human activity, especially in government.

The story boils down to this: Either you run your government or it will run you. It can be as good or as bad as you, individually, permit it to be. Government is your responsibility, a direct and personal responsibility. You cannot delegate that obligation or pass it on to others.

That is why clubs like the Young Republican Club exist to allow individuals like you, who believe in your own power for good, under God, make it your business to see that government on every level is your servant . . . and not your master.

It is your duty therefore to join in the business of running the government, and to do it by aligning up with one or the other of the political groups that exist on the campus of Florida State.

To help you decide on this matter of choosing which one to join, we will give you our program for the State of Florida with the firm conviction that everyone on this campus believes in two party government.

The Republican Party advocates and pledges its support to the following statewide objectives:

(1) Conservation of natural resources with particular emphasis on fish and game, and the mining and sponge industries studies for development of a water program for future needs of this fast-growing area;

(2) Establishment of more Junior Colleges throughout the State in order to reduce the cost of higher education;

(3) For greater safety on the highways, the Republican Party advocates: a more realistic approach to the method of issuing drivers licenses, periodic inspection of motor vehicles and a more economical method of licensing motor vehicles through the issuance of permanent plates.

(4) The Republican Party proposes a sharp reduction in the time between qualifying dates and the date of the election of candidates. It advocates qualification of candidates by petition of qualified electors instead of by payment of three-percent of first year's salary. The Republican Party further proposes direct popular vote on all National Convention Delegates whose preference for President shall be noted on the ballot and who, for three roll-calls, shall be bound to support the candidate for whom they expressed preference. It favors direct popular election of National Committeemen and Committeewoman;

(5) The Republican Party opposes any legislation which smacks of preference or socialistic tendencies; it therefore opposes any Party Loyalty Oath more stringent than that now in effect.

(6) The Republican Party opposes an increase or extension of the State sales tax.

(7) The Republican Party urges that efforts be further exerted to seek high-grade industries, to be carefully located with full regard to zoning rights of all property-owners, to the end that several hundreds of high school and Junior College graduates yearly will have economic opportunities available to them in their home areas.

(8) The Republican Party proposes that the Legislature adopt an effective procedure of uniform tax assessments throughout the entire State, to the end that equalization will be obtained for all tax-payers.

(9) The Republican Party favors a modern State Constitution, including fair and equitable legislative representation for both State and National offices. Continuance of the present archaic, outmoded Constitution is the result of monopolistic one-party practice.

(10) The Republican Party continues to favor legislation to create the Office of Lieutenant Governor.

(11) The Republican Party favors legislation leading to consolidation of control of the State Penal and Mental Institutions and the creation of a new Cabinet Post to cover this activity;

(12) The Republican Party recommends a study to determine the best method of removing from partisan politics the election of the members of the Board of Public Instruction and the Judiciary. (Two methods seem available—crossfiling, or filing without Party designation);

(13) The Republican Party disapproves of Judicial officers engaging in Party politics, except in furtherance of their own individual candidacies.

(14) The Republican Party unequivocally opposes the "County Unit System" of voting;

(15) The Republican Party advocates a revision and clarification of Juvenile Court Procedure.

It may be well to add at this point that many Young Republican Clubs throughout the Nation favor a one house legislature, with longer sessions than is the case at present in all but one of the forty-eight states; also a yearly salary allowing members of the legislature to make a full time job of their various law-making duties is advocated in many Young Republican centers of influence. The vast majority of the Young Republican groups support wholeheartedly the battle now being waged to give all eighteen year olds the right to vote. We are firmly convinced that within the not too distant future all of these aims will be accomplished completely.

There you have the basic platform and policies of the Republican Party in Florida, and the major constructive plans now being pursued by the Young Republican Clubs throughout this state and surrounding states. We sincerely believe that these programs are vital to our American way of life, and we are proud to endorse and work for them.

It is surely well to remember the value of serving as a member in an organization like the Young Republican Club. For politics is actually a profession, and as all professions it requires a considerable amount of rigid training. Your Young Republicans group offers a type of "proving ground" for this great game of American Politics; as we well know that political success in the long run demands a concrete understanding of practical political knowledge. Our organizations scattered over the Nation extend to all interested a challenge for the future—Your Future. In a sense, these clubs are a kind of "West Point of Politics" where political "savoir faire" is made readily available to any college student with as little inconvenience as possible to him, and yet a great deal of benefit for him.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"49 gum wrappers, 12 cigarette butts, 8 orange peelings and 3 votes in this one—if you ask me there hasn't been enough student interest in campus politics this year."

The Florida Flambeau
BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, News Editor — Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor — Joyce Potter
Campus Editors — Martin Dyckman, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors — Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff — Bob Gutting, Alan Whitmarsh, David Morris
Photographer — Laird Anderson
Copy Editors — Sylvia Parrish, Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusement Editor — David Dreis
Art Consultant — Franklin Adams
Cartoonist — Con Horn
Junior Staff — George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jeri Bradfield

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.
Mary Liz King, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff — Mary Wogan
Distribution — Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17
Exchange Editor — Irma Cox

Telephone 2 8000 extension 6821
211, 213 Longmire Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Prinzi Helps Tribe Outscore VMI Keydets, 33-19

LETTERMAN TACKLE—Great things are expected from Bob Barber, sophomore tackle, from Belle Glade. Bob stands six feet even and weighs 215 pounds. He is 19 years old.

Danford Announces Vigorous FSU Slate For Next Season

Dr. Howard G. Danford, Florida State University director of athletics, Saturday announced a ten-game schedule for the 1955 football season that includes Georgia, Georgia Tech, Miami, and VPI.

The Georgia and VPI games will be played here. Rounding out the card are home games with N. C. State, Lafayette and Villanova. Road games are with Mississippi Southern, Furman and Tampa.

Next Fall the Seminoles officially assume major status in that more than half the opponents are recognized as such by the NCAA. NCAA regulations stipulate that a team must play with a minor schedule for two consecutive seasons to join the ex-clusive classification.

Auburn, whom FSU met for the first time this season, is set to return in 1956. This match will be the fifth that Stetson has been off the slate since the Semi-noles adopted the sport in 1947.

The other non-returnees from the current schedule are VMI and Abilene Christian.

FSU has met Georgia Tech once and Miami twice in the past, losing all three starts. Tech won, 20-0 at Atlanta in 1953 while Miami scored wins at home in 1951 and 1953. This is VPI's first time on the card.

The schedule:

Date	Opponent	Location
Sept. 17	N. C. State	Tallahassee
Sept. 24	Lewisville	Tallahassee
Oct. 1	Miami	Miami
Oct. 8	VPI	Tallahassee
Oct. 15	Georgia	Tallahassee
Oct. 22	Ga. Tech	Atlanta
Oct. 29	Open
Nov. 5	Villanova	Tallahassee
Nov. 12	Furman	Greenville, S. C.
Nov. 19	Lafayette	Here
Nov. 26	Miss. Sou.	Hattiesburg, Miss.
Dec. 3	Tampa	Tampa

Seminoles Idle Before Battle With Furman

The PSU football squad will have two weeks to prepare for their homecoming battle with Furman Purple Hurricanes on Nov. 13.

The game shapes up as one of FSU's toughest to date. Furman has won five and lost two this season. They are presently tied with West Virginia for the lead of the Southern Conference. Both have 2-0 records in conference play.

The only team that PSU and Furman have both played this year is North Carolina State. The Seminoles won, 13-7, and the Purple Hurricanes edged the Wolfpack Saturday, 14-.

Barring injury in the two-week interlude, FSU will be in its best shape of the year. By then, Jimmy Lee Taylor's hand will probably be healed along with the minor wounds of halfbacks Lee Conn and Billy Hosford.

Last year the Purple Hurricanes defeated FSU here in Tallahassee, 14-6.

DITTMER SPEAKS

Dr. Dittmer, head of the Chemistry Department, will speak Wednesday night on "The Present and Future Outlook for the Chemist" at the meeting of the Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society, November 3, 7:30 p. m. in Science 206. Any interested person is to be served. All chemistry majors, or persons interested in chemistry is welcome to come and hear Dr. Dittmer speak.

GAMMA PHI'S PLEDGE FIVE

New Gamma Phi Beta sorority pledges are Mary Ellen Adolf, Carol Cone, Amy Lee Miller, Ann Folsom and Jo Ann Robbins. K was announced recently.

Vic Throws Three Passes For Scores

Freshman quarterback Vic Prinzi stepped from ranks of the unknown Saturday afternoon at Lynchburg, Va., and led FSU to a wild 33-19 victory over VMI, the win pushing the Seminoles won and lost record to 4-3..

Prinzi who wasn't even on the roster when the season started and only a fifth-stringer at game time, threw three touchdown passes and scored once himself. He threw for all three payoff passes in the last half.

Another yearling, end Ronnie Schlemmer, was on the receiving end of two of the touchdown tosses, both of which carried more than 50 yards.

Another pass that went for a score, a 55-yarder from Len Swantic to Billy Odom, had given the Tribe a temporary lead in the first quarter before VMI tied it up, 13-13, early in the third quarter.

Prinzi entered at this point and started the aerial madness.

Junior fullback John Grimer scored the other touchdown on a-nother touchdown pass from Mr. Prinzi.

The Keydets wanted this game very badly, especially since Tom Nugent was their former coach and also since his PSU team had beaten them in an upset last year, 17-7.

THE YARDSTICK

	VMI	FSU
First downs	13	9
Rushing yardage	213	87
Passing yardage	196	245
Passes attempted	28	13
Passes completed	13	7
Passes intercepted	1	0
Punts	7	7
Punting average	39.8	36.2
Fumbles lost	2	0
Yards penalized	50	35

The Keydets first touchdown came on a 35-yard pass play from quarterback Dave Woolwine to end Tom Dooley and at that time tied the game, 7-7.

The second VMI score, in the third period, came when halfback Mike Foley crashed over from the three.

The Keydets added another yard drive. It came from the yard out.

The game was played in bitter cold, perhaps acting as a factor in favor of VMI.

The game also marked the last time the teams will meet in the current series. No new pacts with the Keydets have been signed.

Florida State	13	20—33
VA Military	13	6—19

Florida State scoring: Touchdowns: Odom, Prinzi, Schamberger 2, Grimer. Conversions: Graham 3, Cone.

Virginia Military: Touchdowns, Dooley, Foley 2. Conversions: Wadwine.

THE LINEUPS

FLORIDA STATE

Left Ends—Schlemmer, Leonard, Rudee
Left Tackles—Makowiecki, Powell, Gardner
Left Guards—J Jacobs, Gibson, Cone
Centers—Crenshaw, Ackerman, Cullen
Right Guards—Parel ro, Bryan
Right Tackles—Barber, Beach, Mundorff
Right Ends—Frankiet, Trado, R Quarterbacks — Swantic, Massey, Prinzi
Left Halfbacks — Owen, Bernard, Vernotte, Pasakarnis
Right Halfbacks—Graham, Odom, Mercer, Byrnes
Fullbacks—Grimer, Neil, King, Thompson

VIRGINIA MILITARY

Left Ends—Bell, Hall
Left Tackles—Byrd, Lazarus, Russell
Left Guards—Morgan, Martin, Berger
Centers — Lyons, Johnson, Armstrong, Tucker
Right Guards — Kress, Leboutsis
Right Tackles—Miller, Browne, Mc-Cabe, Wagstaff
Right Ends—Collins, Thackeron, Mc-Mullen
Quarterbacks — Woolwine, Pescod, Jones
Left Halfbacks—Foley, Lavery, Jones
Right Halfbacks—Moody, Vaughn, Fullbacks—Berridge, Bexley

"This is when th' coach run out on th' field for a few words with the referee."

Doyle Is Chairman

Dr. Wilson K Doyle, dean of the School of Public Administration, will chairman a discussion by national authorities on training public personnel administrators at the annual Conference on Public Personnel Administration November 7-11 at Miami Beach.

The program will feature informal roundtable sessions on practical, everyday personnel problems, Doyle said

Andree Nosco
Piano and Theory Instruction
109 W. COLLEGE
Room 4
PHONE 2-4923

Seminole Statistics

THROUGH AUBURN GAME

	FSU	Opponents
Total First Downs	61	61
By Rushing	31	31
By Passing	25	24
By Penalty	5	6
Total Rush-Pass Yardage	3825	3450
Number Rushing Attempts	552	506
Yards Gained Rushing	2513	1886
Yards Lost Rushing	213	155
Net Yards Gained Rushing	2300	1731
Number Passes Attempted	130	91
Number Passes Completed	65	43
Net Yards Gained Passing	1025	719
Number Passes Intercepted	10	3
Average Gain Per Pass Completed	15.7	16.7
Times Intercepted By	11	9
Yards Returned	97	146
Average Return	9.7	16.2
Average Yardage Per Game	382.5	345
Average Gain Rushing	255.3	192.3
Average Gain Passing	102.5	71.9
Average Gain Per Play	6.9	5.7
Average Gain Per Rush	3.7	3.4
Number Punts	30	36
Number Punts Returned	11	11
Average Punt	36.5	39.4
Had Blocked	0	1
Punts Returned	11	11
Yards Punts Returned	106	138
Average Returned	9.6	12.5
Kickoffs Returned	17	23
Yards Returned	337	539
Average Return	19.8	23.4
Number Penalties	51	38
Yards Penalized	501	366
Number Fumbles	16	18
Fumbles Lost By	6	10
Per Cent Fumbles Lost	37	55
Number Opponents Tackled By	0	10
Rushing	0	7
By Passing	0	3
Extra Points Attempted	33	19
Made	31	19
Missed	2	0
Total Points	213	69

INDIVIDUAL STATISTICS

Scoring

Player	TDs	XPs	FGs	TP
Swantic—RH	4	0	0	24
Graham—RH	2	11	0	12
Prinzi—QB	3	0	0	18
Massey—QB	1	0	0	6
Schamberger—LE	1	0	0	6
Bernard—LH	1	0	0	6
Prinzi—QB	1	0	0	6
Odom—LE	1	0	0	6
Odom—LE	1	0	0	6
Grimer—FB	1	0	0	6
Taylor—LE	1	0	0	6
Owen—LH	0	2	0	2
Leonard—LE	0	1	0	1
Totals	17	15	10	113

Passing

Player	Att.	Comp.	Int.	Gain	Pct.	TD's
Swantic — QB	56	28	1	361	50	2
Massey — QB	38	14	2	190	36	1
Rodrigue — QB	36	23	7	330	64	1
Prinzi — QB	13	7	0	245	53	2

Totals 61 945 9

Receiving

Player	No.	Gain	Lost	Net	Gain	Ave	TD's
Graham — RH	16	151	7	144	9.0	1
Swantic — QB	16	175	73	102	6.3	1
Schlemmer — LE	7	164	0	164	23.4	2
Cone — LG	3	24	0	24	8.0	0
Odom — LE	3	84	0	84	28.0	1
Bernard — LH	3	27	0	27	9.0	1
Neil — FB	11	56	10	46	3.1	0
Schamberger — FB	2	20	0	20	10.0	1
Prinzi — QB	8	56	2	54	6.8	0
Rudee — FE	2	20	2	18	9.0	0
King — FB	2	9	0	9	4.5	0
Massey — QB	1	6	0	6	6.0	0
Makowiecki — LT	1	5	0	5	5.0	0
Vernotte — RH	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Vaughn — LH	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Cone — FB	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Mundorff — RT	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Gardner — LT	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Rodrigue — QB	1	0	0	0	0.0	0

Punting

Player	No.	Gain	Net	Ave.
Swantic — QB	30	1175	973	39.1
Massey — QB	1	36	36	36.0

Totals 31 1211 1009 39.1

Kick Returns

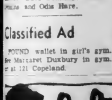
Player	No.	Gain	Lost	Net	Ave.	TD's
Graham — RH	10	145	0	145	14.5	0
Swantic — QB	3	37	0	37	12.3	0
Owen — LH	2	23	0	23	11.5	0
Bernard — RH	2	78	0	78	39.0	1
Arvia—RH	1	5	0	5	5.0	0
Leonard—LE	1	8	0	8	8.0	0
Schamberger—LE	2	61	0	61	30.5	1
Trado—RE	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Grimer—FB	1	23	0	23	23.0	0
Vergiotti—LH	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Schamberger—LE	1	15	0	15	15.0	0
Cone—LG	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Rudee—LE	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Mott—FB	1	4	0	4	4.0	0
C. Owen—RH	1	0	0	0	0.0	0

Totals 61 965 0

Punt Returns

Player	No.	Gain	Lost	Net	Ave.	TD's
Graham — RH	6	58	0	58	9.7	0
Swantic — QB	1	4	0	4	4.0	0

Totals 7 62 0 62 8.9 0



Interceptions

Player	No.	Gain	Lost	Net	Ave.	TD's
Swantic — QB	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Owen — LH	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Bernard — RH	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Cone — LG	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Gardner — LT	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Rodrigue — QB	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
Prinzi — QB	1	0	0	0	0.0	0

Totals 7 0 0 0 0.0 0

Classified Ad

FOUND wallet in girl's gym. See Margaret Duxbury in gym. P. H. Copeland.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

HOME, SWEET HOMECOMING

A great number of people have been asking me lately, "What is happening?" Yesterday, for example, as I walked from my house to the establishment of Mr. Bigelow, the local lepidopterist, where I spend a half dozen lunch hours to be mounted—a distance of no more than three blocks—I'll wager that well over a thousand people asked me and said, "What is Homecoming?"

Well, what with company coming for dinner and the cold dawn fall, and the recurrence of breakbone fever, I don't carry to answer brief questions. "Read my column next week," I cried to them, but I'll tell about Homecoming." With this they all thanked me and hied home to baste the mallard and apply poultices to the cook, and I continued my unending ruminations, especially during one which a woman in her prime, scarcely 106 years old. Though her hearing grieved me, it was some solace to be able to say that she was not to be buried at sea—which is no small task when you live in Terre Haute, South Dakota.

With the dinner guests fed and the cook laid to her watery rest, I put out the cat and turned to the problem of Homecoming.

First of all, let us define Homecoming. Homecoming is a weekend when old graduates return to their alma maters to see a football game, renew great quantities of food and drink, and inspect each other's bald spots.

This occasion is marked by the singing of old songs, the slapping of backs, and the frequent interjection of such queries as "Harry, are you golecial?" or "Harry, you old rooster!" or "Harry, you old so-and-so!" or "Harry, you old mayberry!" All old grads are named Harry.

During Homecoming the members of the faculty behave with unaccustomed animation. They laugh and smile and generally keep shouting, "Harry, you old retriever!" These anachronisms notions are performed in the hope that the old grads, in a transport of joy—or, will endow a new geology building.

The old grads, however, are seldom seduced. By game time on Saturday, their backs are sore, their eyes are bleary, and their purses so sluggish that it is impossible to get a kind word out of them, much less a new geology building. Happily, they usually manage to see home team complete a 101 yard march to a touchdown. "Call that football? Why, back in my day they'd have booed me off the field down. By George, football was football back in those days—not this namby pamby girls' game that passes for football today. Why, look at that bench. Fifty substitutes sitting there! Why, in my time there were eleven men on the field and that was it. When you drew a big, you got taped up and went right back in. Why, I remember the big game against Blake. Harry Wallaby, star quarterback, was a-lolled in the third quarter. I mean he was pronounced dead. Stone cold dead. Not a pulse, not a breath, not a flicker of life. But did that stop old Harry? Not on your tintype! Back in he went, and saved the winning drop-kick in the last four seconds of play. That's the kind of guy they played football with, by George!"

Everything, say the old grads, was better back in their day—especially except one, the most overcommercialized of the old grads has to admit that back in his day they never had a smoke like Marlboro. Marlboro, they recall, is filled with fine tobacco, the kind you get only in cork-tipped cigarettes, and filled with only the best part of the tobacco, the mild, flavorful part that stays cool and fragrant to the last puff, no matter how far down you smoke. Marlboro, they recall, comes in soft pack or box, and they always get fresh delivery. Marlboro, they say, is the best cigarette they ever smoked, bar none, any weather, anywhere.

I saw up next another important aspect of Homecoming—the decorations in front of the fraternity house. Well do I remember the all-night decorating of my days. The game was against Princeton. The Homecoming slogan was "Hold That Tiger!" Each fraternity house built a decoration to reflect that slogan, and on the morning of the game a group of dignitaries toured Fraternity Row to inspect the decorations and award a prize for the best.

The decoration chairman at our house was an enterprising young man named Rex Bigelow, nephew of the famous lepidopterist. Our fraternity, Rex, came back to our house and said, "All the other houses are building cardboard cages with cardboard tigers in front of them. We need to do something different—and I've got it. We're going to have a real cage with a real tiger inside of it—a roaring, clawing, slashing, real live tiger!"

"Tiger?" we breathed. "But where will you get him?"

"I borrow him from the zoo," said Rex, and sure enough, he did. Well sir, you can imagine what a sensation it was on Homecoming morning. The judges drove along nodding politely at cardboard tigers in cardboard cages and nodded the same way at our house. But when beast in a sham cage here! No sir! A real tiger is a real trip—a great striped jungle killer who slashed and roared and snarled and dashed himself against the bars of his cage with maniacal fury.

There can be no doubt that we would have easily taken first prize had not the tiger knocked out the bars of the cage and leaped into the official car and devoured Mr. August Schlemmer, the governor of the state, Mr. Wilson Ardsley Davenport, president of the university, and D. P. Grasmire, author of A Treasury of the World's Great Southpaws: An Anthology of Left-Hand Literature, Mr. Ernest Southpaw: An authority of weights and measures, Mrs. Amy Harrison-Z Band, concessioner of weights and measures, Mrs. Amy Dorr Nesbitt, inventor of the electric blanket, Mr. Peter Rennsel Hough, editor of the pound-a-rooms champion, Mr. Peter Rennsel Hough, editor of the literary quarterly Spasm, and Mrs. Ora Wells Anthony, first woman to be buried under the North Platte River.

©Max Shulman, 1954

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarettes.

STATE
TODAY
"DRAGNET"
With JACK WEBB
WED. THRU TUES.
"Sabrina"
Humphrey Bogart
Audrey Hepburn
William Holden

FLORIDA
TODAY
"Bengal Brigade"
Rock Hudson
WED. and THURS.
"Play Girl"
With Shelley Winters

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
TODAY & TOMORROW
"Bad and Beautiful"
Lana Turner
THURSDAY
"Gun Smoke"
With Audie Murphy
ALSO
"Capt. Pirate"
With
Louis Hayward

FLORIDA SUPER HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
"Gentleman's Agreement"
Gregory Peck
THURSDAY
"Flight Nurse"
Joan Leslie
ALSO
"Three Young Texans"
Jeff Hunter

Low . . . and behold!
The motoramic Chevrolet for '55
Chevrolet and General Motors took a whole new look at the low-cost car —and just took what happened! NOW BEING SHOWN!

The Bel Air Sport Coupe—one of 14 new Fisher Body beauties in three new series.

The valve-in-head V8 as only the valve-in-head leader can build it!
8
You can choose from two new sizes, too!
6
The last word in six-cylinder performance! New "Blue-Flame 136" teamed with Powerglide and a new "Blue-Flame 123" with standard transmission or Overdrive.
More than a new car—a new concept of low-cost motoring!
New Chevrolet and General Motors have come up with a completely new idea: to build a car that offers the very newest styling, the most modern features, and the finest performance. It's something that took a lot of doing and that only the world's leading car builders could do. Everything's new in this Motoramic Chevrolet from its lower top right down to its tubeless tires. Come see it!
The motoramic Chevrolet
See the Motoramic Chevrolet at Your Chevrolet Dealer's

Camera and Supplies
Films — Developing
CAPITOL CAMERA
Everything Photographic
Camera and Radio Repairs
On Corner of College & Adams
Phone 2-4029

"Picaros" Hold First Meeting For Elections

Los Picaros de Lope de Vega will hold their first meeting of this semester on Thursday, November 4, at 7:00 p. m. in room 207, Old Demonstration School.

This will be a very important meeting for the purpose of re-organization and election of officers revealed Joan Bynan, publicity chairman.

Dr. Lacayo, faculty advisor for Los Picaros, expressed the hope that the club will be able to plan for an active and enjoyable year through a program of movies, open-sessions, and guest speakers, which would benefit not only the members but also non-members who are interested in Spanish culture.

Those members who will be unable to attend this meeting should signify that they wish to remain members by dropping a note to that effect in the campus mail, P.O. Box 28.

At a later date an examination will be given for those students of Spanish or others with some knowledge of the language who would like to become members. Announcements will be made in the FLORIDA FLAMBEAU and notices placed on bulletin boards regarding time and place.

Natives of Spanish speaking countries are welcome to become members and are encouraged to pass an examination, announced the publicity chairman. Latin Americans interested in membership may confer with the club through the post office box mentioned above

Writer

(Continued from Page 2)

ters and been very prim and proper and pleasant to everybody concerned, we and all the other 'outsiders' would have withdrawn from the Senate chamber and would have set some of our elected representatives sitting slander at their leisure.

We would have revolted at the thought of telling Germaine Murray and the students who know her and Pete Nimkoff and the students who support him on what grounds the appointment was refused.

We would have revolted in horror at the idea of printing the facts so that the students could make their own judgement whether or not student politics were dirty power politics in this case.

Some of our senators may not have a sense of responsibility, but The Florida Flambeau is a newspaper who's job it is to print the truth regardless of whom it dissatisfies in the process.

And for some reason we can't believe that the source of hurt feelings lies with us.

We shall continue to write the complete and, as far as is humanly possible, the accurate reports of what goes on in student government. So long as there is even one member of the Senate who thinks that the student body and the Flambeau and each of what he had heard of the Senate's actions last week, indicated yesterday his opinion regarding an advisory would probably be unfavorable.

Nimkoff declined to comment on what he would do following such a favorable or unfavorable opinion from his Attorney General. He would not say whether he would call a subpoena Miss Murray's name in any event.

Senatorial Seat Remains Open; Nimkoff Silent

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The vacant seat in the junior women's Senate delegation may remain unoccupied for some time to come. Student Body President Pete Nimkoff yesterday declined to comment on any plans he may have for filling it.

The Senate in rejecting his previous appointment of Germaine Murray, advised that he hold an advisory referendum among the juniors in order to provide for replacement for Mary Louise Dee, who did not return this semester to occupy the seat she won in the Spring elections.

As of yesterday, Nimkoff had not received any communication from the Senate suggesting the advisory referendum, although Senate passed a resolution to that effect at last week's session.

Coyle Moore, vice-president of the student body who presides over Senate affirmed that the communication had not been sent and said it would be forwarded to Nimkoff shortly.

Nimkoff said that until he receives written notice to the effect that Senate wishes an advisory election held, he cannot request an opinion from his attorney general, Dave Kennedy.

Kennedy, speaking on the basis of what he had heard of the Senate's action last week, indicated yesterday his opinion regarding an advisory would probably be unfavorable.

Nimkoff declined to comment on what he would do following such a favorable or unfavorable opinion from his Attorney General. He would not say whether he would call a subpoena Miss Murray's name in any event.

Well Known Movie Dignitary To Select '54 Tally Ho Queen

A "well-known" movie star will choose this year's Tally Ho queen according to Al Studer, feature editor of the yearbook.

He declined to name the star who said identity will not be revealed until shortly before the spring publication date of the annual.

Studer said any coed sponsored by a residence hall, sorority or fraternity, is eligible for the contest. He added that a sorority or women's residence hall may sponsor two entries but stressed that only one entry will be allowed each fraternity and men's residence hall.

Studer added that an 8x10 head and shoulders photograph of each entrant should be submitted to the Tally-Ho offices before November 15.

Nine finalists, Studer said, will be chosen by students and faculty. The semi-finals, he said, will be held in Lourene auditorium at a time to be announced.

Freshman Elections

(Continued from Page 1)

example the top six in each race will enter the run-offs next week.

In case four or more candidates obtain majorities by the definition used by the Elections Committee, the top three will be considered elected, as per a court decision by Chester vs. Elections Committee of last year.

In the case of a single office, such as that of class president, where no candidate wins a majority, the top two will enter the run-offs.

Elections officials reminded freshmen to bring their ID cards to the polls as a hole must be punched to indicate the person has voted. The ID card is also required to identify the would-be voter as a freshman, since only they can participate.

Elections officials reminded candidates that members of sophomore inNT nHEsinhbAA have been appointed who will staff the polling places, will be empowered to remove all campaign material illegally placed within 50 feet of the ballot boxes.

Officials further cautioned voters to follow the procedural instructions in marking ballots and to use only the IBM test pencils, which will be provided. Ballots marked incorrectly or with pencil other than pencil may not be counted, they said.

Frosh Doff Caps

(Continued from Page 1)

In the three-legged race the Sopha Amin came out on top with the winning teams of Dusty Rhodes and Polly Swain, Freshmen Gus Sardanis and Alice Rose, and Irving Pace and Pat Hyman placed second and third.

Drawing the most laughs was the Boys' Dress relay. Divided into teams of five each the boys had to run to a suit case which contained women's clothing, and on everything that they found, take it off, put it back in the suitcase and go back to the starting line. The "rats" were more adept in putting on women's clothes than were the Sophs.

The Sophomores proved to be better musicians as they topped the Frosh in the singing of the Paint Song. Although the Sophs won because of their singing ability, all the Frosh were disqualified for not waving their rat caps.

In the last event of the day, the tug of war, Frosh came out on top and the Sophomores, who had been hounding the poor rats after registration day took the escape being thrown in the pool.

However, the freed "rats" scarcely succumbed the Sophs and a parade of fighting, swimming Rat Court Members and general tormentors, were led from the band field to Westcott Pool where the dunking ceremony took place. President of the Sophomore Class, Paul Ortt was the prize catch of the Freshmen. But Ort, upholding Sophomore honor, took two Frosh along for the swim.

Jim Moore, Charlie Scarborough, Fred Peacock, Jimmy Soles, Dan Rodriquez and Dusty Rhodes received only one drenching while Ort took two. Pat Rhodes one was enough as he had almost lost his britches in the scramble. Ray Wagner, vice president of the Sophs, eluded the Frosh and escaped drenching.

Don Wood was acalped in the Seminole style before his introduction to the area of waters. Freshmen Hank McCann and George Peacock were invited to take a swim by a group of determined Sophomore girls who had been threatened by the two. However they refused the invitation as they neared the edge of the pool and substance arrived from their classmates.

Girls survived the day as dry as they started out since University ruling forbids their being dunked.

According to Ort, the Freshmen spirit and sportsmanship was great with the exception of the disappearance of the rope used in the tug-of-war. Investigation is under way to find the rope which was loaned to the Sophomores for the contest.

Price Reveals

(Continued from Page 1)

Tots, assisted by Celeste Wilson. Publicity chairman are Gaston Foote and Margaret Donaldson. Jay Schwartzman is coordinator.

Dick Gutting is student coach of the Tumbling Tots, while Dick Ireland and Jim Fadgen are floor chairmen. Margaret Donaldson heads the "Miss Gymkana" contest.

Miss Gymkana, who will be chosen from entries in the semi-finals to be held tomorrow at the Kit Carson Gym, will be crowned by Anita Wall, last year's recipient of the honor.

Officials noted that sixteen finalists will be chosen from the field of contestants, each receiving as a member of the Court of Honor of 1955. They will also be presented in the performances of "Toreland Capers," November 29 through December 4.

The Queen and two alternates will be chosen from this number at the last performance on December 4.

Today is the deadline for all Miss Gymkana entries. They may be cosponsored by any organization on campus and entries are unlimited, it was noted.

Other chairmen are Norma Lapenski Bethe Kirby Panos, properties, Gerry Celmer ushers, and Sidney Burr, program.

Naval Procurement Officers Due Here November 3 And 4

Procurement representatives from the office of Naval Officer Procurement in Jacksonville will be on the FSU campus Wednesday and Thursday of this week on the fourth floor of the Infirmary.

Officials say are between the ages of 19 and 21 and who have already received their degree are eligible to make an application for a naval commission, announced T. S. Griffith, Lt. Jr. Grade USNR, assistant officer in charge.

Applications can be taken both for direct commissions and Officer Candidate School before receiving their commission.

Democrats

(Continued from Page 2)

a close race. Nevada: Democrat Alan Bible opposes Republican Brown. Republican, who is supposed to lose. Wyoming: former Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, is given a slight edge over Republican W. H. Harrison. Idaho: Sen. Henry Dworshak is running a close race with Democrat Glen H. Taylor. It is believed to be a very close race.

Montana: Sen. James E. Murray, Democrat, is expected to win over Representative Wesley A. D'Ewart. Oregon: Sen. Guy Cordon, Republican, opposes Richard L. Neuberger. It, too, is reported to be a close race. California: Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, Republican, is favored over Democrat Sam Yorty.

Pre-performance Look at 'Charley's Aunt' Cast

Flambeau staff photo by Al Robbins

A GOOD PLAY—WELL DONE The cast of Charley's Aunt are (left to right) Duane Lanchaster, Anita Wall, Eb Thomas, Julia Pihen, Nancy Cabbos, Jusaita McAnnalty, Dick Crawford, Kent Schroeder and Harold Poe.

By DAVID DREIS

If comedy and farce are your dish then the play "Charley's Aunt" has some generous helpings waiting for you. The initial Department of Speech production of the year, it is playing the last time tonight at 8:15 in the Augusta Conradi theater.

Directed by Dr. Lynn E Orr, head of the drama area, the play displayed keen acting and sharp costuming. Lighting effects were held to a minimum, but the settings were impressive.

As an example of keen acting, Jay would immediately remember the portrayal given by Harold Poe as Sir Francis Chesney. Poe fit his role squarely and evenly, consistently giving it everything he had. He gave the an impressive start in his Conradi Theater debut.

Franklin Adams again came through with a fine characterization as the strict Stephen Spettigue. Adams, a frequent player in the Conradi Theater, is a master of make-up and although some powder flew off his head every time he doffed his hat he still remained convincing.

Keeping the play going at a fast pace was Duane Lanchester playing Jack Chesney. An especially good scene was evidenced when he attempted proposal to the girl of his choice, Donnie, also an FSU newcomer, never lost sight of his role and came through in fine style.

Eb Thomas did admirably in his role as the emasculated in the costume of an old aunt from Brazil—"I have the nuts come from." Thomas, a Conradi veteran usually set in heavy drama-execution of lines adequate reading and feeling and made almost achieved versatility except for times when his gestures and facial expressions were overplayed. He did show himself as a competent player and the audience displayed their appreciation of a fine portrayal with hearty laughter.

Dick Crawford played Brassett, the butler with humor in some spots, but it seemed that Crawford was having a time fitting a British accent into the character. He seemed to find it in the second act and followed through with a more convincing portrayal than he had done before.

Kent Schroeder was extremely funny as Charley and in his initial Conradi performance played his role with ease and the right amount of humor. There is some doubt in my mind as to whether the bows in this period were crewcuts as Schroeder had, but for the sake of no argument, we'll say they did.

As for the women in the play, Nancy Cabbos and Jusa-nita McAnnalty were sincere and lovable. Miss Cabbos delivers overdid her facial expressions, but remained perfectly natural. Anita Wall was very cute in her role as the ward to the real aunt; Julia Pilieri lost her cues in the last part of the play, but continued for the most part with a flawless portrayal as the real aunt.

"Charley's Aunt," while it leaves no after feeling of art does provide an evening of entertainment and feeling that it will be around for another 40 years. The play started making the rounds of theaters many years ago with playwright-comedian Brandon Thomas in the leading role. It plays for the last time tonight in the Augusta Conradi Theater.

VISIT MALONE'S BOOK STORE
To Get Fraternity and Sorority Emblems
F.S.U. Sweatshirts
Sundries - Supplies
"Everything For the Student"
107 S. COPELAND

Expert Shoe Repairs
PALACE SHOE SHOP
established 1914
across from uptown Post Office
121 PARK AVE.

keep beautifully with crystal clear plastic
Peek-a-Boot
and
PEEK-A-BONNET
Snug, snow fattening fit
Durable, seamless construction
Non skid, thick "V" tread soles
Small, medium, large & extra large
Fits all heels. Also available in 4-Heel Contour for French and Cuban heels.
ONLY $2.00 THE SET
FOR RAIN SNOW SLEET
Be in style and dry all the while! You can carry the compact Peek A Boot set with you and you'll never be caught in a shower . . . takes only seconds from purse to feet! It's the most popular rainy-day item! We have 'em, so see Pep Peek A Boot today
P. W. WILSON CO.
SINCE 1837 TALLAHASSEE'S FAVORITE DEPARTMENT STORE

This one's on you
We mean the collar . . . and if you're a really smart clotheshorse, you'll keep several Arrow spread-collar shirts on hand. Pick Arrow Par, left ($3.95). Pick a smart Arrow Bi-way spread, right ($5.00). Pick one of the smooth spread styles. But be sure you pick an Arrow. For immaculate tailoring, and the "custom look." Arrow's the shirt by far. Prices begin at $3.95.
Note the slanted collar for the long sweetness.
ARROW SHIRTS & TIES
UNDERWEAR ▲ HANDKERCHIEFS ▲ CASUAL WEAR

And now it's our treat!
We have a complete assortment of Arrow Spread collars in stock right now. For example, the Arrow Par and Arrow Bi-Way which are available in broadcloth and oxford. And in our perfect size, too.
Why not give us a quick look-see, and find out for yourself that Arrow spread-collar shirts are long on style and short on price.
Arrow Par, above, $3.95.
Mendelson's
101-105 E. Jefferson

I like CHESTERFIELD best!
says Tab Hunter
Appearing in "Track of the Cat", a Warner Bros. Production in CinemaScope and Color
BEST FOR YOU... no cigarette can satisfy you like a Chesterfield, because Chesterfield has the right combination of the world's best tobaccos. Only the tobaccos that are highest in quality, low in nicotine, and the most pleasure to smoke.
Change to Chesterfields now. Smoke them regular or king size. You'll understand why Chesterfield is the largest selling cigarette in America's College's.

In the whole wide world— no cigarette satisfies like a CHESTERFIELD
© Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Kennedy Gives Murray Opinion (See Page One)

VOL. XI, NO. 12

PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1954

Rules Set For Homecoming (See Page One)

The Florida Flambeau

Twenty Freshmen To Compete In Run-Offs Tuesday

Solons Debate Appointments, Funds, Traffic

Beech Compromise On Gaster's Funds Bill, Gatlin's Report

Campus organizations who honor fund-raising events may be allowed to keep half what they earn instead of what they are now permitted, a bill to that effect passed Student Senate Wednesday clears the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

Sponsored by Men's Vice-President Gordon Gaster, the bill allows groups to keep money raised was amended by the efforts of Senator Joe Gatlin to provide for a constitutional split.

Questions to the bill, half of the proceeds from any money-raising project must be spent in furtherance of service to the campus body and any carry-over applied to the distribution during the next year. The only change in the present set-up would be from two-thirds for a single project to one-half.

Impediments received and appointments confirmed also characterized the Senate meeting, while a bill and two resolutions on traffic problems occupied the time afterwards.

Senator Ken Gatlin began the discussion on Gaster's bill as he reported it from his committee and Finance Committee second reading. After expressing approval of the bill and he felt the proper organizations would be more apt to go to the benefit of projects, should the bill be passed by a two-thirds majority, he said that keeping the provision "hinders numerous projects" by using the drain on student organizations.

Senator Jimmy Joanos yielded the floor to Secretary of Finance Dr. Wayne Pounds Committee motions were altered by the Senate Trail and the bill was passed by extensive body took out the words "may" signifying it would change the purpose of the funds regulations "entirely."

After remanding a resolution which showed a sufficient number of students present to conduct business, Gaster urged tabling of his bill and to investigate in order to reach a decision." His motion passed.

Keith Moll, chairman of the Men's Committee and Traffic Engineering of Finance Committee that he said that if the regulation requiring parking permits to be spent on service items were eliminated, it would not be necessary. Moll said that his committee would not necessarily pass on numerous applications for the right to carry on fund-raising projects. Gaster answered that the Senator could examine the basis of campus organizations and disallow projects which he would not need money.

Moll was rebuffed on this stand by Senator Bill Stanfield, and also that a member of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs recommended Strudgeon such a bill as was before the Senate.

Senator Gatlin pointed out the half of the money raised would go to the service of the student body and not to the University Administration. The senators seemed in doubt the destination of the funds.

On a roll call vote Gatlin's half-and-half c e n t s was passed, and when the bill it- self was voted on, only Senator Jean Halford voted against it. Senator Halford's Labor, Student Services and Athletic Committee introduced a bill relieving traffic court regulations. The bill was referred to her committee and will be voted on next week.

It would provide that a student who amasses four summons and a warning to traffic court would be reported to his dean for disciplinary action. It would also provide for subtraction fines of 50 cents for parking violations, which would fluctuate with the passage of time. The automatic fines would be appealable to the Traffic Court.

The Senate received from President Pete Nimkoff, the appointments of Vern Williams as Secretary of Labor, and Graham Carothers as Secretary of Recreation.

Senator Jim Moore, chairman of the Senate Permanent Elections Committee announced Com-

(Continued on Page 4)

Nimkaff Against Advisary Election

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Student Body President Pete Nimkoff will not call an advisory election to select a replacement for junior senator Mary Louise Dee, who did not return to school this year, the Florida Flambeau learned yesterday.

The President based his decision on a recently-worded opinion by Attorney General Dave Kennedy yesterday which urged that Nimkoff reject a suggestion given him by Student Senate that such an election be held.

When Miss Dee did not return to school, Nimkoff appointed Germaine Murray to the vacant seat. The Senate refused to give her appointment the required two-thirds majority vote and suggested that Nimkoff call an election of the junior class to advise him in re-submitting a name.

Nimkoff yesterday issued a statement which indicated he may send Germaine Murray's name back to the Senate in spite of that body's opposition.

(Continued on Page 4)

Homecoming Ornaments To Be Inspected

Judging of the house decorations for Homecoming will take place at 7 p.m. Friday, November 12, and 10 a.m. Saturday, November 13.

Alan Sundburg, chairman of the Campus Decoration Committee, announced that judging will be on taste, cleverness, humor, ingenuity and pertinence of the idea to the original theme. Originality of element being looked for. Also structural soundness of the decorations should be rain and wind resistant.

The committee announced that the Homecoming Skit contest will hold its preliminary competition Thursday and Tuesday evenings, November 8 and 9, between 7 and 10 p.m. in Westcott Auditorium. All groups who enter the contest will receive a schedule stating the night and place of their judging. Only the judges and individuals participating in the skit will be allowed in the auditorium during the presentation of any one skit.

Six skits will be selected for semi-final competition. From these the men's residence hall and three from the women's residence halls. A semi-final contest will be held in the main auditorium ter between 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 10. The student body will be invited to attend this contest.

The final contest will take place at the Pep-Rew on Friday, November 12. A trophy will be awarded to the group which, in the opinion of the judges, presented the best skit. This trophy will remain in the winner's possession until the next Pep-Rew.

All themes will be judged on the originality, clarity and significance of the theme to the occasion, plus the clearness and pertinence of the dialogue.

Each skit will be limited to 10 minutes, including setting the stage, presentation of the skit and clearing the stage. A list of expenditures will be presented to the judges at the time of the preliminary contest.

Last year's prize winners for the Homecoming Skit contest, Phi Mu and the Tri Deltas with West Hall and Gilchrist winning the house decoration contest.

TO REIGN SATURDAY—One of the eight candidates, pictured above with Dr. Robert Briggs, will be crowned by him, Saturday night, as Queen of the Seminole Hall Harvest Moon Ball. Left to right, Bobbie Turner, Ethel Ann Hudson, Pat Feest, Lynda Arnold, Dr. Briggs, Chris Gimsehi, Hazel Jackson, Bobbye Crisp and Marion March.

Rules Are Set For Decorating Parade Floats

$45 Is Limit Set For Preparing Floats In Friday's Parade

The official rules and regulations regarding Florida State University Homecoming Float Decorations have been released by the Float Decoration Committee. They fall into three general categories: Expenditures, design and construction and safety regulations.

No organization may spend more than $45.00 in the preparation of a float, said the committee. This includes gifts, materials and money but does not include the money paid for the rental of a truck or a driver.

An itemized list of all expenditures must be given to the official inspectors team that will examine all floats before permitting them into the parade lineup. This inspection will take place at 6:30 p.m. Friday, November 12.

All floats should be designed in good taste, with special emphasis on beauty and originality, it was announced.

A detailed sketch of the float must be submitted along with the official entry form on or before 5:00 p.m. Monday, November 8th. These are to be handed in at the Information Desk of the Alumni Building. The position of the floats in the parade will be determined by the manner in which the sketches are received.

All floats will meet at the Doak Campbell Stadium at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, November 12 for the purpose of checking the safety of the floats. All floats must be checked at this time.

All trailers must be inspected the afternoon preceding the parade and every driver of a truck trailer must have a chauffeurs license. The float must be at least thirteen feet high and a visible means of support must be provided for each person riding on the float.

The floats will be judged during the Homecoming Parade, Friday, November 12. Two trophies will be awarded: one for the most beautiful float and the other for the most original design.

Sophomore Royalty Will Be Revealed At Dance Saturday

The Kims and Queen of the Sophomore Hop will be announced at the dance to be held in the Women's Gym from 9 a.m. to 12. Saturday, November 8. They will represent the winners of the election held earlier this week.

The court consists of Marquerat Ann Bollinger, Beechie Benting, Jane Cunningham, Sandra DeWitt, Carmine Pinkieri and Betty Lee Whitlaw, candidates for Queen; and Jeffrey Hall, George Hill, Paul Ort, Bruce Fucetti, Del Swilley and Bobby Temple, candidates for King.

The dance is free for the sophomores and their dates, as well as for the Senior Class which received a special invitation. Music for the formal dance will be furnished by the Commodores.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS HOLD MEETING TUESDAY

The International Students Club will hold a meeting on Tuesday, at 7:30 p. m. in Student Lounge, Longmire Building.

Club officials requested members not to miss the meeting, as pictures of the group will be taken to be published in Tally-Ho.

TAKE YOUR PICK—Above are finalists in the 1954 Miss Gymkana Contest. They were chosen from 60 contestants in preliminary judging earlier this week. Front, L. to r. Mary Bolton, Gail Byrd, Sue Scott, Mary Margaret Williams, Sharon Benton, Allison Templeman, Myra Anne Fay, Bobbye Craig, Margaret McLean and Faye Anthony. Back, 1 to r. Leyta Bodiron, Joyce Slater, Ruth Shumway, Kathy Johnson, Barbara Ann Lester, Janice Eberly, Maynell Williams, Anita Anderson, and Edmarie Mumm. The winner will be awarded a 16" trophy engraved with her name.

A&M Features 'Homecoming' Here Saturday

A crowd of 16,000 is expected to witness the Florida A & M University Homecoming game with North Carolina A & T College at Doak S. Campbell Stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

A section in the East stands has been reserved for FSU students. Admission for students will be 95 cents plus ID card. Purchase coupons which may be had from A & M officials have requested that they enter from the Pensacola street side of the stadium.

Florida A & M will go into the game seeking its sixth straight win. The A & M-A & T series dates back to 1926, of which A & M has won seven of the ten games played, two have resulted in ties, and A & T has come out victorious in only one.

A&M Coach Cauthier has pointed out that this will be the third straight week his boys will have to be up for a game. The A & T team is coached by the former head of the A&M team.

Florida A & M's Homecoming will get underway at 12:00 noon today with a Homecoming Assembly in Lee Auditorium. The crowning of the Homecoming Queen will take place at 7 p. m. also in Lee Auditorium. A huge pep rally with Coach Rattler Blount will be held at 10:00 a. m. in Bragg Stadium.

The Homecoming Parade will start at 10 Saturday morning and will feature the band contending high school marching bands in the country. The band will also perform during the pregame ceremonies and at the half.

A Homecoming dance will wind up the festivities. The dance will be held in the gymnasium at 8.30 p. m.

Edwards Declared Eligible To Seek Office In Election

Karl Edwards, one of the two Class President runners in the Florida Class Election primary Tuesday, has been pronounced eligible to compete in the runoff.

At a meeting Wednesday night, Edwards, the second highest vote getter in the primary, was declared ineligible to compete in the runoff because of his membership on Men's Council.

Members of the Student Senate and other interested parties discussed questions arising from Edwards' ineligibility.

The question of Edwards' eligibility arose when a letter was sent a letter to the elections committee saying Edwards may have spent over $25. The letter specifically referred to printing costs, saying that other candidates had quoted expenses for two labs at less under what Edwards said he had paid for three.

It was further stated in the letter sent by Gamma Delta Chi Alpha that the objection had been presented orally at a previous committee meeting and that the deadline for protests, 24 hours after the election, had passed.

At the meeting Wednesday, according to committee spokesmen, the committee reviewed the letter, rechecked and conferred with a representative of Dyer Printing Co. which printed campaign materials under question.

"We of the elections committee feel that after a thorough investigation of Carl Edwards' campaign expenses that his expenses did not exceed the $20 limit stated in the constitution and, furthermore, as determined by the primary results, Tuesday, November 2, he remains a presidential candidate in the Freshman Class runoffs."

Mrs. Millard Dreadson Speaks At English Coffee Hour Today

A successful Tallahassee author, Mrs. Millard Dodson, will be the fourth "Meet the Author" speaker today. She will address the coffee hour at 4 p. m. in Westminster House.

A very modest woman, Mrs. Davidson says "she would not write if it were not fun." She will discuss part-time authorship and selling markets at the coffee hour gathering.

Using the pen-name Peggy Davidson, her work has appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and other national magazines. She also has written a number of stories of general interest to women and children.

Aside from her writing talents, Mrs. Davidson is an accomplished musician and an active civic club worker as well as a mother.

A manuel for Episcopal church school teachers is considered her most significant piece. The manuel has been circulated by the National Council in New York and translated into various languages. Having gone through three editions, it is widely used in this country and by mission churches all over the world.

The weekly "Meet the Author" parties are sponsored by the english department and are not "formal" affairs.

Peggy Davidson follows Mrs. Edith Pope of St. Augustine. Pat Frank of Mekeesville and Mt. Dora, and Robb White of Thomasville, Ga., on the weekly series.

A native of South Carolina.

(Continued on Page 4)

Homecoming Queen Voting Ends Today, 5

Voting for the 1954 Homecoming Queen Court will end today, announced MISS McCullough, elections committee member.

One poll will be open in Westcott Building from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., she declared. Students may vote according to numbered pictures, on IBM ballot sheets which are being used in the election for the first time.

Miss McCullough cautioned voters to vote for exactly five candidates, as any ballot marked otherwise will not be counted. One ballot per ID card will be necessary to have number 11 punched on all ID cards after voting.

Election results will be posted in room 314 Education Building early in the evening, she continued. The final Homecoming Queen election will be held Wednesday, November 10.

OFFICIAL HOLIDAYS ANNOUNCED

Armistice Day: All University functions will be suspended Thursday, November 11, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Classes will be resumed and offices opened at 2 p.m. on that date.

Homecoming: All university classes will be suspended at 12 noon on Friday, November 12.

Sororities Gain 109 Coeds In Late Pledging

One hundred and nine coeds as Florida State University were pledged to the school's 14 national social sororities in late rushing ceremonies last week.

The new pledges and their sororities are:

ALPHA CHI OMEGA: Jackie Allen, Judy Fess, Mary Brindle, Sue Harkleroad, Phyllis Hodgen, Ann Hudson, Sandra Land and Jo nell Verrazon.

ALPHA DELTA PI: Emma Elizabeth Dozier, Susan Kyle, Marcelle Potter, Mary Ann Riley and Lynn Williams.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA: Joan Elsberry, Doris Rogers, Joan Sherouse and Mary Ann Smith.

ALPHA OMICRON PI: Mary Burkholder Gayle Gardner, Mary C. Gayle Gretchen, Thompson, Carolyn Davis, Ann McDonell, Ann Emmert, Tana Hammond, Dee Hanson, Pat Hilton, Billie Jo McFee, JoAnn Towles and Joan Woods.

ALPHA XI DELTA: Lynn Beaseley, Barbara Ann Bowen, Wanda Owens, Linda Broderick, Barbara Hammer and Myra Ann Lay.

CHI OMEGA: Charlotte Allen, Pat Carlton, Shirley Granada, Nancy Jones, Jane Lawrence and Ann McKinnon.

DELTA DELTA DELTA: Kathrine Hatley, Kate Ramsey and Jane Rogers.

GAMMA PHI BETA: Mary Ellen Adolph, Carol Cross, Amy

(Continued on Page 4)

'Carousel' Directors Realizing Problems Of Production Cost

As work gets underway on the Light Opera Guild's fall presentation of "Carousel," the problems of producing a musical play are becoming a reality to directors Robert L. Briggs and Betty Jane Grimes.

One of these problems is balancing the budget. Although "Carousel" is the most expensive of the Light Opera Guild productions, says Dr. Briggs, they expect to break even with the last show left over from last year's show. "Die Fledermaus." He explained that the producers always try to end the year before an especially costly production. "We don't want to keep the ticket price at $.75 apiece without going into debt.

"Carousel's" higher cost is caused partly by its being a Rodgers and Hammerstein show, and partly because it was performed fairly recently on Broadway, the director explained.

Royalties and rental fees on production books will make up one third of the expenses. Another third of the budget is made up of cast fee contributes and part of the money. This also includes the costs of transporting the scenery, which in the past, has sometimes even been more than the fee itself.

The last third, Dr. Briggs went on, will include such items as programs, tickets and other advertising and materials for soliciting props, as well as incidental items.

Following his policy of choosing "somewhat lesser known shows," Dr. Briggs says that next year he would like to do a Gilbert and Sullivan musical. High royalties is the reason that "Pirates of Penzance" has not been able to produce before. It is hoped that it will still be demand by professional groups who could pay a higher fee.

There will be no reserved seats this year, it was announced. Curtain time will be 8:15 on performance nights people without tickets may see folding chairs are stored. "We should come closer to filling the house than we've ever been before," said Dr. Briggs. "because the show itself has such popular appeal."

Kimpel Alone Wins Majority To Gain Office

810 Ballots Cast In Freshman Vote; 51 Ballots Illegal

All offices save one in the Freshman Class elections must be run off next Tuesday.

Karen Kimpel, with 401 of the 728 votes cast for the office, was elected social chairman on the first ballot. Twenty other candidates must compete in the run-offs.

Elections Secretary Betty Jo Grubbs said 51 ballots were cast in all, with fifty-one of them incorrectly marked in some way. She said illegal ballots were disallowed only for the affixe a here the inacurrate marking occurred.

A rundown on the political picture for Tuesday's run-offs, votes polled by the surviving candidates in the primary, follows:

In the tight Men's Senate race are Hinth McCants, 902; Bill Swigert, 386; Bill Strickland, 353; Ronnie Blue, 330; Bill Hall, 284 and James Baird, 145.

The three seats in Women's Senate will be sought by Peter Pan Fowler, 309; Ann Cutsinger, 309 in a field of twenty-one candidates; Lu Cerny 185; Polly Ann Bell, 182; Barbara Bennett, 154; Cleve Townsend, 152, and Bert Bruin, 143.

The secretary's ballot Graham Teschke and Karl Edwards will compete for Freshman Class Vice-President. Teschke polled 161 more votes than Edwards in the primary.

Tom Sack and Joan Hemmerich remain in the race for class vice-president. The former led the latter by only 29 votes in the first balloting.

Mary Louise Peacock and Martha Grimsley go into the finals for secretary fairly evenly matched on the basis of the votes they have received. Miss Grimsley had 299; Miss Peacock 294.

In the treasurer's race Pickens Talley, who garnered 199 votes, will meet Jack Bond, who polled over Barbara Jean Little, who had 160.

Under the social chairmanship campaign, Karen Kimpel easily outdistanced her opponents Jean Hammond and Sara Whiting, 401 to 138 and 186, to win on the first ballot.

Voting procedure will be the same in the run-offs as in the primary this past week, elections officials declared. Ballot boxes will be located in West Hall, Student Center, Seminole Hall and Jennie Murphree. And will be open from 9a.m. to 5p.m. Presentation of ID cards will be necessary before voting is sanctioned against having campaign literature within 50 feet of the polls.

If precedent holds true, voting turnout will be lighter in the runoff than in the primary, Bill Sadler said yesterday. Voters were again warned by elections officials to carefully mark their ballots.

Secretary Grubbs announced that posters and campaign materials of the run-off candidates would have been taken down yesterday and will be reposted on the bulletin boards of campus today. She intimated that violations regarding places where posters may be placed may bring fines from the Honor Court.

The vote for each candidate in the primary election follows:

PRESIDENT: Nimkoff, 2196; Kearse, 165, Nobles, 134; Tuschoff, 229.

VICE-PRESIDENT: Clark, 131, Hemmanson, 133; Kyle, 115; Lewis, 139; Spark, 174.

SECRETARY: Albert, 148, Bruton, 123; Ferguert, 166; Enoch, 209.

TREASURER: Bridges, 124; Bitterly, 97; Hutchins, 101; Little, 160, Stokes, 162; Talley, 199.

SOCIAL CHAIRMAN: Bell, 139; Kimpel, 401; Whiting, 186.

MEN'S SENATE: Baird, 145; Blue, 330; Hall, 284; McCants, 902; Norton, 63, Roche, 284; Strickland, 353; Swigert, 386; Taisher, 114.

WOMEN'S SENATE: Atwater, 139; Bruin, 143; Bennett, 154; Cerny, 185; Chambers, 63; Chartier, 73; Cronland, 79; Culpepper, 154; Dunn, 308; Folks, 53; Hall, 43; Hinns, 47; Jacobson, 64, Kamins, 167; Kerr, 85; Lauter, 72, Schaeley, 47; Stanley, 81; Strickland, 53; Velazquez, 97, Townsend, 152.

A surprise is in store for Florida Flambeau readers, it was announced by the University Recreation Association. This concerns all students, male and female, and has been planned for YOUR pleasure and enjoyment.

Further information will be in the next Florida Flambeau.

A Poor Showing

The enthusiasm of the freshmen candidates largely outweighed the zeal of their fellow classmen in Wednesday's balloting. 810 freshmen, out of a reported 1700 freshmen enrollment, cast their vote.

True give the freshmen class an indifference 50% batting average, which we think ie pretty poor.

And the elections aren't over yet. Only one candidate, the Social Chairman, won in the primary, while all other offices are still to be filled.

Assuredly, the run-offs are just as important, perhaps more so, than the primary. The slate has only been eized down. So we ask that during the next few days, the freshman acquaint himself thoroughly with the candidate's qualifications, and select wisely next Tuesday. But vote!

Excellent Production

The Department of Speech has maintained its high degree of dramatic and technical excellence in its first of a series of ambitious performances presented here the past week.

The Brandon Thomas farce, Charley's Aunt, revealed talent worthy of note, while the complete physical aspect—properties, settings and lighting—was a tribute to the combined efforts of the students and faculty.

Those who were present at the four performances were aware of these things, and their appreciation was evident in their enthusiastic applause.

We regret that more students did not take advantage of the opportunity available to them. In the future, however, there will be ample opportunity for everyone to see and enjoy a variety of excellent calibre. The department's enterprising and well-chosen program for the season includes such proven adaptations as Arthur Wing Pinero's The Cruciible, and T. S. Eliot's The Cocktail Party.

A new venture this year is the speech department's debut into the children's theater field. A forthcoming production is Cindarala, and although it is to be enacted chiefly by FSU students, it is expected to have definite appeal to the younger Tallahassee set.

Their upcoming schedule should be thoroughly entertaining. We hope the student body gives them full recognition.

A Prize Deserved

Though it's delayed, we could not pass without mentioning Ernest Hemingway, who won the Nobel Prize for Literature last week.

The Swedieh Academy cited the American author "for his powerful, style-forming mastery of the art of modern narration, as most recently evinced in The Old Man and the Sea.

We rejoice that this great master has finally been recognized and honored with the highest of all literature prizes.

His work has left a decided mark in American Fiction, ever since his first important novel, The Sun Also Rises, published in 1926. He has expressed, perhaps more than any other man, in the 20th century, the deeply troubled and violent mood of our times.

He has lived a full life. Archibald MacLeish sums it up best:

"Veteran out of the wars before he was twenty:
Famous at twenty-five: thirty a master —
Whittled a style for his time from a walnut stick
In a carpenter's loft in a street of that April city."

We hope he continues to live this full life, and reward the country for a long time to come with his magnificent writings.

Sporting News

Indianapolis, Oct. 21 (AP)—

Professional boxers and wrestlers must take a non-Communist oath hereafter before they can appear in Indiana rings.

Arch Hindman of the State Athletic Commission said new license application forms will ask:

"Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist Party or any organization which advocates the overthrow of the American form of government?"

—from the New York Post

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Lie in the mud and forget to turn?
Flip over stupid, you're about to burn.
—Don Rapp

"Close Man With a Razor, Isn't He?"

The Lift File

A Tragic Exploit

Into the Jaws of Death

The immortal charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava, which occurred a century ago this Monday morning, was launched and reached its fated end under the eyes of a French general, Pierre Jean Francois Bosquet. He was one of the leaders of the French forces allied with the British in the Crimean War, and had climbed, with other members of the combined military staffs, to heights above the battlefield to accomplete view of the proceedings.

There and then Bosquet coined the classic summary of that tragic exploit. "It's magnificent," he said, "but it isn't war."

This judgment, according to the British historian, F. J. Hudleston, had "deeper truth" in it than was contained in Tennyson's celebrated poem on the affair. Mr. Hudleston added, this "deeper truth" was not for the British public. The British public would ne this devastating comment appearing in, of all places, the Encyclopedia Britannica, in a account of the battle: "has habitually alternated a rapture amounting above ecommonest skill in a military annals—and thus helped to create a reputation for stupidity for her Bosquet's words became famous and soon reached the status of household adage in both France and Britain. They are even now served in somewhat frivolous guise in one of W S Gilbert's "Bab Ballads". That is the ballad of "Thomas Winterbotlin Barker," that sterling English swordsman who is challenged to duel by his French counterpart, Monsieur Pierre, and whose respective aged mothers referee a treine-Channel shooting match between the two.

When Bosquet, stirred to tears, asked permission to supply his monsieur in Pau, the Emperor stirred over to him the services of the newfangled telegraph post in the palace itself. The telegram read: "Marshal Bosquet to the Widow Bosquet—Mother, remember the Emperor in your prayers."

Not only an Emperor but (Continued on Page 4)

"My service would be not to drop school to go into your father's business—you need a college education these days to find success and financial security."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS
by Dick Bibler

Published by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17, Exchange Editor ..... Irma Cox

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of the Florida State University.

Letters To The Flambeau

Candidates Thanks

Fellow Freshmen,

I offer my thanks to all of you who expressed confidence in me in Tuesday's primary election. As you may know, your vote put me in the run-off for Women's Senate.

Again I am asking my class mates for consideration and support. I need not only the vote of those who voted for me the first time, but the ballots of those whose favorite candidates were eliminated.

I am very interested in winning this election, so that I may serve you and serve the entire student body in the Senate. With your support and your vote, I will be able to realize this goal.

Sincerely
BETT BRAUN

Hello Students:

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to my supporters for 4:30 help they have given me in my campaign. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting me in the run-offs for the Women's Senate.

On Tuesday, November 6, you will decide who will represent you in the Women's Senate. I would appreciate your consideration.

Because of my great interest in my fellow Freshmen I am trying to be elected as many of you as is humanly possible.

I am making no wild promises I cannot stand behind if do promise if I am elected I will serve you to the best of my ability and if you ever want anything done, come to me and I will see what I can do about it.

Will you take my experience and abilities and the fact that I want to serve you into consideration when you go to vote? Will you "Be for Chye"?

Sincerely
CLEVE TOWNSEND

Dear Classmates:

Many thanks are going your way for those that voted for and supported me in the election Tuesday. In the bid for a freshman senate seat, we encounter many candidates and thanks are also in order for those of you that voted for them for showing interest in your affairs.

We the freshman class are new on this campus and at times issues that are present are no our notice, but the people you elect will. I will look for them and have the imagination to cope with them in your interest and in the furthering interest for the continued growth of FSU.

All in my power will be done in unison with other elected officials to see what is done and help argu them in this respect. I realize that a meaningful effort will be made to increase our responsibilities and develope our capabilities.

In closing may I add again my heartfelt thanks to everyone for the votes cast, and specifically, for the votes cast for me. A word to the wise: "A dog about 36 per cent of our class voted. Let's show the world that we DO have school spirit and show it in a way that will be beneficial to everyone. Vote and cast an intelligent vote, but evaluate and discuss the issues.

ACHIEVE YOUR AIMS WITH JAMES.

Sincerely,
JAMES BAIRD

Fellow Classmates:

First, let me express my appreciation and gratitude to those whose efforts made it possible for me to be in the run-off. Those who supported candidates in the run-off are especially invited to join our forces backing good government. I am proud of the fact that we have scrupulously avoided questioning the integrity or sincerity of any other candidate. I believe too strongly in the worth and honesty of every individual to have anyone hurt by unfair tactics. I am sure those whose might seem to be in wrong are not.

I still stand before you, my fellow classmates, resting the issue entirely on my own merits and upon the alleged demerits of another. I have every confidence that you, the voters, are perfectly capable of sorting out what the facts are.

Because of an attack of "flu" during the days leading to the first primary and from which I have not yet fully recovered, I could not connect as many of you personally as I had wished. But I do not get to see you in person before Nov. 6, I ask only that you remember my record. Ask those who really know, at first-hand, what I have stood for and how I have conducted my activities connected with campus religious life, at Boy's State in Hash Day Club work and in high school life. In that record, you will find a dedication to Florida and honest, efficient service. If you do this, I shall be doubly confident of going forward to a real victory on November 6.

Sincerely,
KARL EDWARDS.
Candidate for President,
Freshman Class.

Former Student

To the Editor:

A former student of our Florida State University, George J. Gubbins, has completed his graduate while serving with the U. S. Army Medical Corps and is now a guest at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C.

George, a slowly recovering from total disability and will spend many lonely hours during the coming months.

If some of his former instructors and classmates would spare the time to write a few lines to him, I am sure their efforts will be much appreciated and will hasten his recovery.

Sincerely,
BILL AYNES,
Class of '36.

Student Party

Dear Students:

The political party system at Florida State University is relatively new. In functions and operations are no doubt confusing to many students, particularly to freshmen and transfers.

We the executive committee of the Student Party believe that the political party system is a progressive step for our student gov-

Continued on Page 4)

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Joyce Porter
Campus Editor ..... Martin Dyckman,
Oscar Johnston
Sports Editors ..... Jim Jeanes, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ..... Bob Gutting, Alex Whitmarsh,
David Morris
Photographer ..... Lavid Anderson

Copy Editors ..... Sylvia Parrish, Willis Smith,
Pat Marston
Amusement Editor ..... David Dreis
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ..... Con Horn
Junior Staff: George Goldsmith, Jerome Bernstein,
Marty Rawles, Ann Stanley, Jan Bradfield

JOE CALDWELL—Business Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wegan
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega
Service Fraternity

Telephone 2-8000, extension 6821
211, 213 Longmire Building

Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Dissenter

Student Body Lethargy Is Evident

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

He's hard to understand why the Florida State University student body ignores its student government.

The lethargy which is so evident in the Spring elections each year has now spread to the freshmen, who earlier showed signs of being an unusually active group, politically speaking.

The Elections Committee says that 810 freshmen voted in their class election primaries Tuesday. This is, of course, a considerable smaller turnout than the sophomores, juniors or seniors can be can muster in the Spring. But there are around 1700 freshmen.

When only half of the qualified electorate votes, something is wrong. But what?

Whatever the nature of the lethargy, it most likely comes from the upperclassmen themselves.

For illustration, consider any typical meeting of the Student Senate. Wednesday's was an example. There were Senators, a few visitors—no more than three or four in all—and the Daily Flambeau reporter. Even the Freshman candidates who had come in comparatively goodly numbers during the past few weeks were absent.

The Secretary of Finance was there, but he was not voting. They were there because a bill affecting their work was on the Senate floor, where it was hotly debated. The bill was, and is, of extreme importance. Since it deals with the fund-raising powers of student organizations, it concerned most of the students on campus. Yet where were they?

There is a small group of students who drop in from time to time and are the only ones who take an interest in their student government. Yet when they run for office they are almost invariably defeated.

Every Wednesday some important appears on the Senate agenda the loyal students of the State University ask themselves conspicuous by their absence from the Senate chamber.

Apparently unsatisfied with not voting in the first place, they go out of their way to avoid showing any interest in student government.

All is not hopeless, however. A few of them at least evidence student government from time to time. They are without knowing what they are dealing with.

Ask the typical student why he doesn't attend Senate and he'll answer, "Because I'm not interested in student government, and he responds with some inane answer like "It isn't worth it."

Student government could be a lot better with a more mature, better-developed, more responsible student body endowed with many more privileges by the Administration. It never will be, however, as long as the attitude of students it is supposed to represent is what it is now.

It is a paradoxical situation that the students complain if student government is weak and deal with the self-same lethargy which is the cause of their complaints.

There is a number of ways that can be taken toward the emancipation of student government at FSU.

The first would be an intensive get-out-the-vote campaign which could begin with Tuesday's Freshman Class runoff. Alpha Council or some other group might perform an extremely valuable service with such a project.

Voting, however, is only a start. To maintain interest, student governments and to discourage the pending legislature that affects the student body in a far larger way.

The political parties are not too well suited for this responsibility, since examination of the issues from week-to-week should be on a non-partisan basis. The Florida Flambeau does well it can, but more effort is needed. The students in political science who have formed a club should themselves energetically carry out the responsibility with great effect.

The issues are not lacking for students at non-partisan basis. There is a huge void where interest should be.

Perhaps FSU is not destined to have a student citizenry with a sense of responsibility, but we'd all prefer not to think so.

Tuesday's freshman run-off could indicate what the future holds in store for the freshmen are the future. But they've got to vote.

Sketches

People I Knew: The Young Artist

By DICK VICTORY

The young man started to feel sick in the middle of the painting and now that he was almost through he felt completely nauseated. All he had to do was darken the blueness of the sky around the trees which ran down the painting would be finished.

The canvas he was painting on was the last sight of the day's doorway and on the other side of that doorway there was an open balcony that swung out from the side of the house and hung over the water, which was visible just against the sea wall far below.

The young man was glad that he had a place for his work and he was even glad he had spent so much time as he had on the paintings. He hadn't intended to in the beginning but he had seen how much he could do with it so he kept going.

Now he concentrated a-gainst turned to touch the brush to the canvas. Someone knocked on the door. The young man looked unconsciously the wet brush moved forward and hit the canvas in the upper left hand corner. He did not see the mark it made because his head was turned, facing the door. He said come in and whoever was on the other side tried to but the door was locked so the young man had to put down his brush and let them in himself.

It turned out to be someone who had driven out from the city. They talked for a while in a couple of Cuban words and finally the conversation slowed and the young man's visitor asked, "What have you been working on lately?

The young man said he would show him and walked over and stood in front of the canvas. The young man looked at the canvas for a moment, then blew right back at it. It struck him on the shoulder and when he shook the shape of the contour of the arm and shoulder. made a whining sound like a mosquito.

The wind died suddenly and in the silence the sea wall and the balcony railing. It was choppy in the water. The look on his face resembled a tight smile more than anything else. Before the wind could pick up he dropped the canvas and it floated down.

He poised at the railing and a wave broke high on the seawall splashing following. But he didn't jump. Instead he went back over to the room and put a fresh canvas on the easel.

The visitor said he lifted it and the young man asked why? The visitor said that it was the left hand corner of the picture. That dark spot, he said. That makes it. The rest is OK I guess, but that spot is radical, and that's what makes it perfect.

The young frowned and said what dark spot?

The young man got him out of there and then went and stood before his painting. He picked up his brush and thought about painting over the spot, then remembering what the visitor had said, he sneered and slapped on the painting with the brush, marring the picture. He then took off the easel and walked quickly to the balcony. The wind outside had increased and a heavy breeze was blowing in toward him.

He took the painting and threw it out into the wind. It filled immediately, hung in the air a moment, then blew right back at him. It struck him on the shoulder and when the shape of the contour of the arm and shoulder made a whining sound like a mosquito.

The wind died suddenly and in the silence the sea wall and the balcony railing. It was choppy in the water. The look on his face resembled a tight smile more than anything else. Before the wind could pick up he dropped the canvas and it floated down.

He poised at the railing and a wave broke high on the seawall splashing following. But he didn't jump. Instead he went back over to the room and put a fresh canvas on the easel.

Calling The Cara

Band Controversy Is Cleared Up

By WILLIE SMITH

Rumors have been mighty thick on our campus this week, and centered around the dance and the Ray Eberle Band that is to play Homecoming.

Some of the rumors run like this: "Why do we have Ray Eberle when each famed bands as Harry James, Jimmy and Tommy Dorsey, and others as strong are in the vicinity?"

"Why do they always get the name bands and we don't?"

"What do you expect with only $1,000 appropriated for the band?" (I have heard quotes from $500 to $1,000 but are we going to fix 2,000 students by the Seminole Room?) (this figure Buccaneer Editor Jack Shaw "wasn't Blue Baron originally going to play at Homecoming?" (it was even rumored that Dean Hudnon at one had the date: "Why are the students not consulted for opinion in choosing the band;" and "Why can't the students help pick the band along with the administration?"

Here are the facts as to how Ray Eberle was chosen and why. First, the band was picked in order to contract a "big time" band. As the band was limited in advance to coincide with the band's road schedule.

The bands that the heads were chosen and given to the students to vote on. The students contacted were the one attending summer school. They voted on the band that they contract was next to Baron, but were reluctant to commit until FSU did not have a band for Homecoming. Something had to be done.

Because of the tight schedule of the better known dance bands in the nation, officials not only had a time element to work against, but that the band was not as varied as before. Eberle was contacted and as a result he was contructed for the date. The contract cost nearer $1,800, and not $500 as rumored.

As for the ticket sale, there will be 1,150 tickets sold. There are "couple tickets" and will limit the amount of student body tickets sold. Further by dividuals were under the impression that the Seminole Room called for 4,000 single tickets or 2,000 "couple tickets." This latter was a fallacy.

One official suggested that if the students are unsatisfied with the band selection, why don't they select a committee to sit in with the administration. In this way, the administration will get the opinion of the students as to whom they would like in the way of future bands.

This proposal seems fair. The committee might even take a vote among the students to determine the student choice of band. This might help the administration to select a band that would please the majority of the students.

Etcetera Etchings

Hollywood Loses An Able Producer

By DAVID DREIS

In a very quiet ceremony last month in Hollywood, the sentiment was put to rest. Leonard Goldstein, 41, was one of the most able producers in the movie city. He knew how to make money.

Goldstein was a press agent many years ago. Goldstein had a nose for public taste. Bing Crosby proved him to be a good boo-goodly Call Me Lucky, Universal-International project that for putting the comedian in the Black and Panoramic Pictures Corporation. He knows and the Twentieth Century Fox praised him for becoming a very able producer and president.

Goldstein never went in for high-class films to a great extent and this columnist will testify to that. He gave the movie public such personalities as Frankie, the Talking Mule and Ma and Pa Kettle. He borrowed the idea from The Egg and I and made them million dollar attractions. He discovered Piper Laurie and Tony Curtis. He teamed them together again and again to put the public at ease. He is to be commended for Academy Awards, but the money was rolling in. He was one of the principal reasons for U-I to be a company of new stars. The old Universal devil-may-care days of Carl Laemmle, Deanna Durbin, but now that she has gone all they had left was Abbott and Costello.

His movie discoveries came all in a row. Piper Laurie, the first, was a big success and his movie discoveries came all in a row. Piper Laurie, was in love with Piper Laurie, but because of the difference in ages—he 44, she 21, he felt he should leave her alone. The movie magazines thought it was another producer-actress romance and played it up big. Letters came by the thousands asking him to marry her but nothing came of it. At the funeral Piper was in store. Mary-be it was because she told Lombard that she preferred Bob Cummings. Whatever it was, it angered him as a friend. No one knows and no one seems to want to venture a guess. (Who was Mary-wag?)

When Goldstein went to Universal Curtis he decided he would achieve greatness and not be content with the label, starring lawbreaker stuff. He got Jack Palance to play Jack the Ripper in Man Without a Body. It was a remake of the Lugosi-Karloff picture of decades ago. Both pictures were smash hits. He followed with a high calibre western with Palance, Curtis and Julie Dris. Then came Rachel Man with "Peyton Place" Palance and Gorilla. At Large with Cameron Mitchell. This was one of the best films—a poor title for a great movie. Goldstein was a producer.

SURFACE NOISE: Shirley Temple is becoming a dramatic actress—her diamer clasped her speech yesterday.

Continued on Page 4)

Selective Service Affairs Office Helps Protect Draft Deferment

By J. RICHARD STEVENS

The office of Selective Service is not a draft board. In other words, there is no power, "upperclassmen as well as Freshmen who are still eligible for Selective Service are merely making themselves available for an early call to service" by coming away from the office without having first determined whether until they can obtain the degree for which they are working.

Miss Vera Bevis, secretary, must be sent at the beginning of each student's academic year, whether it be February to February—or September to June. If the student's Draft Board does not receive the notice, it must be assumed that he is not continuing his education, and the procedure for induction is initiated.

The office of Selective Service Affairs at 307 Westcott has no way of getting the information concerning a student's Draft Board number and address except from the student himself.

A recent ruling by officials of the Selective Service Bureau makes it mandatory for the University to submit a report on all APPROVED ROTC students also.

THIS DOES NOT mean that the Draft classification of these students will be changed, except that there is a possibility that a student's qualifying for the II-S classification if the I-D should be lost for one reason or another.

Every man who is eligible for the Draft now who is not sure that the Office of Selective Service Affairs has his file up to date is urged to come by 307 Westcott to check on his status. Perhaps a phone call (Ext. 4381) will be sufficient.

Passing Seminoles Exceed Four Previous Grid Records

Swantic, Graham, Massey, Feamster, Prinzi Are Leaders In FSU Offense

In its first seven games of the current season, Florida State University's football team, through passing, has accomplished feats never before recorded in the school's big end football history.

At the present point the Seminoles have already bettered the former season record set in four passing departments. In the season Nuernberg's team has compiled a record 1190 yards by way of aerials. Forty-eight per cent of all passes have been completed.

Leading the offensive attack as an individual boats has been quarterback Len. Swantic. He has the reeds in two departments passing and total offense. To passes he has completed 87 for 355 yards and four touchdowns. In addition, the 88 yards he has gained in 42 times he has carried the ball gave his total yardage to 443.

Ed. Note: The above was not printed earlier due to limited space caused by letters to the editor along with arrival after the Tuesday deadline.

Quarterback Vic Prinzi in 14 passes has completed eight. His aerials have accounted for 280 yards. Quarterback Harry Massey has completed 17 of 38 tries for 265 yards and three TDs.

In pass receiving 240 - pound Tom Feamster is the leader. The big end has gathered in 13 passes for 262 yards and four touchdowns. Only 32 yards and eight receptions lie between Feamster and the university season records for these departments.

The Seminoles rushing for the seven-game period has totaled 748 yards on the ground.

Halfback Billy Graham is leading the team in rushing with 148 yards in 29 carries an average of better than five yards.

The Florida State gridiron squad has an open date this weekend. Preparation on the practice field has already begun for the homecoming game next week against the Furman Purple Hurricane.

Andree Nosco
Piano and Theory Instruction
109 W. COLLEGE
Room 4
PHONE 2-4933

MALONE'S BOOK STORE
FOR ALL YOUR SCHOOL NEEDS
• FSU Sweatshirts • Sundries — Supplies
• Material For Home Decorations
• Sorority and Fraternity Emblems
"Everything For The Student"
137 S. Copeland

"Twelve Years Serving Tallahasseans"
PHONE 2-9074

VISIT FRANK'S DRIVE-IN
FOR GOOD FOOD
HOT TURKEY SANDWICHES
BARBECUE FOODS
OUR SPECIALTY SEAFOODS
2027 NORTH MONROE

FUTURE HOPEFULS—Pictured above are four Florida State freshmen backs on whose shoulders a major portion of the university's future success on the gridiron rests. Left to right are righthalf Bill Weaver, quarterback Ted Bedrigan, fullback Tommy Thompson, and left half Buddy Reynolds.

Intramural Basketball To End Next Week With Frat Playoffs

According to Intramural Director Ed Williamson, intramural basketball will officially end next week. Playoffs in the fraternity league will begin Monday night.

Contenders for the Greek crown include Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Nu, Theta Chi, and the winner of last night's Sigma Phi Epsilon—Kappa Alpha contest. The dormitory league's final games were played last night. The winner after last night's games will automatically win the dorm championship.

Monday will see the beginning of competition among fraternities in tennis singles. The same event will get its start among the dormitories on Tuesday.

The following week beginning with Monday the 15th will mark the beginning of volleyball. The dormitories begin on Monday and the fraternities Tuesday.

RESULTS

Monday Night

Magnolia Hall	33
Air Force	38
Newman Club	33
Methodist Students	28
Rebels	36
Senior Hall	24
Baptist Students	40
Penthouse Gang	30

Tuesday Night

DTD	24
PKA	15
SPE	23
PGT	14
ATO	31
LCA	23
SAE	24
TEP	21
SAE	37
KA	21
KS	39
PKP	19
TC	24
SC	18

Wednesday Night

Baptist Students	24
Newman Club	20
Penthouse Gang	24
Pirates	18
Senior Hall	24
Magnolia Hall	27
Methodist Students	3
Air Force	3

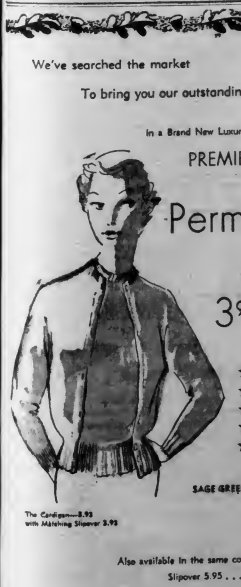
(Forfeit)

STANDINGS

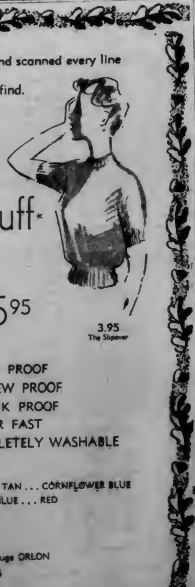
Dormitory League

	W	L
Rebels	4	0
Baptist Students	3	1
Penthouse Gang	3	2
Senior Hall	2	2
Newman Club	2	3
Methodist Students	2	4
Magnolia Hall	1	4
Air Force	1	5
Pirates	0	5

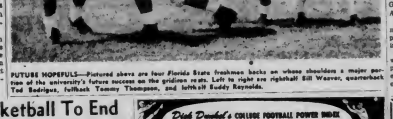
FRATERNITY LEAGUE



Garnet Bracket



Alpha Tau Omega	3	1
Sigma Nu	4	0
Pi Kappa Alpha	3	0
Delta Tau Delta	2	1
Lambda Chi Alpha	3	0
Tau Epsilon Phi	1	3
Pi Kappa Phi	1	3
Kappa Sigma	1	3



Gold Bracket

Theta Chi	3	0
Sigma Phi Epsilon	4	2
Kappa Alpha	4	3
Phi Delta Theta	3	2
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	1	3
Sigma Chi	1	4
Phi Kappa Tau	1	3

We've searched the market and scanned every line
To bring you our outstanding sweater find.
In a Brand New Luxury Material
PREMIER'S
Perma-Fluff*
3.95 — 5.95
3.95 The Slipover
★ MOTH PROOF
★ MILDEW PROOF
★ SHRINK PROOF
★ COLOR FAST
★ COMPLETELY WASHABLE
SAGE GREEN . . . TANGO TAN . . . CORNFLOWER BLUE
LIGHT BLUE . . . RED
The Cardigan—3.95 with Matching Slipover 3.95
Also available in the same colors in fine gauge ORLON
Slipover 5.95 . . . Cardigan 7.95
*Pat. Pend.
Perma Fluff
is a luxury Vistara Blend
MILLER'S Cootery College Ave.

Dick Deadlock's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

The Power Index ratings are not mathematical averages but are figured on the basis of 100 for a perfect season. Comparisons between teams of different strength should be made with caution.

Games Of Week Ending November 7, 1954

AMONG TOP 150

Higher Bottom	Lower Bottom
Kans. State ..81.5 vs. Drake 62.2
Memphis St. ..81.4 vs. Cincinnati 62.1
Va. Tech ..79.2 vs. G'ville Army 62.0

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6

Alabama ..... 90.1 vs. Tulane 62.5
Arizona ..... 78.6 vs. Texas Tech 67.4
Arkansas ..... 89.2 vs. Texas 81.1
Army ..... 69.1 vs. Yale 62.0
Baylor ..... 77.3 vs. Rice 62.4
Boston U. ..... 69.6 vs. Springfield 49.8
California ..... 86.2 vs. Washington 72.6
Cincinnati ..... 81.8 vs. Tampa State 57.1
Clemson ..... 77.0 vs. Furman 67.3
Colgate ..... 72.2 vs. Bucknell 67.1
Col. Pacific ..... 80.1 vs. San Jose St. 71.2
Colorado ..... 85.0 vs. Missouri 74.4
Dartmouth ..... 77.2 vs. Columbia 61.2
Dartmouth ..... 77.2 vs. Columbia 61.2
Duke ..... 89.2 vs. Wake Forest 71.1
Georgia ..... 86.0 vs. Georgia Tech 81.1
Harvard ..... 76.6 vs. Princeton 69.3
Holy Cross ..... 69.1 vs. Villanova 62.1
Iowa ..... 84.1 vs. Purdue 77.1
Kent State ..... 74.3 vs. Akron 62.9
Lafayette ..... 69.4 vs. Vanderbilt 62.2
Lehigh ..... 69.4 vs. Muhlenberg 59.8
LSU ..... 84.1 vs. Miss. State 62.3
Maryland ..... 84.1 vs. N. Carolina 62.2
Miami, Fla. ..... 86.4 vs. Auburn 69.8
Miami, O. ..... 74.1 vs. Bowling Green 62.1
Michigan ..... 86.1 vs. Illinois 78.2
Michigan St. ..... 86.7 vs. Wash. State 79.3
Minnesota ..... 84.1 vs. Northwestern 62.1
Mississippi ..... 84.1 vs. Memphis St. 72.3
Missouri ..... 84.1 vs. Kansas 62.1
N. Carolina St. ..... 76.7 vs. Texas A&M 69.1
Navy ..... 86.6 vs. Duke 69.2
Nebraska ..... 84.1 vs. Oklahoma 62.1
New Mexico ..... 84.1 vs. Miss. U. 62.1
N. Mexico ..... 77.2 vs. Montana 69.2
Notre Dame ..... 84.1 vs. Navy 62.1
Ohio State ..... 84.1 vs. Wisconsin 62.1
Oklahoma ..... 84.1 vs. Kansas St. 62.1
Oregon ..... 84.1 vs. Oregon St. 62.1
Penn State ..... 84.1 vs. Syracuse 62.1
Pittsburgh ..... 84.1 vs. Penn 62.1
Princeton ..... 84.1 vs. Yale 62.1
Purdue ..... 84.1 vs. Iowa 62.1

Rutgers ..... 84.1 vs. Lafayette 62.1
San Jose St. ..... 84.1 vs. Col. Pacific 62.1
So. California ..... 84.1 vs. Oregon St. 62.1
So. Methodist ..... 84.1 vs. Rice 62.1
Stanford ..... 84.1 vs. Washington 62.1
Syracuse ..... 84.1 vs. Penn State 62.1
Temple ..... 84.1 vs. Villanova 62.1
Tennessee ..... 84.1 vs. Kentucky 62.1
Texas ..... 84.1 vs. Texas A&M 62.1
Texas Tech ..... 84.1 vs. Arizona 62.1
Utah ..... 84.1 vs. Colo. A&M 62.1
Utah State ..... 84.1 vs. Wyoming 62.1
Villanova ..... 84.1 vs. Temple 62.1
Wichita ..... 84.1 vs. N.D. State 62.1
Wisconsin ..... 84.1 vs. Ohio State 62.1
Wyoming ..... 84.1 vs. Utah State 62.1
Yale ..... 84.1 vs. Dartmouth 62.1
Yale ..... 77.1 vs. Army 62.1
Yale ..... 84.1 vs. Princeton 62.1

OTHER SOUTHERN

Ark. Tech ..... 62.6 vs. Hendersonville 49.8
Arkansas St. ..... 62.6 vs. Southwestern 49.8
Shepherd ..... 62.6 vs. Salisbury 49.8
Wofford ..... 62.6 vs. Chatt. St. 49.8
Wyoming ..... 62.6 vs. Utah State 49.8

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6

Abilene Chr. ..... 62.6 vs. A&M 49.8
Ark. State ..... 62.6 vs. Austin 49.8
Ark. Tech ..... 62.6 vs. Arkansas St. 49.8
East. New'y ..... 62.6 vs. Mansfield 49.8
Hardin ..... 62.6 vs. Trev. State 49.8
Hendersonville ..... 62.6 vs. Ark. Tech 49.8
Howard ..... 62.6 vs. E'western T. 49.8
Lamar Tech ..... 62.6 vs. Sam Houston 49.8
Lenoir-Rhyne ..... 62.6 vs. Presbyterian 49.8
Memphis St. ..... 62.6 vs. Tex Tech U. 49.8
Mississippi ..... 62.6 vs. Memphis St. 49.8
Morehead ..... 62.6 vs. Marshall 49.8
Murray ..... 62.6 vs. Tenn. Tech 49.8
Northwestern ..... 62.6 vs. W'Kentucky 49.8
Rice ..... 62.6 vs. So. Methodist 49.8
Sam Houston ..... 62.6 vs. Lamar Tech 49.8
Sewanee ..... 62.6 vs. Centre 49.8
Tex. Tech U. ..... 62.6 vs. Memphis St. 49.8
W'Kentucky ..... 62.6 vs. Northwestern 49.8
W. Virginia ..... 62.6 vs. Richmond 49.8
Wofford ..... 62.6 vs. Chatt. St. 49.8

UCLA Ranks First In Nation; University Of Miami Rated 5th

By RICK DUNKEL

Five unbeaten college football teams still remaining in the Power Index Top 10 have dates on the weekend with another round of upset-minded opponents. Their prospects range from good to downright frightful.

Powerful UCLA, current national leader with 117.4 rating, returns to its home grounds for a Saturday clash with unsurging Oregon (93.8). The rating difference of approximately 23 points means that UCLA's record has been that much stronger than Oregon's, per game, against comparable opposition to date. But Oregon's latest effort was a 38-7 mauling of Washington. That was 18 points better than the Uclans wrought against the Huskies.

No. 2 Ohio State (113.5) may face an even rougher customer in Pittsburgh (93.1). The rating difference is 20 points, but probably doesn't do justice to the come-back kids of Pitt who have dumped both Navy and West Virginia from the unbeaten ranks. The game will be in Columbus.

No. 3 Oklahoma (110.2) has more of a chance to relax. The Sooners rate 33 points higher than their Saturday host, Kansas State (77.5).

Surprising Miami, Fla., now fifth with 106.4, will take its first road trip to visit tough Auburn (87.8), with about 11 points of difference in the figures.

Fifth among the unbeatens, No. 8 Arkansas (106.8) has the clearest outlook of all. The Porkers have to take on powerful Rice (99.4) in an important Southwest conference hassle at Little Rock. Rating difference—seven points.

Other national leaders show the following Power Index differences over their Saturday opponents:

No. 4 Purdue, 4 over No. 3 Iowa.

No. 7 Notre Dame, 41 over Penn.

No. 9 Wisconsin, 14 over Northwestern.

No. 10 Army, 32 over Yale.

No. 11 Mississippi, 35 over Memphis State.

And in other big games around the nation the record analysis shows:

SATURDAY—East: Boston U. 76 over Villanova, Brown 27 over Springfield; Colgate 4 over Bucknell; Cornell and Syracuse, even; Dartmouth 13 over Columbia, Navy 2 over Duke; Penn State 8 over Holy Cross.

SATURDAY—Midwest: Colorado 5 over Missouri; Miami, O., 8 over Bowling; Michigan 1 over Illinois; Mich. State 26 over Wash. State; Minnesota 23 over Oregon State; Nebraska 21 over Kansas.

SATURDAY—South: Alabama 17 over Tulane; Baylor 8 over Texas; Florida 3 over Georgia; Ga. Tech 8 over Tennessee; Kentucky 10 over Vanderbilt; LSU 18 over Chattanooga; Maryland 29 over N. C. State; Miss. State 24 over N. Texas State; So. Carolina 7 over No. Carolina; SMU 8 over Texas A & M; W. Virginia 26 over Fordham.

SATURDAY—Far West: Arizona 18 over Texas Tech; California 13 over Washington; So. California 18 over Stanford.

Power Index pairings for the weekend's games follow:

Ohio State	113.5
Pittsburgh	93.1
Oklahoma	110.2
Kansas State	77.5
Arkansas	106.8
Rice	99.4
Notre Dame	106.5
Penn	65.1
Wisconsin	104.3
Northwestern	90.3
Army	104.2
Yale	72.2
Purdue	102.3
Iowa	98.3
Miami, Fla.	106.4
Auburn	87.8
Michigan State	104.1
Washington State	78.1
Minnesota	103.3
Oregon State	80.3
Mississippi	104.1
Memphis State	69.1
Colorado	101.4
Missouri	96.4
Miami, O.	93.4
Bowling Green	85.4
Nebraska	101.3
Kansas	80.3
UCLA	117.4
Oregon	93.8
Duke	101.2
Wake Forest	71.1
Georgia Tech	101.1
Georgia	86.0
Alabama	90.1
Tulane	62.5
Texas	84.1
Texas A&M	69.1
Florida	94.6
Georgia	86.0
Tennessee	84.1
Kentucky	62.1
Vanderbilt	62.2
LSU	84.1
Chattanooga	62.6
Maryland	84.1
N. C. State	62.2
Miss. State	84.1
N. Texas State	62.6
So. Carolina	84.1
No. Carolina	62.2
SMU	84.1
Texas A & M	69.1
W. Virginia	84.1
Fordham	62.6
Arizona	78.6
Texas Tech	67.4
California	86.2
Washington	72.6
Stanford	84.1
So. California	84.1

Ratings unavailable

Copyright 1954 by Dick Deadlock Sports Research Service

NATIONAL LEADERS

U.C.L.A.	117.4	Mississippi	104.1
Ohio State	113.5	Army	104.2
Oklahoma	110.2	Maryland	103.4
Duke	101.2	Iowa	98.3
Miami, Fla.	106.4	Michigan	98.3
Arkansas	106.8	Navy	98.2
Notre Dame	106.5	Rice	99.4
Wisconsin	104.3	So. Carolina	84.1
Tennessee	104.3	So. Methodist	97.3
Georgia Tech	101.1	Texas	84.1
Army	104.2	Miami, O.	93.4

* Home Team

Christian Scientists Welcomes Students

The Florida State University Christian Science Organization holds weekly testimonial meetings every Thursday evening from 7 to 7:45 p.m. in room 317, Union Building, spokesmen said this week.

The study room, 240 Suwannee Room Arcade, is open for students interested in reading literature on Christian Science, it was added. It is open Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Spokesmen continued that all faculty and students are welcomed at the meetings and reading room.

MARINE OFFICERS TO SPEAK HERE

A Marine Corps Officer Procurement Officer will be at the Trophy Room, Student Center, November 15, 16, 17 and 18 to explain the Platoon Leaders Class and the Officer Candidate Course to interested students.

Tarpon Club Taps More 'Minnows'; Begins New Show

Twenty-two "minnows" have been tapped by the Tarpon Club, officials announced this week.

Receiving invitations to join the woman's swimming organization were Marion Ard, Margaret Curry, Lin Ann Cole, Ann Cowart, Gale Curry, Peter Dunn, Diane de Mouplied and Mary Jo Pain.

Also, Sue Ford, Jean Harris, Jeanne Hull, Betsy Laney, Jean Martin, B. J. McPee, Barbara Mead, Mary Ann O'Neal, Kay Pieper, Sadie Presnell, Pat Rooney, Glenda Sherrill, Mina Viehl and Angie Winter.

The girls will be termed "minnows" until the completion of a probation period and appearance in at least one Tarpon show.

Plans are now being made and work begun on Tarpon's annual production, which will be presented during the first week of March, officers said.

Genuine PAPER-MATE PEN Silvered-Tip REFILLS in Red • Green • Blue • Black
Only 49¢ each
Exclusive new Paper-Mate Silvered-Tip Refill means smoother, faster writing! Just 10 seconds to insert . . . never blots . . . dries instantly. Get Paper-Mate Refills wherever pens are sold.

Dine in a Comfortable Atmosphere for Breakfast Lunch Dinner
Complete Dinners From $1.50 Up
APPROVED BY AAA
Let Us Plan Your Banquet or Luncheon
OUR PRIVATE BANQUET ROOM HAS A CAPACITY OF 110
Open 6 A. M. Til Midnight
Saturday 'Til 3 a.m.
TALLAHASSEE DINING ROOM
1638 NORTH MONROE
Phone 2-3458
Mr. Bishop, Mgr.

Enjoy the Wonderful Food in Cool, Restful Surroundings at
The Seahorse
Tallahassee's Only Cafeteria
Special For Saturday and Sunday
Pineapple-Chiffon Pie with Whipped Cream—12c
"It's the Economical Place to Go"
Pensacola at Adams Street
Near the Capital

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES

FLORIDA
Today and Tomorrow
"Black Horse Canyon"
Joel McCrea
Sunday and Monday
"Ring of Fear"
Pat O'Brien
In CinemaScope

STATE
Today Through Tuesday
"SABRINA"
with
Humphrey Bogart
Audrey Hepburn
William Holden

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
Today and Tomorrow
"FLIGHT NURSE"
Joan Leslie
plus
"THREE YOUNG TEXANS"
Jeff Hunter
Sunday and Monday
"ISLAND IN THE SKY"
John Wayne

CAPITOL DRIVE-IN On WOODVILLE HWY.
Today and Tomorrow
"GUN SMOKE"
Audie Murphy
plus
"CAPTAIN PIRATE"
Louis Hayward
Sunday and Monday
"FORBIDDEN"
Tony Curtis

Formally Yours . . .
For Many Festive Occasions Ahead—
HOMECOMING DANCE
SAT. NIGHT, NOV. 13TH.
You are "formally" invited to come down and see our gorgeous collections of formals—each and every one hand picked with you in mind. Long and short styles.
From $25 up.
MAYERON'S
The Fashion Corner
College Ave. at Adams

Tragic Exploit

(Continued from page 2)

Paris itself had—and Paris still has—a nice way of honoring its heroes. Prominent among civic honors are street names. Hence, there is an Avenue Bouquet in the Seventh Arrondisement, a wide thoroughfare which proceeds from the Seine southward and is flanked, not far off an either side, by the Champ de Mars, which contains, as many know, France's War College, and by the Esplanade des Invalides which leads, as practically everybody knows, to the Tomb of Napoleon.

Bouquet a shade could traverse some other streets with considerable pride. Deep in the beautiful Sixteenth Arrondissement, most elegant of all Paris quarters, is an Avenue Malakoff. It extends from the foot of the Avenue of the Grand Army to the Avenue Foch. And in the heart of town is one finds the busy, popular Boulevard de Sebastopol — as thronged and charming as New York's Fourteenth Street.

Meanwhile, aloud one really be in search of further streetsellers of France's share in the Crimean War, it is only a short distance out to the suburb of Neuilly. There, one of its finest thoroughfares is the Boulevard d'Inkermann with two ns, if you please, in the French. It is agreeable to note that this boulevard ends at a handsome crossroads which is named for a warrior more famous even than Bouquet — the Place Winston Churchill.

—from Topics of The Times

Sororities

(Continued from Page 1)

Dec. Billie Ann Folsom and Jo-Ann Robbins.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA: Shirley Davidson, Anabella Kelly, Janet Nichols, Beverly Perkins and Britney Smith.

KAPPA DELTA: Betty Sue Gilliam, Gail Hicks, Jane Hicks, Kaie Thompson, Diane Latimer and Jennie Lind Williams.

PHI MU: Evelyn Paulette Beck, Evelyn Sue Cornette, Mary Jo Crum, Susanne Eastwood, Rosemary Garner, Celestina Gifford, Joan Hemmann, Rose Greville Johnson, Margaret McLean, Melanie Paulette, Betty Ann Peacock, Trudie Wilma Perry, Nancy Anne Roundtree, Joan Ursula Saunders and Margaret Ellen Wooten.

PI BETTA PHI: Sally Copeland, Ann George, Barbara Regan, Barbara Hastings, Hazel Jackson, Eucenia McLin and Joan Zertenich.

SIGMA KAPPA: Sixties Jackson, Barbara Jones, Betty Ann McGowan and Barbara Phelps.

ZETA TAU ALPHA: Mary Prim Cawthon, Sally Erickson, Joan Harmon, Joan Jones, Ethel Y. Freadman and Ida Catherine Wade.

INFORMAL DANCE
STUDENT CENTER

The Alpha Delta Pi and Kappa Alpha, social sorority and fraternity, are sponsoring an informal dance at the Student Center Saturday, November 6 from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Classified Ad

FOR SALE—Norwood "Director" exposure meter. Used very little, excellent condition. Original $25 selling for $20. Mrs. Macdonald, Physics Dept. office, Hill side.

Solons Debate

(Continued from Page 1)

mittee, recommended confirmation of appointments tendered the Senate last week.

Confirmed were Cecelia Ann Franklin, interim senior women's member of Honor Court, replacing Mary Ann MacFarland, who is interning in Carrol Law, interim senior representative to Women's Judiciary, replacing interim Nancy Fagen; Donna Jean Carr, junior representative to Women's Judiciary, replacing Susan Phelps, who did not return to school, and Sylvia Britt, secretary of Women's Judiciary.

President Nimkoff's appointment of Joe Harris to the Senior Men's Honor Court was vacated by Dave Kennedy, who is now Attorney General, met with some opposition.

The motion to confirm his appointment was tabled by a vote of 9 to 8, after Senator Fred Mansfield requested more time to study the nominee.

Senator Bill Stancik and Jimmy Joanos recommended Harris on the basis of "conscientiousness," an ability to judge things carefully," and for several campaigns they said he has been in.

Senator Hilford Committee produced a resolution asking that the street which runs in front of the freshman women's dormitories be made a one way street running north from the corner of Western Auditorium and the street that comes from Westcott east. The resolution was tabled.

Norma that many students are disregarding the resolutions about putting university restoration stickers on their cars, the committee asked that several groups including the Parade, the Traffic Safety Committee and The Florida Flambeau work to explain and enforce the ruling. The resolution to this effect was passed.

Men's Vice-President Gaster told the group that Men's Senate "has started the ball rolling on an inter-dormitory council."

Senator Bobby Temple requested the appointment of a sergeant at arms to cut down on the number of senators ejecting and leaving the chamber during a meeting and to prevent noise in the hall outside. His request was approved. No one was appointed to the position at the meeting.

A resolution to ask the administration not to consider F grades in computing eligibility for fraternities, sororities and other organizations was passed.

Nimkoff

(Continued from page 1)

Attorney General Kennedy's opinion lashed out at the Senate and warned the chief executive the prestige of his administration would be weakened if he yielded to the Senate request.

Kennedy reconsidered the Constitutional clause which, in reference to the duties of the Senate, gives the President the power to appointments of the President of the Student Body, by two-thirds vote in the case of appointments to fill vacated elective offices, by majority vote for all other regular appointments."

"This section," said Kennedy's report, "seems to have been interpreted politically rather than judicially by certain members of our Student Senate. It seems they apparently interpret Section 4 E. to mean that the Senate has the power to appoint, as well as to confirm appointees. Never before in the history of our Student Government has such injustice been done as that suffered by that individual whose name you first submitted to the Senate.

Continuing his report, Kennedy quoted another clause from the Constitution which he said emphasizes Nimkoff's Constitutional authority:

"All other vacancies created in elective Student Body offices shall be filled by appointment of the President of the Student Body, with confirmation by two-thirds vote of the Student Senate, provided all succeeding officials have the same constitutional qualifications as the originally elected officers."

Kennedy then continued: "Our Constitution is based upon a distinct separation of powers. Under the aforementioned articles, you and you alone have the power to appoint persons to fill vacated offices and the Senate alone, the power to confirm or reject.

Constitutions of other governments sometimes call for special elections to fill such vacancies, but the Constitution of the Student Body of Florida State University is implicit in its intent and declaration, when it says that you have the power of appointment.

"In conclusion, Mr. President," stated Kennedy, "I feel that if this resolution were accepted by your office, it would not only weaken yourself in the eyes of the student, who by electing you Student Body President, have shown their trust in you, but would seriously undermine the position of the executive branch of government and of future administrations to the bad precedent which it would set."

Asked for comment, Nimkoff said, "I'm going to accept his opinion."

Continuing, he said: "Dave advises me not to call an election for constitutional reasons, and on the basis of his judgment, I will not hold the election. We feel that the request was initiated by a minority of Senate motivated politically, rather than by desire to see good government perpetuated.

"I'm not going to send any person to Senate whose performance would be inferior to Germaine Murray's," he stated. "I have the greatest confidence in her."

When asked if this meant he would disregard the Senate and resubmit her name, Nimkoff answered "It might be interpreted that way." Nimkoff said that he felt Senate could constitutionally reject an appointee if he did not meet the constitutional qualifications. The chief executive added that the only other opposition Senate could raise would be on personal morality, which he said is provided for in unwritten constitutional practice.

Student Party

(Continued from Page 2)

ernment. The support of a political party does basically two very helpful functions for student body:

1. In the spring of each year the politicent parties select platforms or objectives for the coming year. It is easy to see that a large number of people bound together to support certain measures will have more chance of accomplishing their objectives than individuals working independently of one another.

2. The political party system serves to make student government more responsible. The candidates elected under party banner are responsible to their constituents to work for the objectives they desire.

Last spring at the Student Body convention a very good platform was adopted. Prior to adoption, planks in this platform were carefully debated in the men's and women's dormitories; in the fraternity and sorority houses, and on the convention floor. At the polls, the students placed their faith in the platform by electing as their Student Body President, Vice-President, and a vast majority of other student body officers—candidates pledged to support the Student Party plan.

These elected representatives have already begun to undertake the goal of accomplishing these platform objectives. But the job ahead will need the continued support of you, the students. The elected members of our party can only accomplish the technical aspects of our project. You, our fellow students, and your encouragement are necessary to complete the job.

Due to space limitations we cannot print our complete platform, but four of our 22 planks are as follows:

A. Establishment of an inter-dormitory council for both men and women to co-ordinate such dormitory activities as athletic events, social affairs and dormitory government affairs.

B. Establishment of a veterans' loan fund, or let the veterans pay as they go.

C. Recommend that university services be staffed wherever possible by student-ex, at a wage in keeping with prevailing costs of student living.

D. Revision of the entire university court system to determine the necessity for and the jurisdiction of the different branches.

We ask your support in our all-important undertaking

Sincerely,
The Student Party
Executive Committee,
Jimmy Joanos, chairman,
Jean Carr, secretary,
Gretchen Kerr,
Kre Gatlin,
Vero Williams,
Germaine Murray,
Graham Carothers.

Hollywood

(Continued from page 2)

"Don't forget—it was under a Republican administration that Joe and Marilyn split apart." Another million dollars has been allotted to Warner Brothers for Debbi Dick directed by John Ireland . . . Edward G. Robinson plays husband or father to Barbara Stanwyck in a Columbia western. You never can tell about Barbara Stanwyck — she looks young enough to play either . . . when asked why she doesn't dye her greying hair she answered, "Look—I'm not kidding anyone—they know I've been around a long time" . . . Attention, Artist Series: You've got a chance to book Hapalar Robert Maxwell. Maxwell wrote "Ebb Tide" and recorded for MGM and Mercury. He's a terrific . . . new him as Miami Beach's Saxony Hotel . . . contact me for further info . . . please. You might not know it but 11 people thought they were the celebrated FSU student pianist who had the holier than thou attitude . . . I remembered this in a post column and the one who is known is the one I mean . . . New Tally radio station WMEN may have hit the air by the time this gets in print, but they tell me that although they're programming gospel and hillbilly music, the station will feature personality disc jockeys . . . comes from the Florida Hotel so if Tally wants another radio station they'll have to build a new hotel.

Coffee Hour

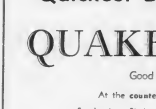
(Continued from Page 1)

Mrs. Davidson first came to Tallahassee to teach cello in this college. She met her future husband, Millard Davidson, here. Since their marriage they have made their home in Tallahassee.

Hostesses were invited to attend these weekly programs and officials said today's session will have a question period.

Vote Next Tuesday

When you pause...make it count...have a Coke



DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1954, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

SNAPSHOTS IN COLOR . . . a
For The Folks Back Home

Try Our A-1 Service For Developing and Printing And All Your Photographic Supplies.

Tallahassee Camera Center
"Across From The Florida Theater"
123 N. Monroe Street Phone 2-8771

Have You Heard?

. . . That old cold weather is making coffee sales jump . . . so our prices are going down . . .

Coffee — Now Only 5¢ a Cup for fine food always . . .

The Mecca
111 South Copeland

Keepsake Diamond Rings
Bulova & Elgin Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRING
107 S. Monroe St. Phone 7-1667

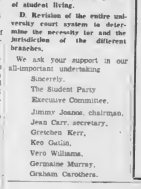
Quickest Delivery In Town
at the
QUAKER HOUSE
Good Wholesome Food
At the counter, on the curb, at your door
Sandwiches, Shakes, Splits, Sundries, Regular Meals
Phone 2-8677
Open 6 A.M. To Midnight
A Seven Days A Week
West Tennessee Street

CAPEZIOS

Just Received—

an exciting new collection of Capezios. Capezios are made on dancer's lasts to give them the soft, supple feel of a ballerina's slipper, and they're so pretty you'll want pairs and pairs—

The Bar Pump—



In Black Suede-Black Kid Bar, Dromedary Suede Almond Kid Bar, Charcoal Flannel Gun Metal, Kid Bar, Navy Suede-Navy Kid Bar—

The Skimmer—

In Black Suede Brown Suede, Black Kid, Red Kid, Navy Kid—exclusive with Stricklands

7.98

. . . fashion in footwear
. . . on college ave.

Filmdom's Diona Lynn: "I think the Miracle Tip is the most modern filter . . . and LaM the best-tasting filter cigarette."

David Wayne, Stage a Screen: "LaMs have the best filter of them all. Miracle Tip is right! There's nothing like it."

Mrs. Laddie Sanford, Socialite Sportswoman: "I love LaMs. Wonderful filter — exceptional taste!"

No filter compares with L&M's MIRACLE TIP for Quality or Effectiveness

Isn't it time you tried the cigarette that is sweeping the country . . . breaking record after record . . . winning more smokers in less time than any cigarette ever did! Why such success for L&M? It's the filter that counts, and L&M has the best. You get much more flavor, much less nicotine . . . a light and mild smoke . . . because only L&M's Miracle Tip gives you the effective filtration you need.

Enjoy L&M's king size or regular . . . both at the same low price. Like thousands, you'll say — "They're just what the doctor ordered."

More Flavor — Less Nicotine

America's Best Filter Cigarette!

Homecoming Fever Hits Campus (see below)

The Florida Flambeau

Run-off Elections End Today (see below)

VOL. XL NO 12 | PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA | TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1954

Freshman President Will Be Elected In Run-Off Vote Today

SU Prepares For 'Festivities' This Weekend

rmon Gold Battle Saturday Highlights Annual 'Activities'

...vidence of ...Fever" on ... days as the ...faculty of Flor... ...University busy ... for the 1954 ... next weekend. ...ning late in the ...students pep over ...ning dinner for a ...on of float. ...Wind Out of the ...ed many other ...ole theme in the ...s year. With ...made on taste, ...manor, ingenuity and ...de idea along with ...the surprise ele... between the ...ss and fraternity ...hall.

...he ...ering of the decorations ...es on Friday at 5:00 p. m., ...ses onto ...ading starting at ...0 p. m. ...ll winners will be ...ounced at the football game ...turday.

...e to the tremen... program which ...n an 11-story men's ...dent center, Sat... ...day, new geology ...ilde the start on a ...com building and ...e Lake. This ...e campus so many ...e recorded ...he distinction will be the ...small game between FSU's ...ers and the Hurricanes of ...ersan University, oldest Rap... rivalry in the South. Game ...ff is 2:00 p. m. Saturday.

...Gold Key honors... ...a pre-game banquet ...at 5:15 p. m. with ...ions to the classes ...22, '23, '48, '49, '50. ...guest speaker will ...A. Poling of New ...chairman, editor and ...

...e politicians will have their ...ace at the Homecoming Barbe... at the University's Recrea... Center on Friday at 6:30 ...30 p. m.

...order of happening... ...ay's alumni reunion at ...in the Student-Alum...

BULLETIN •

The Homecoming Hospitality Committee urges all fraternities, sororities and dormitories to decorate their house on Friday and Saturday at 5:30 p.m. following the football game.

...n, the Homecoming ...ns out from the Uni... ...ade toward Gov... ...Tallahassee. Distin... ...ishers and dignitaries ...ed by marching ...ippona co-eds, sau... ...ploneers, and the ...ive finalists for ...ida Queen, will be part ...

Distinguished judging of house decorations will be done by FSU, and the winners will be announced at the football game.

...ulture of the ...Key banquet will be a ...of the University ...ent, Dr. Doak ...ing the inauguration of Robert Se...

...ks, orchestra, skits and ...ll entertain the ...Pep Meeting Friday at 6:15 p. m. ...Bruh X. Campbell Stadium. ...Football coach Tom Nugent will introduce his 1954 Seminoles, the University Circus and Gymkana will perform, student skits ...Ben Is Delta Delta and ...ma Chi last year, will be ...ented. The 1954 Homecoming Queen will be crowned and her court presented, and a finale of fireworks will close the show.

...the Pow Wow there will ...e ...ndering of house decora... ...opens house at all fra... ...sororities and residence ...

...ay opens with the Alum... ...ast at the home of Pres... ...and Mrs. Campbell, 8-9:30 ...The annual Alumni Busi... ...meeting is set for 10-11:30 ...in the Student-Alumni building ...ll precede the game in the Doak ...n Lake Bradford.

...ay the game will be open ...ouse at all student residences, ...ernity and sorority houses. ...That night class reunion dinners and the Homecoming Dance with Bill Everts and his orchestra in the Suwannee Room will be held, beginning at 9 p. m.

...al ceremony will be the ...ns and celebration of ...Delta, national social ...the oldest established so... ...Florida. Chapter house ...corner of Copeland and ...ton streets.

...Friday and Saturday the ...versity's educational radio ...WFSU-FM will be dedi... ...the service of the pe... ...state. Studios will be ...to the public. There will ...a the basement of the Mu... ...Building.

THEY WERE ALL HONEST MEN—Above are 1954 Gold Key members of FSU. L. to r., Jack Houser, Dana Teal, Dave Sherrill, Bill Slunck, Alan Sunberg, Peter Nimkoff, Bob Fahey, Bob Canada, Dr. Claude Flory, Sponsor and Tom Simmons.

Nimkoff Appointees Expected To Head Senate Agenda Again

Consideration of the Student Senate's most persistent problem, that of presidential appointments, is expected to head the order of business at tomorrow's meeting of the student legislators.

Up for confirmation are the appointments of Joe Harris to the senate men's Honor Court leadership vacated by Dave Kennedy, who is now Attorney General; Vern Williams, secretary of Labor, and Graham Childers, Secretary of Recreation.

The traffic bill introduced by Senator Joan Halford's Labor, Student Services and Education Committee will come up for its second, and probably final, reading tomorrow, according to vice-president Corbi Hunter.

The Senate permanent Elections and Appointments Committee, of which Jim Moore is chairman, is expected to report on the appointment of Harris, as well as those of Williams and Childers.

The cabinet post of Secretary of Labor involves working with campus officers in matters of administration and student employment on campus, according to vice-president Moore. Williams, who has experience in the University Food Service Department, is the only student whose name was ever suggested for the position prior to his appointment by Nimkoff. He ran unsuccessfully for a seat in the Senate from the Seminole delegation last spring on the Student Party ticket.

The name of Graham Caruthers is also on new to campus politics. The brother of last year's Student Body President, Caruthers sought the presidency of the Junior Class last Spring, but on the Student Party ticket, and he also was defeated.

The appointment of Harris, which was brought out of committee at last week's Senate meeting, but then tabled for further study, was requested by Honor Court Chief Justice Jerry Meyer, according to Senator Bill Slunck.

The appointment must be confirmed by a two-thirds vote, since the presidential nomination is to fill an elected office. Kennedy, who is also Honor Court chief, was elected last Spring, resigned this Fall when he was appointed Attorney General.

President Pete Nimkoff said yesterday that he may name an interim replacement for Senator Jean Wells, who is interning, before Wednesday's Senate meeting.

The appointment would require confirmation by two-thirds vote, since the office is an elective one. Senate could, by a two-thirds vote, waive the rules of procedure to consider the appointment without sending it to the Appointments Committee.

No action is expected on Nimkoff's appointees.

(Continued On Page 4)

Students Hear Their Leaders At ODK Meet

The Omicron Delta Kappa Honor Board Leadership and Organization conference was attended by about 55 students and faculty at Lake Bradford over the weekend.

At 6:00 p. m. Friday the conference began with a banquet at the opening address and discussion led by Chaplain Samuel Nevi, on "Qualities of Leadership." The opening assembly was followed by a welcome and explanation which was called by Dr. W. J. Tait.

The conference period started Saturday morning at 9:30 a. m. Jack Houser, Omicron Delta Kappa, President, led the discussion group. The three main topics discussed were: Scholarship, Service, and School Spirit. Under the topic Scholarship, the students pointed out ways of improving organization; emphasizing scholarship; having a desire to learn; having informal student-faculty discussion groups; and stressing scholarship to the Freshmen with background and purpose in order to have it among the upperclassmen.

Under the topic of Service was discussed the needs and the ways of meeting the needs on campus. These included individual attitudes; friendliness and a desire to help; better planning of social functions, parking problems, speeding on campus, hospital visiting hours (a Hospital Visiting Committee was appointed with Jane Wardlaw, chairman), and a desire to keep the campus clean.

There was a discussion on School Spirit to which was pointed out that when Freshmen arrive here on campus they have school spirit, but somehow the upperclassmen will not set an example for them. The group intended that school spirit be written into all phases of school life with a basic loyalty to the University.

The Summer of the faculty and administration was at the conference. Dr. Doak Campbell, University Chaplain, Dr. Katherine Montgomery, Miss Dalsy Mae Lowe, former dean, past President of A. A. U. W. of Tallahassee, Dr. Carolyn Long, Dr. Mary Frances Hall, Miss Jane Adams, Mrs. Sonya Hagler, Mr. Harold Vagel, Dr. Charles Davis, Dr. W. J. Tait, Dr. Paul Reynolds, Mrs. Merian Wilson, and Miss Caroline Pitman.

Dittmer Discusses Decreasing Number of Chemistry Students

The constant decrease in the number of students entering the field of chemistry and physics is alarming, says Dr. Karl Dittmer, head of the chemistry department at Florida State University.

In a recent speech to student members of the American Chemical Society, Dittmer outlined the situation. Although there has been a constant increase in the number of chemists needed since 1950, there has been a constant decrease in the number available from 1950 to 1954, stated Dittmer.

According to Dittmer, in 1951 there were only applicants for 53 per cent of the jobs available and only 10 per cent of the openings for chemical engineers were filled.

"America's future improvements in its living standards is dependent upon its scientists," said Dittmer. He commended that the American Chemical Society, industry, and even the President of the United States are among those alarmed by this trend.

Committees looking for the answer to the problem have looked in the secondary schools,

Ogburn Talks On Sociology At PDK Meet

Dr. William F. Ogburn, visiting professor of sociology at Florida State University, will discuss the current social scene and public education at an initiation-dinner meeting of Phi Delta Kappa Thursday.

Initiation of new members to Phi Delta Kappa, national professional club for men graduates on the campus, will be held at 5 p.m. in the Longmire Club room. Dinner will follow at 6:30 p.m. in the Suwannee Room.

Dr. Glen E. Murphy, executive secretary of the club, about 15 men are expected to be initiated. These include master and doctoral candidates as well as faculty members at FSU and a Tallahassee city school principal and department of public instruction.

Ivan Johnson, head of the Department of Arts Education, is president of the campus chapter; Lewis De Laura, doctoral candidate and member of the Demonstration School faculty, is first vice-president and membership chairman. Ed Hand, head of the adult and veteran section of the Department of education, is second vice-president and program chairman.

Dr. H. A. Curtis, professor of education, is the club's sponsor.

Twenty Percent Of Homecoming Tabs Sold Here Already

Twenty per cent of the Homecoming dance tickets had been sold as of 10 p.m. yesterday, announced John Howard, chairman of the publicity committee.

"I want to urge the students to purchase their tickets now rather than Wednesday at 5 p.m., even though tickets will go on sale Friday until 5 p.m.," stated the chairman. They will not be sold Thursday due to Armistice Day.

He went on to say that unticketed men will not be admitted, none will be sold at the dance. Tickets are now on sale in Westcott and the Student Union Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Relics Exhibit On Display At FSU Museum

Gundrum Display Is Best Collection Of Antille Relics Since

Opening of the Antillian collection, which contains about 300 reproductions of prehistoric Indian objects, will take place from 7:30 to 9:30 tonight, announced Dr. Hale Smith, director of the University Museum.

Ivan Gundrum Feric of Havana, Cuba, who recently presented Florida State University with the collection, will be present at the opening. Gundrum made the replicas himself, using as models originals located throughout the world. His replicas of the clay has such fine texture, and the technique of his work is so genuine that it has baffled authorities.

Dr. Smith said the collection represents the most complete Antillian collection in existance. One of the most unique artifacts on display, according to Smith, will be a bifurcated smuff pipe, used by the Indians to inhale narcotics. He continued that medicine men of the tribes used these as a means to get a good "jag" or "trance" for ceremonies. The pipe is representative of the Siboney, Arawak and Carib tribes who lived in Cuba when he discovered the West Indies.

Some are pipes, statues depicting fertility gods, cults, headgear, and tools in the collection. The "semis" are stone carvings made by the Indians for their worship of their ancestors and gods, says Dr. Smith.

Gundrum has lived in Cuba for 22 years and is a member of the Kingsborough Museum in Zareb, Yugoslavia. His birthplace was Yugoslavia. He presented the University with approximately 500 pieces which the Smiths "invaluable." According to Smith, Gundrum is the highest in regards to the point of authenticity, the nature of material used by the Antillians.

The Greater and Lesser Antilles are respectively, Cuba, Jamaica, Puerto Rico, Haiti, and the Dominican Republic, and lesser—Virgin Islands to Trinidad.

Also currently on exhibit are displays of the Apalachee tribe native to the Tallahassee and St. Augustine area from 1634-1763 to the 17th centuries, the Creek Indians, and the development of man's use of power through the centuries.

Refreshments will also be served at the opening tonight.

STATE PARTY HOLDS MEETING

There will be an important meeting of State Party officers and members today at 4:30 p.m. in Longmire Student Lounge, Warren Cobb, chairman, announced.

He asked all officers, senators and State party members to be present. It will be the first meeting of the year.

Queen Titles Topic Of Campus As Organizations Pick Royalty

Campus royalty titles have been one of the main issues among Florida State University fraternities this week, with several already determined and others still in doubt.

Beschle Banting and Harvey Hall were crowned Queen and King of the annual Sophomore Hop as a climax to ceremonies in the Sophomore Sanhedrin Hall. In the Homecoming Queen competition, five finalists will be chosen from contests in voting during the week. (See separate story.)

Another coronation ceremony Saturday night, Bobbye Cruz was chosen by fraternity residents as Queen of the Harvest Moon at the Reynolds Hall dance. Placing a close second for the title were Carla Glascock and Hazel Jackson.

And in a fourth contest, deciding the 1954 Miss Gymkana, 20 finalists were chosen by judges early in the winter to remain to doubt until the night of December thirty.

An estimated 250 to 300 students, the majority Sophomores, witnessed the coronation ceremony at the Sophomore Hop. The dance was described by dance Social Chairman Bill Williams as "very, very successful." In De Queen's court were Margaret Ann Ballinger Pritchell Dewitt, Joan Cunningham, Carmine Rassetti and Betty Lou Whitley, while the King's court was composed of George Hill, Paul Ort, Bobby Tennile, Bill Bentley and Bruce Pacelli.

After the coronation, student performances were given including a solo by Jo Jones, a novelty dance by Nancy Cubine, a tap dance by the Flying Seminoles and a piano solo by Bill Strickland. Roger Berry and Jerry Turner, Band members, were in charge of entertainment for the event which were preceded by the presentation of a gift to Bill Williams. Williams for her work in connection with the dance.

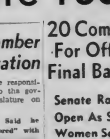
Harvest Moon Ball highlights included the coronation of Queen Jane Ann Crawford and Bill Tait and the Grand March. Dr. Bill Tait was master of ceremonies and Ray Lamberson were in the traditional theme of Fall colors. Court members were Jean Turner, Jane Snedeker, Pat Peske, Lynda Arnold, Missie Thompson and Jackson, and Marlene Marsh.

Final judging in the Miss Gymkana competition will be held at the second to the last Gymkana performance, December first. Studies will be judged on ability, poise, grace, costume and personality as demonstrated in Gymkana. Judges are, Dr. Hartley Price, Gymkana Coach; Mr. Edward W. Whittlesey, FSU Director of Public Relations; Ole Olsen, Tallahassee broad; Mildred Parish, Director of the Band Association and Bob Leigh.

Finalists will take part in the 1954 Gymkana production, "Travlad Capers" and judges will determine part of their eligibility by their contribution to the show. The winner will be given a $100 scholarship, while five while certificates will be reserved for two alternates and the 1st court.

Vance Is Appointed A Member Of State Council On Education

By BOB FOLSOM



Professor Earl L. Vance of Florida State University was appointed this past week to the seven-member State Council on Education, according to an announcement from the acting governor's office.

He succeeds Albert W. Lifsetgt of Tampa.

The other member appointed by Acting Governor Charley E. Johns was Dr. Ralph E. Page, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Florida. Holdover members are Allen C. Grasier, St. Petersburg; Lamar Sarrs, Jacksonville, Al Block, Tallahasee; Rosa Bell Quillian, Coral Gables and Wilson Harris, Pensacola.

The Council on Education was set up during the administration of former Governor Spessard Holland and has been influential in developing the educational program of the state in connection with the Minimum Foundation public education program.

Its seven members are appointed for four year terms, and

Earl L. Vance

the appointment, said that he hoped he would be able to be

(Continued On Page 4)

are charged with the responsibility of reporting to this governor and the legislature on educational matters.

Professor Vance Said he "naturally felt honored" with

Voting To Select Homecoming Queen Starts Tomorrow, At 9

Five finalists were chosen Friday to vie for the 1954 Homecoming Queen title at Florida State University.

Selected from forty-one contestants, the candidates for the Queen and her court are Margaret Ann Ballinger, sponsored by Alpha Tau Omega; Ferrell De Witt, backed by Kappa Alpha; Dana Jackson, backed by Kappa Delta; Betty Ann Monroe sponsored by Phi Sinfonia and Barbara Wilson, supported by West Hall.

Voting will be resumed tomorrow from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. in Westcott, announced Betty Jo Grubbs, secretary of the Elections Committee. It was reported that 1400 students voted in the election but 1800 marches will not be used this time due to the number of finalists.

The Queen's identity will be revealed at the Pow Wow Friday night where she will be crowned by Ann Yates, last year's queen. Following ceremonies the Court will be wearing Indian headdresses.

The royal court will also ride on the Queen's float in the Homecoming Parade and will sit in a reserved box for the game Saturday, played with Furman. During the half, Student Body President Pete Nimkoff will present the Queen with flowers.

In addition to the court's other activities, they will speak over radio station WFSU-FM Tuesday afternoon.

STUDENTS ASKED TO WEAR TAGS FRIDAY

The Homecoming Hospitality Committee requests that all FSU students wear a name tag this Friday, the first day of the Homecoming week-end. The tags will be delivered by the dormitories and sorority and fraternity houses before Friday.

SOPHOMORE HOP ROYALTY crowned Saturday night as King and Queen of the Sophomore Hop were Harvey Hall and Beschle Banting. The dance, which was attended by over 250 Sophs and their guests, was held at the Women's Gym.

FSU Debators Discuss China At Conference

Debators attending the Ninth Annual Alabama Discussion Conference may have some pointers on foreign policy when they wind-up their three-day session in Tuscaloosa tomorrow.

A squad of six Florida State University students are in attendance, reports announce, with their main topic of debate centering on the pros and cons of United States recognition of Red China.

Representing FSU at this year's conference are Beverly Thompson, Norma Trippodo, Bruce Fletcher, Fred Roberts, Herb Lacaye and Tom Woods.

At last year's Alabama Conference Tom Woods entered a speech certificate in discussion. Bill Twyford also represented FSU, receiving a certificate of excellence for his efforts.

Woods, senior debate manager for 1954-55 is slated to be squad's student leader at Tuscaloosa, coordinating the group and serving as judge in the conference is Elizabeth Flory, graduate assistant in the Department of Speech.

Spokesmen for the Department of Speech evaluated the conference as a means of helping Southern debaters prepare for the major debate tournaments held throughout the year

20 Competing For Offices In Final Balloting

Senate Race Wide Open As Six Men, Women Seek Posts

Final returns on today's freshman election are expected to be known by 8 p. m. tonight.

At stake in the balloting which began at 9 this morning are six Student Senate seats, the class presidency, vice-presidency, secretary's office and the treasurer's position. Twenty candidates entered the primary election last week to compete in today's run-offs.

Election returns may be posted earlier than last week, probably before 8 p.m. near the Education Building in the coeducational area. The fact that fewer candidates are running this a voting turnout which portends to be lighter than last week, also supports early returns.

Elections officials announce also that IBM ballots will again be used in today's elections. They warned all Freshmen to follow previous instructions when marking the ballots and reminded them that they must present their ID cards to the Sophomore Council elections workers before they may vote.

They re-emphasized that campaign material will not be allowed within 50 feet of the polling places, which are located at Westcott, Student Center, Gamondale Club and West Hall. The Elections Code also requires that all campaign material be removed within 48 hours after the election is over.

Running for Women's Senate, for which three will be elected, are Polly Atwater, Bert Brass, Lu Covey, Suzy Culpepper, Patsy Dunn and Cleve Townsend. Seeking the three seats in men's Senate are James Baird, Ronnie Bice, Brian McCann, Bill Roche, Bill Strickland and Bill Swigert.

Candidates for class president are Earl Edwards and Graham Teschke. Running for the vice-presidency are Alan Hinkleman and Tom Spect. Martha Grinnard and Mary Louise Pearce are in the race for secretary's job.

Barbara Jean Little and Pickens Talley are on the ballot for the treasurer's office.

Running for Aaron Kimpel's seat on Honor Court are Tom Woods and Jerry Wilson.

Elections Secretary Betty Jo Grubbs was unable to set a date for the installation of the officers elected today, but announced that the installation ceremony will take place within a week of the election. She also commented that she hopes the newly elected officers' installation will call a class meeting for that purpose.

Dohnanyi Performs In Chicago Tonight As Symphony Guest

Dr. Ernst von Dohnanyi, composer and professor of music on the Florida State University School of Music faculty, will perform tonight as guest artist and piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony. He also performed with the group last Saturday and Friday.

Fritz Reiner, symphony conductor, has been a friend of Dohnanyi's since the two met in Budapest, where Reiner was conductor of the Budapest Philharmonic and Dohnanyi was concert pianist. Their professional paths have crossed many times.

About 26 years ago Reiner was conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony, and the new friends made their first American musical appearance there before Dohnanyi.

Dohnanyi will take a two weeks leave from the FSU campus. He will also be guest soloist with the Toledo Orchestra and will give a chamber-music concert in Milwaukee while away, according to recent reports.

The famed FSU musician will return to Milwaukee December 28 to again be guest soloist with the Milwaukee Symphony when it performs there.

A Vacant Seat

We hope heed is paid to the exacting and conclusive advisory opinion issued by Attorney General Kennedy concerning the Student Senate resolution suggesting a referendum election to fill the vacant Junior Women's Senate seat.

The opinion was brought about by the needless and thoughtless scrapping over the Student Body President's appointment of Germaine Murray to fill the vacant seat.

The opinion states unequivocally the wrong actions taken by some members of the Student Senate. What they hoped to gain by their actions, we don't quite know. Their arguments over this appointment were flimsy and didn't stand up against rebuttal.

Besides attempting, either purposely or through sheer blindness, to arrogate the President's constitutional authority, these Senators also managed an unfortunate accomplishment vouced by the Attorney General. "Never before in the history of our Student Government has such injustice been done as that suffered by that individual whose name (the Student Body President) first submitted to the Senate."

Meanwhile, the Student Senate remains without a Junior Senator.

Georgia's Last Stand

Last Tuesday the voters of the State of Georgia threw away their public schools.

They did so at the behest of demogogue Herman Talmadge and his hand-picked gubernatorial nominee Marvin Griffin.

The rural areas of the state outvoted the more enlightened urban localities and passed an amendment to the state constitution which reads:

"Notwithstanding any other provision of this Constitution, the General Assembly may by law provide for grants of state, county or municipal funds to citizens of the state for educational purposes, in discharge of an obligation of the state to provide adequate education for its citizens."

This is what Governor Griffin and bossman Talmadge hope will provide the means for evasion of the United States Supreme Court ban on segregation in public education.

The Talmadge dynasty, in a widely-circulated newspaper advertisement aimed at insuring the passage of the nefarious amendment which authorizes the State to give away schools to private concerns, has told the people that if they did NOT vote for the amendment their schools would be completely destroyed.

They pointed out that Georgia's state constitution would forbid the appropriation of money for the operation of mixed schools; that when the Supreme Court ordered the schools integrated the public schools of Georgia would be without operating funds.

They led the people of Georgia to believe that if they ratified the amendment, the General Assembly could turn the schools over to private concerns who would continue operating them on a segregated basis, with financial assistance from the state.

What the Talmadge dynasty didn't realize, or didn't tell its followers if it was aware of it, is that changing the name in this case isn't going to change the function.

We believe that the Supreme Court will rule that if the cent of public money is used to subsidize the operation of those private schools, they are in effect public, and as such subject to the ban on segregation.

The degree to which the people of Georgia were hoodwinked by their masters in the State House is deeper than just that, however.

If they had not ratified the private school amendment, their public schools would have continued to receive state money even after the segregation ban goes into effect, anything in the state constitution about not providing funds for mixed schools notwithstanding.

Back in 1802, in the celebrated case of Marbury vs Madison, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the United States Constitution is superior to any law, act or policy of the Federal Government or its member states. This applies to state constitutions as well.

The Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is—if the Court rules that segregation in education is contrary to the Constitution, then any part of a state constitution which provides for such segregation is unconstitutional itself, and null and void.

Had the Georgia school segregation amendment not been passed, the integrated public schools would have still been able to receive money from the state, for the part of the state constitution prohibiting such appropriation had already, in effect, been declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

Rejection And Acceptance

The voting is over. A Democratic Congress is back in.

And with it came, most thankfully, liberal elements from both sides; men like Republican Clifford Case of New Jersey who couldn't be silenced by his own party for his opposition to Joe McCarthy, and Democrat Richard L. Neuberger, who opposes the giveaways of natural resources practiced so thoroughly by the Republican Administration in the last two years.

The vote was not decisive for either party.

Though the Democrats won by a good margin in the House, it was not heavy by comparison to other times.

The Senate was saved by Senator Wayne Morse, Independent Oregon, whose lone vote gives the Democrats their margain of majority.

We hope the vote showed the Republicans that the people rejected nixonism, the new form of mccarthyism.

Dicky Nixon was running against the Truman and Acheson policies—sanctioned by President Eisenhower himself. If likely got them something they didn't want: a Democratic Congress.

But the President seemed undismayed by this progress he made. "I believe in certain programs which I think represent progress in America. I am going to continue to work for them." We think a Democratic Congress will work for the same things.

An Election?

There wasn't a shadow of a doubt that Gen. Fluencio Batista would be re-elected President of Cuba.

When the press, radio and every other form of communication media is government regulated, and when all steps are taken to deaden any opposition that could render the slightest fight, then what's going to happen does happen.

We read he received a nine-to-one voting margin. We read further that this means his rule seems to be acceptable to the Cuban people.

But just how acceptable, the people never really got to say.

The Fear Of Our Universities

(ACP)—"Campaigning on the University of Chicago is the kiss of death," said representatives of Paul Douglas, candidate for re-election to the Senate from Illinois, as they cancelled his scheduled appearance at a UC rally last week.

A mass meeting originally scheduled in the Fieldhouse was to have also other candidates, all of whom had accepted, the Chicago Maroon reports, and the director of the speakers' bureau of the Democratic party in Cook County had told members of the UC group that Douglas organization on campus to go ahead with the publicity on Douglas' appearance. Douglas Anderson, administrative assistant to Douglas, later cancelled the engagement, saying that the Democratic organization had no jurisdiction to schedule Douglas for anything other than meetings of ward organizations.

In spite of this disappointment, the Maroon says, the Students for Douglas organization on the Chicago campus is continuing its work on behalf of Douglas.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Price a modern home?
I could better afford to commute from Nome.

—Don Rapp

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, News Editor

Feature Editor ..... Joyce Potter
Campus Editors ..... Martin Dyckman, Cheryl Johnson
Sports Editors ..... Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ..... Bob Gunning, Ben Whitmarsh, David Morris
Photographer ..... Land Anderson, Al Robbins

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Telephone 2-8000, extension 6821
211 Language Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

Copy Editors ..... Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusement Editor ..... Andy Anderson
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ..... Con Olsen
Junior Staff ..... George Goldsteln, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Rasnick, Ann Stanley, Jan Bradfield

Mory Lu King, Adv. Mgr.

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17.
Exchange Editor ..... Irma Cox

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

"How Long Do You Think It'll Stay Radioactive?"

A New Song

Jumping Joe

(ACP)—What with elections, recommendations for censure and all else that comprises the wonderful field of politics hovering about us, the Ivory Tower supplement of the Minnesota Daily passes the following verses along. The opening stanza and the chorus were conceived by some unnamed member of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; the remaining verses by a hireling of the Ivory Tower. It should be sung to the tune of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" which may or may not be appropriate.

FIRST VERSE

Mine eyes have seen the glory
Of Wisconsin's jumpin' Joe.
He is tramping on the Communists
And Generals, too, you know
Gen'ral Ike and Gen'ral Wefare
Feel the weight of Joseph's toe.
McCarthy's marching on!

SECOND VERSE

CHORUS

Unity within the Party!
Unity within the Party!
Unity within the Party!
We've got to stand with Joe!

I have seen him coming forward
With committees at his heels.
They have builded him a party
Made of little Tru as wheels,
And they gather at his altar
With their clamorous appeals.
McCarthy's marching on!

REPEAT CHORUS

THIRD VERSE

He has sounded forth his trumpet
With a slightly sour note,
And will fling his reckless charges
Round the vote.

Just to win a single vote.
He's the only party member
Who will always rock the boat.

McCarthy's marching on!

THIRD AND FINAL CHORUS

FIRM STAND TAKEN ON SEGREGATION ISSUE

(ACP)—The Consolidated University of North Carolina is standing now on expression exactly where it stood three years ago, according to The Carolinian, weekly student newspaper of Woman's College, at Greensboro.

Qualified Negroes would be admitted to graduate and professional schools if such schools are not provided by and in the state of North Carolina for such racial groups.

At Carolina, the newspaper states, "two Negro graduate students have been assigned to a particular section of a particular dormitory, and the two rooms adjacent to theirs remain empty."

"Negro students can eat where they choose in Lenoir Hall, sit where they like in the library, and study anywhere in the classrooms."

Governor Umstead's 19-member committee, responsible to the Supreme Court, includes three Negroes prominent in the field of education, the paper reports.

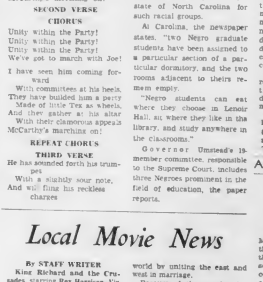
Local Movie News

BY STAFF WRITER

King Richard and the Crusaders, starring Rex Harrison, Virginia Mayo, George Sanders, and Laurence Harvey starts tomorrow and plays through Saturday at the Florida Theater in Tallahassee.

The story concerns the Third Crusade at the end of the 12th Century when with the orders of chivalry at their knightly zenith, Richard the Lion Hearted, King of England, led the European nobles to the Holy Land.

Fighting jealousy and discord among the forces, Sanders as King Richard is gravely wounded by an assassin. He turns for support to Harvey, a fiercely independent Scottish Knight who is loved by Lady Edith, Richard's cousin.



The king is healed by Saladin, falls in love with Lady Edith too and conceives a bold plan to bring peace to the world by uniting the east and west in marriage.

Because of the popular demand for Glenn Miller music brought about by the Glenn Miller Story, two pictures featuring his band will play at the State Theater Wednesday and Thursday.

Sun Valley Serenade, starring Sonja Henie and John Payne, is a musical uniting the Sonja Henie ice-skating and featuring the skating of Miss Henie and her famous troupe.

Orchestra Wives, which stars Miller and his band also, is a story story of the wives of the orchestra members. When this group of ladies get together, many squabbles and feuds ensue as one learns the

Many of the favorites by Miller such as "In The Mood," Little Brown Jug," and Chattanooga Choo Choo," are played in the films.

"Now that you have exchanged and graded papers—do we have anyone who made a '100'?"

A Little Hedging By The Free Press

By BOB FOLSOM

Last Friday before elections, the New York Post ran a full page advertisement supporting the candidacies of the American Labor Party.

The ad was propaganda, roundly denouncing the other parties, while making hay for its own candidates. It was starkly worded, and typical of the stuff dictated by the Communist Party in the Daily Worker.

I suspect the Post was the only daily paper in the city that would run the ad.

If so, it was a characteristic move on the part of the Post, a liberal newspaper that feels an individual or a group has a right to say what he pleases, and will defend that right.

The other dailies, while upholding this ideal, nevertheless bridle in their willingness when it reaches a certain point. It is then merely passed off as being "contrary to policy." In a case like the above, I suppose they feel they don't want to be a party to what obviously is an out and out plan by Communists to help elect leaders in the state government.

The American Labor Party didn't even poll the 50,000 votes required to insure it a place on the ballot in future elections.

It looks like curtains anyway; to get on the ballot for future elections they would have to file 10,000 petitions for reinstatement, a very difficult task for a small party.

And so, New York State, which can lay claim to more political parties within its borders than any other state, has now apparently lost one.

The right, American Labor Party, is misleading. It has been divorced from the labor unions for a number of years.

When it was formed in 1936, it had their support. Gradually, the AFL unions pulled out, and in 1948, what the party supported Henry A. Wallace for president, most AFL unionists believe, during the party was Communist-inspired.

The AFL unions that withdrew later formed the Liberal Party, which has become a useful force in New York State, third in the Democratic and Republican.

The Liberal Party usually allies itself with Democratic candidates, who in turn usually accept the liberal label and support. In the 1952 presidential election it polled over 400,000 votes for Adlai Stevenson.

Precinct Representation Is Suggested

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

It is no secret that interest in student government is at a low point of being neglible.

With this university growing the way it has been, and with student government making a valiant effort to keep up with the physical growth of the school, something must be done to maintain some quality of citizenship on this campus.

The fault does not lie with student government itself. With the active two-party system it has became more controversial than ever. It have been fought more bitterly. The elected officials, as the men go out, are trying ever harder to do better.

We must go to the source of student government to find out why the student body largely ignores it.

And the answer to the question lies in the fact that to this student campus government is a mysterious entity in no way related to them. They do not feel represented. They do not feel a part of it. They do not see that it is concerned with them.

We have not yet, however, reached the heart of the question. Why do the students feel divorced from student government?

The most obvious answer lies in the fact that student government as it is now is not actually representative. There is something wrong with the way Student Senate is elected.

The system of electing senators from the classes is outmoded and stifled at best in only a very small college. Where the interests of the students and the activities they engage in are as diversified as they are here, a better method of representation must be found.

We must amend our Student Body Constitution to elect Senators by precinct instead of by class.

For every two hundred or two hundred and fifty students living in a designated precinct, there would be one senator. This senator would live or live in his precinct.

Fraternity or sorority member and students not living in the various houses would for registration purposes be counted there. They would vote with the Greek letter organizations.

Any student who may be required to register for the purpose of determining his number of senators they would be allowed.

The strongest argument for the plan is that it would increase interest in student government. Students who would ordinarily not vote would have a hard time escaping the ballot box with the election as close to home as it would be under this set-up.

One member of the Student Senate has voiced opposition already. This is something wrong with the present system, he says.

Just what is a single vote. He's the only party member Who will always rock the boat.

McCarthy's marching on!

THIRD AND FINAL CHORUS

McCarthy And The 'Lynching Bee'

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

Yesterday Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy went on trial before the U. S. Senate with all signs that he will become the fourth senator in U. S. history to receive a formal censure by his colleagues.

A Select Committee, headed by Senator Arthur Watkins, has recommended that he be censured on two accounts. The first being that he, (1) Had been contemptuous of, and had obstructed, the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections, which in 1951-52 had investigated his financial dealings. He had denounced, "without reason or justification," a member of that committee, Senator Republican Sen. Robert C. Hendrickson (R-N.J.).

The second charge was that he had acted in an "inexcusable" and "reprehensible" manner toward Brigadier General Ralph Zwicker, who had appeared before the investigating committee as a witness.

The committee's report was a scathing indictment of the Wisconsin Senator for disregarding the principles of democracy, good government, fair play and decency.

For its first grounds of censure the Watkins committee went back to August of 1951 when Connecticut's then Senator William Benton (Dem.) introduced a resolution asking the Senate to consider whether Sen. McCarthy should be expelled.

The questions raised by Benton and others, the committee said, were funda received by McCarthy (1) Due to fight Communism directed to his personal use? (2) Did McCarthy use his position as a member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to obtain a $10,000 loan from the Lustron Corporation? (3) Were close associates and relatives of McCarthy employed or used, for ulterior motives, to secure financial transactions?

Six times McCarthy was asked to appear before the subcommittee and each time he did not, only refused but abused the committee with vile and despicable statement. He called it "contemptible dishonesty" and charged it with stealing public funds by investigating him.

After giving the accused ample thought the censure committee declared that "the failure of the junior Senator from Wisconsin to accept repeated invitations to appear was obstructive of the processes of the Senate." That "it was the opinion of the committee that when the personal honor and official conduct of a member of the United States are in question before a duly constituted committee of the Senate, the senator involved owes a duty to himself, his state and to the Senate to appear promptly and cooperate fully."

In the case of New Jersey's Senator Hendrickson McCarthy said that the New Jersey Senator was a "pitiful fraud, in that he is without question not only unfit to serve in the Who has lived so long with neither brains nor guts." Here Ann Coulter Committee pointed out To the committee this was the worst kind of abuse. The senator has the right to question or condemn in proper language. "But he has no right to impugn the motives of individual senators responsible for official actions, nor to assail their entire personal character for what action they take if the rules and procedures were otherwise, no senator could have freedom of action in the face of such assigned duties," stated the committee.

This first recommendation of the Censure Committee concerned McCarthy as a member of the Senate. The second, however, was a judgment of him as a committee chairman. It was a resounding blast at Chairman McCarthy's methods. It was noted that men who conduct congressional investigations are expected to

Continued On Page 31

Strip Teasers Aren't All Show-Offs

By DAVID DREIS

The art of the striptease has long paid the rent for many performers, but you never know exactly what type these girls are until you get to talk to them and this summer I had that privilege.

I call it a privilege because of the fine personalities some of them have. Few of them are ashamed of their profession. One girl I remember, we'll call Sally to warn her name, but she was pretty typical of her lot of stripteaser specialists—not bar girls.

"I like stripping. It gives me an advantage to show off."

Show off?, I countered. "Yeh. Lots of girls would like to show off but they don't get paid for it, one. My job gives me an excuse." Sally was well-proportioned and in her early twenties. "It amazes me just how many steady customers we have in here and I'm sure they're much less rowdier than in other clubs. Oh, sure we get a few lippy, they're nosey, but on the most part they're good."

In my reporterish tone, I asked, "Where do you get your start if you want to be a strip-teaser—if anybody does?"

"Oh, sometimes girls of age are trying to break into the racket. Lots, for one thing they think they get more money, but in just about the same as in your college. I bet. We just don't show it off as much as they do. All over the country are showplaces have amateur stripteasing, but the girls themselves don't get too much." I blushed. "Oh, sure, strip teasing is an art . . . you've got to know when to put it on and when to take it off . . . you understand don't you?" I nodded.

"—And there's one thing about the girls in this business. You can trust 'em. They won't try to steal your guy or anything like that. As a rule, they're honest and unaffected." Sally admitted to me that she girls probably stick to the straight and narrow because of the reputation strippers usually have. "It's old fashioned to think that way, but most girls are like that. The only way we can get accepted in some communities is by calling ourselves 'exotic dancers' and 'showgirls', but actually we're still 'strippers.'"

Sally's costumes though flimsy were extremely well-made. "This costume is pretty ex-

(Continued On Page 3)

Jimmy Lee Jones, Senior at Jacksonville, receives a hand shake, with play by Lee Hamerington going Sat. after the Tribe assist Furman. Jones will captain Jacksonville eleven this year. Jimmy was injured last year.

More Engaging Foreign Films Will Be Shown By Classic Club

As a result of the current membership program being sponsored by the FSU Film Club, Classics, Housewives, Unlimited family members, and guests from a variety of different countries have all been brought together.

Under the direction of a committee headed by Dr. Adolph Mohr, groups unlike approximately twice a month in Longcope Auditorium. Music Hall. Here the best movies from each country.

The club is non-profit, offering tickets at $2.50 a season, which comes to about 16 cents a show. Membership has been limited to 400 in the past, says Dr. Karl Mohr, with the opening of the Westcott auditorium, a much larger part-season ticket will be available at a reduced rate.

For the present, however, only single seats for the 8:30 showings will be sold. Tickets for the 6:30 shows are not sold.

The next movie will be on November 16, entitled "Condemned Debts," a comedy classic filmed in Germany. Following that, a special children's film of Charlie Chaplin's will be featured, along with several Disney shorts, on December 9.

Foreign films on the schedule include Italian-made "Paisan," a French film, "Orage," and Russia's "Song of the Plains." Maria Candelaria," a Mexican film, "Lavender Hill Mob," British, and a variety of others. The entire schedule of movies and when they're playing can be obtained from Dr. Karl, 418 Westcott Bldg.

The shows usually employ the native language, with English sub-titles. "Most of the well-known classic movies have been shown in the past five years," said Dr. Karl.

Obtained through an extension division of the Florida Film Classics Council, the shows vary in price from $25 to $100, declared Dr. Karl.

He also pointed out that it has only been in the last 10 or 15 years that people have shown such a great interest in foreign films. Concerning them he says, "They have a quality that American films lack, tending to more realism and more realistic in most ways."

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA INITIATES EIGHT

Sigma Alpha Iota, women's honorary music society, initiated eight girls last night at a ceremony.

The new members are Barbara Agee, Sahura Darline, Meredith Dawson, Ruth Maisuda, Mary Passiglia, Rebecca Wood and Anita Woods.

Joanne Poe was in charge of the banquet held at the Silver Slipper following the initiation. A take-off on Hamlet was given to entertain the new initiates.

SEMINOLE CLUB
SNACK BAR
OFFERS
A New Service
THE FOLLOWING ITEMS NOW ON SALE:
RAZOR BLADES, KLEENEX, COMBS, ASPIRIN, CURADS
ADHESIVE TAPE, CHAP STICK, HAIR NETS, FLINTS, LIGHTER FLUID, NAIL CLIPS AND LISTERINE ANTISEPTIC.
SAVE STEPS
SAVE TIME

Rattlers Take North Carolina A and T 14-7

Fans See Winners Came From Behind To Avenge Losses

Over 12,000 fans were on hand Saturday afternoon in Doak Campbell Stadium when Florida A and M preserved their undefeated season thus far with a tight 14-7 homecoming victory over North Carolina A and T with a third period touchdown.

The crowd was one of the largest that A and M has played before at home this year.

Four Rattler fumbles—the first of which set up the A and T score—almost proved their undoing.

The visitors shot to a quick 7-0 lead in the first two minutes of play after recovering the fumble on the A and M 23-yard line. Two plays later, halfback Frank Johnson skirted right end from the 17 for the touchdown.

Following the kickoff, A and M fumbled again with A and T covering, however, a second later. Willie Gallimore, A and M back, intercepted a pass on the Bulldog 42. On the first play from scrimmage on the following series of downs, Gallimore sliced off tackle, got into the Bulldog defensive backfield, eluded two and went the 42 yards for the score.

Ben Jefferson, a substitute quarterback, guided the Rattlers to their winning touchdown late in the third period when he completed passes of 28 and 21 yards. The latter was to Joe Willis for the score.

So far this year, the Rattlers have beaten Texas College 39-14, Benedict 26-6, Morris Brown 27-7, Bethune Yaw 19-0, Xavier 25-6 and A and T.

They have three remaining games.

Last year the Rattlers won nine games and lost one.

The Indonesian National Shipping company announced a 25 per cent reduction in passengers fares for members of the Indonesian Journalists association when on duty, according to the Times of Indonesia. The order took effect October 1.

LIBRARY HOURS HOMECOMING WEEKEND

November 12, Friday — 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.
November 13, Saturday—8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
November 14, Sunday — 2:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m.

From The Sidelines

By Dave Morris
Sports Staff

SCHEDULE SATISFING

Florida State's ten-game 1955 grid slate, recently announced by Director of Athletics Howard Danford, is a satisfing one for fans who have been following the Seminoles since the give game pick-up season in 1947.

In the first season, FSU met and lost to Stetson, Cumberland, Tennessee Poly, Troy State, and Jacksonville State. In 1955, a scant eight years later, the Indians meet Miami, Vill, Georgia, and Georgia Tech on successive weekends. The other six dates are with N. C. State, Louisville, Villanova, Mississippi Southern, Furman, and Tampa.

This line-up should provide some real contests of top intra-sectional interest. The pre-season experts will probably tab the Seminoles to do little better than break even.

The three big foes for next season, Miami, Georgia, and Georgia Tech, are all former conquerers.

The Indians will be making their fourth trip to Miami. The Hurricans won 35-13 in 1951, 27-0 in '53 and triumphed again in a unique practice game last spring 27-6. Southeastern Conference leader, Georgia trimmed the Seminoles 14-0 here early this season. In State's first year of full scholarships, 1952, Orange Bowl found Tech bounced the Tribe 30-0 in Atlanta.

Non-returnees from this year's slate are VMI, Stetson, and Andrew Christian. The Keydets lost their coach and two games in a three year series. Stetson and the FSU meet for the eighth time next Saturday. The Hatters have managed only one win (1947) and a tie (1952). Abilene plays good ball, but is not known in this area.

SCHEDULING NOT EASY

Scheduling is not an easy task for an up-and-coming team. Established powers have little to gain and considerable to lose. They usually meet building teams.

Beating the University of Florida Gators can't be much tougher than scheduling them.

Getting back to this season, the Seminoles are still very much involved in their present schedule, with four games yet to be played.

The Furman Purple Hurricanes bring a 5-3 record to Hilman Stadium Saturday. Included in those five wins is a 7-6 victory over N. C. State. It should be a complete weekend, with State finally getting first wine over the South Carolina Baptist School.

The Nugent men travel to DeLand to meet hapless Stetson on November 20. The Hatters have won only one, while their six foes have averaged thirty-eight points per game. The Seminoles should be able to name their own score.

The biggest obstacle in the way of an 8-3 mark will be Mississippi Southern. The Southerners are currently sporting four wins, including a 7-2 upset of Alabama, against three losses. This Campbell Stadium season finale should be tight.

The Seminoles should wind up the away season with a win at Tampa. The Spartans have rolled up a 5-2 showing, but are short on depth.

Indian's 'Gym' Members Cast In 'Sketchings'

Holder And Ireland Co-Captain Squad For 1954-55 Year

By BOB GUTTING

The following are sketches of members on this year's FSU varsity gymnastic team. As you will note, FSU attracts high school stars from various parts of the country because of an outstanding reputation in the field.

The members:

Don Holder . . . Jersey City, N. J. (Dickenson High) Ht. 5-7 . . . 150 pounds . . . Senior . . . 28 . . . member of the U. S. Olympic team in 1952 . . . second freshman ever to achieve this honor . . . Co-captain for second year . . . married . . . wife is pianist . . . won NAAU Indian club championship 1953 . . . Major Field: Physical education.

Dick Ireland (Monroe) . . . Hast Crest, Ill. (Thurston High) . . . Ht. 5-8 . . . 155 pounds . . . Senior . . . 21 . . . excels on trampoline and in tumbling . . . Co-captains current squad . . . returns for three times . . . should make strong bid for national honors. . . . Major Field: Physical Education.

Dick Miles . . . Philadelphia, Pa. (Germantown High) . . . Ht. 5-8 . . . 145 pounds . . . Senior . . . only graduate student on team . . . competing for FSU for fifth straight year . . . returning letterwinning rings . . . won NAAU rings title in 1951 . . . also excels on trampoline . . . another prospect for 1956 Olympics . . . 24 . . . Major Field: Marketing.

Al Rusk . . . Chicago, Ill. (Senn High) . . . Ht. 5-7 . . . 155 pounds . . . Senior . . . has lettered three years . . . returns letterwinning rings team after one year's absence . . . specializes in tumbling and long horse . . . counted on for some of team's badly needed points . . . graduation is to be a doctor . . . Major Field: Premed.

Jim Fadigan (Big Jim) Atlantic City, N. J. (Holy Spirit High) . . . Ht. 5-9 . . . 158 pounds . . . Senior . . . 22 . . . outstanding all-around . . . Gymkana general chairman . . . lettered three times . . . Major Field: Education.

Jim Tanaka . . . Philadelphia, Pa. (Central High) . . . Ht. 5-6 . . . 150 pounds . . . Senior . . . 22 . . . specializes in rings and high bar . . . will go to flight school after graduation . . . Major Field: Physical Education.

Joe Taylor . . . Philadelphia, Pa. (Germantown High) . . . Ht. 5-6 . . . 135 pounds . . . Sophomore . . . 20 . . . married . . . won 1953 Florida and Georgia AAU rings championships . . . tough in all around . . . Olympic prospect . . . Major Field: Physical Education.

Ted Lorenzana . . . Havana, Cuba . . . only foreign student on team . . . Ht. 5-8 . . . 138 pounds . . . 26 . . . Sophomore . . . 28 . . . married . . . won 1952 Olympic Chosen . . . Major Field: Business Administration.

Jamie Ashmore . . . Dallas, Texas (Jewish High) . . . Ht. 5-4 . . . 113 pounds . . . Junior . . . transferred from University of Illinois . . . Southwestern AAU tumbling champ, 1950, '51, '53 . . . Free exercise long horse and rings champ 1952 . . . Southwestern AAU . . . Major Field: Business Administration.

Jamie Ashmore . . . Dallas, Texas (Jewish High) . . . Ht. 5-4 . . . 113 pounds . . . Junior . . . transferred from University of Illinois . . . Southwestern AAU tumbling champ, 1950, '51, '53 . . . Free exercise long horse and rings champ 1952 . . . Southwestern AAU . . . Major Field: Business Administration.

Ken Harry . . . Denver, Colo. (East High) Ht. 5-8 . . . 145 pounds . . . 19 . . . Freshman . . . Colorado State AAU all-around champ three years in a row 1951-53 . . . favored first in high bar and parallel bar at Colorado AAU two years, 1952-53 on rings . . . married . . . Major Field: English.

Ken Harry . . . Denver, Colo. (East High) Ht. 5-8 . . . 145 pounds . . . 19 . . . Freshman . . . Colorado State all-around champ three years in a row 1951-53 . . . favored first in high bar and parallel bar at Colorado AAU two years, 1952-53 on rings . . . married . . . Major Field: English.

Don Fricker . . . Denver, Colo. (South High) . . . Ht. 5-7 . . . 146 pounds . . . 18 . . . Freshman . . . Colorado State AAU all-around champ three years in a row 1951-53 . . . favored first in high bar and parallel bar at Colorado AAU two years, 1952-53 on rings . . . married . . . Major Field: English.

Don Fricker . . . Denver, Colo. (South High) . . . Ht. 5-7 . . . 146 pounds . . . 18 . . . Freshman . . . lettered two years in high bar and trampoline at state AAU 1954 . . . came to FSU with Hearn because of his high degree of gymnastics offered at this university . . . Major Field: Physical Ed.

Tom MacDonald . . . Brooklyn, New York . . . Ht. 5-6 . . . 135 pounds . . . 19 . . . Sophomore . . . specialty is high bar . . . second year of competition for team . . . should improve greatly this year . . . Major Field: Physical Education.

Information on Jimmy Hanks was unavailable at press time.

The University of Minnesota will work in a "sister relationship" with the National University of Seoul for the next three years, under terms of a contract between the Minnesota school and the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration (FOA).

The contract will send to Korea senior and junior faculty members of the University of Minnesota, and it will bring to the Minnesota campus for periods of six months to a year some of the faculty members from Seoul university, as well as a number of Korean undergraduate and graduate students.

Mr. D. B. Dunlevy, of Buckeye Cotton Oil Company, will be on campus today to interview students majoring in business administration, accounting, chemistry, and physics.

Appointments may be made through Mrs. Turner at 305 Westcott Building.

GYMNASTICS-CAPTAIN—Don Holder, one of this year's gymnastic co-captains, is shown maneuvering on the flying rings. Dick Ireland is the other captain for the 1954-55 season.

Free exercise champ 1953 . . . Texas AAU all-around champ 1954 . . . shooting for 1956 Olympic team . . . Major Field: Physical Education.

Bob Moore . . . Boston, Mass. (Boston High) . . . Ht. 5-9 . . . 155 pounds . . . Freshman . . . 20 . . . married . . . married . . . Major Field: English.

Ken Harry . . . Denver, Colo. (East High) Ht. 5-8 . . . 145 pounds . . . 19 . . . Freshman . . . Colorado State AAU all-around champ three years in a row 1951-53 . . . favored first in high bar and parallel bar at Colorado AAU two years, 1952-53 on rings . . . married . . . Major Field: English.

Don Fricker . . . Denver, Colo. (South High) . . . Ht. 5-7 . . . 146 pounds . . . 18 . . . Freshman . . . lettered two years in high bar and trampoline at state AAU 1954 . . . came to FSU with Hearn because of his high degree of gymnastics offered at this university . . . Major Field: Physical Ed.

Tom MacDonald . . . Brooklyn, New York . . . Ht. 5-6 . . . 135 pounds . . . 19 . . . Sophomore . . . specialty is high bar . . . second year of competition for team . . . should improve greatly this year . . . Major Field: Physical Education.

Information on Jimmy Hanks was unavailable at press time.

The University of Minnesota will work in a "sister relationship" with the National University of Seoul for the next three years, under terms of a contract between the Minnesota school and the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration (FOA).

The contract will send to Korea senior and junior faculty members of the University of Minnesota, and it will bring to the Minnesota campus for periods of six months to a year some of the faculty members from Seoul university, as well as a number of Korean undergraduate and graduate students.

Mr. D. B. Dunlevy, of Buckeye Cotton Oil Company, will be on campus today to interview students majoring in business administration, accounting, chemistry, and physics.

Appointments may be made through Mrs. Turner at 305 Westcott Building.

SCORE A TOUCHDOWN!
MUM FOR THE GAME
CORSAGE FOR HER GOWN!
Pasco's Flowers
"When its Flowers—Say it with Ours"
PHONE 2-8691 or 2-8788
113 W. College Ave.

Strip Teasers

(Continued From Page 1)

good costumes make good performers. They drop at the touch of this clasp. Here—you touch it." As an ambitious youth, I had no idea what I would be doing this day, said, I couldn't we just let me know that you drop, the instant you touch it. Oh, come on, it won't kill you." I touched it, and as my face turned red, I admitted that she was right.

I met a lot of strippers this summer and worked with a lot of them. They're a good group who speak pretty highly of each other. They speak with pride of such ladies as Gypsy Rose Lee, Lily St. Cyr and Lily Cristine. They're glad these names are in the top money, but would rather get married to "a nice boy" than anything else. The only trouble is that "nice boys don't go to strip shows." BURLACK NOISE: In the next column, the listings of the possible Academy Award candidates . . . Dr. Paul Dave really went to great pains to pick his cast for The Beautiful People. The decision on who gets what must've caused him a headache . . . Dick Contine, no longer going with Faye Lacks because of religious difficulties, won him-self a U-I contract . . . George Nader, ex-new-star actor signed by U-I . . . he's pretty serious about Barbara Hawtrey, who's older, but he's in love. . . . she's afraid to put her faith in love again after the wedding with Robert Taylor . . . William Campbell, signed by Columbia, got his brother a contract as well . . . Holy cow! My review of "Charley's Aunt" showed a majority of people on my side for a change. I said the play was good . . . Liberace is set for a film a la "DRAGNET." He plays a concert pianist in a love story starring him.

McCarthy

(Continued From Page 2)

"maintain high standards of fair and respectful treatment." This was in complete contrast to McCarthy's treatment of General Zwicker.

The Senator knew that Zwicker had been ordered by higher authority to honorably discharge Major Irving Peress, even though Peress refused to sign certain loyalty forms.

McCarthy had said that the general "should be removed from any command," was "unfit to wear that uniform" and was "a Fifth Amendment general."

After all the evidence is heard the Senate should have no trouble in censuring the senator from Wisconsin. If any should doubt the wisdom of such an act, let them look to the days of Woodrow Wilson. Michigan and Illinois where adherents of Sen. McCarthy were defeated in the recent elections.

EMBARRASSED BY LOOSE DANDRUFF? WILDROOT CREAM-OIL REMOVES IT! ☆ KEEPS HAIR NEAT ALL DAY.

On Campus with Max Shulman
(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

THE INTELLIGENCE QUOTIENT OF NED FUTTY

Chloe McCloskey was a beautiful coed who majored in psych and worked in the I.Q. testing department of the university. She did not work there because she needed money; she worked there because she loved and admired intelligence above all things. "I love and admire intelligence above all things," is the way she succinctly put it.

Ned Futty, on the other hand, was a man who could take intelligence or leave it alone. What he loved and admired above all things was girls. "What I love and admire above all things is girls," is the way he put it.

One day Ned saw Chloe walking by on the campus. "Holy Toledo!" he exclaimed. "How sweetly flows that loqueficon of her clavicle!"

The following day as he saw her walking past again, "Great balls of fire!" he exclaimed. "Next, when I cast mine eyes and see that brave vibration dost grow within me, I shall be transported!"

When he saw her again the next day, he could no longer contain himself. He ran up and threw wide his arms and legs and, tugging his forelock, "I am Ned Futty and I love you beyond the saying of it. Will you be mine?"

She looked at his quarter-inch haircut, his black rimmed glasses, his tweedy hound's-tooth check jacket, his tattered flannels, his decomposing tennis shoes. "You are not anattractive," she admitted, "but for me beauty is not enough. Intelligence is what I require in a man."

"I'm smart as a whip!" said Ned with a modest blush. "Back home everybody always said, 'You got to get up pretty early in the morning to get ahead of Ned Futty.'"

"Maybe so," said Chloe, "but if you don't mind, I'd like to make sure. Will you come to the I.Q. testing department with me?"

"With you I would go into a mallet milk machine," cried Ned Futty and laughed and smote his thighs and bit Chloe's nape in an excess of passion and high spirits. Scampering goatlike, he fastened her into the I.Q. testing department.

"First I will test you very roughly," said Chloe.

"Shoot!" said Ned gally and licked her face.

"What does pneumonoultramicroscopicsilicovolcanoconiosis mean?"

"Beats me," he confessed cheerily.

"How about syphilis?"

"Never heard of it," smiled Ned, plunging his face into her clavicle.

"Portsley?"

"With fer on?" said Ned doubtfully.

Chloe sighed. "How are you on arithmetic?" she asked.

"A genius," he assured her.

"What's the difference between a nomenator and a denominator?"

"My feeling exactly!" said Ned with an approving nod. "What's the difference?"

"If a man saves fifty dollars a month," said Chloe, "and saves 12% of his earnings, how long would it take him to save $100?"

"Forever," said Ned. "Who can save anything on $60 a month?"

"How do you find a source rose?"

"How should I know?" replied Ned, giggling. "I'm no square."

"How are you on English?" asked Chloe.

"I speak it fluently," said Ned with smart pride.

"What is the present participle of 'write'?"

"Wrote," replied Ned, clutching Chloe to him and dancing 32 bars of the Mexican.

"Next I will test you for manual dexterity," said Chloe. She handed him a board punched full of oddly shaped holes and a handful of oddly shaped pegs. "Fit the pegs in the holes," she instructed him.

"Let's neck instead," suggested Ned.

"Maybe later," said Chloe. "First the pegs."

He finished about four hospital intervals. Finally he tired of it and reached for Chloe.

But she fended him off. "Ned Futty," she said, "you are dumb. You have the highest dumbness score of anybody I have ever tested. Consequently I am leaving your girl, for I love and admire intelligence above all things."

His hurtful himself on the floor and clasped her about the knees. "But I love you!" he cried in anguish. "Do not send me from you, or you will make me the world a sunless place—full of dim and fearful shapes!"

"I am sorry," she answered, "but you are too dumb."

"Reconsider, maiden," he begged, "like a minion loome before me."

"No," she said coldly.

Spent and speechless, he struggled to his feet. With leaden steps he made his painful way to the door. There he stopped and lit a cigarette. Then he opened the door and started away to his gray and gritty future.

"Stay!" called Chloe.

He turned.

"Was that," she asked, "a Philip Morris you just lit?"

"I am," he said.

"Then come to me and be my love!" cried Chloe joyously. "For you are not dumb! You are sweet! Anybody is smart to smoke Philip Morris with its fine vintage tobacco, its cool-raising solidness, its superior taste, its snap-open pack. Ned, lover, give me a cigarette and carry me away!"

And they smoked happily ever after.

© The Makers, 1954

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarettes.

HARVEST MOON WINNERS—Bobbye Craig, surrounded by Chris Gnecchi holding crown) and Hazel Jackson, was crowned Queen of the Reynolds Hall Harvest Moon Ball Friday night. Tying for second were Missies Gnecchi and Jackson who were named maids of honor. Voting was done by Reynolds Hall residents.

HELP WANTED

FRESHMEN—Help me win a seat in Men's Student Senate. Six of us in race. Vote for three including me!

BILL ROCHE.

HOMECOMING DECORATION SUPPLIES
at
MALONE'S BOOK STORE
PAPER — TAPE
SCISSORS — PASTE
PAINTS — TACKS
"Everything for the Student!"
107 S. COPELAND

CANTERBURY CLUB

There will be an open house at Rure Hall during the intermission of the Homecoming Dance. All those people interested in helping with the Homecoming decorations are asked to contact John McGowan. There will be a dessert supper instead of the usual supper on Sunday night of Homecoming weekend.

Plan to meet the Rev. Harcourt Waller, our new chaplain, who will arrive on November 15. There will be a reception in his honor, Sunday, November 21 from 4:00 until 6:00 p. m. There will be no supper that evening.

Services for this week:

Wednesday Holy Communion at 7:00 a. m.

Sunday Morning Prayer at 11:00 a. m. No 8:00 service this Sunday.

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES
FLORIDA
TODAY
"Ring of Fear"
Pat O'Brien
WED. and THURS.
"King Richard and the Crusaders"
Rex Harrison
Virginia Mayo
STATE
TODAY
"SABRINA"
William Holden
Audrey Hepburn
Humphrey Bogart
WED. and THURS.
'Sun Valley Serenade'
plus
Glenn Miller
'Orchestra Wives'
PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
TODAY and TOMORROW
"Indiscretions of American Wife"
Jennifer Jones
THURSDAY
"Beat the Devil"
Humphrey Bogart
"Rachel and the Strangers"
Robert Mitchum
CAPITOL DRIVE-IN ON WOODVILLE HWY.
TODAY and TOMORROW
"House of Wax"
Vincent Price
THURSDAY
"Phantom Stallion"
Rocky Allan
Also
"Sombrero"
Richard Mantalban
Cyd Charisse

Frieden To Receive $7400 Grant-In-Aid For Special Studies

A National Science Foundation grant of $7400 for a two-year investigation of properties of ascorbic acid oxidase, an important plant enzyme, has been awarded Dr. Earl Frieden, associate professor of chemistry at Florida State University.

Dr. Frieden said that the enzyme is one of the most important catalysts of plants, functions in some animal systems, and is known to serve as a terminal oxidase in plants. Terminal oxidases are involved in the utilization of oxygen in both plants and animals," he noted.

"Their importance is indicated by the fact that when the activity of a terminal oxidase is blocked that is, by cyanide, life quickly ceases," explained Dr. Frieden.

Chemistry department spokesmen said that Dr. Frieden laid the groundwork for the successful grant application on his study of ascorbic acid oxidase with several publications on the subject written in collaboration with Barbara Nalle, graduate student in Biochemistry at FSU.

Tait Made Member Recreation Group

The appointment of Dr. William J. Tait, dean of men at Florida State University recreation curriculum, as a member of the Finance Committee for the National Recreation Society was announced this week by the society president.

The American Recreation Society is composed of 2200 professional recreation leaders and administrators employed by governmental agencies, hospitals, institutions, industrial firms and voluntary organizations. The society has helped to raise the quality of professional leadership since its organization.

Opalak Announces Plans For Initiation Of Sigma Delta Pi

Sigma Delta Pi, Florida State University Spanish honorary fraternity, will hold initiation for 30 new members on November 30, announced social program chairman, Ann Opalak.

The group held an "All-King Meeting" early this week at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Graydon S. DeLand, during which Spanish music by record, piano and marimba and Miss Opalak.

Sigma Delta Pi officers are Edith Foster, president; Dorothy Hoppman, vice-president; Verlan Stitt, secretary and treasurer; Miss Opalak and Dr. DeLand, sponsor.

Dr. Victor R. Oeschlager, professor and head of the FSU modern language department, recently spoke to the fraternity on Colombian Literature: Discoveries Old and New."

INSURANCE & Real Estate Club

The Insurance and Real Estate Club of Florida State University will hold a regular meeting this evening at 8:30 in Dunlap Hall 45. All persons interested in becoming members are urged to attend.

SURPRISE REVEALED

Starting November 18 on Thursday nights, students may join friends for an evening of tennis, shuffleboard or fencing instruction, it will be given, if necessary, and everyone will have a nice enjoyable evening, announced the University Recreation Association

LOOK!
Do You Go Three Places to Work Of Course Not!
Then Why Go Three Places With Your Laundry and Dry Cleaning?
30 MINUTE FLUFFY WASH
90 MINUTE WASH & DRY
Beautiful Dry Cleaning and Laundry Finishing
YOUR
SPEEDY WEE WASH-IT LAUNDRY
629 W. Tennessee St. Phone 2-1878
Tallahassee, Florida

Make Your Own Lovely BEAD ROPES
as featured in "LIFE"
$3.00
60 inches of glittering multi-colored beads in various shapes and sizes. A kit complete with wire, thread, clasp and easy-to-follow instructions. Sets you up in business in the bead craze so you DIY campus! It's elegant for Dances and Teens; found any place that can make a move for stringing as impressive.
Just Mail $3.00
Plus 20¢ Postage To
VI BROWN
146 East 49th Street
New York, N. Y.
ORDER NOW
Name
Address
City State

Philosophy Club Officers Elected At First Meeting

Officers for the newly-formed Florida State University Men's Philosophy Club were elected at an organizational meeting Thursday night in 406 Longmire Building.

Officers are Phil Springer, president; Jack Norton, vice-president; Marcella Trunzo, secretary-treasurer and Dr. Grace Calins of the philosophy department, faculty advisor.

Executive secretary Trunzo commented on the purpose of the new club. "It is hoped that through a series of lectures sponsored by the club and given by numerous authorities in the different departments relating the philosophical implications of their particular fields, a broader conception of contemporary philosophy may be obtained by the students," he declared.

President Springer added that the lectures will begin as soon as the Philosophy Club receives its charter from the student government.

Vance

(Continued From Page 1)

of real service in supporting the public educational system of Florida. He added, "I am naturally interested in anything having to do with education and the schools."

Vance came to FSU in 1928 as assistant professor of English and journalism. He taught the first courses in journalism offered here, and in the years that followed developed the work into a broad, liberal arts department designed to prepare students planning to enter journalism as a responsible profession.

Under his direction the department was outstanding for its development of serious liberal arts studies and avoidance of superficial vocationalism.

Larger numbers of his graduates have taken positions on important national newspapers and magazines including the New York Times, Ladies Home Journal, Saturday Magazine, and many others, in addition to state and local newspapers.

Professor Vance himself has written widely. Some 30 articles of his, mainly on educational and professional topics have appeared in more than 20 publications. In his writing, as in his teaching, he has always insisted that education is an important function and that students, when properly taught, have a real preference for substantial courses.

It is as a teacher that Professor Vance is best known to FSU students. For almost a generation it has been proverbial among the thousands of students who have sat in his classes, that there one can expect important reading matter, relevant to understanding and appreciating the contemporary world, to look at and discuss from every point of view, important reading matter relevant to understanding and reporting.

In tribute to his ability as a teacher, FSU students in 1950 dedicated their yearbook to him, as they wrote in the inscription, "because he realizes the purpose of a University and because he made us realize that learning does not stop with the final bell nor education with a diploma."

President

(Continued From Page 1)

hoff's public refusal to hold a special junior class election for the purpose of helping him to choose a replacement for Mary Louise Dee, who did not return to school to occupy her seat in Women's Senate. The Student Senate, after rejecting Nimkoff's first choice of a replacement, suggested he hold such an election.

The Halford Traffic Bill provides for suffering the penalties traffic court may impose for traffic violations, and also provides for an automatic penalty which would increase the longer the fine were not paid. This automatic penalty, under the provisions of the bill could be appealed in the Traffic Court.

The Halford bill also provides for notification of a student's dean for disciplinary action if the student receives 3 or a summons to Traffic Court and a first warning.

If the Halford bill is passed, Traffic Court would be empowered to impose a "Contempt of Court" fine up to two dollars upon students who ignore summonses to the court.

Up for Senate approval is a resolution to be introduced by Halford Committee which asks the Administration to make the street running from the Library to the Fine Arts Building, which passes Westcott Auditorium and the narrow street which runs from Westcott Fountain circle. The thoroughfare which the Halford Committee requests be made one-way is one of the most congested on campus.

Senate meets tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 in the legislative chamber, second floor, Longmire Building.

State Symphony Begins Seventh Season In Westcott December 2

By JERI BRADFIELD

On Thursday, December 2 the State Symphony of Florida will begin its seventh season, by presenting a Christmas concert. The concert will be presented in the new Westcott Auditorium, provided the construction is completed by that time. Otherwise the concert will be held in the Tallahassee Municipal Auditorium.

The following three concerts will be presented in the new auditorium.

The opening concert will include America's favorite Christmas music and songs in a Christmas candlelight atmosphere. Also on scheduled for the first concert are two movements of Brahms's Fourth Symphony and Weber's ever Euryanthe Overture.

The featured soloist of the evening will be Wendell Barthold, tenor. Wendell is a junior in the School of Music here at Florida State. He has an exceptionally fine voice, which has offered him many opportunities for success in the past.

Last summer, Mr. Barthold traveled to New York City, where he engaged in various auditions. He was offered a job singing in summer stock. He was also offered a contract for $200 per week with MGM. The contract gave Mr. Barthold the opportunity to study voice and dramatics with the MGM studio, and so be a screen test. He declined the offers, believing it best to complete his college career first.

The second concert to be presented by the State Symphony of Florida will be given on February 24. This presentation will be the world premiere of the opera "Seasnah." This opera was written by Carlisle Floyd, who is on the teaching staff of the Florida State University School of Music. Mr. Floyd's opera was entered in a nation-wide contest and his was chosen as one of the three best scores of all which were submitted in the contest.

The score of this opera was shown to Mack Harrell, baritone in the Metropolitan Opera, and Phyllis Curtin, leading soprano in the New York City opera. They liked the music so well, that they decided to come down to FSU for the premiere and take the leads. This journey will be a sacrifice for these two operatic stars, but their great interest in the opera overwrotes that situation. For their week of rehearsals here, they will be receiving the same salary that they would receive if they were only working three hours in New York.

Miss Curtin scored her greatest personal triumph in opera in the spring of 1954, when she enacted the title role of Strauss's "Salome" with the New York City opera. Her manifested performance caused Life magazine to devote several pieces of pictures to the young artist.

Mr. Harrell has recently been acclaimed for his singing in Alban Berg's Wozzeck, in Milhaud's Les Choephores, in Rossini's L'Inganno Espozzale, in Beethoven's Nine Symphony, and in Schubert's Die Winterreise.

Last year, the Service League of Tallahassee, who is the sponsor for these concerts, presented over $1300 to the University Symphonia, to be used for scholarships only. The entire proceeds of this season's symphony ticket sales will go to the University Symphony and to the Service League of Tallahassee for the Vance Fund.

Season tickets may be purchased from Members of the Service League, Bargain Boot, South Adams, Jenkins Music Co., 123 S. Monroe, Gridley Music Co., 111 W. College, FSU School of Music Office or Mrs. Phil Brock, Jr., 2014 Gold Trail, phone 2-3038.

The season tickets may be purchased for $3.00. There will be no individual, student, or complimentary tickets sold this year, for the concerts.

The Opperman Music Hall was completely sold out of area this year for these concerts and approximate hope that all the seats in Westcott Auditorium will be filled this season.

The State Symphony of Florida is an organization primarily consisting of graduate students who are ably assisted by some members of the faculty of the School of Music and some well-qualified undergraduate students.

Tallahassee Junior 'Chorus' Gives First 54 Concert Tonight

The Tallahassee Junior Chorus will present its first concert of the year, tonight at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall. No admission will be charged.

A varied program will include selections from Mendelssohn's Elijah and from the Opera, Hansel and Gretel. The latter will feature a flute accompaniment by FSU students Susan Lucas and Rebecca Wood.

Jane Harris is also on the program singing panalina from songs of the African Veldt in French folk songs.

The Chorus, which is in its fifth year of organization, is composed of students, grades four through six, from the various grammar schools in the city. The children sing arrangements both in unison and three part harmony.

Miss Lois Schnoor, the group's director, feels that the program will be of particular interest to future public school teachers and administrators. "They should have an idea of the musical capacity of children," said Miss Schnoor.

The piano accompanist is FSU student Pat Cummins.

BAPTIST NEWS

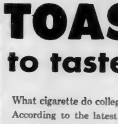
The theme for this week is "Sounding the Trumpet" and the schedule for the week is as follows:

Friday night: I. S. S. at 6:00 p. m. at the Student House.

Sunday: BMOC at 8:30 a. m. at the Student House.

Tuesday: Training 7 to 9:30 a. m. There will be Meditation and at 6:30 p. m. Vespers. Mr. Fred Vogel will speak.

Special events include an Open House after the Pow Wow and a hay ride "The Sky's the Limit" Saturday night.



PICTURES DUE FOR TALLY-HO

Wednesday will be the last day for ordering picture proofs for the Tally-Ho. Failure in have them in will mean that the pictures will not appear in the yearbook.

Be Ready for Homecoming
Get Your Rings & Jewelry
Cleaned & Checked
FREE
at DEAN'S
Expert Watch & Jewelry Repair
Room 12, Child Bldg.
109 W. College Ave.
Phone 2-3598

Welcome Alumni
Get Your Mums for the Game From the "F" Club Girls On Sale at the Gate GET YOUR CORSAGES FROM ELINOR DOYLE
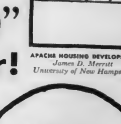
Phone 2-1297



STATE
202 S. Adams

HALF DOLLAR JOINING MARCH OF DIMES
Garth Seager,
Western Illinois State College

LITTLE BOY TAKING DATE FOR DECALCOS ARE Elaine Mae Rubenstein
Brooklyn College

A POOR BUTTERFLY
Julie Hammond
Michigan State Normal College

ANT COMPLETING HOME RUN —TEAMMATES WAITING TO CONGRATULATE HIM
Max Crabe
University of North Carolina

What makes a Lucky taste better?

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

What cigarette do college students go for? According to the latest, biggest coast-to-coast survey, students prefer Luckies to all other brands. And once again, the No. 1 reason is better taste. Of course Luckies taste better. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Try a pack. Maybe you'll be as fortunate as the student in the Droodle to the right, titled: Lucky smoker . . . faulty cigarette vending machine. Even if you're not, you'll enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

APACHE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT
Ronald D. Merrell
University of New Hampshire

BOY FLYING KITE FROM UPSTAIRS WINDOW
Vernon W. Symonds
Kansas State College

STUDENTS! EARN $25!
Lucky Droodles are pouring in! Where are yours? We pay $25 for all we use, and for many we don't use. So, send every original Droodle in your noodle, with its descriptive title, to Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.
"DROODLES, Copyright, 1954, by Roger Price

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!

©A.T.Co. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Homecoming Edition

The Florida Flambeau

FSU Plays Furman Tomorrow (See Sports Page)

VOL. XL NO. 14 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1954

Pow-Wow, Game, Dance Highlight FSU Homecoming

Homecoming Dance Slated In Suwannee

Eberle To Provide Music For Dance Which Ends At 1

By WILLIE SMITH
See Eberle Story Page 111

"Moon Light and Roses" will be the theme for Florida State University's eighth Homecoming Dance to be held tomorrow night in the Suwannee Room from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The dance will feature the music of Ray Eberle and his orchestra.

Eberle's band will join the ranks of six other bands who have played at FSU Homecomings. In 1947, Hal McIntyre opened the music at the first Homecoming after FSU became a co-educational institution. Gene Monroe was the feature attraction in 1948, followed by Buddy Martin in 1949, Charlie Spivak in '50 and '53, Tex Beneke in 1951, and Sammy Kaye in 1952.

Chairmen of the dance are Ed Smith and Robert Foley. Thousands of imitation roses will be used to provide decorations for the dance. The roses will be intertwined with smilax and will form white trellises at each end of the dance floor. A large smilax will decorate the back part of the bandstand and will also extend part way over the stage.

There will be a smaller trellis in front also, stated Del Smith, chairman of the decorations committee. Assisting Smith are Virginia Robson, Margaret Donaldson, Margaret Ann Ballinger, Hans Tews, Martha Garrett, Dick Bittner, Dave Rallman, and Jim Crews.

The Queen and her court will be crowned at 10:30 by Bob Strode, Master of Ceremonies. Strode will present the Queen with her court with silver plates.

Corsages for the dance will be optional. Other committees for the dance are: invitations, Donna Lou Harper, chairman, and Mary Ann Matthews; publicity, Jimmy Jeanes, chairman; concessions, Alfred Shaw; and chaperones, Mrs. Harper Advisor, Mrs. Pauline Dutchburst.

Tickets have been on sale since November 4 at the Student Center and Westcott building according to John Howard, ticket chairman. The price of the tickets are $3.00 a couple. Only 1150 couple tickets will be sold and by all indications will be a sell out before the dance. Tom Simmons, the Suwannee Council, The Alpha and Betty Davis are handling Howard in the sale of tickets. It was pointed out by Howard that ticket sales will continue until 1 a.m.

Eberle was hired by the late Glenn Miller as featured singer at the age of 18. During the 40's war years, Eberle constantly won vocalist polls and was regarded as one of the top singers in the country. He can be heard on many of Miller's best and most popular recordings.

Eberle was featured twice a week on the Chesterfield program as a guest-conductor. He also appeared in two 20th Century Fox musicals "The Glenn Miller Serenade" and "Orchestra Wives."

Among the many places Eberle appeared were the Palmer Theater and Statler Hotel in New York City, The Palace in Chicago, Cocoanut Grove and Chicago Theaters in Boston.

Eberle went out on his own for before the war. He made many feature films and at one Universal and was signed by his own CBS show from Hollywood. The ex-trumpeter has had his fast rising career as a solo star.

After the war, Eberle formed his present band and has become one of the mid-west's most popular bands. He has also featured twice a week on ABC-TV. Eberle has combined his trombeading with his singing. Other singers to do this are Tommy Mongco and Bob Eberle's brother, Bob. He appeared with Jimmy Dorsey many years as vocalist.

NO RAIN

We've had rain for the past few years for Homecoming. The Meteorology Department and the University Chaplain are happy to announce that it will be fair and sunny this weekend.

Special Invitations have been extended to the classes of '19, '20, '29, '39, '40, '41 and '54, however, it is open to all alumni.

Dr. Poling, author, clergyman, and editor, is President of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, an international movement more than 50 years old, and a leader of Christian youth.

As a member of the President's committee on religion and welfare in the Armed forces, Poling received distinguished service awards from the American Legion, American Federation of Labor and B'nai B'rith for his contribution to inter-race and inter-faith understanding.

Until recently he was pastor of Philadelphia's Baptist Temple. Dr. Poling is now chief of the Chapel of Four Chaplains, Temple University.

Toastmaster for the banquet will be Robert Canada. Dr. Samuel Noel, University Chaplain, will give the invocation following by the Welcome by Peter Nimcoff, President of the Student Body.

Dean S. Campbell, president of FSU, will introduce the honor guests. Honor members of the Garnet and Gold Key organizations will be introduced by Joan Setzer and Robert Foley, respectively.

Mr. William Meigs, president of FSU Alumni Association, will introduce the guest speaker, Dr. D. A. Poling.

Notable groups attending the banquet include members of the Congressional Delegation, Cabinet, Legislature, Board of Directors, Supreme Court, and of the Alumni Association.

The University Symphony will perform before serving time, under the direction of Robert Bodine.

KEEP CAMPUS CLEAN

Counselor of Student Activities, Fred J. Vogel, has requested that the students keep the campus extra clean during Homecoming weekend. All decoration posters should come down.

(Continued on page 4)

DOES IT REALLY PUMP WATER?—Candidates for 1954 Homecoming Queen inspect Homecoming decorations at Wad Hall, Florida State University's new men's dormitory. Left to right are John Blackburn, dorm counselor; Margaret Ann Ballinger and Farrell DeWitt, candidates; Harry Hall, assistant counselor; Fred Peacock, resident; Betty Ann Monroe, Dean Jackson and Betty Wilson, residents; and resident Nona Tew. Identity of queen will be revealed tonight at Pow Wow, while campus decoration will be judged today at 4 and 9 p.m. Residents maintain that the above decoration is a floor mill, not windmill.

Flashbera staff photo by Laird Anderson

Poling To Be Featured Speaker At Annual Garnet-Gold Banquet

Dr. Daniel A. Poling of New York City, will be guest speaker at the annual Garnet and Gold Key pre-game banquet from 5:15 to 7:30 p. m. in the Suwannee Room

Daniel A. Poling

'Flying Seminoles' Perform Tomorrow In Halftime Show

By MARTY REEVES

The "Flying Seminoles," who can be seen "whooping it up" on football game halftimes and many other places, assume the role of two planefuls, Ed Prusaitis and Dick Puckett, when they are not performing.

Hailing from Miami, these two sophomores began their routine together over five years ago at Miami Jackson High School, where they were known as the "Flying Twisters."

Tomorrow, they plan to perform at the Homecoming Game, although Dick is currently suffering from a fractured foot he got while practicing. Imitating a bullfight, their skit will be in the tune of "Malaguena," in harmony with the Spanish theme of the Marching Chiefs' show, and will last only 90 seconds.

They hope to do a longer version of the same act next summer in New York, where they will attend a convention of the Dance Masters of America.

The two Delta Tau Delta boys' activities are not limited to skits, however; for they also have charge of the Seminole Twirling Club in the marchings and give private lessons in the afternoons. In addition, they judge at dancing and twirling contests throughout the state of Florida.

Both at FSU as scholarships, the 19-year-olds also do modern com-

Freshmen Cast More Votes In Final Elections

Teschke Elected In Run-Offs For Class Presidency Of '54

With more members of their class voting in Tuesday's run-offs than in the primaries of a week ago, Ronnie Blue, Hank McCann, Bill Swigert, Polly Atwater, Lib Cleve and Judy Dunn were elected Freshman Senators.

Graham Teschke was elected presidenl, defeating Karl Edwards. Joan Hennann won out over Tom Speer for the class vice-presidency; Mary Louise Peacock defeated Martha Dillard for class secretary; and Barbara Jean Little defeated Deanna Talley for the treasurer's job.

According to Elections Secretary, Betty Jo Green, 812 ballots were cast. Eight hundred and ten voted in last Tuesday's primaries. Although the difference is not great, because in elections usually declines markedly following the primaries, last year's Freshman Class elections, only 691 voted in the run-offs after 873 marked ballots in the primaries.

In the Men's Senate race Ronnie Blue polled 440 to win. Hank McCann won with 461 and Bill Swigert was elected by 412. Other candidates were Charles Baird, 228; Bill Roche, 319; and Bill Strickland, 366.

In the race for the three women's Senate seats Patsy Dunn, who led her nearest competitor by over 100 votes in the primaries, scored 461 to win. Polly Atwater had 406 vote. The third Senator-elect, Polly Atwater, garnered 358, to win a plurality. Other candidates in the run-offs were Beci Braun, 319; Suzy Culpepper, 340, and Cleve Townsend, 304.

Graham Teschke's 432 to 366 victory over Karl Edwards for the Freshman Class presidency and Barbara Jean Little's 414 to 343 defeat of Pat-sy Talley for the Treasurer's job were the widest margins in the races for class officers. Joan Hennemann defeated Tom Speer for the vice-presidency by 43 votes, 418 to 375, while Mary Louise Peacock edged out Martha Gelsmad in the secretary's race by a scant 11 votes, 378 to 367.

The Elections Secretary said Tuesday night she was "pleased

Judges to Review Homecoming Decorations Today At 4 And 9

Judging of the Homecoming house decorations will begin at 4 p. m. and again at 9 p. m. today, announced Mr. Ivan Johnson, Decorations Committee chairman.

The four winners, to be disclosed at Saturday's game, will represent the categories of fraternity houses, sorority houses, men's dormitories and women's dormitories.

Trophies will be given, which the winner may keep until the following year.

Should a residence unit win for three successive years, they are entitled to keep the trophy permanently, officials disclosed.

In judging, the committee will consider such things as originality and creativeness, organization in arrangement, interpretation of theme and school spirit, clarity of idea, and artistic effect, said Mr. Johnson. He added that the amount of money spent on the decorations will in no way influence the decisions of the judges.

Any residences not affiliated with FSU and devoted solely to students, having submitted a written entry blank on or before October 27 was eligible. Residence units must not spend more than $50.

In carrying out their theme, the residence members were asked by Mr. Johnson to follow the dictates of "good taste and reasonable decorum." Failure to meet this responsibility will result in disqualification from this, as well as future, contests.

Made up of 13 people, the Decorations Committee is composed of alumni and prominent people in the Tallahassee area, many of whom have had past experience in judging displays.

Sorority Celebrates 25th Year At FSU

Alpha Omega chapter of Alpha Xi Delta, national social sorority, will celebrate its 25th year on campus, this week-end. Special activities will include an open house after the game in North Cawthon and a breakfast Sunday morning in South Cawthon.

Honor guests will be alumni, including several charter members. Mrs. R. F. Mikell of Miami, president of the Florida State Alpha Xi Delta building corporation will be speaker at the breakfast.

The Alpha Xi's plan to be in their new house on Park Avenue in several weeks. Awards will be presented to outstanding alumni.

Alums Return For New View Of Old Sights

By JERI BRADFIELD

Homecoming, when traditionally provides an opportunity for graduates to return to their alma mater, is running true to form at Florida State University.

Among the numerous out of state guests who are present here for the Homecoming festivities are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lambert, from Mount Berry, Georgia. Dr. Lambert is the President of Mount Berry College, and Mrs. Lambert, who is the former Sylvia Kinney, graduated from Florida State College for Women.

Dr. and Mrs. Lambert are the honor guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Moor, of Tallahassee, during their stay here. Mrs. Moor, the former Beth Walton, is also a graduate of FSCW. Mrs. Lambert and Mrs. Moor were classmates when they were in college.

Also present for the Homecoming is the President of the Alumni Association of Florida State University, Bill Meigs, from Niceville, Jordan.

Traveling all the way from New York to enjoy the festivities is Dr. C. Merrydee Rowell, who is known as an accomplished M. D.

Miss Margaret Jean Parham, a 1953 graduate of FSU, will be on hand to view the Homecoming football conflict. Miss Parham is the first graduate of the FSU Special Service Department, in which the school cooperates with the Air Force in training the students in their particular field. Miss Parham is connected with the Sqlin Air Force Base, located at Valparaiso, Florida, and she is making arrangements for a group of Air Force men to come here for Homecoming.

Governor-elect and Mrs. Leroy Collins of Florida are expected to attend the various festivities offered in the 1954 Homecoming celebration. Mrs. Collins is returning to her alma which is FSCW.

Coming from Pennsylvania to enjoy the excitement is Mr. W. C. Whitner, a 1907 graduate. Mr. Whitner is one of the oldest

(Continued on page 6)

Groups Enter Forty Floats In Parade, Today

Starts At 2 p.m.; Said To Be Largest Ever Held At FSU

Forty campus organizations will be represented in the annual Homecoming Parade this afternoon. It will be the largest ever held at Florida State University, said parade chairman Robert Brannagel.

Featured in the parade will be the five finalists in the contest for Homecoming Queen, Dress Jackson, Fernel DeWitt, Margaret Ann Ballinger, Betty Wilson, and Betty Ann Munroe.

At 1 p.m. the parade will leave Westcott Gate, move down College to Adams Street, Adams to Pensacola Street and up to Monroe. From Monroe the parade will move on to Virginia Street where it will officially end.

Awards for the Most Beautiful and Most Original floats will be announced at the Pow Wow tonight. Winning floats last year were Gamma Phi Beta, and Sigma Nu. Most beautiful and Delta Delta Delta and Pi Kappa Alpha, most original.

Leading the parade will be the Color Guard, both the Air Force and Army ROTC and the FSU Band. They will be followed by the President Campbell and his guests and the Queen's float.

Other floats, in order of their appearance will include the Industrial Arts Club, Pi Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Phi, Future Teachers Association (2 or 3 floats).

Delta Zeta, Alpha Delti Pi, Phi Delta Theta, Delta Education (1 car), Alpha Chi Omega, Kappa Alpha, Alpha Omicron Pi, Delta Gamma, Seabridge Band, Chi Omega, Kappa Delta.

Sigma Alpha Iota, Sigma Nu, Sigma Chi, Tarpon, Spiralaires (5 cars), Phi Mu, Sigma Chi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Circle "K" Club, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Gamma Delta, Leon High School Band, School of Nursing.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Florida Methodist Student House, Alpha Xi Delta, Tarpon Club (1 car), Zeta Tau Alpha, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Sigma Phi, West Hall (2 cars), Kappa Sigma, Delta Delta Delta, Phi Kappa Tau and Theta Chi.

All floats will meet at the Doak Campbell Stadium at 1:30 p.m. today for safety checking.

'54 Pow Wow Scheduled For Stadium, 8:15

'Skit Contest' And Crowning, Fireworks Will Be On Agenda

Pow Wow, Florida State University's annual gala Homecoming event, begins tonight at 8:15 in Doak S. Campbell Stadium.

Students, alumni and FSU supporters are expected to converge at the stadium for the game-eve festivities. Events will include fireworks crowning, of the Homecoming Queen and music by the FSU band, "The Marching Chiefs." A bonfire and pep rally will be held outside the stadium immediately afterwards.

The main improvement in the Pow Wow this year, said chairman Jack Haskin, is that it will be continuous. "It will be a faster moving show," he declared. He expects the festivities to last approximately 45 minutes, after which the pep rally will begin. Featured at the rally will be the team, cheerleaders, coaches and Marching Chiefs.

The Pow Wow is scheduled to begin with a salute to the governor, followed by the Circus-ettes, a dancing team from the FSU circus, "Flying High." Dancers will be Sue Herndon, Ann Callahan, La Veira Armstrong, Louis Nell Hopkins, Barbara Christman, Virginia Cooke, Laura Eller, Ruth Ann Whittle, Jane Simon, Esther Puckler, Gail Hanshaw, Maria Wadsworth and Faye Moore.

Delta Tau Delta fraternity will then take the field with its prize-winning skit, "Gene Autabe Versus the Fighting Seminoles." The skit was considered best fraternity skit in preliminary judging earlier this week. It is a take-off on Gene Autry's western Television Show, featuring Art Good and Joe Conley watching a TV screen; Vincent Williams as the TV announcer; Dwain Purvis as a medicine man; Bob Bagovich as Princess Minne-Ska-Ska; and Bill Hall as Gene Auta-be and a supporting cast of Indians. The skit was written and directed by Don Van Nus.

After the skit, the FSU student band, the Marching Chiefs, will enter in formation as the majorettes and drums march down the center. The Marching Chiefs will weave into a familiar formation and play "Fanfare" by Charles Carter. Taking part in the band events will be Ed Franklin and Dick Puckett, FSU's "Flying Seminoles."

The band will also play Florida State University's Fight Song, composed by Thomas Wright of the School of Music faculty. Then the "Star Spangled Banner" will end the band program.

Delta Delta Delta sorority will present its skit, "Love Through the Ages," which was the winner in the sorority division. In the skit, members of the sorority, the stages of smooche love, age love, primitive love and finally the love of a 1954 freshman.

Next event will be the crowning of the College Queen. Fireworks display will be the next Pow Wow event. A 16-foot square fireworks image of a football player kicking a ball will be the center of attention, with the image "The Boy's the Limit for the FSU Seminoles of '54." Displays will include Fountain of Youth, Niagara Falls, Cleopatra's Pan, Crystal Gardens and the Whirlwind.

Pow Wow committee chairman Jack Haskin, now in his second year at the post, said that he expected the entire show to be over including the pep rally, by 9:30 p. m.

Collegians Ready For Yearly Activity Including Serenade

Presenting evening concerts and assembly programs on their annual, one hour and serenade, the Collegians, a group of sorority houses, are among the year's busiest groups.

According to Professor J. Dexter Smith, sponsor, the musicale club has been organized to leave between February 7 and 20 on a tour through the Central Florida. They will present evening concerts in Daytona Beach, Orlando and Lakeland. They will also present assembly programs at various schools during the trip.

Consisting of 35 members, the male singing group has a new program of "pop tunes" with which to entertain their audiences, such as "Tea For Two," "Bring in Mr. and other light melodies.

Elected for the year are John Cocalis president, Gary Campbell, secretary, and Dan Vallas, student director.

Need We Say Anything?

"Censuring me would be a victory for the Communists who want to destroy me," (Joe McCarthy) said. He described himself as hard on communism and those opposing him as 'soft' on communism. Who are they? In this group, which he called 'ruthless,' he included radio commentators, educators, writers, a majority of the press.

Communist influence in shaping American thinking is enormous, he said, and now communism has extended 'its tentacles to . . . . the United States Senate.' He declared the Watkins committee was playing the Communists' game in voting against him.

"I shall demonstrate that the Watkins committee has done the work of the Communist party, that it not only cooperated in the achievement of Communist goals, but that in writing its report it imitated Communist methods—that it distorted, misrepresented and omitted in its efforts to manufacture a plausible rationalization for advising the Senate to accede to the clamor for my scalp."

—Senator McCarthy in an AP release.

Homecoming

Homecoming is to the University what a wedding anniversary is to a married couple. It is a time of nostalgia, reunion, relaxation and recreation.

It is also, however, a time of looking forward and planning for the future. This is unquestionably the more important aspect of Homecoming.

The graduates return this weekend to a campus which has doubled and tripled in size in what seems like the space of only a night. Ideas of new, modern, functional construction tower above the old Gothic Spires immortalized in the Alma Mater.

There become, for a few hours, part of a student body which has changed so much since the chronologically recent but historically distant days of 1947 when Florida State College for Women became Florida State University.

It is not meant that Homecoming should be a time for revery in the past or marvel at the change. As the alumni wonder about campus their minds will undoubtedly envision the FSU of the future, in which all phases of university life will, we hope, receive a proper proportion of balance.

And as Homecoming is not a time for mere recollection, so it is not the day of the alumni alone. Homecoming should bring to the student body an awareness of their maturity and future.

The plan of Florida State University is to grow. Our physical plant shall increase in size, worth and beauty. Our educational plant should not forget its goal of opening the beauties of education.

We hope that our educational system shall develop so as to instill in the students a well-balanced sense of values. Our student body, we hope, achieve a well-rounded status.

Let not the music convival cheer and excitement of Homecoming obscure these aims.

A Pleasure

It was with profound pleasure that we accepted the news of Professor Earl Vance and his appointment to the State Council on Education.

We sincerely hope we are generating a large share of the opinion about the campus when we say this.

We think the Acting Governor made a fine choice. Professor Vance is highly qualified for the responsibility of reporting to the State Executive and legislature in education matters.

He has taught at this university for over quarter of a century, and is thoroughly acquainted with the educational processes. He has written widely. And the thousands of students he has taught know him as a strict advocate of the liberal arts.

Many of the alumni returning to the campus today and tomorrow may well remember Professor Vance.

Unfortunately, Professor Vance is not o well known among today's students on he Florida State University campus. Primarily because this is the first semester he has not taught his journalism classes n over twenty-six years. The previous emester to this, he taught only one course.

This is distressing, for we believe the students are missing something very worthwhile; his kind of teaching is somewhat of a rarity these days. It is simple.

Last year's editor, Bruce Galphin, captured it in much better words than we can:

"Vance's influence is imprinted indelibly on the thousands of students he has taught since he came here in 1928. A mild and forgetable man, he nonetheless has ability to fire a student's imagination, to make him aware of the world he lives in, to look 'quite through the deeds of men.'

"This ability to develop students' powers of critical analysis has often brought Vance the displeasure of the powers that be. Vance's philosophy is that our actions and beliefs are strongly influenced by our sources of information. We are often induced to act against our better interests not out of stupidity but rather out of ignorance.

"But he believes all people are essentially educable. Once informed of the truth they will look after their interests. Teaching people to act in their own best interests and the best interests of the country demands they learn the true from the false. It means destroying the false idols of popular opinions. It requires a certain disillusionment about our customs and ideals.

"And naturally it involves an understanding of how persons in power operate to maintain the status quo. It rips naked all shamanism. In doing so it brings down the wrath of those who are profiting by things as they are.

"His method of education is disarmingly simple: He believes in the Arnold formula that to be educated is to know the best that has been thought and said in the world. Good citizenship requires a broad background of knowledge. A man that is only narrowly trained is not prepared to vote or act intelligently."

More of this type of teaching is needed not only at Florida State University, but in all universities and colleges in our country.

(Contd) Our Great Savior or Let's Not Be Coy

"By direct implication Joe McCarthy held himself up as one whose fate is linked to that of the nation and in the anti-Communist fight. He said:

"It is not easy for a man to assert that he is the symbol of resistance to Communist subversion—that the nation's fate is in some respect tied to his own . . . but I take it you would rather I be frank than coy."

—From an AP release.

The Machine With The Big Head

In any election day casuality list, a character known as Univac surely deserves a place. Univac is the CBS 'electronic thinking machine' which competes with the commentators and pundits in forecasting elections results on the basis of early returns. The last we saw of Univac the other night, it was calmly predicting a 55-40 Democratic Senate victory. This, it seems clear, was a large wrong.

Men were just as wrong on other matters, but Univac gives us the chance to dislike a machine that pretends to predict the behavior of men just as soon as it gets some statistics into its system. Pooh-pooh are old-fashioned, but we still treasure the element of surprise and uncertainty in an election. We resent being dogmatically told that it's in the bag by Univac or anyone else.

This year, more than ever, countless elections were decided by a handful of votes. The aberration eccentricity or high spirit of a few people on election day—people who forgot what day it was, people who woke up hating their fellowmen, people who decided to work like the devil to get others to the polls—really decide elections.

We don't want either Big Brother or Univac feeling they can find out everything just by eating a few charts. We don't like to see machines pushing men around.

—From The New York Post

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
View the great wide ocean?
Its tone is the best elation lotion.
—Don Rapp

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, News Editor — Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor — Joye Potter
Campus Editors — Martin Dunham, Marion Bethea, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors — Jim Joanos, Dick Avery
Sports Staff — Bob Whiting, Alan Whitmarsh, David Morris
Photographers — Land Anderson, Al Rothos

Copy Editors — Willie Smith, Pat Hanlon, David Davis
Amusement Editor — Frankie Adams
Art Consultant — Ed Arpero
Cartoonist — Con Horn
Junior Staff — George Goldstein, Jerome Berman, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jeri Bradfield

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Mary Liz King, Adv. Mgr.

Business Staff — Mgr. Wigan
Distribution — Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave., New York 17.
Exchange Editor — Barbara Cox

Telephone 2-8000, extension 8321
211 Journalism Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

"Now, Don't Be Afraid To Speak Frankly"

Letters To The Flambeau

A Thank You

To the Editor:

May an "outsider" use your page as a means of voicing a public thank you?

Not long ago, Jim Padgian, Delta Tau Delta, showed more than the usual interest in the youngsters in iron lungs at Tallahassee Memorial Hospital. His interest was contagious to the extent that other fraternity and sorority members on campus caught the spirit of giving and sharing and helping. They wanted to do something really worthwhile for youthful patients.

They did it. Very tangible evidence of their generosity, of their thoughtfulness and considerate response is on deposit at the Lewis Slaze Bank.

These students who have given so generously can hardly realize how much their contributions are appreciated. The spirit that prompted the gifts, the very fact that they wanted to give at all is most gratifying to the recipients.

There is no practical way in which the students may be thanked personally except through the medium of The Flambeau. Perhaps this letter will convey in part at least the thanks they deserve.

Sincerely,
A friend of TMH respirator youngsters

Campaign Thanks

Fellow Freshmen:

The last two weeks, each candidate has put forth much hard work. Everyone has made a great showing due to the untiring efforts of their supporters. I wish to thank every one who contributed to my campaign and made my election possible. Their wonderful assistance and confidence was certainly a welcome inspiration. I shall try to live up to of their expectations.

During my campaign, I had the opportunity to meet all of my fellow candidates, and I believe that any, if elected, could have successfully qualified and carried out the various duties of the position.

To those that were elected by their classmates, I wish to extend my congratulations. I hope we shall have a good year working together. To those who lost, I urge you to keep your head in the air and once again this spring—we may each one of you in our student government. Until such time, I rest assured that you will support those who were chosen to lead our class. Again we wish to hold our first class meeting of the year, during which our new officers will receive the oath of office. See Tuesday's Flambeau for date, time and location. Please plan to attend, if at all possible. Let's make the class of '58 the class that is always first race at FSU. See you at the meeting.

Sincerely yours,
GRAHAM TESCHKE

Dear Friends,

Thank you for your support in the successful campaign for freshmen senator, Without your help it would have been impossible for me to have obtained such a position. Hoping that I will not only be your representative but your friend, I welcome any suggestion or ideas you may have.

Yours truly,
RONNIE BLUE

Fellow Freshmen,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who supported me in the past election, and also to everyone that voted, whether for me or for one of my fine opponents. You not only did yourself a favor by voting but you did the class of '58 a favor by electing the right spirit which is so vital on this campus.

Thank you.
HANK McCANN

To the Members of the Freshmen Class

Thank you so much for your support toward my candidacy for Senator.

I want to serve you efficiently and to do this I need to know your views and opinions. I will be happy at any time to discuss with you questions or problems you may have concerning your student government.

Sincerely
BILL SWIGERT

Fellow Freshmen:

I wish to thank you very much for your support in putting me in office.

I will try to be worthy of the office you have given me.

Sincerely,
JOAN HEMMANN.
Vice-President.

Fixletics

Our big team
Bright did stem
In the brilliant collegiate sky.

On the beam
We do seem
To be heading upward, no lie.
We had steam
In a stream
Speed possessed by every guy.

Seemed a dream
That our team
Could be also a contest pie.

Then all of every heck broke loose
And looking through our cervical noose,

We gave one scream,
Got the cream,
'Twas a ref we couldn't buy.
—DON RAPP

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"Did you notice that genuine imported cashmere sweater?"

The Lift File

Homecoming Games And Pains

This is the period during the melancholy days of autumn when universities and colleges schedule what is called "Homecoming Day." They seek thereby to lure the old grad back to the old scenes.

The football opponent on home-coming is, of course, selected with the view that said opponent will have little more chance than a snowball's in hell when thrown to one of the emperor's lions. It is true, of course, the unpredictable of life being what they are, that as now and then the Christian killed the lion, home-coming days have been pulled by a visiting team.

Even with all possible precaution, home-comings are usually rather cruel and sad, and only the perpetually confident and the continually optimistic are made happy by them.

More often than not, as the Old Grad wanders along the old paths, his memory of happy days when he strolled one of the paths with a co-ed beside him becomes an ache and a pain. He can smell again the perfume she wore, and hear the tinkling sound of laughter, and can smell again the aroma of autumn—fallen leaves, the fire of cool air, and the nostalgia of woodsmoke which drifts through all the winds of fall.

It is at precisely such moments that he encounters a couple of undergraduates, faces slaish, holding hands and talking baby-talk as they come along.

The Dissenter

A Shifting Of Powers To Be

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Vice-president Gordon Gaster started the ball rolling in Wednesday's Senate meeting on a constitutional amendment that would end the filling of vacant seats in Senate.

As things stand now, when a seat is vacated by a Senator leaving school or dropping out of student government, Provost Dean Pete Nimkoff must appoint the successor. The appointment requires a two thirds vote by the Senate itself and there has recently demonstrated that there will not always be brotherly love and harmony between Nimkoff and the legislature regarding this prerogative.

Gaster's amendment, which must pass Senate as a bill and be submitted to the President Body for ratification or rejection, would provide for an election among the class concerned when a Senator vacates his seat. In case of temporary vacancy, as that which occurs when a Senator leaves to intern in education, his class president would appoint an Interim Senator.

Gaster's proposal is a worthy one and should be passed, with one possible change. It represents a democratization of the constitution and allows the students to make their choices known.

The proposal should be changed, however, to give the President-elect the authority and the power to appoint interim replacements for Senators temporarily absent due to leaves of internships.

The class presidents are too far removed from the workings of student government to have the job of appointing Senators, this power and office is a different one. It is a function concerned not particularly with class, but with creating a sense of unity among the students, which increasing the collegiate version of "the live that bind" and which the University is faced with whatever service projects pile.

Senator Bill Wagoner told me Wednesday that Gaster's proposal is similar to the method used for filling vacancies in the United States Senate before they can be put to popular vote.

Senator Wagoner's contention is certainly correct. The United States Senate, however, is not constituted as the United States government is.

Under the national set-up powers are shared by the Central government and by the individual states. Our campus constitution considers only the latter.

As for FSU's student government, policy making powers are concentrated exclusively in the Senate and executive level. Inclass problems, I have always felt, serve a different purpose.

Gaster's amendment, however, is a step in the right direction and this suggested revision.

We sincerely hope to believe that the Student Body President would not appoint Senators to vacant seats, but popular vote is a universal principle. The Student Body Constitution should provide for it in all cases.

My discussion of the subject with Senator Gaster brought out an interesting sidelight. He feels that FSU's student government should be set up along a federal plan with policy powers delegated to the respective classes.

It might be hard to make such a system work until the school grows even larger, but it would do no harm to anticipate and to arouse interest in student government.

Etcetera Etchings

Possible Winners Are Looked Over

By DAVID DREIS

Last year in the November 10 issue of the Florida Flambeau we listed the Academy Award nominees that were rolling along the road to distinction. A lot of films were listed and a few fell by the wayside and when the reviews came in, but the nominees themselves were in the finals. The Caine Mutiny slated for Oscar nomination had a hard row to hoe and come to be lauded. This year, it's different.

The 1954 best picture awards. The Caine Mutiny (Col. On the Waterfront (Col.) The High and the Mighty (WB.) A Star Is Born (WB) Magnificent Obsession (Uni.) Seven Brides for Seven (MGM) Rear Window (Par.).

For best actor, it'll be Humphrey Bogart (Caine Mutiny) facing Marlon Brando (On the Waterfront) and James Mason (A Star Is Born) Spencer Tracy (Bad Day at Black Rock) Kirk Douglas, Lee J. Cobb (On the Waterfront) Robert Stack (The High and the Mighty) and Charles Bickford (A Star Is Born).

For best actress, the awards dishes are. Thelma Ritter (Rear Window), Nine Foch (Executive Suite) Rosemarie Bowe (Magnificent Obsession). Other names have not been announced as possible nominees.

Best movie song: Three Coins in the Fountain (Fox) and The Mighty, Hold My Hand (Band Stripe Here: Sisters (White Christmas) The Man That Got Away (A Star Is Born) Count Your Blessings (White Christmas) Love Is a Many Splendored Thing (Fox) The Man That Got Away (A Star Is Born).

Best musical score: Three Coins in the Fountain (Fox) The Mighty, and the Mighty. On the Waterfront. Caine Mutiny. A Ballet is Waiting. (A Star Is Born) Magnificent.

Best director race is wide open with directors of all the films mentioned up as possible candidates. Producing possibilities is it very even.

Next year's race figures as a close one and this column will report the latest news regarding the handicapping as it develops.

(Continued On Page 10)

Reflections

On The Latest About Intellectuals

By OSCAR JOHNSON

While I was practicing a few steps from the ballet "Apollo, Leader of the Muses" the other day on my way to the Student Center, a shabby character peered out of some scrub undergrowth at the edge of the sidewalk.

I stopped, I stopped so easy that I could tell a fine distinction to "Bustard," the magazine for outdoorsmen (I happen to be a dilatant salesman in the trade) his pitch first:

"How'd you like to write for The Florida Flambeau?" he whispered, stale flakes of tobacco flecking off his chin and spray per lip.

"I already do," I assured him. "Obituaries, historical irvalues, two-line news briefs, letter to the brevlers columns, critiques of Panerasian folk ballads, hints as the care of North African Whalabee, the latest canape recipes and a tree condensed novel art as one novbee. Everything students like to read."

"But that's not enough," he cried, his throaty voice rising to a shrieking falsetto. He began trembling, hands groping in the dark sand. "You have to write stories! Editorials! Articles! Maybe even a column!" He fell limp on the ground then, apparently exhausted from his effort. I continued down to the Student Center for my regular snack of fried lizzie tails on wonder glaze, and boiled pine tree needles on the hail shell, capped with a mint julep.

But in deference to such widespread appeal, I am starting this column. My aim is to get it in written at least once a month. Which I will do unless my Geology teacher goes homework-hog. This column may not always appeal to everybody. It pleases I the writer, that's enough.

The subject of this first column is "Reflections on the Nature of Chaucerian Criticism, Intellectual." A discussion of that class will get us nowhere, but it should be amusing.

When you hear shooting going on in the next room, you have a good chance of seeing an intellectual in action. Pushed through the skylight, you will notice that there are several—all clustered in a tight circle—proclaiming paradoxical quotations, incantations and occasionally incoherent grunts.

A typical argument may be: "Why should we have a Bikini Plan for government, didn't pay the South after the Civil War?" A counter to this argument like this, the Intellectual is able to quote others, such as Kirtschmalzades and dentist's book, "Why, Why, Why, Why, Why?"

Once in a great while an Intellectual or pseudo-Intellectual is able to get himself close to being someone to consider. Be his victim sooner or later he realizes that his main worry is to somehow make up for being taken in.

Summing up, when you write a column about Intellectuals don't forget to mention that North African Wallabees should be fed at least twice a day.

Southern Editors' Opinions On Segregation Are Taken

Feelings Are Gauged In College Areas Affected By Court's Move

By BOB FOLSOM

Seldom has the United States of America been faced with as great a problem as that of segregation.

When the Supreme Court ruled segregation in public education unconstitutional last May, the justices did something which had been expected for a long time. Even anti-integration Southern leaders knew it was coming.

In an effort to present as completely as possible, the conditions, opinions and social response attendant to the decision, The Florida Flambeau has devoted space in two 16-page Homecoming issues to the segregation issue. Letters were sent to fifteen editors of newspapers at different institutions throughout the South. These universities would be the ones likely to be most affected by the ruling.

Twelve responded; they were the Universities of Alabama, Georgia, Miami, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Alabama, Mississippi State and North Carolina State.

The editor of The Mississippian, Jimmy Autry, replied that "social or sociological" issues were concerning the issue, and the next week, in behalf of the student body of the University of Mississippi will be taken to governor Hugh White for comment. The poll will ask: "Are you in agreement with the May decision of the Supreme Court to abolish Segregation in the public schools?" and "Do you feel that the abolition of Segregation will finally be realized?" and, in the second question, "If so, how soon?"

As the paper went to press, no replies were received from Georgia Tech, Louisiana State University and the University of South Carolina.

Each newspaper editor was asked to state the stand his paper took on desegregation, and to accurately interpret and describe the general student consensus of opinion in his area. Some editors said they couldn't definitely gauge student opinion. But no one failed to express an opinion on the subject. In some cases we have printed both.

Here are the results:

University of Alabama

By Bill Rascoe
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE CRIMSON AND WHITE

The Crimson-White printed this editorial on the decision in their November 2 issue:

NO SUDDEN PLAN

"If one is to be inferior to the other socially, the Constitution of the United States cannot put on the same plane."

—From the majority opinion of the U. S. Supreme Court in Plessy vs. Ferguson, 1896.

For over fifty years the Plessy-Ferguson case has been a basis for interpreting provisions between men of two races. Even as a matter of social observation, the relations between men of two colors have been without problems.

The often demagogues have come to the surface from both color groups. The world has observed more acreage in the past decade. In our own state great strides were being taken to improve the educational facilities for both races. Then came the decision from the highest court in the land that separate facilities can never be equal.

Into the spotlight steps extremists of both colors pushing for pre-mature action. Colored citizens have been burned in what has been termed in an effort to force the white schools to open their doors to Negro children. Others of similar date in the already overcrowded condition of both systems, if pushed.

In an effort to maintain segregation the people of two races vote today to decide whether their school systems will be public or private.

But the color line will disappear. The Supreme Court has said so. The line may remain in Alabama this year and next, for several years, but it will disappear.

The colored people will be admitted to the University as students sooner than most of us think. If it must come, the gradual integration is to be desired rather than a sudden jolt.

With gradual integration, individual Negro students will have a chance to demonstrate their ability. With a sudden rush there would be little chance for the colored. It would be too easy to classify and color them as a group. Unfortunately, as in any large number, group members seem to assume the extreme characteristics of their numbers.

To many people Negroes as a group have an unfavorable connotation, but to the same people a Negro domestic who has been with the family for years is held in relatively high esteem.

The sudden flux will keep the Negro students and individuality there's more hope. Legislation nor court rulings can erase social likes.

Auburn

Herbert White, Editor of The Plainsman, sent this material relative to the issue. Two of his staff took the opposite positions on segregation.

ANTI-SEGREGATION
By Gardner Robinson
Plainsman Associate Editor

". . . we hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal."

—U. S. Constitution

When the framers of the United States Constitution penned this immortal decree pronouncing segregation in our schools as unconstitutional, a profound problem was set in motion. Master minds adopted a wait and see attitude, while emotional tirrants roared about personal rights systems and unconstitutionality.

In the pages of our nation's history, though relatively short, no civic problem has arisen without a workable answer emerging. Our forefathers had a faith in humanity and a belief in democracy that blew away straw out of stitution and founded the American system of government.

We have fought wars, sacrificed lives, paid taxes, and mutually suffered hardships to keep that our ideals, personal dignity and liberty might be preserved.

We have built a nation of colonies. We have risen, in a few centuries, to be the most elegant and most powerful nation, in the world. We did this because of the ability of

The dignity of the individual, the freedom of worship, the stability of soul and the brotherhood of man have been axioms in the building of this democracy and progress. We are bound together by an intangible unity. The people govern. Here we serve as a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

No distinction has been made concerning the color of these people. All men, white and black men, have poured sweat, shed blood, and yielded life in forging the great nation of ours. Yet all men have not enjoyed the basic conditions of freedom and justice in equal proportions.

There has been a devastating distinction between the people because one man was born white, another born black.

Are we, as free Americans, living under the same constitution that guarantees equal rights of inheritance? I think not. Are our rights as citizens protected alike by a difference in skin pigment? I think not. Can a person scream "Heil Hitler" and salute the flag and believe in the teachings of the Bible? I think not. Is the solution of a major social problem, can we allow passion to overrule reason? I think not. Can we allow fear, hatred, and prejudice, which is the child of ignorance disembowel our political, social, and economic life? I think not.

Gradually will the problem of racial integration in our public school system, intellectual stability and moral responsibility be the fruits of our fiscal points. Unlimited calmness and reasoning should always have been employed in weighing the possible favorable and unfavorable results.

The so-called Southern heritage which has been a major factor in the study of any branch of reference, cannot be regarded as a heritage. It should not be due to the worth of any American citizen, black or white.

It is the deeds which is the better, to succumb before our forefathers, fears and our own heritage, or to stand firmly behind our basic convictions and philosophy.

PRO-SEGREGATION
By Gordon Swann
Plainsman Managing Editor

Auburn students have been called upon to meet one crisis after another in the past quarter-of-a-century without shortage. It's not lately, but it is the question that will be called upon in the near future to react to another and possibly more critical problem than integration.

Since the Supreme Court ruled against the year that segregation would become universal, individual Negro students would have a chance to demonstrate their ability. With a sudden rush there would be little chance for the colored. It would be too easy to classify and color them as a group. Unfortunately, as in any large number, group members seem to assume the extreme characteristics of their numbers.

To many people Negroes as a group have an unfavorable connotation, but to the same people a Negro domestic who has been with the family for years is held in relatively high esteem.

The sudden flux will keep the Negro students and individuality there's more hope. Legislation nor court rulings can erase social likes.

Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C., when wholesale integration gua tried. In these two communities, where antagonism to race discrimination or friction existed, the whites reacted bitterly. Picket lines were formed, and both sides developed a hatred against each other that will be handed down for generations to come.

That is what happens when you tell a bunch of people that they've got to do something. Something similar might happen here should college officials admit a Negro student and tell the whites that they've got to accept it.

Should a Negro be admitted to Auburn, he will still have to be subjected to a form of segregation. A lot of barriers will be present some that he won't be able to break down. He will not be required to live in the dorms, and he won't be wholeheartedly accepted at many campus functions. He will probably be expected to observe "Jim Crow" laws off campus.

Southern schools admit one white—for as long as it takes to convince the entire student body that integration is the only way to solve the Southern Negro's problems.

Emory University

By T. Elkin Taylor
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE EMORY WHEEL

Reaction to the decision appeared in the Flambeau a reprint of an editorial which appeared on the front page of the Wheel. This editorial reflected the opinion of the editorial staff that the Supreme Court decision that segregation barriers should be lowered at Emory.

The students who make up the editorial board felt this to be a progressive, creative and mature step. We found several reasons which I shall attempt to outline here. We agree that segregation should be handled with kid gloves and that gradual integration is not only more desirable but also imperative.

Many people agree that segregation is on the rocks and must fall, but with a logic which escapes me, these people often commit time to man the pumps of segregation even when the bottom has exploded and the ship is on its way down. It isn't necessary to go down with the ship. For I believe that the man himself is more important than the whole standing of the institution.

It is the opinion of the Wheel that the Southern schools, especially those with a record of open-minded thought, should lead the way in integration; for I believe that the least trouble would be encountered.

So much for the Wheel. What about the Emory University campus? Here at Emory, I feel it is difficult to say definitely what a group of people think without taking each individual and taking a poll, but even then accurate results are hard to obtain to be an authority, but as I see it this is the picture:

The student body of theology is virtually 100 per cent for the admission of Negroes to the University. The law, Medical and Dental schools are probably not quite as much in favor of the admission at this point. The college would probably show about 75 per cent in agreement with the editorial of the Wheel or the policy of the Emory University. Graduate students as a whole would probably be about two to one against integration (perhaps even more against).

They do not take my assumption from letter response. I hasten to point out, for 64 per cent of our total mail on the matter agreed with our stand, and included a number of letters from other schools and from alumni. Our observers in no way connected with the University of which opposed our stand.

The editorial of the Wheel did not stir up an astounding amount of opposition or resentment. There were comments passed before the Student Government Association here, stating that the editorial of the Wheel does not express the opinion of the SGA and that the body proves that Emory not admit Negroes. The resolution was tabled and at the present writing has not been brought up again. The Student Council of the theology school unanimously supported and endorsed our editorial.

There were not exceedingly indignant at the Wheel's stand. Many disagreed, but most of them, with good reason, felt that they could not express their opinion. I still believe that integration would offer many problems. The student reaction would not be, for the most part, violent, "Student quasity reigns," as one college newspaper put it. Apathy reigns at Emory and would overcome prejudice.

University of Florida

The Florida Alligator Editor

Taking The High Road

Art Smith sent this editorial reprint. He said the Alligator is glad that Luke a definite stand until a series of articles currently appearing in the paper are concluded.

TIME, PATIENCE AND COMPROMISE.

Amidst the turmoil over the Negro issue in the United States today, there is small hope that the question will be settled. Cool wisdom people begin to respect the views of their fellow man.

It has been slightly over four months since the Supreme Court handed down its decisive decree outlawing segregation in the nation's schools. Since then, there has been little but political and social warfare on all fronts of this complex and most critical problem.

From the armies of the anti-segregation forces have come cries for quick action; from the ranks of those who react, there is the threat of continued segregation.

Neither side will admit that there must be a middle ground or a compromise — before the question will ever resolve itself. Both sides seem to see a basic violation of individual liberty that we cannot, and must not accept.

In their unrelenting ways and challenging times, the American people have oftimes forgot the principle that freedom of the individual is more important than reform. We cannot sacrifice one people's way of life overnight.

It is just as naive in today's thinking to assume that the Negro race is on an equal standing with the white race as it is to believe that the mores of a society may be changed overnight.

There is just as much conflict of ideas in the nation as in any other. Society has always been the place where democracy never prevailed.

So there is no reason to believe that the concept as to how life can be altered with a law. At the same time, we must realize that it is our responsibility that has been thrust upon us.

There is no room in the argument over segregation for an extremist viewpoint. We must accept both before he will reach a solid foundation for solving his difference.

Time and patience must be the tools with which we solve the most important issue of our day.

University of Georgia

By Carroll Dadisman
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE RED AND BLACK

Before beginning the discussion of segregation, I want to point out that it is not intended to be the official stand of the University of Georgia student body. It would be impossible to make any statement on an issue as controversial as this is and say that it represents the opinion of more than 5,000 persons. Before we have any decision on Negroes applying for admission to the University of Georgia some form of student referendum is forthcoming. It would be extremely difficult to reconcile the reactions of the various elements of the institution present itself. However, I think I can safe in saying that the majority of us would be opposed to admitting Negroes at this time because of trouble that might develop.

Based on our backgrounds we simply are not ready now for such a change. I believe that desegregation will be a long process—that the transition will have to take place over a period of years.

As I said at the outset, I would not attempt to voice the opinions of all our students or even the majority of them, but I will say that most of the students with whom I have discussed segregation are of the opinion that segregation cannot and will not continue indefinitely in Georgia or any other state.

The Red and Black has taken no editorial stand on segregation this fall because nothing concerning the issue has happened on our campus since fall quarter opened that would warrant editorial comment. We feel that, under present conditions, the less that is said about segregation by everyone concerned, the better things will work out. I want to emphasize that these views are not dodging the issue, and should we have any good reason to, we would not hesitate to take a stand on the segregation issue.

University of Miami

By Greg Melikov
MANAGING EDITOR
THE MIAMI HURRICANE

You can argue the pros and cons of segregation from now until the Athletics win another pennant, but you're just as sure to winding in a cellar of confusion, wishing you hadn't bothered with it at all.

There are no panaceas and puzzling this segregation issue really is. You may depend on both sides of the fence have a tendency to lapse into fits of passion, a viewpoint sometimes mentioned about discrimination, is segregation or segregation, just enough to make any level-headed human being foam at the mouth.

And the revolting thing about the whole situation is that the same blabber mouths know absolutely nothing about the true facts involved in the issue.

However, students at the University of Miami have some very pertinent thoughts about this segregation issue. Our campus is unusual in that it has graduated two Negroes in the last six weeks concerning the segregation in public schools. Only one advocated such discriminatory policies which are now being practiced at a great many institutions in the country.

One student asked: "Why should the Negro be considered a subculture of our society?" Then he answered his own answers.

"The first reason is that their ideas, habits and manners are different from ours. For the most part the Negro has been ostracized and repulsed by us, their superiors. Thus they have developed a culture of their own way of life alive, for they have been educated alike. Secondly, unlike you and me, they are so poor because of lack of opportunity caused by the bigotry early to help support the family."

The student wrote: "I do not write to speak for nor against the Negro. Personally, Negroes are biologically, intellectually and culturally the inferiors of their white brothers. That is evident to anyone conversant of the fundamentals of anthropology, psychology and sociology."

He stated, I would like to point to the basic premise of American life as delineated by our Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the recent Supreme Court decision, which is an equality of treatment is due to all citizens. There is no such equality when citizens of color are deprived of the company of their classmates, solely on the basis of color."

"Surely, you have the right to select your schoolmates," one card said, "but even among white students you may not select all of them to be your friends. What a shame that the color of a person's skin should produce such a result of controversy."

Still another letter writer pointed to the "many Negroes who have made great achievements in almost all fields. There are too many such cases to say that the race is mentally or physically below the Caucasian. If there are many educationally backward Negroes, it is because

(Continued on Page 16)

Mississippi State College

By Wayne Freeman
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE REFLECTOR

The following is an editorial from the Mississippi State College student newspaper, "The Reflector," October 29.

You can lead a horse to water but you can't make it drink.

The United States Supreme Court led the nation to a turmoil of segregation strife and the effect told it to drink. Since that time, thousands of volumes pro and con have been compiled concerning the segregation issue.

The majority of Southern schools have maintained former policy of segregated schools.

However, a few more Northern schools, signs of violent opposition to the court decision have been manifested. Integration of white and black students was attempted.

Some of the southern border states have started integration in their schools. Even though in some of these states, where the ratio of negro to white is relatively small, it has been done quietly and smoothly accomplished.

In Mississippi, where conditions are a ratio of eight to one negro to white, the problem is far more serious. We foresee that it will be many years before the idea is even feasible, and then with personal reservations.

The Mississippi Legislature is growing disinclined over growing opposition to the continued constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to abolish public schools as a last step against integration.

The people of Mississippi will have an opportunity to vote on the proposed amendment November 2. This amendment will be the only issue on the ballot, and the majority vote will be required for approval.

If the amendment is passed by the people of Mississippi, then it will serve notice to the rest of the nation that we intend to live by the new pronouncements of life as set forth by the United States Supreme Court. The passage of this amendment will also help bring to a head public sentiment in other states, and possibly result in a similar legislative amendment in the court's May 17 ruling.

The passage of the amendment will provide assurance of continued separate but equal schools for the state as to the people who are directly involved to pay the taxes for the school system.

One section in our state constitution specifically provides that separate schools shall be maintained. This section number 207, will provide a bulwark against integration until the Supreme Court rules on the constitutionality of the article.

Besides the segregation section in the constitution, countless other devices can be called into brief use to prevent integration in our schools if the people so desire. Assignment of pupils, the use of military and police power; gerrymandering of school districts, and other statutes.

And so the battle rages over the nation. Some are violent, and sometimes viciously. For the most part, Mississippians have attained a rather determined, if quiet, stand. Some citizens and some students are extreme in their views. Others stand in a quandary and fear whispering "it can't happen here."

It is apparent that unless some drastic action is taken by the Supreme Court, the Legislature, or the people, then integration will take place in the state within 20, 30, 40 or 50 years.

However, it is our opinion that this interregnum, if it is to be made, must be on a gradual basis. It is also our opinion that the Supreme Court seriously hurt the chances of integration by its decree coming so unexpectedly and forcibly.

Until the Reflector can complete its present poll on student feelings toward the segregation issue, it is hard to remember the true beliefs and thoughts of Mississippi State students. The views are many and varied, much as the varied communities and interests of the state population.

We're behind the Legislature, and we hope they have the sense to pass the proposed amendment in December.

University of North Carolina

By Charles Kuralt
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE DAILY TAR HEEL

It has been pretty quiet here since May 17. Five students, five faculty members, the chancellor of the Administration or Board of Trustees have had anything to say about the issue of segregation since the Supreme Court's decision. That's all.

What has been said has been in favor of quick integration of the University. Editorially and almost everyone in Chapel Hill agrees that de-segregation must be gradual, that the decision — whether that is next week or next year — is inevitable.

As in all Southern states, the authorities have been cautious or downright foolish in the matter of education. The University Administration has adopted a wait-and-see attitude, and the legislature will have decisions up to the Trustees.

The students have been a little more receptive. At the National Student Association convention in Ames, Iowa, last August, it was the University of North Carolina delegate who introduced a resolution condemning college segregation. Everyone knows the president is now actively at work on the campus on the matter, and the idea of working quietly to bring undergraduate segregation to an end before the law requires it does it legally. They say they have met with a great deal of encouragement from the faculty and the student body.

The student newspaper, The Daily Tar Heel, has taken a strong editorial stand against segregation and has urged the admission of Negro undergraduates next fall; it has received several letters, both pro and con on the position, and not a single one of hate.

At present there are three Negro students at the University, all in graduate schools, one each in the Medical School, they live in a segregated section of the university, they eat at the University dining halls, go to class with white students, and live with white students. They report they feel "accepted" on the campus now.

There is no evidence of violence.

So despite the official silence, there are many signs that the end to segregation among the students is near. Nobody knows how the last majority will react, but the results look, but this much is taken for granted: the University of North Carolina will accept the end of segregation when it comes, and it will do so in good spirit. And it will probably have been the first state in the south to do so.

North Carolina State

By John W. Parker
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE TECHNICIAN

The segregation ruling has stirred little comment on the campus of North Carolina State College. Most State men are interested in the football season, because of the high number of northern students here. Of the 5,000 students registered here along with the 6 states other than Carolina and 26 foreign countries sending men to State. This gives the campus a rather cosmopolitan appearance.

This atmosphere, no doubt, has contributed to the understanding of racial affairs. There are two Negroes already enrolled here, doing graduate work in electrical engineering. They have been treated fairly rewards and have caused no reaction on the part of the student body.

Most students feel that the Supreme Court ruling was inevitable and most students of the South that segregation is contrary to their religious beliefs and the Constitution of the United States. They realize that they are free to associate with whomever they choose and that ruling does not push the Negro on them.

However, students feel that Negroes should have equal properties of the facilities offered them as North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College, coming to State only for courses not offered at the educational level of A & T is on an exceptionally high plane.

This integration can only come about on a gradual basis. It might be said that most here of things aren't pushed too fast. This doesn't mean decades but time enough to carefully plan and through careful planning only can integration be successfully effected.

The Technician has taken no stand on the idea of desegregation as the need has never arisen. However, such a stand might well be conservative in its editorial treatment of the issue.

University of Tennessee

By Harvey Sprouil
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE ORANGE AND WHITE

Although the segregation issue—the great turmoil stirred up by the startling decision of the Supreme Court last Spring—seems to be causing a great deal of concern and discussion in other universities, here at the University of Tennessee little concern has been raised as of yet. Perhaps this is just the lull before the storm, but there has been no attempt to integrate Negro students with white students yet.

U-T students voiced their opinions, when the matter last spring to the booming majority of four to one in favor of the decision, but there is the Supreme Court. They seemed to think that it is storm enough for the question could lawfully and rightfully be decided. There was however, concern expressed on the problems that will arise in making the change.

Colored students have already been admitted to the University of Tennessee graduate school for several years so the admittance of Negroes to the undergraduate school would be not much of an upheaval. Much more trouble is expected to arise in schools below the university level.

No definite action has been taken by the university trustees concerning the issue to date. And most of us here are proud of the fact that our state legislature has not seen fit to stir up trouble by adding any kind of legal way by which the segregated colored students to any of our schools.

In conclusion, our students do recognize the problem and its implications, but they are not overwrought with it, and in fact, think that desegregation can be thing to come by. They think that it should be carried out slowly so as to permit the passage of time to change in mind that I'm talking about the majority of students here. There is minority—a definite minority violently opposed to desegregation in any way.

University of Texas

By Shirley Strum
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
THE DAILY TEXAN

Segregation vs. de-segregation has been an issue on the University of Texas campus since the decision of 1950 established that Negro students can go to predominantly white colleges if separate but equal established in Negro schools.

Since that time a number of Negro students have entered into the University graduate program, beginning in the fall of June Nelson in the School of Law, things have been very quiet. Their presence got the idea of burning a KKK cross in front of the Law School. After that, tensions relaxed, and accepted the boys without incrimination.

The issue has considerably long time ago. New graduate Negro students have been admitted since. They are in classes without difficulty. Summer sessions have had a considerable of the proportionate number of Negro students, with teachers up for summer work.

The year a new problem came up. Negro undergraduates applied for admission. Following the Supreme Court decision, applied for admission. Applications were accepted. Later, upon discovering the boys were Negroes, the authorities under the present state laws apparently had no choice but to consider their applications. The boys were told that after they had completed a semester of equally taught at Texas colored schools, they could reapply for

(Continued on Page 16)

Sixth Annual Job Getting Seminar Starts December 1

Data Is Sent To Employers Of FSU Grads

In less than a year over one thousand sets of placement credentials have been mailed from the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement to prospective employers of Florida State University students.

Since December 1, 1953, placement papers for 1038 seniors and former graduates have been sent out supporting the applications of these candidates for jobs.

Placement credentials contain statements about graduating seniors written by faculty members and former employers. These statements, together with a summary of personal data about the student, make up the placement credentials. Whenever a graduate applies for a job he may ask the placement office to send the references to the prospective employer. Many employers are now requiring that the University furnish them with placement credentials before they will hire an applicant.

In 1953, the placement office began building the credentials with a jacket containing a recent panoramic photograph of the campus of Florida State University. The jacket is paint colored with gold printing.

The last annual report of the Munsch Student Aid shows that almost one quarter of the Munsch students do not even come close to having the minimum for living expenses, 105 marks about 840, not including university expenses. This group averaged about 100 marks (824) per month.

Be Ready for Homecoming
Get Your Rings & Jewelry
Cleaned & Checked
FREE
at DEAN'S
Expert Watch & Jewelry Repair
109 W. College Ave.
Room 12, Child Bldg.
Phone 2-3598

Vocational Clinic Is Two-Day Affair

Florida State University students and representatives of business and industry will have a chance to meet each other at the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement's sixth annual Job Getting Seminar, December 1 and 2 on campus.

Built around the theme "Your Next Step As Graduating Senior," the seminar is particularly for benefit of members of the graduating class.

The program will consist of a social hour and panel discussion on Wednesday, December 1 and scheduled interviews between students and representatives December 2 at 8 p.m.

Panel members will be chosen from the invited representatives and will answer questions posed by the student audience. Mr. Angus Laird, head of the State Merit System, will be moderator.

The following companies have been invited to attend the Job Getting Seminar: Combustion Engineering, Inc.; Continental Can Company; Davidson & Paxon Company, E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Company; Education Missions Branch (U.S.); General Electric Company; Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company; Haskins & Sells; Humble Oil & Refining Company; Kaiser Oil & Refining Company; Mademoiselle Magazine; J. C. Penny Company; Price Waterhouse & Company; Procter & Gamble Distributing Company; Rich's; Union Bag & Paper Corporation.

Sears Roebuck & Company; United States Bureau of Apprenticeship; Crawford & Company; Prudential Insurance Company; Miami International Airport; The Chemstrand Corporation; Colonial Stores; American Red Cross; Dinkler Tuskey Hotel; International Business Machines; Florida Industrial Commission; Winn & Lovett Grocery Company and New York Life Insurance Company.

The seminar is designed to give graduating seniors an opportunity to meet visiting representatives from business and industry, so that the seniors may meet the visitors in a social setting as well as in a more formal interview. The seminar will get under way with a social hour at 7:30 p.m. in the Suwannee Room. On the next day the seniors will appear for individual interviews with personnel managers and other company officials who are visiting the campus. The Placement office expressed the hope that the seniors will be relaxed and at ease even after having met the interviewers at the previous evening.

A committee of members of Alpha Kappa Psi, National Business Fraternity, will be on hand at the seminar to give name tags to students and to visiting company representatives. The use of name tags is expected to make introductions easier for all concerned.

STUDENTS PARTICIPATE

The firms and agencies above will be guests at the Job Getting Seminar. Six of these representatives will serve as members of a panel discussion group. This panel discussion will be the high-light of the program.

The topic for discussion will be "Your Next Step As Graduating Seniors." Each member of the panel will be asked to give his point of view on what action the graduating senior should take for entering career training. Students will be invited to direct questions to the panel members from the floor.

Companies and firms and other agencies select very carefully their representatives sent to interview seniors. These visitors will have rich experience in personnel work. Students who attend the Seminar have been asked to make full use of the opportunities to ask questions during the panel discussion.

CHOOSING THE THEME

Each year the Annual Job Getting Seminar carries a theme around which the program is built. These themes set the stage for discussion of the various questions that are directed toward the members of this panel. Questions are not necessarily confined to the theme, in fact anything goes, but it provides a very useful departure point. Themes over the past years have carried not only the perennial questions that are uppermost in the graduating seniors' minds but often reflect the flavor of the times.

Back in 1953, the 3rd Annual Job Getting Seminar carried the dual themes "Qualities That Make For Success" and "Outlook for the Graduate in the Present Day Emergency." The latter was, of course, a reflection of the problem facing a graduate in view of the Korean War. The year before, 1952, "The First Year" served as a central point for a panel composed of recent graduates of FSU who had some into various business and professions.

Coming into more recent times, 1953 heard the members of a panel composed of representatives of business and industry discuss "Get That Job—And Hold It." This year a similar panel, headed by Mr. Angus Laird of the State Merit System, will face the students once more with a topic that they suggested . . . "Your Next Step As Graduating Seniors."

A UNIVERSITY WIDE ACTIVITY

The seminar, which began five years ago as an activity sponsored jointly by the School of Business and the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, is now university wide. The sixth annual seminar was planned by a committee made up of representatives from the various departments of the University.

The planning committee has these following members: Dr. Paul Reynolds, College of Arts and Sciences; Miss Jane Kirk

Angus Laird

Mr. Laird, Director of the State Merit System, will be the Moderator at the Job-Getting Seminar, December 1 and 2.

Mr. Laird taught Political Science and Public Administration for a large number of years, before taking his present position in 1946.

Makes Appearance

Alfred Emptage

Mr. Alfred W Emptage, Personnel Manager of the South-Central Home Office of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, will appear at the Job Getting Seminar, December 1 and 2.

Bell, School of Business; Dr. Mode Stone, School of Education; Dr. Reeal Ray, School of Journalism; Dr. William Leap, School of Social Welfare; Dr. H. Odell Waidley, School of Public Administration; Dr. J. Dayton Smith, School of Music. Dr. Glover E. Tully, Director of the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, is Chairman of the Committee.

The Job Getting Seminar is sponsored jointly by the Placement office and the Men's Business fraternities Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi.

Veterans News

December 31, 1954 is a most important date for all veterans, according to H. P. Dickensheets, Manager of the Regional Office of the Veterans Administration at Tallahassee, Fla. This is the deadline date set by the Independent Appropriation Act for Fiscal Year 1955, which applies to veterans requesting dental treatment at the expense of the Veterans Administration.

Veterans of World War I, World War II, or the Korean Conflict who have not applied by December 31, 1954 or within one year after date of discharge, whichever is later, will not be eligible for non-compensable service-connected dental treatment at the expense of the Government. This deadline date does not apply, however, to veterans physically disabled who are undergoing rehabilitation under the provisions of Public Law 16 or Public Law 894 requiring dental care to avoid interruption of their training. This deadline does not apply to veterans with a service-connected medical condition or disability for which they are currently receiving outpatient medical treatment and dental care is deemed necessary as adjunct to this medical care.

Tully Explains Work System Available Here

"If the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement were called upon to adopt a slogan, 'Keep It Personal' would be the most logical and apt expression," explained Dr. Glover E. Tully, director.

"In dealing with ever a thousand placements a year it becomes evident that some workable system to put placement on a personal basis must be used."

To meet this need, he continued, the Placement Office is organized around the areas for which FSU graduates are training. The various areas are assigned to each faculty member in the office, taking into consideration the distribution of graduates and the administrative responsibilities of the faculty member involved.

He said in order for this division of labor to operate successfully, each placement individual assigned to certain areas of interest must of the other areas and often assumes placement responsibilities in them. This is necessary and desirable in the event that a placement worker and the person responsible for for that area cannot immediately act as it is; then, the student may become known to the placement officers through the other functions of the office and it is most desirable that the person who is to be in the placement problems knows the potential employee.

As Director, Dr. Tully works in the area of placing Teacher Candidates and related positions in Education, Insurance and Real Estate, and coordinates the placement activities as a whole by contacting representatives of industry and business, counseling the faculty members of various departments, and working with other placement offices.

His two chief assistants are: Mrs. W. L. Blair, Assistant Director, carries on placement activities in the areas of Language and Communications, Business Philosophy and Religion, Library Service, and The Arts. In addition, Mrs. Blair has been active in the Southern Placement Officers Association, holding several offices in this organization during past years.

Mr. William F. Baker, handles placement in the Physical Sciences, Biological Sciences, Business Management, Social Sciences, Art, and Art Education. In these areas he works closely with the department heads and faculty members in arranging for personal interviews between candidate and recruiter, forwarding placement credentials, and disseminating job opening information to all concerned.

Dr. Tully said the value of the major professors of all the candidates for job placement cannot be emphasized enough. "They work closely with my office in all placement matters by recommending eligible and qualified students, passing on material they make in business and industry, and most important, giving the type of personal recommendation that is invaluable to placement office and employer alike."

He urged strongly that each graduating senior and undergraduate alike to become acquainted with members of the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement who are responsible for his ultimate placement in the field of major study.

"As long as both parties 'Keep It Personal', maximum efficiency and mutual satisfaction will ensue in all placement matters," Dr. Tully concluded.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES—L. to R., Lee Clower, president of Delta Sigma Pi, and Bob Perry, president of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternities on campus, are shown with Mr. Baker and Mrs. Ferman of Placement office, looking over a booklet dealing with forthcoming Job-Getting Seminar, December 1 and 2.

Open Letter To Students

You are cordially invited to attend the Sixth Annual Job-Getting Seminar to be held December 1 and 2 in the Suwannee Room, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Elsewhere on this page you will find specific information about the program, the social hour, and a list of representatives from business and industry who will be present. Please shape your plans to attend.

A large number of former Florida State University graduates who now have responsible positions, obtained their first jobs through attending one of the Job-Getting Seminars. You, too, may meet your future employer at this meeting.

Glover E. Tully — Director
Margaret Blair — Assistant Director
William F. Baker — Counselor

Vocational Guidance and Placement

Placement Director Active In Southern College Association

Mrs. Margaret Blair, Assistant Director of Vocational Guidance and Placement, has been active in the Southern College Placement Officers Association for several years.

Her work with the organization has been recognized by the group, which has selected her for a number of important assignments. In 1951, she was appointed as Chairman of the Publicity Committee. In 1952, she was elected Treasurer and served as a member of the Finance Committee. The following year, she was named Secretary.

The membership of the Southern College Placement Officers Association is confined primarily to the southern part of the United States. There are, however, members from the East, the North, and the Far West. Mrs. Blair has opportunity to meet and work with representatives of some of the largest and most influential firms in the country.

Both Mrs. Blair and Dr. Tully will attend the annual meeting of the Southern College Placement Officers Association to be held December 9-11 in Pinehurst, North Carolina.

Teaching Positions

At the present time, there are 161 teaching positions in Florida public schools that are unfilled.

One of the reasons for this teacher shortage is increased enrollment. This year, 69,849 students are attending the public schools, a gain of nearly 60,000 over the past year. All but seven of Florida's sixty-seven counties reported more students this year than last year.

The teacher shortage will probably grow more acute. This shortage is nation-wide. Florida ranks as one of the five states that will have the greatest increase in population, so the teacher shortage here will be greater than in most other parts of the country.

TO ASSIST IN SEMINAR

Other campus groups who plan to participate in the Sixth Annual Job Getting Seminar are Pi Omega Pi, Scullions, and Future Business Leaders.

The Scullions will make arrangements for the refreshments which will be served by the members of Pi Omega Pi during the Social Hour preceding the program. Members of the Future Business Leaders will preside as floor hosts and hostesses.

(ACP)—A recent poll regarding the U.S. Supreme Court's segregation decision brought out a 44.8 per cent "favorable" response, and 44.8 per cent opposition to the decision at Duke, North Carolina College, the weekly Davidsonian editorialized. Half of the student body gave opinions.

Burdines
PRESCRIPTION SPECIALISTS
Drug Store
206 SOUTH ADAMS
DIAL 2-1680

WELCOME HOME!
Meet your friends at this store where the students always feel at home!
White and Pastel Raincoats, with Hat to Match are our Homecoming Feature - - -
Just $5.00
Steyerman's
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR QUALITY
118 S Monroe
Phone 3-1021

CAMERON'S
TEXACO SERVICE STATION
First To Give Specials To Students and Faculty
and
A Consistent Policy ALWAYS 100% FOR THE UNIVERSITY AND IT'S STUDENTS
BRING THE CARS AND WINTERIZE BEFORE COLD WEATHER BITES
CARS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED ANTI-FREEZE
WATER HOSES
HEATER HOSES
CLAMPS
Corner W. Tenn. & Copeland
Phone 3-0619
Tallahassee

SCORE A TOUCHDOWN!
MUM FOR THE GAME
CORSAGE FOR HER GOWN!
Pasco's Flowers
"When its Flowers—Say it with Ours"
PHONE 2-0695 or 2-0780
115 W. College Ave.

WELCOME ALUMNI!
to
The Amber House for Food That's Fine
Dine with us before and after the game
Try Our Special Filet Mignon
With French Fries, Lettuce and Tomato Salad, Toasted Bun
all for $1.00

Establishment Of Student Government Was First Major Step After Co-Educational Move In 1947

Student Officials Have Hopes To Obtain Student Charter From State Legislature

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

In the seven years since Florida State University arose, like the legendary phoenix, from the Florida State College for Women, student government here has undergone many organizational and functional changes.

The old University Government Association which came in when coeducation is no more. All undergraduate students are now automatically members of what is simply termed the Student Body.

Various political sentiments which appear to have grown preponderingly with the physical growth of FSU, most elected student government officials have hopes of obtaining a charter for the student government directly from the State Legislature.

This was referred to as "one of the major goals" by Student Body President Peter Nimkoff, when he addressed Student Senate during a meeting held early in the Fall in the State Senate Room, Capitol Building.

There is an undercurrent of sentiment that representation in Student Senate ought not to be on classes, freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior, but by precincts. Exponents of this plan would give representation to every two or three hundred students in designated residence areas, and would have a registration system set up to provide for day-student representation.

Voting in campus elections is limited to Student Body President Nimkoff, for example, was elected last spring by a vote of 1468 to his opponent's 603, while the number eligible to vote according to enrollment figures was 4,000.

Liberalism is the dominating factor in Student Senate, at least as far as administration-student relationships are concerned. The Senate has on occasion rebuked the administration on certain issues and has offered unsolicited advice on others.

As recently as the school year 1950-51 there was no Florida State University. Men were on the campus of the Florida State College for Women, but they were known as the Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida. The men, who numbered around 500 that year, had their own student government.

The FSCW student government however, once tempered by the ebb of men on campus, realized readily that the schools in Gainesville and Tallahassee be made completely co-educational. The Florida Citizens Commission on Education had, by that time, made a proposal to that effect. The State Legislature which was soon to meet reportedly had co-education in a prominent spot on its agenda.

A committee of students, faculty and administration was established to plan a student government in case the co-education measure should pass the legislature. On May 7, 1947, the dream became a reality. The Florida Flambeau, by way of note, editorialized on the event with the item labeled "Gaster-dammerung." That mans "Twilight of the Gods."

At 9:30 a.m. May 15, 1947, Florida State College for Women ceased to exist, and the infant FSU was confronted with the task of establishing a student government.

Student government has become, since its inception here, a miniature of the national political set-up. The executive branch, or its cabinet, is fashioned similar to the administration of the Executive Council of the United States. Partisan politics have made their appearance.

The most distinct aspect of FSU's Student Government is the method of the party system.

The Student Party elected most officers last Spring but its opponent, the State Party, swept all three class presidencies as well as numerous other class offices. Control of the Student Senate is in the hands of the Student Party and the presidency is also held by that group, but the other faction has enough officials entrenched in government to cause serious concern on the part of Student Party people.

The present State Party is thought of as having the more aggressive, active leadership.

Student Senate has final authority on distribution of money from the Student Activity fee, subject to faculty review.

The Constitution provides for a Student-Faculty budget committee of five faculty members and five students, with a chairman to be appointed by the President of the University. This committee, in addition to working on the Student Activity fee, recommends allocation of the other moneys derived from the registration fee.

The Student Body President has the power to appoint officials and head a cabinet. He has the customary power of veto. A major job of his is to recommend plans for legislation to the Senate.

The Judiciary consists of a Traffic Court, a University Court, and an Honor Court. The last-named body is the court of last appeal, short of faculty review.

Traffic Court tries minor traffic offenses and imposes penalties which go into a scholarship fund University Court hears appeals from house councils and tries cases involving social regulations, in the main. When a case involves only a man or only a woman, University Court divides into separate courts. There are three men and three women from the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes each, and a chairman of junior or senior standing.

Honor Court tries cases involving alleged infractions of the Honor Code, sits as a supreme court in cases questioning constitutionality, and hears appeals from the lower court. Its members are juniors and seniors.

All members of the courts, chairmen and clerks are elected.

The Constitution provides for a Summer Council, which was installed for the first time this past Summer. Class officers and election of student publications' editors and business managers are also provided for.

A 1.300 average is required to hold office; a 1.00 point average is necessary in order to hold what is designated as a minor office.

Student Senate, by two-thirds vote, may impeach an elected officer for alleged misfeasance and/or malfeasance and/or nonfeasance of office. Honor Court hears the impeachment and decides on the case.

Perhaps one of the projects by that party was uncontested last Spring.

Moore considers as one of his outstanding projects the appointment of the special committee to study student government and recommend changes to "improve it and extend its service."

Recently he introduced resolutions asking that F grades not be used in computing scholastic averages, nor be considered in determining eligibility for campus groups.

* * *

Men's vice-president Gordon Gaster, a junior from Avon Park, can be found in almost every hot debate to take place upon the Senate floor.

The Men's vice-president, who presides over meetings of Men's Senate when the Student Senate divides and is an ex-officio member of all Senate committees, is an economics major. He served as a sophomore Senator last year and was elected to his vice-presidency on the State Party platform.

Gaster won't commit himself on his plans for the political future.

"I'll continue (in student government) at any time that I can be of service to the Student Body," he commented recently.

Gaster, who helped to organize the State Party, is thought of as one of several likely candidates for the Student Body Presidency.

He sponsored the student accident insurance policy, coeducational visitation in the infirmary, and led the opposition last year against a proposal to require all freshmen to attend all home football games.

Gaster last year initiated the much-heralded investigation of The Florida Flambeau.

Women's Vice-president Joan Tavel, junior secondary education major from Orlando, also is noncommital on any plans she may entertain for future politics.

"I really don't know. I haven't decided what I'm going to do when the Spring comes," said the former sophomore senator and freshman chsa secretary when asked if she will run again.

Miss Tavel, who was elected last Spring on the Student Party ticket, presides over Women's Senate due to her vice-presidency. She noted especially the group's work in getting up a constitution for Freshman Finishes, a new constitution for Sophomore Council, and efforts to liberalize some of the regulations for women.

* * *

Mary Grace Shoemaker is Secretary of Senate, the office which must be contested in the Spring elections. Members of both parties are Bob Berto, "Ibey" Arnold, Dot Wells (interring) Lillian Aris, Bill Slanick and Bill Wagoner.

Junior Senators are Jimmy Joanes, Joan Halford, Nancy Vaughn, Fred Mansfield and Ken Gellis. One seat is, at the present, vacant.

Sophomore Senators are Jim Moore, Jimmy Soles, Bobby Temple, Margaret Ann Ballinger, Jo Jones and Carolyn Close.

The members of President Pete Nimkoff's cabinet are Dave Kennedy, Attorney General; Phoebe Jackson, Secretary of State; Betsy Jo Grubbs, Secretary of Elections; Don Teal, Secretary of Finance; Betty Ann Munroe, Secretary of Honor; Margaret Neller, Secretary of Forums, and Fred "Pat" Thornton, Secretary of Organizations.

At the time of this writing, the appointments of Vern Williams as Secretary of Labor and Graham Carothers as Secretary of Recreation were awaiting confirmation by the Student Senate.

Jerry Meyer is Chief Justice of Honor Court, which consists of Cecelia Ann Franklin (substituting for Intern Mary Ann McFarlagd); Sara Whitehead, George Martin, "Coot" Jackson, Warren Cobb, Anne Polish and Barbara Graham. The appointment of Joe Harris to the seat vacated by Dave Kennedy who is now Attorney General, awaits confirmation by the Student Senate.

Doc Cooks heads the University Court and presides over the women's sections of that body — other members are Jim Bishop, George Carnes, Jim Padgett, Jo Carol Law (substituting for Intern Nancy Pagen); Anne "Rocky" Stone and "Sissy" Smith;

Bob Elting, Tom Lewis, Harold Stewart, Donna Jean Carr, Lois Jean Pruitt, Harriet Ramsey, Jan Allred, Harvey Hall, Jim C. Moore, Greta Sime, Jane McMahan, and Beechie Bentley.

Secretary of the Women's Court is Sylvia Britt.

Jane Wardlaw is chairman of Traffic Court, whose other members are Carolyn Redfern and Bob Porter.

CABINET MEETS—Student Body President Peter Nimkoff, second from right, is shown with his cabinet at one of the group's regular Monday afternoon meetings. Left to right: Fred "Pat" Thornton, secretary of organizations; Betty Jo Grubbs, secretary of elections; Donn Teal, secretary of finance; Margaret Neller, secretary of forums; Dave Kennedy, attorney general; Peggy Babbitt, Nimkoff's secretary; Nimkoff, and Phoebe Jackson, secretary of state. Secretary of honor, Betty Ann Munroe, was absent.

POINT OF ORDER, MR. CHAIRMAN! . . . —Members of Student Senate are pictured during one of the group's regular Wednesday afternoon meetings. Coyle Moore, vice-president of the Student Body, wields the gavel in the right foreground. At his side is Mary Grace Shoemaker, Secretary of Senate.

Indicative of the normal functions of Student Government was the Senate's sponsorship of a mass junket to Asbury, for the football game there this Fall. A major accomplishment last year was the adoption of a group student accident insurance policy.

Top Elected Officials Make FSU's Student Government

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

When reading about the workings of government—national, state, local or collegiate—people tend to think of it in terms of power and unity and consistently forget the people who comprise that government.

It has been said that our government—and this applies to the college as well as the nation—is a government of laws, not men. Yet men are back of those laws and policies which govern us.

It might be interesting to briefly examine those who most directly influence the making of student policy at Florida State University.

Student Body President Peter Nimkoff, an affable, 21-year old American Studies Major from Tallahassee, has the responsibility of heading the administration, proposing legislation to the Student Senate, and enforcing the laws. Constitution passes both the Senate and the veto which he rarely, if ever uses.

The biggest headache Nimkoff has had during his administration as far could easily be said to be the opposition some of his presidential appointees have encountered in the Student Senate.

Nimkoff, who says that he is "thinking seriously" about going to law school this fall, forsaking two-year hitch as a second lieutenant in the Army Reserves, was elected to the Student Body Presidency on the Student Party platform. His opinion of party politics on the FSU campus is not all complimentary, however.

The President says that he feels political reasons motivated opposition to some of his appointees as far as their confirmation by Student Senate was concerned. He intimated that such opposition works toward "defeating the purpose of student government" which, he says he states is "trying to make this a better place."

The President thinks that party politics on the campus tend to pepper students for active, mature politics. He adds, however:

"I am much more concerned now with how much we can accomplish rather than how artful our political methods are."

Before his election to the Presidency, Nimkoff was Attorney General under President Milton Carothers.

* * *

Coyle Moore, vice-president of the Student Body, wields the gavel over Senate meetings. The Tallahassee junior who has made accounting his elected to his job without opposition last Spring, after serving two years in Senate.

Moore, who is often spoken of as a likely candidate for the Student Body Presidency, is noncommittal about his future in student politics. He confirms that if he does run for another office, it will be on the Student Party ticket. His nomination

Welcome Back to F.S.U
JENKINS MUSIC STORE
45, 78 ,33 1-3 RPM Records
Sheet Music
123 S. Monroe

Welcome Home Alumni
Have A Wonderful Visit this Homecoming
209 S. Adams

Joe's
SPAGHETTI HOUSE
Welcomes Back F.S.U.'s Alumni Specializing in—a Italian Spaghetti
a Western Steaks
a Fried Chicken
a Sea Foods
Private Dining Rooms for Banquets and Parties. Large, New Banquet Room.
dial 2-9131
115 MILES EAST OF N. MONROE ST.
EAST JACKSONVILLE HIGHWAY

Welcome Alumni
After the Game Visit
Bennett's Soda Fountain and Luncheonette Counter
Bennett's Student Headquarters For Kodak Supplies
BENNETT'S DRUG STORE
CORNER MONROE AND COLLEGE
PHONE 2-4450

Clean 'em up, SEMINOLES!
. . . and STUDENTS, you CLEAN UP Too . . .
At Your NEW, SPEEDY
WEE WASH-IT
LAUNDRY
Beautiful Dry Cleaning and Laundry Finishing
30 MINUTE FLUFFY WASH
60 MINUTE WASH AND DRY
629 W. Tennessee St. Phone 2-1878
(One block from Senior Hall)

Freshmen Cast

(Continued from page 1)

beyond words" at what she termed the "phenomenal" turnout at the polls. She praised the Freshmen "interest," saying "nothing like that has ever happened before."

Wiest drew attention was the fact that although scarcely half of the class voted, according to prevailing estimates of class size, the numoer casting ballots in the run-offs was greater than in the primary.

Alums Return

(Continued from page 1)

returning alumni this year at Homecoming. He was a member of the football team in his college days. This is his first return visit to the campus.

Mayor and Mrs. C. B. Harvey of Key West will be in attendance. Robert Schirmer, now a president of the state of California, will be present. In 1952, Mr. Schirmer and his wife traveled by plane and car all the way from Anchorage, Alaska, to attend the Homecoming festivities. Mr. Schirmer proves that no distance is a barrier to prevent his returning to his college for Homecoming.

Seventeen who have graduated from Florida State University are coming from all parts of the United States to attend their class reunions, which are being held this weekend.

DOORWAY TO PARADISE—It really is to those who have experienced the cramped facilities of Augusta Conrad theatre and Opperman Music Hall for big productions since the old Westcott Auditorium was closed two years ago. Above above is the entrance to the new auditorium, expected to be completed and open in [illegible]

Flambeau staff photo by Al Sirkin

CLASSROOM BUILDING WILL RISE HERE—The foundation is well under way on the construction of a new classroom building, to cost $650,000. Located on Call Street opposite the site of the proposed millionDollar library, the building will be three stories high at one end and two at the other.

NEW MEN'S GYMNASIUM—Now under construction, the new gym is estimated to cost $1,000,000. The site of the new structure is just west of the ROTC area between West Hall and Campbell Stadium.

Construction 'Booms' On FSU Campus As New Buildings Make Their 'Appearances

A six-million dollar construction program now in progress is rapidly giving birth to modern-ism on the Florida State University campus.

With the $350,000 Geology Building hardly completed and work still going on in Westcott Auditorium, grounds are being cleared and work begun on two $1,000,000 buildings.

Beers Construction Company of Atlanta was awarded the contract for the new library just recently. Estimated cost for the four-story structure is $1,-462,000.

Work has also begun on the million-dollar gymnasium for men, located just west of the R.O.T.C. area between West Hall and Campbell Stadium.

Also currently under construction is a new, air-conditioned classroom building, to be located opposite the new library on Call Street between the Student Center and N. Cswhton Hall.

Ultra-modern in design and conveniences, the new library will feature smoking lounges on every floor, a student elevator, conference room, and typing room. A brick building, with limestone trim, it will hold about 500,000 volumes and seat about 1,000 students, report officials.

The School of Library Science, now located four blocks from the present library, will occupy the basement of the new library, expected to be completed within 15 months.

According to Assistant President Engineer W. M. Bishop a practice, par-3 golf course and a special outdoor amphitheater for Gymkana, will be built with the men's gymnasium.

The classroom and office part of the building will flank the gymnasium area which is 244 feet long. The gym floor will be spacious enough for three practice courts and a varsity court. The gymnasium will also house classroom space, radio and TV facilities, folding bleachers in the gym area, lockers, equipment rooms and bowling alleys.

According to blueprints, the new classroom building will be three floors high on one end and two on the other. It will have space devoted to biological science and biological equipment, including laboratories for faculty and graduate research, a herbarium, equarium, animal room, dark room, greenhouse, departmental offices, and auditorium.

Estimated cost for the class-room building, according to Grady W. Bea, university comptroller, is $650,000.

Interior furnishings are almost completed in Westcott Auditorium, built at an estimated cost of $535,000. It is set to be ready for the first Artist Series program in December, the new auditorium will seat between 1600 and 1650 persons, according to university sources.

The new auditorium replaces an earlier auditorium which stood until 1953, when work of the building's foundation cracked the structure in two, causing it to be condemned.

The geology building will have classrooms are in use now, consists of three main floors and basement floor, all well lighted and ventilated. A statistics laboratory is housed in the basement. Construction began in the spring of 1953 and the building was completed during the summer of 1954.

This building program, since it involves non-residence construction, is financed by state appropriation, according to official sources. The buildings covered in this story are completed now, under construction or slated for construction in the near future.

Flying Seminoles

(Continued from page 1)

edy dances and character and tap dancing. When the Light Opera Guild presents "Carousel" in Dec., they will have the leading dance roles. They also sing; as Dick modestly said, "We sang loud but not too well." Ed was in "Flying High" last year, and is in AFROTC this year.

Before coming to college, Dick and Ed had many interesting experiences all over the country. They were in the Jackson Hole Band in 1949 when it was New York International Champion, parading from Fifth Avenue to Madison Avenue in New York City. They appeared in Madison Square Garden when they won first place in the Lion's International Contest, and in Chicago at the All-Star game.

Dick also won the National Championship of Baton Twirlers in Chicago. In Texas they helped train a band from scratch, teaching modern band technique and also twirling to majorettes. In addition, they appeared in the Orange Bowl classic for four years and have made many other personal and television appearances.

Their activities were not limited to the United States either, for in 1951 the boys were guests of the Dominican Republic president, where they gave a command performance in the palace. They have also been to Cuba four times where they performed in parades and street dances.

On the state of Florida, the "Flying Seminoles" past experiences include jockeying at the South Florida Contest Division of Twirling, held in Miami Stadium.

In surprising contrast to their hobby of dancing, Ed is a premedial major and Dick is majoring in modern designing. "However," Dick said, "we will probably get into show business after college, for if we didn't, neither one of us would be satisfied."

ROTC Sophomores Selected For Temporary AF Promotions

A number of sophomores in the Air Force ROTC program of Florida State University at Tallahassee have been selected for temporary promotions according to Capt. Kenneth W. Derring, commandant of cadets.

They are all enrolled in their second year of AFROTC and were chown for their positions by the cadet officers of the corps.

Squad Sergeants, with the rank of Airman First Class, include Norman D. Barth, Frank H. Hawkins, Robert L. Gainous, John A. Ficklin, David R. Strachanan, Donald C. Craig, Richard E. Lincoln, Lyndon N. T. Reynolds, Wallace T. Jenkins and Upton D. Officer.

Delan W. Swilley, Thomas M. Smith, Kenyon B Sesner, William A. Brenner, Billy R. Campbell, Burt F. Worthing, Norman F. Olson, Thomas W. Feathers, Paul F. Gocke, Robert P. Granger, Clifford S. Kidd, Arthur E. H-mple and Charles C. Shaw.

Bobby L. Ward, James W. Baker, Paul D. Allen, Ted M. Keller, Emmett P. Hardin, Johnny A. Hall, David A. Medford, Samuel R. Moates, John W. Pickel, Raymond W. Warner, Paul E. Wolfe, and John A. Scott.

Cadet Rank of Airman First Class in the position of flight guide has been awarded to Charles C. White, Don M. Conlin, Eddie M. Franklin, Joe B. Marrs, Charles E. Ringer, Omar B. Smith, Edgar B. Wycoff, Charles A. Chester, James C. Moore, Jr., and Maurice L. Steinberg.

Assistant squad sergeants are awarded the rank of Airman Second Class and include William J. Bowman, Whiddon and John T. Boyd, James F. Kauffman, Robert M. Jernigan, Charles Watford, Gordon H. Shirah, Ronald E. Belesch, Robert Hemmann, Patrick L. Napier, Norris M. Parks, Robert M Potter and Garry D. Roth.

WELCOME ALUMNI

Dine In Comfortable Atmosphere

Complete Dinners From $1.50 up
Approved by AAA

Let Us Plan Your Banquet or Luncheon
Our Private Banquet Room Has A Capacity of 110

TALLAHASSEE Dining Room

1630 North Monroe
Phone 2-3428
Mr. Bishop, Mgr.

WELCOME ALUMNI
Keepsake Diamond Rings
Bulova and Elgin Watches
REPAIRS

PAUL TURNER JEWELER

102 S. Monroe St Phone 3-1442
SCALP 'EM SEMINOLES

WELCOME BACK FOR HOMECOMING
SHOE-REPAIRING
"We Doctor Shoes, Heel Them, Attend Their Dyeing, and Save Their Souls"

PALACE SHOE SHOP
121 East Park Avenue

WELCOME BACK GRADUATES of Florida State University!
Good to Have You Home!

P. W. Wilson Co.

Nearly Three Thousand Dollars Raised Here By Campus Chest

Students here raised $2,444.50 during the annual Campus Chest Charity Drive, held earlier in the semester.

Corresponding roughly to the Community Chest driven in cities throughout America, the drive is the only one held on the Florida State University campus. The figure noted above was reported by general chairman Shirley Traxler as the total received by last Wednesday.

Events held in connection with the two-week drive ranged from dances and sales to field days and ball-road blocks. As in previous years, a Campus Chest Dance was held during the early part of the drive.

Miss Traxler's report of money received is as follows: Balance from 1953-54 drive, $129.47; Dixie Sudes, Fellowship Christian Church, $10; Kappa Alpha fraternity, $325.07; Student Christian Association, $19.

Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, $75.96; International Club, $12.-52; Student Nurses Association, $9.72; Phi Kappa Tau, fraternity $158.65; Gilchrist Hall, $107.

North Cawthon, $86.50; Mortar Board, $10, Jenne Marjoram $225.80; Alpha Chi Omega fraternity, $91.15; Bhat Landia Hall, $27.52; Reynolds Hall, $121.49; Day Students, $28.50; Florida Hall, $30.09

Bryan Hall, $46.50; Gamma Delta, Lutheran Church, $25.00; Broward Hall, $76.32; Tau Kappa Phi fraternity, $16; South Cawthon Hall, $146.27; Gold Key, $25.

West Landia Hall, $54.06. Gamma Phi Beta sorority, $50.50; Alpha Xi Delta sorority, $62; Sarma Phi Epsilon fraternity, $40.80; West Hall, $42.74; Home Economics Club, $17.06, Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, $45.33.

Newman Club, $16, and Gamma Phi Beta sorority, $30.50.

Zeta Tau Alpha Pledge Class, $11.04; Newman Club, $16; Sigma Kappa fraternity, $149.92; Westwick "F" Club, $222; Senior Hall, $.47; Future Teachers of America Club, $41.20; Sophomore Council, $96.46; Magnolia Hall, $21.43 and Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, $12.

Cisarman Traxler thanked those who had supported the charity drive, saying "Most every organization has cooperated beautifully."

Allocation of money received in World University Service, 40%; March of Dimes, 15%; Tuberculosis Association, 15%; Red Cross, 10%; American Cancer Society, 10%; National Association for Mental Health, 10%; and Local Service Foundations, 5%.

Miss Traxler urged all organizations to please turn in money to Mr. Fred Voerg's office in Longmire Building basement immediately if it is still not in.

ACE MEETS

There will be a meeting of the Association of Childhood Education, Monday, November 15, at the Demonstration School, at 7:30 p.m.

Phone 2-8517

RAMM'S RADIO SHOP

RADIO — TELEVISION & ELECTRICAL APPLIANCE SALES AND SERVICE

DEALERS FOR DUKANE, STROMBERG-CARLSON, WEBCOR and SENTINEL

BATTERIES — ALL MAKES
AUTO RADIOS—ALL MAKES

C. H. RAMM, PROP. 213 W. College Ave. Tallahassee

Cameras
Movie and Still
1-Day Photo Finishing

PICTURES FRAMED

RADIO REPAIR
"The Finest in Photographic Equipment"

CAPITAL CAMERA
Corner College and Adams

WELCOME ALUMNI
Take Home An FSU Souvenir

SCALP 'EM SEMINOLES

BEAT FURMAN

SWEAT SHIRTS
STUFFED ANIMALS
BANNERS
BOOKENDS
DECALS
PENNANTS
GARNET and GOLD JACKETS
MUSICAL FOOTBALLS - FSU FIGHT SONG

OPEN SATURDAY MORNING
8:20—12:30

UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
Books and School Supplies — Novelties and Art Supplies
IN THE STUDENT CENTER

One Of These Five Will Be Homecoming Queen

Kappa Delta

Dean Jackson

Mary Dean Jackson, one of the blond hazel-eyed junior [illegible] is sponsored by Kappa Delta sorority. Miss Jackson is an elementary education major, and a member of the F.T.A. and Village Vamps. She hails from Jacksonville.

One of the five finalists selected from a field of forty one this week will be crowned Florida State University Homecoming Queen for 1954-55 tonight.

Last years reigning queen, Miss Ann Yates, will perform the crowning ceremony with the traditional Indian Headdress.

Voted upon by the student body, the five finalists include Ferrell DeWitt, sponsored by Kappa Alpha fraternity; Betty Wilmon, backed by West Hall; Dean Jackson, Kappa Delta entrant; Betty Ann Munroe, Day Student and Pi Beta Phi sorority candidate; and Margaret Ann Ballinger, sponsored by Delta Gamma Sorority.

After the presentation tonight, the new Queen will reign over all upcoming FSU activities and will ride on the Queen's float in next year's Homecoming parade.

Part of the duties of the Queen entails the crowning of next year's queen.

Probably the highest honor to be bestowed on an FSU co-ed, the Homecoming Queen pushes all other beauty titles into the background.

Perhaps the most heartening story to come out of any college homecoming queen contest is the tale of a pretty blonde freshman who stole the hearts of everyone in 1952 to win the title. The little beauty, with a slight accent, was sponsored by Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Her name was Marlies Gessler.

A former Polish DP, Miss Gessler captured the heart of the entire nation when she smiled down at them from the cover of Life. It was truly a story of a modern cinderella.

Last year's festivities were reigned over by Ann Yates, dark haired, brown-eyed beauty from Key West. A Phi Delta Theta candidate, Miss Yates was crowned in the Indian Headdress by Miss Gessler, a duty Miss Yates will perform tonight.

In Miss Yates' court were Betty Wilmon, Kappa Alpha, Sally Hamner, Sigma Chi; Betty Jo Miller, Theta Chi; and Anita Wall, North Cawthon.

Members of the 1952 court included Queen Barbara Brewton, sponsored by Sigma Nu; June Conyers, Dorothy Johnson, and Judy Ellis.

The court tonight will be presented first, with the Queen announced last. The candidates will circle the stadium in convertibles and will be escorted to the platform where Miss Yates and other dignitaries will be on hand to perform the final ceremonies.

West Hall

Betty Wilmon

Betty Wilmon, one of last year's Homecoming Queen's court, is a green-eyed blonde from Quincy. A junior in the school of Arts and Sciences, she plans to go into International Affairs upon graduation. Miss Wilmon is sponsored by West Hall and is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Village Vamps. In student government she is undersecretary of elections and served on the Summer Council this year.

Kappa Alpha

Ferrel DeWitt

Ferrell DeWitt, a blue-eyed blonde sophomore sponsored by Kappa Alpha fraternity is studying to be an elementary teacher. Miss DeWitt has been in the Kappa Alpha Rose Court, Jennie Murphree's Queen Court, and Freshman Carnival Court. She was sponsor of her Jacksonville High school homecoming game.

Pi Beta Phi

Betty Ann Munroe

Betty Ann Munroe, head cheerleader, is the only [illegible] finalist. Enrolled in the school of social welfare, Miss Munroe is sponsored by Pi Beta Phi sorority. The Tallahassee coed is a member of Village Vamps and Cotillion.

Marlies Gessler And Ann Yates, Former Homecoming Queens, Will Look On Tonight As Successor Is Crowned At Stadium

Art majors seem to have had preference in the past two Homecoming queen elections. Both Miss Ann Yates, 1953 Queen, and Miss Marlies Gessler, 1952 Queen, are majoring in art.

Tiny, dark-haired, with brown eyes, Ann Yates ascended the throne last year to become the 1953 Homecoming Queen, sponsored by Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Hailing from Key West, Miss Yates is a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority, active in Village Vamps and has been a varsity cheer-leader. She also participated in the FSU circus, "Flying High," for two years.

Now a senior, Miss Yates has a long list of beauty titles behind her. She was a finalist twice in the Miss FSU contest, a calendar girl three times, and reigned as queen of her class as a Sophomore.

Last year she was a member of the Queen's Court at the Gator Bowl on New Year's Day. The 21-year-old Floridian is slated to crown the 1954 Homecoming Queen at the Pre-Wow tonight.

Ex-Homecoming Queens

Ann and Marlies

Marlies Gessler, a blond, blue-eyed co-ed, was one of the few freshmen to don the traditional feminole Headdress and reign as Homecoming Queen.

In 1952, as a freshman, Miss Gessler had only been in the United States for a little over a year, having come here from Poland with her mother. Even in this first year, her beauty and personality won the hearts of the senior class at Jefferson High School in Monticello who voted her their Homecoming Queen.

Miss Gessler also gained national fame as a freshman at FSU when her picture appeared on the cover of LIFE magazine and the cinderella story of her life hit the press.

A member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, she is also active in circus, Village Vamps, and was a member of Sophomore Council during her sophomore year.

As a sophomore, Miss Gessler was chosen "Miss Tallahassee" and entered the contest for Miss Florida. She is now in her junior year at FSU.

Delta Gamma

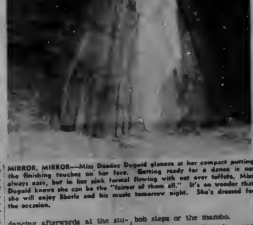
Margaret Ann Ballinger

Margaret Ann Ballinger, a blue-eyed brunette Tallahassee sophomore, is sponsored by Delta Gamma sorority. She is sophomore senator in student government, member of Sophomore Council, Village Vamps, cheerleader and scholarship chairman for Delta Gamma. Miss Ballinger is in the School of Education.

Society, Fashions Are Spotlighted During FSU Celebrations

By JOYCE POTTER

While fashion-wise coed, it's time to take stock of your wardrobe and get all those outfits in order for the big events of the weekend.



Come noon today, classes, books and anything else pertaining to work will be forgotten. Final touches will be put on dance decorations, floats will be put up and everything will be ready for the weekend.

Number on the list is self-decorating. Your nails are probably in need of a manicure, from painting and [illegible] machineing your hair around a shampoo and set. Don't get to work right now you're going to be ready for the parade this afternoon and the Wow o'clock tonight when that certain fellow comes a-calling.

Friday night and its the big Pre-Wow. You take a look in your closet and just can't decide what to wear. Better run down the hall and ask the rest of the girls what they are going to wear. Are they wearing black or should you just wear your black suede flats?

Actually, either one is perfect all right. Tonight it's up to you. If you want to wear a dressy blouse, a little on the casual side with heels it's fine. However, if you feel like being casual, then slip into your cardigan sweater and your suede and the low heels will be just fine.

Then if you decide to go dancing afterwards at the student center or in one of the fraternity or sorority houses you'll be all set for the latest bob steps or the mambo.

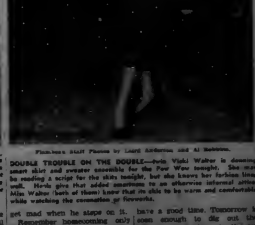
MIRROR, MIRROR—Miss Deedee Dupuid glances at her compact putting the finishing touches on her face. Getting ready for a dance is not the only fashion worry with out ever taffeta, Miss always easy, but in her pink formal flowing with out ever taffeta, Miss Dupuid knows she can be the "fairest of them all." It's no wonder that she will enjoy Eberle and his music tomorrow night. She's dressed for the occasion.

Tomorrow is Saturday and she big game. FSU vs. Furman. The day is a little warm, but just the same you get out your new suit, heels, purse and then you stop. What about hat and gloves?

After running down the hall asking and consulting your friends, you find that some are going to wear hats and some aren't. Again it's up to you.

After the game you can go to any open house just as you are. No need to go back to the dorm to change again.

However, make that boy friend of yours take you back to the dorm in plenty of time to get ready for the biz dance that night. You don't want to be rushed at the last minute.



Now the serious business begins. You want to look extra special on this last night. Don't forget the manicure; set your hair and be sure to press your formal early. That line at the ironing board just never seems to end.

Now you can relax for a little and rest. Don't lie there too long though or you'll realize just how tired you are. Then jump up, get your shower, and get dressed.

For the dance, choose a formal that has billows and billows of gay net. It's a little late in the year for those organdies although Florida weather lures to fool us sometime with warm days in the middle of winter.

HE'S LATE! HE'S LATE!—for a very important date. Mary Walters, above, have checking on the time, may wear the opening kick-off of the Furman game but she didn't miss kicking off the fall season in a smart tailored suit. With suede heels and matching gloves and pocket book, Miss Walter will cut a stunning figure at the game with the latest in fall campus wear, sprops, in the words of the fashion wise, for athletic events.

Photos by Staff Photos by Lloyd Anderson and Al Bateman.

DOUBLE TROUBLE ON THE DOUBLE—Both Vicki Walter in dressing smart skirt and sweater ensemble for the Pre Wow tonight. She may be reading a script for the skits tonight, but she knows her fashion lines well. Herds give that added smartness to an otherwise informal attire. Miss Walter feels of them know that in skin to be warm and comfortable while watching the coronation of fireworks.

Tonight is the time to try to dance, but you'll be the envy of all the girls and he'll overlook the full skirt if you look pretty enough and don't get mad when he steps on it.

Remember homecoming only comes once a year, so forget books and get down to the end of all about school work and really grind!

Then have a good time. Tomorrow is soon enough to die out. The Education Projects Are Main Role Of Arts And Science

The addition of 20 new staff members and cooperation with three recently established educational projects highlight the record of the FSU College of Arts and Sciences for the past year.

Aside from the staff appointments, Dean Charles S. Davis points to the college's participation in the new reading clinic, the English department's coffee hour series, and operation "Bootstrap" in which several professors have traveled to various military bases as instructors.

Davis, who has been dean of the school since 1937 and associated with FSU since 1947, is aided by J. Paul Reynolds, associate dean of the school. Reynolds assumed his present post in 1953.

In the personnel department, two members of the staff have retired. Mrs. Lou Miller of the English department and Dr. Paul Pinner of Psychology have retired during the past year.

Joining the staff since the past year are: Dr. Charles Fairbanks, assistant professor of anthropology, from the National Park Service; Karl Zerbe, visiting artist, on leave from the school of the museum of fine arts in Boston. Howard Jones, assistant professor of art from Tulane University.

Charles S. Davis

Don Sievard, assistant professor of art from the University of Iowa; Dr. Robert Godfrey, assistant professor of botany from North Carolina State in Raleigh.

Duane Hausam, chemistry, James Wellington, English; and John Lawer, English, have been named temporary instructors. Mrs. Aileen Thompson has been named acting assistant professor of English. From California, Mrs. Thompson heads the recently established reading clinic.

Dr. William P. Tanner of the University of Oklahoma, is visiting lecturer in geology. Dr. Calvin Billman, acting assistant professor of history is from Tulane.

Named professor of marine biology was Dr. Robert H. Williams, formely of the University of Miami. Dr. Robert Menzel also has joined marine biology coming from Texas A&M.

Dr. Robert Williams has joined the arts and sciences staff as assistant professor of math, from the University of Virginia. Also in mathematics are Dr. Robert Lee Plunkett, assistant professor from Vanderbilt, and James Snower, acting assistant professor from Syracuse University.

Dr. Paul Piccard, who was connected with public administration last year, has been appointed visiting lecturer in political science. Dr. Conrad Snyder has joined the physics staff from the Oak Ridge, Tenn. institute.

Dr. Barbara Etzel has joined the psychology department. From Columbus she has worked in juvenile research. Dr. William Ocburn has returned as a visiting lecturer in sociology—he's from the University of Chicago.

In the speech department, Dr. Laurel Schendel has joined the staff as assistant professor. Schendel is from the University of Oklahoma. Mrs. Frances Levine is a new instructor in speech from the University of Iowa at Iowa City. Adelbert Bradley has been named temporary instructor in this department.

Appointments in the Air ROTC are Capt. Thomas Dean, Capt. Paul Suttle, and Lt. Fred Cannon—all are assistant professors of air science. Capt. Charles Greer has joined the Army ROTC.

Two members of the staff are on leave of absence with Ford Foundation scholarships.

Chemistry Department Contributing To Youths' Lore While Expanding

Providing education in chemistry for undergraduate and graduate students and making contributions to the fund of basic chemical knowledge through research are the important ambitions of every chemistry department in any college or university.

Under the leadership of Dr. Karl Dittmer, as head, the department of chemistry at Florida State University is fulfilling these obligations in stride with the outstanding departments in the nation.

Since the last Homecoming celebration Dr. Dittmer has appeared on three regional symposia, speaking on the need of creating a greater interest among high school and college students in science, particularly in chemistry.

During his appearances Dr. Dittmer stressed that the advantage of chemists is critical in the United States. He said that this is especially true in the South where a tremendous growth in chemical industries is taking place.

Through the special efforts of Dr. Michael Kasha, Dr. Harry Walborsky and Dr. Russell Johnson of the chemistry department together with other FSU scientists, other universities are following the examples of Florida State in providing high school students with opportunities in science and the advantages of science camps for junior and senior high school students.

These activities are stimulating a greater interest in science throughout the state, according to department spokesmen.

The high scholastic standards of the chemistry department and the stimulating presentations of the most up-to-date chemistry in the undergraduate courses is providing the FSU chemistry majors with a solid foundation in chemistry which has been most satisfying to recent graduates in terms of their success in graduate work or jobs.

Research interests of the faculty members of the chemistry department has interested national foundations, military agencies and chemical industries to the extent that such organizations are supporting the research of 11 faculty members with 23 grants or contracts.

These are distributed as follow 10 research grants from the U. S. Public Health Services, and Atomic Energy Commission, six grants from national research foundation of chemistry at Florida industries, and nine contracts for these obligations in stride with the outstanding departments in the nation. Navy, Army Ordnance, and Air Force.

These grants and contracts provide annually over $150,000 in support of the research ideas of the faculty members. Faculty members who conduct or direct such research are Drs. Beard, Dittmer, Frieden, Grunwald, Hertz, Johnson, Kasha, Kent, Leffler, Sheline and Walborsky.

At the present time there are 24 graduate students studying toward Master's or Ph.D. degrees in chemistry. The research grants and contracts provide stipends for 35 graduate assistants and six research associates.

The research associates who earned their Ph.D. degrees at other universities and are now continuing their research training at FSU include Drs. Braun, Brealey, Goodman, Purice, Viswanath and West.

The laboratory instruction in the undergraduate courses provides assistantships for 10 additional graduate students. Two graduate students, Joe Cable and Charles Crane, are National Science Foundation fellows. They were accepted for their exceptional ability on the Basis of a nationwide competitive examination and scholastic excellence.

During the past year the following five students earned their Ph.D. degrees in chemistry and their present position is indicated: Dr. William Coburn, (Continued on Page 16)

AT OCEANOGRAPHIC INSTITUTE—A work team at FSU's Alligator Harbor adjunct is ready for a day of research. Richard Durost, superintendent of the Oceanographic Institute; Fabian Kalber, university electronics engineer; Dr. W. N. Kolloeg, FSU psychologist; Averd Seldon and Richard Shoenberger.

Marine Life Studies Conducted At Alligator Point Laboratories

Three Departments Cooperating With Oceanograph Institute Founded In 1949; Meyer Is New Director

An Oceanographic Institute, located on the Gulf of Mexico approximately 40 miles from campus, is one of the most unique and interesting features of Florida State University.

Situated on Alligator Point, a sandy spit that extends from the mainland, the institute was recently put under the direction of Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, head of the botany department. It was founded in 1949 with Dr. Harold J. Humm as director.

The Institute has three major functions: it provides facilities for the training of students in marine sciences, especially at the graduate level.

It furnishes adequate facilities for the encouragement of research in marine sciences by staff members of both state universities. Other state institutions and visiting investigators from other states also use its facilities.

And it carries as research closely related to the fishery industry of Florida. One aim is in deriving unexploited marine resources.

Academically, the institute is composed of a section of those departments of the university which have marine interests.

A reorganization in the staff of the Oceanographic Institute has recently been completed. Dr. Franklin C. W. Olson is in charge of the work in physical oceanography. Dr. Robert W. Williams, a plant physiologist and marine algologist, directs the program in biological oceanography as it relates to the plant life of the sea. Dr. Winston Menzel, an oyster specialist, supervises the work which involves marine animals.

Members of other departments which have marine interests contribute both to the instruction and research programs of the Institute. These include the departments of Bacteriology, Botany, Chemistry, Economics, Food and Nutrition, Geography, Geology, Meteorology, Physiology, Psychology, and Zoology.

Facilities are located on the harbor side of the peninsula with the open gulf a five-minute walk to the beach. It covers an area of about 25 acres and offers some of the best bay collecting to be found in the region.

The research program of the Institute involves fundamental research in both physical and biological oceanography. Dr. Meyer points out that more emphasis is to be placed on expanding and improving the marine resources of Florida.

He added, "With the expansion of our program in this direction, we believe that the Oceanographic Institute will render a greater service to science and to the welfare of the people of Florida."

Geology Area To Instruct On Aerial Photos

By ROCK PAYNE

Air photography interpretation will be offered for the first time by Florida State University's Department of Geology in the spring, Dr. Ernest H. Lund, acting department head, announced this week.

Professor Lund stated that plans for the air photography interpretation course are not yet completed but that the course is expected to be set up by spring semester instructor for the course will be Dr. William Tanner, visiting lecturer from University of Oklahoma.

Dr. Tanner, presently connected with FSU as a lecturer in geology, is primarily interested in land forms and their development.

Classes in the air photo course will be conducted in the new geology building located across from the student union on the corner of Call and Woodward streets.

Dr. Lund, associate professor of geology, is acting department head in the absence of Dr. James S. Cullison, head of the Geology department since 1946. He resigned last summer to accept a position as research geologist in Egypt with a petroleum exploration company.

Back on campus after a year at Louisiana State University as visiting professor, Dr. Lyman D. Toulmin Jr., of the Geology Department, is instructor in the study of fossil records of plants and animals. He also teaches a class in advanced paleontology.

Professor Stephen S. Winters, on leave from the department last summer doing research at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, is also back at FSU. He is working with the department as a sedimentation research project.

Professor T. E. Ames, acting instructor last year, has returned to FSU to complete work on his doctoral program.

Graduate and undergraduate enrollment in the Department of Geology has greatly increased during the past year. Further increase in enrollment is anticipated with the beginning of the air photography according to a department spokesman.

English Department Has Celebrated Authors Appear Weekly In 'Coffee Series'

Pope, White Were Guests; Slaughter, Wylie Will Appear

By ROCK PAYNE

English Department professors of Shakespeare and Milton plunge elbow deep in suds each week to wash hundreds of coffee cups.

As a means for providing wholesome literary entertainment for Florida State University students, this clean up task is the aftermath of the weekly English Coffee Hour, an informal party sponsored by the faculty of the department of English.

In its third year, the English Coffee Hour, formerly known as the Reading Hour, is conducting this year a "Meet the Authors" series stressing Florida authors. The series has included personal appearances by writers Edith Taylor Pope, Pat Frank, Robb White and Peery Davidson.

The purpose of this series is "to honor, encourage, and give campus recognition to active Florida writers," a dishwashing professor of the program committee explained. The spokesman added further that the presentation of successful professional writers acts as a stimulus to students with literary ambitions.

Alumna Edith Taylor Pope of St. Augustine, author of six novels of Florida background, was guest at the opening of this year's series in October. She is a 1926 graduate and is now wife of Verle A. Pope of the Florida State Senate.

Mrs. Pope was interviewed at the Coffee Hour by Dean Emeritus William G. Dodd, now of the College of Arts and Sciences, her former English professor here.

In recent weeks, best-selling authors Pat Frank, who was Mr. Adams, and Robb White, author of Our Vesta Island, encouraged aspiring young writers who attended the interviews to develop their interest in journalistic work.

Last week Peery Davidson, Mrs. Millard Davidson, of Tallahassee, a gifted part-time writer whose humorous verse appears frequently in the Saturday Evening Post, enlightened coffee-drinking and cookie-munching students about publishing matters.

This series of weekly programs will continue each Friday except holidays through May 7 panel composed of several Florida authors is planned for a future meeting, the program committee announced.

The English Coffee Hour will not be held today because of the Homecoming parade.

Among authors who have agreed to appear are William Goyen, Cecil Rhyne, Donald Hall, Mary Alpiend, Richard (Continued on Page 18)

Welcome Home Alumni!

Cheer The Seminoles To Victory

SOUVENIR FIGHT SONG
FOOTBALLS

F.S.U. SWEATSHIRTS
AND T SHIRTS
FELT GOODS
PENNANTS

MALONE'S BOOK STORE

Welcome to Quality Dry Cleaners
FOR EXPERT
CLEANING PRESSING
REPAIRING ALTERING
CALL OR GO BY
2-5097
215 W. College

Welcome Alumni!
Tallahassee
Souvenir Plates $2.00
Tallahassee Sterling
Souvenir Spoons $2.10 Up
Alvin Putnam REGISTERED JEWELERS AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY Jewelers
308 S. Monroe

Harriet
Your Hair Stylist
Hairstyling, Coloring and All Other Specialized Beauty Work For Your Homecoming.
212 W. College
Phone 2-5214

The Silver Slipper
Famous For Charcoal Broiled Steaks
Welcomes Alumni
SEA FOODS — CHICKEN
OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK — PHONE 2-4961
2000 So. Monroe—One Mile From Capitol on Woodville Hwy.

MAKE IT A HOME-COMING SEMINOLE VICTORY!
The Vogue

MODERN DAY SEMINOLES—FSU Seminoles I, to r, Libby Blitch, Anna Stone and John Mahon examine Indian exhibit in University Museum. Other Seminoles in picture aren't for real.

HE'S THEIR MAN—FSU students look over Karl Zerbe's one-man exhibit in the Art Gallery. The exhibit will be on display through November 28.

WATCH THAT SMILE! The above clown figure is part of a collection currently on exhibit at the Florida State University Art Gallery. The one-man exhibit honors world famous Karl Zerbe, now teaching at FSU. The painting reflects Zerbe's individual treatment of an old subject.

WELCOME ALUMNI!
Desks, Chairs, Files
STATE OFFICE SUPPLY CO.
"Everything for Your Office"
Bookkeeping Supplies
Mimeograph Supplies
Filing Supplies
Typewriter Ribbons
Rubber Stamps
Carbon Paper
Phone 2-2607
207 South Adams St.
Tallahassee

Art Gallery Presently Exhibiting Collection Of Zerbe's Paintings

By JEAN TEDDER

The University Art Gallery is now featuring a one man exhibition by Mr. Karl Zerbe, an artist of international reputation, who is serving this year as a visiting professor in FSU's School of Art. The exhibit will run through November 28th.

The paintings now on exhibition are fairly recent works and are done in medium which was developed by one of Mr. Zerbe's former students. This is a plastic technique which has according to Mr. Zerbe, the power and scale of oil but allows the painter to work quickly because it dries so fast. "This material is like rock" said Mr. Zerbe and to prove it he gave one of his paintings a resounding thump.

In his formative years, Zerbe was influenced by Joseph Ehers, a Norwegian Expressionist and Fritz Burman, a German realist. Mr. Zerbe says of his own style "People call me abstract. That is pure nonsense. They say I am expressionistic. I am not that either. I am somewhere between the two and have not yet been classified."

"What does a painter do?" says Zerbe. "He paints, because he cannot do anything else. I try to portray life because it interests me."

When asked which of the paintings in the present exhibition is his favorite Mr. Zerbe replied "The Diesel Engine, if one can say that one has a favorite." This is a large painting of the grotesque oasis which make up an engine.

Concerning this picture Mr. Zerbe tells the following story on himself: "The Phillips Gallery was considering buying the painting but they have a rule that the trustees must vote unanimously for all large works. Twelve of them voted 'yes' but the thirteenth said 'no'. Number thirteen was a maker of diesel engines."

The University Art Gallery, on the second floor of the Dining Hall, is open week days from 2-5 p.m.

FLORIDA MUSEUM VISITOR—Dr. Carl E. Guthe, research associate of the American Associate of Museums, is now touring Florida's some 40 museums. At his first stop at the University Museum of Florida State University, Dr. Guthe, left, examines artifacts with Dr. Hale Smith, university museum director.

Antillean Relics Collection Is On Display At FSU's Museum

The Antillean collection, donated to the University by Ivan Gundrum Feric of Havana, Cuba, and currently on exhibit in the University Museum, is the "most complete collection of its kind," says Dr. Hale Smith, director.

The exhibit, which opened Tuesday night with an informal reception in honor of Mr. Gundrum, contains about 100 reproductions of prehistoric Indian objects.

One of the most unique artifacts on display, according to Smith, is a bifurcated snuff pipe, used by the Indians to inhale narcotics. He continued that medicine men of the tribes used these as a means to get a good "jag" or "trance" for tribal ceremonies.

The collection is representative of the Siboney, Arawak, and Carib tribes which met Columbus when he discovered the West Indies.

Gundrum, who made the replicas himself, studied the originals scattered in museums throughout the world. Smith states that his reproductions are of such realistic texture and exactness that they have fooled authorities.

Featured in the exhibit are pipes, statues denoting fertility gods cetis or hatchets, and "zemis." The zemis is a stone carving made by the Antillean Indians for habitation by "the spirits of their ancestors and gods, says Dr. Smith.

Gundrum, creator of the collection, has lived in Cuba for 22 years and is a member of the Ethnographic Museum of Zareb, Yugoslavia. His birthplace was Yugoslavia.

He presented the University with the collection of approximately 300 Antillean artifacts, last spring which Dr. Smith terms "invaluable."

Also currently on exhibit are displays on the Apalachee tribe native to the Tallahasee and St. Augustine areas from the 16th to the 17th centuries, the Creek Indians, and the development of man's use of power through the centuries.

FSU Art Area Sees Increase In Enrollment

Looking to the future, Dr. Adolph Karl acting head of the art department, predicts the steady increase of students enrolled for art courses here will continue.

The shift of interest can be attributed largely to the foresight of the acting head and his associates. The department now boasts of newly redecorated offices and classrooms, both done in the modern theme.

The department seeks to attract top-notch painters, who are either free or can obtain a leave of absence to come to FSU as visiting professors.

Dr Karl said the department was extremely fortunate in obtaining Mr. Karl Zerbe professor of art at the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts, as a visiting professor at FSU.

Mr. Zerbe one of the founders of abstract patterns in American art, is now conducting a one man exhibition in the Art Gallery located above the Dining Hall.

The department's Art students' Honor Exhibition preceded Mr. Zerbe's show, providing an opportunity for the art students to get a taste of exhibiting their own works.

A statistical survey on the way in which students at the University of Abo, Finland, spend their free time shows that 15 per cent go to the movies twice a week, 44 per cent went once a week, while 36 per cent went less than once a week. Fifty-seven per cent of those questioned said that they participate in some kind of sport.

SCALP 'EM SEMINOLES
Authorized Dealer For Eastman • Anco • Graflex
Dupont • Argus • Polaroid
Bell & Howell • Rolleiflex
Viewmaster • Stereo-realist
Radiant Screens
Tallahassee Camera Club
123 North Monroe Street
"Across From the Florida Theater"
Dial 2-8771
Mrs. LaVerne G. Mohr
Owner-Manager
Tallahassee

When you pause... make it count... have a Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY Tallahassee Coca-Cola Bottling Co.
"Coke" is a registered trade mark. ©1953. THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

"HOW YOU-ALL"
Welcome Back To Florida State
and
The
STUDENT CENTER
"Center of Social Life at F.S.U."
DON'T FAIL TO VISIT THE CENTER WHILE YOU'RE HERE. DINE ON THE FINEST FOOD IN THE CAFETERIA, HELP YOURSELF TO A DELICIOUS SNACK IN THE SNACK BAR. ENJOY DANCING IN THE SUNSET ROOM.

For Homecoming or Anytime—meet your fashion future at Nelly's SHOP
102 E. College
2-4463

Welcome Alumni
Get Your Mums for the Game From the "F" Club Girls
On Sale at the Gate
GET YOUR CORSAGES FROM ELINOR DOYLE
Phone 2-1297
202 S. Adams

Education, Entertainment Are Orders Of Day Here

THIS HORN WON'T ELOW—The FSU band forms the outline of a bugle as it rehearses formations. The 120-member Marching Chiefs Band will have a featured role in FSU's Homecoming.

WHOSE MOVE? Shows planning formation for the FSU Marching Chiefs are L. to r. Manley Whitcomb, Director of Bands; Charles Carter, Columbus, Ohio and Harry Schmidt, assistant professor of music. Peg, an football field chart represent band members.

Music School Is Country's 'Finest' In All Standards

By OSCAR JOHNSON

The School of Music at Florida State University is trying to produce for the people of Florida the best school of music in the country, according to Dean Kerl Kuersteiner.

Dr. Kuersteiner added the school wants to serve "everybody's needs" in music, not only those of the professional musicians.

Much progress has been made toward that goal. The FSU School of Music has maintained a position of leadership among music schools of the nation since its inception. Established as a department in 1900, and as a School of Music in 1911, it is among the oldest collegiate schools of music in the country.

The faculty of over 50 full-time members includes outstanding leaders in nearly every branch of music. The product of the finest universities and conservatories of North America and Europe, the faculty have achieved national and international renown in the fields of performance, education, composition and research.

The school sponsors many student-faculty musical groups. The Women's Glee Club, the first one organized, is now entering its first year under the direction of Miss Betty Jane Grimm. Previously for many years it had been directed by Mrs. Ele Robertson.

The Women's Glee Club gives Christmas programs and recitals on campus and over the state through the year.

The University Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Robert S. Sedore is a very active organization. Highlights of last year's season, the 57th, were two concert appearances.

The Marching Chiefs who are to present the halftime show at the many homecomings have gained the admiration and respect of America's top bandsmen. Under the leadership of Manley Whitcomb, FSU can expect the finest band program of any college or university in the country.

The FSU Symphonic Band is also under the direction of Manley Whitcomb, assisted by Mr. Robert T. Brainard and Mr. Harry Schmidt. It is divided into two symphonic bands during the Spring semester, each composed of nearly 100 players. In addition it is broken up into a basketball band, pep band and circus band during the year.

The FSU Concert Chorus is made up of students, although members from the city of Tallahassee are invited. The group has recently been twins a full open house. It puts on concerts as well as stage and opera throughout the year, and has a membership of 125. It is directed by Herman Gunter Jr.

About 40 students make up the Men's Glee Club. The Collegians Projects include dormitory and sorority serenades, musical programs and shows not only on campus but throughout the state. The Men's Glee Club is active through the school year. The Collegians are directed by J. Dayton Smith.

The University Singers, directed by Wiley L. Housewright, are made up of graduate students in the School of Music who have the assistance of a good number of faculty and undergraduate students. The singers, entering their seventh season of concerts in Tallahassee, are sponsored by the Service Leagues of that city.

Through them some outstanding music stars are presented each year. The group presently has 50 members.

FSU's Carlisle S. Floyd is the composer of "Susana," an opera to be presented by the University Singers with full orchestra and with outstanding stars, later in the year. This opera was recognized as one of the three best this year in international competition.

All of the above musical organizations under the School of Music are composed of students directed by faculty members. The State Symphony of Florida, directed by Dean Kuersteiner, is also housed in FSU quarters. This is not ordinarily open to undergraduate students, but faculty members make up the majority of the symphony. The State Symphony's opening concert is scheduled for December 2 in Opperman Music Hall.

Facilities for the FSU School of Music include the Music Building, one of the newest additions to the campus, and built under President Doak S. Campbell's 50-Year Plan. It has been described as the most modern and complete music building in the world. Opened in 1948, the building is air-conditioned and provides a year-round level of temperature and humidity.

It is designed according to the latest principles of acoustical engineering, and is thoroughly sound- and echo-proof. The rehearsal rooms, studios and practice rooms are built with nonparallel sound-baffling walls and are suspended from above and below to eliminate transmission of sound waves through floor to ceiling.

The Music Building includes the Opperman Music Hall, seating 678, which provides an ideal visual and acoustical setting for recitals, concert performances and chamber opera. The double stage of the Music Hall opens at the rear into the Outdoor Amphitheater, with a seating capacity of 1500.

The Music Library in the building is provided with listening rooms and earphone sets for the study of recorded music, both disc and tape. The record library at present has more than 4500 standard speed and 350 LP records, including historical and musicological collections.

Special rehearsal rooms are provided for the choral and instrumental organizations, plus storage space for these groups. For instruction and practice in music, the Music Building has five general classrooms, 11 offices, 30 teaching studios and 30 instrumental practice rooms, including five organs.

Courses offered by the School of Music form a complete curriculum. They center around active participation in the creation and performance of music for both students and faculty. Classes and private lessons are supplemented by ample opportunity for the student to widen his musical training and participant and auditor.

The FSU School of Music offers three doctoral programs to students as well as three master's degree and many bachelor's degree programs.

Two of the newest degrees offered are Bachelor of Music Education and Bachelor of Music (Music Therapy). The former was initiated because the school had many calls from churches who needed trained personnel to help in their music programs.

The Music Therapy degree was activated this fall and has been well received by the hospitals in the state, also evoking favorable editorial comment in newspapers.

FSU is the first school in the southeast to offer such a degree and its program has been approved by the National Association for Music Therapy and the National Association of Schools of Music. Graduates with this degree administer music under the direction of a variety of individuals and groups of patients as a means to a partial cure. They also have charge of musical programs in institutions such as penal institutions where music has a particular function to perform.

The School of Music organizations and faculty are very active. For instance, in the last orchestral season there were 22 concert appearances, 38 composers performed, 47 compositions presented and 83 compositions heard. Alsoeither, about 150 programs are given each year in Opperman Music Hall alone, cov-

(Continued on Page 18)

KAPPA KAPPA PSI MAY BE ORGANIZED

In a step toward organizing local chapters of Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma, national band honorary fraternity and sorority, band members have selected Ann Hayes and Richard Mayo to be coordinators of the project.

The basic purposes of Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma are to promote the existence and welfare of the college and, honor outstanding bandsmen and women, foster a close relationship between other college bands, and cooperate with other campus musical organizations.

Game Halftime Show 'Fiesta' For FSU Band

The Homecoming game tomorrow afternoon will be a fiesta time for the Marching Chiefs, as far as the halftime show is concerned.

A Mexican hat will be formed by the band to set a Latin American theme for the show, band officials said. They added the majorettes will dance the Mexican Hat Dance at this time.

The Flying Seminoles, Ed Franklin and Dick Puckett, will do an "interpretive" dance of a bull fight while the band plays Malaguena".

Next will come the head of Chief Osceola and his Marching Chiefs on the field, while the Toreador's Song from Carmen will be played.

With the music of Poinciana, the band will make the outline of a tree and a "flower;" the majorettes will again dance and the band will form a heart.

More Latin American music will give way to "Only a Rose", and the formation of a flower, from the center of which the Homecoming Queen will be presented to the audience.

An FSU formation, the fight song, an address by Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president, and the Alma Mater will close the show.

Activity-Conscious Speech Area Has 'Appeal' To Many

By ELKE FRANK

The term, "Speech Department," brings a variety of visions to the minds of students at Florida State University.

To the freshmen, it brings thoughts of giving five-minute speeches and sleepless nights making them up.

Upperclassmen and townspeople think of the plays they enjoy, while others, who work backstage or have parts in the productions, seem to smell grease paint or remember rewetsrails.

To the members of the debate teams it means many days of logic and looking up information on a wide variety of topics. Future teachers value the training provided in the mechanics of speech and speech correction. These things indicate the extensive curriculum carried out by the department.

One of last season's outstanding events was the Fifth Annual International Debate, according to Dr. Clarence W. Edney, head of the department of speech. Bert Bradley and Coyle Moore of FSU were matching wits against two students from India.

In their fifth year of intercollegiate competition, debaters ventured outside the southeastern United States for the first time. Attending the 14th National Conference of Tau Kappa Alpha at the Western Michigan College of Education in Kalamazoo, four FSU students won excellent records.

Debaters from this university also visited Alabama, Florida, Georgia, and Mississippi universities and colleges. In addition, 17 schools from the District of Columbia and six southeastern states come to the Fifth Annual FSU Invitational Tournament.

More than 100 high school students from 18 Florida schools attended the Fifth Annual Florida High School Student Congress last November 6 and 7. Georgia and Florida high schools sent teachers and students to participate in a speech festival and forensic workshop in January.

During the 1953-54 theatre season, the department of speech used for the first time, an elaborate lighting control system which was designed and constructed by Mr. Charles Reinert, instructor in the Department of Speech. It was constructed by the department as a saving of several thousand dollars.

The Speech and Hearing Clinic also provided diagnostic and remedial treatments for over 280 individuals during the last school year. Remedial treatment was given to patients suffering from cerebral palsy, aphasia, delayed speech, and various kinds of voice and articulatory defects.

In addition, the department cooperated with the Florida Crippled Children's Commission and the Florida Children's Colony in a statewide conference on services to the handicapped, and in diagnostic clinics held in Tallahassee and Pensacola.

Two new instructors have been added to the faculty as specialists in speech correction, audiology and fundamentals of speech. They are Professor L. L. Schendel, who taught at the University of Oklahoma for several years before coming to Tallahassee, and Adelbert Bradley, one of the department's graduates.

Three Ph.D. and 25 MA degrees were conferred upon students enrolled in the speech department during the last academic year. "This is an amazing record, considering the fact that our graduate program is relatively only five years," states Dr. Edney.

He added that there is a great professional demand for students from his department and that the placement record has been 100 per cent.

Greetings To F.S.U. Alumni,
Friends, Students and Faculty . . .
Jonathan Logan

Duperrouzel Is Named Among 'Top' Speakers

Beverly Duperrouzel of the FSU Varsity Debate Squad was listed among the top fifteen per cent of 600 debaters from twenty southern schools attending the Ninth Annual Discussion Tournament at the University of Alabama last weekend, November 5-7.

The conference is an annual affair sponsored by the University of Alabama for the purpose of acquainting debaters with the debate question for the year "Resolved, that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the communist government of China."

Other members in the FSU delegation were Norma Trippodo, Bruce Fletcher, Fred Roberts, Herbert Lacaze, and Tom Woods, senior debate manager. Miss Elizabeth Flory, graduate assistant in the Department of Speech, accompanied the group.

Among the schools attending the conference were the University of Florida, Emory, Auburn, Scott, Alabama, Mississippi, David Lipscomb, West Georgia, Mississippi State College for Women, Vanderbilt, Memphis State, and Louisiana State.

One year ago Tom Woods received a superior and Bill Twyford an excellent certificate at this conference.

F.S.U. Alumni Welcome Back

Turner's

See it first at VAN BRUNT & COWLES YON'S HARDWARE

Romp-N-Rest Cotton-Middy by Supreme

$3.99

We're launching another sure hit by this favorite middy maker. Sizes 7 to 17 or 8 to 18. In new colorful Fall colors.

The French Shop
College Avenue

"Your Host for the Past Twelve Years"
Phone 2-9074

Welcome Alumni and Students to FRANK'S DRIVE-IN GOOD FOOD
HOT TURKEY SANDWICHES
BARBECUE FOODS
OUR SPECIALTY SEAFOODS
Y'All Come
2027 N. Monroe

WELCOME HOME
GRADS and FRIENDS

EAT WHERE THE FIGHTING SEMINOLES ARE SERVED
The FSU SEMINOLE CLUB
INVITES YOUR PATRONAGE

Eberle Could Dislike Fame

To Follow Miller's Footsteps Hard Job For Many Musicians

By DAVID DREIS

To be associated with a leader in any profession may not be the greatest thing and yet, in many cases it turns out to be a short way to fame.

Take Ray Eberle for example.

Eberle, Homecoming dance band leader, was considered the nation's top singing star during his years with Glenn Miller. Eberle Miller's band went, Eberle went. He was associated not only with the great bandleader, but also with Tex Beneke, the saxophone soloist, the Modernaires and Marion Hutton.

He was definitely a member of one of the greatest entertainment families in existence at that time. A contemporary gentle group which has about as much appeal to the Arthur Godfrey clan of radio and television.

Agencies kept asking Eberle to get on his own and they promised him engagements. Then the war came along and Eberle was drafted. The Miller force also went to war, but in a different direction than Ray was traveling.

When the war ended, everyone became known as a "Miller Man" and several orchestras sprang up throughout the nation, Glenn Miller not living in the name of several musicians. He was missing in action during the war, but not missing in the action of the music industry.

There was ex-ragger Jerry Gray and his orchestra, the Glenn Miller band led by Tex Beneke, the Ray Anthony Band with the Glenn Miller stylings, the Ralph Flanagan orchestra with Glenn Miller sound and Ray Eberle, the vocalist for Glenn Miller.

When the new names became fairly well-known, they tried to break away. Jerry Gray became a name for himself. RCA Victor signed only one Miller band in Ralph Flanagan and Tex Beneke signed with Coral under his own name. Ray Anthony started his own aggregation now that his name was known and Ray Eberle became a band-club single act.

Ray Eberle today is climbing but up the ladder as one of the town's big bandleaders. He has a lot of knee-bridge and experience picked up in his stint with Glenn Miller and tomorrow night from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., he'll be proud to show plenty of it.

Stokes Reports Ten Scripts In For Sandspur

Plans for the eighth annual Sandspur production are setting underway. Original student manuscripts have all been turned in, according to General Chairman, Frances Stokes, and are being read by the script committee.

Ten scripts have been turned in to the committee and "it certainly will be hard to decide among them," reports Miss Stokes. The selection committee consists of Don Teal, Pat Peres, Joyleee Robertson, Miss Stokes and Mr. Fred Vogel, director of student activities.

Sandspur is a production "of the students, by the students and for the students" says Miss Stokes. "From the choice of the script to the final curtain, everything is student produced." A new policy started last year allows the production staff to obtain assistance, when it is needed, from the speech and music departments, but the responsibility lies with the student body. Mr. Vogel, faculty advisor, also gives assistance and advice when called upon.

Last year Miss Stokes was named as the first female chairman of Sandspur in the history of the production. Her experience includes choreography for the production for the past three years. She continues that job this year.

The 1954 production was titled "Panorama" and was written by Leo Andrews. The short gave an overall picture of love as shown in many different places; in Latin America, in New Orleans, on the campus and in Paris.

"Sandspur is like a musical comedy," says Chairman Stokes. "We need actors, singers and dancers but I want to emphasize that there is something for every FSU student to do. We need people to work on costumes, scenery, lights and all sorts of backstage jobs.

Flambeau staff photo by Al Robbins

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT—The chorus of "Carousel," led by Martha Slayden, is shown rehearsing the song, "June is Bustin' Out All Over," from Act I. To be presented in December in Opperman Music Hall, the show is the Light Opera Guild's annual production.

December Carousel Leads Cite Overplaying Problem As One Major Drawback

Driver, Zilles Cast As Julie, Billie, In First 54-55 Show

By MARTY REEVES

"Getting to Know You," though not a song from Carousel, might well describe one of the main problems the Light Opera Guild is facing in rehearsals as actors try to catch the spirit of their roles, says Miss Betty Jane Grimm, director.

This Rodgers and Hammerstein show is the Light Opera Guild's choice for their annual production in Opperman Music Hall December 10, 11, 13, and 14, under direction of Miss Grimm and Dr. R. L. Briggs.

As for the part of Julie, leading lady Delaine Driver said, "I think it is going to be hard to play as it could so easily be turned into a farce. It will be hard not to overplay it."

Julie, according to Miss Driver, is a very sincere and naive girl, She's very firm in what she believes. "I really love the part," says Dejane, who will be singing such songs as "If I Loved You," "What's the Use of Wond'rin'," and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

This is not Miss Driver's first taste of dramatics, having played the lead in her high school senior class drama. Best Foot Forward. At FSU she has been in Stagedoor, the chorus of the light opera Sweetheart, and had a lead in Die Fledermaus last year.

Born in Foley, Florida, and growing up in Clearwater and Dunedin for the last nine years, Miss Driver has studied singing, though not dramatics, and was in her high school glee club. "Ever since I started in school I've been very interested in music," she said.

Her secret ambition is to do light opera work, besides teaching voice privately and in public schools. This summer she hopes to get into the Chicago Land Music Festival and also the Chicago Theatre of the Air.

In contrast with Julie, Billy Bigelow the carnival barker with whom Julie falls in love, is rough and ready, according to John Zilles, who will play the part. "He's got a little bit of good in him but doesn't show it till the end," Zilles says.

This is his favorite of all the parts he has played, Zilles stated, which includes a part in a minstrel, the villain in the operetta, Meet Arizona, in high school, and chorus parts in Die Fledermaus and the grand opera, Il Trovatore last year. A baritone, he has been singing for quite a while, but confesses that track and football interested him more in high school.

Majoring in music education, Zilles has no definite plans for his future, but says, "I'd like to go into professional singing."

Future Speech Department Plays To Feature Saroyan, T. S. Eliot

By GEORGE GOLDSTEIN

Highlighting the drama season this semester at Florida State University are plays by such famous playwrights as William Saroyan, Arthur Miller, T. S. Eliot and Brandon Thomas.

"I'm from Brazil, where the nuts come from" is a line that dominate theater-goers will remember from "Charley's Aunt," recently given at the Augusta Conrad Theater.

Audiences at this production were introduced to Deene Lanchester, Harold Poe, Nancy Cobine, Julie Pfirrl, and Dick Crawford. Old reliables in this play who have been in past productions were Eberle Thomas and Franklin Adams. The latter's performance was his last here.

Now in the rehearsal stage is "Cinderella" which is a new venture for the drama department. Although cast with FSU students, its appeal will be chiefly to the Tallahassee younger set. It will be given next week.

Charlie Reimer once again will be'd the crews on technical effects while Mrs. Frances Levine will be costumer. She is replacing Douglas Russell, who is away on a Fulbright Memorial Scholarship. Mrs. Levine began her costume chores at the University of Iowa and Oklahoma University.

Mrs. Levine's "Cinderella" costume sketches have had the most praising her work. Those who saw the last production commented on the excellent handiwork of the new costume director.

Minnie Dobbins, cast as the wicked stepmother in "Cinderella," appeared before audiences here in the "Insect Comedy" last year. Anita Wall, as Cinderella, was also just seen in "Charley's Aunt."

Double casting of the two female parts in the play were given to Gray Sallis and Minnie Dobbins, cast as Harmony Blue blossom and Dixie Scarlett and Kay Culpepper as "St. Agnes of the Mine."

Helping Dr. Lynn Orr, director, is Dorothy Womble, student director of the production. Orr recently was cited for his excellent direction of "Charley's Aunt."

New actors to the drama department but not new to campus playgoers are George Goldstein and Joanne Rouard who have appeared in such productions as "Berlet" and "Sausage Maker's Interlude" sponsored by the Martin Theater Guild.

Holding the reins for William Saroyan's "The Beautiful People" is Dr. Paul Davee. Also in the production staff, the play will make its debut December 11-16.

Coming direct from Broadway is "The Cradle" by Arthur Miller. "Death of a Salesman" recently presented via motion picture along with "All My Sons" are some of the other plays Miller has written.

Rounding out the season is T. S. Elliot's "Cocktail Party" which will be presented at the end of the second semester. This play is a sophisticated dramatic comedy which deals with the problems of different individuals.

Ballet Theater May Inaugurate New Westcott Auditorium In December

By BEN BROWN

Ballet Theater, slated for performances in Westcott Auditorium, December 6 and 7, will be the first of four outstanding programs brought to the campus through Artist Series.

The four programs represent a wide variety of entertainment. The Columbus Boychoir, scheduled for January 11-12, the Dublin Players, February 18-19, and Yma Sumac and Company, March 8-9, comprise the Artist Series selections for the 1954-55 season.

The opening production, Ballet Theatre, will feature two ballets of dance. On December 6, the group will present Swan Lake, a Classical, Jardin Aux Lilas, and Rodeo. The following evening the American National Ballet group of New York will feature Les Sylphides and Helen of Troy.

Now in their sixteenth year, the group is co-directed by Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith. The group has over 100 members and its own symphony, directed by Joseph Levine.

Leading dancers with the ballet group are Nora Kaye, Igor Youskevitch and John Kriza. They have performed in all 48 states and many parts of the world.

The second production, the Columbus Boychoir, will feature one of the nation's top all-boy musical groups. The members range in age from 9-14 years and are selected from numerous tryouts. Their headquarters are in Princeton, N. J.

Herbert Huffmee directs the choir which derived its name from his home town, Columbus, Ohio. They annually travel over 6,000 miles on their tour and have a special bus constructed with built-in seats for classes.

The Dublin Players, 18-19 the Classical Ensemble, Jardin Aux Lilas, and Rodeo. The following evening the American National Ballet group of New York will feature Les Sylphides and Helen of Troy.

Now in their sixteenth year, the group is co-directed by Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith. The group has over 100 members and its own symphony, directed by Joseph Levine.

Leading dancers with the ballet group are Nora Kaye, Igor Youskevitch and John Kriza. They have performed in all 48 states and many parts of the world.

The second production, the Columbus Boychoir, will feature one of the nation's top all-boy musical groups. The members range in age from 9-14 years and are selected from numerous tryouts. Their headquarters are in Princeton, N. J.

Herbert Huffmee directs the choir which derived its name from his home town, Columbus, Ohio. They annually travel over 6,000 miles on their tour and have a special bus constructed with built-in seats for classes.

The Dublin Players, 18-19 the Abbey Players will appear at Westcott. Making headquarters in Dublin, Ireland, the group is made up of players from the Abbey Gate and Old Vic theatres in England and Ireland.

As Irish play, Juno Fayreck, will be one of their presentations. A sophisticated comedy will be the second play; however, it has not been selected yet.

This year's American tour will be the third trip to the country for the Dublin Players.

Yma Sumac and Company close out the series on March 8-9 Yma Sumac is the famous singer from Peru and the company is noted for its lavish costumes and lucid music.

The star's husband handles most of the companies for the company and also accompanies his wife on the guitar. Dancers, singers and instrumentalists all of Peru, are slated on the program.

The Artist Series is returning to the Westcott Auditorium this season after a two year absence. The past two seasons have been held at Leon High school in Tallahassee.

The recently completed 1,600 seat auditorium will be available and all FSU students need to be admitted is a ticket which can be obtained by presenting a coupon from the activity book

Students will be given two-weeks' priority over all other interested parties in picking up tickets. All seats will be reserved. Ticket distribution plans will be announced in a later issue of the Florida Flambeau.

Welcome Home Alumni!
Don't forget your Old Meeting Place
Before and after the game
The Sweet Shop
701 W. Jefferson

MILLER'S Gotery College Ave.
bucko bronco
handsewn vamp and back
So comfortable . . . a genuine moccasin, so soft, so gentle with each step . . . done in cliffed manner with needed leather that looks like real buckskin. Have a pair, and give your feet an easy berth.
9.95
LOGACLERS by SANDLER OF BOSTON
Black Bucko - Grey Bucko . . Camel Bucko
Ours Alone
MILLER'S Gotery College Ave.

Friendly Welcome Alumni
Visit Our Grill In West Hall
The South's Most Modern Dorm
Quick - Courteous Service
See You In Our Skyscraper Home

Duval's pre-Christmas LAYAWAY SALE
A "BUCK" DOWN Lays Away Any Gift at Duval's!
"Buck" Down says:
You Take-um No Chance When You Give-um Schick on 10 DAY FREE TRIAL!
A "BUCK" DOWN LAYS AWAY A NEW CUSTOM SCHICK
Make-um Big Chief happy. Give-um best shave in many moons. Free mail begins Chuckman Day. We Indian Givers at Duval . . . if he no like-um, we take-um back!
One "Buck" Down!
$28.75
Duval Jewelry Co.
104 E. College Ave. Phone 22811

Organizations Decorate With Mind To Giving Hurricanes A Hard Time

By JOYCE POTTER

The FSU campus takes on a festive air of mid-winter this weekend as homecoming decorations appear on the lawns of the dormitories, sorority and fraternity houses. Purple hurricanes representing the Furman team find their way into practically every decoration.

The Westcott entrance to the campus is a tribute to the alumni. A large head dress of feathers covers the top of the gate with Welcome Alumni spelled out on them. Heads representing the alumni appear on the light posts on each side of the entrance.

The fountain becomes overshadowed with a big red house with a black roof representing Coach Tom Nugent's powerhouse. The cream roster appears on the side of the house while a hose from the house goes to a figure of Nugent sitting on top of the fountain.

King Nugent is spraying Furman players who are sinking in the water. A big arch says "Nugent Reigns Supreme."

WEST HALL

West Hall, winner of a special citation last year for the best decoration on campus has a replica of a windmill this year. Their theme of picture Furman through the Mill shows two windows with a Seminole chasing a Furman player in each.

The Furman player gets caught behind the mill and is scalped. A record "This Old Mill" made by resident of the Mill plays to the tune of "The Old House" while the hidden of the mill turn around.

SENDS HALL

The latest device for splitting a hurricane will be the theme of Senior Hall's decoration. A huge atomic mushroom booming 20 to 25 feet in the air will be splitting a purple hurricane which is around the bottom of the mushroom. All of that is set inside a concave frame in the shape of a football stadium.

MAGNOLIA HALL

Magnolia Hall has the task of making monkeys out of the Purmen. A huge Indian is showing Furman players into a machine full of lights and gadgets that turns the player into a monkey. Monkeys wearing purple jerseys are in a glass case on the machine.

JENNIE MURPHREE

In the women's dormitory division, Jennie Murphree tries a new angle grab "cat" theme. A 12-foot man in a typical mod suit, holding a shovel, stands over a T-formation of 11 white crosses. The theme of this scene is "Don't Dig There Now, They're Real Gone."

REYNOLDS HALL

Reynolds Hall bakes a special cake just for their lawn. Made of white paper napkins, the cake is the happy resting ground for an Indian who stands on top and surveys the crumbs laying around the cake. Those crumbs are white players with black eyes, nose and a drooping mouth representing Furman players. In this scene, "FSU Bakes the Cake."

FLORIDA HALL

A big Indian is shooting against a purple bag of wind at Florida Hall says there's nothing to be afraid of . . . "They're just a big bag of wind."

NORTH CAWTHON

A movie screen comes into being on the North Cawthon lawn. It is a gory production in Seminole-Scope depicting a football player chasing a ghostly hurricane. "FSU Rolling Over The Purple Hurricanes" is their theme.

BROWARD HALL

Broward Hall chooses a musical theme. "When the Deep Purple Falls", which shows an Indian with his foot on a conquered Furman player. This Indian has a hurricane warning in one hand and a hatchet in the other.

SOUTH CAWTHON

South Cawthon believes that the Seminole Sun is Too Big for Hurricane Clouds to Cover. To prove this, the sun is shown with little Seminoles sitting on top and tiny clouds at the bottom. One of the clouds representing Furman becomes afraid and tries to get away.

GILCHRIST HALL

A big Indian of mascotte stands watch in front of Gilchrist Hall. Moving around the 15 foot warrior are 11 sign plaza hurricans which move through the air.

BRYAN HALL

An underwater scene appears on the lawn of Bryan Hall. A fish representing Furman is being chased by a Seminole with a gig. The theme is "Hurricane Furman makes the sea rough, but our nets are strong and our men are tough."

LANDIS HALL

According to Landis Hall, the Furman "purple clouds are only good for making rain juice." Al Capp's come strip characters, Hairless Joe, Indian Joe, and Joe Bilopik have their version of making the 'joy juice' from the Hurricanes.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

In the fraternity division, Alpha Tau Omega has chosen for a musical theme, "The Little Purple Cloud That Cried." shows a Seminole that rises up to a lettlep urple cloud that is crying and behind the Seminole is putting a hatchet into the little cloud sculping it. All along the background are Indian head pennies which are coming from the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

DELTA TAU DELTA

Delta Tau Delta has made a take off on a Dante theme. FSU football players are shown standing on the brink of Hell and the Furman players are down in it. The theme of the production is "Give them Hell, Seminoles."

KAPPA ALPHA

The Kappa Alpha House will turn into a gigantic tepee for the occasion. Indian heads are shown dancing around the graves of the Furman players. A purple hurricane is being chased by Seminole Tepee.

KAPPA SIGMA

A large billboard depicting a Seminole potzed led by a blood hound after a Fur-man, stands in front of the Kappa Sigma House. The bill board shows Coach Nugent, President Campbell, a typical football player, and a crowd after the "Fur-Man" who is in a tree in the front yard.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

A circus comes into view at the Lambda Chi Alpha house. Against the circus back-stop, two football players on a trapeze throw the Furman player across in a spin. The Furman player comes to his doom as he misses the trapeze and falls.

PHI DELTA THETA

A group of FSU football players watch television on the Phi Delta Theta lawn. Carrying out the theme, "A Change In The Weather," the Furman players are shown standing under an umbrella on the screen.

PI KAPPA PHI

The Pi Kappa Phi's are manufacturing Hurricane juice for Homecoming. Large purple hurricanes are being put into a machine and come out as juice into a barrel marked victory. Football players are standing around drinking a toast.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon's batter down for an ambush. Eleven little Tepees and one big one representing Coach Nugent stand on top of the house. The yard turns into a football field with 11 Indians and 11 Hurricanes, and a large scoreboard gives the statistics of the game.

SIGMA CHI

"Cane Mutiny" is the theme of the seven floats of the Sigma Chi house. A large Furman ship is in the process of being overrun by Seminoles.

SIGMA NU

The Sigma Nu house has a big poster in front with a picture of a grand stand drawn on it. Hurricanes and Indians come into the scene.

THETA CHI

A little football will sit in front of the Theta Chi house sending smoke signals which take the form of a monster. This monster is after a purple hurricane which looks like Mr. Wind.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The Sigma Phi Epsilon house turns into a pirate ship firing the skull and the cross. Nugent is captain of the ship while Furman players are being fed to an Alligator by the sea.

ZETA BETA TAU

A football player is tied to a stake in front of the Tau Epsilon Phi house with Indians chasing around the stake. Evidently they are waiting for a chance to scalp him.

PHI KAPPA TAU

A show boat covers the front of the Phi Kappa Tau house in red, black and white colors. Coach Nugent is the pilot on the boat which blows dark smoke from the smoke stack. A sign in front of the house says, Phi Kappa Tau presents, "The Fighting Seminoles."

ALPHA DELTA PI

In the Sorority Division, the Alpha Delta Pi house has little Indians scampering around in the yard using hatchet on a big purple hurricane. The eye of the hurricane is dripping purple passion while little purple clouds diffuse from the storm.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

The Alpha Gamma Delta's do a take-off on the record "What It Was, Was Football" in their decorations. The country back is shown standing beside a goal post, leaning on a big orange. He is holding a sign which says, "I think it is that Furman needs another big orange." Furman is pictured as a popped-out hurricane with a Seminole sitting astride it.

OMICRON DELTA PI

"Gone With The Wind" is the theme of the Omicron Delta Delta decorations. An old fashioned carriage full of purple Furman players is being pulled by a horse ridden by an Indian. Girls dressed in Southern traditional styles will stand on the lawn.

DELTA GAMMA

The Delta Gamma's have a stop light which works like a real light. When the green light flashes, the words "Go, Go, FSU," flash on and when the red light comes on "Stop, Furman" is flashed.

DELTA ZETA

Delta Zeta gets into the newspaper business with a huge front page of a newspaper on their lawn. The headline says "Seminole's Net Drags Furman to Defeat." An inset in the page shows a Seminole chasing a cloud with a net. Different headlines on the page say things about the team.

GAMMA PHI BETA

A big cow is parked in front of the Gamma Phi Beta house for the weekend. A poem says, "As you can see, and red privet, our cow lives are the cream of the crop. Let's keep them down. The cow's head moves up and down page about the team.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

A Seminole in a hurricane hunters plane ropes a hurricane around the neck on the Kappa Alpha Theta lawn. A weather report gives the position of the storm and all information about it.

KAPPA DELTA

The Kappa Delta's, who are celebrating their 50th Anniversary, have a big cake made of white napkins. On the cake are the words Fifty Years Being FSU. Two gold picture frames stand beside the cake with a real light. When the green light flashes, the words "Go, Go, FSU," flash on and when the red light comes on "Stop, Furman" is flashed.

DELTA ZETA

Delta Zeta gets into the newspaper business with a huge front page of a newspaper on their lawn. The headline says "Seminole's Net Drags Furman to Defeat." An inset in the page shows a Seminole chasing a cloud with a net. Different headlines on the page say things about the team.

GAMMA PHI BETA

A big cow is parked in front of the Gamma Phi Beta house for the weekend. A poem says, "As you can see, and red privet, our cow lives are the cream of the crop. Let's keep them down. The cow's head moves up and down page about the team.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

A Seminole in a hurricane hunters plane ropes a hurricane around the neck on the Kappa Alpha Theta lawn. A weather report gives the position of the storm and all information about it.

KAPPA DELTA

The Kappa Delta's, who are celebrating their 50th Anniversary, have a big cake made of white napkins. On the cake are the words Fifty Years Being FSU. Two gold picture frames stand beside the cake with a real light. When the green light flashes, the words "Go, Go, FSU," flash on and when the red light comes on "Stop, Furman" is flashed.

PHI MU

The Phi Mu's turn cooks as they set up an FSU Kitchen. A large mixmaster operated by an Indian has the theme of "Beat Furman Well."

PI BETA PHI

A train stands in front of the Pi Beta Phi house which has temporarily turned into a train terminal. The Furman players are tied to the track while the train driven by the FSU nurse, bears down on them.

SIGMA KAPPA

A Seminole finds Bar is set up in front of the Sigma Kappa house with a large sign advertising the special for the day, "Hurricane Smash." A purple Furman man is being smashed into a big soda glass.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Two huge packs of cigarettes, Old Gold and Lucky Strike, with an ash tray in between are an decoration of Zeta Tau Alpha. A Cigarette in the ash is among while a sign on the house says, Smoke 'em sky high—the sky's the limit. Other sayings such as LSMFT—Leaning Seminoles Murder Furman Team and Our Treasure Chest of Old Gold are also in the scene.

STUDENTS...

It's Moon's for Fraternity Rings Watches Fine Diamonds

Moon's
REGISTERED JEWELERS
American Gem Society

Physics, Allied Fields Reportedly Playing Role In Present 'Culture'

By DIX DARNELL

Physics as a basic science is playing an ever-increasing role in our present culture, reports Dr. Gunnier Schwarz, head of the physics department at Florida State University.

Many other fields such as Geology, Meteorology, and Chemistry, are dependent on the fundamental facts discovered by physicists.

The physics department recognizes its duties in these and other areas and makes every effort to constantly improve its services.

On the undergraduate level, courses ranging from General Astronomy to Nuclear Physics attracted students from all levels of the University. Some of the students need these courses to complete their General Education requirements, others take them as part of the physics major program, and others again chose the courses as electives.

The graduate program shows signs of rapid progress. The most important event of the year was the approval of the program leading to a Ph.D. in Physics. At present, three students are working towards their doctorate, seven more are working towards a Master's degree.

One of the doctoral students, Klaus Lee, came to Florida State from Korea. He did part of his undergraduate work at Kyoto University in Japan and received his BS and his MS degrees from Seoul University in Korea.

Various research projects in theoretical and experimental physics are under way. Outside support for these projects comes from the Atomic Energy Commission, the National Science Foundation, and the Research Corporation.

Dr. George L. Rogosa, physics professor, has just did some research in cooperation with the Oak Ridge National Laboratories. Various publications in journals appeared during the year; and a new book, "Nuclear Physics" by Dr. A. E. S. Green is scheduled to be published in early 1955 by the McGraw Hill Co.

Members of the department made many contributions in the general area of "service." The most conspicuous one was the "Atomic Energy Exhibit," prepared and manned by the physics department for Florida State, which was used first at the North Florida Fair at Tallahassee and then at the Florida State Fair in Tampa. It received wide acclaim and was one of the most successful ventures in the field of public relations ever undertaken by the Physics Department.

During the year, a chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma, the national physics honorary, was established on the FSU campus. Visitors to the campus included some of the executive officers of the organization, headed by Dr. Marsh W. White, executive secretary from Pennsylvania State College.

Following the installation ceremonies, a dinner for new members was held, and in the evening there was an open meeting at which Dr. Conway W. Snyder, a senior physicist at the Oak Ridge National Laboratories, spoke on "Atomic Energy and Space Travel."

This fall, Dr. Conway joined the staff of FSU's physics department. Dr. M. Avramy Melvin, FSU physics professor, was elected chairman of the Physical Sciences Area, at the meeting of the Florida Academy of Science at Rollins College.

"The future of this country will depend on a supply of well-educated scientists, and we must strive to bring to the attention of the better students the opportunities offered in this field," Prof. Schwarz declared.

MUMS
For the Big Game

Flowers for every occasion
Mrs. Tom Moore
Florist
502 E. Park Phone 2-4737

Movie Reenacts 'Little Known' Tale Of Vermont Rebel Attack

BY STAFF WRITER

Van Heflin, Anne Bancroft, Richard Boone, and Lee Marvin head the cast of "The Raid," Panoramic Productions Technicolor drama, which plays today and tomorrow at the State Theater in Tallahassee.

The picture was inspired by a little-known incident in the Civil War, the burning and looting of St. Albans, Vermont, by a small band of Confederate soldiers. The raid, carried out by the rebels on an afternoon in October, 1864, is reenacted in the picture.

This is the story of a small group of rebels who escaped from a Yankee prison in Pittsburg, New York, went into Canada and from there infiltrated the town of St. Albans.

Their mingling with the local people, methodical planning for the sacking of the town and darling in carrying out the mission, which was to avenge the burning of Atlanta by the Union forces, brings about much adventure.

Woven into the excitement is a romance between Heflin, leader of the rebels, and Anne Bancroft, the attractive Widow Bishop.

Playing at the Florida Theater this weekend is King Richard and the Crusades, starring Rex Harrison, Virginia Mayo, and George Sanders.

It is the story of the Third Chusade at the end of the 12th century when Richard the Lion Hearted, King of England, led the European nobles to the Holy Land against the Moslem hordes.

Today and tomorrow are the last days that it will play.

A coeducational dormitory which caused many eyebrows to be raised when it was built is celebrating its anniversary at Bemidji State Teachers College, Minn. And so far there have been no mishaps or moral violations.

Its users—who are quartered under the same roof but in separate wings of the structure—are all in favor of the coeducational idea. They meet each other in a lobby between wings.

"It seems to establish a more wholesome point of view than if boys and girls were chasms apart and forth across campus," says one male.

"Teaches us how to live with other people and be tolerant," adds a coed.

And comments another male student: "We don't have Peliwhiness like panty raids. Mutual respect develops when we see girls on everyday terms."

URA ANNOUNCES

The University Recreation Association has announced a schedule of there public events to be held next week.

Tuesday evening at 7:30 URA will sponsor fencing in room 213, Women's Gymnasium. Shuffleboard will be held at 5 Thursday afternoon and tennis for all interested at 7:30 that night, officials said.

F & T RESTAURANT
Says
WELCOME ALUMNI!
DON'T FORGET TO SAMPLE OUR FINE FOOD WHILE YOU'RE HERE
113 S. Monroe

Welcome Alumni

Remember?

THE SODA SHOP
IN THE LONGMIRE BUILDING
We're Still Here—
And Open for Business.
Drop in
And Have a Snack

WELCOME HOME GRADUATES and Friends
STATE BAKERY
Pastry Shop and
DELICATESSEN
The SOUTH'S MOST UNUSUAL ONE-STOP FOOD SHOP
324 S. Adams St.

FSU Faces Furman In Homecoming Battle Tomorrow

Tribe Record For Past Tilts Is Outstanding

Homecoming Contests Show Gridders Have Won Five, Lost One

By TOMMY SANDS

If past homecoming games can be taken as an accurate indication, then tomorrow's battle with a hurricane named Furman, stands to be a genuine whirlwind.

For one of the six homecoming clashes played here since 1946 only one—FSU's 60-0 rout of Mississippi State that same year—has been a runaway. One was decided by a three-touchdown storm while only one TD separated the other four.

Actually, these grad day reunions have been something of a good omen for the Indians. Only one lost only one which normally was a 9-0 loss to Furman back in 1952.

Just for fun, let's roll back the calender and take a year-by-year look at some of the other homecoming affairs and see if the memory can be stirred to action.

1946. FSU 33, Tampa 12. Florida State had become conventional only the year before as this was homecoming Number One. Despite the score, the spectators made it exceedingly interesting for nearly three quarters.

Neither team could break the ice in the first period and that's been literally. A shivering crowd of 8,500 sat in below-freezing weather to watch the reunions come back in the second period to score twice. Don Veiss's charges racked on two more TD's after intermission to top it up.

Buddy Strauss, now an appliance dealer in Tallahassee, was the ball-carrier for FSU, eating up yardage from his fullback slot. The scoring, however, was shared by Bo Manuel, Ralph Chatham, Ernie Reddick, and Bo Mathews.

Hugh Adams, who went on to little All-America fame, Bill Sievers and Joe Marrow were the stalwarts up front.

1948. FSU 49, Millsaps 6. Much to the woe of the visitors, FSU had been upset 13-6 by Jamestown State the week before and the Seminoles weren't in a very agreeable mood.

Chris Zaninos, Dick Peterson, Sal Parrish, and Dub Kendrick were the point-makers in this track meet in the line. Dewitt Kendrick and Jimmy Hinson, at the defense that limited the Sappers to a mere 24 yards rushing.

As a point of interest, that Jamestown team was coached by Hassle Vaughn Manocha who now tutors Tom Nugent's lineman.

1950. FSU 14, Swanee 9. This stands as possibly the best of FSU homecomings. The Seminoles had to win it the hard way with two last period touchdowns.

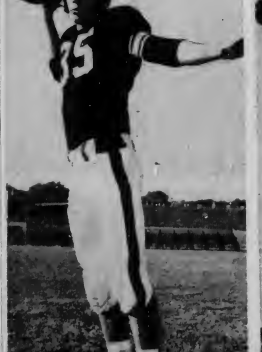
After a scoreless first half, Swanee went ahead 2-0 in the third quarter on a safety. And for a while, it looked as if FSU's homecoming stein was going to Bill Bui in the next period. However, Ted Hendrix fought his way to pay dirt with an interfered pass. Nelson Italiano got the color on a 15-yard sweep.

Dwaine Eshel, again) led a final FSU defense. Incidentally, the Indians went on to remain undefeated and untied. Florida's first white college team ever to turn the trick.

1951. FSU 13, Bainbridge 18. This was a genuine pleaser for the record crowd of 13,701 grid fanatics.

Neither team could muster a sustained scoring drive in the first half, but the Hatters' Bill Johnson had put Stetson ahead 3-0 with a touchdown and field goal in the first period.

The Seminoles, however, were not to be denied this day, and with powerful Milo Sellers and Bo Thompson leading the way, they came back for two important TD's.



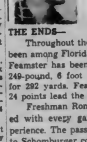
Thompson didn't score and Milo only six times, but had 96 yds. and yards to show for his efforts.

1952. FSU 9, Furman 6. This was a disastrous year in the won-lost column for the Semi-Boles and Furman had no consolation.

But FSU came up with one of its better Saturday's of the season. Stan Dickson had crossed the Furman goal in the first quarter, but a penalty nullified the effort.

Twice more the Tribe knocked at the door, but lacked the necessary scoring punch. One drive stalled on the eight and another on the Hurricane nine-yard line.

1953. FSU 13, Stetson 8. The Hatters didn't know it, but this was the last time they would be playing FSU for some time. However, it didn't seem so mattered as the Seminoles made the trip back much wider than the scoreboard indicated.



SEEING TRIPLE—Those three FSU quarterbacks hold the reins of the Seminole air and ground games tomorrow when the Tribe meets Furman in the annual Homecoming game. Left to right, freshman Vic Prinzi, sophomore Lee Swantic, and senior Harry Massey. Latest reports indicate that Massey will start Saturday with Swantic and Prinzi scheduled to see plenty of action. All three will have as their main target end Tom Feamster. Feamster has caught 16 aerials for 292 yards and four TD's. He is only eight catches and 38 yards away from school receiving records for a single season.

Seminole Spotlight

By Jimmy Joanos
SPORTS EDITOR

THE ENDS—

Throughout the current season, the end positions have been among Florida State's strongest. Giant right end Tom Feamster has been the team's leading pass receiver. The 240-pound, 6 foot 7 inch junior has hauled in 16 aerials for 292 yards. Feamster's four touchdown receptions for 24 points lead the Seminoles in scoring.

Freshman Ronnie Schomburger, left end, has improved with every game as he gathered collegiate grid experience. The pass combination of quarterback Vic Prinzi to Schomburger connected for paydirt twice against VMI.

End Jimmy Lee Taylor, a Little All-American selection in 1953, after being hampered by injuries since the initial play of the Seminoles' first game against Georgia is reported to have recovered. You can count on him to make a major contribution to the power of the Seminoles.

Veteran Bud Leonard and freshmen Ham Bisbee and Jimmy Tirado are all good flankmen. They add considerable depth to the wing positions.

THE TACKLES—

Left tackle Al Makowiecki is considered by many as the best defensive player on the squad. He is a rugged individual, potent defensively as well as offensively. Right tackle Bob Barber, himself, is capable of issuing plenty of dynamite to the Furman Purple Hurricanes tomorrow. He stand six-foot even and is 212 pounds of hard-charging energy.

1953 lettermen tackles Don Powell and Ray Stabb have also contributed heavily to the progress of Coach Tom Nugent's 34 team.

THE GUARDS—

Guards Al Pacifico and Jerry Jacobs have formed a very consistent team. Both men have started all seven Seminole encounters. Their work has been steady and always praise-worthy. Pacifico weighs 206 pounds and plays on the right side of the line. Leftguard Jacobs weighs in at 208.

In Vince Gibson, Leon Bryant, Charlie Jacobs, and Leo Baggett, FSU has ample reserve strength at guards. Bryant and Baggett are both first year men.

THE CENTERS—

At 174 pounds, Bob Crenshaw is one of the smallest centers in college football. An ace linebacker Crenshaw also handles himself well on the offense. He is an courageous individual as has ever worn the garnet and gold.

Reserve centers Bill Cullom and Hobo Ackerman could in themselves become outstanding at the position. Both are Freshmen.

THE QUARTERBACKS—

For Tom Nugent, quarterback worries have not included finding a good one, but rather choosing among many. Quarterbacks Vic Prinzi, Lee Swantic, and Harry Massey have all proven themselves adept at the ball-handling chores. All have passed for over 280 yards and four touchdowns each. In addition Ted Rodrigue, a 193-pound freshman has at times during the season appeared very impressive.

Quarterback Swantic leads the team in total gain, having accounted for 443 yards. Of this, 355 yards were achieved through the air lanes. Both Swantic and Prinzi have scored twice on the ground.

THE HALFBACKS—

Senior Billy Graham leads a large repertoire of halfbacks in net gain with 168 yards. On 29 attempts, Graham has averaged 5.0 yards per carry. Halfback Buddy Rey-

(Continued on Page 14)

Florida State Statistics For Seven Games

TEAM STATISTICS

	FSU	OPP
Total Went During	68	64
By Rushing	44	41
By Passing	21	4
By Penalty	3	19
Total Yards Gain
By Rushing	1953	1889
No. Rushing Attempts	412	403
Yards Gained Rushing	1091	1131
Yards Lost Rushing	146	242
Net Yards Gained Rushing	745	1149
No. Passes Attempted	141	115
No. Passes Completed	68	48
Net Yds Gained Passing	1150	715
Per Cent Completed	48	41.7
Av. Gain per Completion	17.0	14.9
Passes Intercepted	13	13
Yards Returned	98	109
Average Return	7.5	8.3
Total Punts (Average)	39	32
Total Punt Distance	1560	1279
Av. Punt Distance	40	40
Av. Gain per Punt	39	39
Punts Returned	12	13
Punt Returns	120	120
Average Return	10	9.2
Kickoffs Returned	23	11
Kickoff Returns	383	221
Average Return	16.6	20.1
Total Penalties	29	19
Penalties Lost By	240	152
Per Cent Fumbles Lost	52	50
Fumbles Recovered	12	16
By Opponent	12	16
By Fumble	24	32
Balls Fumble Attempted	12	9
Made	13	9
Missed	1	0
Total Points	168	105

INDIVIDUAL STATISTICS

Scoring	TD's	PCA	FCA	TP
Feamster—RE	4	0	0	24
Graham—RH	3	0	0	18
Schomburger—LE	3	0	0	18
Rodrigue—QB	2	0	0	12
Prinzi—QB	2	0	0	12
Swantic—QB	2	0	0	12
Ortner—FB	1	0	0	6
Massey—QB	1	0	0	6
Pacifico—RG	1	0	0	6
Reynolds—LH	1	0	0	6
Metts—RH	1	0	0	6
Leonard—LE	1	0	0	6
Taylor—LE	1	0	0	6
Schoenberger—LG	1	0	0	6
Bisbee—RE	1	0	0	6
Tirado—RE	1	0	0	6
Bach—FB	1	0	0	6
Rodriguez—LH	1	0	0	6
Eldo—FB	1	0	0	6
Team	1	0	0	6
Cr. Crenshaw—RG	1	0	0	6

PUNT RETURNS

	Number	Yards
Massey—QB	3	30
Cuno—LH	5	61
Graham—RH	2	27
Ackerman—RE	1	7
Vergolito—LE	1	3
Schomburger—LE	1	0
Metts—LH	1	0
Reynolds—LH	1	0
Swantic—QB	1	0

KICKOFF RETURNS

	Number	Yards
Cuno—LH	6	132
Graham—RH	4	67
Reynolds—LH	4	82
Odom—LE	1	0
Massey—QB	1	0
Trudeau—QB	1	13
Ortner—FB	1	0
Gibson—RG	1	0

PASS INTERCEPTIONS

	Number	Yards
Cuno—LH	2	30
Graham—RH	2	47
Massey—QB	1	0
C. Green—RH	1	0
Bach—FB	1	0
Cuno—LH	1	0
Crenshaw—C	1	0
Reynolds—LH	1	0

PUNTING

	No	Yards	Ave.
Metts—LH	19	690	36.3
Swantic—QB	13	470	36.2
Graham—RH	4	157	39.2
Rodrigue—QB	1	30	30.0
Team	1	50	50.0
Prinzi—QB	1	4 in 0

Homecoming Tilt Not Spoiled By Dunkel; Picks Florida State By 7

By DICK DUNKEL

And now there are only four undefeated teams left in the upper circles of the college football Power Index.

The leader of these, UCLA, has an open date this weekend, abandoning Ohio State, Oklahoma, and Arkansas to a Saturday fraught with peril.

The No. 2 Buckeyes, with a rating of 194.4 must travel to hostile Lafayette, Ind., where Lenny Dawson and his Purdue mates lie in wait. The Purdue index is 194.3—10 points lower than the Ohio figure. This means that the Bucks' record has been 10 points stronger; per game, against comparable opposition played to date. But this is still the Purdue team that beat Notre Dame by two touchdowns.

No. 3 Oklahoma (111.2) will be back home for its engagement with Missouri (90.6). Thus, the Sooners have a 21-point edge on the record.

No. 4 Arkansas (107.7) will be host to SMU (96.8) and can make a clean sweep of its Southwest Conference schedule by licking the Mustangs. The Razorbacks have an 11-point bulge in the ratings.

Other top teams show the following Power Index differences over their Saturday opponents:

No. 5 Iowa, 18 over Minnesota. No. 8 Army, 41 over Penn.

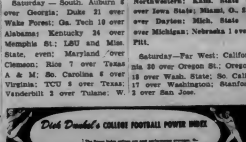
No. 7 Wisconsin, 18 over Indiana.

No. 9 Mississippi, 23 over Houston U.

No. 6 Notre Dame, 22 over North Carolina.

And here's a good omen—like horseshoes, or "money" on your coffee—for the Tennessee Vols who will host Florida on Saturday. In the Power Index, Tennessee stands as an 8-point underdog vs Florida. What's good about that? Well, just that the P. I. has set a new all-time low for itself by indicating the worst wrinkle in each of Florida's last seven games. It might go right just for good measure.

In other big games around the country the record analysis shows:



Saturday—East: Boston U. 8 over Boston College; Cornell 8 over Dartmouth; Harvard and Brown, even; Holy Cross 8 over Fordham; Navy 48 over Columbia; Penn State 24 over Rutgers; Syracuse 1 over Colgate; Yale 6 over Princeton.

Saturday — South: Auburn 8 over Georgia; Duke 21 over Wake Forest; Ga. Tech 10 over Alabama; Kentucky 24 over Memphis St.; LSU and Miss. State, even; Maryland over Clemson; Rice 7 over Texas A & M; So. Carolina 8 over Virginia; TCU 6 over Texas; Vanderbilt 2 over Tulane. W. 2 over San Jose.

Virginia 24 over Wm. & Mary.

Saturday — Midwest: Cincinnati 6 over Wichita; Colorado 21 over Utah; Indiana 8 over Northwestern; Kans. State 6 over Iowa State; Miami, O., 51 over Dayton; Mich. State 8 over Michigan; Nebraska 1 over Pitt.

Saturday—Far West: California 20 over Oregon St.; Oregon 18 over Wash. State; So. Calif. 17 over Washington; Stanford 21 over Oregon.

Games Of Week Ending November 14, 1954

AMONG TOP 150

Higher Rated	Lower Rated
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13
Arizona 86.4 vs Tex. West's 70.4
Arkansas 107.7 vs Rice 89.9
Army 107.3 vs Penn 66.7
Auburn 97.5 vs Georgia 87.5
Boston U. 74.2 vs Boston Col. 66.2
Bucknell 77.0 vs Albright 64.4
Cincinnati 94.0 vs Wichita 88.0
Colgate 77.2 vs Syracuse 76.2
Colorado 92.1 vs Utah 82.1
Cornell 83.8 vs Dartmouth 75.8
Duke 93.1 vs Wake Forest 72.1
Fordham 77.2 vs Holy Cross 76.2
Georgia Tech 97.0 vs Alabama 87.0
Harvard 75.8 vs Brown 75.8
Indiana 83.8 vs Northwestern 73.8
Iowa 98.0 vs Minnesota 81.0
Kansas St. 93.1 vs Iowa St. 87.1
Kentucky 97.4 vs Memphis St. 87.4
LSU 94.0 vs Miss. State 94.0
Maryland 93.1 vs Clemson 87.1
Miami, O. 87.0 vs Dayton 36.0
Michigan St. 93.1 vs Michigan 83.1
Navy 107.3 vs Columbia 59.3
Nebraska 91.1 vs Pittsburgh 90.1
Notre Dame 111.4 vs North Carolina 89.4
Ohio State 194.4 vs Purdue 194.3
Oklahoma 111.2 vs Missouri 90.6
Oregon 93.1 vs Oregon St. 87.1
Penn State 91.1 vs Rutgers 67.1
Princeton 74.2 vs Yale 74.2
Rice 97.1 vs Texas A&M 90.1
So. Calif. 93.1 vs Washington 87.1
So. Carolina 97.1 vs Virginia 87.1
Stanford 93.1 vs Oregon 87.1
Tennessee 97.0 vs Florida 89.0
TCU 97.1 vs Texas 87.1
Tulane 83.8 vs Vanderbilt 73.8
Wash. State 93.1 vs Wash. 87.1
Wisconsin 91.1 vs Indiana 73.1
Wm. & Mary 74.2 vs Virginia 74.2

OTHER SOUTHERN

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12
Miami, Fla. 91.0 vs Mississippi 77.0
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13
Alabama 91.4 vs Tex. Christian 91.4
Arkansas 107.7 vs SMU 96.8
Auburn 97.5 vs Georgia 87.5
Baylor 91.1 vs Texas 87.1
Clemson 91.1 vs Maryland 87.1
Duke 93.1 vs Wake Forest 72.1
Florida 89.0 vs Tennessee 97.0
Georgia Tech 97.0 vs Alabama 87.0
Kentucky 97.4 vs Memphis St. 87.4
LSU 94.0 vs Miss. State 94.0
Mississippi 91.0 vs Miami, Fla. 77.0
Rice 97.1 vs Texas A&M 90.1
So. Carolina 97.1 vs Virginia 87.1
Tulane 83.8 vs Vanderbilt 73.8
Wm. & Mary 74.2 vs Virginia 74.2

NATIONAL LEADERS

U.C.L.A.	194.8	Navy	107.3
Ohio State	194.4	Arkansas	107.7
Purdue	194.3	Notre Dame	111.4
Oklahoma	111.2	Georgia Tech	97.0
Michigan St.	93.1	Auburn	97.5
Oregon	93.1	Rice	97.1
Stanford	93.1	Tennessee	97.0
So. Calif.	93.1	Kentucky	97.4
Wash. State	93.1	Florida	89.0
Penn State	91.1	Miss. State	94.0
Nebraska	91.1	LSU	94.0
Baylor	91.1	Alabama	91.4
Wisconsin	91.1	Tex. Christian	91.4

Color are 1954 by Dunkel Sports Research Service

FSU Gridders Pile Up Good Statistical Showings

ROSTER

	Att.	Gain	Loss	Net Yds.	TD's
Graham—RH	29	197	11	168	0.0
Cuno—LH	21	110	17	93	2.2
Rodrigue—QB	6	61	1	60	10.1
Swantic—QB	43	178	99	68	2.0
Odom—LH	13	78	74	4	0.1
Metts—LH	15	78	7	65	0.3
Ortner—FB	25	99	10	89	2.0
Prinzi—QB	13	58	10	48	1.3
Bach—FB	15	38	4	34	2.0
King—FB	4	37	3	33	0.0
Reynolds—LH	4	31	0	31	0.0
Thompson—FB	3	14	5	14	0.0
C. Green—RH	3	14	5	9	0.0
Vergolito—LE	7	13	10	6	0.0

	Att.	Comp.	Int.	Yds.	TD's
Swantic—QB	58	34	4	355	2.0
Prinzi—QB	14	8	1	100	2.0
Massey—QB	26	17	0	200	0.0
Rodrigue—QB	10	14	0	220	0.1
Metts—LH	1	1	0	36	1.0

PASSING

	No.	Comp.	Int.	Gain	Pct.	TD's
Swantic—QB	58	34	4	355	58.6	4
Prinzi—QB	14	8	1	100	56.9	4
Massey—QB	26	17	0	200	65.4	0
Rodrigue—QB	10	14	0	220	91.1	1
Metts—LH	1	1	0	36	1.00	1

TOTAL OFFENSE

	Plays	Net Yds.	Gain Rush.	Gain Pass.
Swantic—QB	94	68	355	423
Prinzi—QB	27	48	100	148
Massey—QB	26	60	200	260
Rodrigue—QB	16	60	220	280
Graham—RH	29	168	36	204
Cuno—LH	21	93	0	93
Rodriguez—QB	6	60	0	60
Odom—LH	13	4	0	4
Metts—LH	15	65	36	101
Ortner—FB	25	89	0	89
Prinzi—QB	13	48	100	148
Bach—FB	15	34	0	34
King—FB	4	33	0	33
Reynolds—LH	4	31	0	31
Thompson—FB	3	14	0	14
C. Green—RH	3	9	0	9
Vergolito—LE	7	6	0	6

Tribe Seeking Fifth Victory Of Campaign

Contest Rated Close; Features Aerial Game Versus Ground Attack

By ALAN WHITMARSH

Seeking to atone for two past defeats, the Florida State University Seminoles battle the Purple Hurricanes of Furman tomorrow afternoon in the annual Homecoming game at Doak S. Campbell Stadium.

The Seminoles will be hunting for their fifth win in the last six games, while Furman seeks to improve a 5-2 record and continue their two-year victory string over Florida State.

In previous contests between the two teams the Purple Hurricanes dealt the local team 9-0 and 14-7 defeats in 1952 and 1953 respectively.

If you like to compare past games, the two teams have met only one common opponent this year. North Carolina State. The Seminoles defeated the Wolfpack by a 13-7 score while Furman eked out a 7-6 triumph.

In other games this season, Furman has defeated Newberry (9-6), Presbyterian (27-6), The Citadel (21-20), Davidson (19-7). The Purple Hurricane has lost to Miami, 21-13, South Carolina, 27-7 and to Clemson, 27-4.

The Seminoles, on the other hand, have absorbed defeats by Georgia, 14-6, Abilene Christian, 13-6, and Auburn, 25-6, while defeating Louisville, VMI and Villanova in addition to North Carolina State.

Two contrasting offenses will temple in tomorrow's game. Florida State depending primarily on their potent passing attack, and Furman's attack is centered around the one-two running punch of halfbacks John Popson and Ted Yakimovich.

These two halfbacks constitutes a rushing one-two punch in rushing in the Southern Conference. Popson averaged 7.4 yards per try last season and figures to eclipse this figure this year. Both boys are 10-second men in the hundred yard dash.

FSU Assistant Coach Winston Seigfried, who has scouted Furman this year, termed these two halfbacks "two of the best running backs our boys will see this season."

Popson and end Richard Barefoot were all-state last week for the Clemson game, but both boys are expected to be ready tomorrow.

Lack of depth has forced many of the Purple Hurricanes to do double time this year. Eight men played the full route against North Carolina State, and a similar situation may prevail tomorrow.

In the scrimmage sessions this week, emphasis has been placed on rushing, both in offense and defense. While seeking to improve their own weak rushing department, the Seminoles have concentrated their efforts on preparing for the running of Popson and Yakimovich.

The running of "Buck" Metts, Lee Cerne and Billy Odom has given the Purple Hurricanes's opposing aspects of this week's practice, Coach Bobby Dodd's boys seeking a good breakaway man all year, and hope to find him among these three boys.

In another effort to strengthen the rushing weakness, Freshman Ham Bisbee has been switched from fullback, where he has performed capably so far this year, to a halfback post.

The FSU squad should be in good shape tomorrow, though several minor ailments may keep several members from the lineup.

Fullback Ronnie King and quarterback Ted Rodrigue have been hampered by a case of the flu, but should be ready tomorrow. Shoulder injuries will hamper the offensive performance of quarterback Lee Swantic and halfback Billy Graham, respectively, and neither will be in top form.

Due to Swantic's and Rodrigue's ailments, Freshmen Vic Prinzi and Senior Harry Massey can be expected to carry the brunt of quarterback for the Seminoles. Prinzi was a standout in the VMI game, and Massey is the steady kind of ball player who always seems to be around when the chips are down.

Big Tom Feamster is still the leading pass-catcher for Florida State, and he will be the prime target for Prinzi and Massey tomorrow. Feamster, a 6-foot-7 inch schoolmurger, a standout in the VMI game and Senior Jimmy Lee Taylor will probably alternate at the other end.

The line is backed by such stalwarts as Al Maciowiecki, Al Pacifico and Bob Crenshaw. A penalty line has been one of the strongest points in the State defense this year.

The Seminoles should go into the game at least a seven-point favorite, but this may not seem too much if the Furman offense is functioning strongly with Popson and Yakimovitch.

Advance ticket sales indicate that the game may be played before the second largest crowd in Florida State history. The largest crowd to witness a game at the stadium was the Georgia game this year.

Short FSU Sports History Studded With Great Names In Every Field

By JIMMY JOANOS

Over this weekend hundreds of Florida State University alumni will once again walk the paths and roam the grounds as they did years back in their college days. As they congregate on the campus and in the stadium, many of their thoughts and words will be of the events that occurred during their stay at FSU.

Their sentiment will go back to the big weekends, the dances, the elections, the productions, the concerts, the ball seasons, and a thousand other college happenings.

A major portion of their thoughts, however, will center rehash many athletic happenings of their Seminole days. They will recall the men who were FSU's outstanding athletes during their years in Tallahassee seeking an education.

When talk centers around football, early attenders at co-ed FSU will remember our first Little All-American, Hugh Adams, a tackle who captained the '40 and '41 teams. Adams, incidentally, was also chosen as the Most Valuable Player by his teammates in 1946.

The bone-crushing tackles of Jerry Morrocal, Little All-American tackle in 1943, and center Joe Marcus, 1942's Most Valuable will be remembered.

Florida State's 194 victory over Wofford in the 1945 Cigar Bowl will be relieved more than once, and fullback Buddy Strauss and halfback Wyatt "Red" Parrish will once again gallop before the eyes of their schoolmates.

Talk of FSU's undefeated 1950 season will include a session on the running accomplishments of shifty Nelson Italiano, halfback, and hard-charging fullback Mike Sellers. The line-play of Captain Duke Maltby, Most Valuable Don Kendrick, and Bill Dawkins will not soon be forgotten either.

The following year, 1951, saw Little All-American linebacker Bill Dawkins represent the Seminoles very favorably at the Senior Bowl in Mobile, Alabama, and the North-South game at Miami.

The pass-receiving of end Curt Campbell and the running of Bobby Fiveash will be recalled. Campbell was Little All-American in 1952 and captain of the 1952 Seminoles. Halfback Fiveash was the State of Florida's Football Player of the Year in 1953.

When basketball enthusiasts concentrate perhaps the play of Tom McLaughlin will be remembered. McLaughlin, a four-year letterman for the seasons of 1948 through 1952, set two basketball scoring records that hold to this day. McLaughlin holds FSU records for the most points scored in a career—993, and the most field goals scored in a career—342. Incidentally, McLaughlin also continues to hold the career record for the most personal fouls.

Talk of basketball will not be complete without some mention of Bob Hartman. Hartman, in the season 1953-52, established the record for the most points scored by an FSU basketballer in one season at 493. Four-year letterman Larry "Turtle" Dickson, 1949 Captain Lee Benjamin, and Wild Bill Wetzel will also be spoken of in FSU basketball conversations for their excellent floor play.

Those who recall activities around the Seminole Swimming Team in 1950 and 1951 will remember Roger Slater, Slater's diver, was selected to the All-America Collegiate Swimming Team both years. Last year Ernie Stock, through his merits in the 100-yard breaststroke, became FSU's second All-American contribution from Swimming and Diving.

Florida State Volleyball teams have produced five All-Americans. Ronald Hambrock, in 1952, and Howard Gould, in 1953 and 54, were placed on the first teams in the National Collegiate selections. Second-team All-Americans in volleyball were Charles Floyd in 1950 and Darrel Hobbs and George Edmiston in 1951. Another outstanding volleyballer was Wallace Cox. Florida State's only four-year letterman in the sport who had one of the best touches in the game.

FSU golfer Sonny Tinney was the State of Florida Inter-collegiate Champion in 1952. John "Buck" Berry placed second in the state in 1953 when he shot 8 under par for 72 holes.

Seminole Trackster Tom Bowman after completing college went on to place among the top ten in the National AAU Decathlon. He holds the school record for most points scored in one season. In 1950 he scored 1421½ points in 6 meets. In a single meet against Howard College in 1950 he scored 28 points.

Sprinter Johnny Poston in 1952 set the school track records in the 100-yard dash and the 220 at 9.8 and 20.6 seconds respectively. Both of these times were among the top ten in the nation for the year. Brick Bradford, in 1950 FSU's first track captain, was two-time Dixie Conference champion and a very outstanding shotputter. Versatile Carlos Frandorfer in the past three years has compiled a career scoring record.

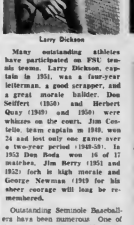
Seminole Gymnasts Don Holder and Bill Roethelein were members of the U. S. Olympic team in Helsinki, Finland, in 1952. Raleel Lemons prior to attending Florida State, captained the 1948 and 1952 Cuban Olympic teams. National Collegiate gymnastics champions over the past few years in addition to Roethelein and Holder have included Dick Gutting, Trampoline; Jack Miles, Flying Rings; Gene Rabbitt, Sidehorse; Jack Sharp, Flying Rings, Carmine Regna, Joe Regna, Joe Taylor, Pat Signorelli, Jim Padigan and Dick Ireland (co-captain of the 1954 team), have all contributed heavily to Seminole teams which have won four national team championships in the school's short co-ed history.

Over the years FSU has had many outstanding athletes who have participated on FSU tennis teams. Larry Dickson, captain in 1951, was a four-year letterman, a good scrapper, and a great muscle builder. Don Seiffert (1950) and Herbert Quay (1949) and 1950) were whizzes on the courts. Jim Conklin, team captain in 1949, won 24 and lost only one game over a two-year period (1949-50). In 1952 Don Boda won 16 of 17 matches. Jim Berry (1951 and 1952) fork in high morale and George Newman (1951 for his sheer courage will long be remembered.

Outstanding Seminole Baseballers have been numerous. One of the greatest was infielder Bob Trowbridge who captained the team in 1950 and 1952. Second-baseman Lee Bailey in 1951 and 1952 gained fame as a good hitter, a fine fielder, and an excellent base-runner. Two of the best Florida State hitters have been 1954 Captain William "Cooter" Mills and 1953 All-State Catcher John Cuesta.

A great outfielder was Wayne Benner of the 31 and 32 campaigns. Bitchers Ed Sessions and Ed Lockard in 1950, 51, and 52 proved themselves to be among the best in the business.

John Poston



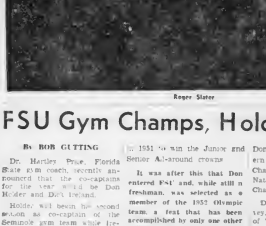
Bobby Fiveash

Howard Gould

Tom McLaughlin

Cooter Mills

Bob Hartman



Larry Dickson

Sonny Tinney

Bob Trowbridge

Bill Roethelein

Nelson Italiano

Roger Slater

Bill Dawkins

FSU Gym Champs, Holder, Ireland Elected Co-Captains

By BOB GUTTING

Dr. Hartley Price, Florida State gym coach, recently announced that the co-captains for the year would be Don Holder and Dick Ireland.

Holder will begin his second season as co-captain of the Seminole gym team while Ireland will assume the position vacated by Pat Simonelli who graduated in June.

So far the Seminole team has scored 72 straight team championships, including the unpredicted upset over the Swedish gymnastics team last April. At that time the Swedish team had defeated such big time teams as NCAA champions Penn State the powerful U.S. Military Academy, and highly regarded Illinois, one of the "Big Ten" in the gymnastics world. But when the Swedish team faced the Seminoles they were defeated by a score of 58½ to 45½, in a breath taking event that will long be remembered by Holder and Ireland and all the others who were there, spectators and athletes alike.

Don, born his gymnastics career at Dickinson High school in Jersey City, N.J. After graduation in 1946 he entered competition for the famous Swiss Gymnastic Score of Jersey City. In 1950 Don won his first big title—the Metropolitan Novice All-around Champions ship—in New York. He retained his 1951 title to win the Junior and Senior All-around crowns.

It was after this that Don entered FSU and, while still a freshman, was selected as a member of the 1952 Olympic team, a feat that has been accomplished by only one other college freshman. The other freshman was former Seminole gymnast Bill Roethelein, now a graduate and in the Army).

Other championship titles Don has won include the Southern Intercollegiate All-Around Championship of 1953 and the National AAU Indian Club Champion-ship.

Dick Ireland hails from Harvey, Illinois, and is a graduate of Thornton hirth school, class of 51. While in hirth school "Moose" participated in the various sports and was captain of the football team on which he played four years, captain of the swimming team for three years, and ended up his senior year by lettering on the basketball team.

After arriving at FSU in 1951 Dick acquired an interest in trampoline and under the guidence of one of the best tramp men in the country, he duly cultivated a style of his own that was recognition forhim in two National AAU and five AAU meets.

Ireland came into his own during 1953 at the Florida junior AAU with a first place win on trampoline. This was followed by a close second at the Georgia AAU and another second at the Southern Intercollegiate meet of 1952. That same year Dick placed among the top ten trampoline men in the country at the National Collegiates along with team mates Dick Gutting, who won the National Collegiate trampoline title that year, and "Big Jim" Padigan.

During 1953 Dick lost his stride but managed to place third on the tramp at the Florida AAU. He recovered quickly, however, and went on to win the Southern Intercollegiate trampoline crown. This was followed by the National Collegiate meet at Syracuse, N.Y., where Dick once again came out in the top ten category.

Following this was the Georgia AAU's of '53 and another close second in tramp and then at the National AAU in Chicago during the last meet of the season, Ireland once again jumped his way into the top two with a spectacular displays of loops and twists.

Dick also won the Florida AAU trampoline crown for the first time last year, this time edging out team mate Padigan by 7 10ths of a point.

At last seasons Southern Intercollegiate meet, Ireland was edged out of first place by Padiran, but at the following NCAA meet at Champaign, Illinois Ireland again edged out Padigan to take fourth place. Padigan, however, copped the fifth place spot.

Holder And Ireland

PROBABLE STARTING LINEUPS

LE—Ronnie Schomburger
RE—Tom Feamster
LT—Al Makowiecki
RT—Ray Staab
LG—Bob Barber
RG—Jerry Jacoba
C—Bob Crenshaw
QB—Harry Massey
LH—Billy Graham
RH—Buddy Reynolds
FB—Joe Holt

Holland's Restaurant

Welcome Alumni and Homecoming Visitors

Scalp 'em Seminoles

Student Specials

Kansas City Steak With Trimmings $1.35
Half Southern Fried Chicken $1.00

Catering To The Finest In Food
In Cool Pleasant Surroundings
With Continuous Dinner Music

We Cannot Serve All the Food in Tallahassee
. . . So We Serve Only the Best

Flying High, Student Circus, Is Readying For Annual Production

By MUFFET FACKLER

Students of Florida State University are not unlike children, as they thrill each year to the wonders of "Flying High."

Known nationally through publicity and throughout the immediate South because of personal appearances, the all-student circus features, among other things, aerial acts, clowns, and dancing girls.

Coach Jack Haskin, originator of the student show, declared that in his experience, members of the "Flying High" troupe have developed a feeling of "belonging" to an organization and in many cases the performers have learned to work as units rather than as individuals.

He stated that the self-discipline of the troupe is a deciding point for the good that the show has produced, other than mere entertainment.

Optimistic over the new recruits, which this year number over 60, Haskin intimated that a new crop could practice all year and perform well, but added that it was always better to have older members along for the "seasoned" effect.

Praising the alumni, Haskin stated that they are definitely their best publicity. "They have seen the circus and pass the word on to their friends when the circus hits a particular town."

Many alums also participate in the show. Some of last year's clowns were graduates. "Anytime we work a show, if alumni are near, they will show up."

As an indication of the publicity received by FSU's circus, Haskin pointed out that they had received 57 requests through-out the state for performances this year.

Money derived from the show, he explained, goes into the show itself. There is no real effort to make profit, but rather to make ends meet and to meet the cost of transportation, rigging, trunk rentals, and awards, as well as costuming and other materials.

Organizations that sponsor the student circus also derive money, which goes mainly to charity. According to Coach Haskin, some organizations have cleared as much as $4,000 from a circus performance.

As an example, he cited the Dad's club of Tampa's Plant

Sh-Boom, Sh-Boom—do-de-de-do . . . and then the fun began. Shown above are three of the clowns from "Flying High" getting ready to explode as audience with laughter.

High School who installed new light towers and landscaped a football field with profits derived from a "Flying High" performance.

Inside of the troupe, the clowns may provide laughs and their fellowship may provide fun, but they get their biggest charge out of their bus named "Mis-fire."

A year-old she has carried the troupe over 125,000 miles. In the words of the performers, their bus driver has carried them over and through hazards that an ordinary car driver would "fear to tread." There has never been an accident on a trip.

Last year, the circus added three new acts to its repertoire, including a 32 girl dancing line. These, in real Broadway fashion, are known as the "Chrunettes." The other additions were a solo acrobatic number on a light wire known as "Black Magic" and a casting trampoline act.

Spectators are awed and dazzled each year by the elegance of the costumes used in the show. Custom-made in Tallahassee, the gowns and costumes feature sequins and fluorescent coloring, each of which contributes to the glittering praises received year after year from spectators.

GOOD FOR WATCHING PARADES—Stylist Ann Tarker is the dancing flip card atop this unicycle.

WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE—The Flying DeCosmos form one of the featured acts in "Flying High." The act was named for Jim DeCosmo, assistant to Circus Coach Jack Haskin, who was once a student performer in the circus. He received a master's degree in physical education at FSU.

LOOK, MA, NO HANDS—Three on a two-wheeler, "Flying High" act, presents the Patton twins. Maybe Phyllis is on top, but she could be Charlotte. The man is Verner Nelson—which partially clears the mystery.

MIXING IT UP—Sorcerer acrobatic acts, Frances Stokes performs stunts of magic. She is a featured performer of FSU's famous gym team.

WELCOME ALUMNI!

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES

FLORIDA	STATE
Today & Tomorrow "The Raid" Van Heflin	Today & Tomorrow "King Richard and the Crusaders" Rex Harrison Virginia Mayo
Sunday & Monday "Private Hell 36" Steve Cochran Ida Lupino	Sunday & Monday "Princess of Nile" Debra Padget
PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR	CAPITOL DRIVE-IN ON WOODVILLE HWY.
Today & Tomorrow "Phantom Stallion" Rocky Allen also "Sombrero" Richard Montalban Cyd Charisse	Today & Tomorrow "Beat The Devil" Humphrey Bogart Also "Rachel and the Stranger" Robert Mitchum
Sunday & Monday Forever Female" Ginger Rogers	Sunday & Monday "The Bigamist" Joan Fontaine

SCALP 'EM SEMINOLES!

THE SEMINOLE MOCCASIN 7.95

Brahscott TRAMPEZE

- Brown Calf
- Black Calf
- Natural Calf
- White Buck
- Black Suede
- Brown Suede
- Gray Suede
- Gold Suede

JUST RECEIVED A New Shipment
KNEE LENGTH SOCKS only 85¢

Stricklands
. . . fashion in footwear
on college ave.

Gymkana Has Grown In Leaps Since Its Beginning In 1949

By BOB GUTTING

Dr. Hartley Price came to Florida State University in 1946 and immediately set forth to make Florida "the greatest gymnastic state in the union." At that time gymnastics in the university was merely a required course for physical education majors.

In January of 1946, the doctor started the ball rolling toward his goal. His aim was true and his ambition undeniable. Interest was first aroused when Price brought the famed Larry Griswold, Olcwn Prince of the Trampoline, to the school. Griswold's performance was truly that of an artist. The spectators were bewildered at this new spectacle.

Interests in gymnastics had no time to dwindle, for in February Dr. Price started Gymkana.

Comprised of Tots, gymnastic stars, and co-eds, FSU's Gymkana performed for over 100,000 spectators in 1953. The total will be even greater this year. A Gymkana act (Dick Gutting) was featured at the NCAA meet and at the Olympic Tryouts in 1952.

The variety, skill and beauty of Gymkana has been made possible by many. Among the more noted are:

The varsity gymnastic team serves as the backbone. Under Price, FSU's gymnastics team is recognized as one of the stumpers in the nation. Stars who have aided the coach in Gymkana include: Bill Rosenbaum (National AAU all-around champion, Pan-American Olympic Champ, and two time U. S. Olympic Team member), Dick Gutting (NCAA and NAAU trampoline champ), Don Holder (NAAU Indian Clubs champ and U. S. Olympic team member), Jack Miles (NAAU flying rings champ) and many others.

The Tots contribute youthful vigor, skill, and color. Dr. Price's point of view is that gymnastic ability can be acquired at any age, and has value as a health and character builder. The physical benefits afforded the Tots through gymnastics cannot be over emphasized.

The co-eds add beauty and grace to the show. Dexterous and tumbling girls led by Frances Stokes and Barbara Vickers, perfectionists in the field, are symbolic of rhythm.

A feature of Gymkana is the annual show. Last year's "Gymstravaganza" show, "Seein' is Believin'," was a great success and played to packed houses at the FSU gymnasium. This years production will be called TOYLAND CAPERS.

Seminole Barber Shop
New, Modern — Air-Conditioned
75c Haircut 75c Shampoo
75c Massage 25c Tonic
65c Shave
652 W. TENNESSEE ST. OPEN 6 — 6 P.M.

GARNET N' GOLD EXTENDS HOMECOMING WELCOME and Offers
Their Prompt Service for Delivery on All Food
SEAFOOD AND CHICKEN
OUR SPECIALTY
WE NOW SERVE SANDWICHES
631 W. Tennessee Call 2-2892

Your Formal Best for H'coming

Are you formally ready for the big Homecoming dance? Here's our check list to make you sure!

- TUX SHIRTS . . 5.95
- STUD SETS . . 3.50 up
- CUMMERBUND SETS . 6.95 up
- BOUTONNIERE SETS . 1.50
- SUSPENDERS 1.50
- SOCKS 75
- BOW TIES 1.00

- MIDNITE BLUE Single Breast Tux 47.50
- WHITE Single Breast D. Jacket 26.50
- TUX PANTS 12.95

Formal Rental Service
Dinner Jackets and Trousers—6.50 per nite
Make your reesrvations early!

Nic's Toggery
322 S. MONROE

PAPER-MATE PEN makes note-taking push-button EASY

New "Silvered-Tip" writes the way you do . . . fine, medium or broad . . . without changing points. Refills available in blue, red, green or black ink. Get a Paper-Mate Pen today!

- Teachers approve
- Ink can't smear or transfer
- Can't leak

Silvered-Tip refills . . . 49¢

$1.69

Tip Styles

LXA Initiates 7 Faculty Members

Fifteen new members were initiated into Zeta Rho Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity on November 6. Of the 15, seven are FSU faculty members, one is an honorary member, and seven are undergraduates.

The faculty members are Dr. Rush W. Stickler, Mr. Robert G. Brewer, Dr. Ralph L. Witherspoon, Dr. Miles Ritchie, Dr. Robert D. Miller, Dr. Chester S. Nielson and Dr. Wiley L. Housewright.

The honorary member is Jim Shadoa, FSU alumni. Undergraduates are Bobby Sellers, Joe Southard, Curt Simmons, Eddie Wurzback, Ray Ruesler, Marion Armington and Tom Castiglia.

New pledge officers elected for the Fall semester recently are Royce Phillips, president; Paul Bowen, vice-president; Greene Harrison, secretary; Larry Kersey, treasurer and Tom Kuhn, sergeant at arms.

THE POWDER PUFF BEAUTY SALON

Welcomes
FSU Alumni To The Game and Dance

Let Us Arrange Your Homecoming
Hair Style . . .

107 W. Jefferson Phone 2-1675

Carousels
by PARAMOUNT SHOEMAKERS

LITTLE HEELS OF GLAMOUR
Black Suede,
Rhinestone Trim
$12.95

WELCOME! ALUMNI & VISITORS

Vanity Boot Shop. Inc.
114 E. College Ave.
DIAL 2-1630

Attention
Advertising Majors
and Interested Students

Join the Flambeau Advertising Staff. Intern with us and gain valuable experience in

- Ad Layout
- Copy Writing
- Ad Production
- Merchandising

Also 3% Commission.
Apply The Flambeau Office, 2nd floor Alumni Bldg. M. E. King.

Florida Flambeau

Driver, Nichy Will Present Vocal Recital

Two voice students of Betty Jane Grimm will present their certificate recital Monday night in Opperman Music Hall, beginning at 8:15 p.m., reports the School of Music.

Jane Driver and Joan Meador Nichy, sopranos, will share the stage Monday, accompanied on the piano by Jim Huesing and Kathryn Jett Beckett, respectively.

Mrs. Nichy will open the program with "Bleed and Break" from Bach's St. Matthew Passion, "Bring Me Peace," Mozart, "O Give This Kiss," Schubert, and "The Post," also by Schubert.

Miss Driver will sing "Addio" from Verdi's La Traviata; "A Rural Scene," Arquin, and "Since My Mother Taught Me," Dvorak.

Mrs. Nichy and Miss Driver will conclude the evening with a duet, "Qual Anelanie" "14th Century Psalme," by Marcello, according to the program.

Chemistry
(Continued from Page 8)

Research Chemist with Southern Research Institute Dr. James Downs, U. S. Army Sanitation Service; Dr. Jacob Shapiro, Research Associate, University of Illinois School of Medicine; Dr. Raymond Shapiro, Research Chemist, Oak Ridge National Laboratories, and Dr. Lin Tsai, Research Associate, Ohio State University.

During the past summer Dr. Raymond Sheline and Dr. Russell Johnson were research participants at the Oak Ridge National Laboratories and Dr. Ernest Grunwald was a Research Associate at the University of Colorado.

The following participated by invitation in advanced symposia of their specialties at the dedicated conferences: Dr. Ernest Grunwald, Analytical Physical Chemistry at the University of Minnesota; Dr. Jack Eichinger, Chemistry Teachers' Workshop, Raleigh, North Carolina

Also, Dr. Earl Frieden, Gordon Research Conference in Biochemistry in New Hampshire; Dr. Michael Kasha, Spectroscopy Symposium Ohio State University; Dr. Raymond Sheline, Gordon Research Conference in Nuclear Chemistry; Drs. Werner Herz, John Leffler and Milton Walborsky, Organic Reaction Mechanism Conference held in New Hampshire

The teaching of undergraduate chemistry for science majors, general education and for majors in nursing and the physical sciences provides full time work for the department.

English
(Continued from Page 8)

Lytle, Edwin Granberry, Frank Slaughter, Alec Raeknow, Philip Wylie, and Robert Cotterill.

Numerous books have also been written and published during the past year by authors in FSU's department of English.

Included in a partial list of publications the last three months coming by members of the English department are "Dryden's Dramatizations of American Success," FSU Studies, by Dr. Walter Blackstone; Biblical Aspects of Tragedy, by Dr. Laura P. Jepsen, and by Dr. James Preu, "The First Phase of the Naval Action Against Mobile," FSU Studies, and also "Swift's Influence on Godwin's Doctrine of Anarchism," Journal of the History of Ideas.

Dr. James P. Stokes, teaching this year in Universidad de Oriente in Santiago de Cuba on a Smith-Mundt grant, is listed as the author of Swine Practice.

Other departmental publications listed are "The Vessel of Clay: A Thematic Comparison of Faulkner's As I Lay Dying and Latorre's The Old Woman of Peralili FSU Studies, by Dr. J. Russell Reaver, Jr., The Renaissance Code of Honor in Shakespeare's "Henry IV" Abstract; Shakespeare Newsletter, by Dr. Carmen Rogers.

Texas
(Continued from Page 2)

admissions and their petitions would be studied.

One of the boys, Winfred Walker, took the case to court, but it won't be studied for several months. This will be after the Supreme Court talks.

The attitude the students have taken is precarious. There is no touches of disapproved-but-seen-paradice that threaten to make desegregation difficult. There are students who take the narrow point of view and turn neither to the right nor the left.

But there are more who realize the inequality of the schooling of their fellow men and are made uncomfortable and dissatisfied by it. Most of them realize that segregation is on the way out, and are thinking about the easiest way to uproot the old Southern educational mores.

They believe that the college undergraduate level is the next step in the desegregation process. By the time a student is of college age, they argue, and studying such edifying subjects as anthropology, sociology, and psychology he is able to see through the blinding prejudices that he learned as a child. He more readily accepts the Negro student and is less prone to say things that will hurt him. These people think that desegregation should move down to the lower grades rather than up from them.

The Daily Texan, campus newspaper, took a poll to see the general reaction toward the explosive word desegregation. Several contributors laid batted the subject around fairly thoroughly in the paper's editorial page Letters to the Editor section. A majority were supremists objected to an editorial on the Walker case. The poll was designed to give a wider viewpoint.

In this poll, each person indicated a reasonable attitude accepting the fact that desegregation is coming and must be dealt with in the easiest way possible. Some disapproved, but a majority felt changes of grease at the present let the Negro college students had gotten to the past. Few objected to mixed classes at the college level.

The problem that worries them, regardless of which side of the fence they stand on, is the social relations that will be involved. How far does segregation go? What about dormitories, parties, extracurricular activities? Those are the questions that must be answered before the problem of attitude toward the problem is reached.

Most of them believe that desegregation is a matter of years. They are against a forceful, calm settlement, and they fear bothnededness on either side.

But the type of insensitiveness that colored the opinions of many students since the treatment of the undergraduate enrollees this year indicated understanding and readiness to face the problem.

Texas will not have an easy time of it, just as no Southern state will. There are plenty of conservatives and ultra-conservatives that will fight to hold these people are voters. . But at the university level, where students gain a broader scope, fewer people are violent segregationalists.

That's why many students look on the University as a stepping stone toward an integrated educational program.

Miami
(Continued from Page 2)

they have not had the opportunities to learn and pass on their learning that the white race has, and has had for centuries. You cannot cure illiteracy or general backwardness by killing the only possibility of ever correcting any deficiencies.

"It is true that the Negro was prosperity at the time of the Constitution's conception but in the years following the Civil War, during the days of decisions, granted constitutional privileges to all citizens. It is hypocrisy to allow judicial equality and social bigotry. All citizens are granted constitutional rights, it does not matter what color they got them."

The sole letter favoring segregation asked: "Is it American to force certain people to live and associate with other groups against their wishes? I should think not. If members of the U.S. Supreme Court want to send their children to school with Negroes, that is their prerogative, but to compel others to follow is dictatorial."

But the overall general feeling in this university of those who have expressed themselves is "Take the law, let's see some action." It's hard to say what the majority of the student body would do if Negroes were admitted here. What people say and do are two different things. And since this is a private institution, we may not find out for some time to come.

A newspaper can print editorials damning segregation or praising it, but no problems would be solved nor would any great crusades be started. Honestly, it would be a waste of time and space. For the opinions on this issue are more numerous than all the political promises at election time.

It's easy to come out for or against something. But explaining why you took such a stand is much more difficult. Especially in this case. That's why The Hurricane has left the subject to the students. No editorials are really needed.

At this University, the students seem to have a lot to say on the matter. And anyway, what is an opinion worth nowadays?

Possible Winners
(Continued From Page 2)

act them. In the April 26 issue of the FLORIDA FLAMBEAU we'll award the Obie's the annual ritual of this department. Best actor, Best actress, Prettiest screen actress, Handsomest actor, Prettiest screen newcomer, Handsomest screen newcomer, Worst actor and actress, and most talented all-around artist.

SURFACE NOISE

Every doll in California is a Marilyn Maxwe it seems—at least the public departments compare them all. Naturally they all say they want to be known for themselves not for comparison. . . . Perry Kilbride has put his foot down U-I's throat and says he won't play in another Ma and Pa Kettle series. . . . Color reverse is now being used in Miami, but the viewers number in the same way as WFSU-FM. . . . The musical score to A Bullet Is Waiting mentioned above and written by Dimitri Tiomkin is released under the title Jamie. . . . It's the music for video's kid show of the same name starring Brandon DeWilde. . . . The lead singer in Hugo Winterhalter's chorus on his recent Victor LP on Best television themes . . . really good . . . Alan Ladd has a 20-year-old adopted daughter engaged to an MGM actor. . . .

Music School
(Continued from Page 10)

ertire a wide range of solo, ensemble and dramatic repertoire.

Faculty publications as of June, 1954 were 20 books, 38 articles, 250 compositions and 76 records. "Repeat Performance," broadcast on the FSU Music Network, which includes many stations in Florida and Georgia, presents some of the best performances taking place on the campus during the year.

For the student whose interest in music is avocational or recreational, the school offers opportunity for a shared knowledge and enjoyment of music through courses in literature, history and theory of music and through participation in its major organizations and smaller ensembles. To the public it offers performances of every nature throughout the year, which are available over approximately 25 radio stations in persons mat in the immediate Tallahassee area.

And on a long-term basis, the school will help achieve a gradual increase in quality of music heard not only in Florida, but over the country as well.

Seminole Spotlight
(Continued from page 12)

nolds, a freshman, has been coming along nicely. In 9 attempts he has averaged 10.1 yards.

Lee Corso has been of tremendous asset on the defense as well as a runner. Back Billy Odom appears to be the fastest back on the squad. Buck Metts can also carry the mail, in addition to his contributions as a punter. Hard-nosed, caliber halfbacks include veteran Carl Grenn and freshman Pat Versprille.

THE FULLBACKS—

Throughout the year John Griner and Joe Holt have shared the major portion of the fullback responsibilities. The 170-pound Griner is excellent on the defense. Both men are capable of punching out the extra few yards when needed.

Ronnie King, Gene Cox, and Mercury Paskalakis are strength to the fullback spot. Paskalakis, a freshman who recently brought up from the B team. King and Cox are both seniors.

Penang's hospitals are apparently so short of doctors that they cannot spare 10 house doctors who graduated from the University of Malaya last June and who want to go to Singapore for their Doctor degree Day, the University announced.

The Federation government wrote to the university senate saying it could spare only half the house doctors for the ceremony, and asked sanction of the senate to award degrees to the stay-away graduates in absentia.

WELCOME
FSU STUDENTS SANITARY BARBER
SHOP
219 S. Adams

WELCOME
GRADUATES
The Hub Store
102-104 E. Jefferson

Welcome Home Alumni
After the Game
Come in and Enjoy
Steak, Chicken, and Seafood Dinners
AT
M&N Restaurant
119 East Jefferson St.

KENNERLY'S
Is The Only Place You Can Obtain
PROFESSIONAL THEATRICAL MAKE-UP
Grease Paint—Minstrel Black—Clown White
Crepe Hair—Spirit Gum—Lining Color
For Theatre Groups, Talent Shows, Initiations, Sorority and Fraternity Parties
WE SPECIALIZE IN FILLING ANY DOCTORS PRESCRIPTIONS
KENNERLY'S
PRESCRIPTION CENTER
Phone 2-5063
315 N. Monroe Tallahassee

"We made the discovery together that Camels are truly mild —with a good, rich flavor other brands just don't have! You try Camels—you'll agree!"
Joanne Dru and John Ireland
Lovely Hollywood star and her famous actor-director husband

Start smoking Camels yourself!
Make the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days!

SUCCESS STORY:
Camels — America's most popular cigarette . . . by far!

SUCCESS STORY FOR TWO... and how it started
Joanne Dru started her career as a model of teen-ager clothes. But it was her lovely study of dancing that won her a part in a Broadway musical . . . which led to film stardom in Hollywood.

There she met John Ireland, ex-marathon swimmer, amateur actor, stock player, Broadway star—now a brilliant director. Today they are man-and-wife partners in sparkling new screen hits.

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Smoke CAMELS
for more pure pleasure

Senate Views Traffic Regulations (See Below)

The Florida Flambeau

Freshmen Officers Installed Tonight (See Below)

PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

VOL. XL, NO. 15 TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1954

15,000 View Homecoming's 54 Festivities

Betty Wilmon Dons Seminole Headdress To Reign As Queen

An estimated 15,000 students, alumni and fans took part in Florida State University's largest homecoming over the weekend.

The full days of colorful events were highlighted by the crowning of the Furman Bagg Trophy at the coronation of Miss Betty Wilmon as 1954 Homecoming Queen, and other activities on and around campus.

Friday noon signaled the start of 1954 Homecoming as all university classes were dismissed for the day and all alumni began registering at the seventh annual affair. Spirit was in the Homecoming air that afternoon were there to [illegible]

Alpha Chi's float, featuring the fraternity emblem, a large white rose on a blue background was awarded a prize for being the Most Beautiful float in the parade.

Delta Zeta sorority captured the Most Original award for its float depicting Liberace at the piano, saying "Liberace Keeps Our Score."

Judging of house decorations Friday was first place awards to the Phi Mu Fraternity, Bryan Hall Sorority, Bryan Hall and the Kappa Sigma House.

Phi Mu won first place for its Seminole train entitled "Phi Mu Express." Bryan Hall and Pi Kappa Phi tied for the award for its showboat theme. The Seminole Boosters presented the Fighting Seminoles in "Furman's Lament."

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, was the featured speaker at the annual Alumni and Gold Key Banquet in the Suwannee Room Friday. Dr. Poling spoke on "What Free Freedom Now?", being not the danger of a third world war and what citizens can do to prevent it.

His speech was preceded by a 30-minute program by the FSU Symphony Orchestra and presentation of honorary memberships in Gold Key to State Attorney General Richard Ervin and professor emeritus Elmer B. Smith, and a Garnet Key to Miss Ann Pope, residence counselor of North Cawthon Hall.

Pee Wee, held Friday night in a packed Doak S. Campbell Stadium was perhaps Friday's biggest event. It was secret of the coronation of Miss Wilmon, sponsored by West Hall. Homecoming Queen's performance by the Marching Florida Chiefs, drum and bugle rally immediately afterwards. Midway during the rally Wes Della Tau Delta Fraternity and Delta Delta Delta sorority competed for first prize in Homecoming skits.

The fraternity won the prize with a "Gone Auto-be Fighting Seminoles," a parody on a western television show. The Lone Ranger on the title of the song was also used.

Open house at all residence halls, sororities and fraternities brought the day's activities to a close.

Saturday morning's Alumni Breakfast at President and Mrs. Doak S. Campbell's home was the first big event of the second Homecoming day, and was followed at 11:45 with a Buccaneer Club Reservation.

Present for the barbecued meal and Brunswick Stew luncheon were students, FSU Alumni and many of Florida's top political figures, including Governor-Elect LeRoy Collins, his congressmen and approximately 56 members of the State Legislature.

The football game traditionally the main Homecoming event attracted a crowd of 14,312 to watch FSU Seminoles beat Furman and the Marching Chiefs well-received half-time display.

After the game, open houses and class reunions were held on campus. Homecoming activities culminated in the Suwannee Room as Ray Eberle's Orchestra played at the 1954 Homecoming Dance for which 1052 tickets were sold, according to the Auditor's office.

During Homecoming weekend the new university educational radio station, WFSU-FM, formerly student-operated station WFSU, was dedicated to the service of the people of Florida.

SOPHOMORE COUNCIL

Jane Soper, chairman of Sophomore Council, requests that all Council members meet tonight at 7:30 in Longmire Auditorium. All Soph pictures will be taken for Tally-Ho. the women are asked to wear blue and white and to be prompt.

THE QUEEN, THE SMILE, THE TROPHY—Displaying the smile that capped the Queen's trophy and bouquet, Miss Betty Wilmon and she "could never be happier" on learning she had been chosen as the 1954 Homecoming Queen.

Move To Stiffen Traffic Rules Scheduled Tomorrow In Senate

By Staff Writer

A move by Senator Joan Hatford to amend and stiffen the present Traffic Court regulations and a resolution by the senator to make Jacksonville Boulevard (running in front of Jennie Murphree) one way for the most of the length will be discussed by Student Senate tomorrow when it meets in Longmire at 4:15.

A proposed pro-tem of the senate will also be elected.

Upcoming in the meeting tomorrow will also be a resolution introduced at last week's Senate meeting by Men's Vice President Gordon Gaster.

His proposal as read in Senate Wednesday, would provide for a special one election to fill vacated seats in the Senate.

His bill, which if approved by Senate will be submitted to the Student Body for ratification as an amendment to the constitution, also states that the class presidents shall appoint interim Senators to fill temporary vacancies.

The Bill further provides that if it is passed by Senate, the amendment would become effective immediately upon confirmation by the Student Body.

Gaster's proposed amendment appears to result from controversy over President Pete Nimkoff's choice to fill a vacant seat in Senate by Women's Senate. An opinion by Attorney General Dave Sholtz declared that Senate could not request the president to hold a special election.

Gaster's amendment would remove the objection by making an election constitutional. It would further put the duty to call such an election into the hands of the several class presidents.

At its last meeting, Senate confirmed the appointments of Vern Williams as Secretary of Labor; Graham Carothers as Secretary of Recreation; and Joe Harris to the

(Continued on Page 4)

Dorms Remain Open During Thanksgiving

All dormitories will remain open over the Thanksgiving holidays, announced Mr. Robert Brewer, Director of Men's Residence, Yesterday.

Seventy homes will be closed, however, between 5 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 24, and 1:30 p. m. the following Sunday, in accordance with women staying on campus may be housed in the Women's dormitories. The fraternities may decided individually whether or not to close, Mr. Brewer added.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be served on Thursday from 12:30 to 2:00 p. m. in the Seminole Club, which will remain open except for the holidays between 2 p. m. Wednesday and 2 p. m. Sunday. The Sweet Shop announced that it will remain open until 11 p. m. Wednesday and resume operations Sunday around 1 p. m.

All administrative offices as well as the post office will be closed at noon Wednesday, and classes are dismissed, until Monday morning. The West Hall bus will not be in service, while the West Campus bus will run once an hour throughout the holidays.

Holiday activities on campus will include a football game on Thursday, played with Mississippi Southern, preceded by a parade.

American Studies Plan Aimed At Horizontal Treatment of Life

American Studies program, established here in 1948, aims at a horizontal treatment of American life, Instructors said Monday.

Dr. William Randel, professor of English, is head of the Florida State University program. Also head of the Southeastern American Studies Association, Dr. Randel describes the program as "the freest curriculum" in the university.

"It has no direct vocational goal but gives a basic general background in American life."

FSU students majoring in American Studies are free to take any course in fields such as History, Political Science, Sociology, Art, Music or Journalism. All curriculums are worked out by the approval of a committee established for that purpose.

To major in the program, a student proposes a pattern of courses to the Committee on American Studies at FSU, which is either approved or given back with suggested changes.

In describing the course as "horizontal", Dr. Randel explained that instead of taking many courses in one field, courses in many different fields are taken. Students must seek to find the relationships among the various subjects they are taking, which they do by means of term papers which cut across department lines.

Dr. Randel said that his main interest is improved international understanding. "All over the world people want to find out

(Continued on Page 4)

FSU Students, Faculty Attend Regional Meet

Gainesville Is Site Of FCCH Meeting On Political Parties

Ten Florida State University students and three faculty members are expected to attend the first regional meeting of the Florida Citizenship Clearing House in Gainesville Saturday.

Pete Nimkoff, president of the Student Body; Bob Folsom, Editor of The Florida Flambeau and Alan Sundberg, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council and Pi Sigma Alpha are among the FSU students invited.

The theme of the meeting is "How Can College Students Most Effectively Participate in Party Politics?" said Dr. Marian Irish, head of the FSU political science department. She said its purpose is to recruit those attending for practical politics.

"It will be an opportunity to meet outstanding public figures in the state," she continued.

The FSU faculty members who will attend the conference are Dr. Irish, Miss Daisy Parker, assistant professor of political science and Dr. Elmo Roady, associate professor of political science.

Dr. Irish said that students other than those already mentioned who are expected to attend are Norman Smith, president of the Politics Club; Dave Kennedy, president of the Young Democrats Club; Jack Wetherell, secretary of the Young Republicans Club.

Dr. Roady will speak on one of the two panels to be held at the conference, "The Nature of Party Organization." The other panel will be "Participation of Students in Party Politics." These panels will be conducted by members of the Executive Committee of the Citizenship Clearing House; student leaders and faculty from Florida colleges and universities and state political leaders.

Members of the Executive Committee are Dr. Bayard Catron, Bryant, Speaker, Florida House of Representatives; Dr. Jean A. Bettle, Dean of Students, Florida Southern College; Mr. Donald K. Carroll, President of Florida Union.

Also Mr. Paul L. E. Hellewell, Miami attorney at law; Dr. Evans C. Johnson, Department of History and Government, Stetson University; Dr. Ronald K. Lawson, chairman Department of government, University of Miami; Dr. Ralph E. Page, Dean, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Florida; Mr. Nelson Poynter, Editor of the St. Petersburg Times.

Dr. Alan P. Stuckey, Department of History and Government, University of Tampa; Dr. Frank-lyn A. Johnson, Chairman, Division of Human Relations, Rollins College, and Dr. Irish.

MODEL OF NEW FSU LIBRARY—Howard W. Jones, assistant professor of art, left, and designer of the model shown, points out highlights of the new library, estimated to cost a million and a half dollars to Florida State University trustees Jones are, right, Hampa Kilpatrick, director of the library and Lois Gibson, industrial design student.

New Library Planned For Landis Green

Florida State University's new $1,403,000 library, containing 300,000 volumes and a seating capacity of 1,000, will be erected on Landis Green. Construction will begin in the near future.

The contract has been awarded to Beers Construction Company of Atlanta, who are expected to complete the building within 18 months, according to recent reports.

The new four-floor library will contain a smoking lounge on each floor, a student elevator, a conference room for students and a typists area.

The lower division study area will seat about 400 students and will contain reserve books, stated officials. Also, the floor will contain current newspapers and non-subject periodicals, such as Life, Time, and Atlantic Monthly. A collection of 10,000 volumes for faculty and students will be located on the main floor.

The second floor will contain literature concerning Social Science and Humanities with upper seminar rooms, while the third floor will consist of sciences, technology, and government maps and documents. The library school and a lecture room will be located in the basement.

Plans for the new structure were on exhibit in the present library during Homecoming week.

Dance Groups Hold Tryouts This Week

Tryouts for Cavalier, Florida State University men's dancing honorary, will be held tonight in the Student Center beginning at 7:30 p. m. It will be the second tryout session this semester.

Thursday at the same place and time, tryouts for the FSU women's dancing honorary, Cotillion, will be held. Group spokesmen said that all interested girls on campus are welcome to enter the competition.

They continued that lessons for the two groups, held earlier in the semester, have been very successful. Mambo, bop, jitterbug and fox trot techniques were taught.

Poling Speaks At Homecoming On 'The Prices Freedom Pays'

Unity can only be achieved in the service of a cause transcending all differences, said Dr. Daniel A. Poling, speaker at the annual Garnet and Gold Key Banquet Friday afternoon.

Dr. Poling, clergyman, author and editor, spoke on "What Price Freedom—Now?" He is regarded as one of America's outstanding writers, and his work for international understanding is widely known abroad. Dr. Poling is also president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union. A portion of his Friday speech is printed below:

"Always, and in each generation, the price of freedom has been paid.

Those who fought and died in World War II, and those who fought and died in Korea, did not die in vain. Because they have died, they have fear its hardness, they know and learn its honor and they measure so quickly to administer all its functions and to win its victories. They, the living whom we cherish and these beloved dead whom we honor, have made their contributions to liberty and union, in peace with power and with justice for all mankind. And, as we have said of the work of the Pounding Fathers and Mothers, we say now of the work of our sons—from the beginning have declared, we cannot retract, and to it we cannot add. We may only offer the humble tribute and declare our yet greater, our immortal faith.

Always Freedom is on the march. Always the goal of free men is ahead. Always liberty must be reborn in each of us and renew here and now. Freedom's price, no less offered in the past and so fully paid, must be offered and paid again and again and yet again. Paid now by you and me.

Let us not blind to the brutal fact that Freedom's immediate challenge, a challenge dark and ominous, is Communism. Never before in all recorded history has human liberty been threatened as it is now, threatened by this ancient, diabolical totalitarianism. Make no mistake about it, for here a mistake could become fatal. Between Communism and Liberty, and Freedom, Communism and free industry, or life and death, or life and life, there is a great gulf fixed, an impassable chasm. There two can not be reconciled and only one can at last survive. Do I mean then that war, all-out World War III, is inevitable? No. Definitely no. I do not consent to all-out World War III, the war that could end man. But to stop World War III before it starts, we must face facts. We

(Continued on Page 3)

Gymkana Tour Features Revue Of 1954 Show

The first preview of the 1954 Gymkana Revue will be presented in Thomasville, Georgia, on Thursday at the Veteran's Domiciliary, announced Dr. Hensley Price, Director. On Friday the troupe will travel to Troy State Teachers College in Troy, Alabama.

The acrobatic dancing seeds will preview several of their numbers, while the Florida State University gymnasts will perform on the flying rings, parallel bars, side horse and tumbling team. The Tallahassee Tumbling Tots will also be on hand.

Dr. Price announced that the following members of Gymkana will make the trip: Barbara Murray, Ann Turker, Jan Clark, Connie Holder, Rosemary Hollander, Frances Stokes, Helen Hardin, Pam Duke, Barbara Vickers and Ann Holcombe.

Anita Wall, Martha Bazyrtt, J. C. Griffin, Tom McDonald, Dick Ireland, Jim Fadigan, Estes Lorenzo, Jamie Ramsey, Jim Tanaka, Joe Taylor, Robert Sharpe, Bob Murray and Jim Hanah.

Also Don Holder, Laurd Anderson, Don Sapp, Al Ruth, Kent Hearn and Don Smith.

The Miss Gymkana Court will also attend. It is composed of Anita Anderson, Fay Anthony, Sharon Benton, Joyce Slater, Lera Bowden, Bobbie Lou Lesser, Mary Stewart Bolton, Bobbye Crisp, Ruth Bloomfield, Mary Margaret Williams, Alison Templeman, Sue Scott, Myra Ann Lay, Gail Byrd, Edward Munes, Margaret McLeod, Kathy Johnson, Barbara Brown and Janice Eberly.

Dr. and Mrs. Hartley Price will accompany the group which will also include the 55 Tallahassee Tumblers.

Campbell Will Give Address At FTA Meet

Pros and cons of the role of the individual in the school system will be discussed tomorrow by Florida State University President Doak S. Campbell.

A featured speaker at the annual banquet of the Future Teachers of America, President Campbell will offer his opinions with educational leaders, Mr. Edwin Browning, State Department of Education; Dr. Mede L. Stone, Associate Dean, School of Education, and Dr. Hardy Tyson, Dean of the School of Education.

Scheduled for the Suwannee room tomorrow at 5 p.m., the FTA banquet is also the feature of a membership drive coordinator Dr. G. Ballard Simmons and student entertainment.

Dr. Campbell's address is entitled "Good Schools are Your Responsibility."

FTA officers include Martha King, president; Edna Ann Hudson, vice-president; Ethel Geisler, secretary; Ann Dalton, treasurer; Dr. S. T. Lanlinger is sponsor.

Standing committees for the banquet include Mrs. Nichols Marilynn Searight, nominations; Miss Andrews, program; Miss Johnson, membership; Jean Morgan, librarian - historian; Phyllis Wood, publicity.

Also Susan Sayrnller, projects; Elinor Newman, social; Mary Ann Hudson, devotional; Beverly Odom, breakfast; Evelyn Lerner, banquet; and Connie Long, tickets.

Dr. Browning will give the invocation.

Senior Class Plans 'Birthday Party' For President Campbell

The annual Birthday Party for President Doak S. Campbell will be given by the Senior class next Sunday night at 8:30. It will be held at the President's home on the Seminole Road.

Buses will leave from the Bryan Hall at 7:50 p.m. and transportation will be provided for the return to campus, announced co - chairmen Frances Holmes.

The birthday party has been held every year for the 14 years that Dr. Campbell has been here. Although his birthday falls on November 24, it will be celebrated on the 21st.

The informal party is an established opportunity for all seniors to personally be with the Campbells in their own home, announced Senior Class President Harry Massey.

Dress will be informal. Afternoon dresses for women and coats and ties for men, will be appropriate, said Massey.

Warren Cobb and Frances Holmes are co-chairmen of the committee in charge of the party assisted by Sylvia Rabb, Charlie Conlier and Dick Mooney.

THE MARCHING CHIEFS—Intricate formations by the FSU band highlighted the Homecoming game halftime show. Above, the Marching Chiefs outline a rosebud for presentation of the Homecoming Queen, Miss Betty Wilmon, on the rostrum in the center of the formation.

Davies and the Diplomats

Is the federal security program producing security or sterility? The question comes up anew in the light of Secretary Dulles' announcement that John Paton Davies Jr., has been dismissed after 23 years of service as a career diplomat.

Obviously no final appraisal of the Davies story can be made unless and until the State Department grants his plea for issuance of the full record.

But what is already known further underscores the need for a critical Congressional study of the whole security program (more popularly identified in recent mnnths as "the numbers game").

For, whatever may remain to be told about the Davies episode, there is something terribly wrong with a system which brings only public disgrace and personal disaster to a man who has served his country so long and stands accused of no crime.

There is no finding of disloyalty in the Davies dismissal; such a charge is explicitly disclaimed. The offenses attributed to him are essentially those of bad judgment and indiscretion. Yet, less than four years before he was to become eligible for full pension, he has been exiled from government without even token recognition of his long service, and under circumstances befitting a spy nr a thief.

Davies was cleared by eight previous security investigations; now the ninth—based on the revised, more generalized standards of the GOP security setup— apparently found him guilty of "unreliable" reporting from China during the decline and fall of the Chiang Kai-shek regime, and of excessive candor in stating his views to correspondents there.

While the full record may reveal other issues, the impression plainly conveyed by what has been disclosed so far is that he is being punished for being wrong.

But who is so wise as to try to pass final judgment now on the tragedy of China? It was admittedly Davies' view during critical periods in the forties that the U. S. should not stake everything on Chiang's faltering forces, and that we should make a massive effort to split the Chinese Communists from their Russian comrades.

Was that an unforgiveable heresy? If Peking and Moscow split next year, what will we do with the diplomats who have been saying dogmatically that it couldn't happen?

Ironically, on the day Davies was being fired, the Administration was reported to be exacting a pledge from Chiang not to initiate an attack on the Chinese mainland. Some Republican Senators and commentators are sure to call this treason; will Mr. Dulles one day face trial for "leashing" Chiang?

The most cynical possibility is that Davies has been deemed expendable at this juncture precisely because the Administration is planning to modify its Far Eastern position and fears the impending assault of the know-nothings.

But Messrs. Knowland, Jenner, and McCarthy will not be so easily appeased.

Meanwhile, the danger of large-scale demoralization in the foreign service increases; that danger far transcends the Davies case.

Davies has felt compelled to defend himself by proving that he favored a "preventive showdown" with Moscow in 1950—a more damning commentary on his judgment than any of the earlier unorthodoxies ascribed to him.

Are other diplomats hastening to get on record with similarly capricious and reckless proposals to prove their "reliability" and "discretion"?

Now, more than ever, we need an imaginative, courageous, flexible foreign service. We need men who will probe conscientiously for cracks in the Communist structure, and who will not be too timid to record their honest opinions. We need bolder ideas on every front to compete with the complex Communist challenge.

Officials who have decided to play it safe are useless warriors in such a conflict; the cowardly conformist can be the nastiest "security risk" of all. For he would rather risk the free world's survival than his own neck.

—From The New York Post

'Now We've Got a Man Who'll Turn His Back On Anybody'

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Listen to thot Southern drawl?
And wish you were home in Montreal.
—Don Rapp

18 Year Old Vote

By WAYNE TERRY

Almost two centuries ago, the demand for "no taxation without representation" fomented the revolution which made America free. And yet today, thousands of American taxpayers are denied the ballot. They are the eighteen to twenty-one year olds who are marrying and raising families and working to support them. Think of the great contribution this age group has made and is making to the United States this year. More than forty percent of the men in the armed forces are between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one. Military service is an obligation of citizenship; so is voting.

Every young man who passes his eighteenth birthday faces an eight-year military obligation—two years on active duty and six years in the reserve. These men are willing to fight for their Government, but they also demand the right to help select their Government. They reason, and rightly, that if they are old enough to fight, they are old enough to vote!

In the minds of many, twenty-one years marks the age of reason, of discretion. That is an outmoded belief borrowed from the pages of history. During the Middle Ages a youth could be knighted only when he could bear the weight of armor, and use it. Based on physical ability alone, twenty-one years of age thus became the dividing line between immaturity and wisdom.

Today no such absurd test can prevail. With modern education, modern transportation, and modern communications, our young men and women are better informed than the corresponding age group in any period of history. President Eisenhower and other Republican leaders are in the forefront of those who want the voting age lowered to eighteen. They constantly reject the argument that youth is not prepared for this responsibility. A recent Gallup poll backs up this stand. It found that young Americans between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years of age are the best informed of any age group on basic political facts.

Our Nation's young men and women have the greatest stake in today's decisions. What is done today will affect their tomorrows, will determine what kind of world they can expect as their heritage. Fresh from the classroom or from the armed services, youth offers both politics and Government new vitality. They have the right to determine that honest, efficient Government by men of integrity and ability be continued, that there shall be no return to the era of stumbling and bumbling of five percenters, of dishonesty in high places.

Only one of the forty-eight states, Georgia, has had the courage to grant the vote to eighteen-year-olds. But the movement to lower the voting age—sparked by

(Continued on Page 4)

The Point Is

West Hall Bloc Shows Its Potential

By BOB FOLSOM

Betty Wilmon is the 1954 Homecoming Queen. She won the title from four other pretty and popular contestants.

She was sponsored by West Hall, and therein lies the reason for her victory.

The Homecoming Queen contest is primarily a popularity contest, and the queen is elected by a majority of the student body. In the past it usually took a pretty and popular face to win. This year some 'politicking' entered the picture.

A few West Hall residents aroused their fellow residents out of their lethargic voting habits, and these people voting as a bloc, easily swung the election for their own entry.

With the small turnout that usually happens at every election on this campus, it was probably a pretty easy victory, too.

Their bloc vote, however, has caused ill-will on campus. Primarily, its because, students wanted their own choice to win and are prejudiced against West Hall for their large turnout.

The ill-will that has been caused is unfortunate. Actually there is nothing wrong with the West Hall bloc vote. If they sponsor an entry, why not vote for her? I'm sure the people who wanted to see someone else get the nod would have gladly taken the West Hall vote, and wouldn't have complained like they're doing now.

In a sense, this election is a significant event. It is the first time West Hall has voted as a bloc, and we see what happened.

It shows the great potential, for good or bad, West Hall holds. It is entirely possible, from here on out, and with a little organizing, they can swing any and every election on campus their way.

Disregarding the elections of beauty queens, the West Hall bloc could serve much more tangible purposes.

Perhaps it now serves notice to much of the student body that they will have to get out and cast a ballot unless they want to see their favorite candidate snowed under because of the West Hall vote.

And if organized, the West Hall bloc could easily be the determining factor in electing student government representatives.

This is, of course, the most important role they could play. It should have been done in the recent freshmen election, just about as important an election as any held on campus each year.

This may now sound as if it is advocating a pressure group, or a group who just wants to place in office any candidate of their choosing. Speaking primarily from the student government elections standpoint, if the leaders in West Hall use their bloc to put into office qualified and capable student government officials, and do so, then let it be whatever a student wants to call it.

The Dissenter

General U.S. Grant, Lead The Way

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Sound the charge! Fix bayonets! Unfurl the colors! Save your pictures of Abraham Lincoln! The North shall rise again!

The gray-clad rebels who burn and pillage the helpless villages of old New England, who rise in defiance at public meetings when Dixie is played, whose blood-curdling yells make me stammer when I recite the Gettysburg address every night before I retire—they shall all be routed before the triumphant Grand Army of the Republic.

When the Kappa Alphas abandon their mansion, I pray that I may be there so as to be the first to strike down their colors and stand victorious over the corpse of the rebellion.

Actually, I'm sick and tired of seeing the civil war fought over and over and over again until even Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer gets tired of pitting the blue and the gray against each other.

There was a movie showing in Tallahassee over the weekend, which told a story of how a group of escaped Confederate prisoners methodically raid and sack a Yankee (Vermont, no less!) town and gleefully burn the public buildings to the ground, in retribution for the destruction of the South.

The picture itself wasn't much. It had an ending which was too probable to be entertaining, in that the Rebel hero gets away but doesn't come back to the waiting arms of the Yankee woman. It was worth more than the service charge of my free pass, however, to observe the Tallahassee yeomanry when the pillaging and burning began.

They let out a blood-curdling crescendo of pseudo-rebel yells which I don't suppose they'll ever equal again unless Herman Talmadge gets elected President.

It was an interesting display for the anthropologist, but awfully hard on the ears.

For another typical battle scence from a conflict that promises to outdo the Hundred Years War, let's observe a typical southern football game.

The band plays Dixie. The Kappa Alphas yell and scream and get all red in the face. They go into convulsions. Their ears wave like the tail of General Lee's horse. They brandish their Stars and Bars so frenziedly that everyone else within ten yards has to evacuate. They throw dirty The-Klan-Will-Get-You looks at all the Yankees, cripples, sleepers and sane people who don't get up and scream bloody murder when the band plays Dixie.

Wander down any hall in a men's dormitory and you can find dozens of confederate symbols. Comment on them in even the most slightly disrespective way and you're a candidate for the handiest bucket of tar and the nearest pillow full of feathers.

If noise, shouting and convulsions are any indication of who won the civil war all Grant did that day at Appamattox was beg for mercy.

When I go up to New York no one calls me a Rebel nor do they put a strong four-letter prefix before the word. When "Gone With The Wind" is shown, the northerners don't have hysterics.

The North won the civil war long ago. If the war was ever won by anybody. When we look back upon it, we wish it hadn't happened, we don't feel proud of the useless slaughter, and we wish Sherman's definition of war didn't prove to be so true.

Yet even the South concedes that it's better the Union held together. If it hadn't, we might be part of Great Britain again-or worse.

So why fight the whole stupid, infernal, despicable issue all over again?

Call it childishness, stupidity, an outlet for energy, or whatever you wish, but if it keeps up this damnyankee is going to polish his sabre and sign up.

U. S. Grant, lead the way!

A Story

The Last Frontier

By DICK VICTORY

The four boys were on their haunches, huddled around the tiny hole scratched in among the pine roots and coral rock. There was a hot bright fire in the hole and the boys were careful not to get too close because the sun had just gone down and the heat of the day lingered though night had fallen.

The one named Bennie said they'd better go into the tent to talk things over. Shortly he crawled in and the other three scrambled in after him.

"Now," he said after they were all kneeling inside, "the first thing . . ."

"What about the potatoes?"

Bennie looked at Little Mallory, who had spoken. "We have to wait to the fire goes out, don't we stupid?" He smiled bitter-sweetly and then went back to his original subject.

"We've got to make some secret plans about those damn houses tonight."

Jim confirmed this. "Yeah, those damn houses," he said.

This statement of policy on Bennie's part called for a pause to see what the reaction would be. He stared straight at his feet and waited for a negative reply. There was none. He went on.

"Those damned houses are all around here. And they'll be here, too, if we don't watch out and do something about it." He crawled to the edge of the tent and looked out. He squinted, looking for the For Sale sign, but it was dark and he couldn't see much so he crawled all the way out. He looked in a wide circle. Through the silhouetted trees on three sides he could see the road and once he caught a glimpse of a car's headlights gnawing at the darkness.

There was no road on the other side, but instead the trees ran down to the edge of a rock pit filled with rain water. There was no outlet and no inlet. The water covered an area of about a small city block and it was dark green and sometimes brown. The bottom was sandy and felt good to your bare toes.

The houses Bennie was talking about lined the outside sides of the three streets, squat new concrete block houses, staring out of their lighted eyes disinterestedly at the wood and surrounding it.

Bennie felt a hand on his shoulder. It was Big Mallory. The others were outside too.

"I know what we can do," Big Mallory said, "we can burn the woods up—that'll scare them and they won't build any houses then."

Bennie shook his head. "No, that'd just clear it off for them. They'd like that. We've got to do something else, but I don't know what."

Little Mallory, a perfect miniature of his brother, picked up a pine cone and crawled back into the tent. In a moment, the others joined him, in silence.

"There just won't be any place to go if they build houses here," Jim said, his tone heavy with melancholy.

Little Mallory's eyes flashed. "What about the playground?" he said, thinking of the sliding board. "Huh?"

"To hell with the playground," Jim said. "Those big guys always take my hat. To hell with the playground."

His plan having been proved impractical, Little Mallory lapsed into silence and occupied himself with interests other than conversation like picking at the wart on his thumb with one of the points of the pine cone. The others talked on.

The conversation finally sputtered and died; their problem still unresolved.

Big Mallory glanced at his brother. Little Mallory was shaking his hand with a very loose wrist action, whipping his fingers through the air.

"What's wrong?" the older Mallory asked.

"The wart," Little Mallory answered, smiling. "It's gone." He pointed to the palm of his good hand. "Look."

They all looked at the wart and then back at the other hand. Blood was beginning to ooze from the wound.

"Hey, look at that," said Jim, as he leaned forward to get a better look. "Let me see." He took Little Mallory's game hand in his own.

"Cut it out," Little Mallory said as Jim began to squeeze at the wound.

Jim ignored him. "Get a bottle, somebody," he said. "This might come in handy some day."

Little Mallory continued to protest. "Hey, that hurts." He finally managed to pull his hand free and then stared disbelievingly at Jim.

"Aw, come on," Jim said. "Blood's blood. Let me put a little in a bottle." He made another move toward Little Mallory, who by now had edged away and was applying a soiled handkerchief to the wound.

"What's the use, even if you do get it into a bottle," Bennie said. "It'll just be a bunch of scabs tomorrow."

Jim looked disappointed. "Yeah," he said, "that's right."

Little Mallory, relieved, leaned forward again.

Bennie was annoyed with the whole episode. "Come on, let's do something about the houses. Somebody say something."

Little Mallory glanced up. He looked like he had the answer. He began to speak slowly, using all the wisdom of his eight years. "I know what we can do if they start to build some houses here. We can plant pine cone seeds under where the houses are going to be and some day they'll grow up and knock them down." He smiled knowingly in conclusion, pleased with his contribution.

"What are you trying to do, saying stuff like that?" Bennie said and frowned at Little Mallory. "This is serious." He turned to Big Mallory. "Why'd you have to bring him?"

The more he thought about it the angrier he got, until finally, he reached across and shoved Little Mallory over backwards like he had seen Big Mallory do a hundred times.

Little Mallory turned over in a half-somersault. He picked the pine needles out of his hair and opened his wide eyes wider. His brother thought that was

(Continued on Page 4)

Letters To The Flambeau

Georgia Segregation

To the Editor:

In regard to your editorial about the public school issue in Georgia, I would like to make a few corrections. First of all, the passage of the amendment does not necessarily mean that Georgia will ever abandon the public school system. It simply means that they have the power to do so under the State Constitution.

Secondly I don't feel that you (the editors) are capable of second guessing the Supreme Court. I doubt if anyone knows how the court will rule on this issue at this time, including the court.

The third corection I would like to make is that the amendment was not railroaded through by Herman Talmadge or any other small group of people. It was voted on in a free election by the people of Gorgia (both Negro and white). These people were exercising their democratic right self-government. They have not asked the rest of the nation to follow suit. They do, however, deem it necessary that the state enact such legislation that will promote the general welfare of their state.

Sincerely,
TOM WOODS
Former resident of Georgia

Ed. note: Oh! These are corrections?

Segregation Page

To the Editor:

Segregation is a topic which has been debated time and time again. However, most of us have never delved deeply into the problem or examined views held on the subject by people outside of our immediate acquaintance. For this reason I should like to express my gratitude for your page of editorials written by students from other universities in the South.

In order for your readers to more fully understand the merits and demerits of de-segregation, I wonder if it would be possible to print a similar page containing the opinions of the editors of several Northern universities which have already integrated a non-segregation policy? I believe it would prove educational and interesting.

Sincerely,
BARBARA CHAMBERS

Congratulations

To The Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to congratulate the residents of Magnolia Hall for their prize-winning Homecoming decoration. In view of the competition among the men's dormitories for the honor, it should be regarded as an accomplishment of no little note.

Wait 'till next year!

WEST HALL RESIDENT

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"Little TOO rusty, huh?"

Etcetera Etchings

On The Latest About The Stars

By DAVID DREIS

Last week Betty Hutton gave up showbusiness because it gave her too many heartaches. Betty's act at "The Sahara" in Las Vegas was greeted with cheers, yet the 33-year-old blonde is forsaking it all. Her last national venture was video's spectacular Satin and Spurs which wasn't too spectacular acording to reviewers.

• • •

Joe Dimaggio waited outside the hospital room where Marilyn Monroe had undergone surgery. Neither is discussing reconciliation although I'm willing to bet it'll come. Marilyn's plea to the judge in tears and all, that Joe was cool to her was too well done to be too true, according to reporters who covered the scene. It probably was true, but that wasn't all the reasons they split.

• • •

I don't consider it any great prediction that Bandleader Les Elgart will be the Glenn Miller of tomorrow. Elgart's band is top-notch and when I heard him this summer in the Empire State, he had more class than some of the names on top. I doubt if he was with Miller.

• • •

If you saw that double feature at the State theater, you saw the great Miller band in action. Of course, Ray Eberle was there as was Tea Beneke—two of our Homecoming band leaders. No, Jackie Gleason who played the bass violin in Orchestra Wives was only an actor in the movie. It was made in 1952, the other film, Sun Valley Serenade was in 1941.

• • •

Big break-ups: It was quite a surprise to find that the reconciliation with Robert Horton and Barbara Ruick didn't take. They met in "Apache War Smoke" with Gilbert Roland and the MGM starlets were considered the cutest couple. After a year and some months of marriage, it's all over . . . . Another break-up is that between Jeffery Hunter and Barbara Rush . . . For awhile it seemed as if Barbara was another actress and that's all . . . . it was Jeffery's deal with Twentieth Century which counted . . now after Magnificent Obsession Barbara Rush wants out of the affair . . .

• • •

Picture in the Miami Daily News showed Anne Francis with a Seminole pennant. The pic was in color, but we asked for a mat to reprint it here. No answer from Herb Rau, Amusement Editor of that sheet.

• • •

What ever happened to movie serials? I don't see them around anymore. Ah, how I remember watching them every Saturday. Sam Katzman became a watchword for me. I followed Don Winslow through the navy and coast guard, The Scarlet Horseman through his battles with cattle thieves, Captain America and Bucky from the comic strips, Batman and Superman also from comics, The Silver Whip during the fad where cowboys carried whips instead of guns and thousands and thousands more. I wonder if the serials would still give me as much a thrill as yesteryear? Probably not. Ah, those days of youth and me past 20.

Eddie Fisher is again number one on the Hit Parade with "I Need You Now." He is now the tops in the history of the binnis even outracing Bing Crosby for top honors. Still, Der Bingle will remain the most colorful crooner in the annals of song. Even Eddie doesn't have that special touch which Crosby and—yes—Perry Como have. Maybe he'll get it in future years.

I've been asked who my favorite five male stars are: They are, Humphrey Bogart, Gary Cooper, James Cagney, Cary Grant and William Holden. They always give good performances. Women: Joan Crawford, June Allyson, Shelley Winters, Barbara Stanwyck and Marilyn Monroe. Yep, I put MM in the category. Yes, I'm sure Ingrid Bergman is 39 years old.

A Better Measure

Struggle Between Powers Continues

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

The basic struggle between the adherents of the Dixon-Yates contract and their opponents is whether private capital or federal funds should be used in further expansion of power facilities both in and out of the Tennessee Valley Authority region.

This dispute of philosophy on the part of the members of Congress and other government officials came out into the open months ago when it became apparent to the Atomic Energy Commission and TVA officials that a greater amount of electrical power would be needed to supply the needs of the Memphis, Tenn. area by 1957. Congress, however, has refused three times to give TVA more money with which to build another generating plant to meet the anticipated power needs.

Last December and January both President Eisenhower and the budget director (then Joseph Dodge) brought up the subject and suggested that perhaps arrangements could be made to supply the needed power. They did not however give any details as to how it could be done. Shortly afterwards the Dixon-Yates organization offered the AEC a plan where they would build a steam plant at West Memphis, Ark. and supply the needed electricity, which would be fed into the TVA transmission system for use in the Memphis area. This in turn would release a like amount of TVA power which would then be available to the atomic energy plants at Paducah, Ky., and Oak Ridge, Tenn.

There is nothing new in this proposal except that in this case TVA would have no say in establishing rates or terms of the contract. It would act only as a transmission agent, whereas in previous contracts made with private companies it was to their mutual advantage.

Rep. Holifield (D-Calif) summed up the opposition when he said: "In effect, the government protects the company against risks, guarantees the fixed charges on the bonds and at least 9 per cent of the investment capital, assumes all tax payments of every sort and description and assumes the cost of all replacements. At the end of 25 years, the company is presented with a well-maintained and valuable plant. This factor and other profit chances mean that the total returns to stockholders may be as high as 20 or 30 per cent."

Supporters of the project argue

(Continued on Page 4)

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor
Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ... Joyce Potter
Campus Editors ... Martin Dyckman, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors ... Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ... Bob Gutting, Alan Whitmarsh, David Morris
Photographer ... Laird Anderson, Al Robbins

Copy Editors ... Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusement Editor ... David Dreis
Art Consultant ... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ... Con Horn
Junior Staff ... George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jeri Bradfield

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Business Staff ... Mary Wogan
Distribution ... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Mary Liz King, Adv. Mgr.

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17.
Exchange Editor ... Irma Cox

Telephone 2-8000 extension 6821
211, 213 Longmire Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Tribe Gains 33-14 Homecoming Victory Over Furman

From The Sidelines

By Alan Whitmarsh
Sports Staff

TRIBE 'RUNS' WILD

For one of the rare times this year, a heretofore dormant running game showed signs of life for Florida State as the Furman game. The Seminoles rolled up 177 yards rushing Saturday, far more than any previous high this season. Lack of a potent ground game has hurt Coach Bobby Nugent's men many times this year when the enemy has been able to combat the aerial mastery of the Seminole quarterbacks.

One of the big reasons for the strong ground attack Saturday was the running of halfback Lee Corso. Corso had up 77 yards by himself, including three touchdowns, against the Hurricanes. Corso ran for 76 yards from scrimmage and for 87 more after taking passes. He caught seven.

One of the big reasons for the strong ground attack Saturday was the running of halfback Lee Corso. Corso had up 77 yards by himself, including three touchdowns, against the Hurricanes. Corso ran for 76 yards from scrimmage and for 87 more after taking passes. He caught seven.

Though it will probably be played before the smallest crowd of the season, at least student-wise, the Nov. 27 game with Mississippi Southern looms as the big chance for the Seminoles to achieve national recognition this season. Since the contest comes during the Thanksgiving vacation, only a smattering of FSU students will be on hand to see what promises to be one of the best games of the year.

NOTE: Seminole fans noted cheerfully that Southern's 20-0 victory over Villanova last Saturday was indeed a good omen from FSU's 52-0 whooping of the same team. The Mississippi team has not seen everything rosy this season, and maybe we're going too far out on a limb, but we think that the Seminoles can and will defeat them on Nov. 27.

CHEERLEADERS NEED HELP

Here's a word of tribute to the Seminole cheerleaders, a great group of boys and gals who have been working hard all year and deserve a big hoorah. They can't do their job well, however, unless we the students do our job of supporting them well. This reporter heard many comments about a lack of spirit and a general apathy in the stands during the Homecoming game, and in one instance even heard one person say that small in number though they were, the band of Furman cheerleaders were making more noise than the entire student aggregation in the East stands.

Our cheerleaders are doing a swell job, so let's get behind them in future events, and support the Seminoles. Some people have said that a team is no stronger than the support behind them, and while this is not quite literally true a strong student spirit can go a long ways toward developing a strong, fighting team.

BASKETBALL SEASON NEARS

Though three important gridiron clashes still remain, basketball is just around the corner. The Florida State Relays, mythical state champion last year, opens its season Dec. 4 with a home game against Alabama State Teachers' College. This season, for the first time, the Seminoles will participate in an official conference including every state added except the University of Florida, which must follow Southeastern Conference obligations.

As an added attraction to this year's schedule, Florida State will play an exhibition contest with the Phillips 66 Oilers, one of the most powerful AAU outfits in the country.

They will also participate in the annual Gator Bowl tourney over the Christmas holidays. The only major absentee in this year's schedule will be Duke University, another one of the basketball powers of the South.

THE SOFT TOUCH
PURRDALE
luxury blend of angora and lamb's wool
by
PURITAN

Sheer luxury for work or play and wonderful, weightless warmth for chill season days! Puritan tailors Purrdale of a yarn that combines the softness of angora with the sturdiness of lamb's wool... to give you a smart sweater that should wear practically forever! In a rainbow-full of rich hues.

Sleeveless PURRHALL
Small, Medium, Large,
PURRDALE
Sizes 36, to 46.

Turner's

Physical Education Department Symbolic Of School's Growth

BY TOMMY SANDS

The Department of Physical Education for Men at Florida State is symbolic of the growth the university has made since it became coeducational in 1947.

That year the department was established as an important part of the school of Education and a four-year curriculum was introduced leading to a BS degree.

The department is still located at its cramped quarters on West Campus but hopes to move into its new million-dollar structure, now under construction, by late 1959.

The new building is going up midway between the Administration men's dormitory, West Hall, and Campbell Stadium, between Call Street and Tennessee Drive. According to Danford, it will be one of the most efficient physical education plants in the United States.

Temporary plans call for the structure to house a six-lane bowling alley and locker rooms. Provision will be made for nine class rooms, four handball courts, 21 offices. A student lounge, a gymnasium area, three full-length basketball courts, and a wrestling room will be included in the structure.

The main floor, which will also include a gymnastics area, will be more than four times larger than the present main floor of the women's gymnasium. When completed, the new building will be outfitted with special folding bleachers seating 1,000 persons.

Danford pointed out that the completed product will be the result of planning by at least 20 people from the physical education department.

Basically, the department's program is concerned with the professional education of physical education majors, athletic coaches, recreation leaders, and teachers of safety education.

Admittedly, it's an ambitious undertaking and most of the responsibility rests on the shoulders of Dr. Howard G. Danford, who doubles as director of physical education for men and athletic director.

A national leader in recreation and safety, Dr. Danford directs the activities of the department and coordinates schedules for the university's nine intercollegiate athletic teams—football, basketball, track, baseball, swimming, golf, gymnastics, golf and volleyball.

The professional side of the Physical Education Department is designed to give the PE major the knowledge and background in all of the field.

Shortly after 1947, the Master of Science degree was authorized. Today, however, the Director of Philosophy and Doctor of Education degrees can be obtained with a minor in physical education.

Both the MS and BS degrees in Recreation are offered through an inter-departmental curriculum.

Courses in educational psychology, principles of education, and the theory and techniques of teaching health education are essential for the profession of physical education leaders.

Professional activity and theory courses afford opportunities for the major student in sports to perform physical activities and to teach them. He studies human adjustment and the philosophy and principles of the job. He also learns administration and organization of the general physical education program.

Price Of Freedom High, Says Poling

(Continued from Page 1)

must know the truth. "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Communism, this atheistic totalitarianism, with its denial of the dignity of personality, with its enslavement of the individual to the state, with its destruction of every personal liberty, the vision that is the seed of its own death. Communism will destroy itself—given time and the eternal vigilance of free peoples. Communism, at last, cannot survive itself. But this seed of death must have time to germinate. It must grow a crop and cease to a harvest. Already there are harvest signs of rebellion in Yugoslavia, multiplying trials in Hungary and Bulgaria, the growing underground in Poland and Czechoslovakia, a broader resistance in Poland, and volcanic rumblings in East Germany and within Russia itself. The seed grows, the harvest is maturing.

But to gain the time required, we must be strong. Today, as to no hour since George Washington took command of the Continental Army under the Cambridge elm, patriotism and idealism must be reconciled with stern reality. Only strength, comprehensive strength —moral, spiritual and physical strength— is adequate for Freedom's highest hour. This strength must be first of all an unfailing, veritable passion for liberty. It must urge in all our human labors a dynamic faith in God—"Faith of our Fathers, living still; in spite of dungeon, fire, and sword". Fellow Americans: "In God We Trust" must become now vastly more than a motto, vastly more than four words upon our coins.

The supreme achievement of World War II was America's unity. It is not by chance that Missouri is the born word of our national name, the United States. Unity is not uniformity. Uniformity is sacrilege. It does not belong to totalitarian power. Unity is dynamic and creative, even as it must be created. Unity must be wrought out as metal, while heated, as shaped upon an anvil. Unity has been achieved where there are differences and by the transcending in event 'or in the service of a cause transcending all differences. And it is the uniqueness of unity that it strengthens and enriches the particular loyalty of the individuals and groups that have achieved it. Here, too, is the glory and uniqueness of America.

FBLA MEETS

The Sigma Upsilon Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America will hold a meeting on Wednesday at 7:15 in the Student Lounge at Longmire.

The film So picture will be taken at this meeting.

CORRECTION

The new FSU Philosophy Club is open to all students, not only to men as stated erroneously in THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU last week. ... ...

LOST: "Elements of Old English." If found return to Longmire Lost and Found Desk.

Massey, Corso Spark Indians Over Visitors

Stetson Only Obstacle On Road To Winning Season For Seminoles

Florida State University virtually assured itself of a winning season Saturday by dealing the Furman Purple Hurricanes a surprisingly decisive loss—33-14, before 14,112 happy Homecoming spectators.

A victory over Stetson Saturday night in DeLand will give the Seminoles—even if they lose the remainder of their games, which is improbable—six games in the win column. They play 11.

The Tribe must face Stetson, Mississippi Southern and Tampa in that order in remaining games.

Chances sustain the former and the latter appear excellent, and with recent developments showing Southern Miss a fine team they were made out to be, the Seminoles could take them all.

Saturday's triumph was expected, but not nearly in such volume. Most pre-game predictions had the game rated even or FSU a touchdown on top.

STATISTICS

	Furman	FSU
First downs	9	20
Rushing	3	13
Passing	5	7
By penalty	1	0
Net yards gained rushing	12	177
Yards lost rushing	40	16
Net yards rushing	52	161
Yards gained passing	68	206
Passes attempted	15	29
Passes completed	5	10
Had intercepted	0	1
Average punts	41.5	41.0
Punts blocked	0	0
Fumbles lost	1	0
Number penalties	2	1
Yards penalized	15	10
Passes intercepted by	1	0

Furman 0 0 0 14—14
FSU 7 13 0 13—33

Scoring: FSU—Corso, 1 run (Massey kick); FSU—Corso, 1 run (Massey kick); FSU—Corso, 1 run (Massey kick); FSU—Massey, 1 run (Massey kick); Furman—Hall, 1 run (Hall kick); Furman—Hall, 1 run (Hall kick).

GRAHAM GAINS—Billy Graham, (27) FSU's senior right halfback, goes for a short gain in the second half of the Furman game Saturday. Al Makowiecki (62) comes up to give assistance. FSU won, 33-14.

Tennis Club Opens Three New Courts Saturday Afternoon

On Saturday afternoon, November 20th, the Tallahassee Tennis Club is formally opening its three new courts in Winthrop Park, Betton Hills on Mitchell Street.

All Florida State University students are urged to attend, along with all others who might be interested in joining the club at a reduced rate for students.

The courts will be all-weather Rubico, green colored, and with a surface that will ensure perfect bounces, easy on the feet and eyes, reports the club secretary, Bertale L. Seward.

A formal dedication will be held at 2 p.m., by club officers and councilmen. After this brief ceremony, courts will be open for play for both members and prospective members, with informal doubles matches chosen by drawing names out of a hat.

In addition to these new courts, club members will be able to buy balls and rackets at reduced rates, obtain free instruction at a clinic, and participate in the various social affairs the club is planning, stated Seward.

Interns Plan Panel For Social Workers

The Social Work Club will hold its next meeting Wednesday at 7:30 in the Small Lounge in Longmire.

A program on Social Work Internship will be presented by last year's interns Betty Brown, Tylah Browder, Cecilia Franklin, Janet Hancock, Thavia Northcutt and Gloria Worthing.

Interested students are invited to come and hear what the internship program covers, what is required of the interns, and the "interesting, amusing and touching incidents that slip in along the way", reports Jeanne Spencer, publicity chairman.

Dues for the quarter will be taken and the $.75 per semester dues will be collected The dues cover the cost of the picture, stated the publicity chairman.

INTERVIEWS SCHEDULED FOR PINELLAS INTERNS

Prospective elementary and secondary student teachers interested in obtaining positions in Pinellas County will be interviewed today by Miss Alice J. Balmun, Director of Instructional Personnel.

Appointments may be made through Mrs. Parmer, 203 Westcott.

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES

FLORIDA
TODAY and TOMORROW
"Golden Mask"
Van Heflin
Wanda Hendrix
Technicolor
THURSDAY
"Beau Brummell"
Stewart Granger
Elizabeth Taylor

STATE
TUESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
"On the Waterfront"
Marlon Brando
Karl Malden
Eva Marie Saint

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
TODAY and TOMORROW
"About Mrs. Leslie"
Shirley Booth
Robert Ryan
THURSDAY
Walt Disney's
"Pinocchio"
plus
"Drums Across the River"
Audie Murphy
Walter Brennan

CAPITOL DRIVE-IN on WOODVILLE HWY.
TODAY and TOMORROW
"Above and Beyond"
Robert Taylor
Eleanor Parker
THURSDAY
"Apache War Smoke"
Gilbert Roland
plus
"To Come out of Space"
Richard Carlson
Barbara Rush

Seminole Barber Shop
New, Modern — Air-Conditioned
75c Haircut
75c Massage
65c Shave
75c Shampoo
25c Tonic
652 W. TENNESSEE ST.
OPEN 6 — 6 P.M.

'Thailand' Students Will Give Program

Students from Thailand will present a program for the Tallahassee National Students Club, Friday at 7:30 in the Recreation room of Florida Hall.

This is the first in a series of programs designed to familiarize members with the cultures and customs of other countries.

Baby Seminoles Win Easily, 41-0, Over MGC Team

While the FSU varsity team was beating Furman Saturday, the Baby Seminoles, FSU's "B" team, quelched a scrappy Middle Georgia sievan in Cairo, Ga., 41-0.

FSU wrapped it up early, and led at the half, 27-0.

Mike Norman, a transfer from the University of Miami, completed seven of his first eight passes to get the Tribe off to a solid start. In All, Norman threw 18 passes.

The two teams combined to pitch 39 serials.

Bill Swilley, from Moultrie, Ga., scored twice for the Seminoles. Stephen Dean, a product of Hendersonville, N.C., scored two times.

Norman's passes were good for 12 points.

STETSON GAME TICKETS ON SALE

Eddie Cubbon, Athletic business manager, has announced that tickets for the game with Stetson Saturday night in DeLand can be obtained at the Athletic ticket office.

Student tickets are one dollar.

Cubbon said that adult tickets will be on sale at the same place.

On Campus with Max Shulman
(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

DECEMBER AND MAY: ACT I

Of all the creatures that inhabit the earth, none is so fair, so warm, so loothsome, as a coed.

This is a simple fact, well-known to every campus male, and, to most campus males, a source of rejoicing. But not to all. To some, the creamy brows and twinkling limbs of coeds are a bane and a burden. To whom? To professors, that's whom.

Professors, according to latest scientific advice, are human. Stick them and they bleed, pinch them and they hurt, ring a dinner bell and they salivate, confront them with a round young coed and their ears go back, stem as yours and mine.

But, by and large, they remain themselves. After all, they are men of high principle and decorum, and besides, the board of regents has got stories all over. So, by and large, they contain themselves.

But not always. Every now and then a coed will come along who is just too gorgeous to resist, and a Professor—his clutch worn out from years of struggle—will slip and fall. White though his hair, multitudinous beneath his Garrow, Phi Beta Kappa though his key, he as lovesick, moosestruck, and impaled as any freshman.

But let's take the case of Bo Bunny freshman. After all, a freshman can thump his leg, put on his linen duster, and take art after the coed with any freshman. But what can the poor sixties prof do? How, in his position, can he go courting a young girl undergraduate? In this column and the next one I shall try to give a detailed answer to this difficult question. I will relate to you, in the form of a two act play, an account of a professor's attempt to woo a coed.

ACT I

The scene is a typical office in a typical liberal arts building on a typical campus in a blushy setting. We find two men, Professors Twonkey and Phipps. They are lumpy and bent, in the manner of English lit professors.

PHIPPS: Twonkey, a terrible thing has happened to me. A terrible, ghastly thing! I've fallen in love with a coed.

TWONKEY: Now, now, that's not so terrible.

PHIPPS: Oh, but it is. Miss McFetridge—for that is her name—is a student in my Elizabethan poets class! Her parents fear if they knew I was gawking at her and refusing my food and writing her name on Trinity Witenagemot walls, they would!

TWONKEY: Come now, Phipps, no need to carry on so. You're not the first instance to exist wherein a prof is smitten by a coed.

PHIPPS: You mean it's happened to you too?

TWONKEY: Indeed it has, many times.

PHIPPS: What did you do about it?

TWONKEY: Looked at their knees. It never fails, Phipps. No matter how pretty a girl is, her knees are bound to be knobby and bony and the least romantic of objects.

PHIPPS: But Miss McFetridge's—for that is her name. They are soft and round and dimpled. Also pink.

TWONKEY: Really? Well, I'll tell you something, Phipps. If I ever found a girl with pink knees, I'd marry her.

PHIPPS: It is my fondest wish, but how can I, a professor of fifty, start a courtship with a girl of 19?

TWONKEY: Very simple. Ask her to come to your office for a conference late tomorrow afternoon. When she arrives, be urbane, be charming. Ask her to sit down. Give her a cigarette.

PHIPPS: A Philip Morris.

TWONKEY: But of course.

PHIPPS: I just wanted to be sure you mentioned the name. They're paying for this column.

TWONKEY: Give her a Philip Morris.

PHIPPS: That's right.

TWONKEY: Then light her Philip Morris and light one yourself. Say some frightfully witty things about English lit. Say, Be conscious they keep laughing for an hour or so. Then look at your watch. Cry out in surprise that you had no idea it was this late. Insist on driving her home.

PHIPPS: Yes, yes?

TWONKEY: On the way home, drive past that movie house that shows French films. Say, Miss McFetridge, how'd you like to see a sexless version of "Les Miserables"?

PHIPPS: Twonkey, you're a genius! This will be like shooting fish in a barrel.... But I wonder if it isn't taking unfair advantage of the poor little innocent.

TWONKEY: Nonsense, Phipps. All's fair in love and war.

PHIPPS: You're right, by George, I'll do it!

(So ends Act I. Next week, Act II)

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarettes.

Danforth Foundation Accepts Application for Graduate Work

The Danforth Foundation an educational trust fund in St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications for the fourth class (1955) of Graduate Fellowships from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1955, for their first year of graduate study.

The Foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Science, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President Frank S. Campbell has named Dr. Elmer L. Tully as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for these fellowships. These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragements" throughout the years of graduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1800; for married Fellows, $2400.

Students with or without financial need are invited to apply. A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholastic aids appropriate such as Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, G.E.B. etc. concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship, and applicants for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for a Danforth Fellowship.

If a man receives the Danforth appointment together with a Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, until these other relationships are completed.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Miniyanca in Michigan next September.

The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality centering in the classroom, and integrity and character, including faith and commitment, within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by February 15, 1955. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Dr. Tully, FSU Liaison Officer and Director of Vocational Guidance and Placement, 203 Westcott.

Senate Move

(Continued on Page 4)

senior men's Honor Court seal vacated by Dave Kennedy when he was appointed Attorney General.

In each case, the permanent elections committee of the senate and chairman Jim Moore, unanimously recommended the confirmation of the appointments.

CORRECTION

Margaret Ann Bollinger, Homecoming Queen Candidate, was sponsored by ATO fraternity and not by Phi Gamma Delta as previously reported in last Friday's Flambeau.

18 Year Old vote

(Continued from Page 2)

the work of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, and other progressive-minded Americans — a gaining momentum. The President in his State of the Union message, emphasized that "For years our citizens between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one have, in time of peril, been summoned to fight for America. They should participate in the political process that produces this fateful summons."

In this same message, President Eisenhower urged that Congress propose to the States a Constitutional Amendment permitting citizens to vote when they reach the age of eighteen. As the official spokesman for the Republican party, the President speaks for Republicans everywhere. Understandably his predecessor, who often echoes the sentiments of the Democratic Party, cannot make up his mind on this issue. He continually blows hot and cold on the proposition that eighteen-year-olds should vote. In the year 1948 the former President said he believed that since this age group was called upon to fight it should be allowed to vote. But only this year he changed his tune, stating he did not think the citizen of eighteen had sufficient knowledge to vote. He further commented that twenty-one would be a better voting age, and twenty-four would be still better.

The Republican Party and the hundreds of Young Republican Clubs over the Nation still have their faith in our eighteen-year-old citizens. They know that Republicanism embraces the challenge of Youth, and offers it the best measure for growth. Will you students, younger or older, join them in this battle for the eighteen year old battle?

American Studies

(Continued from Page 1)

about the United States."

He added that American Studies has been criticized as being too nationalistic, but actually, we stress the international interdependence."

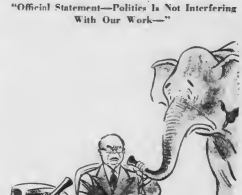
Only one particular course is required of all program majors, and it is also an elective for students of other majors. Called "Studies in American Civilization," it is a small, seminar-type class using oral reports and discussion, in the Fall semester.

Occasionally, guests are invited from the faculty to join the class in discussing sure subjects as "American Personality: Is There Such a Thing" and the various theories explaining American civilization and how none quite fit.

In the Spring semester it is a lecture series which Dr. Randel calls "very stimulating". Faculty members are invited to speak each week on politics, religion, education, art and other issues. Generally speaking, said Dr. Randel, in the Fall semester it is concerned with the past, whereas the Spring semester course emphasizes the present.

The FSU program has been approved by the American Studies Association of the United States, which was organized to foster the development of courses in colleges and universities over the nation.

At the present time there are very few schools that offer programs in American Studies, although the number is expanding rapidly. For example, two have been established in the FSU area within six months.



At FSU the program offers an undergraduate major for the B. A. degree a graduate major for the M. A. degree and a graduate minor.

Herblock Views the Domestic Situation

"Just A Little Watering Down, Boys"

"Official Statement—Politics Is Not Interfering With Our Work—"

"This Is Serious—Get Me The Republican National Committee"

The Last Frontier

(Continued from Page 3)

overdone it. "Cut it out, you dopes," he said.

"Who is a dope? Who's a dope?" Bennie replied.

"You're a dope."

"Yeah? Well, if I'm such a dope, why are you in my tent?"

Bo Mallory didn't answer immediately because he knew this was the final challenge, completely. In the tense silence of the moment only Jim heard the heavy breathing. To the others, the sound was extinguished by the wild beating of their hearts.

Bo Mallory finally looked up. Without saying anything, he pushed Little Mallory towards the tent opening. The others smiled. Then he followed him out of the tent and the smiles faded.

Jim and Bennie could hear them moving around on the outside, making muffled sounds, gathering up their things. Then they thrashed away through the palmettos and out to the road.

Bennie went to the edge of the tent. His eyes glistened with moisture. "Go on damn" he yelled, almost crying. Then correcting he said, Go to hell, I mean." He crawled back.

Bennie and Jim had nothing to say.

In a little while the rocks began to come. At first they hit in the distance, striking flatly against the face of the palmettos, making a faint clapping sound that grew louder as the rocks relentlessly approached. The boys stirred uneasily but said nothing.

A rock hit the surface of the tent, glancing, and slid off harmlessly. Another, a sharp-pointed rock, hit a frayed spot in the canvas top and came flying through. It landed between them. Bennie picked it up, squeezed it. He sighed and threw it toward the tent opening from his sitting position. It struck the tent pole and fell just outside the tent.

No more rocks came. Jim and Bennie could hear Little Mallory shrieking with a child's insane laughter and they could hear Bo Mallory too, telling him to "come on." Their footsteps beat hollowly on the pavement, then died. Bennie and Jim looked at each other. The silence mocked them.

In a little while, when Bennie still didn't say anything, Jim stood up. "I'm going home" he said. "It's no fun with just two guys." He went out. A second later he stuck his head back into the tent. "You don't have to be so mad. Be a only eight."

Bennie looked up. "That's not why . . . " he said, but Jim had left.

Bennie crawled out of the tent. A restless wind was blowing the tree tops. He looked around. Jim was gone. And he was alone.

The breeze dropped down and brushed his temples, the back of his neck. It was a cold breeze and it made him feel uneasy. He glanced about. "They'll still be up at home" he thought "and even if they aren't . . . "

Having decided, he hurried about picking up his things. He kicked the tent post and the tent collapsed, deflated. The wind came down again while he was bending over it and brushed the down on the back of his neck. He shivered. He looked up and saw a bushy young sapling partly obscured by the shadows. It swayed with the breeze and he could see the arrow written there—black on black.

He moved backwards, stumbled, almost fell. Then he spun around and began to run. He did not look back.

Once as he neared the edge of the trees, he tripped and fell partly into one of the shallow secret burials they had been digging. He landed heavily on his elbow and in the second it took him to get to his feet, he thought about the potatoes and the tent. "He would get everything" he thought.

He ran again and finally as he dashed past the last Australian pine on the edge and came out of the woods he saw the glow of the houses.

He turned left sharply when he got to the road at a ninety-degree angle and ran towards home, running strongly and purposefully, the banana pole blurs flashing by on his right. He did not glance at the woods on his left. He ran and ran, always keeping to the lighted side of the road.

ATTENTION: HOMECOMING QUEEN CANDIDATES

All girls who turned in pictures for the Homecoming Queen election may pick them up at the Information Desk in Longmire Building anytime today.

Massey, Corso

(Continued from Page 3)

Left tackle—Harris, Freeman Lyle
Left guard—Hazel, Bolen, Tinsley
Center—Socks, Clards
Right guard—Hillsdale, Anderson
Right tackle—Young, Borkeid
Right end—Mahon, Presley
Quarterback—Boyle, Pringle, Carlton
Left halfback—Speir, Petty, Ware
Right halfback—Rupon, Penland
Fullback—Bellamy, Lyon, Kahn

HURRICANE STATE

Left end—Schamberger, Leonard Richey
Left tackle—Makowiecki, Powell, Gardner
Left guard—J. Jacobs, Colson, Hall
Center—Grabham, Bekaman, Coblentz
Right guard—Gardner, Bryant, Bandy
Right tackle—Staab, Barber, Musselman
Right end—Feamster, Taylor, Trader, Rogers
Quarterback—Musser, Pruitt, Swanson
Left halfback—Corso, Thompson, Odom, Reynolds, Verspuille
Right halfback—Erickson, C. Green, Fullback—Holt, Grider Pasbakian, S. T. Jones Formation scoring Touchdowns—Anderson, Boyle 6 & 7—Pringle, Bethea—Pat scoring Touchdowns—Lyon 2, Leonard, Massey 2 & T, Graham 2, Massey.

Struggle Continues

(Continued from Page 2)

that the company would encourage private enterprise and Congress would not be forced to appropriate 100 million dollars to TVA for new plant construction.

Sen. Fulbright said on the subject that "The contract is justified in national interest." That it has been distorted and exaggerated by TVA advocates who are overly concerned for the future of the authority." He added, "TVA is not a weak reed to be broken by a waft of power blowing across the Mississippi River toward Memphis."

Only time will tell whether private enterprise will do a better job than the government. One fact is its record in the history of the United States.

'Los Picaros' Elect New Officers; Hold Membership Exam

Los Picaros de Loje de Vaz have announced the results of their election which took place early this semester.

The slate of officers who will serve this school year are President, Joan Bryan; Secretary, Mary Alice Corn; and Treasurer, Jim Kimball.

"Los Picaros" is an honorary fraternity with the aim of advancing Latin-American culture and promoting better understanding between the Spanish and English speaking hemispheres. Plans have been made to hold an examination on Thursday, November 18th, at 5 p. m. All interested persons are to meet at the Modern Languages Laboratory, Room 107, Old Demonstration School.

The new president urged all students who are now or already members or pledges of the organization to take the exam. The examination is not limited to students of Spanish, but may be taken by other members of the student body who have some knowledge of Spanish.

The president further stressed that the exam is not difficult, and that any student in second year Spanish should have no difficulty passing it. The test consists of two parts, the first being written. The second and oral part is to be taken when the first half has been passed.

Those natives of Spanish-speaking countries who are interested should contact the club through P. O. Box 28, Campus Mail.

FRESHMAN HONORARY PLEDGES

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman scholastic honorary, pledged six girls November 4th. The girls include Polly Swain, Nancy Dodge, Saodra Weaver, Katherine Hartley, Jean Tedder and Dot Walton.

To be accepted for membership a girl must have a 2.5 average on the first semester or for the whole freshman year.

MALONE'S BOOK STORE
107 S. Copeland
Penguin Classics
Modern Library
College Outline Series
Walter Foster Art Books
Great Art Books
Anchor Books
Vintage Books
Mentor
and Pogo
from 35c to 2.45
"Everything for the Student"

Don't be a somber hombre . . .
"Light-up" in an ARROW Sport Shirt!
The best way we know for a bright change-of-pace is a colorful Arrow sport shirt. They're brilliant in solid colors, keen in plaids; certain to drive your study cares away.
Arrow sport shirts give any wardrobe a shot in the arm for color and style. They're outstanding in comfort and fit too . . . what's more, these shirts can take a beating like nothing in the laundry. A man can ask no more of a sport shirt. But Arrow gives you more. Priced from $3.95.
ARROW CASUAL WEAR
SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS

If you're "off-color"... don't come to us!
...because we have Arrow sports shirts for the man who wants color galore. Stop in and let us lay out a sample selection a Picasso. Get color. Get comfort. Get style. Get Arrow. And, get on down here right now! Smart Arrow plaid sport shirts are priced at $3.95 up.
Mendelson's
101-105 East Jefferson

In the whole wide world— no cigarette satisfies like a Chesterfield!
HOWARD STOECKER—PAN AMERICAN OVERSEAS CAPTAIN and ELLEN FORSETH, STEWARDESS
THEY SATISFY MILLIONS because only Chesterfield has the right combination of the world's best tobaccos. They're highest in quality, low in nicotine.
You smoke with the greatest possible pleasure when your cigarette is Chesterfield. It's the largest-selling cigarette in America's colleges!
Chesterfield KING-SIZE CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
CHESTERFIELD Best for you!

Funds Request Is Filed (See Below)

The Florida Flambeau

No Light Shed On Float Fires (See Below)

VOL. XL NO. 16 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1954

FSU Senate's Seat Vacancy Issue Unsolved

Holford's One Way Street Bill Defeated; Moore Is 'Pro-Tem'

By OSCAR JOHNSON

The several weeks - old question of filling vacant senate seats is still unsettled as a result of that group's meeting Wednesday.

Its newly - installed Freshman group participated in tabling action back to committee Speaker Gordon Gaston's bill for a constitutional amendment to fill vacancies by special class elections except in the case of interim terms. The bill, as amended Wednesday, calls for the President of the Student Body to make appointments for the latter, with confirmation of the Senate.

In other action, the Senate killed a resolution to make Jackson Boulevard (running in front of Longmire Building) a one-way street; refused to name the Moore President Pro-Tem, put passed a bill to strengthen laws for traffic violations at campus.

Gaston's bill, which originally called for class presidents to appoint substitutes for interim during absence was changed to read that vacancies would be appointed by the Student Body President with Senate approval. He filed an amendment sponsored by Senator Jimmy Jonson.

The motion to refer the bill to committee only after further debate among the Senate by whether the class presidents or the Student Body President would be more qualified to make interim appointments.

Senator Jack Holford's resolution to make Jacksonville Boulevard one-way most of its length failed after opposite directions that it would not serve student interests better. It was contended by Senator Moore that, since traffic travels faster on a one-way street, it would be more dangerous for students to cross. But Bill Sumrell added that the speed factor would not be able to hold drivers to a 15 mph speed if Jacksonville Boulevard were one-way.

In the Senate's action to strengthen penalties for traffic violations, one of the major changes called for unlimited of a warrant note for a student's first offense. Other changes apply to persons from boarding action procedure and failure to appear at Traffic Court.

Appointments were made Wednesday of several Senators to membership in standing Senate committees. Polly Atwater and Maurice Helms were appointed to the Recreation and Social Committee; Bill Swigert and Peter Gillen to the Judicial Board; Jim Cerny to the Organization and Finance Committee and Bob Vinson and Bruce Hall to the Labor Student Services and Publications Committee. No new appointments to the Elections and Appointments Committee.

Senator Moore was elected President Pro-Tem of the Senate over opponent Senator Jack Strand. His duty will be to preside over the Senate in the absence of the Vice-President of the Student Body. He is also Chairman of the Elections and Appointments Committee.

Assumed over the bill for filling vacancies was apparently caused by Moore when he brought it out of committee for its second reading.

"I realize this is controversial," he said pointing out that the main value is to prevent the situation of extended Senate vacancy. Both sides were evident.

Vice Senator Jonson proposed the amendment to give power of internship appointments to the Student Body President, Gaston replied that he felt "a joint effort between more about his own lives than the President of the Student Body."

Jonson countered that he "thought we'd have that much flexible since the Student Body President is in closer contact with the Senate than the class presidents."

After passage of the amendment, controversy hinged on the question of holding special elections if State Director Thomas Tibbs favored the only bar to the bill's passing.

Senator Margaret Ann Ballinger entered the discussion, saying "You have enough trouble getting people to vote in the Spring Primaries . . . In an election such as this, you would get little or no turnout."

Jim Soles, Sophomore Senator, answered that "Students should have the right to decide. An individual should not have control of a group unless he has been voted on by that group."

Other factors entering the discussion were elections publicity, the possibility of a potential absentee collaborating with the President of the Student Body and the question of checks and balances by the FSU Student Body Government.

Scientific Study Of Legislature Coverage By Press Published

Twelve Florida Newspapers Surveyed By Department's Media Research Bureau

A scientific study of "Press Coverage of the 1953 Florida Legislature," will be released Monday by the School of Journalism.

The study was undertaken to determine how the press actually gathers and presents the news of legislative sessions in Florida by Dr. Sidney S. Kobre, head of the School of Journalism, and a team of Media Research and Service at Florida State University. Twelve students each assisted the research by surveying 12 newspapers in Florida.

The study took 2 months to complete and will be distributed to each newspaper studied and to those professors interested in social and political science.

Dr. Kobre lists the three-fold purpose of the quantitative study as: "A scientific study to understand press coverage for the advancement of the field of journalism, to aid Florida newspapers in improving their future better, and for journalism students in the state and others.

"There has been no previous study of this sort," Dr. Kobre explained. "Studies go back to 100 years behind in the nation-wide.

Malcolm Johnson, former AP correspondent and now editor of the Tallahassee Democrat, aided in selecting the sample of newspapers used in the study. Newspapers surveyed were: Tampa Tribune, Florida Times-Union, Sarasota Herald-Tribune, Miami Daily News, Pensacola Journal, St. Petersburg Times, Miami Herald, Tallahassee Democrat, Orlando Sentinel, Daytona Beach News, and Ft. Pierce News-Tribune.

Researchers studied the newspapers methods of covering the activities of the House, Senate, and their many committees. Various types of correspondents were classified. The strength and effectiveness of the wire service were brought out.

"News media did a thorough job of coverage as well as display," Dr. Kobre stated. He revealed, "Newspapers didn't explain enough about public bills and didn't coordinate enough at the end of the week for the reader to understand the significance and steps of legislative machinery."

The twelve students who assisted in the research were: Margaret Horrox Gale Tomlinson, Jim Massey, Alice Summers, Pat Morgan, William Rapp, Warren Ferguson, James Eady, Lucien Martinez, Bill Rapp, Elmer Horne and Jean Carr.

Excerpts from the survey's summary show the significance of the investigative study.

The study shows the value and necessity of systematically analyzing and studying the press coverage of legislative sessions and cost approximately $750 to complete.

FSU Students, Faculty Attend UF Conference

State Leaders Talk On Political Parties At F.C.C.H. Meet

Eleven Florida State University students and three faculty members will attend the first regional conference of the Florida Citizenship Clearing House at the University of Florida in Gainesville tomorrow.

The conference will take place in the Student Union Building on the University campus. It will consist of two panel discussions, "The Nature of Party Organization" to be held at 8:30 a.m., and "Participation of the Citizen in Party Politics" at 2:30 p.m.

The theme of the meeting is "How Can Citizen Groups Most Effectively Participate in Party Politics?" Dr. Helen B. Irish, head of the FSU political science department, and leader of the group, said its purpose is to recruit those attending for their participation.

The conference will be conducted by members of the Executive Committee of the Citizenship Clearing House, along with student leaders and faculty from Florida colleges and universities and state political leaders.

Pat Hamilton, president of the Student Body, Bob Pigeon, Editor of The Florida Flambeau, and Alan Sandberg, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council and Pi Sigma Alpha are among the FSU students invited.

The FSU faculty members who will attend the conference will be Dr. Irish, who will speak at the afternoon panel, Miss Finlay Parker, assistant professor of political science, and Dr. Jack Ready, associate professor of political science. Dr. Ready will speak at the 9:30 a.m. panel.

Dr. Irish said that students other than those already mentioned who will attend are Dave Kennedy, president of the Young Democratic Club and FSU Secretary General; Daniel Gorham, president of the Young Republican Club; Norman Hill, president of the Politics Club.

Also Warren Cobb, political science and Journalism major; Robert Crittenden, political science major; Bienville Duval, vice-president of the Politics Club; Beverly Cuppernell, secretary of the Politics Club, and Dick Ervin, Political Science major.

Members of the Executive Committee are the Honorable C. Farris Bryant, governor, Florida House of Representatives; Dr. Doak S. Campbell, President, Florida Southern College; Mr. Donald K. Carroll, President Emeritus.

Also Mr. Fuel L. E. Hollowell, Jr., attorney-at-law; Dr. Ervin C. Jonekson, Department of History and Government, Florida Southern College; Dr. Lawrence K. Larson, chairman, department of Government, Rollins College; Dr. Ralph E. Page, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Miami; Mr. Nelson Poynter, Publisher and Editor of the St. Petersburg Times.

Dr. Alan P. Stanley, Department of History and Government, University of Tampa; Dr. Franklyn A. Johnson, Chairman, Division of Social Sciences, Stetson College, and Dr. Irish.

The Florida Citizenship Clearing House is a non-partisan organization established with headquarters in Coral Gables, Fla., according to announcements.

Its purpose is twofold:

(1) To promote a quality college man and woman with a sound and realistic understanding of American politics with particular emphasis on the democratic techniques by which individual activities are translated into public policy.

And (2) To encourage and assist young college men and women of outstanding ability, character, and genuine interest in public affairs to participate after graduation in the political party of their choice.

FAMOUS TWOSOME—Shown are Dr. William F. Ogburn, left, visiting professor, and Dr. Meyer F. Nimkoff, department of sociology head who will be English Coffee Hour guest speakers today at 5 p.m. in the Westminster House.

Renowned Sociologists Appear At Coffee Hour Today, 5 p. m.

Two of Florida State University's most celebrated writers, Dr. William F. Ogburn and Dr. Meyer F. Nimkoff, will appear at the English department "Meet the Author" program today.

The event will begin at 4 p.m. in the Westminster House, and the department has invited all students to be on hand.

Mrs. Olive Cross, spokesman, said that the names Ogburn and Nimkoff "appear at the head of the most widely used textbooks in Sociology."

Those two members of the FSU faculty have turned out books that are studied at universities in England, France, Holland, Belgium, Spain, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland and India, as well as in leading colleges all over this country."

Dr. Nimkoff, head of the FSU sociology department, is one of the nation's leading authorities on the family in society. Dr. Ogburn, formerly chairman of the department of sociology at the University of Chicago, joined the FSU department in 1952, and is well known for his development of the concept of social change.

One of the outstanding sociologists in the United States, Dr. Ogburn has been the only person to hold the top position in the country's three main sociological organizations.

Dr. Nimkoff has an equally impressive record in the field of sociology, having been associated with many organizations and groups in the country.

The two are frequent contributors to professional sociological journals and to the magazines of many books in the field of sociology.

One, "Sociology," was written in collaboration by Drs. Ogburn and Nimkoff.

Mrs. Cross said that the two FSU authors will be asked questions about how they did get started working together? What formulas do you have for collaboration? What are some of the common problems." Students attending will have a chance to ask questions from the floor.

FSU Debators Battle Oxford's In Third Meet

Debaters from Oxford University will pay their third visit to the Florida State University campus on Wednesday morning, November 24, for the sixth annual international debate.

Debates will be held in Longmire Auditorium at 10 and 11 a.m. and students, faculty, and the general public are invited to attend, said Dr. Orrey Phillips, of the speech department.

Since both debates will be presented within the class periods, they will be one-man debates. At the 4 o'clock Bond Flory of FSU will argue against the motion that "the exclusion of peaceful China from the United Nations would be a serious set the purposes of that organization." At eleven o'clock Pete Nimkoff will debate that the welfare state endangers our liberties. Oxford will support the latter side and also the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

Miss Flory is a graduate student in the Department of Speech. In her undergraduate days at Rollins she participated in intercollegiate forensics for all of her four years in DeLand. During this last two years she has been teaching speech and English and coaching debate at Edgewater High School in Orlando.

Nimkoff, President of the Student Body now, was last year's senior debate manager and the Varsity Debate squad. A graduate of Leon High School in Tallahassee, Pete has been a member of the debate squad since freshman year.

The two debaters from Oxford University, England, are Derek Bloom, who has received his B.A. in philosophy, politics, and economics, and a member of the Standing Committee of the Oxford Union, and Peter H. B. Tapsell, who has also received his Bachelor of Arts degree in history and modern history. Tapsell is also a member of the Standing Committee of the Oxford Union. England's most famous collegiate debate society.

Both of the visitors from Britain are twenty-four years old. Bloom is a second lieutenant in the Royal Army Education Corps, and Tapsell is a lieutenant in the Royal Sussex Regiment of Infantry. Bloom is Conservative in politics, Tapsell an independent. Until the debate can arrive on campus the FSU debaters will probably not know the subject of the debate at 8 a.m. and which at eleven. A forum period will follow each debate, but there will be no decisions.

Because of the approaching Thanksgiving holidays, the International debate has been the subject of more correspondence than any of the previous five. The Oxford men are scheduled to arrive in Tallahassee Wednesday morning at 8:48 via Eastern Air Lines.

"Bad weather or engine trouble enroute could force cancellation even at the last minute, commented Dr. Gregg Phifer, associate professor of speech. "We hope and trust these debates will go off according to plan. In these 1954 debates are like those who have visited FSU in the past. They have been challenging and entertaining."

OFFICIALS CHOSEN BY DAY STUDENTS

Samuel E. Alderman was elected president of Delta Sigma Omega, Florida State University day student's club, at its first meeting of the year.

Other 1954 officials are Mary J. Leonard, vice president; Gloria Diann Parrish, secretary-treasurer; and Thomas Robert Levis, parliamentarian.

Three Different Directories Given Students This Semester

The 1954 Florida State University phone directory will appear in three forms this year, announced Mr. Robert T. Williams, director of publications.

One form, distinguishable by a blue cover, has already been published and contains members of faculty and staff members.

Names of students will be included in a separate directory to be published in December, due to the difficulty in getting correct addresses, with so many students moving to fraternity and sorority houses. Mr. Leigh said, "The cover of this edition will be red.

The third type, also to come out next semester, will contain names of the other two, with a green cover. Very limited in number declared Mr. Leigh. It will be available only to legislative offices.

Distribution of the faculty and student directories will be handled differently this year than in the past. With the object of having a book available at every telephone on campus, they will be placed in all offices, classrooms, sorority houses and fraternity houses. "If any residence hall or office lacks copies," said Mr. Leigh, "they may obtain additional ones from 110 Longmire."

At 2000 of each of these two editions are being printed, copies of which are sold, at about $.35 per copy, for the benefit of students wanting extra ones.

Also for the second year, of providing every student as well as faculty member with a copy is being used this time, said Mr. Leigh, because last year some students took more than one copy, leaving others with none.

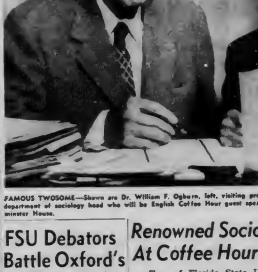
All three editions contain a department of publications for the previous years, but in addition, two new features characterize the directories. A list of Administrative organizations is included, containing the name of the president, faculty advisor, and meeting place, as well as phone numbers. Also, titles of Mr. and Mr. or Mrs. have been added to names of faculty and staff members.

The covers of the new phone books were designed by a student art assistant.

Florida State's First Gymkana Prevue Shown

Gymkana presented the first preview of its 1954 show in Thomasville, Georgia, last night.

Director Dr. Hartley Price said the group will go to Troy State Teachers College in Troy, Alabama, today to again preview their Gymkana show.



The Florida State University gymnasts participated in last night's program with events on the flying rings, parallel bars, side horse, and tumbling feats. The Tallahassee Tumbling Tots were also featured.

The new Gymkana show were John Byrd, Sydney Burr, head Coach Glenn Morris, Jerry Donaldson, master of ceremonies, Glenn McDonald, Jean Ann Wilson, Jay Schwartzman and Dick and Bob Hamilton. Margaret Donaldson will be alternate Miss Gymkana, said Price.

Other Gymkanas members making the trip were Barbara Ann Wilson, Jerry Price, Pam Clark, Connie Holder, Rosemary Hallsadt, Frances Giel, Jimmy Davis, Pam Duke, Barbara Vickers and Ann Halcomb.

Also Don Holder, Laird Anderson, Don Rapp, Al Ruda, Kent Wilson, Al Wall, Marsha Baggett, J. P. Griffin, Tom McDonald, Dick Ireland, Jim Pfeiffer, Rafael Lecuna, Janale Ashmore, Jim Tanaka, Joe Taylor, Bonnie Sue Bass, Jimmy Hall and Jim Hanks.

The 1954 Miss Gymkana Court was along on last night's trip to participate in the Gymkana preview. It is composed of Anita Anderson, Fay Anthony, Sharon Benton, Joyce Slater, Layne Bowden, Bobbie Lou Lester, Mary Stewart Bolton, Bobbye Craig, Ruth Shuman, Mary Margaret Williams, Allson Templeman, Sue Scott, Mura Ann Ley, Gail Byrd, Edmarie Munes, Margaret McLeod, Kathy Johnson, Barbara Emmett and Janice Eberly.

ALMOST READY—Above is partially completed Westcott Auditorium. Officials say the auditorium will be ready for Ballet Theatre, the first Artist Series performance, December 4 and 7.

Ballet Theatre Tickets Ready For Distribution

Distribution of tickets for "Ballet Theatre," first Artist series production of the year, will be held Monday, in a set schedule this week.

Tickets will be issued to all regular students at the University Bookstore in exchange for Activities Coupon number eight. There will be no charge for tickets.

"Ballet Theatre" will present two performances at Florida State University. The first will be Swan Lake, scheduled for December 4. It will feature Mia Kaye and Erik Bruhn which is the leading roles.

Ruth Ann Koesun and Erik Bruhn will dance "Pas de deux" "Till Eulenspiegel", and Miss Kaye and Erik Bruhn will dance the sweethearts in "Jardin Aux Lilas." John Kriza and Catherine Horne will represent the rancher's daughter and the cowboy in "Rodeo."

On Tuesday, December 7, the program will open with one of the favorites of classical ballets, "Les Sylphides," it was added. Featured will be Janet Reiss, Lupe Serrano, Keith Ann Kessen and Barbara Lloyd. Lycette Darsonval and Paula Lloyd will portray Paris and the beautiful Helen in "Judgment of Paris." The evening will conclude with "Theme and Variations," with Nora Kaye and Erik Bruhn.

Students will have exclusive claim to tickets from November 22 through Tuesday, November 30. On December 1 members of the faculty and staff may purchase their tickets, and on December 2 tickets will be on sale to the general public, provided any remain unsold. The price of tickets is $2.50.

Psychology Department Covers A Long List Of Varied Topics

Conflicts in human adjustment, psychology of the handicapped, improvement of reading habits, and hypnosis are only a few of the varied subjects being covered by the Psychology Department this year.

One of the oldest of its kind in the country, says Dr. Paul R. Pierrel, chairman, did the psychology Department offers a Ph.D. in clinical, Child, Industrial Development, General-Experimental, Clinical, Guidance, Special Education and Marriage and Family Living.

Teaching these courses is not the only occupation of most of the professors, however, as many of them also are operating reading books, conducting research, and writing books for sponsored assignment.

Dr. Winthrop N. Kellogg, internationally known professor and writer, has had his works translated into 15 languages. Recently the possibility of some in publication in Japan was discussed.

Another professor, Dr. Ralph M. Dreger, is developing a "3D" test for social which endeavors to define the attitudes people have toward ideas and things. Still in addition, he is writing a text-book on personality and standardizing a foreign-attention questionnaire.

Doctor attendees of the first semester freshman in the subject of the analysis that Dr. Dreger and Dr. Wallace G. Smith will co-author. Dr. Smith is also working on three other projects: the effect of psychological changes of adolescents on their behavior, the effect of failure in failed care of children with special problems, and the effects of physical handicaps on personality.

Dr. Howard D. Baker has a contract with the Navy in the field of Visual Perception. "The research we are conducting," explained Dr. Baker, "involves the changes in visual sensitivity as a function to subjected to changes of illumination . . . We use special apparatus designed here in our psychology lab."

Dr. Richard Rasband has been setting up a program of industrial psychology in the department with Mr. Anders Sweetland and Mr. Kenneth Gerrard developing multiple - conditioning equipment for this.

Dr. Fuller is studying the well-adjusted personality. A lot of work has been done on the normal personality but very little has been done with the well-adjusted," he commented, to explain behavior.

Dr. Glynn Turrel is studying with graduate students the correlation in children, while Mr. Marcus Caldwell is interested in the psychology of colored children.

Members of the Department of Psychology, in addition, take an active part in the day-to-day workings of the 42-bed Mental Hygiene Clinic in Tallahassee. Under the direction of Dr. Thomas, the staff includes one psychiatrist, ten psychiatric nurses and 16 part time social workers.

Queen To Reign At Charity Game For Campus Chest

The Lambda Chi Alpha and Theta Chi Charity Bowl football game will be held Saturday, December 11, at 7 p. m. at Doak S. Campbell Stadium.

Proceeds for the annual affair will go to the Campus Chest. Officials noted that this game is the first charity football game with uniforms and will be open to the public and the university.

The game has been played between the Lambda Chi Alpha winning the first and Theta Chi the other wins.

All fraternities, sororities and dormitories were invited to submit candidates for queen of the Charity Bowl Game, said chairman Jerry Mansfield.

It would like to have each group begin thinking about who they would like to be crowned her Queen. Notices with complete details of the contest will be issued later. We would appreciate the cooperation of each group in making it a success."

Tickets will go on sale immediately after Thanksgiving for 35 cents each.

EVENT HELD BY GRADUATES

Dr. Claude Flory of the English department was the guest speaker as the Florida State University graduate class held its final coffee hour for the fall semester yesterday. The meeting, which is the large lounge of the Longmire Building.

The reception was in honor of the graduation of the graduate faculty at FSU.

Request Filed For 1955-57 Capitol Funds

If Authorized, Over 5 Million Will Go Into Building Plans

Florida State University yesterday filed with the State Budget Commission a request for capital outlay funds totaling over five million dollars.

If authorized by the Legislature, the university will receive $5,332,779 for a building program on campus during the 1955-57 biennium. Filing of capital outlay requests follow submission of an operating budget totaling twelve and a half million dollars from general revenue.

Four classroom buildings are included in the FSU request. One would cost $1,200,000; another $1,200,279; a third, $750,000 and a social science classroom building for $780,000.

New men's and women's dormitories were also requested. The men's dormitory would be an addition to the Budget Center. The women's addition would be a repaid from stadium revenues and the student center loan from student activities fees.

Float Owners Believe Fires Set Purposely

Tallahassee police today are still investigating the fire that destroyed two Homecoming floats last weekend at Florida A&M University, resulting in one thousand dollars' damages.

Fellas Lambda Frank Montaniere and members of Delta Gamma sorority, 529 W. College Avenue, reported to feel the fire was purposely set."

The float, built on the back of a flatbed truck, was parked in front of the sorority house when the fire was discovered early Sunday morning at 2:56 a.m. Damage to the truck resulted in the loss of the burned, and dollars cost.

Assistant Fire Chief Morris Wainwright said it was hard to tell what caused the fire but the float "didn't catch fire by itself."

Fire also destroyed the float belonging to the Future Farmers of America. The evening will conclude with "Theme and Variations," with Nora Kaye and Erik Bruhn.

Students will have exclusive claim to tickets from November 22 through Tuesday, November 30. On December 1 members of the faculty and staff may purchase their tickets, and on December 2 tickets will be on sale to the general public, provided any remain unsold. The price of tickets is $2.50.

A Giant Step Backwards

West Point and Annapolis authorities can now take another, giant step backwards. They have shoved our ideals of free discussion and free speech under a ledge.

It was announced Monday they would not let their cadets participate in interscholastic debating over the issue of whether the United States should recognize Red China because it is a "controversial" subject.

The Herbock editorial cartoon on page 4 aptly displays the attitudes of the powers-to-be.

Perhaps the powers wish their youngger protegees to be shielded from the evil influences of such a discussion because of the rank atmosphere existing in national attitudes today. We think, however, that the students would like very much to discuss the issues.

Carried out now, such a policy leads to the indoctrination of America's future military leaders with an education of milk-fed conformity reminiscent of Hitler's war-time domination of German youth learning.

Discussion and free speech has always been the by-word of Democracy. It is only a time comes when free and open discussion of issues works against America, then this country can no longer claim to be democratic.

The Parents

. . . Read the newspaper accounts of race riots in the newly integrated schools. Rarely will you find difficulty arising from behavior of children. Most of the trouble is plotted by "indignant" parents who are displaying their ignorance and narrowmindedness and, at the same time, are depriving their offspring of a sound education . . . . It is the parents who instigate school strikes, not the children . .

Teaching of the principles of equality of men and equal opportunity for all must begin in the home.

—Daily Athenaeum (University of West Virginia, Morgantown).

Coffee Hour Series

Sponsors of the English Department's, weekly Coffee Hour series have turned to two Florida State University professors for their program today.

The guests today are Dr. William F. Ogburn, visiting professor in the department of sociology, and Dr. Meyer F. Nimkoff, head of the department of sociology.

In the past, the English Department has invited various well-known Florida authors to the weekly sessions. The turnout has been large, and the talks and readings by the authors have been informative and delightfully interesting.

This one should be no exception. It just may be the best program yet.

Both guests are leading and renowned authorities in the field of sociology. Dr. Ogburn has been president of the American Sociological Society and chairman of the Social Science Research Council. Dr. Nimkoff served as president of the Eastern Sociological Society, and is a member of the editorial board of Houghton-Mifflin publishers. Both have written extensively, and have collaborated together on a book.

Their honors are many, and their stimulating personalities match these honors.

The Coffee Hour series has really only flowered this year. It has so far been one of the best programs featured on the campus, and it doesn't look as if it can get much better than it is right now.

Did-Ja-Ever
Go to our student center to Watch the bopsters?
They hop and plop and drop and pop
Like half-boiled spaster Johnn's.
—Don Rapp

Letters To The Flambeau

State Party

To the Editor:

The State Party would like to present to the Student Body a report and summation of our progress in executive the programs it brought before the students last Spring.

These programs were supplemented and reiterated at the beginning of this school year by the progressive items of "The New Look."

In fulfilling these and other measures, the State Party has thus far accomplished the following:

1) In accordance with the 5th and 6th planks in the State Party platform following student organization to sponsor funds-raising projects and increasing student control of student funds, vice president Gordon Gaster introduced a measure in the Senate to amend the clause in the Funds Committee Regulations which would allow two-thirds of such funds to the university and only one-third to the athletic administration. This measure was amended by a Delta Chi senator so that the clause would stipulate a one-half and one-half allocation. As it reflects a step, even though a reduced one in the right direction.

II. The second stated purpose of our party was to help bring about more mature understanding be'ween the students and the administration. In accord with this Senator Gaster introduced a resolution in Senate to revise the present system which penalizes a student's hours and credits for cuts immediately before and after holidays. We feel this is an immature, hit-and-run retaliation penalty, suggestive of patriotism, which is not conducive to the students' sense and sense of responsibility. Gaster's resolution passed unanimously. Another step in the right direction.

III. In order so alleviate the acute parking problem on campus, Senator Don Halford introduced a resolution in Senate for the creation of five new parking lots. This measure passed unanimously.

IV. Senator Jimmy Boles represented FSU at the National Students Association convention in Ames, Iowa, this summer. His unfavorable report on the advisability of FSU's affiliation was unanimously approved by the Senate.

V. In accordance with the fourth stated purpose of the State Party—creating and encouraging more meaningful participation in university functions — vice-president Gaster announced in Senate the original idea of chartering buses for students to make the trip to Auburn for the football game there.

VI. Vice-president Gaster also was the author of the optional Health Insurance Plan which a very large percentage of students subscribed to at registration time. We feel this is an innovation in student services was a milestone in politics as opposed to corruiltory, student government

In addition to these measures in Senate, State Party member Bill Orr, serving in the capacity as Sophomore Class president, organized this year's Rat Court and a successful Sophomore-Freshman day.

Junior Class President Bob Crenshaw introduced the original idea of Greek and dorm representation at pep meetings and also was in charge of the pep meeting held last week.

And last, but not least, Senior Class President Jack Singleser ornianized the ceremonies for Investitute and is currently organizing procedure for the annual birthday party for President Campbell next Sunday night.

The State Party feels that it have accomplished much though only a beginning are definite refutations of what has all too often been a vacillating student government.

This is our First Progress Report. With student endorsement and support, the best are yet to come.

WARREN COBB
Party Chairman
FRED MANSFIELD
Treasurer
JOAN HALFORD
Recording Secretary
PAT COONEY
Corresponding Sec.

Davies Firing

To the Editor:

Jim Wechsler treats government employment as a privilege (New York Post, quoted in the Florida Flambeau Nov. 16).

As he admits, the fantastic "perversity policy" of John F. Davies is proof of that man's intolerance. And the State Department is not a mental rest home.

The "views for which he was fired are that Communism in China is better for the United States than Chiang Kai-Shek. This view surely units a man for government employ.

As to the "Peking-Moscow plot" this is no far more facts, and any appeal to it begs the question.

The morale of the Foreign Service will be better without John Paton Davies.

VAN G. PETERSON.

Campaign Thanks

Dear Freshmen:

I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the faith and confidence you have placed in me by electing me your President. I assume the responsibilities of this office with one prime thought That of serving you. From the bottom of my heart, I thank you for your support. My promise to fulfill the duties of the office of Senator to the best of my ability.

Sincerely,
LIZ CERNY

Clarification

To the Editor:

Your article about West Hall's political potentialities was a very good one, however some aspects of this article need clarification. I am certain you didn't intend to imply any of the ideas which people read into the lines.

I think the whole affair can best be clarified by describing West Hall's election to the office of our homecoming queen. First, we selected the girl who we felt was the most beautiful on campus. Next, we started the rebirth turning to the girl we elected We posted her picture in West Hall and encouraged the men to vote for their choice.

Although West Hall's vote was a unanimous decision, other factors which also contributed to the success of our candidate. Betsy's pro bono and personality brought support from Magnolia Hall and several sororities and fraternities.

Although West Hall's support was unofficial, Betsy herself was so equally sumptuous factor in her success because without Betsy, West Hall would have had no candidate.

I'm sure the 580 residents of West Hall and our Editor of The Florida Flambeau as well as (Continued on page 4)

"Be Constructive. Ask What He Wants For Christmas"

Debate

Red China Recognition

(The FSU Debate Team is currently debating the issue of whether the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist Government of China. Two members of the team give their views below.)

Pro

By BRUCE W. FLETCHER

RESOLVED, That the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist Government of China.

Since the communist forces in China have declared the existence of the Peoples Republic of China, the United States has been on the horns of a dilemma. Which China should we recognize—Chiang Kai-shek's government, The Republic of China, on the island of Formosa, or Mao Tse-tung's regime on the mainland?

The United States' policy in the past has been to give both military and moral support to Chiang Kai-Shek, but the time has come when the United States must face the problem realistically.

There are 612,000,000 people who are ruled by Mao's regime. By refusing to recognize the Communist Government in China we are refusing to recognize and deal with $\frac{1}{4}$ of mankind. This is being completely unrealistic and the United States will not gain anything by pursuing such a policy.

With the high development of hydrogen and atomic weapons it is necessary for the United States to do anything possible to effectuate peaceful co-existance in this turbulent world. Everyone knows that Russia can start a war anytime. Neither of us can have peace unless both of us want peace, but neither will trust the other.

In order to bring about understanding it is necessary for us to bargain and compromise with the communist bloc. We can only compromise and bargain if we can talk through normal means of diplomatic procedure.

As a result of the present policy of the United States, we have lost a good deal of prestige and respect especially in southeast Asia. There are 26 countries who have recognized the communist government of China. There are 38 countries who have not done this, and many of these countries are only waiting for the United States' approval before they would extend recognition. If we extended recognition we would be gaining the respect of the 26 countries who have already done so, and many of the 38 who need to do so for political and economical reasons.

By advocating recognition we do not advocate United

(Continued on page 4)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"If you want to improve your daily papers, why don't you drop out of school for a few days?"

Con

By NORMA TRIPPODO

The world today is faced with a struggle of ideas, Communism versus Democracy. By recognizing a government which we believe to be directly opposed to our democratic ideals we are in reality capitulating to the Communist forces.

The United States has nothing to gain and much to lose by offering Red China recognition. The United States first of all does not need to trade with Red China, as recognition would not help the U. S. financially. Rather than gaining good will and respect among the nations which have already extended recognition, this move would lose it. The United States has maintained again and again, both in the United Nations and out of it, that we would not recognize the Communist government of China.

By reversing our policy at this issue the United States would "lose face" in the East, and disappoint many of our allies. We would also be providing the communists with food for propaganda. Although we might win recognition to be approval, the communists could continue this as a symbol of their ideas. The United States cannas afford such a defeat.

Now the question faces us "Does Communist China want recognition?" If the answer to this question is yes, then we might be able to deal with her in the problem of Formosa by declaring Formosa an independent state. If the answer is no, and Communist China has given this indication by her reluctance to deal with Great Britain, then we have no bargaining power, and Red China can legally claim Formosa.

The United States cannot afford to lose this stronghold in the Pacific.

The foreign policy of the United States has always been directed by our national interest. Recognition at this time would not be in our national interest and consequently would be alien to our national policy.

It would not be to our national interest in the United Nations. The U. S. needs as many forces on our side on the Security Council as can be rallied. In recognizing Red China we would, in accordance with the charter, have to admit them to membership in the Security Council. Not only would we lose Nationalist China as an ally, but the opposing forces would gain another veto power. At the critical stage the world is in, the United States cannot afford to let the United Nations become a playground for

(Continued on page 4)

Reflections

Easiest Way To Football Games

By OSCAR JOHNSON

The Saturday is an open letter to an Intellectual.

Dear Joe, sorry to bear that you lost your take in the Gesote Intravenous Affair Committee. But, after all, your demands were outrageous. Who ever heard of a proposal to establish a Committee for the Establishment of Moral Standards Societies? Not even I heard through the spe-cre that you backed up your proposal by quoting the Rt Kopps Tre Fight Song. I figured you might as well give up the fight. Your opponents in the committee are a shoo in the neck SORRY about YOU, Babe.

The above is printed in reply to a letter to Butch from Joe Intellectual. Joe has said, "Put together an intellect and you'll have a heap an Intellectuals". Butch wanted to prove it isn't true.

After all, real Intellectuals don't act like Intellectuals. Some, like college professors, even try to avoid a good impression on people by acting Intelligent. For instance, one of them told me how he'd stayed awake Sunday night thinking of Sparta in lecture his students. He thought if he could outsmart them, they would have more respect for him. He just wanted to make a good impression. Real Intellectuals don't need Intellectuals. They just get carried away. (Is this case, as a woods trip).

While I'm on the subject, I've been thinking about a plan for the easiest way to watch a football game. You'll remember the usual ways. Be a player in the game. Be a cheer leader. Be one of the hysterical girls at the game.

What seats do you want," he asked

"Whatever you've got, as long as it's inside the stadium."

"You trying to get wise, Preach," he said, "because they're two rest on the third pine tree, second limb, beside the road leading to the stables from the north. I accepted them graciously.

"Whose idea was this?" I said, "I'm glad to see such efficiency. It hasn't always been so easy to get football tickets."

I would have said more, only he closed the booth just then because it was time for him to had to stop selling student tickets.

My new method? I climbed over the fence.

Etcetera Etchings

'Royal Family' Member Passes

By DAVID DREIS

The old gentleman sat at his television set listening to an announcement of the forthcoming video production of Macbeth. He recited the Shakespearian words which have become famous ". . . tomorrow . . . and tomorrow . . ." and with that, Lionel Barrymore died.

It's hard to describe to anyone who is not connected in some way to show business that the passing of the 76-year-old thespian meant, as to many as if a member of a royal family had passed away and truly deserved a memory.

Lionel Barrymore was perhaps as well known as his brother John, who passed away some years ago. While John's particular forte was the silent screen-worthy, as was the tragic charisma of Lionel Barrymore which confined him to a wheelchair for many years. Many screen-goers who first met him as Dr. Gillespie in the Dr. Kildare medical series, and Mayo Ayres never realized that at one time he was a dashing lover to such famous stars as Mary Pickford in The New York Hat. Likewise, people who admired him as a narrator of the Hallmark Theater program probably never realized how famous he became as the rebellious stockbroker of The Copperhead. The thousands who listened annually to his performance of Dickens' A Christmas Carol on radio's version of Dickens' Christmas Carol never realized what a symbol he was to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for whom he had worked these many years. Lionel Barrymore was an actor of the great sense of the word except one. His feelings and emotions toward people were such that he was a master of friendliness.

Today's actors are surprised the master group of the sons and daughters of John Drew, a headline star of his time. There is John Barrymore, Jr., who is currently starring with Sterling Hayden in a western movie and will shine in his own right whether on the stage or screen. You have only to look at the royal blood of the Royal Family. It's only a shame that there aren't too many more of them.

NEWSPAPER NOTES. Orchestra Wives was made in 1942-not 1852 as the printer would have you believe. . . . Ben Ali Haggin's new-worthy, so was the uncle Rudolph of Lionel Barrymore who's confined him to a wheelchair for many years. Many screen-goers who first met him as Dr. Gillespie in the Dr. Kildare medical series, and Mayo Ayres never realized that at one time he was a dashing lover to such famous stars as Mary Pickford in The New York Hat. Likewise, people who admired him as a narrator of the

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, News Editor Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Joyce Porter
Campus Editors ..... Martin Dyckman, Oscar Johnson
Sports Editors ..... Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ..... Bob Gunning, Alan Wichmann, David Morris
Photographer ..... Laird Anderson, Al Rodems

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Copy Editors ..... Willie Smith
Pat Marston
Amusement Editor ..... Oscar Johnson
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ..... Con Horton
Junior Staff ..... George Goldsmith, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Rosen, Ann Stanley, Jan Radfield

Mary Liz King, Adv. Mgr.

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17.
Exchange Editor ..... Irma Coe

Telephone 2 8000, extension 6821
371, 3171 Tallahassee Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by the students of Florida State University.

The Point Is

Statements That Aren't Backed Up

By BOB FOLSOM

It's an understatement to say that a lot of news doesn't get into the newspapers.

Officials in both places sometimes make such ignorant or stupid or malicious statements that the paper just can't afford to print it. There are many other types or pieces of news that don't get in, either. There are long lists of examples.

Even in this paper it happens. There are a couple pieces of news stories that are not in the Flambeau news column today, but they are going to be elaborated here, and for good reason.

It's because I'm thoroughly angered with some of the happenings in the Student Senate, and rightly I think, it can only be attributed to one or both of two causes. It is either a lack of perception, or it is because the prejudices that exist in the Student Senate have been elevated into law-enact members.

In his second appearance in the Student Senate, Freshman Senator Hank McCann stood up in the Senate, and said the Flambeau didn't give the Freshmen elections adequate publicity. He was not given an answer to the Senate. I was not there. But I'm going to give them an answer now. In 15 issues published so far, this paper devoted approximately 142 inches of space to the Frosh elections, not counting one entire page, with ads of course, given by the Freshmen candidates letters. The Freshmen politicos were so apathetic, we've given the lead story six times, with large headlines four times. Is that enough? I think it is more than that. I would like some representation from no one has suggested it to me. Instead a Freshmen Senator stood up and complained, and for what good reason.

Now I am not using this column as a mouthpiece for my own personal prejudices. Those of the staff can back me, and I believe they should be told.

I have been told that this is a little petty, and I should shrug it off. Well, I don't think it is a little matter, and I'm not shrugging it off. I believe it is a part of either the ignorance or the prejudice that exists among some of the student body representatives in the Student Senate, and I think something should be done about it. This is not isolated. There have been many others of varying nature. It will keep on happening and happening and happening, as it has in the past and will in the future if something isn't said or done about it constructively.

In addition to this, I have in my possession a letter from a Freshmen Senator that was written by the freshmen when he was a candidate. It is not, I believe, the letter of a person who should be a Freshmen representative. It is quite revealing and the spelling is too.

I am sending the letter to the Vice President. Gene Stokes. Stokes may see it. And the student can decide for themselves.

I am disgusted with these ignorances and prejudices. And every student should know thoroughly the people they elect to represent them. If I don't they do. If they did they would elect students who don't carry a chip on their shoulder or who aren't led around by the nose.

Leadership is needed in the Student Senate, Freshman Senator Hank McCann stood up in the Senate, and said the Flambeau didn't give the Freshmen elections adequate publicity.

On The American Decorative Arts

Thirty years ago today the American Wing of Fifth Avenue's Metropolitan Museum of Art opened its doors. It can be said with much justification that on that day the American decorative arts came of age, for this marked the first time that a museum in this country had gathered together individual pieces of furniture and other items for the home and placed them in rooms approximating the actual rooms lived in by real people of other generations. Prior to that everything was a jumble in the museums' collections of our museums. Furniture was stuck along crowded corridor walls, chinaware and silver jammed into cabinets. The visitor had to use his imagination to reconstruct in his mind just how his ancestors lived.

The trend toward realism in displaying American decorative arts has grown mightily since this pioneering effort by the Metropolitan. Not only have museums throughout the country followed its lead, but the more than 400 related large-scale preservations and restoration of historic American homes.

Today more than 1,500 such buildings—from the modest $30,000.508 Colonial Williamsburg restoration in Virginia and the Henry Francis du Pont Winterthur Museum in the small homes of local personalities whose accomplishments have long since been lost to history—are ready to present a picture of American life as it was once lived. The claim that "George Washington slept here" is no longer a national sneer; we know now just where it was that Washington and other of our famed actually worked and lived.

In many of the area museums far years were critical of efforts in this country. We unskilfully tore down and built

(Continued on page 4)

Seminoles, Stetson, Renew Rivalry Tomorrow In Deland

Seminole Spotlight

By Jimmy Joanos
SPORTS EDITOR

n t Of F . . . . .

For the first time in three years the Florida State University basketball team is scheduled to meet the squad from the University of Florida. The site is to be the same as that of the only previous encounter in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl tournament. This year's tourney will be held December 27-28. The Gators and the Seminoles have been paired off for the first round of the two-day meet.

Both teams in all are participating in the tournament. Besides FSU and the U of F, the University of Georgia and Spring Hill are also entered.

When the two sister state schools met in 1951, the Seminoles were defeated 61-51 although they led the way during much of the game.

It is my early prediction that the Seminoles this year will defeat the Gators by approximately 10 to 12 points.

Florida State has six lettermen returning from last year's team that won 13 of 20 games. Leading the list is Helms Foundation All-American Ham Wernke, and another all state guard Bobby Ober. In addition to the returnees from last year's varsity squad, Coach J. K. Kennedy will be able to count a great deal on the performances of outstanding aces up from last season's freshman team.

WHAT PASSING . . . . . .

During the current football campaign four FSU quarterbacks have already established 14 new school passing records. This has been accomplished with three games remaining to be played. It has been said to the point that every time a pass is thrown by FSU luck it sets a record, whether it be completed or not. When a pass is completed, another record is broken. Should the pass be intercepted, it garners one that still another record is altered.

DO YOU KNOW? . . . .

Florida State records reveal the fact that no Seminole in the past seven seasons of modern day football has ever returned a kickoff for a touchdown. Equally as interesting is the fact that no FSU grinder has ever kicked a field goal.

Latest FSU Gym Champion Is Tumbler Ashmore From Texas

By BOB GUTTING

From as far away pan handle town of Texas hails the latest gym champion to take first place among Dr. Hartley Dowd Hall's studded Seminole team. He is Jamile Ashmore, a graduate of Jesuit High School of Dallas, Texas.

Jamile although slight in stature and build, possesses an amazing abundance of energy and co-ordination that has helped him develop into one of the nation's top contenders for individual tumbling titles.

Jamile started his athletic career at the Central YMCA in Dallas during 1949. It was only a few days that he entered the Southwestern AAU meet and won the tumbling championship title. The following two years, representing the Dallas Athletic Club, he successfully defended his tumbling title.

During the 1951 Southwestern AAU meet, Jamile also won the all-around free exercise, rings, and horse championships. During the 1952 meet, in addition to again retaining his tumbling title, Jamile also copped the all-around free exercise, long horse and rings titles.

1953 found Jamile at the Midwestern AAU meet in Chicago, where he chalked up an impressive score to take the junior tumbling championship. The same year, Ashmore also took the Central AAU free exercise championship in Chicago.

The 1953 season seems to have been the best Jamile has had to date. It was during this time that he was runner up to the Midwestern AAU all around championship and placed third in tumbling at the National AAU meet. This puts Jamile among the top ten men in the country in both the free exercise and tumbling events. Jamile was also chosen for the 1953 Midwestern AAU International team to compete against the Swedish gymnasts in Chicago.

During 1954 Ashmore won the Texas AAU all-around championship, taking first place in free exercise, rings and long horse. He followed this up by taking the Southwestern AAU free exercise and rings championships.

In his spare time, Jamile has been active in other athletic activities, including four years as a high school cheer leader, and winning the 1952 Texas AAU lightweight weight lifting championship.

According to Dr. Price, Jamile is a good all around athlete who is expected to form a remarkable performance for the Seminole team in future competition. Jamile, who is also shooting for the 1956 Olympic team, may well be the third college freshman to achieve this goal. The other two college freshmen to make the Olympics were Bill Roetheim and Don Holder, also gymnasts from Florida State.

WIPED OUT!

One of the jobs of a campus control officer at Utah State College is to see that cars parked on campus are not molested. The other week, the Utah State Student Life says, he returned to his own car after making two inspections of the parking lots to find his own windshield wipers missing.

'Frosh' Eleven Faces Miami B In Bowl Game

Seeking to assure themselves of a winning season, the Florida State Freshmen will tackle the University of Miami Frosh tomorrow night in a special Coconut Bowl game in Port Myers.

Frosh from a convincing 41-0 victory over Middle Georgia, the Baby Seminoles have won three games and tied one in six games to date. The Hurricane Freshmen tied the University of Florida Frosh last week, 0-0, in the Orange Bowl.

Like their big brothers, the Freshmen have used a good air attack to an advantage this year. Mike Norman, who is incidentally a transfer from Miami, fired 18 aerials in the Middle Georgia game and his completions included two touchdown beauts.

Besides Norman, other standouts for the FSU youngsters have been backs Jerry Henderson and Emil Ahold, ends Ham Blabes and Bill Swilley and guard Booby Morris.

In addition to Middle Georgia, the Frosh have downed South Georgia and Robbins Air Force Base, tied Tyndall Air Force Base, and lost to powerful Freshman teams from Georgia Tech and Georgia Military College.

FRESHMAN END—Ronnie Schomberger, 190 pound end, has been an important cog in the Florida State grid machine. The freshman who hails from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, has caught five passes, two of them good for touchdowns, thus far in the current season.

UCLA Ranks First Nationally; Seminoles Given 44 Point Lead

By DICK DUNKEL

UCLA and Ohio State will put on the final round of their duel for the mythical national college football championship here Saturday, while Oklahoma attempts to overhaul them in the first of its two remaining games.

The Bruins, Buckeyes, and Sooners are undefeated, untied and unlikely to lose the rest of the way.

The Uclans, possessing the No. 1 Power Index of 120.0, will be playing their last game of the season against traditional crosstown rival, Southern California (101.0). The Trojans, themselves a powerful unit with an 8-1 record, rate exactly 18 points below UCLA. This means that against the same relative rating of opposition played to date, UCLA's record has been 18 points stronger, per game. But it also means that UCLA will have to do better than this against Troy in order to increase its rating. A tall order.

No. 2 Ohio State (118.7), the Big Ten's leading Rose Bowl candidate, also meets an ancient and worthy adversary in Michigan (102.9), at Columbus. The rating difference here is approximately 14 points. That's the amount by which the Bucks will win if past performance ratios are to prevail.

No. 3 Oklahoma (111.4) stands 22 points higher than its next-to-last opponent, Nebraska (89.8). They'll play this Saturday in Norman and, a week later, the Sooners will ring down the curtain against Okla. A & M. Thus, they still have two chances left to increase their Power Index.

Among other national leaders, No. 8 Army, No. 9 Mississippi, and No. 10 Navy have open dates this week, while those who are playing show the following Power Index differences over their opponents:

No. 4 Notre Dame, 2 over No. 8 Iowa.

No. 7 Wisconsin, 2 over No. 8 Minnesota.

No. 11 Auburn, 18 over Tennessee.

No. 13 Miami, Fla., 17 over Alabama.

No. 14 SMU, 1 over Baylor.

Dick Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX
The Power Index ratings are just performance averages for the games played to date. They do not include any allowance for home field advantage.

Games Of Week Ending November 21, 1954

AMONG TOP 150		Lower Station
Highest Station
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19
Miami, Fla. +109	vs Alabama	89.0
Penn State 78.4	vs Temple	69.0
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20
Arizona 79.2	vs Texas Aggies	69.0
Arkansas +98.0	vs Oklahoma A&M	89.0
Auburn +98.0	vs Tennessee	80.0
Baylor +98.0	vs Texas Tech	84.0
Bucknell +78.0	vs Rutgers	78.0
California +98.0	vs Stanford	78.0
Clemson +98.0	vs Furman	78.0
Colgate +98.0	vs Lafayette	78.0
Duke +98.0	vs Wake Forest	78.0
Florida +98.0	vs Georgia	78.0
Fordham +98.0	vs Holy Cross	78.0
Georgia Tech +98.0	vs Vanderbilt	78.0
Harvard +98.0	vs Yale	78.0
Idaho +98.0	vs Utah	78.0
Illinois +98.0	vs Purdue	78.0
Iowa +98.0	vs Minnesota	78.0
Kansas +98.0	vs Missouri	78.0
Kansas State +98.0	vs Colorado	78.0
Kent State +98.0	vs Miami, O.	78.0
Michigan +98.0	vs Ohio State	78.0
Michigan State +98.0	vs Wisconsin	78.0
Mich. State +98.0	vs Marquette	78.0
Navy +98.0	vs Notre Dame	78.0
N. Carolina +98.0	vs N. Carolina State	78.0
N. Mexico +91.0	vs Mem. A&M	69.0
Northwestern +98.0	vs Illinois	78.0
Ohio State +118.7	vs Michigan	102.9
Oklahoma +111.4	vs Nebraska	89.8
Oregon State +98.0	vs Oregon	78.0
Penn State +98.0	vs Pitt	78.0
Princeton +98.0	vs Penn	78.0
Rice +98.0	vs Texas A&M	78.0
Syracuse +98.0	vs Boston College	78.0
Texas +98.0	vs Texas Christian	78.0
Tulane +98.0	vs Mississippi	78.0
Virginia +98.0	vs Virginia Tech	78.0
Washington +98.0	vs Washington State	78.0
Wyoming +98.0	vs Utah State	78.0
Yale +98.0	vs Harvard	78.0
Army +98.0	vs Navy	78.0
Auburn +98.0	vs Alabama	78.0
Baylor +98.0	vs Texas	78.0
Boston College +98.0	vs Holy Cross	78.0
Brown +98.0	vs Dartmouth	78.0
Columbia +98.0	vs Cornell	78.0
Dartmouth +98.0	vs Brown	78.0
Duke +98.0	vs N. Carolina	78.0
Georgia +98.0	vs Georgia Tech	78.0
Holy Cross +98.0	vs Boston College	78.0
Illinois +98.0	vs Northwestern	78.0
Indiana +98.0	vs Purdue	78.0
Iowa +98.0	vs Minnesota	78.0
Kansas +98.0	vs Missouri	78.0
Kansas State +98.0	vs Colorado	78.0
Kent State +98.0	vs Miami, O.	78.0
Michigan +98.0	vs Ohio State	78.0
Michigan State +98.0	vs Wisconsin	78.0
Mich. State +98.0	vs Marquette	78.0
Navy +98.0	vs Notre Dame	78.0
N. Carolina +98.0	vs N. Carolina State	78.0
N. Mexico +91.0	vs Mem. A&M	69.0
Northwestern +98.0	vs Illinois	78.0
Ohio State +118.7	vs Michigan	102.9
Oklahoma +111.4	vs Nebraska	89.8
Oregon State +98.0	vs Oregon	78.0
Penn State +98.0	vs Pitt	78.0
Princeton +98.0	vs Penn	78.0
Rice +98.0	vs Texas A&M	78.0
Syracuse +98.0	vs Boston College	78.0
Texas +98.0	vs Texas Christian	78.0
Tulane +98.0	vs Mississippi	78.0
Virginia +98.0	vs Virginia Tech	78.0
Washington +98.0	vs Washington State	78.0
Wyoming +98.0	vs Utah State	78.0
Yale +98.0	vs Harvard	78.0

OTHER SOUTHERN
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20
Abil Christ'n +71.2	vs Ariz. State	69.0
Ala. Poly +71.2	vs Auburn	98.0
Chattanooga +71.2	vs Furman	78.0
Delta St. +64.2	vs Troy State	69.0
Ga. Southern +71.2	vs Ga. Tech	98.0
Hardin-Simmons +71.2	vs Hend'son St.	69.0
Florence St. +64.2	vs Tenn. St.	69.0
Jacksonville +71.2	vs Stetson	78.0
Lamar Tech +64.2	vs Sam Houston	69.0
Memphis St. +64.2	vs Centenary	69.0
Miss. Southern +71.2	vs Southwestern	69.0
La. College +64.2	vs Northwestern	69.0
Nicholls St. +64.2	vs Arkansas St.	69.0
Northeast La. +64.2	vs Stephen F. Austin	69.0
O. Weslevan +64.2	vs Arkansas	69.0
Sam Houston +64.2	vs Lamar Tech	69.0
Stephen F. Austin +64.2	vs Northeast La.	69.0
SW La Inst. +64.2	vs McNeese St.	69.0
Tenn. Tech +64.2	vs Morehead St.	69.0
Texas Tech +64.2	vs Appalachian	69.0

NATIONAL LEADERS
UCLA +120.0	Auburn	+98.0	Rice +98.0
Ohio State +118.7	Michigan	+98.0	Syracuse +98.0
Oklahoma +111.4	Navy	+98.0	Texas +98.0
Army +98.0	N. Carolina	+98.0	Tulane +98.0
Arkansas +98.0	Oregon	+98.0	Virginia +98.0
Baylor +98.0	Penn State	+98.0	Wyoming +98.0
California +98.0	Princeton	+98.0	Yale +98.0
Clemson +98.0	Rice	+98.0
Duke +98.0	Syracuse	+98.0
Florida +98.0	Texas	+98.0
Georgia Tech +98.0	Tulane	+98.0
Harvard +98.0	Virginia	+98.0
Illinois +98.0	Wyoming	+98.0
Iowa +98.0	Yale	+98.0
Kansas +98.0
Michigan State +98.0
Mich. State +98.0
N. Carolina +98.0
Northwestern +98.0

* Home Team † Rating unavailable

Copyright 1954, by Dunkel Sports Research Service

FSU Figures

TEAM STATISTICS
(Eight-Game Totals)

	FSU	FOES
Total First Downs	105	65
By Rushing	49	31
By Passing	52	31
By Penalty	4	3
Total Yardage	2314	2062
Number Rushing Attempts	298	197
Net Yards Rushing	1179	1036
Number Passes Attempted	174	113
Number Passes Completed	87	55
Yards Passing	1135	1026
Per Cent Passes Completed	50	48.7
Yards Lost Rushing-Passing	170	74
Passes Intercepted By	11	6
Average Yardage per Game	289	258
Average Gain Rushing	113	129
Average Gain Passing	130
Average Gain per Play	5.3	4.3
Average Gain per Rush	3.9	5.2
Number Punts	37	40
Punting Average	35.1	36.6
Punt Returns Average	19.2	9.0
Kick Returns Average	19.9	19.6
Number Penalties	38	24
Yards Penalized	333	207
Number Fumbles	24	22
Fumbles Lost By	17	10
Number Opponents Fumbles Recovering	7	10
By Passing	10	4
By Intercepting	3	2
By Fumble Recovery	7	6
Total Points Attempted	25	16
Made	17	12
Total Points	178	119

INDIVIDUAL STATISTICS
SCORING

	TD	EPA	FGM	TP
Tommy	2	6	0	18
Graham	2	15	1	21
Lee	1	4	0	6
Massey	2	6	0	18
Stanton	2	6	0	18
Schomberger	2	6	0	18
Price	1	0	0	6
Rodrigue	1	0	0	6
Grimer	2	0	0	12
Lovelace	1	0	0	6
Rodriguez	1	0	0	6
Reynolds	1	0	0	6
King	1	0	0	6
Watts	1	0	0	6
Tyler	1	0	0	6
Alberman	1	0	0	6
	27	25	10	178

RUSHING

	Att.	Gain	Loss	Net	Avg.	TD
Graham	61	205	31	174	2.9	2
Cox	45	220	16	204	4.5	1
Reynolds	9	39	1	38	4.2	1
Swanik	43	118	93	25	0.6	0
Massey	32	97	33	64	2.0	2
Watts	24	99	11	88	3.7	1
Stanton	33	99	11	88	2.6	2
Tommy	17	104	56	48	2.8	2
Holt	12	38	4	34	2.8	0
Tyler	12	57	4	53	4.4	1
Wynne	10	41	3	38	3.8	0
Massey	20	70	60	10	0.5	0
Thompson	1	0	0	0	0.0	0
C. Green	9	19	11	8	1.0	0
Fergerson	2	0	2	-2	-1.0	0
Lee	1	6	0	6	6.0	0
Rodrigue	20	64	35	+31	1.6	1
	298	1179	370	810	3.1	15

PASSING

	Att.	Com.	Int.	Gain	Pct.	TD
Massey	58	32	3	482	55.2	4
Watts	54	27	3	417	50.0	3
Price	23	11	2	232	52.8	0
Rodrigue	31	15	3	233	48.4	1
Lee	8	2	0	20	100.0	0

PUNTING

	No.	Yards	Avg.
Watts	19	699	36.8
Versaille	7	257	36.7
Lee	4	140	35.0
Rodrigue	6	196	32.7
Massey	1	36	36.0
Price	1	41 (Blocked)
Totals	37	1379	37.1

Kopsaks Diamond Rings
Rolex & Elgin Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1467

Hatters Could Be Dangerous, Although FSU Is Big Favorite

By ALAN WHITMARSH

A seven-year football series which dates back to 1947 comes to an end, at least for one year, when Florida State and Stetson meet on the latter's home field tomorrow night.

Continuing their push into the big-time, the Seminoles dropped Stetson in making out next year's schedule. In the seven-year series, Stetson has won but one game, and managed a 6-6 tie in 1952.

The Seminoles should go into the game overwhelming favorites, but in the event of past contests this may not mean too much. Rivalry between the two teams has been intense during the series, and the majority of the games have been hard-fought thrillers.

The inexperienced Hatters have won only one of eight contests this year, with a squad composed primarily of Freshmen and Sophomores.

Fifteen lettermen returned from a Stetson team that won four games last year but a Freshman, Dick Salrick has been the primary cog in the Hatters' offense in the last few games.

Salrick took over at mid-season when Frank Singletary was hurt, and remained at the starting quarterback slot, with Singletary being switched to fullback to alternate with Stan Martin at that post.

Gene Stephenson is the big cog in the Hatters' running attack, while Art Parks generally runs with him at the halfbacks. Salrick's passes to Stephenson and Mark Hoffard have been the big gainers for the Stetson eleven in the last few games.

Meanwhile the pass-happy Seminoles continue to eclipse all aerial records for a Florida State football team. In the first eight games, FSU quarterbacks have thrown 174 passes, more than they did in the entire 1953 season. They have completed 87, for an even 50 per cent.

Harry Massey is the leading passer with a sharp 55.2 per cent and five touchdowns, and he will probably be the starting quarterback tomorrow night.

Lee Corso, Billy Graham and John Griner will most likely be his backfield running mates, though there is a question about Graham's controversial ankle.

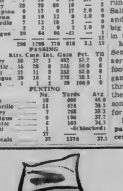
Billy has been limping on that ankle which has given him trouble all season, and there is a question whether or not he will be in peak form this weekend.

Another leg injury, this time a battered knee may keep Sophomore guard Al Pacifico from any participation at all in the game.

Despite the fact that they should be heavy favorites the Seminoles are taking nothing for granted in tomorrow's contest. Coach Tom Nugent points out that in a similar setting last year the Seminoles had to fight hard to overcome Stetson, 12-7, in a Homecoming game.

Many times in the past, despite losing seasons, the Hatters have risen to the occasion to give a heavily favored FSU team the fight of their life, and the same thing could happen tomorrow night.

The Hatters ran ragged forward wall, led by Al Mackowicki, who may be an All-Conference candidate before he's through, will prove a tough nut to crack for Stetson backs, and FSU may see plenty of Salrick's aerials before the evening is over.



Florida State's running attack, on the other hand, served into high gear for the first time against Furman, and the rushing game may play just as important a part as the aerial attack if the Seminoles win.

Lee Corso's three touchdowns in the Furman game was the biggest outburst for a Florida State back this year.

CORSO—One of Florida State's best pass receivers is sophomore back Lee Corso of Miami. The speedy halfback has gathered in fifteen aerials for scores for 143 yards and one touchdown. In addition Corso has scored two touchdowns and gained 174 yards in 41 rushing carries.

VISIT FRANK'S DRIVE-IN FOR GOOD FOOD
HOT TURKEY SANDWICHES
BARBECUE FOODS
OUR SPECIALTY SEAFOODS
2027 NORTH MONROE
"Twelve Years Serving Tallahasseans"
PHONE 2-9074

WHAT'S THIS?

For solution see paragraph below. Photo submitted by Michael Gross, C.C.N.Y.

PICTURE OF YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, TAKEN FROM PHOTOGRAPHER'S WAY
Marion Rohl
St. Cloud S.T.C.

BACKHANDED PASSING PROVIDES EDGE BY BEWILDERING RIVAL
Emily Schafer
West Virginia University

HEIGHT TABLE FOR SPEED SKATERS
Lena Hedge
University of Florida

PARK CONSERVATION BUREAU EMPLOYS 82 ATTENDANTS DAILY TO BALLOON
Jerry Schaffer
University of California

TAKE A GREYHOUND HOME
Going Home For Thanksgiving?
Save 20% On Return Portion of Round Trip Tickets By Greyhound--
For Information Call 2-1650

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES
FLORIDA
Today & Tomorrow
"Beau Brummel"
Stewart Granger
Sun. Through Tues.
"Man With A Million"
Gregory Peck
PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
Today & Tomorrow
"Apache War Smoke"
Gilbert Roland
also
"It Came From Outer Space"
Richard Carlson
Sunday & Monday
"Prisoner of Zenda"
Stewart Granger
STATE
Today & Tomorrow
"On the Water Front"
Marlon Brando
Sun. Thru Tues.
"Reap the Wild Winds"
John Wayne
Susan Hayward
CAPITOL DRIVE-IN ON WOODVILLE HWY.
Today & Tomorrow
WALT DISNEY'S
"Pinnochio"
Sunday & Monday
"Casanova's Big Night"
with
BOB HOPE

"It's TOASTED" to taste better!
LUCKY STRIKE
CIGARETTES
COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES—and by a wide margin—according to the largest and latest coast-to-coast college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process — tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. The pleasure you'll get from Luckies' better taste is nobly depicted in the Droodle above, titled: Modern artist enjoying Lucky while glancing in mirror. See the ecstatic smile? Well, you, too, can be happy. Just go Lucky!
Better taste Luckies...
LUCKIES TASTE BETTER
CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!
A.T.C. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

STUDENTS!
EARN $25!
Lucky Droodles* are pouring in! Where are yours? We pay $25 for all we use, and for many we don't use. So send every original Droodle in your noodle, with its descriptive title, to Lucky Droodle, P.O. Box 67, New York 46, N.Y.
*RHYMES. Copyright 1954, by Sugar Pine

"You're Not Here To Think, Mister"

Brando Stars In State Movie; 'Beau Brummel' Is At Florida

Marlon Brando star of "Street before the crime commission and Car Named Desire" is playing today and tomorrow in "On The Waterfront" at the State Theater in Tallahassee.

In this film Brando plays a young ex-prize fighter who has become a minor hoodlum in the coldblooded cliffs and headed by Lee J. Cobb. The decor who unwittingly lures a longshoreman to his death when he attempts to expose the gangs operations to the Crime Commission. Brando befriends the murdered man's sister but they later lose affair is married by his continuous alliegance to the mob.

Through the combined efforts of Karl Malden as the waterfront priest and Brando's self friend Eva Marie Saint, his allegiance to the mob waivers. However he is restrained by the fact that his own brother played by Rod Steiger is Cobb's chief aid.

When his brother is killed as a result of mob violence Brando breaks completely with Cobb, talks

Dine in a Comfortable Atmosphere for Breakfast Lunch Dinner

Complete Dinners From $1.50 Up
APPROVED BY AAA

Let Us Plan Your Banquet or Luncheon

OUR PRIVATE BANQUET ROOM HAS A CAPACITY OF 150

Open 6 A. M. 'Til Midnight
Saturday 'Til 2 a.m.

TALLAHASSEE DINING ROOM
1630 NORTH MONROE
Phone 2-3428
Mr. Bishop, Mgr.

Letters To The Flambeau

(Continued from page 2)

many other people on campus will certainly agree with us when we say she is one of the most beautiful and most deserving homecoming queen we have ever had.

Sincerely,
BRUCE W. FLETCHER

Expresses Opinion

To the Editor:

It seems that every time I open a Flambeau to the editorial page, I am hit in the face by a column written by a certain dissenting sophomore whose name I do not need to mention Today however I have come to the place where I feel that my opinion should be expressed. This is not only my opinion but the opinion of many of my friends as well as the opinion of many other students on this campus.

I firmly believe in Freedom of the Press, but it can so just so far. A newspaperman should use a certain amount of tact in presenting his opinions to the public. He should also know the facts behind his article. A column was written about the Rat Court. It said, in a sense, that the rat court was juvenile and a worthless function I don't believe this to be true. The rat caps are for the purpose of brinking together the members of the Freshman class, and bringing about more school spirit. The persons who do not go out for participation in these activities are the ones who do not have that school spirit we are striving for, and probably will not contribute to the school at all. Besides, this is all done in fun, is not really humiliating, and causes no anyone, as most of us know.

Another "spirited action" function in the schools of the South is the act of rising when "Dixie" is played We "yanks" are not fighting the War Between the States any more, as the term "damn yankee" seem to believe It is all done in fun and many northerners like to come to the South pick up this habit in fun like the others.

The Kappa Alpha fraternity members are not fighting the War Between the States over again. Their fraternity was founded at Washington and Lee University where Robert E. Lee was president. Their ideals were formed the same as his ideals, spirit and loyalty to their school. That is why they wave their flag, the flag that General Lee fought under, at ball games and social activities of their fraternity. Is there anything wrong with that?

Of course, we know that the war is over. No one thinks that it never finish again except a columnist with an inferiority complex who can think of nothing better to write about than things that will cause excitement and stir people up against him

Sincerely
CLARA BEVIS

Kappa Alpha

To the Editor:

In last Tuesday's Flambeau a certain clown on your staff by the name of Martin Dyckman pulled out his soap box and tried to make a name for himself by running the South and Kappa Alpha fraternity into the ground.

He made a name for himself alright, but one which only he would consider complimentary. It isn't used in everyday polite conversation.

What is this little man's beef anyhow? Did some KA snake his date for the weekend? Or is this his way of attempting to pull himself out of his category as a non-entity? All I could get out of his three column fiasco is that he is voluntarily going to a southern university, in a southern state, where the greater majority of the enrolled students are native-born southerners — and he don't like it. So why doesn't he just shut his fat face, pack his carpetbag, and go back to wherever he came from. Or is it that no respectable northerner will lay claim to such a man?

And his nose is out of joint because members of Kappa Alpha, which is a southern fraternity, founded in the South by southerners to uphold and perpetuate the glories and customs of a by-gone era and keep alive those cherished principles of honor and gentlemanliness set forth by one of the greatest of all Americans, Robert E. Lee; and I'm sure any intelligent northerner will agree to that are proud of their ancestry, and display their allegiance wherever they feel a desire to do so.

Kappa Alpha has 78 chapters, spread from Maryland to California all over the southern United States. We have no chapters any where north of Maryland. In no way do we attempt to force ourselves or our principles upon anyone who does not desire to accept them, and there are hundreds of northern-born KA's all over the U. S. A. And incidentally, Dyckman, one of our local alumni chapters is in New York City! We make no distinction about a man's birthplace when he pledges Kappa Alpha, and there's nothing in our laws, customs or ritual that's "Anti-Yankee" If you can PROVE anything about Kappa Alpha that's un-American, disgusting or offensive, then print them in this paper and we will whole heartedly take be a witness to your proofs

For a man to who is not acquainted with us and our principles to use a certain amount of tact in presenting his opinions to the public. He should also know the facts behind his article A column was written about the Rat Court. It said, in a sense, that the rat court was juvenile and a worthless function I don't believe this to be true. The rat caps are for the purpose of brinking together the members of the Freshman class, and bringing about more school spirit. The persons who do not go out for participation in these activities are the ones who do not have that school spirit we are striving for, and probably will not contribute to the school at all. Besides, this is all done in fun, is not really humiliating, and causes no anyone, as most of us know.

Another "spirited action" function in the schools of the South is the act of rising when "Dixie" is played We "yanks" are not fighting the War Between the States any more, as the term "damn yankee" seem to believe It is all done in fun and many northerners like to come to the South pick up this habit in fun like the others.

The Kappa Alpha fraternity members are not fighting the War Between the States over again. Their fraternity was founded at Washington and Lee University where Robert E. Lee was president. Their ideals were formed the same as his ideals, spirit and loyalty to their school. That is why they wave their flag, the flag that General Lee fought under, at ball games and social activities of their fraternity. Is there anything wrong with that?

Of course, we know that the war is over. No one thinks that it never finish again except a columnist with an inferiority complex who can think of nothing better to write about than things that will cause excitement and stir people up against him

Sincerely
CLARA BEVIS

Kappa Alpha

To the Editor:

In last Tuesday's Flambeau a certain clown on your staff by the name of Martin Dyckman pulled out his soap box and tried to make a name for himself by running the South and Kappa Alpha fraternity into the ground.

He made a name for himself alright, but one which only he would consider complimentary. It isn't used in everyday polite conversation.

What is this little man's beef anyhow? Did some KA snake his date for the weekend? Or is this his way of attempting to pull himself out of his category as a non-entity? All I could get out of his three column fiasco is that he is voluntarily going to a southern university, in a southern state, where the greater majority of the enrolled students are native-born southerners — and he don't like it. So why doesn't he just shut his fat face, pack his carpetbag, and go back to wherever he came from. Or is it that no respectable northerner will lay claim to such a man?

And his nose is out of joint because members of Kappa Alpha, which is a southern fraternity, founded in the South by southerners to uphold and perpetuate the glories and customs of a by-gone era and keep alive those cherished principles of honor and gentlemanliness set forth by one of the greatest of all Americans, Robert E. Lee; and I'm sure any intelligent northerner will agree to that are proud of their ancestry, and

Insist On SUPERIOR'S

DRY CLEANING For Your Thanksgiving Holiday Finery

For clothes to be cleaned over the Holidays leave with Superior.

You'll be pleased with their process that restores sizing and colors to your clothes.

- GUARANTEED DRY CLEANING
- INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE AND THEFT.
- SERVING TALLAHASSEE SINCE 1926
- A COMPLETE DRY CLEANING SERVICE

SUPERIOR CLEANERS
308 S. Monroe St. Phone 2-0652
"JUST ACROSS THE STREET FROM SEARS"

(Continued from page 2)

the forces of communism.

The United States does not need to frequnize Red China in order to carry on diplomatic negotiations The British consulate is an example of a case in which the nations participating stated that negotiations would be carried on without any recognition was being accorded nations which had not been previously recognized.

Therefore, since we would lose prestige and since it is not to our national interest to make recognition at this time, and since the nations participating are for negotiations the United States should not extend recognition to the communist government of China.

DELTA ZETA PLEDGES FIVE

Delta Zeta sorority initiated five pledges recently. They were Doris Depot, Diane Estes, Jo Hood Carol Lee Johnson and Janet Reed.

Miss Johnson was given the scholarship award at a banquet held to celebrate the initiation Jo Hood was named with the title, Best All Around pledge.

HEY! Good News...

WE GOT IT ALL

A-1 Service on Developing and Printing
All Kinds of Picture-Taking Aids

FREE Counseling for Better Pictures

Tallahassee Camera Center
"ACROSS FROM THE FLORIDA THEATER"
123 N. Monroe St. Phone 2-8771

Tuesday Deadline Announced For 'Selective Service' Exam

The Lift File

(Continued from page 2)

on American painters, writers, poets and musicians, besides that an artist from overseas automatically must enjoy more talent. Although this notion fortunately is about at an end in most areas, it seems to persist in furniture.

In the popular mind Early American Furniture refers to a group of crude though charming pieces that are bought largely for country homes. Among these pieces are the hutch table, the lazy Susan, the Dutch sink, the trestle and sawbuck table, the Windsor chair and the Boston rocker, made in pine and other inexpensive woods. When many of our more elegant chateaux set to furnish their formal living and dining rooms in period furniture they forget about the American and raise wistfully across the Atlantic toward the English, the French and the Italian.

Actually, though, the heritage of American furniture is among the finest in the world. While it is true that few period furniture styles are distinctively American, the greatest developments of the fabulous English and French styles in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries came in this country. Take the Chippendale period, in the opinion of many experts the greatest ever known. In Philadelphia where Thomas Chippendale himself lived from 1718 to 1779. Chippendale furniture was large and massive. To fit into the elaborate homes of the nobility for whom it was designed. In Colonial America it emphasized veriueal lines, achieving more height and delicacy.

A visit to the American Wing at the Metropolitan can be a first lesson in our decorative history, which starts with the pieces that were brought over by the earliest colonists from England. In quick succession come William and Mary, Queen Anne, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton—English styles adapted for use in rich colonial homes a few years after their first vogue in the Mother Country. Following the American Revolution and rising sympathy for the French we find Directory and Empire styles brought to their culmination by Duncan Phyfe, probably the greatest cabinetmaker this country has ever produced, although challenged by such as John Goddard, Samuel Mc-Intyre and Thomas Seymour of Boston and Philadelphia.

It is a visit that can bring on the same quickening of national pride that we know when we observe the Lincoln Memorial after nightfall or listen to the swift beat of "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

From Topics of The Times

Pro

(Continued from page 2)

States approval of the methods or ideas of the Communist government. We merely feel that since we live on the same planet, and must do business with each other, we must realize that we need normal diplomatic machinery with which to conduct this business.

Naturally the question of what to do with Formosa and the Nationalist forces arises. There have been several solutions to this problem suggested. The most prominent and feasible of these is to neutralize Formosa as a separate, and conclude defense alliances with them.

As far as the United Nations is concerned we may do well to admit China to the general assembly and put India in Nationalist China's place on the Security Council.

Since we should be realistic, and need to gain prestige abroad, and channels for negotiation would provide us with a means to peace, the United States should at this time extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China.

Examinations Set By Testing Service For February 12th

National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 300 testing centers in the United States on February 12, it was recently announced.

During the testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Information, General Culture and others. One or two of one optional Examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught may also be taken.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information describing registration procedure and sample questions may be obtained from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. Deadline for acceptance of application is January 14.

Examinations Announced For 'Selective Service' Exam

By WILLIAM C. HOLT
Supervisor, FSU
Selective Service Affairs

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, today reminded college students that the deadline for submitting application for the December 9 Selective Service College Qualification Test is midnight Tuesday, November 23 and that applications postmarked after that time cannot be considered.

Application blanks and information bulletins, with sample questions, may be obtained by students from the nearest local board. They do not have to write to their own local board to secure an application. Students are to mail their completed applications in preaddressed envelopes to Science Research Associates, Chicago, Illinois.

To be eligible to apply for the college qualification test a student must (1) intend to request deferment as a student; (2) be satisfactorily pursuing a full time course of instruction; and (3) must NOT have previously taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test.

The next scheduled test for this school year will be April 21, 1955. Students whose academic year will end in January are urged to take the December 9 test as they will have a test score in their cover sheets before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be again deferred as students.

The present criteria for deferment as a undergraduate are either a satisfactory score (28) on the Selective Service College Qualification Test at specified rank in class (upper half of the males in the Freshman Class, upper two-thirds of the males in the Sophomore Class, or upper three-fourths of the males in the Junior Class).

Students accepted for admission to or in attendance at a graduate school after July 1, 1951, satisfy the criteria if they ranked among the upper one-half of the male members of their Senior Class or made a score of 75 or better on the test. Graduate students admitted after January 1, 1955, must have ranked among the upper one-fourth of the male members of their Senior Class or make a score of 80 or better on the qualification test.

General Hershey has emphasized many times that the criteria are a flexible yard stick used to guide the local boards and that the standards may be raised any time necessary for manpower demands.

The December 9 test will be the fourteenth administration of the test since the program was inaugurated in May 1951. To date, some 600,000 students have taken the test. More than 60 per cent of this number made a score of 70 or better on the test.

FROSH CLASS ANNOUNCEMENTS

The installation of Freshman Class officers was held by Gold and Garnet Executive Tuesday, Nov. 16 in Longmire Auditorium.

After the installation, the cabinet held a short meeting to plans for a Frosh Sock Hop to be held in Women's Gym were discussed. Further details will be announced later, said Graham Teschke president. Freshman carnival nominations for sponsors of the class were also discussed.

Ed. note: Frosh class announcements will appear on page 4.

Foreign Students to Discuss Countries For Newmanites

A "Foreign Students Extravaganza" to be held at the Newman House Sunday beginning at 5:30 p.m., announced Kay Pacyr, chairman.

Miss Pieper continued that the purpose of the program is to help promote better relations between the foreign students and other students in campus. She invited everybody to attend the event.

The program will include Turkey Bri-B-Q for 75 cents and entertainment. Included in the program are students from Ireland, India, Philippines, Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Japan, Cuba, Thailand, England and Mexico.

MALONE'S BOOK STORE
F.S.U. Sweatshirts and T-Shirts
Stuffed Animals & Stationery
Supplies & Sundries

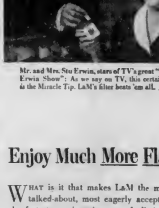
"Take A Souvenir Home Thanksgiving"

107 S. Copeland

TURKEY DINNER
Sunday With All The Trimmings 70c

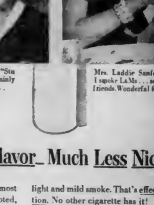
MEET ME at the MECCA

Make New and See Old Friends
REGULAR MEALS: SHORT ORDERS
FOUNTAIN — NOTIONS



"For Better Food at Lower Prices"

Open 7 A. M.—11 P. M. 111 South Copeland



No Filter Compares with L&M's Miracle Tip for Quality or Effectiveness!

Actress Diana Lynn: This is the best filter of all—L&M's Miracle Tip. The smoke is mild, yet full of flavor.

Mr. and Mrs. Stu Erwin, stars of TV's great "Stu Erwin Show": As we say on TV, this certainly is the Miracle Tip. L&M's filter beats 'em all.

Mrs. Laddie Sanford, Socialite: I smoke L&M's . . . so do most of my friends. Wonderful filter... fine taste.

Enjoy Much More Flavor—Much Less Nicotine

WHAT is it that makes L&M the most talked-about, most eagerly accepted, the fastest growing cigarette of all time?

Just this. It's the filter that counts—and none compares with L&M's Miracle Tip. You get much more flavor, much less nicotine—a light and mild smoke. That's effective filtration. No other cigarette has it!

Why wait to try L&Ms? Discover for yourself what more and more filter tip smokers are finding out every day: L&Ms are just what the doctor ordered.

America's Best Filter Cigarette!

KING SIZE & REGULAR

Job-Getting Seminar Slated Next Week (See Page One)

The Florida Flambeau

Gymkana Starts Next Monday (See Page One)

PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

E. NO. 17 TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1954

nate Enacts ll To Stiffen affic Fines

ct Sees Doubling Fines Not Paid Specified Time

...e bill passed by ...e Senate at its last ...ing measurably stiffens ...equences for traffic ...arking violations on ...e campus.

...e sponsored as a bill by ...n Halford's labor, stu...ers and education com...ee, it was only with the ...ific intention to waive hear...g prior to the maximum fine ...d have been imposed by ...e.

...o place the act provides ...mber of the fine if a sim...ls is appear for hearing ...e first notification. If he ...egects a second notice, his ...e is to be referred to the ...ge dean "for disciplinary ...n."

...der the act, the student ...ld be notified of that procedure, ...e maximum contempt ...e for may no longer be im...ed.

...r parking violations, not to ...ubject with cases of speeding ...ther forms of law violation, ...e penalties automatic fines ...paid within the first 24 hours ...eriod of parking ticket. But ...n 24 hours. If paid within the ...t 24 hours the charge is a ...ar if the automatic fine is not ...d within those forty-eight hours ...ecome the fine of $1.50 goes ...effect and the offender is ...ed to summons to traffic ...rt.

...e automatic fine is subject to ...ppeal to Traffic Court at the ...ularly weekly meeting fol...ng the date of the violation." ...ge to city Tickets received on ...day Sunday, or a holiday, ...e considered as received on ...e regular class day."

...t provides that the automatic ...ne shall be payable at the Stu...ts Accounts Office, 105 West ...Woodward, through Friday 8 ...m. to 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. and ...at Traffic Court office, 200 Leon ...Building, Monday through ...urday between 2 p. m. and ...p. m.

...ffic Court whose Chief Justice ...Sophomore and Junior ...ll initiate and hear all traf...ic Body tries violations re...ed by the campus police ...ugh the Business Office and ...ed in the form of fines goes ...e scholarship fund.

...ffic fines are normally con...ed as other unpaid debts and ...ld prevent a student's register...ing transcript or grad...on. Although in revising the ...ffic statutes, Senate struck ...ion to that effect from ...e bill the University will prob...ue to view unpaid fines ...e same

Placement Office Announces Job-Getting Seminar Details

Mr. Philip Hudson

Mr. C. W. Meager

The Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement announces annual Job-Getting Seminar will get underway December 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Suwannee Room.

The Seminar is scheduled to last two days, and is designed to give graduation seniors the opportunity to meet prospective employers on a social basis as well as in the form of interviews that will be conducted concurrent with the seminar.

For the purpose of making the introductions easier, committee members of Alpha Kappa Psi, National Business Fraternity, will issue name tags to visitors and students.

The theme of the seminar is "Your Next Step as Graduating Senior." The program for the two days of activity lists a social hour and panel discussion on Wednesday and scheduled interviews between students and company representatives on the morning of December 2, in the Conference Room.

Companies have been invited to send representatives to the Job Getting Seminar, moderated by Mr. Angus Laird, head of the State Merit System. A panel will

(Continued on Page 5)

Choral Union Begins Season In Music Hall Tonight, 8:15

By JERI BRADFIELD

Opperman Music Hall will be the scene of the first Choral Union concert, to be presented tonight at 8:15.

Herman Lesser, Choral Union director, has announced the program for the evening. The two complete major choral works to each will be presented are "The Peaceable Kingdom" by Randall Thompson and Franz Schubert's "Mass in G Major".

Soloists who will perform in the "Mass" are Ellen Sauer, soprano; Wendell Barbell, tenor; and Kenneth Nelson, bass.

The accompaniment for the Mass will be an instrumental ensemble under the direction of Concert Master Tom Rosse, from New York City.

"The Peaceable Kingdom" is a sequence of seven sacred choruses based on the prophecy of Isaiah and deriving its title from the painting by Edward Hicks.

An example is the text stanza, "Say ye to the righteous, it shall be well with him: for they shall eat the fruit of their doings. Woe unto the wicked! It shall be ill with him: for the reward of his hands shall be given him."

Randall Thompson, the composer of "The Peaceable Kingdom," was born in New York City in 1899. After graduating from Harvard University, Mr. Thompson has taught at the Juilliard School of Music, the University of California, and the University of Virginia. He is the composer of two symphonies and a number of choral works.

The distinguished composer, Franz Schubert, was born in Vienna in 1797 and died in the same city in 1828. He represents the

(Continued on page 5)

Tally-Ho Picks Beauty Queen In December

Plans are underway for the 1954 Tally-Ho Beauty Contest, announced Al Shuler, feature editor.

The contest will be held in Lemoira Auditorium, December 8 for the purpose of determining "Miss FSU", he continued.

Shuler said that any co-ed is eligible to enter, with one candidate being nominated by each of the fraternities and men's dormitories and two by each of the sororities and women's dormitories.

The contestants have been asked to be in Lonzaine a half hour before the contest starts. Shuler said that the identity of "Miss FSU" will be withheld until May 23, when she will be guest of honor at the Tally-Ho Staff Banquet. Other winners of the contest will be announced in January.

REAL ESTATE-INSURANCE CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

The Insurance and Real Estate club will hold a regular meeting this evening at 5:30 in the Student Lounge in the Alumni Building. All members and perspective members of Business are invited to attend this very important meeting.

anguage Lab Open To Faculty, Pupils; acayo Is Director

...ida State University now ...s Language Laboratory facili...s for students and faculty ...terested in any, or all of the ...ollowing modern languages: ...rman, German, Spanish, Italian, ...ese and Russian.

...e Language Laboratory is ...ated in the Modern Language De...rtment and is under the direc...n of Herbert Lacayo. It is ...ated in Room 306 of the Arts ...d Sciences School and is open ...m 8:00 to 5:00 a.m. on Mon...Wednesday and Friday.

...e Laboratory is equipped with ...phonographs; records, phonetic ...s and newspapers printed in ...e 32 languages. A tape recorder ...ssion of the various countries' ...records range from teaching ...ons to literary and musical ...ces. The tape recorder is ...ed for the convenience of the ...s of the Laboratory as a check ...pronunciations.

...s. V. B. Gelschlager, Head ...e Modern Language Depart...t, extends an invitation to all ...ers of the University to use ...ilities of the Laboratory. ...e believes that the Laboratory ...rovided for everyone, not just ...ge majors, for which reason ...e announces that next semes...the Laboratory will be avail...for use from 12:00 noon to ...0 p. m. daily.

Official Thanksgiving Notices

...Thanksgiving holidays will begin ...2 noon tomorrow and end at ...0 a.m. next Monday, announced ...Registrar.

...e library hours over the ...Thanksgiving holidays will be as ...ows:

...ov. 24, Wednesday—8:00 a.m. to ...0 p.m.

...ov. 25, Thursday—closed

...ov. 26, Friday—8:30 a.m. to ...0 p.m.

...ov. 27, Saturday—8:30 a.m. to ...0 p.m.

...ov. 28, Sunday—closed.

PUBLICATION

...ue to the Thanksgiving ...olidays The Florida Flam...eau will not be published ...gain until December 2.

Toyland Capers Opens Monday For Full Week

Annual Gymkana Production Begins At 8 Every Night

The curtain goes up on "Toyland Capers," the 1954 Gymkana production, next Monday, November 29. The show, which will be held in the Women's Gym at 8:00 p. m. each evening, will run through December 5, announced Dr. Hartley Price, director.

Anita Wall, the Snow Queen, will escort the audience through the performance which features characters from the land of toys.

A game of "Doubloons" will be played by the women's drill team and the "Dodge Boys" will perform on the parallel bars. A jack-in-the-box act will feature the trampoline while a drum and drumstick will use the trampoline.

The Tallahassee Tumbling Tots will perform in the "March of the Toys" while Marcella Truss, gymkana performer, juggles. More gymkana antics will be furnished by Jennie Ashmore, Dick Ireland and Jim Padgan as three lollipops.

Dick Guiteg, as Humpty Dumpty, might fall off his wall but all the king's horses and all the king's women — Sallie Gladding, Joyce Davis, Betty Faulks, Joan Hemmann, Ann Holcombe, Mary Allison Schaal, Shirley Metz, Rosemary Rodgers, Lucy Cole, Jan Clark and Leslie Bauer, try to put him together again, reports the publicity chairman.

The 1954-55 Miss Gymkana Court will represent the Military Ball Sweethearts as Little Bo Peep, King Midas's daughter, Little Red Riding Hood, Thimbelell, Snow White, Cinderella and the Blue Fairy. The Queen and two attendants to be chosen December 2, will be escorted by Anita Wall, last year's Miss Gymkana, and Pete Nimhoff, president of the men's pep body. The 1955 queen will receive a 16-inch trophy and her court will be given trophies announced the chairman of the Queen Contest.

Margaret Donaldson has been chosen as an alternate Miss Gymkana and served as Mistress of Ceremonies for the two road trips that the troupe took last week.

The 1954 Gymkana troupe presented last week to the Veteran Domiciliary at Thomasville, Georgia, and the audience at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

GAMMA ALPHA CHI PLEDGES TEN

Officials of Gamma Alpha Chi, national professional advertising fraternity for women, have announced the pledging of ten girls.

They named as pledges Rose McGirr, June Yates, Mary Frances Horn, Mary Lis King, Mary Ann Williams, Jackie Sanders, Mary Ellen Martin, Dee Dee Lyda Yarbrough and Nan Hillman.

PRETTY FORMATION—Show above are "The Dominoes," who are members of Gymkana. From row, 1 to r, are Barbara Murray, Barbara Vickers and Suzanne Hefinger. Back row, l. to r. are Connie Heafer, Jan Clark, Dotty Dodd and Barbara Syrski. "The Dominoes" will be seen in "Toyland Capers." Other photos Page 4.

Oxford Debate Held Tomorrow On 'Red China'

Oxford University debaters make their only Florida appearance tomorrow morning, November 24, in the Conference Auditorium on this campus.

Two debates will be held, one at 10 a. m. on the subject of Communist China from the United Nations, and the other at 11 a. m. on the dangers of the welfare state.

Derek Bloom and Peter Taphell of the Oxford Union come to Tallahassee about two-thirds of the way through their three-month tour of the Eastern and Midwestern United States.

In previous debates they have met such schools as Brown, Yale, Princeton, Notre Dame, Indiana, Purdue, Wisconsin, Ohio State, and Northwestern. Monday they debated at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa and debate tonight at Howard College in Birmingham.

FSU will be represented in these two debates by Betsy Perry, graduate student in the Department of Speech, and Peter Nimhoff, FSU student body president and senior debate manager in 1953-54.

After their Tallahassee engagement the Oxford debaters have a brief Florida vacation before engaging the University of Virginia, Cornell, Bates College, Temple, Pittsburgh, and Colgate, Ms. Late in December they will return to Great Britain.

Dr. Ward Pigman To Discuss Acids Tomorrow At 8 p.m.

Dr. Ward Pigman, on a tour of southeastern universities as a 1954 American Chemical Society lecturer, will speak here tomorrow at 8 p.m. in room 124 of the Science Building.

Dr. Pigman, as associate professor of biochemistry at the Medical College of Ohio at University of Alabama in Birmingham, will discuss enzymes, their role and bases on sugars. University professors, scientists from the state agricultural laboratory, graduate and undergraduate students in chemistry are being interested in the topic have been invited to attend.

The speaker's principle field of research and interest is that of the carbohydrates and this field he has an established position as the author of many research articles, as an editor and founder of the "Advances in Carbohydrate Chemistry" and as co-author of the standard monograph of "The Chemistry of the Carbohydrates."

General Education Exemption Exams To Be Given Soon

Exemption Examinations for General Education courses will be given in Room 226 Education from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. on the following dates: Thursday, December 2, 1954, and Wednesday, December 8, 1954.

A student may take at most TWO examinations. Recommendation cards for the Exemption Tests may be obtained from the Test Service Bureau, 230 Education, or the Office of Coordinator of Counseling, Room 203 Westcott. This card must be signed by a Counselor, Dean, or Dept. Head, and turned in to the Test Service Bureau by noon, Wednesday, December 1.

Courses in which exemption examinations are offered are: Humanities 101, 102, 103; Physical Science 101, 102; Social Science 101, 102; Biological Science 101, 102; History 101, 102 and Personal Development 101, 102.

Active Participation By College Students Urged At Conference

More active participation in national politics by college students was urged by three prominent Floridians at the regional conference of the Florida Citizenship Clearing House held at the University of Florida Saturday.

William L. McKay Jr., Gainesville, called on college students to "bring a knowledge of our Western Heritage, especially a knowledge of the history of American institutions, into the field of politics."

He told an audience, composed of college students, faculty and political leaders from Florida: "Our institutions will work only with the active participation by the politics of all of our people. Active participation, especially by the support of worthy candidates and sound issues, lies within the reach of every college student."

Dr. Franklyn A. Johnson, director of the Clearing House and chairman of the division of human relations at Rollins College, pointed out that the Florida organization was started at Peste Vedra Beach in January of this year. Its purpose is to overcome the obstacles in the public mind including the apathy of voters, avoidance of so-called controversy, and acceptance of "dirty politics" as a necessary evil.

He said "where particular attitudes on the part of they abide are serious at any time, but they are criminal in an age of atomic blackmail. We are all at fault for we have failed to encourage young talent in enter into politics."

Donald C. Carroll, president-elect of the Florida Bar Assn., deplored the lack of participation in politics by college students at the afternoon panel discussion, which he presided over.

He pointed out that the FCC has as its main objective "the bringing together of the best type of college man and woman and the best type of political leader of the party of their choice in their own communities, and to encourage and inspire them to enter public life actively."

This was the first Citizenship Clearing House conference composed of college representatives held at U. of F. The FCC is designed to stimulate participation of college and civic women in political and civic operations after they graduate. It is aimed at getting each student, a non-partisan, non-vocational understanding of American party politics.

(Continued on page 2)

ODK To Tap 4 Men Today, Says Houser

Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership honorary, will tap four Florida State University students today, announced Jack Houser.

"The purpose of this organization," continued President Houser, "is to recognize and encourage achievements in the fields of scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, speech, drama and the dramatic arts."

ODK lists as its five qualifications for membership character, leadership and service in campus life, scholarship, fellowship and consecration to democratic ideals.

ODK was founded at Washington and Lee University, December 3, 1914. The FSU Circle was installed May 13, 1950.

Active student members include: Donnie Rollin, Vice-President, and reporter; Don Thomas, treasurer; Harry Massey, Frankie Adams, Frank Bean, Dick Guiteg, Pete Nimhoff and Jack Houser.

Honorary Taps Four From Army ROTC

Scabbard and Blade, FSU military honorary service and scholarship honorary, recently tapped four Army ROTC members into its ranks. They are Truman Mock, Gay Arzo, Jackson Henry and Robert Foley.

Officers for this year are President, Walter H. Yeon; Vice-President, Robert Bennett, Secretary, Jackson Henry; Treasurer, Charles B. Clark.

Members include Dick Gutting, Charles Bernhern, Earl Chandler, William Proctor, Jim Padgan, Bob Holder, Ray Eddy Jr., and Stan Orrick.

Dues and pledges were honored at a coffee at the home of Lt. Col. Phillip S. Greene. Professor of Military Science, following the Veterans Day Parade.

Thanksgiving Events Planned For Students Staying At FSU

Students who stay at Florida State University over Thanksgiving Holidays will not be forgotten. It was revealed this week.

In the first place, they will be treated to a home football game with Mississippi Southern. And Thursday's traditional turkey dinner will be served in the Seminole Club, announced Food Service Director Anna M. Tracy.

FSU Recreation schedule, who for the most part are unable to return to their homes over the short Thanksgiving period, have not been overlooked in the Park and Advisor Sam Boghists.

Mr. Boghist has continued that "Quite a few families in Tallahassee have invited foreign students to their homes for Thanksgiving dinner."

Part of the hospitality is due to other activities to be added. One, the Rotary Club, has a project in which for each member he invites one or two FSU foreign students to his home for a dinner.

The object is a "two-way" exchange, and Mr. Boghist, in that the students learn a little about American home life and the Americans learn a little about the students' culture. While some of the students will have a place to go over the holidays, some will travel to Gainesville to visit with other foreign students there and others will spend Thanksgiving with roommates.

Food Service Director Tracy listed the menu for dinner served over the holiday as follows:

Dinner served until Sunday night, Nov. 28.

Sadie Hop. Closed during holiday.

Seminole Club Open all meals, except Thanksgiving dinner.

Thanksgiving dinner will be served in the Seminole Club Thursday beginning at 12 noon and lasting through 2 p.m., at a cost of $1.50. Tomorrow is the deadline for reserving tickets for the dinner. They will be sold until noon in the Food Service office. Second floor near Gilchrist. Hall across the Student Center and 104 Westcott.

Menu: Roast turkey; sweet potatoes with giblet gravy and corn or garden peas.

Also cut watermelon salad rolls; pumpkin or lemon pie or holiday ice cream; tea or coffee and milk. Will be served at small children for 65 cents.

FSU Requests Permission For New Expansion

Authority Required To Enlarge Stadium And Student Center

A request for authority to make a $250,000 addition to the Student Center and to enlarge the seating capacity of Doak S. Campbell Stadium was included in the building program asked for the University by the Board of Control last week.

The two projects were listed as "operating requests," and had no connection with the $5,232,778 general revenue appropriation asked for, said board Business Manager W. O. Hendricks. Florida State University's building plan for the 1955-57 biennium is expected to be considered by the 1955 State Legislature in April or May.

General revenue funds for a $2,500,000 classroom building; a $1,223,000 classroom building; a $743,400 classroom building; a $785,000 Social Science classroom building; a $953,000 women's dormitory and a $1,601,000 men's dormitory were also requested. The last two will be financed in part by revenue certificates.

The $250,000 addition to the Student Center will be made because it "is needed to provide space for various student activities, offices and programs." Included will be student government offices and student activities, said the Board of Control.

The board's request of the Legislature provides for the addition to be financed "by contributions from students through the student activity funds." Business Manager Hendricks explained that the financing "referred to is unexpended Student Activities fees which are left at the end of each fiscal year. "An increase in Student Activities fees is not contemplated," he said.

The stadium addition, costing $250,000, will be made because "The attendance at Florida State University football games, combined with the points where the seating capacity is not enough to accomodate all who want to buy tickets," said the board.

"It is necessary to increase the seating capacity to 25,000 people as rapidly as possible, for this capacity will be a thing new in the permanent bleacher or section."

It will be financed by "proceeds from sale of tickets and contributions."

Classroom building number one will "house students and faculty now housed in temporary buildings around the main campus," including "the English, mathematics, accounting, business, administration, finance, journalism, marketing and other classes in business. It will also be used by the business building.

The board requested funds for the building because "Overcrowdedness in the School of Business has increased since the temporary units of the past where the school had only almost one thousand students."

Classroom building number two will house the School of Education classes. The board said "The School of Education is the second ranking school in terms of numbers of students at Florida State University. The work of this school is severely handicapped because of the lack of space."

The third general classroom building will provide needed classrooms for classes now housed in temporary wooden buildings. It will house the department of english, modern languages and mathematics.

Social Science classroom building number four is for the Public Administration and Social Welfare and the departments of economics, political science and history.

The new women's dormitory was requested because "The use of housing facilities for women on the campus reached the saturation point." It will be financed by 35 per cent revenue certificates and 65 per cent state appropriation.

The men's dormitory will be "like West Hall and Reid Hall." This space will be occupied to full capacity upon completion."

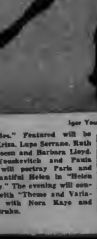
The financial plan calls for $800,000 through a self-liquidating certificate issue, and $801,000 from the state appropriation.

Present Board of Control plans call for asking approximately $15 million more in general revenue funds for FSU building programs by 1965. Included will be $830,000 women's dormitories and $1,601,000 men's dormitories to be financed partly by revenue certificate issues; to be required of the State Legislature in 1957, 1959, 1961, 1961-63 and 1963-65 bienniums.

Ballet Theater Will Launch 54-55 Artist Series

Programs Scheduled For December 6, 7 In Westcott At 8:15

The American ballet company from New York is returning to the FSU campus for the first time since it appeared in the old Westcott Auditorium in the spring of 1951, just a few months before the structure was condemned. The December 6 and 7 performances are expected to draw capacity audience, said sponsors.



Distribution of tickets started this week began yesterday at the Westcott Auditorium ticket booth. Students are issued reserved seat tickets in exchange for Activity Coupon number eight. No charge is made.

Nora Kaye, outstanding American ballerina, will appear with Igor Youskevitch and John Krins, when the Ballet Theater presents a program of ballet at FSU for the two-night performance.

The company travels with its own symphony orchestra, under the direction of Dmitri Dmitriev and Dumitri Romandiet is rehearsor.

On Monday, December 6 the program will open with Swan Lake, featuring Nora Kaye and Igor Youskevitch. On Tuesday Kosciusko by Eric Bruhn will dance "Til Eulenspiegel"; Miss Kaye and Erik Bruhn will dance the sweetheart in "Jardin Aux Lilas," and John Krins and Calberine Horn will represent the rancher's daughter and the cowboy in "Rodeo."

Tuesday, December 7, the program will open with the ballet of the loveliest of classic ballets, sponsors said. It will be "Les Sylphides." Featured will be John Krins, Lupe Serrano, Ruth Ann Koesn and Barbara Lloyd. Igor Youskevitch and Paula Lloyd will perform Paris and the beautiful Helen in "Helen of Troy." The evening will conclude with "Themes and Variations," with Nora Kaye and Erik Bruhn.

Igor Youskevitch

Students here will have exclusive claim to tickets until Tuesday, November 30. On December 1, members of the faculty and staff will be allowed to purchase tickets, it was noted. On December 2, provided any seats remain, tickets will go on sale to the general public for $2.50 each.

Pencil Sharpeners

We would like to suggest to campus political parties a red-hot proposition for getting students' support.

Our idea has great potential; with the proper application it could cause a possible sweep in the next student body elections. At first, it might appear a trifle amusing, but with closer scrutiny its possibilities become apparent.

It has to do with the shocking absence of pencil sharpeners on campus. Every student has by now become acquainted with this condition, having either been unable to draw pictures of his professor or write notes to the student across the aisle.

We will even offer a winning slogan; "A Pencil Sharpener in Every Room." Parties, take it from here!

Creeping Exploitation

How many Government agencies have been weakened by political manipulating in the agitation for the Dixon-Yates contract is perhaps not yet fully realized.

Some of the agencies of Government that have been adversely affected by behind-the-scene maneuvers for Dixon-Yates are independent agencies. They enjoy protections in law designed to keep them free from partisan pressures. Their effectiveness depends on their independence from political exploitation.

Let us take a look at some of the more important agencies affected, and at the politics that has been played by them:

Atomic Energy Commission—Its chairman, Adm. Strauss, evidently looked on President Eisenhower's directive to this commission to make the Dixon-Yates contract as a bludgeon to beat his fellow commissioners into line. AEC finally "approved" the contract by a legalistic trick which removed a majority of the commissioners to determine the outcome. Commissioner Joseph Campbell, who has since been appointed by President Eisenhower to be Comptroller General, the official under whom the General Accounting Office functions, is the only member of AEC who voted with Adm. Strauss in favor of the Dixon-Yates contract at the earlier stage. Two other commissioners finally joined in signing it.

General Accounting Office—This agency is popularly known as "the Watchdog of the Treasury." It was not consulted before the decision was made to sign the contract to the Dixon-Yates syndicate. When the contract was awarded, GAO criticized the absence of competition biddings. Later GAO withdrew this objection but under what pressure and under pressure from whom?

Bureau of the Budget—While not an independent agency, but rather the financial branch of the President's office, the Budget Bureau has gone so far afield that former TVA Chairman Clapp accused it of deceiving the President with slanted information about Dixon-Yates.

Since the Bureau of the Budget must deal with all Government agencies in the preparation of their budgets, its reputation for fairness is one of its indispensable assets. Director of the Budget Hughes has done that reputation no good by constituting himself a raucous partisan propagandist for the contract. A majority of the AEC commissioners protested against the contract when it was first presented and a majority of the TVA board of directors still views it with grave misgivings.

If the decisions and quasi-judicial judgments of agencies such as these are subjected to self-serving politics, they cease to perform the even-headed functions which are their reason for existence. They may then become the instruments of partisan coercion.

That is far too high a price to pay for any Dixon-Yates contract.

—From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Teacher's Plight

The plight of Florida's school teachers has again been brought up. This time by State Senator Verle A. Pope. He said, "We've got to do something for them. It isn't right to expect a qualified professional with at least four years of college training to work for $2,900 a year when a clerk with a six-week business course can earn $3,000."

You couldn't be more right, Senator. Something should be done and by the 1955 State Legislature.

Glaring Mistake

When we make errors in this paper, we go about it in a big way .

The last glaring mistake was in Friday's edition. The headline and cutline to the picture said the English Coffee Hour would begin at 3 p. m. The Coffee Hour has always begun at 4 p. m. and will always continue to do so.

We are sorry if the mistake caused people to miss the very enjoyable program. Along with our pencils, we'll keep our minds sharpened, too.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .

Spend time in the Amber House Look, quick, Here's better spots To look for a spouse.

—Don Rapp

Sketches

People I Knew

By DICK VICTORY

The boys didn't really sure that the old vacant house on Berry Street was haunted in fact, they even suspected that it wasn't. But later a similar suspicion led them to think that they should go in and see sometime. If there's any spookin in there, we'll find out" was the way Harry Anderson put it that Wednesday afternoon.

Where was the next stop Walt finally quoted the four to others to saree on Friday's bush. "Professor Bullard had been the most popular but since Walt owned the four he had a true, one-car, reluctantly consented to Friday. They would meet at Ted Reilly a at 7.30 and go directly to the house from there.

The boys met on Thursday and talked things over again. Walt was the proud. He had just been taking to Dan Stanton. Dan was almost 18 and a second-string tackle on the high school football team. He impressed Walt.

Dan had encouraged Walt to go to the house Friday. It was one war to find out if you had guts, he said. Later Dan and Walt had parted earth for awhile until Dan had had to an to the phone Walt waited for almost an hour but Dan didn't come back out so he went home.

Walt related Dan's ideas to the other guys but obviously they didn't think much of him.

"He's a phony." H. B. Harmon said.

Harry's mother called about then and he went home for the evening and all in a few moments they all dashed off, one by one, like agents of intrigue in a secret mission, answering the call to the solemn duty of destiny.

Friday night at 7.10 Walt came running up to Ted Reilly's house with his four B-B guns. They were cradled in his arms and full of B-B's and he was H. B coming up the street with his air pockgun over his shoulder.

They talked a bit and Ted mink have heard them from the inside because when they got to the steps to the door they heard the heavy, crude downbeat of a piano. They knew what it meant. Deacon-sared, they turned and walked back down the street and out in case. Walt turned to H. B.

He never has to practice at night, does he?

No." H. B. answered, then he called Ted a name to that Walk didn't think he knew any.

They waited for an hour and a half out in front of Ted's house for the rest of the gang to show up. During that time the phone rang twice and each time they knew they would be a pause in the piano playing and then a little later it would pick up again, bang, bang bang.

Then waited, up sexamet the tree, in front of Ted's house. "It's nobody ever came. At a quarter to nine Ted was still tempo had slowed noticeably.

Ted knew they were out there setting, even. He could see the dark figures moving about out under the tree like two virulants at some annual, outdoor, walking, waiting, waiting.

Finally, Ted went to the door and opened it as lead out. "I'm glad they're not coming." he said "Ha, Ha, Ha." He spoke the words, he did not laugh them.

He heard the metallic sound of a B-B gun cocking and he ducked back inside and ran to his room.

H B smiled. Walt was looking for something to shoot. Find a boulder? H. B said.

"You'd better start now." Walt said as he picked up a thick solid limb about a foot long. "I'm going to throw this."

H. B started running, carrying two of the guns. "I'll meet you at the telephone pole down the street," he said, back over his shoulder.

Walt sudded and edaed to-ward Ted's house. He set so he could see he clearly then he threw the stick at the front window and it crashed. It made a loud knocking noise and fell to the sleps. Walt hardly heard it but The whole was in his ears and they were ringing. He had forgotten all about the haunted house.

Ted's. Mrs. Reilly had come to the door and was looking out. "Yes?" she said. "Yes, who is it?"

Letters To The Flambeau

Norrow-Mindness

To the Editor:

It sure is a shame and disgrace to the University as a whole that we have such touchy, narrow minded columnists on the staff of the Florida Flambeau. In particular, I make reference to the columnist who wrote the article entitled "General Grant, Lead the Way" that appeared in the November 16 issue of The Flambeau. The biased columnist who writes this column known as "The Dissenter" will write any kind of radical trash he can get his unbearable sill and by-line in the paper. Why does he always try his level best to criticize and ruin the spirit of everlain traditions and pleasures that students enjoy? Could it be that he cannot participate in any such spirited activities due to his unsociable attitude and unbearable characteristics.

He criticizes the song and yells of "Dixie and Confederate war cries but, the South hasn't had since a bad defeat was reflected as he in our fair territory since the days of the Calgary Baggers. I do not belong to a fraternity but, I recell that he referred to one fraternity on campus as a group that sot red in the face from singing "Dixie," and that their ears waved in the breeze like the tails of General Lee's horses. To me as well as others, it seems like the writer of the Dissenter is only acting like the south end of General Grant's horses that were traveling North.

DUNCAN L. GRAY

A Disservice

To the Editor:

The heated exchange of views between Dr. Dyckman and Mr Broderick in recent editions of the Flambeau has, because of its sensational and personal nature, been a disservice to fraternity members and independents alike.

Mr. Dyckman's attack, although delivered in an unparticular fraternity, is indeed an indictment of all fraternities. Fraternity groups (and fraternity members are a minority of the campus population) are often unpopular. Very active and powerful minorities are almost always unpopular. Fraternities usually find themselves in this position. The reason why an unpopularity engendered by a minority has large powers entirely controllable. The burden of proof is borne with the minority, however, not with the population as a whole. For continued existence a minority must have good public relations.

Good public relations should be aimed at the integration of the minority into the population without losing the individual identity. Differences should be minimized. And more assuredly, the rights of the majority should come first.

Fraternities have been impugned by their rights of the majority. Their ability to procure clever tickets to Campbell stadium before they are made available to non-fraternity members is such an entitlement, and is not calculated to make friends for the fraternities. Likewise, the behavior of the fraternity members at the football game is evidence of a disregard for, or a misunderstanding of good public relations. The banning of flags and bottles at the stadium would go a long way toward correcting this situation.

Mr. Broderick makes the statement that all fraternity members are gentlemen. That is obviously and unfortunately not true. When this day arrives, there will be no need for fraternity men to proclaim it, and there will be nothing to such disfavor for the Dyckman's.

Sincerely yours,
KENT BAYLOR

Whale Day Off

Students and Faculty of Florida State.

Now that the "hectic" weekend has passed and everything is returning to normal I would like to clear up a few points if possible.

First is something that concerns all students and faculty. What is the purpose of Homecoming? My answer; first, to give the alumni a chance to meet their old friends, second, to show off to other schools and prospective students, third for political rallies and fourth to give the students a big week end. Now, who does the showing off by building floats and house decorations? Who gets treated out of their Saturday eating places for three days? The students!! and for what, an afternoon football game and a formal dance (ugh!) Oh, yes, we also get one day off, WHY NOT THE WHOLE DAY OFF? I'm sure the professors don't enjoy lecturing that half day to a group of sleepy eyed, yawning students. I know I have a like going to those classes. And the girls of Kappa Sigma were fun before or after Homecoming shakes the best of us. So my question is, Why don't the academia set more of a "weekend" for their work? It possibly would like to have this so, everyone gets a better as day so all the students may know why.

Second is personal but affects the spirit of the student body. Quite a few students have come up to me stating that I really must have "felt good" at the Furman game. Well I did, but not from the bottle "spirits" like most people think of, as the rest of the Scarlet, White and Green of Kappa Sigma were under the influence of that Seminole spirit, that is supposedly made of.

(Continued on Page 4)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"Oh, men the next play is DX-23—Now, Editor, when you hear me yell "Now" I'll give you the ball, then you're get through to woo wearin' the yellow sweaters and then head for th' posts painted purple and white."

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by the students of Florida State University.

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor — Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Joyce Pelzer
Campus Editor ..... Martin Dyckman
Oscar Johnson
Society Editors ..... Jim Joanin, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ..... Bob Gutting, Alan Whitmarsh, David Moore
Photographer ..... Laird Anderson, Al Robbins

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wixson

Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Telephone 2-8000, extension 6821
211 S. Copp'n Phone 8-6-Hour Service
Member Associated Collegiate Press

Copy Editors ..... Willie Smith
Pat Marmon
Amusement Editor ..... David Dreis
Art Consultant ..... Fred Lamar Adair
Cartoonist ..... Con Hoke
Junior Staff ..... George Goldstein, Jerome Ross, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jeri Bradfield

Mary Liz King, Adv. Mgr.

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17
Florida Flambeau Representative ..... Irma Cox

Reflections

The Lowdown On Long Fingernails

By OSCAR JOHNSON

A ray of morning sunshine slipped between two slats in the venetian blind bedecked off the mirror over the washbasin and entered my right eye, arousing me to habit. I peered at the obscure face of my watch, moved it into the light, and read: 7:29. One more minute of sleep, I thought, sinning in anticipation of the alarm clock's harsh elane.

Then "The Beast" went off, revelling in all its glory as it cracked the stillness, running its gauntlet of grinding bearin's a peak of howling, raucous shrillness. It ended, as the spring ran out, with a demoniacally loud, belligerent half note, which hung in the air like a belch in church.

It was still hanging there when my room-mate, Ed Reed, "Turn it off!" which was his combination of the war-cry of a wild banshee, a Bronx cheer and a history professor's reply to when you tell him you didn't get the assignment—all rolled into one. Ignoring him I reass setting ready for my 8 o'clock class, which was English 672 (Theoretical Applications of Nonexistent Abstractions).

I splashed steaming water on my face and hands, soaped off the lather with a little while shaving with a two-weeks old razor, slapped bottles of Arrid Wick under my arms, and jerked on some clothes. I majored in grabbing my English book, "Dub—dub. English 678", ripping out chapter ten.

About to leave, I dropped a mildewed vitamin tablet into the outstretched palm of "Jeeves," my pet Orangutan, then tripped over the IBM machine cord (I make up my mind in bowling center the room-mate's collection of footshaped spill-stones. Whipping out my Illinois Secret Police Trioler Jim Dandy two-blade-and-a-knife knife—pencil-compass - sardinick - Kleenex-dispenser - overnight - bag - motor-scooter, I got myself loose from the portable coal hopper.

In the three minute sixteen seconds I had to get in class, I had a breakfast of dry doughnuts, a weak mixture of coffee grounds and water and semi-orange juice.

Arriving somewhat late, I managed the first part of the discussion, on why people with long fingernails should not be allowed to eat in the Dining Hall.

A grim girl in blue serge knickers, named Ima Gimli, was reading a report from "A Case History of Long Fingernails: Incriminating Testimony." I didn't read about Abruptly she set down.

Sophomore an the front row sated up and drew a diagram on the board of his intricate plans for a mass clean-up drive, beginning in the southernmost tip of Florida and working north.

"We'll check them all out," he shouted.

"That's no good," said socialober. "What'd pick the fuzz off the chairs?"

I entered the conversation, saying "Why kirk them in? Anyhoe?"

A blonde answered in a singsong voice, "That's a question. Everybody knows we have to cut our nails."

"Yeah," someone joined in. "They got to go. We must stand for them."

"They're different," said a professor in a mello voice. "That's that. But it's not all you'll have to go deeper than that."

They aren't as good as we are—you can tell by their long fingernails."

The Dining Hall isn't ready for them—they'd just cause trouble."

"Why SHOULD we let them in?"

It sat boring then, so I began reading "Jungle Cures" in preparation for my Anthropology class. Eventually the bell rang. I dimly remember thinking of how things were setting into a rut.

The Dissenter

On Exacting Unthinking Obedience

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Julius Caesar, in Shakespeare's play of that name, when he first grows wary of the conspirator Cassius, reveals his fears by remarking: "Yon Cassius has a lean and hungry look. He thinks too much; such men are dangerous."

It has always been necessary for the few and the tyrants to look upon thinking men with such disfavor. For free thought and expression are not compatible with dictatorship and tyranny.

Yet here in the United States of America, a country whose basic charter guarantees the right not only to think but to speak freely, a nation which has fought nearly every one of its wars to shield the battle cry of preserving freedom, we have made it a punishable crime to express thought.

And those who brave the danger are in the minority, for we as a people have lost the initiative of the ability to use our brains for thought and our mouths for transmitting ideas.

We have come to demand of our citizens, and particularly of our scientists, unthinking obedience to their opinion. Our government officials and diplomats can lose their jobs for stating opinions which are in agreement with the popular thoughts at the time they are made but which lose their good odor with the passage of time.

At a public meeting in New England, a schoolboy was absolutely pulverized by a United States Senator for suggesting that Red China be admitted to the United Nations. The boy's patriotism and loyalty to his country and the quarters for uttered thoughts which were and still are unpopular. The Senator wasn't content to stop taking exception with the lad's opinion. He thinks now is the past summer.

John Paten Davies, a career diplomat who was recently for something he said many years ago, under a different administration and at a time when other people were thinking the same thing. If ever there was a case of expost facto action, which is unconstitutional, this is it.

A man and his wife spent 14 hours in jail because the husband remarked that Chiang Kai Chek is on the skids. That made him the pair suspect of Communism.

Nowadays, when something is said that doesn't go over as well its speaker is more than likely labeled a Communist or subversive.

Men whose positions require that they think—scientists—are for some reason singularly suspect. Albert Einstein, perhaps the world's greatest living scientist, has publicly stated that if he had his life to live over again, he would be a plumber — not a scientist. The reason? He would have some freedom to think.

In comparison to Communism, democracy is well in the light of intelligent opinion. But we do not let ourselves make this examination. We exact unthinking obedience.

When we do this, we are destroying ourselves. By refusing to think we think and cure are making sure that we won't have it when we need it.

In all phases of our culture we are subjugating thinking to unthinking. We dont need to cite any particular examples as far as the FSU campus is concerned.

This cult of conformity, unthinking acceptance of ideas and the destruction of democracy—because the right to dissent is the fundamental right of a free people.

Where we permit the extermination of thought and thinkers we commit a crime against humanity—a crime of suicide. In the case of politics, everytime we punish thought or expression "to preserve our way of life" we are destroying that which we profess to love and propagating that which we think we're fighting.

Mad Campaign

Disease Of The Pinball Tiltsters

By BOB GUTTING

Has it ever occurred to anyone that there is a definite disease on this campus affiliated with a rampaging damage that has been wreaking havoc on men from sweet, loveable, red-blooded young American types into ill-tempered, frothing-at-the-mouth villain type?

The thing causing basically wrong with these persons, but they all have the same kind of men. They all play pin-ball machines. These persons are usually figma like, "I'm a pin-ball addict. Well I did, but not from the hottle "sports" like most people think of, as the rest of the Scarlet, White and Green of Kappa Sigma were under the influence of that Seminole spirit, that is supposedly made of.

The outward appearance of these people is that of the casual gambler at Reno or Monte Carlo. They approach the machine and with a flourish and flip of the wrist, insert the rale of the realm for several seconds of leisurely play.

But the moment the coin registers and the machine lights up, a transformation comes over the addict. His eyes dilate, the muscles flatten, he closes his eyes to the merest of slits, and he becomes one with the machine. The machine designed to figuring the odds counting the score, and flipping the flippers. This, then, is the addict, but the types are so numerous that they deserve themselves.

It is the intention of this report to bring to light some of the results of two years of extensive study in the Florida State Union and other high class places which the edge of Tallahassee provides the necessary seclusion.

The most common type is the "I-can-do-it-as-a-joke" type of player. He launches the steel ball on its lifted journey with all the nonchalance that can be mustered from a cup of Mecca coffee, he then heads for the machine on the side, furiously, wiggles it, from side to side, slams it with his hip and then, as a last resort, kicks out the door, and immediately raised a ruckus that would make Dire-Dan-Pin look like a pleasure when he awakens.

He will then storm out of the establishment with a fire in his eyes, literally imbedded in the innards of the hapless machine. He will then yell, "Fire in the Hole!" or "Everything-happens-to-me!" and then, with a deserved trusting the machine so gently as if he were a youth on his first date. Then the first stroke is gently, and piled to the fullness of a harsh and brutal blow. Then the machine is dead. The proprietor of the beanery is in what man might call a fine mess. He will hastily mop and bucket to brush up the enormous pile of broken glass that now lies on the machines.

In one Supreme Court case, Ginsberg vs. Gardebner, 108 Gloterich successfully sued Gardebner for the last piece received when he accidentally slipped in a puddle of beer that had spilled on the floor.

(Continued on Page 4)

Etcetera Etchings

Daring Disc Date Defies Doubters

By DAVID DREIS

In the last five years the record industry has been enjoying its boom and the same has been introduced to more new entertainers than ever before. The smaller companies have come through in between the monopolies which previously were hard to tumble. The major companies have both established and new stars were "ambled" with their respective discs. Out of all this there came an analysis of the most important and the making a record a success, a performer a standard. He was the disc jockey.

In the last issue of The Billboard, a magazine which resembles a newspaper and which reports the goings on in the disc industry, there appeared the results of an inquiry made to all types of deejays. The deejays were making a to their favorite performers, best records of the last 12 months and so on.

The top 20 male vocalists were named in this order: FRANK SINATRA in first spot followed by Perry Como, Eddie Fisher, Nat Cole, Bing Crosby Frankie Laine, Johnny Ray, Tony Bennett, Bob Manning and Billy Eckstein. Columbia records had the top artist and the top record was number five.

The female winners, it was this way: DORIS DAY who moved from second to first, Rosemary Clooney, Kay Starr, Jo Stafford, Patti Page, Dinah Shore, Kitty Kallen was most played female disc-er and Como moved up to male counterpart.

While the above is the results of the deejay favorites, this is the way they thought about the most talented newcomers: Captain's Bob Manning, Female: Betty Madigan. On their favorite small instrumentalists were Dave Brubeck, Jazz: GEORGE SHEARING on piano, Lawrence Welk, Tenor Saxo, Art Damon, Dave Guard on the Fifth and Mary Ford, Dick Hyman trio, Harmonica: Oscar Peterson, Benny Goodman, and Frank Sinatra, Patty Bess.

The FOUR ACES moved up in favorite singing groups with the Four Freshmen, Ames Brothers, Four Brothers, Crew Cuts, Gordon's Four Lads, Four Knights. Hi-Lo's, Modernaires, Mills Brothers. The Mills and Ames brothers were tied for third.

The top ten discs for the past 12 months according to

(Continued on Page 4)

Seminoles Use Ground Attack To Tip Hatters, 47-6

From The Sidelines

By Dave Morris
Sports Staff

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY

FSU terminated its current Stetson grid series with eight vear totals showing State ahead with six wins, one tie, and a tie. It might be adding insult to injury to go back fifty years and claim the overall record with Stetson is 7-1-2.

Back in 1903, when a touchdown was only five points, a forward pass illegal, and five yards was given for a first down, Stetson and Florida State College played to a 5-5 tie. The following season State College downed the Hatters by an 18-6 count.

In 1904 the State College team won wour and lost one while winning a silver cup which signified it was the state champion.

In 1906, the Legislature converted Florida State College into the Florida State College for Women.

EVERYTHING GOES UP

As college basketball fans notice higher scores in the past few games this season it will be because of the revised foul-throw rule.

The new ruling replaces the old one-and-one foul rule as discredited.

Last year, a fouled player would be allowed a second shot if he failed on his first free-shot attempt. If he made the first shot, he was not allowed another chance.

This season, the free-throw shooter will get two opportunities regardless of whether or not he succeeds in the first attempt. Thus the foul-line experts will get the chance to make two points instead of one if he is fouled.

College fives around the nation will naturally be using more practice time in working on the free throw.

The new ruling should be pleasing to Florida State's Jerry Oler, an All-Florida junior guard. Oler's charity shot percentage last year was better than three for four as he dropped in 140 points from the fifteen foot line.

The Seminole hoopters open the toughest season in short history December 4, when they meet Alabama State Teachers College in the West Campus Gym.

Speaking of scores, the football Seminoles have almost reached their second highest season point total despite three shutouts. They now have a total of 225 markers. In 1949, when the Tribe played in ten games including the Cigar Bowl, they rolled up 291 points.

CINKSTERS WIN

Several Florida State golfers played in the recent Veterans Day Tournament at Bainbridge, Georgia.

Bobby Dunn, a freshman from Camilla, Georgia, won over a course and tourney record breaking 27-hole total of nine-eight under par. Jack Vekhte, a sophomore letterman from Gloversville, N. Y., took third place after losing in a playoff for second place.

Dunn is a former All-Southern Junior and Georgia State high school champion. Vegthe went to the quarter finals in the Canadian Amateur Championship this past summer.

COMPARITIVE SCORES INTERESTING

Football fans in the Tampa Bay area are beginning to wonder how good the Tampa Spartans actually are. Except for an early season rain-drenched loss to a strong Stetson eleven, one of only two road games, the Spartans have rolled over their other seven foes with comparative ease. Stetson, who Tampa beat 64-9, is the only foe FSU and the Spartans have in common.

Villanova and Auburn continue to make the Seminoles look good. The Wildcats, who lost to State by 39 points, have since been defeated by Kentucky, 28-3, Mississippi Southern, 27-0, and Vanderbilt, 34-19. The Plainsmen have swept the Indians in good company by downing Tulane 20-0, Miami 14-13, Georgia 35-0, and Clemson 27-4.

LOST—One red billfold, by Barbara Wilkerson, 218 Rogers Hall or box 237. Please return ID card and other valuable papers. Urgent.

ROOMS—Linen, maid service. Reasonable. Call Phone 3-0476, 547 West College.

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES

FLORIDA

TODAY
"Man With A Million"
Gregory Peck
WEDNESDAY THRU SAT.
"Brigadoon"
In CinemaScope
Gene Kelly
Van Johnson
Cyd Charyisse

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR

TODAY & TOMORROW
"The Paratrooper"
Alec Guinness
Adrian Hoven
THURS. THRU SAT.
"Riding Shotgun"
Randolph Scott
plus
"Roogies Bump"

STATE

TODAY
"Reap The Wild Winds"
John Wayne
Susan Hayward
WEDNESDAY THRU TUES.
"White Christmas"
Bing Crosby
Danny Kaye

TODAY & TOMORROW
"Dangerous When Wet"
Esther Williams
THURS. THRU SAT.
"Cripple Creek"
Georgia Montgomery
also
"The Clown"
Red Skelton

GYM STARS—Shown above are FSU's NCAA and NAAU gymnastic champions team. Right to left, they are: J. P. Griffin, Benny Wallace, Al Buda, Jim Fulgam, Dick Ireland, Dr. Hartley Price, Don Heider, Jim Tanaka, Bob Murray, Tom MacDonald, Rafael Lecuona.

'Pass-Happy' Seminole Eleven Comeback By Setting Many Aerial Records

To say that Florida State University's surprising young football team is a bit pass-happy would be the understatement of the 1954 football season.

Losers only to rejuvenated Auburn in games previous to the Stetson game, Coach Tom Nugent's comeback kids are keeping the Seminole sports publicity office working overtime with adding machines and record books these days.

All because the Seminoles have strengthened a 1935 passing attack often pooh-poohed by writers big on the old session's most versatile and prolific aerial arsenal, one that has rolled up 1,454 yards and 16 touchdowns in eight games.

Last season, a half-dozen FSU passers could do no better than 52 completions on 185 attempts for a feeble completion percentage of 28. This year, with three games to go, four Seminole quarterbacks have already connected on a whopping total of 87 passes out of 174 tries—exactly 50 percent.

In the process, the four flingers have wiped out 14 old school passing records and replaced them with gaudy new marks. Every time the pigskin leaves a Seminoles' fingertips it's a new school record, regardless of whether anyone catches it.

The Seminoles had their brightest day against Furman two weeks ago connecting on 18 of 33 tosses in a 33-14 homecoming rout against the Southern Conference team.

Senior signal - caller Harry Massey enjoyed the greatest day of his career, hitting his first six of 12 passing in 18 of 11 in the first half. Massey now has 32 of 58 for 482 yards, a fat 55.2 percentage, and five TD's.

The feats of sophomore quarterback Len Swantic and freshman Vic Prinzi are almost as impressive. Swahlic came out of gray obscurity to complete 18 of 17 passes for 226 yards and three touchdowns in a 52-13 thrashing of Villanova. Swantic has 28 completions of 55 attempts (455) yards, four touchdowns) for 51 per cent.

Prinzi, a fifth-string quarterback in September, got off the bench and passed for three long touchdowns as FSU wrecked VMI, 33-19, two weeks ago. The stunt gained Prinzi nation-wide publicity and honorable mention as the Associated Press' "Back of the Week."

Prinzi, a Waverly, N. Y., product, has hit 11 of 31 passes (35 per cent) for 352 yards, an average of 32 yards a completion. Four of his 11 strikes have gone for six-pointers.

Only Seminole passer below the 50 per cent mark in completions is freshman Ted Rodrigue, who has a creditable 15 of 28 record, including one touchdown heave.

No one knows for sure why Seminole success in passing has skyrocketed. A handful of excellent receivers—Tom Feamster, Lee Corso, Billy Graham, Jimmy Lee Taylor, Ronnie Schomburger, and Bill Odom—is one answer.

It could be that the world's greatest passers, Otto Graham, Sammy Baugh, Bobby Layne, Harry Gilmer, and Bobby Thomason, left something behind after staging FSU's first annual coaches' clinic here last June.

Name of the Clinic? "Passing Fancy."

That could be the name of FSU's 1954 season, too.

Indians Eye Possible Sun Bowl Chance

Must Beat Southern, Tampa In Remaining Games Of Season

Florida State University kept its hopes for a post-season bowl bid alive Saturday night in Deland when the Tribe met and turned back Stetson, 47-6, with a fierce running game.

Rumor has it that if the Seminoles can get past Mississippi Southern this coming Saturday and Tampa in the season's finale they stand a good chance of earning a shot at the Sun Bowl, in El Paso, Texas.

The Seminole offense ran up 400 yards against the Hatters, who were obviously outmanned. Of this total yardage, 226 came on the ground.

In last week's contest with Furman, FSU passed 32 times in gaining a 33-14 victory. In the clash with Stetson the Tribe threw just 16 times. Seven were complete.

On defense, the Tribe was tight with yardage. The Hatters total offensive efforts could muster up only 145 yards.

Al Makowicki, senior tackle and FSU's All-American hopeful, carried a heavy load all night and kept the middle of the line clogged effectively.

Jerry Jacobs, a junior guard, took part in a gridiron oddity when he intercepted a pass and ran for the score from 20 yards out.

FSU drove to a touchdown the first time it got the ball in the first period, Tom Feamster scored the six-pointer, his fifth of the year, on a pass from Harry Massey.

The Massey-Feamster combo set up the second score on a 21-yard toss that carried the ball to the eight. Lee Corso, a scoring demon of late, shanked off right tackle for the score.

After being held to just one touchdown in the second quarter, the Indians exploded in the second half for 26 points.

The Hatters finally managed a score against the reserves, in the final moments of the game.

However, the night's highpoint probably came during the Hatter score.

After FSU had returned the ball to its 32 sophomore halfback Buck Mettis took a handoff and broke off the right side of the line, weaving his way 78 yards for the score.

In all, seven Seminoles shared in the scoring. One of the touchdowns came when Billy Odom, a transfer from this same Stetson team, dashed 29 yards on a punt return in the second quarter.

FSU scoring totals for the season show the Seminoles have racked up 225 points to 125 for the opposition. State has scored 123 points in its last three games.

Florida State	14	7	13	13—47
Stetson	0	0	0	6—6

Florida State scoring: Touchdowns, Feamster, Corso, Odom, Prinzi, Leonhardt, Mettis. Conversions, Graham, Massey, Trado. Feamster, Leonhardt.

Stetson scoring: Touchdown, Stephenson.

BUCK METTS — Sophomore halfback Buck Metts shocked the crowd at the game against Stetson Saturday night in Deland when he ran 78 yards for a touchdown on the last play.

23 Juniors Awarded New AFROTC Ranks

Twenty-three Air Force ROTC juniors have received temporary positions and rank, according to Capt. Thomas W Deering, commandant of cadets.

The cadets, by rank, are:

FIRST SERGEANTS: Jay P. Perkins, Bob Crenshaw, Harry I. Brandigoen, Paul D. Grumelar.

SERGEANT MAJOR: Lamar C. Mayfield, OPERATIONS NCO; John L. Combs, SUPPLY NCO; Charles E. Mann.

TECHNICAL SERGEANTS: William L. Johnson, Gayden Stader, Donald E. Smith, Eugene A. Turano, Russell L. Johnson, William Plumb, Clyde Moore, Jimmy Joanes, Robert C. Stuke, Oswald T. Geiger, Jr., Lemar Clowers, Jr., Raymond T. Baker, Clarence B. Jacks, Thomas F. Woods, John E. Lindgren and Kenneth W. Nelson.

Activity Urged

(Continued from Page 1)

Students and faculty members from the University of Florida, Ocala, Florida State, Tallahassee-Cookman, and FSU attended the meeting.

Those attending from FSU included Dr. Marian Irish, Miss Daisy Parker and Dr. Elston Ready from the FSU political science department.

Students were Pete Nimkoff, Bob Polson, Dave Kennedy, Warren Cole, Norman Smith, Jack Eberhart, Beverly Dupercourt, Also Dick Wagner and Richard Crittenden.

SWIMMERS NEEDED ON 1954 TEAM

The Florida State University swimming team is looking for more swimmers.

Coach N. R. Studia said that although there are several excellent swimmers on the team, including All American Ernie Stock, more are needed to complete the team. Some openings for at least a dozen new swimmers this year, he said.

He urged that all swimmers, especially freshmen and sophomores, who are interested in joining the FSU swimming team contact Coach Ben Studia at the women's gymnasium any afternoon from 4 to 6. Previous experience in swimming is NOT required, he concluded.

Choral Union

(Continued from Page 1)

classical music school of Haydn and Mozart, which was carried forward into the opening of the "Romantic" period. Schubert composed symphonies, sonatas, string quartets, seven masses and solos, for which he is most famous.

The "Mass in G Major" is a musical setting of the Catholic Mass. Its parts are: (1) Kyrie-Lord have mercy, (2) Gloria in excelsis deo-Glory be to God on high. (3) Credo—I believe. (4) Sanctus—Holy, Holy. (5) Benedictus—Benedictus. (6) Agnus Dei—Lamb of God.

The position of accompanist for the evening will be held by Dolores Cosio, and the organist for the performance will be Doris Shoenberger.

There will be no admission charge for the concert.

Cagers Hold Torrid Drills; Wernke Hot

Seminoles Open Slate In Two Weeks Against Alabama State Squad

If pre-season point sprees can be used as a measuring stick, Florida State's basketball team might break several Seminole scoring records this season.

With more than two weeks left before their season's debut here against Alabama State Teachers, the sharp-shooting Seminoles have already wove the nets this with their consistent shooting.

Last season's team established a new school scoring mark with an average of more than 75 points for 30 games. Six lettermen, four of them starters, are back from the 1953 squad.

Leading the point barrage in practice recently are Stan Wernke and Jimmy Orr. FSU's All-Florida guards from Indiana, who mesh more than 700 points between them last winter.

Orr, the best free-throw shooter ever to wear Seminole suits, has been sensational on occasion since practice opened Nov. 1, Orr is only a hazer.

FSU tackles its toughest schedule this year, playing Duke, Mississippi State, Miami, Loyola, Georgia, and Florida in the opening round of the Sugar Bowl tournament at Jacksonville Dec. 27.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE SPEAKS HERE TODAY

Florida Supreme Court Justice Elwyn Thomas will discuss "The Work of the Missouri Judicial Council" today at 7:30 p.m. in Longmire Small Lounge.

The address, sponsorship for Public Administration, Florida State University chapter, has invited interested students to attend.

Thomas is also Chairman of the State Judicial Council.

Placement Office

(Continued from Page 1)

he chosen from the representatives to answer questions posed by the audience. Each panel member will also be asked to give his point of view on what action should be taken this senior should take for entering career fields.

Representatives of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, and Rushing and Sells, Certified Public Accountants, Jacksonville, Florida.

Also Mr. C. W. Meagor, and Mr. Philip Hudson, respectively, will be here.

Other companies invited to attend the seminar include Central Soya, Fostoria, Continental Can, Proctor and Gamble, the J. C. Penny Company, and Madamoiselle Magazine.

Student suggestions for topics of panel discussions on questions they would like to have answered are welcomed by the Office of Placement and Counsel. A blank form is available for this purpose on page 4 of this issue of The Florida Flambeau.

Expert Shoe Repairs
PALACE SHOE SHOP
established 1916
across from Supreme Court Post Office
121 PARK AVE.

BOX OFFICE OPENS 12 NOON — SHOW STARTS 12:30 — FEATURES AT 12:40-2:50-5:00-7:10-9:20

STATE

Starts Tomorrow

SHOWS 7 DAYS THRU TUES.

"DEAR YOUR BEDSIDE REPEAT OF SHOW" "LOVE, YOU WON'T GO THRU IT AS" "THERE'S" "THE BEST BINGO EVER!" "WHAT YOU'RE SHOWING" "THE OLD WAY" "WHAT CAN YOU DO WITH A CHEVY" "WAS I EVER" "I WAS BACK IN THE BOX" "CHORECHORE" "SHOW" "SAW SHOW" "AGAIN!" "WHITE CHRISTMAS"

I'm dream-ing of a White Christmas

IRVING BERLIN'S

PRESENTED THROUGH VISTAVISION MOTION PICTURE ... HIGH-FIDELITY

Your fondest White Christmas dreams are coming true as Bing and Danny team for the first time, singing and dancing with Rosemary and Vera-Ellen, to yet across those nostalgic new Berlin tunes. And you'll never forget Bing's soul-warming singing of "White Christmas"!

Color by TECHNICOLOR

BING CROSBY • DANNY KAYE • ROSEMARY CLOONEY • VERA-ELLEN with DEAN JAGGER • Songs and Music by IRVING BERLIN • Produced by ROBERT EMMETT DOLAN • Directed by MICHAEL CURTIZ

Dances and Musical Numbers Staged by Robert Alton • Written for the screen by NORMAN KRASNA, NORMAN PANAMA and MELVIN FRANK • A Paramount Picture

ADMISSIONS: ADULTS 'TIL 3 P. M.—50c AFTER 3 P. M.—73c CHILDREN AT ALL TIMES—14c

(Continued from Page 2)

posed to be shown at football games and other school functions. I hate to think that any one who cheers at a football game has the label of "drunkard" on them. I wasn't drunk at the Homecoming game or any other game this year. I just like to yell! PSU ALL THE TIME.

RUSSELL W. JOHNSON

Urbanites

To the Editor:

It sure was refreshing to find someone else who believes that we urbanites are more enlightened than our rural brethren.

I have always maintained that our most progressive communities were Memphis, Jersey City, New York and Boston to name a few. No praise is too great for our cultivated cousins of these cities for keeping us poore- Ole Confeds. Hazers, Tammanys and Curleys. All shining examples of good and benevolent leaders who advocated clean and progressive government.

Mayor Curley, fine old gentleman that he was, not only away for a short time on trumped up charges and perjured testimony of some of the unenlightened, but we of the enlightened returned him to power. It continually amazes me how our rural areas continue to elect their representatives, the likes of George and Russell. Can't understand their continuing faith in these are unenlightened.

On the international scene we have outstanding examples, formerly of old Uncle Joe and now Chairman Mao. The zealot of course that there our greatest power comes from the masses of the enlightened urban societies. We have had quite a bit of trouble of late with those rube farmers down in the Straits, but 15 or 20 years of intensive enlightening education in the uranium mines of the Urals ought to correct this.

Yours for more enlightenment, as I remain unenlightened.

OTTO R. HOUGH, JR.

A Grad Speaks

To The Editor:

As a Sourdexter, a Kappa Alpha, and a loyal son of PSU I protest Mr. Martin Dyckman's ludicrous indictment of our fraternity manners and customs. The appearance of such a column in the Flambeau is a worthy tribute to the asinine proclivities of the press our paper has ever maintained. Dough I doubt that the exposure of a self-conscious sense of inferiority is truly news.

If I ever met a Sourdexter, my first impression would be to tell Mr. Dyckman to address himself forthwith to the place from whence he came or perhaps to some other clime considerably more tempid than ours. Since I am a Sourdexter it must be worth while to explain what all the shouting your columnist disliked so much is about. The South, first of all, has no desire to rehash the War. We proudly declare the mush-mounded antics of certain movie stars who've never been south of Brooklyn, since Hollywood often depicts a South that never was. Apparently Mr. Dyckman hails from the land of the Blatting horn and the uneven parmark, where man's constant inhumanity to man is on daily display. He is quite right that he will never be called a Rebel if he goes to New York from my experience he will be fortunate if he gets called something worse "hey, yous!"

But really, Mr. Dyckman—if I may address you directly the KA's and all the other Southerners aren't mad at you or any one else. We are unbruised and sins Dixie because we like it. Often, we are spoofing ourselves a bit. We take ourselves less seriously than our neighbors do, and we spoof them, too.

We do, of course take quite seriously some of our cherished traditions. We are Southerners! remember proudly was the gallantry and honor shown by our forefathers in fighting a lost cause, understand and understanded as they were. It is outrageous to be nasty. I would point out that the number of Yankees our forefathers slew was something awful.

The world has long recognized the quality of man produced by the South. Winston Churchill has recently stated that Lee and Jackson were two of America's greatest men. Oh I'm not forgetting that U. S. Grant was famous too—probably for the amount of whisky he drank. It was then that the Ole Miss whoop shadow Kappa Alpha was founded, who showed the world that courage and gentleness are compatible. We seek to preserve the courtesy and civility embodied in the Old South, despite the seeming superiority of a few blatant braggerts from other parts.

Mr. Dyckman's attitude worries me, for it is the attitude which has brought so much grief to the world today, the inability to view the customs of others with a friendly condescension, looking down people's flaws. I note the editor's tongue in cheek and peering at their spirited attempts to honor the traditions and traditions of the past is identical to the tactics employed by certain Russian bureaucrats of late in the world today.

No, Mr. Dyckman, neither our colors nor the things they stand for will ever be struck for they are indelibly engraved where no mockery can touch them—in our hearts.

DAL ALBRITTON,
Class of '56

Gentlemanly Words

To The Editor:

I would like to Jim Broderick's letter in Carpetbagger Dyckman's offensive deration of part of the Greek letter institutions—a few mild, gentlemanly words.

I'm a Southerner. I like to rise to "Dixie" and I like to watch the KA jalopies—for what, I sometimes suspect, are their children as well as sentimental reasons. It is natural that the Southern states would remember the Antebellum era—when the civilization and culture of the South was at a zenith never again equaled by any part of the nation including us. I'm afraid, and that they should remember that year gracious days with fierce pride and dignity. AND General Lee was a true gentleman. Without gentlemen life could do well to emulate.

Well, the venerable and tattered charge that the South "never got over the War" is another one again is an obvious falsity. We have of course old family memories of the vanquished with their noses rubbed in the pain of Reconstruction. This in itself is sufficient reason for a strong fraternal solidarity, in perpetuation of brilliant bygone days. In short, the Southerner feels about Bull Run and Appamattox in much the same way that a New Englander feels about "the shot [that] was heard around the world."

I don't know either Broderick or Carpetbagger Dyckman. It is, on the basis of such scant evidence, a rather broad statement, however, to assert that Dyckman would not be acceptable to any fraternity. Having good friends and even better enemies both inside, and outside, of fraternities on more than one campus, I would cautiously assert it is entirely plausible that Dyckman is fraternity material. I have seen those who have shared my views on both sides of the fence that divides the gentlemen, presumably, from the non-gentlemen.

Which brings me to the second point. If Broderick, even in the best of righteous anger, has the temerity to assert that fraternities have only gentlemen in their ranks (and, by inference to say that the great majority of the student population—any, even the population at large—somehow are denied an equivalent right to profess to the same distinction), in a very mild-mannered way, would cautiously suggest that it could be that

1) Reader Broderick makes a statement of such remarkably callous bluntly that surely no true gentleman would admit paternity to it in public, or else perhaps

2) Reader Broderick is sadly unnuttered in the ways of the world. For men, it would seem, have a tendency to distrust those [members] naturally from wood to bad—whether their community is the narrow one of a fraternity house, or, for instance, the larger one of the whole college population.

I would further suggest middle that Broderick might take care that, in the ardent defense of the institutions of his choice, he does not inadvertently create in the minds of "outsiders" the false impression that fraternity man as colossally irascible simply snobbish, and intolerably conceited. There are many fraternity men—true gentlemen, I'm sure—who take pleasure of knowing—who, must indeed correct that their brothers have been misled by such elastically childish outbursts. There are many other true gentlemen—not fraternity men—who would also deplore the charge.

I also venture to suggest, middle that Broderick use extreme discretion between the fraternity man and the non-fraternity man in the matter of money. In all other respects, they [sic] are very close and in extremes But with a few notable exceptions, by and large, fraternities are those which can afford them—or more likely, whose parents can afford reader Broderick could possibly agree that there is little inherent correlation between cash and character. But, if for "breeding," you read "pocketbook" practically anything makes sense.

Surely reader Broderick does not speak for the great mass of tolerant men who belong to fraternities. If so then surely I can speak in somewhat similar vein. Surely I am a few of the thousands of other young men on this campus, who either through choice or (like myself) are financially incapable of more—are possible prejudice like myself, to the simple, plain independence that myself are "non-entities" by Gentleman Broderick's definition, rather than fraternity "gentlemen," is likely by definition.

Be that as it may But as a Southern gentleman, both born and bred, and a member of no fraternity badge to certify it, I take this occasion to deplore any slanderous, narrow minded conceit that spawns the absurd assumption that a fraternity pin is the automatic threshold to gentlemanly virtue —and the inference that being a non-fraternity man somehow confines you to the social proletariat...per se —with overtones of eating with the fingers and belching at the table.

I submit that there is a middle ground the gentleman who takes pride in his own individualism, and seeks his friends among other gentlemen at large.

Mr. Broderick, I am a mild-mannered man. So I hate to speak the certainty of my mind. I agree with you in part: Writer Dyckman's column was both petit and pernicious. But yours is worse: it is petty, obnoxious, and snobbish. I suggest that you read your letter again, and be ashamed of it.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE F. DREW

When you pause ... make it count ... have a Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Tallahassee
"Coke" is a registered trade mark. © 1953, The Coca-Cola Company

Letters To The Flambeau

TOY SOLDIERS—These pretty Toy Soldiers will march down the aisles of the annual Gymkana production, "Leyland Capers" starting November 29. They are, left to right in the first row, Sydney Kurz, Irene Rodriquez, Vivian James, Joanna Cadenhead, Claudette Carley and Joyce Vasquez. In the back row, l. to r. are Nancy Harn, Carolyn Davis, Marlene Lane, Pat Moseley, Fran Hamelin, Shirley Willis, Gail Moody, Joanna Braswell, Lisa Ann Cole and Eileen Wertz. Gerry Latnar is seated in the chair.

New Episcopal Chaplain Takes Over Ruge Hall Head Position

The Rev. Harcourt E. Waller, Jr., arrived on campus yesterday to take over the position of chaplain of the Episcopal Student Center at Florida State University. Ruge Hall - 653 W. Jefferson St.

Born in Augusta, Georgia, he received his basic education in the Augusta school system and graduated from the Richmond Academy in 1939. There he was active in basketball, golf, and in school publications.

He entered Princeton University in Princeton, New Jersey, where he participated in basketball, swimming, and won his letter, of further graduate study in theology. He was ordained Deacon in April, 1948, and Priest in November, 1948.

In August, 1949, Rev. Waller took charge of the missionary work at the Episcopal Church in Southeast Georgia, centered at St. John's Church, Brunswick, Georgia. He has served as chairman of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education, member of the Executive Council, Youth Advisor, and Deputy to the General Convention from the Diocese of Georgia.

Rev. Waller is married to the former Kathryn Johnson of Savannah, Georgia. They have two sons, Harcourt III and Charles Carpenter. The family will reside at 653 W. Jefferson St temporarily.

Rev. Harcourt E. Waller Jr.

Norwegian College Announces Classes For Summer Session

The University of Oslo Summer School, Oslo, Norway, has made announcement of its ninth session to be held July 2 through August 13, 1955.

Registrar said that courses will be offered in the fields of humanities and social studies, the education system of Norway, graduate seminars in Norwegian education, literature and social and political problems.

Six semester hour credits may be earned in the six weeks course and the session is approved by the U. S. Veterans Administration for veterans under Public Law 346 and Public Law 550, officials said.

Catalogue of courses, preliminary application material and other information may be secured from Oslo Summer School Administrative Office St. College Norfield, Minn.

Sixth Annual Job-Getting Seminar
December 1 and 2

Listed below is the question I would most like to hear at the panel discussion:

[blank]

Example: Does a company place more emphasis on grades than on personal characteristics of the applicant.

(This blank may be turned in at the office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, Room 203 Westcott.)

Dr. Richard Gross To Attend Social Studies Conference

Richard E. Gross, associate professor of education, will participate in the 34th annual meeting of the National Council for the Social Studies in Indianapolis Thursday through Saturday of this week.

Fifteen hundred teachers will meet at that time according to the National Education Association, which announced Dr. Gross' interesting participation, to evaluate the effectiveness of social education in the nation's schools.

The Association said that Dr. Gross will serve as chairman of a section meeting at which council members will discuss current developments in the social studies curriculum in the elementary and secondary schools.

A department of the NEA, its department social studies council deals with many problems of the social studies curriculum "to meet the needs of present day society and to improve citizenship training."

Daring Dice

(Continued from Page 2)

jocks are Young At Heart (Sinatra), Little Things Mean A Lot (Kallen), Secret Love (Day), Hey There; (Clooney; Oh, My Papa (Fiorito), Wanted (Como), Rags and the Misfits Bacon), Make Love To Me (Stafford), Stranger In Paradise (Como), and Hold My Hand (Cornell), Kitty Kallen's and Doris Day's discs were tied for second. Runners were favorites, mind you.

Other top records were: Wanted (Como), Little Things Mean A Lot (Kallen), Make Love To Me (Stafford), So-Rong (Crew Cuts), Young At Heart (Sinatra), Secret Love (Day), Cross Over the Bridge (Pasa), I Get So Lonely (Knights), Three Coins In the Fountain (Ace) and Hey There (Clooney), Novice race was arrangement of The High and the Mighty rated here although dee[ays] rated Doris Day's favorite.

Artie Shaw's Stardust ranked as the most underrated disc while Glenn Miller's Moonlight Serenade and In the Mood followed close behind. Artie Shaw received fifth. Four renditions of Stardust were on the list: Artie Shaw's—one; Glenn Miller's [nine], Hoagy Crosley's [seven] and Ray Anthony with number twenty-eight.

SURFACE NOISE: New York's late-night video competition features Steve Allen on "Tonight," Jack Paar as host for the Dumont and comedian Jerry Lester on NBC. The former recently got a full-length movie on CBS . . . sponsors are frustrated . . . Dave Allbeck is the latest to join the film cameras for a weekly stint.

. . . Les Elgart ranked number one in swing category . . . Decca records no longer making Thrum of Albums but are asked to do so for White Christmas. Previously this was just one company going for LP or EP . . . Bill Gladstein and Denise Dazeel a romance. HAPPY THANKSGIVING.

Tiltster Disease

(Continued from Page 2)

blinker's Beanery. Gerblinker as you will recall, could never after stand the sight of a baseball machine.

He later zoomed in the Carrie Nation campaign against slogs, being put in the exalted position of Chief pub-ball-and-pinbuster-upper, a position he enjoyed until one fateful day in late 1946. It was then that he dashed into an establishment known as the Oasis and slipped on a puddle of tears shed by—he guessed it—Glutnetch.

He cracked his noggin and passed sadly (for him) away soon after, cursing Sam Maskarita and the day he invented the pinball machine.

A third species of player we will discuss here is commonly known as the "Old Bird Brain" or "Absent-minded" type. And he does this type of player as through all the problems of the fire are type, but he can also be observed picking the machine up while he has a ball in play and trying to push it through the wall. This can be very disheartens as you will recall with the case of Hepatiglitis vs. Goopy, vhasiwick, 1881. Goopy (as all the boys called him) had the misfortune of playing a pin-ball machine against the like and of a high built, low class place. In the course of an evening—one evening, old Goopy, having an house owner type, pecked up a machine and slammed against the wall, which collapsed.

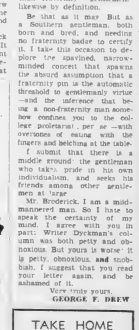
This in itself may be considered a major catastrophe but the machine landed on the head of Hepatiglitis, who was minding peace outside in a convertible surrey. Goopy may have apologized like a gentleman, but it required of the code in those days, but there was a silent hitch to the story.

Hepatiglitis, the fat guy, was parked with Goopy's wife. This raised the ire of old Goopy, who, after all, was the housewaving type, and who therefore proceeded to rent the fat old [illegible] a horse and tie it around Hepatiglitis's George, however, wiggled, and all Goopy accomplished was the tying of the tail around his head.

George then went screaming down the street, wearing the first recorded pony tail hair do.

The outcome of this story is that Goopy's wife, a gal by the name of Lou, left him and went to the Yukon, where she is well remembered to this day.

George (the ally dog), became famous 30 years later as the creator of the peoriial hackie and now lives in retirement in Hollywood. Goopy, however, never quite was the same and ended up his years with the Tri Kay police force, where he served on the vice squad destroying illegal pin-ball machines.



URA PROGRAM

The University Recreation Association has planned a program of [illegible], tennis as an [illegible] swimming that evening.

[illegible]flood will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will continue for a choice of tennis or fencing to follow at 7:30. Tennis enthusiasts are asked to meet on the courts at 7:30 p.m.

NOW! A filter cigarette real smokers can enjoy!

FINER FILTER!
FINER FLAVOR!
KING SIZE, TOO!

Winston tastes good—like a cigarette should!

■ Winston brings flavor back to filter smoking—full, rich, tobacco flavor! No wonder college smokers are flocking to Winston—on campuses across the country! Along with real flavor—the kind you've been missing in filter smokes—Winston brings you a finer filter. This exclusive Winston filter is unique, different, truly superior! It works so effectively, yet doesn't "thin" the taste or flatten the flavor. Winstons are king-size, too, for extra filtering action—and easy-drawing for extra good taste. Try a pack of Winstons!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO. Winston-Salem, N. C.

TAKE HOME SOMETHING FOR THANKSGIVING

MALONE'S BOOK STORE

SWEATSHIRTS & T-SHIRTS
STATIONERY SUNDRIES SUPPLIES

107 S. Copeland

ALCOHOLIC TONICS DRYING OUT YOUR SCALP? ? GET NON-ALCOHOLIC WILDROOT CREAM-OIL, CHARLIE

Results of Debate Ballot Given See Page 1

The Florida Flambeau

FSU Set For Bowl Game See Below

VOL. XL, NO. 18 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1954

FSU Plays Texas Western In Sun Bowl January 1

Elections Bill Still Pending; Revote Ahead

Senate Hears Bills On Representation, Finances, Bowl Trip

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

A proposal to provide for class elections in the event of vacated seats in Student Senate is still pending before that body, following its meeting Wednesday.

Vice president Gordon Gaster's whole summit to the voters a constitutional amendment to provide a system instead of appointment when Student Body President Tallahassee lack of the required two-thirds majority, 13 yes, 10 no, but Gaster's amendment to the constitution was passed. He then moved to put the issue on the table until next meeting and was supported with the argument that senators could better be able to discuss the amendments on the question.

Gaster also introduced a resolution asking that the Senate Elections and Appointments Committee study the idea of having Senatorial representation from residence halls instead of by class. Committee chairman Jim Moore, who presided over Wednesday's Senate meeting as Senate president pro tem, told THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU that a hearing will be held Monday afternoon at 3 in the senate chamber.

Senator Ken Gaitlin introduced a bill which would create the office of student finance czar. The measure was referred to the organizations and finance committee for study.

NO NOTE: The bill will be printed in THE Florida Flambeau.)

After hearing Mr. Fred Vogel, counsellor for student organizations, speak on FSU's bid to the Sun Bowl, Senate resolved to ask the Council of Deans that classes not begin until January 5 after Christmas holidays, in order that students might attend the Sun Bowl in El Paso and have time to get back to Tallahassee.

It was pointed out that the first day of January 3 would, in that case, probably have to be made up also in the year. It is expected that January 4, Inauguration Day, will be made be a holiday.

Favorable administrative response to two measures passed earlier in the year by Senate was heard. See story elsewhere in paper for details.)

Gaster's proposed constitutional amendment received support at the Monday hour long meeting. The elections and appointments committee reported to a favorable majority report signed by chairman Moore and Senators Jo Ann Hall and Ken Mendell. Members Bill Stancil and Nancy Vaughn turned in a one man minority report. Stancil said the majority's side:

In support of Gaster's measure, Moore argued that the system of the Student Body President filling replacements in student body is "out of date and smacks of the time of political parties." He referred to an earlier committee in which a full quorum of seven senate is still vacant, following failure of Nominations Committee through lack of two-thirds approval.

Moore argued that the bill "provides for students to voice their opinion." Closing his report in an favorable attack against he asserted that to vote against the bill would be "taking power away from the students and making the president a dictator."

As Moore's forcefulness was unusual, so was the presentation of

(Continued On Page 4)

Murray Won't Get Re-appointment To Open Senate Seat

President Pete Nimkoff will not be Toronto Democratic candidate for the senate seat in junior women's class. He did not say who will be nominated in her place.

The chief executive told the Florida Flambeau Wednesday the Student Party caucus of Senators decided that to disregard the Senator's recommendation of the appointment of a two-thirds majority vote of the leadership.

Nimkoff's appointment of Miss Murray to the senate will be followed by Mary Louise Dee touched off a storm of controversy in the Senate. After recessing for the appointment, Senate announced that the President call a special meeting session of the Johnny Class. Nimkoff refused to do so, acting on the opinion of Atty. Gen. Dave Kennedy, that such a vote would be unconstitutional.

Vice-President Gordon Gaster's constitutional amendment which would provide for such elections to fill such Senate vacancies is a result of that earlier controversy.

Student Vote Split On Debate; Bloom Views American Scene

Majority Says Not To Recognize Red Chino Government

A group of Florida State University students voted four to one against admitting Communist China to a seat in the United Nations.

The vote followed debate over the issue by Derek Bloom, of Oxford University, and Elizabeth Flory, FSU graduate student. The ballot was taken among approximately 250 students, who also were asked to give their opinion following a debate on the dangers of the welfare state.

Both debates were held Wednesday morning in Longmire Auditorium. Oxford's Peter Tapsell and Peter Nimkoff, FSU student body president, upheld the Negative and Affirmative respectively on the second debate. "Is Liberty Threatened by the Welfare State?"

Kaiser Shaa have a panel to judge the winning sides, officials conducted polls to determine student opinions on the questions. The Negative side of the question "Should Communist China be Given a Seat in the United Nations?" was argued by FSU.

(Continued On Page 4)

He Elaborates On American Women, McCarthy, Chino

By MARYLIZ KING

Derek Bloom, of Oxford University, found American women are "aware they're different from boys" at an earlier age than British women.

-At least that's what he said when interviewed by The Florida Flambeau after appearing on the Florida State University campus." during a debate Wednesday.

Undaunted by the fact that Bloom and his fellow debater Peter Tapsell were scheduled to leave Tallahassee by plane immediately following the debate, the reporter boarded the airplane with the two Englishmen from Oxford while flying home for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Questioned on his discussion of American women, Bloom said that they are -a.) Great; (b.) Have personality; (c.) Show themselves to the best, and (d.) Are more sophisticated than English girls.

Switching to other topics of national importance, Bloom said that Senator Joe McCarthy (R-Wis.) is the best known American

(Continued On Page 4)

Stickers Must Be Displayed On Windshield

Dec. 16 Deadline Set; Survey Shows Lack Of Compliance

All cars on campus will be required to display Florida State University stickers by Dec. 16.

This announcement was made yesterday by a student traffic committee which met to review how well the university is getting along in enforcing its parking and traffic violations.

The committee was formed by Dean of Students Ralph R. Oglesby after a survey of cars on campus showed that only 18 per cent of them had stickers.

Purpose of the stickers, said the committee, is to provide a means of "quick identification" of all cars involved in parking or traffic violations on the FSU campus. The committee noted that stickers have been received for all cars for some time, but that the rule has not been enforced.

Dr. Don Farquarson, assistant to the business manager and spokesman for the committee, said that a campaign to have FSU stickers on all cars belonging to students, faculty and administration is already begun. Cooperating in this campaign are fraternities and sororities. Chi Omega, Alpha Phi Omega, Gold Key, the University Senate and Student Traffic Court.

Plans call for a campaign either December 13 and 14 when all cars entering the FSU campus through the five gates will be stopped and given stickers, or stickers will be admitted. Jane Wardlaw, Traffic Court Chairman, said that those without FSU stickers will be allowed to register their cars at the gates. After December 16, if a car without a sticker is parked on campus, it will be subject to fine.

Assistant Business Manager Farquarson urged yesterday that students, faculty and administration register their cars at his office immediately before the rush the deadline so as to eliminate the difficulty experienced at a gate. Office hours are open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on weekdays.

To register, a student or university employee fills out a card showing name, address, license number of car and his university classification. No cost is involved. He receives a sticker which he must place on his car window.

Any fraternity, school that all dormitories, fraternities and sororities will be approached by representatives from 11 and 14 as a last call for registration.

FORMAL WEAR ASKED

The Social Standards committee this week requested fraternities and faculty to limit formal attire at the Artist Series performances to dinner clothes.

This year since the series will be held on campus, it was asked that men wear either dinner jackets, tuxedoes or dark suits, and women, evening or ballerina length dresses.

Mother-Daughter Set Appears At English Coffee Hour Today

A Florida mother-and-daughter writer-illustrator team will appear on today's English Coffee Hour "Meet the Author" series at 4 p.m. in the Westminster House.

Mrs. Anne Smith Rhyne, the author, and her daughter, Mrs. Janiles Rhyne Middlebrooks, the illustrator, represent a family of creative artists who have lived in Marianna for five generations. Mrs. Caroline Lee Hanna, novel, grandmother of Mrs. Middlebrooks, settled in Marianna before the Civil War and became a well-known novelist of the period.

Mrs. Rhyne, whose topic will be "Thirty Years of Writing in Florida," has had poetry, short stories, and children's articles; a song and even a pageant to her credit. The Youngest Shepherd," published over a period of 30 years. Her verse has appeared in eight anthologies, a number of Florida newspapers and numerous national magazines. Her last published prose was a travel article in the June issue of the "Travel Magazine."

Mrs. Middlebrooks, who will illustrate Mrs. Rhyne's topic, is known for her different forms of illustrating and how it differs from other forms of art. Graduate from Florida State College for Women in 1935 and in her home town, Marianne, which has become Florida State University, working in the Alumni office. Special attire at the Artist Series performances is optional.

(Continued On Page 4)

FSU Student Said Unlikely To Be Back

Glenn E. McDonald, FSU freshman who aroused statewide interest by disappearing for several days late last week, hasn't decided whether he will return to school, the Florida Flambeau learned yesterday.

"He hasn't decided yet," said his father, Dr. Angus McDonald, of Pensacola, when questioned over long - distance telephone. Mrs. McDonald said that Dr. McDonald, who gave his reason for running away as a fear of failing his studies here, does decide to return to FSU, "it probably would be this semester."

She added that the 17 year old Pensacolan may see a job for the remainder of the semester.

McDonald dropped out of sight Saturday after stopping at a service station in Dade City, Florida stations. His car was found that night on a Tampa trash dump, abandoned and bullet marked.

As his father prepared Tuesday night to circulate pamphlets offering $7,500 for the boy's safe return, McDonald turned up in Fort Myers.

(Continued On Page 4)

Ballet Theatre Tickets Sold Out Both Nights

AT THE DANCE—Shown above are members of Ballet Theatre who will perform in "Les Sylphides," to be presented Tuesday night in Westcott Auditorium.

Tickets are sold out for the Ballet Theatre performances in Westcott Auditorium Tuesday and Tuesday nights in Westcott Auditorium, said Mrs. Ruth Vernon of Publix Attractions.

The Artist Series event, which will inaugurate the opening of the new Westcott Auditorium, will be special for another reason also—the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the Ballet Theatre, said Mrs. Vernon.

Under the direction of Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith, the Ballet Theatre will present two different programs, starring Nora Kaye, Tonakevitch, Nora Kaye, and Kriza. Featured Monday the magic, the prince falls to the ground dead.

"Til Eulenspiegel" concerns a mischievous rogue, also known as Til the Knave or Til the Imposter. Falling in love with a young girl, his advances are rejected. Out of a vengement, he turns her into a witch and dusts her lover.

Continuing in his misdeeds, Til Eulenspiegel then dresses up as a bunchback and joins the annual pilgrimage of the sick. It is a bunchback that wins a bunch; has been healed, he is paid by his former victims to leave town. Later, however, and spirits the Queen to insure their own recovery. Til

(Continued On Page 4)

Court Justice Elwyn Thomas Speaks Here

"Cheaper, more expeditious, more sure administration of justice is the aim of the Florida Judicial Council," according to Supreme Court Justice Elwyn Thomas, guest speaker at Tuesday's meeting of the American Society for Public Administration in the Longmire Building.

Justice Thomas cited numerous cases of overlapping jurisdiction in the administration of justice in Florida. He also pointed out that many cases that could be decided locally must be heard in Tallahassee, involving needless expense.

The Florida Judicial Council, of which Justice Thomas is chairman, is an examination composed of nine laymembers and eight law members whose purpose is to study the management and administration in Florida for the purpose of making needed improvements. The council works perennially and gives annual reports of its findings.

The council's report reveals that last year 1,173 cases were appealed to the Supreme Court, 41% of which were from Dade county alone. Thomas pointed out that the cases from this one county alone numbered more than the total cases appealed to any one other State Supreme Court. According to Justice Thomas many of these cases could be settled in an intermediate court but under the present plan they have to be heard in Tallahassee.

When asked about a proposed reduction of the number of Supreme Court Justices in Florida from seven to five, Justice Thomas replied, "Trunk line dynamite." He made no further comment.

Justice Thomas, one in a series of leading public administrators who have been guest speakers this month at the regular meetings of the American Society for Public Administration, was introduced to the audience by Dr. Wilson K. Doyle, Dean of the School of Public Administration.

A meeting of the members of the society has been scheduled for 4:00 p.m. Monday, December 6, in Room 133, History building.

'Slip' Recipients Urged To Contact Their Counselors

Students receiving notices of unsatisfactory grades at this mid-semester period are asked to make appointments with Educational Counselors for purposes of conference and planning for a warning notice, said Dr. Melvene D. Hardee, Coordinator of Counseling. "Unsatisfactory," she said, "students have been invited to conferences scheduled between November 30 and December 17th, have been notified that they have problems pinned for improving the work and that help is available is placed upon time budgeting, study skills, moderation of work load and other rehabilitation tending to interfere with academic performance, etc."

Students who do not know the name of their Educational Counselor are asked to come to 301 Westcott Building, Office of Coordinator of Counseling, to get this information, or to call Extension 5231-5231, for this help. All undergraduate students are currently assigned to an Educational Counselor who will be available for counseling this period. Nov. 30 to Dec. 17th.

Singers Give Christmas Concert Of British Carols Tonight, 8:15

Heralding the Christmas season, the University Singers will present a program of British choral music at 8:15 p. m. tonight in the Opperman Music Hall.

"There are at least four compositions this program of 16th-century British school," commented Dr. Wiley Housewright, director. "Three other numbers have words from fifteenth and sixteenth century music." The closing number, 'Fantasia on Christmas Carols' by R. Vaughn Williams, with soloist James Ralston, is the first departure by English composers from the Victorian carols. It is the first attempt to revive some of the medieval carols of English heritage," Housewright stated.

Some members of the University Symphony Orchestra will assist the chorus with instrumental accompaniments, David Ward-Steinman is the piano accompanist.

"Hosanna to the Sea of David" by Orlando Gibbons will open the program. Gibbons was the last of the Tudor school of musicians. Maria Thomas is the soloist in the lullaby, "Bahlow" by Peter Warlock. Another opening number is "The Little Road to Bethlehem" by Michael Head.

"Oh a Rose I Sing a Song," by Ronald Kirk features the mixed 16-voice chorus and Mary Reeder, harp. Three Scottish folksongs and James Yevington, countertenor. This carol is an allegory representing the Virgin Mary as a rose-tree from which spring the legendes of the Gospel story as if these events were branches of the tree.

The second portion of the concert consists of a pastoral group of carols from Ralph Vaughn Williams's Progress," and belongs among the works which Vaughn Williams wrote in the early twenties. "Shepherds of the Delectable Mountains" will feature soloist Lee Liming, Forrest McGuire, Rush Watkins, Edwin Cargill, Malcolm Brown and Sandra Darling.

The concluding group of songs is the "Fantasia on Christmas Carols." It is based on the familiar traditional English carols: "The Truth Sent from Above" Herefordshire; "Come All Ye Worthy Gentlemen" Somerset; "On a Winter's Night" Sussex; and "There Is A Fountain" Herefordshire).

Faculty Okays Finance Rules And Changes

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs has accepted a Student Senate revision of the finance laws which allows campus organizations to keep one half instead of only one third of what they raise through projects.

Dean Katherine Warren, chairman of the committee, made this known in a letter to Senator Ben Bethell which was read at Wednesday's meeting.

Business manager Rod Shaw replied to a Senate resolution asking development and enlargement of parking space on campus. He noted that plans are being made to make the area behind Reynolds Hall into a parking lot, and that the parking area by the musicians building will be expanded.

Shaw said that although there will be some spillage from areas adjacent to the classroom buildings, no new construction between West Call and West Tennessee streets, the Cawthon Parking lot is also under consideration for expansion.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

The Reservation will be open for registration only during December, January and February, Bus schedule on week days will be the same as Saturday and Sunday.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR TAMPA GAME

Student tickets for the Florida State University-University of Tampa football game Saturday are on sale at the Athletic Ticket Office in the Student Center.

Gymkana Showing Continues; Queen To Be Crowned Tonight

By PAT MARSTON

The annual Gymkana production will continue tonight and tomorrow night in the Women's Gymnasium. Beginning at 8:00 p. m. the FSU gymnasts delivered an evening of tumbling, balancing, acrobatics, jugaling and magic.

Centered around the theme of "Toyland Capers," the gymnastic performers show the form that has won them high ratings in championships in the last four years.

Even the moment that Santa's helpers and elves, that is the Gymkana Club members and the Tallahassee Tumbling Tots, open the program, to the accompaniment of rhythmic tumbling and vaulting, the evening will be worth the fifty cents admission fee for students.

Miss Mylie Gymkana, contestants represent Nursery Rhymes and Al Ralls Wall as The Snow Queen. Miss Wall, last year's Miss Gymkana, will crown her successor tonight with the help of Pete Nimkoff, student body president.

The work on the parallel bars, high bar, trampoline, flying rings, still rings, trampolette and side horse done by the Gymkana performers is superb praise. These performers hold over one by tred individual championships between them and their work certainly shows it.

The Tallahassee Tumbling Tots show by their performance that a great deal of work has been done by them. They know their routines and seem to enjoy performing immensely. The Toy Soldiers are particularly good, as are the Dancing Dolls who do an acrobatic dance.

Frances Bailey Stokes myrtle-fies the crowd with her magic tricks. Goldfish appear out of nowhere and show evins to their bowl; grapejuice becomes water and then turns back into juice and Miss Bailey loses one of her set.

Don Rapp and Jim Padiman keep the crowd going with their juggling tricks. These draw applause from the crowd and audience as do Bob Gutting and his pal "Max."

Perhaps the only complaint that could be made is that there are too many things going on at once so that the audience misses something. Also, the group numbers and the solos are well tied in with the theme and there are no gang vails in between acts.

"Toyland Capers" furnishes the students with an unusual and amusing evening's entertainment. The show is a credit to the hard work put into it by director Dr Hardy Price and the whole cast and crew.

Team Decides Unanimously Tuesday Night

Bid Marks Second Time FSU Tangles On New Year's Day

By JIMMY JOANOS

The courageous Florida State University Seminoles football team will meet the undefeated Texas Western Miners in the 1955 Sun Bowl game to be played in El Paso, Texas, January 1.

The decision received their invitation aberally after Texas Western had been extended one last Tuesday. Final decision to accept the bid was made by the FSU football squad on a unanimous vote Tuesday night at approximately 10 o'clock.

The New Year's event will mark the second time that a Florida State football team participated in a post-season bowl game. It is the third year that Seminole football fans have received such bids.

On January 1, 1950, FSU defeated Wofford in the Cigar Bowl, 19-4. The following season after the Bowl bid was declined as undefeated season, bids to the Cigar Bowl, the Raisin Bowl, and the Tangerine Bowl were received but turned down.

Prior to the extension of the Sun Bowl bid, many state and Tallahassee officials sent telegrams and made numerous phone calls to the Sun Bowl selection committee urging the football team to select FSU for the event.

Among those responding to the effort were Acting Gov. Charley E. Johns and Gov.-Elect LeRoy Collins. Both sent telegrams, letters and calls had on the selection is unknown. It is evident, however, that the record of the FSU squad this year warrants the participation in the event.

With one remaining game against the University of Tampa to be played tomorrow, the Seminoles now boast a won 7, lost 2 record. Texas Western, also having completed its season also holds a won 7, lost 2 record.

Coached by Jim Carslisle Head coach of Louisville (47-6), Vilanova (49-13), and North Carolina State (13-7), VMI (32-13), Parma (33-14), Stetson (47-6), and Maryland (19-0), the Texas Western Pioneers were to Georgia (16-6), Abilene Christian (13-0), and to Hardin-Simmons.

The Texas Western gridders were defeated from Texas State (6-0), Hardin-Simmons (20-7), Arizona (41-21), Rice (25-14), Mississippi State (13-12), and New Mexico A&M (13-7). The Miners have defeated Arizona State at Tempe (34-21), Texas Tech (55-20), and Pacific (20-0).

Texas Western University is located in El Paso, the site of the Sun Bowl. This will be the first time that the school has participated in the bowl game. The game's first game in 1936.

Texas Western defeated Missouri Mines in the first game of the Sun Bowl 37-13. The New Year's Day encounter in El Paso will be the first time that a Florida college has participated in the Sun Bowl Game since the state.

Local spirit about FSU's bid to the Sun Bowl has been surprisingly high. Word has it that Senator Tallahassee citizens are already looking into the possibility of chartering a special train or busses for the trip to El Paso.

General Education Exemption Exams To Be Given Soon

Exemption Examinations for General Education Courses will be given in Room 208 Education from 4:00 to 6:00 p. m. on the following days: Tuesday, December 7, 1954 and Wednesday, December 8, 1954.

A student may take at most TWO examinations. Recommendations cards for the Exemption Tests may be obtained from the Test Bureau Room 208 Education, or the Office of Dormitory Counseling, Room 301 Westcott. This card must be signed by a Counselor, Dean of Men, Dean of Women, Head, and turned in to the Test Service Bureau by noon, Wednesday, December 1, 1954.

Courses in which exemption examinations are given are: Communities 101, 102, 103; Physical Science 101, 102; Social Science 101, 102; Biological Science 101, 102; History 101, 102 and Personal Development 105, 106.

DANCE SLATED BY FLORIDA HALL

Florida Hall will hold its Christmas dance tonight from 8:30 to 11:30 in the recreation room.

There will be special entertainment and refreshments for the residents and their dates, said chairman Wanda Hudson. Dance is informal.

Sematics Or Statesmanship?

"Since logically there must be coexistence, we should learn to accept the word even if the Communists use it. Most Washington officials, the New York Times reporter stated, 'do not like the phrase peaceful coexistence because, they say, Moscow has corrupted it by using it insincerely and misleadingly.' Some of us have already abandoned the word 'democracies' and the thing itself, because the Communists insist on using it. Could anything be more childishly self-defeating? Is semantics or statesmanship to guide our foreign policy?"

—D. F. Fleming in The Nation.

Judge And Jury

Lake County's Sherriff Willis McCall, who is no stranger in the news, has again brought notoriety to himself and his county.

For over a month five children living near Mt. Dora have been unable to attend the white school in that town. They have found the neighboring Apopka school closed to them. The reason? Sheriff McCall suspects that they have Negro blood; he does not like the shape of the nose of a 13-year-old girl.

It matters not that one of the children in question is almost blond. It is of no importance that their birth certificates identify them as "white." Their parents' marriage license further proves this. A letter from their former school superintendent substantiates the foregoing. What does count is that Sheriff McCall doesn't like their looks, and in Lake County, according to a school official, Sheriff McCall is the law.

This country used to pride itself on being a "nation of laws, not men."

The sheriff says he is merely upholding the state constitution, which forbids education of Negroes and whites in the same school.

There is no need to here debate the issue of segregation, although the paper believes to be as Un-American and evil as any policy engendered by Communism or Fascism. The Supreme Court has settled the merits, or lack of them, of educational segregation.

What amazes us is the presumption with which Sheriff McCall can set himself up as an arbitrary judge of race and disallow all the evidence presented to him.

The family, the father of which is employed as a fruit-picker, admits an Indian background. This is evident in pictures of the group. They show that the characteristics of mediterranean peoples. Anthropologists will tell us that many anthropological features are common to all of many races.

Dr. Hale Smith, of the FSU Department of Anthropology and Archaeology, when shown a picture of the family involved, said they could easily be Caucasians. (Whites).

"When you get a hybridization,' he said, referring to the Indian blood, "it's awfully hard to tell."

He commented that only an expert anthropologist could be sure of his decision in such a case. Sheriff Willis McCall, whose personal history betrays apelling ignorance [illegible] Negroes, could hardly be called an expert or unbiased judge.

An FBI investigation into the possibility that the family's civil rights have been violated has been ordered. In our opinion, any time any peace officer acts in as arbitrary and capricious a manner as Sheriff McCall has acted, civil rights are violated.

If the shade of a persons skin and its physical characteristics which on occasion may resemble features of other races are to be added to the other qualifications requirements for justice and humanity, then it seems likely that willful public officials can in the future keep any child from school by literally refusing to shake the shape of his face.

A Serious Problem

Should communism [illegible] be admitted to the United Nations? Lyle Wenthis, a small group of FSU students, placed themselves beside President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles, Ambassador to the UN Henry Cabot Lodge, Senator Knowland, and many of the major spokesmen of both political parties. They said no.

This group of students, numbering approximately 250, attended the debate between Oxford and Florida State University, heard both sides argue the issue, and then by a four to 1 ratio, voted against admittance.

We hope theirs was not the usual American custom of following the flock.

The vote was significant and interesting.

It largely foretold the feelings of the entire student body toward this particular issue. In a poll such as this it usually happens that a small segment reflects a majority opinion. It is entirely plausible that if the student body were polled now, the results would stick close to the same ratio.

At the same time, it should be recognized that the gauging of student opinion after a debate such as this one is limiting in itself, for personalities most assuredly enter the picture.

It was specified before the debate began that the student should vote on his convictions after hearing both sides of the discussion, and not on the merits of the debate.

The debate should have only added to the student's knowledge. It should not have been a determining factor. But was it?

We are slightly puzzled at just how well students are acquainted with this problem. It is highly controversial. And it is an issue that every student should vitally concern himself with.

It is also a complex problem, comprising many issues, which requires a great deal of rationalization. How many students are actually giving this problem thorough and serious consideration and study is what we would like to know.

"Elections"

The municipal elections being held in Spain on these 10 Sundays before Sunday are not to be taken seriously as elections. They are in no sense an expression of popular sentiment or choice, any more than an election behind the Iron Curtain would be. In this respect both left and right extremes of totalitarianism are alike. The theory is that the Government—Communist, Nazi, Fascist, Peronist, Falangist or whatever it may be—is the only legitimate expression of the popular will and hence is "democratic."

An effort was made in Madrid, although apparently not outside the capital, to put up candidates not independent of mandates last Sunday, but there was no way of overcoming Government supervision or the apathy of the people, which has been so general for the past seven or more years.

The Falangist Party is the only political party in Spain, but unlike the Fascist party in Italy under Mussolini, for instance, no change party or organization does not dominate the Government. The real power of the Falange lies in two fields—its domination of the trade union leadership and its control of virtually all civil service and professional jobs. It is unpopular that one might safely make a generalization that it is despised. However, so long as it controls this vast "spoils system" and has General Franco as Prime Minister behind it, the Falange is a power to be reckoned with. Its camaraderie, we must keep in mind, are not elected in our sense of the word.

—From The New York Times.

A Growing Up

The Boy Scouts of America have grown up. Or maybe do their adults.

Milton Mayer in The Progressive has this to say about the movement:

The Boy Scouts of America, Monterey Bay Area (Calif.) Council, Inc., has distributed an appeal for financial contributions. It reads: The objective of the Boy Scouts of America is to train youth in democracy, for human freedom, for free enterprise. For us to fail would be to invite the Communists to do the job. Do you want that to happen in America?

"When I was a Boy Scout of America, the objective of the Boy Scouts was to train youth to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, cleanly, and reverent."

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Jay Robertson, News Editor — Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Feature Editor Joyce Potter
Campus Editors Martin Dykman, Dan Johnson, Bob Gurney
Sports Editors Jim Joanos, Doc Vickery
Sports Writers Bob Gurney, Bill Worthy, David Mosby
Photographer Land Anderson, Al Pinkston

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Business Staff Marie Wilson
Distribution Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Telephone 2-8000 extension 6521
211 Langdon Hall

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Copy Editors Wesley Gaskin, Pat Hamilton, Dave Dykman
Amusement Editor Frank D. Adams
Art Consultant Carl Hertz
Junior Staff George Colebrook, Jerome Bornstein, Mary Ann Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jeni Bradfield

Mary Liz King, Adv. Mgr.

National Representative, National Advertising Service 4-0 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Tallahassee, Florida.
Subscription rate $3.00 per year.

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Letters To The Flambeau

Foot-Dragging

To the Editor:

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch is up to its old trick of ignoring the verdict of 32 - See the Flambeau of Nov. 23 -

Admiral Strauss is a delegate of President Eisenhower with the mission of implementing his policies in the Atomic Energy Commission. He is encountering the foot-dragging of Truthatics, who are the opposition of Democrat-passed laws.

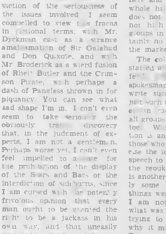
Even these men at last tacitly admitted the wisdom of the Dixon-Yates contract.

Certainly the Dixon-Yates holding was not competitive. Was TVA competitive? To meet socialism head-on, free enterprise must band together at the outset.

As for Mr. Clapp, the President has decided not to reappoint him. If people don't like that they must set a new President.

Mr. Hughes is no more partisan than Mr. Gaston recognized years ago in Mr. Clapp for his reasons one.

Now the Post-Dispatch says that this IS a compromise.



VAN G. PETERSON

Problems

To The Editor:

I have a personal problem, with whom you might be able to help me.

I am a native-born Southerner complete with a full complement of slave-owning ancestors, mountain family cherished by all that sort of stuff, my problem is this: I seem utterly unable to approach the question of the sanctity or virtuousness of the traditions and manners of the Old South from a properly serious-minded perspective. That seeks emotional shadowings of mine is perhaps the direct result of the frivolousness of my reactions to the feuds which harass interfaith and interracial behavior between the persons of Mr. Presidents and the proponents of Mr. Brotherly. In spite of my intellectual conviction of the verisimilitude of the issues involved I seem compelled to see this fracas in fictional terms, with Mr. Dykeman cast as a strange combination of Sir Galahad and Don Quixote, and with Mr. Brotherly as a weird fusion of Rhett Butler and the Crimson Pirate, with perhaps a touch of Faulkner's gloomy complacency. You can see what shape I'm in. I don't even seem to be taking this seriously enough to discovery that, in the [illegible] aspects, I am not a gentleman. Perhaps some see, I don't even feel impelled to admit to the prohibition of the display of the Stars and Bars, or the interdiction of subjects, since I am cursed with the potency of freedom of speech. Or, every man ought to be granted the right to be a Jackass in his own way, and that unusually handsome group notables in the end no less efficient a was than confused individual disciples.

But what do you think? What should I do? Should I apply for post-graduate studies? Found a National Association for the Advancement of People? Or simply sneak out and get routine drunk? Because of the shameful personal nature of my problem, I should like to ask that my letter not be published if you should care to address me publicly.

Very cordially yours,
NAME WITHHELD
Ed Note: You really have a problem!

Red China

To The Editor:

There are times when try-ing to be objective and fair to everyone can be disconcerting, and at times there is no doubt in the mind of the reporter as to which opinion of democracy can send this individual over the edge.

There is no question but that for all practical purposes a nation has established enmity upon warfare with another nation, and that nation is engaging an advantageous position. So why be in favor of admitting Red China to the UN?

ORCHID ALONSO

Representative Speaks

To the student body:

I cannot refrainee from personal like unto after all the storm and confusion it was over, though the storm I thought it unnecessary for me to add to the confusion. It does seem necessary though, that some spokesman of all the fraternities on the campus be heard.

First and I think most important, no one on this campus has any hard feelings and, man, is suffering under the illusion this all the sentiments on this campus are for fraternities. Likewise no one assumes that actions and deeds are not of only a segment. I do hope and therefore believe that the men who become the fraternities here and elsewhere are on the whole intelligent men. This does not imply that there are not non high calibre men in all groups, but on the whole, etc.

Next, this implies to me a spokesman of a free press to write signed an article. It is my understanding that in our institution publishing is the keep a student activity fund. Whether he used discretion. Let's answer question. And those who have not been, exercise the identical right of free speech to rebuke him. Whether the rebuke was in good taste is another story also. Certainly some rather inappropriate things were said out of anger. I am not trying to condone what was said but rather I am trying to shed some light on why it might have been said. Previous attempts seem to have

(Continued on page 4)

The Point Is

Liberal Voting Is Slight On Campus

By BOB FOLSOM

Russell Kirk, in his new book, "A Program for Conservatives" says the rising generation is certainly not "liberal." That to me as a disturbing thought.

He is a keen interpreter of the American scene, and first gained wide recognizes for his initial book, "The Conservative Mind." Both books are blasts at the complacent contempt as Mr. Raymond English of Kenyon College points out and should be required as text.

Mr. Kirk's disturbing statement can be applied to the recent vote taken among students attending the Osiecki-Fol debate over the problems of Communist China recognition and "is Liberty threatened by the welfare state?"

FSU students voted not to admit Communist China to the UN, and by a slight margin said Liberty isn't threatened by the welfare state.

The reaction of students to the two issues was far from a liberal stand. And this is even even in the light of the majority that went with the welfare state proponents. The absolute way the audience was [illegible] Debate Coach Bloom alienated the feelings of some of his audience with his remarks. These remarks, barbs, were actually only proper debate procedure, but some of the audience didn't seem to think so. His "You can lead a girl to college but you can't make her think" is so true in many cases.

The student was requested to react his convictions rather than on what he thought the merits of the debaters. The comparative total balloting along with a comparison of each debater's stand, shows this was not followed accordingly. It probably wasn't, even to a half degree.

Student Body President Nimhoff with his native sincerity couldn't give the student body no blue on any other lead alternative but to give credit to the tenacity and "drag it out" debating ability of Osiecki, but, substantially, and one of the best of it.

This shows the comparatively small number that hold to "liberal" views or define certain issues of these times "liberals" would have voted right down the line. The vote disclosed this wasn't so. It also showed the power of the debaters stimulate opinion.

There were of course some who voted their convictions, but they were considerably outnumbered.

While it naturally cannot be assumed that every student wants the label of "liberal" it is refreshing to see those who are willing to see the federal government has defects, and that these ways are not always to be the best path to take, regardless of the nursing one receives in school.

The Dissenter

Controversy Arises Over Elections

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The Student Body, as is his habit, [illegible] Wednesday's meeting of the Student Senate, and in so doing, missed one of the most interesting sessions to be held this year.

The Senators spent a long time discussing vice-president Gaston's proposed constitutional amendment. The people of the Senators were in favor of his plan to fill vacant Senate seats by class elections instead of presidential appointments, there weren't enough for the two-thirds majority that is required before a constitutional amendment can pass the Senate.

It took only a majority vote, however, to have it reconsider the defeat, and Gaston really pressed for a [illegible] He then moved to table the issue until the next meeting.

Between now and the next meeting, Wednesday afternoon, many of the Senators will be sounding out popular opinion on his amendment. If enough of them agree, it must be ratified by a vote of the Student Body. It is a measure of great passage by both the people and their elected representatives.

The main point is correct. As things stand now, the President of the Student Body names people to fill vacant Senate seats when vacancies occur. Since the offices fillet are elective ones, the president's choices must be confirmed by the Senate. Gaston's amendment would leave it up to a vote of the class of the vacancy to delegation the vacancy occurs. Any class that is elected temporarily to intern would be replaced during their absences by the students in opposition.

The most obvious merit of the Gaston plan is that it would provide for a popular vote in the case of a vacancy. This is democracy in its purest form.

The strongest argument tha a Senator is elected to represent the student is that the President is given the trust of the students and that the two-thirds requirement more or less guarantees that the executive's choices will be good ones.

No matter how honest the president now how conscientious the Senate, a popular vote is always to be preferred.

Etcetera Etchings

You Too, Can Have A New Name

By DAVID DREIS

Last summer I met an interesting man by the name of Bovie Stars. That's not his only job, he told me. He also names horses and other animals for a living—as well-paid [illegible]

"Listen, Kid" he said, jutting his index finger in my direction, "my specialty is bad so strange. My studio [illegible] anonymous beer-swilling men who come in naming people and movies and it's up to me to think up a name. I'm a name."

"Look at Bernie Schwartz I say Cousin Bernie, but I'm a name. Look Budean all are much better with a new names."

I was told about Helen Kofoed (Terry Moore), Piper Laurie (Rosetta Jacobs) and Archibald Leach (Cary Grant), but I applied with Humphrey Bogart. "Now there's a name for you a chance to get a name and real glamour in that?" This was, of course, sarcasm. He had an answer. "What's wrong with Bogart's name is great An achievement in name-calling It displays ruggedness and—well it's great."

If you want to take my name, says this boy, what would you like to do to decode on a good name in exchange?

"Well, I'd have to look at you. Your name is okay, but it doesn't truly reflect your personality. David Dreis was the [illegible] when you were a baby—but now . . . ." I felt confused. Had my personality come under a change since I was a mere youth. Was there [illegible] would it be wise to change my name again? I waited for him to continue.

"Let me take a look at you." He gauged and moved his head to try and [illegible] the kill creations "Well—your first name doesn't fit you at all. Dave Seymour might be a fine name or Ernacio That was different but it would be the equality "Lance." he said, "yes, Lance Dreis has a certain ring. You'd concentrate on your last name It will have to be two-syllable because your first is one syllable" This seemed to have some significance to him like a new [illegible] Marilyn Monroe has no more should be young." Not, Dibbs Ego, I thought for at that time they were still married. Bambi Lynn Dreis is a possibility "Baker," says he. "Yes, Lake Baker fits your personality That's it. Use it and you'll go places " After that, I decided to start to look for those discs.

A Better Measure

Right Is Denied To Hear Artists

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

Several weeks ago a concert featuring contralto Marian Anderson was held at Florida A&M University. Arrangements which would have permitted FSU students to see the performance were negligently disregarded, although certain faculty members did attend.

Tickets were available to the general public, which may have entitled a few Florida State University students to be permitted to hear Miss Anderson, but which in itself is a shameful ending. This was due to a ruling by the Board of Control which states that students and faculty are not permitted on the A&M campus at any time, although there is no regulation against men attending certain events out there.

It seems a shame that students on this campus as well as on the A&M campus should be denied the privilege and the right to hear such artists because of racial regulations which reflect the opposite point of view of a majority of the student body, do not agree with the Board of Control's decision on segregation.

Foresight would be shown if a joint committee of both schools were to meet and make arrangements concerning such affairs. Were unpleasant occurrences such as happened last year would not be repeated.

It wouldn't be a bad idea if all racial discrimination in this state were dropped.

Last year when A&M students voted to see the performance of the Florida State University Band Concert in Opperman Hall they were asked to give up their seats and leave. But due to intervention by several students they were allowed to sit in a side-entrance off stage.

When questioned about it Dean Reinsetter of the School of Music said that according to Board of Control ruling students of A&M University may not come to the campus unless special arrangements have been made. As far as he knew, no Opposition Wednesday was largely a party issue, with Student Party chairman Jimmy Johnson, Secretary Sue Vaughn, Margaret Ann Bellinger, Bill Stancil, and Carolyn Horne forming the Student Party core of the "No" faction.

Gaston's proposed Senate Travel, Student Party, voted for the amendment, as did the Student Party people of the other Student Party senators and two of the five freshmen present.

In opposing the measure, Student Party leaders Bill Gallin were protecting the power of Pete Nimkoff, who holds the right of chief appointee at this time. They seem not to realize that such a constitutional provision would be as much a check on a State Party president as it would be on a Students Party president.

It matters not whether the president's decision would be invariably the same one. To assume so is not democratic. The election is the insurance that the best person, according always be elected, but the right of franchise is protected and extended.

Seminoles Face Spartans, Eyeing Texas

Seminole Spotlight

By Jimmy Joanos
SPORTS EDITOR

Florida State football team is composed of seven or eight men have meant a lot to the success of this season. In addition to their efforts in the games, they have provided general all round good leadership. Here's a look at what Coach Tom Nugent thinks of these seniors:

TACKLE AL MAKOWIECKI, Monaca, Pa.—"Should be an all-state, unanimously. He is the best tackle I have ever coached."

QUARTERBACK HARRY MASSEY, Canton, Miss.—"The conscientious effort and study. Massey has become an outstanding passer. He has made himself the best all-round quarterbacks in the South. He always been a good ball-handler, an intelligent player, but until recently has had a weakness as a passer. One example of his desire developed this year when he found ourselves without a punter. Harry devoted a great phase of the game and became one of our leading punters. A remarkable young man."

HALFBACK BILLY GRAHAM, Bogalusa, La.—"Graham is one of the most reliable men I have ever coached. He is steady and loyal every minute. Although he is not a big ground gainer, his greatest asset is his defensive ability."

END JIMMY LEE TAYLOR, Jacksonville—"Jimmy is a fine competitor, the quickest man on the squad with the best feet. At times, he is spectacular on defense and on the end of a pass."

FULLBACK RONNIE KING, Daytona Beach—"King's play has always been great. As a runner and a smashing ball player, he is outstanding. He has had difficulty adjusting to the defensive phase of football and if he can adjust system were still with us he would, in my opinion, be our leading ground gainer. I wish that we had another year or two of eligibility."

END ROBERT GRENN, BACK CARL GRENN, Brookhaven, Miss.—"They have the attitude on the field that coaches constantly seek. They are the factors and sound fundamental football players, a brilliant runner and Robert a hard-tackling player."

Don Powell

Joe Holt

Cagers Launch Opener Against Jax Teachers Tomorrow Night

By ALAN WHITMARSH

With advance billings placing them in the favorites role in the newly formed Florida Intercollegiate Conference, the Florida State Seminoles open their basketball season tomorrow night against Jacksonville, (A) a State Teachers College in the West Campus Gym.

After that, they tackle Mercer College Monday night, then play three more home games before tangling with the University of Florida in the opening round of the Gator Bowl tourney Dec. 27.

Coach Bud Kennedy has four starters and six lettermen all together returning from a team which won 13 of 29 games last year, and established a sturdy 6-2 mark against state foes.

Leading the parade of returning cagers are Ham Weekes and Jimmy Orr, a pair of all-state guards who scored more than 700 points between them last season.

In addition, forward Dick Arutmeier (6-1), centers Buck Berry (6-7) and Gary Weld (6-6) and guard Tommy Burst are returning. Because he is expected to have his best scoring season here this year.

The Seminoles tackle their toughest schedule this year, including among their games, two meetings with Georgia and Mississippi State and single contests with Loyola of New Orleans, North Carolina State and Duke University.

Miami, Stetson, Rollins, Tampa, and Florida Southern are the other teams in the Florida Intercollegiate Conference, but the Seminoles bested all of these teams last year, and coaches around the state have tabbed them the team to beat in the new loop.

The University has announced that special buses will run to the West Campus for students, both Saturday and Monday night. These buses will leave the East Campus at 7 and 7:15 p.m. both nights.

Saturday's Victory Called Best In Football History Of College

By DAVE MORRIS

Florida State's young gridders may be unpredictable, but their fans are sure of at least one thing—the Seminoles' 19-18 win over Mississippi Southern at Campbell Stadium last Saturday was the finest victory in the school's eight year football history.

To set the stage for this spine-tingling upset take Mississippi Southern, two-time conquerors of Alabama, sporting a line that averages 220 pounds, a fine Southern points in the first three minutes, and subtract star Al Makowiecki from the one touchdown-underdog Seminoles.

Fear pays after a 73-yard kickoff return, Southern had scored and Makowiecki was as the sidelines with a dislocated elbow. Seminole chances and the weather was both looking grey, but the Tribe bounced back with running by Billy Odom and Lee Corso behind the ball to the twenty where Harry Massey passed to Corso to knot the score at 6-6.

Southern ball carriers promptly marched seventy yards for another TD. A brisk wind played havoc with conversion attempts and the score was 12-6.

The second quarter featured a see-saw battle with both teams twice penetrating into opposition territory without scoring.

In the third quarter, Indians racked up two touchdowns in seven minutes. Billy Graham went 31 yards off right tackle for the first score. The running of Fullback Joe Holt and Graham, plus a Massey-to-Fraunster pass set up the payoff run.

Graham spilt the uprights for what proved to be the deciding marker.

After a Southern punt and an exchange of fumbles, Massey passed 23 yards to Fraunster to make the count 19-12.

Southern went 55 yards for the final score with ten minutes left in the game, but their efforts were in vain as Holt broke through to block the place kick.

FSU took the following kickoff and worked the ball into Southern territory, with Massey punting to the one yard line. The Tribe succeeded in bottling up the Mississippians' offense for the remainder of the game, which ended as Bob Crenshaw returned an interception to the Southern 19.

Theta Chi Wins Basketball Crown

Theta Chi Fraternity defeated the Rebels Wednesday night 35-12 to win the university over-all intramural basketball championship. The contest which pitted the winner of the Fraternity league against the dormitory league conquerors was played in the West Campus Gymnasium.

Leading the scoring attack of Theta Chi was Gary Ashley and Vern Williams who scored eight points apiece.

For the losers, Rebel Ronnie Fell with twelve points was high point scorer for the night.

Seventh Annual Tilt Finishes Seminole '54 Gridiron Season

By ALAN WHITMARSH

Assured of a spot in their first major bowl game in history, the Florida State Seminoles finish the regular season tomorrow night against the University of Tampa on the latter's field.

This past week the Seminoles accepted a bid to play in the Sun Bowl against Texas Western at El Paso, Texas, on New Year's Day. Tampa also is going to a bowl game, the Cigar Bowl contest with Morris Harvey, December 17.

Florida State goes into the game with a 7-3 record, while Tampa has won seven of eight games against lesser opposition this year. The Seminoles have won four games of a six-game series which dates back to 1948, taking the most recent edition 41-6 last year.

The two teams have played only one common opponent this year, Stetson, and the scores were so high in both cases that comparison indicates little. The Seminoles crushed Stetson, 47-6 and the Spartans buried the Hatters 64-0.

Six of seven Seniors on the squad will play their last game for Florida State, but a seventh, tackle Al Mackowiecki, will not be available for action. Mackowiecki suffered a dislocated elbow in the Mississippi Southern game, and won't play tomorrow night.

The other six seniors are: Backs, Carl Green, Ronnie King, Harry Massey and Billy Graham; ends, Jimmy Lee Taylor and Robert Green.

Injuries and the draft board may keep several of FSU's stars from action tomorrow night, in addition to Mackowiecki. Lee Swatzic will be out with a pair of cracked ribs. Ronnie Schomburger is nursing a bruised arm and may not play, and Buck Metts is still in the infirmary with the flu.

Concerning the draft board—Billy Graham is the player involved. He is tentatively scheduled for induction today, and at last report he was still conferring with his draft board about a deferment.

With Swatzic out, the quarterback burden will fall on Massey and Freshman Vic Prinsi. Lee Corso, John Griner and ashley Chapman or Freshman Buddy Reynolds will probably complete the Seminole backfield.

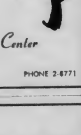
Corso, incidentally, has a chance in to a school record in pass interceptions, and equal the best performance in the country in that department tomorrow night.

Lee has stolen six passes thus far, two less than the school record of eight, set by Curt Campbell in 1951. If he only intercepts one, however, he can tie the record of Miami's Whitey Rovzitzy, who led the nation's major colleges in that department this year.

Though their running attack was a prime source of yardage against Mississippi Southern, the Seminoles still rely on a passing attack, in particular the peas-coaching of end Tom Feamster for their big offensive maneuvers.

Feamster has caught 36 passes for 393 yards this year, including six touchdowns. All three of these totals are Florida State records.

Physically speaking, Tampa should be in top shape with the exception of end Dickie Harse, who broke a bone in his foot three weeks ago, and won't be expected to play tomorrow night.



Standouts for the Spartans this year have been linemen Bob Lovely, Nick Wasylovich, Sherry Garcia and Joe Zalupski and backs Jack Herndon, Tom Spack and Al Leshaya.

A sellout crowd is expected to see this one, and it will be a primarily partisan crowd, hoping for a Tampa upset. The Seminoles should reign at least two-touchdown pre-game favorites, but this is a traditional service and anything can happen.

Let Us Develop Your Pictures

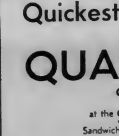
15c for developing a roll of 620, 120, 127, etc., film
8c for over-size prints
25c for developing a roll of 35mm film

Have Oversize Prints in a Convenient Album Folder. No Extra Charge.

Tallahassee Camera Center

123 N. MONROE ST. PHONE 2-8771

STACY ADAMS STUDIO



319 South Monroe
Tallahassee

This Ad and 89c Entitles You to One Gold Tone Portrait.

Regular $6 Value

Congratulations For Winning Over Mississippi - Southern

Expert Shoe Repairs
PALACE SHOE SHOP
established 1914

across from Florida's Post Office

121 PARK AVE.

Study Aids, Vis-Ed Cards, Language Verb Wheels, Foreign Language Dictionaries, College Outline Series.

MALONE'S BOOK STORE
107 S. Copeland Street

Quickest Delivery In Town
at the
QUAKER HOUSE
GOOD WHOLESOME FOOD
at the COUNTER, on the CURB, at your DOOR
Sandwiches, Shakes, Splits, Sundaes, Regular Meals
Phone 2-8677
Open 6 a. m. to Midnight
Seven Days a Week
West Tennessee Street

OUR SEMI-ANNUAL SHOE CLASSIC CONTINUES

Givable Holiday Slippers

(Just Right for Santa Time)

Honeybugs
☆ Red Kid
☆ Black Kid
☆ Royal Kid
☆ Black Satin
☆ Royal Satin
☆ Ice Blue Satin
2.99

O'Omphies Holiday Velvet

Bee-jeweled rayon velvet basque with gilt on black. Full and half sizes: 5-10 narrow, 4-10 medium.
5.95

GIFT WRAPPED FREE OF COURSE

OUR SHOE SALE CONTINUES

For Christmas Give a Fashion Item:
BERMUDA SOCKS
1.00 Pair
In White Cotton as shown

Tallahassee's Christmas Store

MILLER'S Cootery College Ave.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

DECEMBER AND MAY: ACT II

Curtain rises on Act 1: A middle-aged English Professor named Phipps is desperately in love with a very-much-loved named Mc-Phipps doesn't know how to go about courting Miss McFetridge, for, after all, he is a professor in the climate of his life, and she is a coed with rosy knees. Professor Twonkey, who is friendly with Phipps, proposes the following plan: Phipps invite Miss McFetridge to come to his office for a conference late one night. He will be urbane and charming and make fruity remarks about English lit, and Miss McFetridge will be impressed. After an hour of this high-type hilarity, Phipps will watch, ecstatic at the lateness of the hour, and insist that Miss McFetridge have dinner with him. She will pass a test of French dinner, and Miss McFetridge will be enchanted but not yield to his zest.

At the beginning of Act II, we find Phipps in his office awaiting the arrival of the poor young innocent. His hair is brushed; his vest is pressed; he has new leather patches on his elbows. There is a knock on the door. He opens it and admits a gorgeous creature with red hair and pink kneecaps.

PHIPPS: Ah, Miss McFetridge. Come in, my dear. Won't you sit down and relax?

MCF: Gosh, Phillip Morris! I think they're marry, don't you?

PHIPPS: I do indeed.

MCF: Hey, prof, would you mind opening a fresh pack?

PHIPPS: But I just opened this one a little while ago. It's perfectly fresh.

MCF: I know, prof, but I like to hear the snap when the seal breaks.

PHIPPS: Very well, my dear.

(He opens a fresh pack of Philip Morris. Miss McFetridge elaps her hands delightedly when she hears the snap.)

MCF: Hey, that fractures me! Man, I flip when I hear that! Do another one.

PHIPPS: All right.

(He opens another pack of Philip Morris)

MCF: (Exatorically) Isn't that the living, breathing end? Do I ever!

PHIPPS: Well, if you insist . . .

(He does two at once.)

MCF: More! More!

PHIPPS: I'm afraid that's all I have.

MCF: Oh . . . Well, what's up, prof? What did you want to see about?

PHIPPS: Oh, nothing in particular. Just wanted to have a little chat, find out how you're enjoying the Shakespeare lectures.

MCF: I don't know, prof. By ma Shakespeare is strictly a drag.

PHIPPS: Indeed? Well, I must say I find your attitude refreshing. I have noticed inward slavish admiration when it comes to the people forget that in many quarters Shakespeare is regarded as stodgily. Take, for example, the opinion of Shaw.

MCF: Artie?

PHIPPS: George Bernard. . .You know, of course, his famous words.

MCF: I sure don't, dad.

PHIPPS: Shaw said he would like to dig up Shakespeare and throw him.

MCF: Did he dig him?

PHIPPS: No, I don't believe so.

MCF: I don't dig him either.

PHIPPS: Anyway, at any rate! Good heavens, I had no idea it was so late. Come, my dear, I'll drive you home.

MCF: No, thanks. I always walk home. It's good for the complexion on your legs. I got the best circulation in my legs of the whole freshmore class. Ever notice how rosy my knees are?

PHIPPS: As a matter of fact, yes . . . Look, you sure you don't want to go home? There's an excellent French movie on the way.

MCF: Not me, dad. I hate French pictures. The sub-titles disappear before I can read 'em. But if you want to go to the movies there's a new Tony Curtis picture downtown—a real gasser. Tony plays this beggar, see, but he's really a prince only he knows it on account of his pesky aunt who switched babies when they got born. Then Tony finds this magic lamp, see, and he rubs the palace he by mistake this crazy girl, only she's related to the fake prince, but then they have this mad sword fight, see, licks about a million guys, and then he finds out he's the prince and it's real crazy. Wanna go? I've only seen it three or four times.

PHIPPS: As a matter of fact, I just remembered a previous engagement. Sorry.

MCF: That's all right. Thanks for the Philip Morris. Bye.

(He'll kiss McFetridge. For a moment Phipps sits in stunned rapture, mopping his brow. Then a smile appears on his face. He is a happy man again—out of love. Contentedly he lights another Philip Morris.)

©Max Shulman, 1954

The column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette.

From Page One

Red China

A breakdown of the resulting vote showed 174 students against admittance, 47 in favor of it and 41 uncertain.

Results of the second ballot were Yes, 64. No, 88 and Uncertain, 44.

Dr. Greg Phifer of the department of speech, said the ballots asked the students not to vote on the merits of the debates but rather on the way the student actually believed after hearing both sides of the discussions.

During the debate over the Red China question, Derek Bloom, speaking first, said that the country should be admitted because the question is who has control over Peking and that Chiaki Kai-Shek is a "dead duck."

He continued that co-existence is the only possible solution because "the only alternative is non-existence in a future war." If Red China is admitted, he continued, we know they will continue to be both Chinese and Communist, but their continued exclusion can only mean their continued bad behavior.

"Only a policy of friendship will achieve peace."

Elizabeth Flory, arguing the negative, replied that Chiang is not a dead duck, and if he was and there is a choice between Red China and Formosa, it is better to choose the latter because "I'd rather admit a dead duck than a living, vicious tiger."

Miss Flory then went on to compare Red China as a bad cat in the cage of the world. She brought out that it has a consistent record of aggression, the last meal, Indo-China.

She continued that Russia is in the U. N.—we don't like them, they are aggressive—but the U.N. is publicly branded Red China as an aggressor.

"By keeping Red China out, we are driving them over to the Soviet cat, and making it impossible to drive a wedge between Russia and Red China."

She ended by saying that Red China has not shown in any way that she will negotiate with us.

In his rebuttal, Bloom labeled Miss Flory as "Florida's gift to the China lobby." He concluded that he was not happy that the knowledge of the world. She brought where he told his story to the County Sheriff.

From Page 2

FSU Student

According to McKnight, he was having some difficulty with his studies and feared he would fail. He fired the shots into his own foot and took a bus to West Palm Beach, stayed there a while, and then took another bus to Fort Myers. Wire service accounts of the case and McDonald talked first with a physician at Lee Hospital in Fort Myers, who assured him the sheriff would understand his case.

The accounts said his original plan was to find work under a different name.

The Dean of Men's office had no comment on the case.

—

Letters

Continued from page 1)

shed more heat than light. .

To the group concerned, Dixie and the Confederate flag are a symbol of something they feel is worthwhile. It is the counterparts of some rituals present in my fraternity and I am sure that I am just as jealous of them as the other group is of Dixie. It might be silly and it might be trite, but it is part of a tradition that was beaun over 150 years ago with the formation of that first Greek letter society, Phi Beta Kappa. There must be something to it or it would not have expended and flourished for these many years.

So in the future extend us the same patience you give the Shriners with their foolishness and fez, and the American Legion with their caps and parades. For these frivolous acts are merely the outward appearance of something very worthwhile and lasting.

ALAN C. SUNDBERG,
President, Inter-Fraternity Council.

Who Should Choose

To the Editor
and Student Body:

"Above all else to thine own self be true." If certain members of the Student Senate would heed those words and then contrast them to the sentiments expressed by Senator Stancik to the effect that they all owe our loyalty to the President of the Student Body, we might avoid some of the useless and hypocritical statements that have recently been made on the floor of the Senate in relation to a bill intended to give the students the right to choose their own Senators rather than let them be appointed by the Student Body President, whenever vacancies occur. If Senators Stancik and Joanos in particular took Shakespeare's advice to heart and acted accordingly, it would be interesting to see whether there would be able to make some of the statements that they have recently made to their attempts to keep the students of our university from choosing their own Senators in case of vacancy. Let us examine the reasons which these gentlemen are for voting against. Vice-President Gaster's suggestion that the students be given this right in keeping with democratic principles They set up examine the real reasons for their opposition and see if these gentlemen are innocent or lax true to themselves or to the students of Florida State University.

They say that they are afraid that a small turnout for the election would produce the election of a Senator representing too small a segment of the student body. Does it not seem strange that what they are proposing—President's appointments — represents only the desires of the President and his political party and that under their plan no voice is given to anyone who disagrees with the President? Does it not seem just too much of a coincidence that Senator Joanos is the Chairman of the President's political party? Does it not seem strange that Senator Stancik is perhaps the most vocal member of the Senate from the same political party? Would it not be interesting to see if these gentlemen would be so avidly opposed to this bill had it not been presented by Vice President Gaster—a member of the other political party? Does it not seem strange that these two very vociferous gentlemen should see fit to oppose the rights of the students and the opinions of the majority of the Senators on the grounds that in an election held if the bill were in force a run-off might be necessary? Or on the grounds that the students are not interested in voting anyway? Or on the grounds that the candidates in such an election might spend too much money? Or, most hypocritical of all, on the grounds that they do not want a small group of students to control the choosing of Senators? Most of the Senators voted for the bill. They voted for the students of FSU. A small block of Senators have prevented the passage of the bill. For whom did they vote? Was it the students body or The Student Party?

It is, of course, ridiculous to say that it is in the best interests of the student body not to be able to choose their own Senators and, therefore, only one explanation is possible. "Above all else to thine own self be true." That is very good advice It should be taken to heart by those who would obstruct the democratic process for personal and selfish motives.

An indignant student,
ARNOLD GREENFIELD

From Page One

Oxford Man Views

ran in the world. "unfortunately", he refused have McCarthy's activities were distorted and his importance exaggerated to present the impression of McCarthy as a huge ogre whom Americans "live in climate of fear" of.

Bloom added that McCarthy was worth about 20 divisions of the Kremlin "Communists are delighted with McCarthy," he asserted.

"It is difficult for liberal-minded people to defend America and him.."

Turning to politics, Bloom declared that Anthony Eden with undoubtedly succeed Winston Churchill.

He said that when Eisenhower first entered office "we didn't think much of him. But, like most soldiers, Eisenhower has a strong dislike for war." Bloom continued that the President has a "sane outlook" on international affairs

In the FSU debate, he said said that the exclusion of Communist China from the United Nations would be a negation of the purpose of that organization. During the latter, however, he said his own opinion was that admitting Red China to the U.N. would not make a lot of difference, but "she might as well be there." He declared it would be "more useful" to have her there than Chiang Kai-shek.

"Since the drawbacks are nill, I don't see where we will lose it is very worthwhile to admit Communist China. The talk of America losing prestige is poppycock. Even Burma, Indonesia and other Far-East countries have declared their support in letting Red China into the U.N. and this doesn't mean they are pro-Communist.

"It is my personal opinion that admission to the U. N. can be used as a bargaining counter. We can try and get in a conference with them and disable before them eyes U. N. admission and surrender of little islands."

"By keeping Red China out we give the impression to asiatic people that it isn't their aggressive ness and communism we object to but to China's independent orientalism. Their membership is not a great advantage to the Communists. Any vetoing to be done is done very effectively by Russia."

From Page One

Elections Bill

a minority report. In his speech Senator Stancik argued that there would be a small turnout for a special election to fill a vacancy, which he said might necessitate numerous elections. He said small groups organized into voting blocks, "interntites or dormitory floors" could easily control elections.

Stancik urged leaving the power of appointment in the president's hands, saying "We firmly believe the president has the authority and power to appoint Senators. His actions must be approved by Senate and by the popular opinions of the students."

Stancik warned that taking the power away from the president might "set a trend" for future Senates to extract more power from the President.

Stancik's argument set the pattern for the opposition's remarks to Gaster's proposal, which was maintained by Stancik and Senator Jimmy Joanos. Senator Hank McCan challenged Stancik's assertions that one small group could swing a special election, saying that each candidate would stimulate such groups, thereby negating the effect.

Stancik continued to urge faith in the president's appointments, saying that the required confirmation by Senate and the opinions of the students would constitute checks on his power.

Joanos challenged Moore to explain his use of the word "dictatorship" in that "I will not vote for any bill . . . and makes the president a dictator."

Moore replied that it "one who tells the legislative and judicial branches what they must do and who they must accept "

Joanos asserted that required confirmation by a two-thirds vote of appointments in elective offices would remove any possibility of the president being a dictator.

Senator Carolyn Close compared the FSU system to the national system of checks and balances, but Gaster seized on her argument to note that the United States President doesn't appoint replacements for senators who die or resign.

(In the case of a United States senator dying or resigning, the established policy is for the governor of his state to appoint a temporary successor until an election can be held to fill the unexpired term.)

After a minor amendment to the bill was passed, the vote was held on the proposal itself. Voting for the plan of fillin unexpired terms by special election were Gaster, vice-president Joan Tavel, and Senators Ivey Arnold, Lillian Avis, Frances Helms, Bob Bevis, Bill Wagoner, Joan Hallford, Fred Sandfield, Jack Jones, Jimmie Soles, Hank McCann and Bill Swisegi. Against the amendment were Senators Stancik, Nancy Vaughn, Ken Gallo, Jimmy Joanos, Margaret Ann Ballinger, Carolyn Close, Bobby Temple, Liz Cerny, Ronnie Blue and Petey Dunn.

The vote was 13 to 18, not enough to approve a constitutional amendment, but Gaster later succeeded in having the vote reconsidered and the issue laid on the table until next week.

As his bill stands now it would provide for an election on an amendment to the constitution with the following provisions: that a vacated seat would be filled within four weeks in an election called by the student body president, and that senior senators leaving for their internships would be temporarily replaced by appointees of the president, to be confirmed in the required manner.

Senator Joan Hallford, chairman of the Senate Labor, Student Services and Education committee, reported that specific complaints regarding the University Infirmary will be discussed next Wednesday with chief physician Dr. H. G. Hathaway.

Reports were heard from other standing committees. Sergeant at Arms Bill Borhe appointed at the last meeting, was introduced to the Senate.

From Page One

Ballet Theatre

removes his false bunch, collecting the pennies from the gullible unfortunates.

In "Jardin Aux Lilas," a young maid, Caroline, who is about to enter upon a marriage of convenience, tenders a farewell party to precede the ceremony. Among the guests are the man she really loves and the woman who, unknown to her, has been her fiance a mistress. Quick meetings and interrupted confidences follow as with Caroline acting on the arm of her betrothed, never having satisfied the desperate longing for that final kiss.

"Rodeo" or "The Courting at Burnt Ranch" is a Western Cinderella story about a tomboyish cowgirl who is awkwardly competing with a rancher's daughter for the attentions of the champion roper. Unversed in feminine arts, as a unpopular with the men and shocks the visiting city girls with her manish ways. Eventually, however, she dresses up, joins the dance, and wins her man.

Besides the three main stars, other leading soloists include Lillian Lanese, Joyce Douglas, Barbara Lloyd, Joe Sunders, Fernand Nault, Christine Maver, Enrique Martinez, and Catherine Horn.

From Page One

Coffee Hour

illustrated a scientific book for children on the mechanical history of the automobile.

Mrs. Rhyne and Mrs. Middlebrooks combined their efforts on a first book of verse, "Salt Wind", which came out nine years ago The doctor writes the poetry and the daughter did the illustrations a number of black and white scratch board drawings which look like wood engravings.

THIRD PARTY WANTED to share expenses in a nice home. Must have a car. aCll 2-4288 after 5 p. m.

FOR SALE—1951 Crosley roadster. Reasonable. Completely rebuilt motor, new top, 40 mi. to gal. Phone 2-1066

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES

FLORIDA

Today Thru Tues.
"BLACK WIDOW"
Ginger Rogers
Van Heflin
Gene Tierney
George Raft
IN CINEMASCOPE

PERRY HIGHWAY
OUTDOOR

Today & Tomorrow
"DIAMOND QUEEN"
Fernando Lamas
Arlene Dahl — also
"SKY COMMANDO"
Jan Darnea
Sunday & Monday
"WITNESS TO MURDER"
George Sanders
Gary Merrill
Barbara Stanwyck

STATE

Today & Tomorrow
"THE OUTCAST"
John Derek
Joan Evans
Sun. Thru Tues.
"ROGUE COP"
Robert Taylor
Janet Leigh
George Raft

CAPITOL DRIVE-IN
ON WOODVILLE HWY.

Today & Tomorrow
"BEACHHEAD"
Tony Curtis
Frank Lovejoy
also
"THE MAN FROM SUNDOWN"
Charles Starrett
Sunday & Monday
"JIVARO"
Fernando Lamas
Rhonda Fleming

Let Arrow s-t-r-e-t-c-h that CHRISTMAS Vacation!

How? you say...do your gift-lisving right here. We'll send your purchas home for you. We have everything that dad, pals, and kid brothers want, and ALL labeled "Arrow." Famous Dart white shirt, Gordon Dover button-down, Cadmore sport shirts. Plus sheets and undershirts and handkerchiefs. Priced right.

Mendelsons
101 E. Jefferson

Where there's a FRILL... there's a way to snare
young hearts!
Carole King JUNIOR

PARTY GOER.
fun-loving charmer of cotton and rayon faille, with rows and rows of tiny ribbon ruffles swirling in scallops on the dancing skirt Bodice hemed low to show off pretty arms and throats.
Sizes 7 to 15 . .
17.95
OTHER CAROLE KING JUNIOR HOLIDAY DRESSES FROM 14.95
P. W. WILSON CO.
SECOND FLOOR OF FASHIONS

WHAT'S THIS DROODLE?
For solution see paragraph below.

Keepsake Diamond Rings
Bulova & Elgin Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 S. Monroe St. Phone 5-1667

WELCOME
FSU STUDENTS SANITARY BARBER
SHOP
219 S. ADAMS

Xmas Shopping???
We have selections of - - - -
Gibson & Hallmark Cards
Introducing: Barker & Brownie
Christmas Books — Huge Selection
Gibson & Dennison Gift Wrapping
Angel, Santa Claus, Tree, Reindeer Candles
Norris & Hallingswarth Candy
Navelty Animals, T-Shirts & Sweat Shirts
Seal Jewelry by Balfour
We Do Monograming on Cards, Wallets, etc.
UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
SEMINOLES
IN THE STUDENT CENTER

LAST SCRUTINEERING SELF IN WHICH AFTER USING YANSHING CREAM
Lois Mayfield
University of North Carolina

THIS SIGNS FELLER
ET MONEY AND YOSHO
Donald O. Kintner
Texas Tech

"It's TOASTED" to taste better!

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
CIGARETTES

GIRL WITH POINT TAIL
BRUSH POINT
William H. Harris
Washington State College

MELTED SNOWMAN
William F. Eicher
U.C.L.A.

According to THE LARGEST and latest coast-to-coast college survey, college smokers prefer Luckies—and by a wide margin. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. Thousands of students appreciate Luckies' better taste almost as much as the pair in the Droodle above, titled: Sweethearts attempting to kiss and enjoy better-tasting Luckies at same time. Luckies taste better for good reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, "It's Toasted" to taste better. This famous Lucky Strike process tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better—cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Better taste Luckies...
LUCKIES TASTE BETTER
CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

STUDENTS! EARN $25!
Lucky Droodles* are pouring in! Where are yours? We pay $25 for all we use, and for many we don't use. So send every original Droodle in your noodle, with its descriptive title, to Lucky Droodle, P.O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.
*DROODLES, Copyright 1953, by Roger Price

©A.T.Co. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

'The Beautiful People' Set For Conradi (See Below)

The Florida Flambeau

New Registration Procedure Effected (See Below)

VOL. XL NO. 19 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA TUESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1954

Saroyan Drama Begins Friday Night At 8:15

'Beautiful People' Shows In Conradi Until December 14

THE BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE William Saroyan's [illegible] play now in production in the department of speech boasts an all-star cast in its opening next Friday night at 8:15 p. m., the play will run from Friday, December 10 through 14, at the Augusta Conradi Theatre. Director is Dr. Paul Byrne of the Florida State University Department of Speech and Drama.

The three effect at the History Building sports December 9 and 10 are open through the showing. General admission prices are 75 cents and students with activity card number 5 may get their tickets for 50 cents.

The story of a family living [illegible] is customary ideals [illegible] will transfer only more to the roster of playwrights Saroyan hails, a freshman who came in like a Hero in the Time of the Cities (Panama City) [illegible] with Medal of Honor, the role of Harmony Bluebonnet, the former fiancee of the hero's brother. Miss Dobbins was last seen this past year's The Importance of Being Earnest, Cinderella. They will perform on alternate nights.

Another duo who will double are Katherine Culpepper and Smith. They will alternate the role of Aimee, the young daughter who brings sunshine to everyone including a [illegible] more she believes 'would be.' Miss Culpepper has been credit the leading role [illegible] The Heiress and The Import Comedy. Miss Smith can be seen in Cinderella but [illegible] role in The Import Comedy.

Co-ordinate students in the Department of Speech will have a another play since [illegible] Hazard Perkins as the father interested [illegible] will play the role of Symbolic Minister. Perkins Hazard, to this production, [illegible] Lancaster who held [illegible] of Poe's son in Charley's Aunt will play the part of the [illegible] Prim.

The other posts are held by [illegible] performers to the Conradi [illegible] David Franklin Adams and Elizabeth Dean was last seen in Romeo and Juliet, but has also [illegible] minor roles in The Taming of the Shrew, Mirror of the Sea and Pierre Patelin.

Thomas was last seen in Charley's Aunt but also has chalked [illegible] in The Insect Comedy, Romeo and Juliet, and Pierre Patelin. Thomas has appeared [illegible] frequently with [illegible] Romeo and Juliet, The Insect Comedy and was last seen in the role of Charley's Aunt. The three as well as Miss Culpepper and Miss Smith are members of Lu Jonglaurs, dramatic honorary.

MISS GYMKANA—Faye Anthony was crowned "Miss Gymkana" at Friday night's performance of "Toyland Capers." Anita Wall, last year's Queen and Pete Nimkoff, president of the Student Body, crowned Miss Anthony. Her two attendants, Ruth Shuman, right, and Anita Anderson, are also shown.

Science Academies Join Here FSU Students For Nineteenth Annual Meet Get 'Stickers' In Campaign

The 19th Annual meeting of the Florida Academy of Science-in joint session with the Florida Junior Academy of Science will be held at Florida State University Thursday and Friday of this week.

Meetings will be held by the Academy of Science of sections on the following subjects: physical sciences, biological sciences, and social sciences. Several general sessions will be held. Featured will be a symposium on "Atoms, Molecules end Nuclei," and a special session on "Practical Aspects of Teaching Science."

The meeting will begin at 5 p.m. Thursday with a Council meeting. A symposium on "Science and Man in a Democracy" will be held that night.

Dr. Raymond de R. Dietrich, of the University of Florida, president of the Academy, will address the group Friday night at 8 p.m. in the Geology Building. Dr. Ernst Jan Dohmjort and Edward Kilcoyn, of the FSU School of Music, will entertain the Academy with piano duets, by Schubert and Brahms FSU's president, Dr. Doak S. Campbell, will speak.

The Florida Junior Academy of Science will hold its sessions on the campus of the FSU Demonstration School and members of the Junior Academy will attend sessions of the senior group. They will go on field trips and hold at a barbecue supper and dance.

They will also witness a demonstration of "Chemical Magic" by Tom Lewis following the banquet Friday night. This is open to the public.

At the opening session, 8 p. m., Thursday in 108 Geology Building, Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president of Florida State University, will speak on "The Future of Higher Education in Florida." A symposium on "Science and Aims of Education," moderated by Dr. E. de R. Dietrich, will follow the address. Discussion speakers will be Dr. Taylor R. Alexander, University of Miami; Dr. Henry Beers, Florida Resource Use Education Commission; Dr. J. E. Hawkins, University of Florida; Dr. Dewey E. Large, field representative for the Institute of Nuclear studies, Dr. Samuel Proctor, Rollins College; and Dr. Sam Mosner state department of education; Dr. E. Morton Miller, University of Miami; Dr. W. Hugh Stickler, Florida State University; and Dr. Robert L. Williams, Lakeland Senior High School, and Miss Zmerski, University of Florida.

Members of the Academy will present discussions and read papers on numerous technical subjects.

Ten Finalists To Be Picked For Contest

Out of approximately fifty girls running, only ten will be selected as finalists for "Miss FSU" in the Tatly-Ho contest to be held tomorrow at 7 p. m. in Auditorium. Contestants are sponsored by a fraternity, sorority, or dormitory.

Six judges have been selected to pick the beauty contest winners. They are: Dr. A. B. Martin, University vice-president; Dr. James Buchanan, Professor of Economics; Miss Daisy Parker, Assistant Professor of Political Science; Peter Nimkoff, Student Body President; Harry Massey, Senior Class President, Tom Woods, Telly-Ho Editor.

Miss Florida State University will be selected by a prominent motion picture star from the movie industry, who is yet to be named. The winner will be announced at the Telly-Ho annual banquet where she will be guest of honor. Prior to this time the identity of the girl will not be revealed.

Each sorority and women's dormitory will sponsor one girl, while the men's fraternities and dormitories will sponsor one contestant. Credit will be given to the sponsor of the winning girls.

Contestants were asked to arrive at 6:30 p.m. to the Longmire building. Girls appearing before the judges will wear formal attire.

REPRESENTATIVE SEEKS FSU SALESMEN

Mr. J. T. Allmon of Retail Trailers Corporation, New York, will be on campus Thursday to interview prospective salesmen. It has been announced.

Students interested in talking with him may make an appointment with Mrs. Farmer of the Office of Vocational Guidance at the campus 203 Westcott, phone extension 5281.

'Carousel' Tickets Now Being Sold; Sellout Expected

Tickets are now on sale for Carousel, this year's Light Opera Guild presentation, which will December 19 through 14 Students may obtain tickets at the School of Music office, at the Student Center, or from any member of Sigma Alpha Iota, women's honorary music fraternity, which is sponsoring the production. Since these performances have been sellouts in past years students are urged to buy tickets in advance, said Sue Dougherty, president.

The story of Carousel concerns the love of Billy Bigelow (John Ross), a touch carnival barker, and Julie Jordan (Diane Dreyfus), a mill worker. Billy, in his own way, tries to do what he can best for his child.

The music, by Rogers and Hammerstein, includes such numbers as: "June is Bustin' Out All Over," "If I Loved You," "You Was a Real Nice Clambake" and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Dance Tryouts Set For Thursday, 7 To 9 P.M. In Center

Tryouts for Cavalier and Co-Ed Men's and women's dance honoraries at Florida State University, will be held Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Student Center.

Other tryouts will be held the following Thursday.

Cavalier president Jim Pedrick said that those interested in trying out for the groups must dance four types of dance routines. Two should be fast, be called and two slow. The two fast numbers will be judged for interclub only.

Poem By 'Sharp,' Sophomore, Chosen For College Anthology

By MARTY REEVES

Dawn Sharp, an FSU sophomore who "hopes to be a famous writer someday and write a novel" went a step toward fulfilling her ambitions recently when one of her poems was selected to appear in the annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Entitled "It Is Not You I Love, My Love," her composition reads:

It is not you I love, my love;
It is only an idea.
An idea of warm nights and looks that mean more than they say.
Of moon-streaked skies and lingering embraces . . .
Of insistent kisses and unspoken pleading . . .
Of far-away, subtle, throbbing through us . . .
Of beauty—of ugliness . . .
Of living—of dying . . .
Of fire—of fury—of heaven-ly bliss!
No . . . no . . . It is not you I love, my love;
It is only an idea.

Hailing from Sarasota, Miss Sharp has written two short stories and "a handful of poetry." though this is the first time any of her work have been published. "Writing is my love," she says, and shows proof of it in a wide range of past writing experience. Among her other activities in school activities she was editor of the student newspaper, "The Sarasotan" which won All-State ratings.

Here at college she majors in English and is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Her ambitions stretch beyond the present, she submitted five poems, believing "It Is Not You I Love, My Love" to be the one with the least chance of winning. "I was never quite so surprised upon receiving the letter of congratulations," she said later on. "I'm still expecting to receive notification that it was a mistake!"

The contest is sponsored by the National Poetry Association, whose selections are a "compilation of the finest poetry written by the college men and women of America, representing every section of the country." Selections are made from thousands of entries.

NOTICE

Unsatisfactory grade reports for day students are available in the Registrar's Office, 103A Westcott.

Gaster Bill On Vacancies To Emerge Again

Amendment Would Allow Students To Select Appointees

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The controversial special elections amendment backed by men's vice-president Gordon Gaster is expected to again provide the fuel for debate at tomorrow's Student Senate meeting.

Gaster's amendment to provide for election instead of appointment of persons to fill vacant seats seats who vacancies occur was killed at last week's meeting for lack of a two-thirds majority approval. Gaster succeeded to having the vote reconsidered and the bill was the table until this week's session.

(Editor's Note: The Florida Flambeau commends editorially on the Gaster amendment on page two. Also the text of the speaker pro tempore's ruling is on page 4.)

A revision of the finance laws, introduced at the last meeting by Senator Ken Kaitin, comes up for its second reading and vote tomorrow. Originally slated on the Senate last week that one item to the bill provides that "Any surplus money from the Student Activity Fund at the end of the school year shall be placed in a student activities surplus fund to be carried over to the next school year and budgeted for other purposes by the Budget Committee with approval of the Senate."

Gaitin said that present student activity money not used goes back to the University general fund. His bill, if passed by Senate and approved by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, would keep unused student activity funds in the hands of the Student Body.

Senator Jim Moore's elections and appointments committee is slated to report its findings on the feasibility of electing student representatives proportionate by sex or area instead of by class.

Vice-president Gaster introduced and had passed at last week's meeting a resolution asking the finance committee to conduct such an investigation.

Proposals of area representation would divide the campus into districts; each district being represented by a student government.

Jim Moore committee was to meet yesterday afternoon to hear opinions on the subject. Fred Turnage, director for Student Organizations, is a supporter of proportional representation.

Senator Ken Gaitin announced during the week that he has drawn up a bill to implement a constitutional amendment which would provide district representation.

He is expected to introduce his bill to the next future regardless of the nature of the Moore committee report.

Ballet Theatre Will Stage Final Show This Evening, 8:15

The Ballet Theatre will play to a full house tonight at 8:15 in the Westcott Auditorium when it gives its second presentation of the season.

On tonight's program will be "Les Sylphides," "Helen of Troy" and "Theme and Variations."

The Ballet Theatre, which opens the Florida State University dance series stars Igor Youskevitch, Nora Kaye and John Kriza.

The Social Standards Committee requests that all students wear formal dress for the event tonight.

Help Sessions Are Initiated By FSU Scholarship Group

Help Sessions will be offered in College Algebra classes this week for the first time this year, announced Dr. Ralph Eyman, dean of the School of Education.

Dr. S. T. Lastinger is sponsor of the Phi Beta Kappa Scholarship Club, which is initiating the sessions. They are open to the entire student body.

Sessions are offered Monday on science; Tuesday on English; Wednesday on Mathematics; Thursday on mathematics, and Friday on mathematics, and history yesterday. They will be held in room 401 Education Building from 7 to 8 p.m. The first session was held last night.

Dr. Eyman said that the State Teaching Scholarship requires a B average, or better, average, with "less than two percent failure among holders."

Funds Committee Schedules Meeting On Rules Revision

The Student Body Government Funds Committee will meet this afternoon at 2 p.m. in Room 606 of Longmire.

The Committee is non working on revision of the solicitation rules. The revision of the solicitation rules and on project profits have been passed by the Faculty Committee.

All clubs must get their project applications in early, officials said. If the first project fails, another one may be applied for. One upcoming project as yet unclaimed is the coke concession for Sandspur.

All groups were lost to have a copy of the rules concerning them. They may be obtained from Evelyn Moll or by writing to Box 2126.

New Registration System Established For Next Semester

Women's Glee Club Presenting 'Christmas Music' This Sunday

The Florida State University student chorus will be the 25th annual Christmas Vespers Sunday December 12 at Opperman Music Hall.

Under the direction of Betty Jane Grimm, the program will be narrated by Mrs. Rice Flinn. Accompanist will be Katherine Becbetti.

Among the renditions are such popular songs as "Glory To God In The Highest," which will be sung by Deborah Pennell, Janet Elven, and Carole Ann Nydegraaf, and "Alleluia," whose descant will be sung by Shirley Dallas and Nancy Ann Hagedorn.

The descant for "O Come All Ye Faithful" will be presented by Miriam Seiffert. Soloists for "Christmas Lullaby" are Miriam Seiffert and Harriet Merrill.

The complete program for the Sunday performance includes "The Promise of The Coming of Christ" with such selections as "Hodie Christus Natus Est" by Francis X. Gomez; "Come Spirits 'Tis His Day" Bach-Luvaas; and "Prepare Ye The Way, Prepare The Way" Handel.

The second part deals with the "Comms Of The Christ Child", Stand for the second section are "Alleluia," Katherine Davis; "List! The Cherubic Host," Goud; "Joyous Christmas Song," Gevart; and "Lully, Lullay, Thou Little Tiny Girl," Smith.

The third section, "In Praise Of His Coming", includes "Bring Your Torches," traditional; "Christmas Night," Whitney; "Glory To God In The Highest," Hammerschmidt; "The First Noel," traditional; and "Oh Come All Ye Faithful," traditional.

The last section is entitled "His Ministry Foretold" and includes "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley," Dawson; "The Christ Child In The Snow," Rhea and "Christ Is Born Lullaby," Warren.

The Women's Glee Club, responsible for this yearly presentation for the last twenty-five years, is an organization for all women students desiring "a musical outlet and spiritual outlet."

The present Women's Glee Club officers include Joanne Poe, president; Sarah Torney, vice-president; Carolyn Logan, secretary; Susanne Linebaugh, librarian; and Carole Ann Nydegraaf, publicity.

Theta Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha Play In Charity Bowl Saturday

Members of Theta Chi and Lambda Chi Alpha fraternities will face each other next Saturday in Doak S. Campbell Stadium for the 1954 Charity Bowl football championship.

Slated to begin at 2 p.m., the game is an annual event between the two, with all proceeds going to the Campus Chest. Tickets are now being sold on campus by fraternity members for 90 cents each, and will be sold at the gate.

Each year a Charity Bowl Queen is selected from entries made by all sorority, fraternities and dormitories. Last year the winner of the game was Theta Chi and Carol Fulkerson was the queen contest.

The game is a full-scale tackle affair, with equipment furnished by the university. Officials declared "A lot of fun and excitement is in store for everybody" Saturday if they plan to attend this game.

"We plan to have a half time show, with the crowning of the Charity Bowl Queen highlighting the affair. A beautiful trophy will be given the queen, with two runners up receiving smaller ones."

Theta Chi members participating are Jerry Iverson, Grand Wizard Ronald Fraser, Walter Wilson, Jr., Gary Ashley, Charles Cunningham, Andrew C. Scarano Jr., La Verne Williams.

William Osterhoudt, Neil Lee, Bar, Glayden Schafer, Melvin Hunter, Owen McCarron, Robert Shuman, George Brim, Jr., Charles M. Allen, Jr.

Bob Scarbough, William R. Hebert, Jr., Joe Cumbaa, Jr., Tom Bedjarck, Ben B. Powell, Jr., and Tom Higginbotham.

Lambda Chi Alpha will rest [illegible] on Page 4)

Knifed Student Is Recovering; A Are Sought

Natcho Vasileff, Florida State University student who was severely cut on the right side Friday night, is recuperating nicely, according to Dr. Wayne Fryrear, H. G. Hathaway yesterday.

Vasileff, a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, and two Theta Chi fraternity members were knocked unconscious with four men in front of Civic 21 on Hilbway 27, according to Deputy Sheriff Jack Gordon. The other FSU students were Jerry Lee Cox, who received a slight cut across the back, and Mike McGann.

Deputy Sheriff Gordon still looking for the four men involved. Claxton Lee, Travis Goodbey, Johnny Bryan and a man named Baxter said the Sheriff's office. Witnesses report of the incident is as follows:

"The FSU students were at the American Legion Hut when a '56 or '55 Hehi green Pontiac convertible stated to have an argument with the car had run over somebody."

"Natcho jumped into his car and gave chase. He caught and stopped the Pontiac and three of the four occupants jumped on him. The Pontiac left and returned to the Legion Hall, picked up his two friends [illegible]

(Continued on Page 4)

Registration to Last Ten Days But Is 'Faster'

More Information to Be Mailed; Starts January 19 To 28

A new system of advance registration will be tried out during final exam week, Registrar Charles H. Walker told The Florida Flambeau yesterday.

The registration period will run from January 19, a Wednesday, through Friday, January 22. Students will be assigned appointment d a t e s designated A.M. or P.M. on which they will pick up their registration materials at Western cashier booth. They may complete registration in the Suwannee Room at their leisure.

Walker said that appointments would be distributed on January 10, using the alphabetical system.

He added that students who do not complete registration during the period set may do so on February 2, the second of the two days specified for late registration in the university calendar.

Booklets explaining the procedure will be mailed to all students next week, he said. The booklet, Walker said, however, was made available to The Florida Flambeau.

Students will pick up class schedule booklets beginning on January 3. Class cards dated January 15 will be set aside for individual conferences with advisors. Closed sections and Crowded-colored trial schedule forms will be made available for the counselors' signatures.

Students will be picked up in the Suwannee Room any time after the appointment. The year of the period, that of checking schedules and fees, paying fees and turning in cards. On these days, will be the same as in the past.

"Some of the advantages of pre-registration," the registrar said, "are that it provides a specific period for counseling, allows registration at a more leisurely pace, affords students more opportunity to work out their class schedules with counselors, and allows more time between semesters." He expects about 5,000 students to pre-register.

Walker noted that registration of new students and veterans who fail to register in advance will be on February 3. He urged that students make requests at their appointment cards permit the registrar to assign them.

Walker singled fears that students should be disappointed in the week might have to remain until Friday to finish registration. He said that only that such cases could register on Saturday.

He admitted that students in danger of failing courses may withdraw for advice and aid that cave chase. He caught and stopped the Pontiac and three of the four occupants jumped on him. The Pontiac left and returned to the Legion Hall, picked up his two friends [illegible]

Freshmen Convene For First Meeting Of Year, Thursday

A meeting of the Freshman Class will be held Thursday, at 7 p.m. in the Westcott Building, announced class secretary Mary Louise Peacock.

She said that all Freshmen are encouraged to attend, since it is an important meeting. "Nominations for sponsors of the Freshman class will be announced at this meeting," secretary Peacock continued. "and a vote will be chosen at the meeting."

She said that the date for the Freshman Carnival has been set as March 12, and thus volunteer freshmen committees will be formed soon.

The class of 1956 is planning a re-organization of class activities, she declared, encouraging freshmen to bring constructive criticism to their class officers' suggestions, she concluded.

THE ALUMNI SHALL RISE—Freshmen Bud Williamson and Mary-Anne Kelly show the now use the FSU Alumni Association has found for Confederate currency. With the original faces on the bills being replaced by those of alumni officers, under bolivar Confederate ten-dollar bills are being mailed to alumni in the hope that they will return the favor in legal tender. The funds received will be used for such activities as scholarships and sending out speakers to high schools

Note For The History Books

And so it came about, on the first of December, 1954, that democracy caught up with bully-boy.

—From The New York Post

Student Elections

A very important bill again comes up before Student Senate Wednesday afternoon. We feel this bill should be passed.

The bill, introduced by Men's vice-president Gordon Gaster, provides for an amendment to the Student Body Constitution. Naturally the student body would vote on the amendment after ratification by the Senate.

The amendment would provide for the election of people to fill vacancies in Senate, instead of having them appointed by the Student Body President and confirmed by two-thirds vote of the Senate itself.

There are two strong arguments in support of this amendment. The first is that it seems only proper for a person to elect a replacement for a Senator they chose by ballot in the first place. Secondly, with two political parties firmly entrenched on campus, few such appointees of the president have much chance of being confirmed by the required two-thirds majority.

This has been clearly demonstrated in the present case of the vacancy in the Junior women's Senate designation. The person whom President Nimkoff appointed to the vacant seat, although as qualified to hold the office as any present Senator, was defeated by a minority.

We most strongly condemn the partisan politics which brought about her defeat. It was a thoughtless and needless move. It is apparent, however, that with political parties here to stay, any presidential appointment to a vacant Senate seat will be political, although the person in question would most probably be very qualified.

The people who defeated the President's appointment to the present vacancy are in general backing the amendment in question. In so doing, they admit that their past actions were political, but are frank in saying that it could happen again. To avoid turning the Senate into a political mudpuddle, the filling of vacancies should be taken to the class which elected the office in the first place.

Opponents of the amendment charge that its ratification would set a precedent of assault upon the powers of the executive. That need not be the case. While it is plainly democratic for the students to retain their power of ballot over a Senate seat, it would be wrong to extend the franchise to cover administrative appointments of the chief executive, such as cabinet officers and their assistants. The Senate has the power of approval or disapproval in those cases, any further check upon the President is a clear violation of executive authority.

Under the amendment, the President would still appoint interim, or temporary replacements for senators interning away from Tallahassee.

It is argued against the amendment that by electing a president the students put in him their confidence and that he may name to a vacant elective office is a good choice.

While this confidence in the president is in nearly all cases justified, we have seen what odious politics can defeat his choices in Senate. An appointee's character and ability can be, and in the past has been, slandered and sullied by a willful opposition.

We think it certainly more democratic and expedient to give the problem of filling vacancies back to the students themselves. The past has shown that this would be fairest of all to the people seeking the office.

The Newest Demagogue

It's the Communist Party which is most active in advocating desegregation, according to Bryant Bowles. This is also the current line followed by all groups advocating Bowles.

Bowles is the self-stvled head of his own National Association for the Advancement of White People. For the last few months he has been active stirring up intense racial hatred and has been inciting people to violence over the Supreme Court's antisegregation decision.

He is an opportunistic demagogue who has directed verbal filth at nearly every existing minority group. His Hitler-like rantings are a disgrace to any state whose people climb on his mud-smeared bandwagon.

And Bowles doesn't even seem to be even moderately well-informed nn Communism.

If he were, he would know that nothing could hurt the Communist Party more than successful desegregation. Nothing could cause more headaches in the Kremlin's propaganda department. Racial hatred and discrimination in the United States have been used with telling effect among the peoples of the world by the Communist conspiracy.

In the past the Communists said they were against segregation because it endeared them to colored peoples and more liberal nations all over the world. Now that the United States has voluntarily struck at the blight of segregation the Communists are in a quandry.

Bryant Bowles probably knows this. But he won't say so. It's more advantageous for him to scream "Communism!"

This demagogue who is trying to live and scream the way Adolf Hitler did will end up the same way as do all would-be tyrants—cursed in the minds of free men, and drowned in the mire of their own deceit.

Funny Business In Moscow

In Moscow the other night, top Soviet leaders, who seem to be hitting the bottle at the slightest excuse, lifted their glasses to "Comrade Tito and the Communist Party of Yugoslavia." The news must have killed every Communist eyebrows around the world. For a long time all faithful Communists have been taught that ex-comrade Tito is an "imperialist tool, warmonger and betrayer of the working class"; Titoism had replaced Trotskyism as the foremost heresy in the Communist catalog of sin.

Now all is changed overnight; Moscow says imperialist warmonger Tito is a grand guy after all, and bottoms up again. So Communists in every land will have to find a new name for baddies; Titoism (subject again to change without notice) isn't a disease after all. What of all the comrades who have been executed all over Eastern Europe for being "Titoist"? Well, too bad, slips.

The opinion is sure to invite a flood of essays here "proving" that Tito's break with the Kremlin was a sham. By and large the authors of such treatises are those who regard the Soviet rulers as a breed of supermen, always correct in what they are doing, never torn by confusion or uncertainty, constantly engineering successful plots.

We disagree. Admittedly there are many elusive aspects to Moscow's current wooing of Tito. We should like, however, to venture the theory that all this Moscow love-making will affect the Kremlin's relationship with its own discords in the Communist empire—discords which Tito's break momentously aggravated. It just could be that the supermen are nervous, that Tito-trouble has been a major factor in producing their anxiety, and that once they were sure Joe Stalin was dead, they decided to try to make up with the strutt little fellow who created so much mischief after he was banished from respectable Communist society.

This, we repeat, is theory. But conceivably it is a clue to other strange sounds emanating from Moscow. At the risk of defying the widespread view that the current Russian leaders are invincible and infallible, we suggest that they may be stumbling around in a world they never made, and for which their old Marxist textbooks offer remarkably little guidance.

—From The New York Post

Did-Ja-Ever . . .

Camp on a corner a-waitin' a date
Then suddenly remember "twas you that was late?

—Don Rapp

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Orchid Alonso, Managing Editor

Copy Editors ..... Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusement Editor ..... David Dietz
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Cartoonist ..... Con Hamm
Junior Staff ..... George Goldsteln, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Revas, Ann Stanley, Jeri Bradfield

Mary Liz King, Adv. Mgr.

Assistant Business Manager ..... Irma Cox
Advertising Staff ..... Nine Ryle, Bill Talnak
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service 420 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y.

Telephone 2-8000 extension 6821
211, 213 Longview Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by the students of Florida State University.

Students' Open Letter

Dear Fellow Students:

I feel that one of the main reasons that our Honor System has not functioned as it should is because the students and the faculty members do not understand what is expected of them in an Honor System.

On June 1, 1953, a joint student-faculty honor committee simplified the explanation of the Honor System of FSU. I'd like you to read this explanation in order that you might know exactly what is expected of you in our Honor System.

"The Honor System of Florida State University"

"The following articles are known collectively as the Honor System at Florida State University, are based on the assumption that every individual in this university should be capable of making his own decisions the highest standards of integrity and truthworthiness; that in so doing he finds his college experiences more valuable and his future and community life more rewarding.

The pledge which expresses the application of the Honor System to daily life is based upon which the Honor System is based is as follows:

"I pledge myself to uphold the highest standards of honesty and I refuse to tolerate dishonesty on the part of another."

Infractions of the Honor System

The honor system, while seekint to promote high standards of integrity in all phases of university life restricts its jurisdiction to the following:

1. LYING is a falsification of facts. As applied to this article it includes: Deliberate acts of deception or the telling of an untruth during direct questioning before persons of authority, either fellow students or faculty members.

2. CHEATING is giving or receiving of aid whether written, by signs, gestures, plagiarism, report or otherwise, in order that a student may receive undeserved credit for work which is his own responsibility. The student who gives aid is equally guilty with one who receives aid and is subject to equal penalty.

3. STEALING is the appropriation of money or other property belonging to another.

The How, When, Where of Reporting

1. Who reports?

The individual student involved in an infraction should at all times be encouraged to report himself if the student refuses to report himself it is the responsibility of a fellow student or faculty member to report him

2. To Whom?

All infractions of the honor code system should be reported to the Chief Justice of the Honor Court.

3. When?

All reporting of infractions should follow immediately upon discovery of the alleged infraction. but in no case should more than six school days elapse.

4. How?

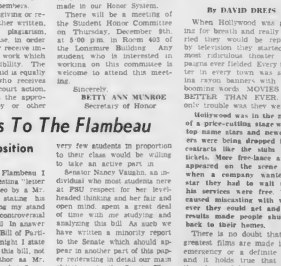
If an individual knows of an infraction of the honor system, the person to whom the infraction shall call it to the attention of the violator and ask him to report himself to Chief Justice of Honor Court. If the violator refuses, then it is the responsibility of the witness to report the infraction. In cases of cheating an additional witness is necessary.

There are now two Honor Committees The Student-Faculty Honor Committee studies Honor System and sees what improvements should be made The purpose of the Student Honor Committee are to present an explanation of the Honor System to the student and faculty of FSU and to encourage everyone to uphold the Honor Pledge Also, this committee can make recommendations to the Student Faculty Honor Committee on changes to be made in our Honor System.

There will be a meeting of the Student Honor Committee in the Student Union Building At 8:00 p.m. in Room 403 of the Longmire Building Any student who is interested in working on this commitee is welcome to attend this meeting.

Sincerely,
BETTY ANN MUNROE
Secretary of Honor

Letters To The Flambeau



Election Opposition

To the Editor:

In last Friday's Flambeau I noticed a very interesting "letter to the editor" written by a Mr. Arthur Greenfield in which he displeasure regarding my stand against the now controversial Senate Elections Bill in answer to Mr. Greenfield's Bill of Particulars stating that he might think that I am opposing this bill, not because of the author as Mr. Greenfield contends, but I am opposing this bill because I feel it is fundamentally motivated by Senators who would let the office of chief executive deteriorate while they tried to control and manipulate elections in which very few students in proportion to their class would be willing to take an active part in.

Senator Dewey Vaughn, an individual who most students here at FSU respect for her level-headed thinking and her fair and open mind, spent a great deal of time with me studying and analyzing this bill. As such we have written a minority report to the Senate which should appear in another part of this paper reviewing in detail our main objections to the Senate Elections Bill. Also in Wednesday's Senate meeting the advocates of this bill were able to muster only a bare majority which emphasizes once again that not

(Continued on Page 4)

"The pencil sharpener seems harder to crank since professor Snarf moved it up front."

The Dissenter

News Digest Disregards The Truth

By MARTIN DUCKMAN

On its first page, the November issue of the Florida Newspaper News and Radio Digest betrays freedom of the press. It exhibits a disregard for the rights of free people in a democracy.

The Digest reprinted an editorial by Loyal Frisbie, of the Polk County Democrat, running the selection in the magazine's most prominent spot.

The editorial referred to Mrs. Mabel Norris Reese, (who is editor of the week) Miami Dora Topic.

For years Mrs. Reese has been fighting with Lake County Sheriff McCall, protesting his abuse of his office, deploring the sheriff's disregard for civil rights, and baring the lack of interest in the terrorist tactics which men have employed in a vain effort to intimidate Mrs. Reese.

Let's see what Mr. Frisbie and the Digest say about her:

"Mrs. Mabel Norris Reese is the editor of the Mount Dora Topic, and in her editorials she carries on a one-woman fight against segregation and Ku Klux Klan-like activities in her county . . . a short time ago a

Reflections

A Look At The McCarthy Censure

By OSCAR JOHNSON

The United States Senate's condemnation of Senator Joe McCarthy has set off a blast of controversy which accurately pinpoints the forces of support given the Senator.

Over a cup, which may be classified as the drink of the Carthy proponents, declares that the Senate was right to censure and all since the resolution about his conduct merely whitewash school days elapse.

Another bunch says that the condemnation of McCarthy is effective investigation of Communists—or, in a nutshell, a witch hunt.

Still a third body holds that the censure was richly deserved

The condemnation is a censure in effect of the very resolution A. McCarthy says, "I am proud to have received a censure." The point deserves no further comment.

Contending that it is a Communist victory borders on the ridiculous in view of the fact that McCarthy has done more to aid the cause of world Communism than any other known American man.

The Senator's own actions have said that from now on, all Senators will be afraid to investigate

Etcetera Etchings

Movies Better Than Ever ? Nope!

By DAVID DREFS

When Hollywood was gasping for its last breath and the world they would be reprieved from the depression by one of the most ridiculous theater campaigns ever fielded Every theater in every town had huge billboards raxon banners with these words in them MOVIES ARE BETTER THAN EVER. The only trouble was they weren't.

Using as a lure some of the a price-cutting stage where the same could be seen movies were being dropped from contracts like the stabs from the knives of the artists appeared on the screen and the star they had to wait until his services were free This was the situation which made every theater in the country could sit and the movie-made people shudder back to their homes.

There is no doubt that the greatest films are made in an emergency or a definite need and it holds true that with the advent of the talkies, and attempted to improve and the public began to make a good impression came out with great productions. Notice that Shirley Temple came on the scene just a personal quarrel by McCarthy and whoever disagrees with him, but the honor and dignity of the Senate. It was upon this issue that the Senate was called, and a solemn duty rendered. By a vote of 67-22 the Senate found McCarthy guilty of abusive members of one of its committees and of obstructing the "constitutional processes of the Senate." It also condemned him for his attack on the Watkins committee which recommended censure.

Disregarding the particular brand of demagogy which is characteristic of the senator will not let the issue rest. The false contention that the censure move was intended to check his investigation of Communists in government is still being spread by McCarthy and his aides.

It is well to note that despite what he says, the rebuke counts had nothing to do with his investigation of communism. It related solely to his conduct as a Senator and his methods for his objects.

What was involved was not communistic activities for fear of being censured "in response to a widespread wave of passion on the part of the people." But he does not mention that McCarthy has always had the bases his power on passion. He does not add that as long as he clouded the issue, Democrats, citizens and officials were unable to vote as they saw fit on him, for fear of being subjected to a "loyalty hearing" whose only outcome was public destruction.

They've "loyalty hearings" were never trials because those brought before them were automatically guilty in the eyes of McCarthy unless they were proved to be above suspicion. And even in the latter case that would do them no good, since they were cowards or juries to support their decisions.

One example of McCarthy's judicial mockery, the McCarthy-Stevens Hearings, was held at the time of the Geneva Conference. This is also a particularly ripe example of how America's Communist investigation, publicized over the world, tells other countries that the political briefs of our officials must be constantly investigated.

A Better Measure

Censure Won't Stop Joe's Actions

By JEROME BERNSTEIN

With the rebuking of Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin by the Senate, it would be easy to say that the matter is now at an ended. By a vote of 67-22 the Senate found McCarthy guilty of abusive members of one of its committees and of obstructing the "constitutional processes of the Senate." It also condemned him for his attack on the Watkins committee which recommended censure.

Disregarding the particular brand of demagogy which is characteristic of the senator will not let the issue rest. The false contention that the censure move was intended to check his investigation of Communists in government is still being spread by McCarthy and his aides.

It is well to note that despite what he says, the rebuke counts had nothing to do with his investigation of communism. It related solely to his conduct as a Senator and his methods for his objects as.

What was involved was not just a personal quarrel by McCarthy and whoever disagrees with him, but the honor and dignity of the Senate. It was upon this issue that the Senate was called, and a solemn duty rendered. By a vote of 67-22 the Senate found McCarthy guilty of abusive members of one of its committees and of obstructing the "constitutional processes of the Senate." It also condemned him for his attack on the Watkins committee which recommended censure.

Disregarding the particular brand of demagogy which is characteristic of the senator will not let the issue rest. The false contention that the censure move was intended to check his investigation of Communists in government is still being spread by McCarthy and his aides.

It is well to note that despite what he says, the rebuke counts had nothing to do with his investigation of communism. It related solely to his conduct as a Senator and his methods for his objects as.

What was involved was not communistic activities for fear of being censured "in response to a widespread wave of passion on the part of the people." But he does not mention that McCarthy has always had the bases his power on passion. He does not add that as long as he clouded the issue, Democrats, citizens and officials were unable to vote as they saw fit on him, for fear of being subjected to a "loyalty hearing" whose only outcome was public destruction.

They've "loyalty hearings" were never trials because those brought before them were automatically guilty in the eyes of McCarthy unless they were proved to be above suspicion. And even in the latter case that would do them no good, since they were cowards or juries to support their decisions.

One example of McCarthy's judicial mockery, the McCarthy-Stevens Hearings, was held at the time of the Geneva Conference. This is also a particularly ripe example of how America's Communist investigation, publicized over the world, tells other countries that the political briefs of our officials must be constantly investigated.

Derek Bloom, Oxford University student recently on our campus, stated that McCarthy is the best known American. Can other countries be blamed for distorting American reasoning all of McCarthy's ballyhoo over Communists? Yet trust and confidence in America is as vital to the free countries as military force is to our current cold war.

McCarthy's condemnation has been called "a serious threat to the power and prerogatives of the United States Senate" because the Senate will henceforth be unable to inquire into the acts of the Executive branch. The New York Times says of this, "Such interpretations of this extremist as a symbol of what is indeed an important legislative right is to suggest that the Executive branch is above the control of the Legislature instead of one of the three constitutionally equal branches of the Federal Government."

The body of people who say that McCarthy's condemnation is the whitewash and deplores the overwhelming majority at thinking citizens in this country regards as cowards. They say the above arguments are a partial basis for their stand.

(Continued on Page 4)

did the writer say what I would expect of any true newspaperman, whether he agreed with Mrs. Reese's stand or not.

In effect, he said: "Like boys, I agree with you but what good is it going to do? She's a woman and an outsider boot and there's no sense trying to change HER mind."

What he SHOULD have said would first raise questions like this: "Mrs. Reese as a woman of the free press is to me, her colleague. It may or may not be the right one. She has a right to say it. Any attempt to frighten her out of her county by cowardly Klan-like methods is an evil violation of all we as Americans hold dear."

"Editors and newspaper readers alike should join in deploring and uprooting the unlawful and craven efforts to intimidate her."

At any rate, that's how I would have said it. That's what any freedom loving citizen would have said. Then, why not the Polk County Democrat and the Florida Newspaper News and Radio Digest?

(Continued on Page 4)

ribe Ends Regular Season By Blanking Tampa, 13-0

From The Sidelines

By Alan Whitmarsh
Sports Staff

ETS BREAK RECORD

basketball team which preceded them in the the Florida State basketball team seems g the 1954-1955 sports season a record- the Seminoles. They're off to a good 63 points they piled up in the Jacksonville aturday night is a new record for FSU. mark of 99 was set against Florida Southoles' 8-2 posting against state teams was state last year, and a similar performance t take on added significance for it will a title in the new Florida Intercollegiate nference. The winner of that conference be a choice prospect for the local district NAIA, whose tournament at the end of "World Series" of small-college basket-ne most encouraging aspects of the Semi- ball team is that there are only three Seniors nson squad, leaving a strong nucleus for presence of Rick Benson and Gary Wold, es the team necessary height, and the im- play-makers Jim Oler and Ham Wernke verestimated. These two boys produced 45 them in the win over Jacksonville State. oles made the new free throw rule pay State, pumping in 41 points from the foul ne parade, as expected, with 10. Jim may ord-setting total of 140 last year with the effect.

OLLEYBALL IN PRE-SEASON DEBUT

ida State volleyball team, a little-known has made quite a name for itself and Flori- their sport, opens its season in St. Peters- eekend where they will defend their cham- the St. Petersburg Invitational Volleyball This is an open tournament and any colle- forces, boys clubs or anyone else may enter e direction of Coach Bill Odeneal the volley- ished quite a record for themselves last g four of the five tournaments they entered second in the other one. They also produc- American, Howard Gould.

nd Stan Humphries are among those miss- but their is a strong nucleus returning ther successful season. Leading the veterans Bernie McCann, who made All-State as a year, and Coach Odeneal feels that Bernie his year and may make a bigger name for ho back are lettermen Phil Sloton, Harold Ray Johnson.

ers expected to sparkle for the team in- Lazarec, Nick Menendez, John Fitch and Bill Plans for this year include trips to the ational tourney and the National Open at the University of Oklahoma.

DDERS STRONG FOR NEXT YEAR

tball version of the Seminoles finished their season with a victory over Tampa Saturday w begin preparation for their Sun Bowl clash Western on New Year's Day. Western is l known in these parts but they have built reputation among small schools in Texas. ng with the Seminoles though, by about one seniors are graduating from this year's team is an exceptionally strong nucleus for next ally due to the fact that 19 freshmen played otball this season.

Seminole Five Wins, 103-76; New Record

Jim Oler, Wernke Pace Initial Victory Of Year Over Jax State Team

The Florida State University opened its basketball season Saturday night in Tallahassee by outscoring a game Jacksonville State team from Alabama, 103-76, and in the process set a new scoring record.

The previous high was the 99 points that was scored in beating Florida Southern last year.

FSU scoring aces Ham Wernke and Jimmy Oler took up where they left off in their hot scoring battle of last year in the clash against the Teachers.

Wernke, a senior, and Helms Foundation All-America choice, made 19 points. Oler, only a junior, scored 16 points and played a good floor game.

Another record was broken when the Seminoles connected on 41 free throws. The old record was 32, made against Miami last season.

Jax. State	G	TP	Fat
Yates†	5	1	1
Bowen	5	2	2
Hall	5	2	1
Bedsole	5	1	2
Armwood	5	4	1
Wyrwicka	5	2	3
Burell	5	7	1
Hamilton	5	0	1
Wilson	5	0	1
Ward	5	3	0
Cleveland	5	4	0
Gorg	5	14	0
Totals	75	76	13

Totals 31 41 103
Half—FSU, 46; Jacksonville State, 30.

Free throws missed: Jacksonville State—Yates, Bowen, Hall, Bedsole 4, Wilson, Ward, Miller 4, Cralg 3, Pruzan 7. FSU—Bowen 2, Wernke 2, Oler, Wall, Wernke 1, Oler 2, Twomey 5.

Tau Epsilon Phi Initiates Rosenberg Honorary Member

Mr. Charles Rosenberg, President of the Semilnole Booster Club, was initiated last night as honorary member of Tau Epsilon Phi national social fraternity.

When interviewed, Mr. Rosenberg said that it was an "honor which I looked forward to with much. He added that he was very pleased to be in the fraternity.

Mr. Rosenberg was instrumental out only in establishing Tau Epsilon Phi on this campus but worked with the Tallahassee Chamber of Commerce in his capacity as President of the Semilnole Booster Club in getting Florida State University its bid to the Sun Bowl.

Jerry Klinsky, Chancellor of Tau Epsilon Phi, stated that Mr. Rosenberg was chosen because of his service not only to the community at large, but also for his services to the University as well.

ODK Taps Four Student Leaders For Membership

Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership honorary, tapped four Florida State University student leaders on November 23. The students honored were Coyle Moore, Bob Crenshaw, Jimmy Joanos and Alan Sandberg.

Qualifications necessary for membership are character, leadership and service in campus life, scholarship, fellowship and a consideration of democratic ideals.

"The purpose of this organization," announced President Jack Hosner, "is to recognize and encourage achievements in the fields of scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, speech, music and the dramatic arts."

ODK was founded at Washington and Lee University, December 3, 1914. The FSU Circle was installed May 13, 1950.

Active student members include Donnie Hollis, Vice-President and reporter; Doc Teal, treasurer; Harry Massey, Franklin Adams, Frank Bean, Dick Gutting and Pete Nimkoff.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The Christian Science Organization welcomes all students and faculty to the weekly testimonial meetings on Thursday evenings from 7 to 7:45 in room 217 Music Building. The study room for those interested in Christian Science literature, is open Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 2 to 5 p.m.

HOT AGAIN—FSU guard Ham Wernke, a three-year letterman and All-Starter, still has his scoring eye. The six-foot senior from Indiana neared 19 points Saturday night as the Tribe beat the Jacksonville State Teachers, 103-76.

Seminole Statistics

TEAM STATISTICS
(Tea-game totals)

	FSU	Opp.
Total first downs	138	77
Rushing	108	57
Passing	27	17
By Penalty	3	3
Total Rushing Yardage	3052	2489
No. Rushing Attempts	1890	1096
Net Rushing Yardage	1890	1358
Net Rushing Yardage	1162	1358
Net Passing Yardage	1358	1358
Total Passes Attempted	1671	970
Total Passes Completed	89	44
Av. Gain Pass Completion	16.2	11.2
Passes Intercepted by	4	4
Yards Returned	112	112
Total Punts	52.8	52.8
Average Punting per Game	305	156
Average Gain Rushing	1.63	1.56
Average Gain per Punt	37.1	37.1
Average Gain per Kick	2.7	2.7
Total Penalties	1818	1822
Yards Penalized	1818	1822
Average Penalty	1.1	1.1
Had Blocked	21	21
Yards Blocked	175.4	175.4
Yards Returned	1.1	1.1
Average Return	1.1	1.1
Kicks Returned	1.1	1.1
Yards Returned	1.1	1.1
Average Return	1.1	1.1
Fumbles Recovered	1.1	1.1
Yards Returned	1.1	1.1
Opponents Fumbles Lost	1.1	1.1
Total Points	1.1	1.1
By Rushing	1.1	1.1
By Passing	1.1	1.1
By Pass Interception	1.1	1.1
By Kick Returns	1.1	1.1
By Punt Returns	1.1	1.1
Extra Point Attempted	1.1	1.1
Made	1.1	1.1

TOURNAMENT TICKETS

Student tickets are now on sale at the Athletic Ticket Office in the Student Center for the Gator Bowl Basketball Tournament December 27-28 at Jacksonville's Shuster Gymnasium.

Cost is $1.75 for one game and $2.75 for both nights. Florida State University plays the University of Florida at 9 p. m. on the 27th while the University of Georgia plays Spring Hill at 7:30 p. m. The winners and losers play Tuesday (Dec. 28).

GAMMA PHI BETA OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

Observance of its eighthieth anniversary as a national social sorority was held by Gamma Phi Beta sorority recently. An banquet attended by alumnae, actives and pledges was held in the chapter house. Mrs. Mervyn F. Nimkoff, alumna, and Joyce Thomas, pledge, gave short talks on the meaning of Gamma Phi to its members.

Gamma Phi Beta was founded on the campus of Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York, on November 11, 1874. Since that time the sorority has grown from the four founders to over 30,000.

FILM PREVIEWS TO FEATURE 'WORLD UNDERSTANDING'

Film Previews will be shown tonight at 7:30, in the Trophy Room at the Student Center. The previews are sponsored by the Audio Visual Center, of Florida State University.

Films to be reviewed tonight are "Arabian Bazaar," "Japan, 60,000,000 Mouths To Feed," "Fox Hunt In Italy," and "Wanderers of the Desert." The theme of the preview is World Understanding.

Members who attend this meeting will be given a chance to help select the new additions to the Audio Visual Center's film library.

Spartans Hold FSU Attack In Last Half

Massey Throws Two Touchdown Passes

The Florida State University football team, looking wistfully a month ahead, almost went down for the ten count against Tampa Saturday night, but luckily had piled up enough points in the first half to outlast the sassy Spartans, 13-0, and therefore remained in the good graces of the Sun Bowl people, already committed to the Seminoles.

It was again the work of senior quarterback Harry Massey, the late-season whirlwind, that sparked the Tribe to their eighth victory in eleven games.

The Canton, Mississippi native threw for both scores. However, each time he took advantage of excellent ball-carrying ability on the part of the receivers.

The first score, which came in the first three minutes of the game after Rob Crenshaw had fallen on a Tampa bobble, was registered when sophomore halfback Lee Corso took a pass from the Spartan 28, reversed his field, and sped over for the score, his sixth of the campaign, giving him the team scoring lead with 38 points.

Massey then scored the second and final six-pointer, on a beautiful run of 42 yards after taking a screen-pass. Mettis appeared trapped more than once, but managed to stay on his feet for the whole trip.

After that, the Tampa line played havor with the FSU efforts and most of the offensive gestures on both teams were kept between the 20-yard lines.

STATISTICS

	Tampa	Fla. State
First Downs	12	17
Rushing yardage	193	222
Passing yardage	57	144
Passes attempted	14	19
Passes completed	5	8
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	5	4
Punting average	36	34
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards, penalties	25	40

FSU threatened again in the final minutes after moving from its 14 to the Tampa 16. Two passes fell incomplete, then Tampa back Ken Nuzzoli swiped a Massey aerial and ran it out in the 30 as the gun sounded to end the sweet music to the Tribe.

Tampa got 16 first downs, FSU 14. The Spartans ran for 193 yards as compared to 177 for the Tribe.

The Seminoles got 122 yards in the air, one of their few statistical edges over the Tampa squad.

Game captains for the Seminoles were the team's seven graduating seniors, Al Makowicki, Massey, Billy Graham, Jimmy Lee Taylor, Ronnie King, Robert Green and his brother, Carl.

The lineups:
Florida State
Left ends—Ironard, Taylor
Left tackles—Powell, Hinkle
Left guards—Bazzell, Thomas, Jacobs
Center—Crenshaw, Cullum
Right guards—Pacifico, Bryant
Right tackles—Carl, Barber
Right ends—Frazier, Schonhurst, Graham, Gilbert
Quarterback—Massey, Prince
Left halfbacks—Corso, Mettis, Hayward
Right halfbacks—Odom, Graham
Fullback—Hall, Ortner, King Tompa
Left ends—Sefcik, Knight
Left tackles—Leveth
Left guards—Wiehle, Duray
Center—George, Gedrick
Right guards—Zelopek, Garcia
Right tackles—Cahill, Rinaldi
Right end—Mays, McLeod
Quarterbacks—Meadows, Sharenlo
Left halfbacks—Herndon, Chrado, Ellis
Right halfbacks—Speck, Nuzzoli
Fullbacks—Fathers, Cambrell

TORCHES FIZZLE OUT; BEANIES GET AHEAD

While street and torch dances are banned because of the danger and destruction they involve, the freshman council at Brigham Young University has found a new use for the freshman beanies. Freshmen will turn in their blue and white chapeaux to be used as decorations for the homecoming float.

Danger of lighted torches being thrown under parked cars is prevalent, the Brigham Young Universe reports, and "some students in their enthusiasm at these unorganized dances, parade through theaters and cause damage."

AL TO PLAY—Al Makowicki, FSU's Little All-America tackle, has been given the go-ahead sign on his injured elbow and will see action January 1 when the Seminoles meet Texas Western in the Sun Bowl.

WITH THE COLUMNISTS

Tony Bracato writes in the Spectrum, University of Buffalo publication: They say a bride wears white because it's the most joyful day of her life. Wonder why the groom wears black? . . . Had so so up to the Bursar's office the other day. Rather enjoyed the trip—if only to be near my money . . . Remember, the best eraser is a good night's sleep.

This Is The Week Of CAROUSEL
Music by Richard Rodgers
Book and Lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein 2nd
Presented by the FSU
LIGHT OPERA GUILD
December 10, 11, 13, 14 8:15 P. M.
OPPERMAN MUSIC HALL
SEATS NOW ON SALE AT THE SCHOOL OF MUSIC OFFICE, UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE, ANY MEMBER OF SIGMA ALPHA IOTA
ALL SEATS 75c
NONE RESERVED
Buy Your Ticket Now and Be Sure of a Chance to See This Wonderful Broadway Show

The Most Popular 2-Way Cigarette
(Regular & King Size)
for every smoker on your list!
"HOME FOR CHRISTMAS"—Gift package of the season—colorful—attractive—designed by the famous artist, Stevan Dohanos. Remember all your smoking friends with the gift that really satisfies—Chesterfields. Best to give—best to smoke.
They Satisfy!

Do Your Christmas Shopping Early
FSU. Sorority and Fraternity Animals
Sweatshirts for the Kids Back Home
F.S.U. Footballs With Fight Song
F.S.U. Booties for new Nephew or Niece
Complete Line of CHRISTMAS CARDS by Norcross
at
MALONE'S BOOK STORE
107 S. Copeland

"It Needs Something At The Bottom"

Contest On Safe Driving Open To Students And Publications

A $2100 [illegible] contest on safe driving open to students and publications, has been announced by the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company.

The contest is open to all Florida State University students. To enter a student must have published material in The Florida Flambeau dealing with traffic safety, safe driving, or business conditions controlling safe driving.

Entries must be submitted to the sponsors by January 15, and will be judged on the originality of material, method of presentation to the reader and general effectiveness and vigor of the campaign," Flambeau Editor Bob Folsom said he would be happy to publish any material submitted by FSU students who conforms in quality and nature with that sought after by the sponsors.

After being published material must be submitted to committee will hold a meeting today at 3 p.m. in senate room 3c in. These may be obtained by sending name and address of interest will be open for anyone Lumbermens Mutual Casualty interested.

Editor Folsom urged that students who plan to enter the contest read all for contest material and extra blanks as soon as possible in order for entries to be printed in the paper before the deadline date.

Individual prizes offered are $100 each for the best article feature editorial, cartoon and photograph. Prizes of $450 will be awarded daily and non-daily college papers for the best traffic safety campaigns.

SENATE NOTICE

The Senate organizations finance committee will hold a meeting today at 3 p.m. in senate room 3c in. These may be obtained by to consider the finance bill. The REACTIVATED—Shown above are members of Sigma Tau Delta, national English honorary fraternity, which was recently reactivated at FSU by Drs. Claude Flory and W. H. Rogers, professors of English. Front- l. to r. are Dr. Sarah Herndon, Crystal McRae, Barbara Lewis, Janet Sitges, Kay Haines. Frances Helms, Greta Sims, Dawn Sharp, Ruth Henshaw.

Back row, l. to r., Dr. Rogers, Marie Marjenhoft. John McCall. Jeannie Parker, Stewart Vandibiere, Miriam Wilson, Peter Nimkoff, Dr. Flory and Dr. Griffeth Pugh. Not pictured are members Virginia Smith, Robert Loomis, Lee Pryor, Taylor Littleton, Ben Henry and Betty Jean Nichols. At a recent meeting, Kay Haines was elected president.

Randel Re-elected Head Of Southeast American Studies

Dr. William Randel, professor of English and head of the Florida State University American Studies program, was re-elected president of the Southeastern American Studies Association.

His election was at the group's second annual meeting, held Thanksgiving weekend in Columbia, South Carolina.

Dr. Randel is founder of the FSU program, which is now in its sixth year as a major or minor field of study at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

He is also editor of American Studies Leaders in the United States who are featured in the current issue of Mademoiselle magazine. The article also tells how FSU program stacks up to those of the other three men featured.

News Digest

(Continued from page 1)

In my opinion Mr. Reese is right on every count I fully agree with her opposition to segregation. That's beside the point.

Her anonymous assailants have resorted to tactics in Mr. Dorn to frighten her. They have smeared the front of her newspaper office with the letters KKK written in blood-red paint. They have harassed her by ringing her phone in the middle of the night. They even resorted to the foul trick of poisoning her watchdog, whom she had said would 'make mincemeat out of cross-burners.'

These are cowards—methods. And they've gotten the wrong man who won't run exactly—where.

For the Polk County Democrat and the Florida Newspaper News and Radio Digest to use only the arguments that they did, namely, that there is no point to the effort, is to sanction these cowards and their filthy tactics.

Movies

(Continued from page 2)

ple who dislike that film, but consider the best films ever seen throughout your life —if you're an active moviegoer—and you may be surprised at the amount of older films rather than current releases.

Notice that I left out Charlie Chaplin's great efforts such as The Gold Rush, City Lights and Modern Times. I have seen, but it would only rate seventh out of the most. What are your favorite five Professors or Students, I'd like to know.

Knifed Student

(Continued from Page 1)

and left.

"The students rode around town, got something to eat and rode out the old Dixie Beach who was and drove into Club 27. When they started inside the club they saw the fight there, which was occupied by the parties who had assaulted Natcho.

The students started inside and met Natcho on the porch. They asked the men if they were with the crowd in the Pontiac, the men replied they were, and a fight got into progress in which Natcho was severely cut, probably by a sharp knife."

Theta Chi

(Continued from Page 1)

Its chances on Bill Suttlemeyer, Don Hasslorder, Jerry Connell, Pete Wooten, Joe Southard, Jim O'Neal, Bill Dyer.

Loud Jett, John Rowe, Jim Kirby, Fred Mansfield, Charlie D'Auniacine, Charlie Cutler, Bob David, Ed David, Paul Skoglund, Larry Kersey.

Jack Holmes, Eddie Wycoff, Hunt Wooten, Dave Donnelly, Gernce Acklins and Charlie Darnell.

Election

(Continued from page 2)

only myself and Senator Vaughn, but many other Senators are against the bill.

In conclusion Mr. Greenfield I have talked with numerous students from all classes, and as such I feel more antagonized than ever in opposition to this Senate Elections Bill

BILL STANCIK

Oelschlager Named Newsletter Editor At Language Meet

Dr. Victor R. B. Oelschlager, head of the Florida State University modern language department, was appointed editor of the All State of Florida Foreign Language News Letter.

He was one of 16 FSU faculty members attending the 21th annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association November 25-27 at the University of South Carolina.

The convention was primarily devoted to the discussion of language problems and research in such literary problems and research.

Discussed extensively at the convention were plans for a definite move to promote elementary foreign language study in the primary school. Another example of improving foreign language work in universities is a foreign language laboratory at FSU, one of several in the United States.

Among the officers and leaders of the convention from FSU were man of the Spanish department; Dr. Graciosa S. Debaud, Lochalatchee; Dr. Oelschlager, chairman of the old department; Dr. Mar Spani Spanish II department; Dr. Marcuard L. Campbell, chairman of the Nominating Committee, and Dr. Heriberto Larrea, chairman of the Teaching Problems department.

Continued from page 2

Guest speakers from Florida State University were Dr. Weyand Smith Jordan, professor of history, Mr. Octavio Perez, associate professor of education, and Dr. William Randel, professor of English.

Chester Is Named By Nimkoff To Fill Administrative Post

Clinton Chester, second-semester sophomore and All Force fullback, who was Student Party candidate for the Student Senator last spring, has been appointed to an administrative assistant to the executive branch of Student Government, President Peter Nimkoff announced this week.

Chester's duties will be to assist the President and members of the cabinet in their executive responsibilities, said Nimkoff, and particularly to serve as a liason capacity between student government and its professional contacts.

"I feel there is a great need for one full perhaps more administrative assistants," said Nimkoff, because of the almost volumous opportunities for us that are before us if we have a sufficient staff."

Moore Returns From Meeting In New York

Cosse Moore, vice-president of the student body, represented Florida State University at the Congress of American Industries' annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City. The Congress began November 29, and ended December 1.

Returning Sunday, Moore said he was greatly impressed with the speech of the United States industrial potential.

"I feel that the Congress served its purpose in making students aware of the role played by industry in preserving our freedom," he continued.

Moore was recently chosen as one of nineteen students of Florida on the basis of his scholastic standing, leadership and personality record by officials of the Associate Industries of Florida in cooperation with the National Association of Manufacturers, who sponsor the Congress.

Outstanding students were chosen from each of the 48 states to attend the annual Congress. The students stayed at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York. About 1,000 industrial leaders of America were present at the Congress in addition to the students.

The NAM conference theme was "Building A Better America." The purpose was to provide education on America's industrial potential and development, and also to make the students aware of America's problems and importance of America's industries, revealed Moore.

Large numbers of industrial leaders explained the industrial set up of the United States and the recent developments in industry. Douglas McArthur, former U. S. Army general, Walter Bedell Smith, former under-Secretary of State and General Carlos Romulo, former envoy from Philippines, were principal speakers at the convention.

Before returning home, Moore flew from New York to Daytona Beach, Saturday, to deliver a speech at the Florida District of Key Clubs convention

TARPON INVITES MALE TRYOUTS

Tryouts for men who are interested in swimming with the Tarpon Club will be held Tuesday night at 6:45 in the Women's Gym, announced publicity manager Linda Cleveland.

Ann Hodges Voted Student Nurse V.P.

Ann Hodges, president of the Student Nurses Association on this campus, was recently elected vice-president of the Florida Association of Student Nurses, the Florida Flambeau learned this week.

Miss Hodges was elected at the Association's meeting early this month, held in connunction with the Florida State Nurses Association annual state convention in Jacksonville. Other FSU students attending were Janet Hadood Betty Anne King. Arlene Peterson represented the senior nursing students meeting at Miami.

The local student nurses group heard a report on the convention last week at their regular monthly meeting, which was held in the institutional powers. Miami was also the site of President that all of the Student Body President's actions are and must be approved by the Student Senate. Also the Florida State University Student Body through the medium of public finance.

3. We of the minority further believe that senate should not make decisive trends since this Senate is the top legislative branch of student government. It is therefore possible that Senates in future years might look to the 1955 Senate. If Senate passes Senate Bill No. 10, and use it as a basic trend for taking out of the hand of the chief executive the power to appoint members of the Judiciary and thus make our

Sigma Tau Delta, English Honorary, Elects Officers

Sigma Tau Delta, national English honorary, has been reactivated on this campus, announced professor and head, William H. Rogers, and professor Claude Flory of the English department.

At a recent meeting, Kay Haines was elected president Janet Sitges, secretary, and Robert Loomis, treasurer. Plans are in progress for a series of petite programs which will be of interest not only to English majors but to all students, it was announced.

The purpose of the honorary is to further interest in literature and creative ability. It is open to Juniors and Seniors with

Classified Ads

FOR SALE—Men's size 26 bicycle. Good condition. Contact Gale Turgle, phone 5651. Box 5963.

LOST Blue wallet in front of Bernbalm Hall. Contains important papers. Finder may keep money, return wallet to Reynolds office.

ROOMS, MEN—Linen, maid service, telephone, reasonable. Call 3-6478. 547 West College.

Text Of Minority Report

Mr President, we of the minority of the Elections and Appointments Committee feel the necessity of writing a contrary report in lieu of several objections regarding Senate Bill No. 10. First we would like to state that we of the minority have truthfully tried to evaluate the Senate Bill in question with a fair and open mind, and we have discussed the problem openly with the majority members of the Elections and Appointments Committee and a Professor in the Department of Political Science.

As such Mr. President we are opposed to the bill primarily because

1 There is a definite tendency to Run-off and Special Elections and in even Regular Elections for a small turnout, and we feel that in a Special Election the turnout might be especially small; consequently a Senator might be elected by a very small percentage of the class in question. In other words, we feel that a very few friends of the candidate who are in a fraternity or oo a dormitory floor might be able to swing the election. Looking at our present system, all appointments must be approved by the Senate and we feel that the Senate is extremely representative of the Students. Also it would be almost impossible for one person to receive a majority vote in such an election due to the many individuals in our east in proportion to the number of votes cast. Also the cost of more run-off elections would be necessary.

2. The President has many duties and powers and we firmly believe that he has the authority and power to appoint individuals to vacancies in an elected office. Also it would be almost impossible for one person to receive a majority vote in such an election due to the many individuals in our elected president, it is implied above all else, that the student body as a whole has more confidence in their chief executive than in a majority Senate. We feel that as senators we should realize this and not be hasty in supporting such an important constitutional powers. Might we also add that we feel that all of the Student Body President's actions are and must be approved by the Student Senate through the medium of public finance.

3. We of the minority further believe that senate should not make decisive trends since this Senate is the top legislative branch of student government. It is therefore possible that Senates in future years might look to the 1955 Senate. If Senate passes Senate Bill No. 10, and use it as a basic trend for taking out of the hand of the chief executive the power to appoint members of the Judiciary and thus make our President appear more as a figurehead.

4 We of the minority further believe that in Special Run-off Elections some candidate will be handpressed financially. This arises because the deadline month spend $25 in a special election, lose the election, also spend another $25 in a run-off election; making a possible total of $50 spent in campaigning for one Senate seat. As such any candidate might not be able to run in the Special Election because of financial limitations.

5. We of the minority further believe that the main attack used in support of Senate Bill No. 10 is plain and simple. Some students decide " We feel that this private "let the students decide" is extremely impressive as that strong feelins of responsibility for voting and participate in Public Affairs is not widespread here at Florida State University. Consequently we respond to our basic premise that a special election of few persons to run the election—as it stands by the appointment is fine; the President, a person made by the majority of the students placed their faith in, and must be confirmed by the Student Senate, a most representative group.

Mr. President for these stated reasons we staunchly oppose Senate Bill No 10 and we feel that it be defeated by the Senate at this evening's meeting.

Respectfully submitted,

NANCY VAUGHN
BILL STANCIK

Chaplin Films To Be Shown At 3 p.m. In Special Program

A special showing of "The Chaplin Festival" has been arranged for tomorrow afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Leisure Lounge, announced professor Karl, president of the FSU Film Club.

All members who can not make the showings at 4:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday evening are invited to attend this special presentation and students active in "The Beautiful People" play rehearsals are invited as special guests.

The film club will show two films with a musical sound track featuring the famed comedian of the silent era and also several early films by Walt Disney and others on the program. This is one of the highlights of the FSU Film Club's film program for the year.

The Department of Speech announces

The Beautiful People

by
William Saroyan

December 10, 11, 13 and 14

Conradi Theatre
8:15 p. m.

Tickets:
Students: 40c and activity stub No. 9
General Admission: 75c
All seats reserved

Box office opens Wednesday, December 8

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES

FLORIDA

TODAY
"Black Widow"
Ginger Rogers
Van Heflin
Gene Tierney
Wednesday Thru Tues.
"DESIREE"
Marlon Brando
Jean Simmons
in Cinemascope

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR

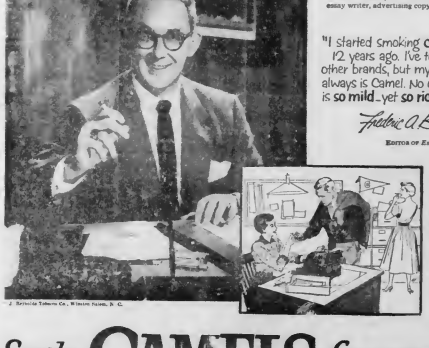
Today & Tomorrow
"It Should Happen to You"
Judy Holiday
Peter Lawford
Jack Lemmon
Thursday
"Son of Cochise"
Robert Stack
Richard Boone
plus
"Breaking the Sound Barrier"
Richard Richardson
Ann Todd

STATE

TODAY
"Rogue Cop"
Robert Taylor
Janet Leigh
Georgia Rate
Wednesday Thru Tues.
"The Last Time I Saw Paris"
Elizabeth Taylor
Van Johnson
Walter Pidgeon
Donna Reed

CAPITOL DRIVE-IN
ON WOODVILLE HWY.

Today & Tomorrow
"Salome"
Rita Hayworth
Stewart Granger
Thursday
"Last Posse"
Wanda Hendricks
Broderick Crawford
plus
"Crazy Legs"
Elyse Hirsch



Shop now for Christmas and relax!

Why not shop now for Dads, uncles and brothers? The campus stores are neat, free crowded, and loaded with smart Arrow items for the male side of your Christmas list.

Be it shirts, ties, casual wear, handkerchiefs, or underwear, Arrow has them in smooth styles and perfect fit. Get them now and spend your vacation days restin and rompin in the easy casual manner. Slide down to the man who sells Arrow and make your Christmas-shopping cares today!

ARROW SHIRTS & TIES
UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • CASUAL WEAR

Success Story..... AND HOW IT STARTED. FRED BIRMINGHAM says:
"I've wanted to be an editor ever since I worked on a boy's magazine at age 8. After being an editor of the Dartmouth literary magazine (The Dart), I set my sights on Esquire. It took 18 years of hard work to achieve the editorship—after struggling as a newspaper cub, cartoon and essay writer, advertising copy writer and trade paper editor."

"I started smoking CAMELS 10 years ago. I've tried many other brands, but my choice always is Camel. No other brand is so mild...yet so rich-tasting!"

Frederic A. Birmingham
EDITOR of Esquire MAGAZINE

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF!
Make the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days!

SUCCESS STORY:
Camels — America's most popular cigarette . . . by far!

J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Smoke CAMELS for more pure pleasure

Administration Explains Holiday Absences (See below)

The Florida Flambeau

Amendment Fails By Lack of 1 Vote (See below)

VOL. XL NO. 20 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1954

Council Says Holidays Over On January 3

Bowl Excuse Valid; Collins' Installation Set Following Day

The University Executive Committee announced that all classes to be held here on Monday, January 3, as an end to the Christmas vacation.

Registrar Charles S. Walker, however, said that the following Tuesday, will be an official holiday for the inauguration Monday, January 3, will be a school day. He added that students who go to El Paso, Texas, for the Sun Bowl Game Saturday are asked to stay on as having gone there, "Out of Men or Women's Gym upon their return." he concluded.

He said that absence from class Monday for students who do not go to the game will depend on each of the semester-grade average, although that will not be the case Wednesday.

Dean Odyssey said that the Executive Council decided to declare a holiday in order to allow FSU students an opportunity to see Senator Collins inaugurated Governor of Florida. University offices will be closed Tuesday.

He went on that the main reason the council decided to declare a class day was that only on highways in this region will be exceptionally heavy Monday as visitors come to Tallahassee for the inauguration.

Under the system established, all students will have to return to FSU Saturday and Sunday in order to be at class Monday. It pointed out that the Executive Council felt that it would be unable experience" if they were to attend the inauguration the following day.

He concluded that the Executive Council, using the Honor System that those students who have an opportunity will be back to attend the Sun Bowl game and will be penalized for missing class.

AFROTC Students Make First Flights In Jet Two-Seater

Fifty members of Florida State University's Air Force ROTC unit have had their first flights in a military jet plane tomorrow, announced Lt. Col. J. Hinsdale, professor this week.

The cadets will follow a program of 41 to 45 flights each week. Hinsdale said that flying will be done in a two-seat version of the F-80 Shooting Star at speeds up to 500 mph. Only cadets will be allowed to steer the planes themselves for much of the one-hour flights, he added.

Preparations were begun yesterday for the second group, he continued, with simulated flight and controls here. The cadets will go to tour Tyndall Air Force Base in Panama City today to learn a second pre-flight briefing, and take to the air tomorrow.

Hamilton said the purpose of the project is "flying indoctrination and motivation for AFROTC cadets." He added that a representative group was selected, including Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors. Lots were drawn by all groups except the Sophomores, who had priority.

The Sophomores were given first chance, said Hamilton, because completion of a flight is necessary in order to complete the two-year air science program along with other studies at FSU. Those who do not take the flights receive no less the last two years. After program completion and graduation, Cadets will be eligible for application as 2nd Lieutenants in the United States Air Force Reserve, and further training toward receiving their wings as pilots or observers in the Air Force.

Pi Delta Phi Holds Christmas Program Tonight, Longmire

Initiates to Pi Delta Phi, French honorary, will hold a Christmas party tonight at 8 in Carr Lounge, Longmire Building, said spokesman Ann Opsahl.

A program in French, "The Doctor In Spite of Himself," will be presented. Also on the program will be singing of French songs by Louise Gillespie, in which herself Reverand Mr. Hamilton will play piano. Miss Opsahl said that refreshments will be served.

Staff Photo by Al Robbins

SO I WANT SOME HELP—Shown above is a portion of Wednesday night's turnout at the FSU Scholarship Club Help Session. Sessions will be held each weekday night in room 401 Education. L. to r., are Barbara Mappin, Patty Cain, Mike Row, Larry Moore (chief instructor), Bill Cullom, Eleanor Koerber, Rebecca Blount and Don Fussell, instructor.

Alpha Council Installs Beta Chapter Today

Alpha Council, Florida State University fraternity and Presbyterian men's leadership honorary, will become a national organization today, according to President Bobby Temple.

A group of local students went to travel across state to install a second chapter of Alpha Council at Pensacola Junior College said Temple. It will be called the Beta chapter of Alpha Council.

The Alpha Council was formed last year by Gold Key as a means of recognizing potential leadership among underclassmen. He continued that was recently elected to allow for affiliation of other chapters.

Temple said that making the trip would be himself, Jimmy Sales, Jim Nelson and Fay Winslow. He added that the formalities of a second chapter of Alpha Council was done in large part to the efforts of Lynn Wilder, former Alpha Council member here who transferred to Pensacola Junior College this semester. Wilder was elected president of the student body there and since then has worked to have an Alpha Council chapter there.

Temple declared that a candlelight installation ceremony had been worked out. It will introduce the new members to the purposes of the group, and of its history. It will include initiation of office for new officers. Highlighting the ceremony will be the presentation of a charter to the second chapter of Alpha Council.

Committee Selects Notable Seniors For Who's Who

Thirty-two outstanding Florida State University Seniors were nominated today for the 1954-55 Who's Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Chairman of the selection committee were Graham Carothers and Beverly Dodge announced. The nominations will have to be approved by the national organization before official announcement.

Two students were chosen from each of the following fields: University government, scholarship, publications, athletics, social and general organizations, speech, circus and religion, to serve on the selection committee.

Seniors voted Monday evening to elect 30 from the 32 nominated by the committee. Results of the voting had not been announced at presstime.

Ten Finalists In Running For Beauty Crown

Out of approximately fifty in the running, ten were selected as finalists for "Miss Junior Class" in the Tally-Ho contest, Wednesday evening.

Each sorority and women's dormitory were allowed to nominate two women while the men's fraternities and dormitories and could sponsor one contestant each.

The finalists and their sponsors are LaVista Armstrong, Florida Hall; Margaret Ann Ballinger, Delta Gamma; Mary Carolyn Branch, Kappa Delta; Barbara Brown, Alpha Chi Omega; Jackie Goddard, Tri Delta; Virginia Sasser, Alpha Delta Pi; Cynthia Stewart, Pi Beta Phi; Anita Wall, Kappa Sigma and Ann Yates, Zeta Tau Alpha.

The Judges who selected the finalists were Dr. A. B. Martin, University vice president; Dr. James Buchanan, Professor of Economics; Miss Daisy Parker, Assistant Professor of Political Science; Peter Nimkoff, Student Body President; Harry Massey, Senior Class President; and Tom Woods, Tally-Ho Editor.

Miss Florida State University will be selected by a prominent motion picture from the movie industry, who is yet to be named Woods said. The winner will be announced at the Tally-Ho annual banquet where she will be guest of honor. Prior to this time the identity of the girl will not be revealed.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

All freshmen and transfer students who have not taken the below named, required tests may do so at the indicated times in room 126 Science on Wednesday, December 15. Students not satisfying this requirement will have second semester registration withheld.

3:00 p.m. A.C.E. Psychological Test.

5:00 p.m. Minnesota Personality Scale.

Lambda Chi, Theta Chi Clash In Stadium Tomorrow At 2 p.m.

The annual Charity Bowl football game between Lambda Chi Alpha and Theta Chi fraternities is slated for tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Doak S. Campbell Stadium.

Tickets for the affair are being sold on campus by fraternity members for 50 cents each. Proceeds will go to the Campus Chest.

When questioned this week about which team he thought would win, Theta Chi president Walter Hyde declared that, in his opinion, Theta Chi stood the best chance of winning. Lambda Chi president Tommy Fountain, however, expressed the negative view, stating that Lambda Chi would emerge victor.

The charity bowl game is a tackle football game, played with equipment furnished by the university. Each year a Charity Bowl Queen is selected from entries made by sororities, fraternities and dormitories, and crowned during the halftime show.

Vieing for the title of Charity Bowl Queen are Sandra Walker, Pi Beta Phi; Ann Gynn, Sigma Kappa; Betty Jane Sharp, Alpha Gamma; Carol Sale, Alpha Chi Omega; Jackie Goddard, Tri Delta; and Martha Sue Mikell, nominated by Delta Zeta.

Other contestants for the honor and their sponsors are Mary Jane Albert, Alpha Xi Delta; Eileen Ware, Zeta Tau Alpha; Betty Jo Miller, Sigma Nu; Gail Bunting, Alpha Delta Pi; Sis Sellers, Gamma; Linda Brown, Alpha Omicron Pi; and Nan Whipping-ham, Chi Omega.

Modern Language Professors Attend Conference At UF

Four faculty members of the Department of Modern Languages attended the Caribbean Conference at the University of Florida last week.

The delegation included Dr. G. Ross Scanlon, Spanish professor and National President of the Spanish Section of Teachers of Spanish and Portugese.

Dr. DeLand recently addressed the Spanish section of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association at its session in Columbia, S. C.

Other faculty members who attended the Caribbean conference were Dr. Margaret V. Campbell, associate professor of French; Miss Marjory Judy, instructor of Spanish, and Miss Edith Foster, graduate assistant in the department of Modern Languages.

FSU Administrators Attend Convention Warren, Chairman

Dean of Women, Katherine Warren, director of personnel records John Flournoy, Dr. Melvene Draper, dean of Men, Ruth Strang, coordinator and assistant coordinator of counseling, represented Florida State University at a meeting of the Southern College Personnel Association at Williamsburg, Va., December 2-4.

Dean Warren was chairman of program arrangements; Flournoy headed a discussion and demonstration of the use of central records systems; Dr. Draper was in charge of a panel discussion to consider the contemporary student in higher education, and Dr. Tinney was scheduled to participate in a panel to consider allocation of the superior student.

GI CHECKS MAILED

Advance checks for veterans training under the Korean Training Bill and serviced by the Public Affairs Veterans Administration office will be delivered on December 17, according to H. P. Dickensheets, manager of that office.

Although training allowance checks are ordinarily paid on the 20th of each month, said Dickensheets, the early delivery date is being used so that checks may be received by veterans before they leave for Christmas holidays.

Pan-Hel Gives Annual Dance Saturday Night

Village Vamps Tap At Yuletide Affair; Delts Praffer Award

This year's Panhellenic Christmas Dance will be held tomorrow night from 8:30 to midnight in the Suwannee Room.

One highlight of the affair will be the tapping of 25 new members of the Village Vamps, honorary campus hostess organization. Two rush parties have been held for prospective members. Orchestra for the Saturday night dance will be Sammy Graham, said sponsors. The 1953 Pan-Hel dance featured the music of the Auburn Knights.

The dance is a closed affair, open only to sorority members and their dates. Tickets are being sold at 5 corsage per couple.

Delta Tau Delta fraternity will introduce an award at the dance for the "Sorority of the Year," which will from now on be given each year, said spokesman Lloyd Carruth.

He added that points for selection the winning sorority are given in the group and also individuals for active participation and achievement of the following fields: scholarship, intramurals, national honoraries, local clubs, sorority projects and publications.

June Yates, Village Vamps publicity chairman, announced that this year rushing has included transfer students and Freshmen, bringing an end to the "no rush" policies, personality and beauty.

The Vamps have selected all incoming football teams at the airport, and this year are subscribing to the speech department productions.

Other Vamp projects this year have been the sale of Christmas cards which netted $45 for the Campus Chest, and the sale of registration booth in front of Westcott Building during Homecoming.

Officers are Betty Jo Miller, president; Jo Ann Nutto, vice-president Nancy Warner, secretary and Margaret Ann Ballinger, treasurer.

Junior Class Holds Drive For Clothing For Needy People

A drive to obtain old clothing for needy people in connection with the Salvation Army's work in that field, is being held by the Junior Class, president Bob Crenshaw announced.

He said that class representatives are placing boxes in each of the sorority and fraternity houses and that each pledge class this week.

It is hoped that the boxes will be filled and overflowing," commented Crenshaw. "Anything can be given to the Salvation Army will be a good repair."

Pointing out that the project is the first one to be sponsored by the Junior Class, Crenshaw added, "I feel that everyone should help the help of the entire campus in this worthwhile project and we would appreciate everyone's cooperation."

The Salvation Army will distribute the boxes on or around December 15, in time to distribute the clothing before the rush for Christmas, Crenshaw concluded.

DANCE TRYOUTS HELD THURSDAY

Cavalier and Collins tryouts were held last night from 7 until 9 pm at the Student Center. Semi-finals will be the following Thursday at the same time.

Plans are now being made for Cavalier and Collins's annual dance.

Election Amendment Fails To Acquire Required Majority

Factions Clash On Proposition To Allow Vote

Students Speak To Senators About Act; Cabb Defends Bill

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Men's vice-president Gordon Gaster began the debate on his controversial special elections amendment, which was killed the week before but which he succeeded in bringing back to the agenda for this week's meeting.

Gaster yielded the floor to Senator Bates, who introduced Senator Jimmy Jeanes, as opponent of the bill, to let the students vote on the amendment by not blocking it in Senate.

Jeanes countered with the argument that "the more elections there are the harder it is to get the students out to vote."

"I have enough faith in the students to say they'll get out and vote," he concluded.

Senator Hank McCann drove at the point that if a special election is held it will be for a reason and it would most likely be held in the fall, at the time that the elections spirit of the freshmen would infuse the class holding a special election.

(Opposition to the amendment centered largely on the proposition that voting turnout for special elections would be poor and would tend to discredit to regular elections as well.)

Senator Bobby Temple declared that among thirty students he said he had contacted, opinion was two to one against the amendment.

Senator Bill Stanczak solicited Temple, asserting that "most of the students are wholeheartedly behind this bill."

Gaster yielded the floor to Student Senator Wm. Cabb, author of the opposition arguments position.

Cabb charged that no governmental executive has the powers of dissolving legislative assemblies, as the student government chief executive has sought to do.

"This deification of the states quo is rather appalling," commented Cabb in his opening.

Cabb intimated letting the students vote on replacements would be better than letting the Senate debate on presidential appointments.

Cabb further asserted that taking away the president's power of legislative appointment would be

(Continued on page 8)

Rubylea Hall

Author Speaks On Seminoles At Coffee Hour

Guest of honor at today's English Coffee Hour will be Mrs. Rubylea Hall of Lakeland. The well-known author, a graduate of FSU, will speak on the Seminole Indians and on her newest book, Westminster House this afternoon at 4.

Mrs. Hall is well qualified to discuss the Seminoles as she has done much research to make her book authentic. Her latest book The Flamingo Prince concerns Osceola, the famed Seminole Indian, in his youth.

This book is partly based on family traditions handed down through four generations in Florida. Mrs. Hall's ancestors were among the first white men to settle in the Apalachicola country. He's great-grandfather, Green Cobrae, was a scout for the federal troops during the Indian wars. Francis Lewis Cobrae's friend and never natively fought the Indians.

Mrs. Hall's heard it said that Osceola had a wonderful personality, that as a youth he was kind, always teasing and laughing, generous and considerate, though proud and intelligent when faced with a difficult problem," says Mrs. Hall. "It makes one wonder what his tragic influence must have played a part in changing this young Indian, if he became the unmitigated scoundrel many thought he was. I have my grandfather's version which came from his father—but that was a friend seeing excuse for another's behavior, no doubt."

Mrs. Hall has not only researched the tale of the Indians of Florida but has also been interested in the history of the Florida Seminoles. Her first book seller was THE GREAT TIDE, a story of old Fort St. Joseph which was destroyed by a hurricane and a yellow fever epidemic.

Her story, Davey, is about a young boy growing up in the Florida woods. It was considered by comparied with Marjorie Rawling's book The Yearling.

Right now Mrs. Hall is finishing a new book, KING OF THIEVES which will be published early in 1956, and also has another book in mind.

(Continued on page 8)

Senators May Urge Passage By Referendum

Amendment Would Allow Students To Vote On Vacancy

Men's Vice-President Gordon Gaster's special elections amendment failed to pass the Senate Wednesday due to lack of a two-thirds majority.

After an hour of debate during which three private students were given the floor to speak for and against Gaster's amendment, it failed on a roll call vote, 14 in favor, nine against, thus by a vote short of the two-thirds majority.

Gaster's bill was to provide for an election on an amendment to the Student Body Constitution. The amendment provides for special elections se fill vacancies in Student Senate, Student Body President, if present, the Student Body president appoints and confirmation. Under the Gaster amendment, these would be elected, but instead of appointed by the chief executive, with two-thirds majority confirmation by the Student Senate.

After the amendment's failure to pass, Senator Jimmy Sales stated that he would begin circulating a petition to bring the amendment before the Student Body without Senate confirmation. Three hundred signatures are required for that purpose.

During its meeting Wednesday the Senate also passed Senator Ken Collins's bill to modify and amend the Florida Laws of the University. A move to delay voting on the bill for a week was defeated.

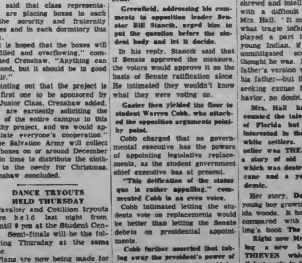
Among other things, Collin's bill states that "any surplus money (from the Student Activity Fee) at the end of the school year shall be added to student activities surplus fund to be carried over to the next school year and budgeted for other purposes by the Budget Committee. (With approval of the Senate.)

The Senate act, however, must be approved by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. Since the bill is considered by Collin, unused Student activity money has been reabsorbed by the administration, there is some doubt that this provision will pass the Committee.

The permanent Elections and Appointments Committees, which was asked last week to study the possibility of dividing the Committee into two, for purposes of student government representation, reported that the Senate Committee to Study Student Government has been considering the idea with the view of the other group's work, the Elections and Appointments Committee was asked to duplicate it.

The appointments of Jack Norton and Bruce Fletcher as Assistants to the Attorney General was read by the Senate. Martha Grimard, Evelyn Brown, Clem Townsend and Gordon Lindsey were appointed to the Secretary of Organization's committee and Douglas Mayo was named as a non-voting member of that group.

The Elections and Appointments Committee will conduct a hearing on the appointment Monday afternoon at 4 in Longmire Building. Senate is expected to vote on the matter at their confirmation.



Senator Ann Mulford's Labor, Student Services and Education Committee reported on its conference with Dr. Robert G. Hathaway, chief physician of the University Infirmary.

The report said that students admitted to the infirmary will henceforth be released from classes they may miss while staying in the infirmary.

The committee reported that the infirmary's food prices are "reasonable" and that they said that "they won't go down."

Senator Jeanes' bill to Harmony visiting hours may be extended to include 2 to 3 p.m. as well as the present 7 to 8 p.m.

Women's Glee Club Hold Christmas Vespers

Staff Photo by Lloyd Anderson

AT HISTORY CLASS?—Student above leads members of the Women's Glee Club, which performs Sunday in Oppenheimer Music Hall.

The 28th annual Christmas vespers will be presented by the Women's Glee Club Sunday, December 19 at 5 p.m. in Oppenheimer Music Hall.

This traditional program of Christmas music will be under the direction of Betty Jane Grimm while the program will be narrated by Rep Flynn. Accompanist will be Katherine Bechtel.

Among the selections are such as the popular "Glory To God In The Highest," which will be sung by Deborah Pennell, Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy Aeon Nydegger and "Alleluia," whose descant will be sung by Shirley Dellas and Deborah Pennel.

The program will be divided into four parts with the first centering around "The Prophecy of the Coming of Christ." This will include such selections as "Hodie Christus Natus Est," J. P. Sweelinck, "Come Spirits 'Tis His Day," Bach-Lawes; and "Prepare Ye The Hymns, Prepare the Song," Handel.

The second selection deals with the "Coming of the Christ Child." The numbers in this part of the program will be "Alleluia," Katherine Davis; "Lo! The Cherubic Host," Gaul; "Joyous Christmas Son," Gevart; and "Lolay, Lolay, Thou Little Tiny Child," Davis.

The third section, "In Praise of His Coming," includes "Bring Your Torches," traditional; "Christmas Night," Whitney; "Glory be God In The Highest," Rosamenschaldt; "The First Noel," traditional; and "O Come All Ye Faithful," traditional.

The last section entitled "His Ministry Foretold," "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley," Work; "Hills Rolling Low In The Snow" Rhes; and "Christmas Lullaby" are the selections.

The Vespers will be held from 5:15 p.m. at the Student Center.

Conflict In Dates

The conflicting dates this week between the Department of Speech play, The Beautiful People, and the Light Opera Guild production, Carousel, has brought up the complaint that is heard every year: why can't these events be scheduled on different dates?

We are sympathetic to these complaints, but it seems to us an inevitable situation if there are going to be events of this type on the campus.

This situation was discussed at length at a meeting last April. Officials at the meeting argued and complained over the conflict in the scheduling of certain events, just as is being done now. The conclusion reached was the same: there had to be conflicts if the events were going to be scheduled at all, due to the large number of theatrical, musical, social and athletic events that happen each year.

In most cases where they did conflict, the event was set for a three or four day run so students would get the opportunity to see both. It happens, however, the two shows above are one of the few major productions that fall on the same date.

In the light of the many events that are sponsored by campus organizations, there would probably be considerably more complaining if the events weren't scheduled at all, both by students and organizations.

Long Suffering Is Over

In the midst of celebrating their 25th anniversary on the Florida State University campus, the Alpha Xi Delta social sorority expect to move into their new red brick home on Park Avenue shortly.

For the Alpha Xi's this will be like moving from the Black Hole of Calcutta to a penthouse on Nob Hill.

They are the girls who have been living in the recreation room of South Cawthon since the fall semester opened, for lack of a place to stay. This has been an ordeal for the girls—all you have to do is ask them.

All twenty-three have been sleeping in double-deck bunks in cramped Army fashion. In addition to this they have suffered through roaches in their hat boxes, a wobbly clothes rack, 2½ drawers, people wandering through at all hours, and a unique communication system: a cowbell placed at the foot of the stairs to relay messages.

We are told their new home, among many features, has a sunken living room, a square bathtub and a butler named Booker T. The house is located in a quiet neighborhood, incidentally. It is right across the street from the cemetery.

Power Of A . . .

We overheard a little conversation the other day that illustrated very well, to us, at least, how public opinion is formed on a college campus.

A boy and a girl were walking through Westcott.

"Did you read about this new registration plan in the paper?" asked the girl.

"Yeah, and I don't like it," responded the boy.

"But I do"! exclaimed the girl.

Silence.

Finding An Answer

Easily one of the most urgent problems facing our country today is the enactment of security measures which will not castigate wrongly, men of high character and standing for their honest and sincere conclusions.

To mark a man "disloyal" or a "security risk" conceivably ruins his reputation, and lest a shadow of doubt remains it may often destroy the collective and individual morale of men who work around him.

Indeed, it is a "terrible brand to put on a man's character," says William Henry Chamberlin in The Wall Street Journal.

Below this editorial today we are reprinting Mr. Chamberlin's article in which he says public attention should be directed to this problem which "is more complex and difficult than is generally realized."

It is not a new problem, but it has never reached the heights it holds in our present society. To alter this, some solution must be found to achieve necessary national security without harming the free rights of individuals.

Mr. Chamberlin does not give any complete solution on how to achieve this. He does, however, hit a high point when he calls for our security regulations to be "flexibly permissive, not rigidly mandatory." He says also that Government officials "should be judged on the basis of his evolution and his whole record, not condemned irrevocably" for acts which may have had no bearing on this evolution.

His article represents as the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said, "a sincere and balanced effort to see this complex problem in its entirety. The article gathers into a single place many aspects of the problem that bear on one another."

We hope it will be read and applied by our readers. You are part of the public opinion which formulates consensus towards this difficult matter.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .

Stand and wait for a friend?
And when they don't show
You swear it's the end.
—Don Rapp

"Of Course, You Might Want To Fix It Up A Little"

The Lift File

Security Measures Need Reviewing

The much publicized cases of atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer and career diplomat John Paton Davies, both of whom have been penalized as "security risks" should direct public attention to a problem that is more complex and difficult than is generally realized.

This problem is how to assure the loyalty of public servants and the security of the United States Government without adopting control measures so extreme as to threaten the individual and collective morale of the men who work in such sensitive fields as secret scientific research and responsible foreign service. President Eisenhower said this week that the whole security question is being reviewed.

That security measures which would have been unnecessary 50 years ago are required in the atmosphere of the cold war is scarcely open to dispute.

The international Communist conspiracy is a reality. Communist infiltration, aimed at stealing secrets and if possible influencing policy, is a proved historical fact.

Anyone who will go through the volumes of congressional investigations of the subject, supplemented by the detailed reports of reformed and repentant ex-Communists, can scarcely escape the conviction that infiltration was widespread, especially during the war years when the Soviet Union wore the halo of a trusted ally.

One finds the same pattern in other countries. A number of Canadian government officials were exposed as members of an elaborate Soviet spy ring in that country. Britain has its Klaus Fuchs, its Alan Nunn May, its Bruno Pontecorvo, its deserting diplomats, Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess.

There have been scandals in France in connection with the leakage of secret information to the French Communist party. West Germany, a generally anti-Communist country, produced its Otto John, its Karl Franz Schmidt-Wittmack.

Even the most ardent champion of civil liberties would scarcely maintain that someone with a secret allegiance to a foreign power had any business on the payroll of the United States.

The overwhelming majority of Americans, irrespective of party, would uphold the proposition that a downright disloyal government employe should be not only fired, but prosecuted to the limit of the law for any wrongdoing he might have committed.

It is the "fringe" or "grey" cases that have created the greatest difficulty of judgment. A man does not have to be a Benedict Arnold in order to be unsuited for a position of high confidential trust. After all, government employment is a privilege, not a right.

A career diplomat might be entirely free from any taint of treasonable connection with an alien spy ring. Yet a strong ideological bias might make him useless or positively detrimental in his reporting to the State Department or in representing the interests of the United States in some foreign country.

It was this aspect of the security situation to which the Truman administration never awakened. Mr. Truman, it may be recalled, promoted and commended Harry Dexter White after most damaging material on his activities, compiled by the FBI, was in his hands. He also referred to the Alger Hiss case as a "red herring."

At first, under the Truman regime, the formula for dismissal was a finding by a loyalty review board that "on all the evidence reasonable grounds exist for belief that the person involved is disloyal to the United States."

Now disloyalty is a terrible brand to place on a man's character; and it is not surprising that loyalty boards were very slow to announce any such findings. Later, in 1951, the criterion was amended so that discharge was authorized where there was a "reasonable doubt as to the loyalty of the person involved."

It remained for the Eisenhower administration to broaden and, at the same time, soften the grounds for discharge by substituting "security" for "loyalty." It laid down the principle that no person shall be employed consistent with the national security. A person might be a "security

(Continued on Page 8)

A Short Story

Defense Problem: 1960

Washington, June 1, 1960

Last week Dr. Herman Oberdorfer, editor of the American Nuclear Bulletin, became the hundredth inmate of the closely guarded Leavenworth Penitentiary Annex for Atomic Scientists. His testimony before the Senate internal-security committee left no doubt that he was guilty of conspiring to publish an article on nuclear physics. Since the contents of the attempted article remain classified, the present writer must limit himself to a review of events preceding the Oberdorfer conspiracy.

March, 1957—The President at a news conference hinted at the existence of a new weapon in the now-obsolete "H" series. "H," the President suggested, might no longer stand for Hydrogen but for Hemisphere.

April, 1957—A question from a United Press correspondent brought the first Presidential admission that the Eastern Hemisphere probably could not be blown up without the simultaneous destruction of the Western Hemisphere. "Latest developments in atomic warfare," the President said, authorizing direct quotation, "create new aspects to the over-all problem of defense."

June, 1957—The chairman of the AEC, in a TV interview, disclosed the basic theory of the new weapon. "It is now possible," the chairman said, "to achieve fusion of ordinary hydrogen atoms. Since ordinary hydrogen exists in large quantities in the ocean as well as in wood and other common substances, a single bomb would be capable of taking out a hemisphere, more or less."

Pressed by reporters for a more specific statement on the number of Hemispheres, the chairman said, "When you have a new thing like this you can't predict its effect to a decimal point. There's always a margin of error. But I want to emphasize that within mathematical limits we know exactly what it would do. At no point would it get out of control."

July, 1957—Premier Malenkov told the All-Union Congress of Soviets that the U. S. no longer had a monopoly of Hemisphere bombs.

August, 1957—The chairman of the AEC announced that the American stockpile of Hemisphere bombs gave the U. S. a two-year lead over the Soviet Union. Simultaneously, Pravda hinted that Russia had developed a new weapon, described only as "the answer to the Hemisphere bomb."

September, 1957 — The President in an informal television address sought to calm what he called a "nation-wide case of hemispheric jitters." Speaking extemporaneously from a rocking-chair in his childhood home, the President said: "There's one thing lots of folks seem to forget. Certainly the bomb is a terrible thing. Any bomb is terrible if you happen to be around when it goes off. But that's exactly what you've got a government for, a defense establishment, to protect the nation from this danger. There's no danger from the Hemisphere bomb unless it explodes."

February, 1958 — Western scientists were astonished by the first original contribution to nuclear physics, the People's bomb. It had an estimated destructive radius of eight billion miles, roughly equal to the diameter of the solar system.

March, 1958—The chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee announced the successful operation of a pilot plant for Project Daisy.

April, 1958—The Presidential press secretary told reporters that the Chief Executive would answer questions about Project Daisy at the next White House press conference.

April, 1959—"It is now possible," the President told reporters, "to think not in terms of planets but of megaplanets."

Asked why the project was called "Daisy," the President referred to a book he had once read which described the Milky Way galaxy as "God's daisy chain." "It would be that kind of a chain reaction," the President said significantly.

May, 1959—A May Day article in Pravda caused mounting Congressional concern over Russia's possible power of counter-retaliation. "The American President," Pravda said, "once thought he could make the people's democracies tremble at his word that H no longer stood for Hydrogen. As is well known, the people's democracies did not tremble, but on the contrary caught up with and outstripped the scientific lackeys of Wall Street. However, not even the grandiose achievement of the People's bomb could curb the American ruling circles' lust for profits, for grabbing new markets, and for preparing a new war. Instead of answering on the basis of outlawing weapons of mass destruction, of securing the unity of peace-loving peoples, the Americans answered with the so-called Daisy bomb. Consequently Soviet science is now in a position to revise the American President's warmongering threat, in the mighty language of the people's democracy, U no longer stands for Uranium, U stands for Universe."

June, 1959—The chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee told reporters that American physicists had known for some time of the possibility of a U, or Universe, bomb. "It's operation is similar to that of the Daisy bomb," the chairman said, "except that in this case the Daisy bomb is used as a booster or primer."

Asked whether the Soviet bomb could destroy the uni-

(Continued on Page 8)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"PLEASE pass the rolls."

The Dissenter

Quick, Watson! The Hypodermi

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The most often-repeated argument against Vice-President Gordon Gaster's special elections amendment was that voting turnout, normally poor, would be pitifully low in a special election.

There is no doubt as to the solid foundation of this lack-of-faith in the students. Although it's aside from the point, the relation of this issue to the value of Gaster's amendment was stretched a bit by the opposition.

Nevertheless, it still remains true that while student government is the activity that should concern the student body most, it troubles itself with politics the least of all.

There's hardly a person in student government who doesn't agree that student interest needs an emergency shot in the arm. No one has an outstanding concept of what the hypodermic should contain, however.

Perhaps the deficiency lies in the method of representation. If Senators were chosen from the various living areas —let's just say "precinct representation" — there is no doubt that interest in government would be heightened immeasurably. While such a system would have practical and administrative disadvantages, they wouldn't be so serious as to be insurmountable.

A political science professor told me the other day, by way of note, "that the present system of student government is a sham." We didn't get a chance to elaborate on what he meant, but it was fairly obvious. To be effective, a student government should represent the students, work for their welfare, be democratic, be fairly united despite political partisanship, and avoid red tape.

Most Student Government officials are conscientiously trying to represent the students. They have the students' welfare in mind. Respect for democratic process, while not universal, is held by the majority. Partisanship has been carried too far in some instances, yet no irreparable damage has been done.

As for red tape, most of what there is of it consists in the ultimate authority of the University administration. Many students have the feeling that student government is completely subservient to Westcott. They don't seem to realize that such Senators as Ken Gatlin, Joan Halford, vice-president Gordon Gaster and others are constantly working for more self-government for the Student Body. That, however, is an unattainable goal, as long as th[e]re is no student interest to b[ack] up governmental deman[ds]. It's actually a vicious cir[cle] —no interest, no self-gover[n]ment; no self-government, [no] interest.

A lot of the blame can [be] laid to the complacent na[ture] of the majority of the stud[ent] body. This is not a fault [pe]culiar to Florida State U[ni]versity, as it manifests it[self] all over the country in an [un]willingness to think for o[ne]self and a reluctance to exte[nd] ones sphere of activities o[ut]side his own social circle.

This is purely a tempor[ary] cultural situation howev[er] which won't last long, un[less] we continue to regard devia[tion] from the pattern of compl[ac]ency as only slightly less o[dd] than men from Mars.

A Special Committee [to] Study Student Governme[nt] has been working all semes[ter] on the problem of student i[n]terest and should report [its] findings soon after Christm[as] vacation. Precinct voting w[ill] be a featured topic.

The report should furnish [a] plan for a concentrated pr[o]gram on the part of stude[nt] government, student public[a]tions and other campus leade[rs] to increase political realizat[ion] at FSU.

Etcetera Etchings

Fame Reached By Insulting People

By DAVID DREIS

Recently this campus has been dealing in glittering personalities: A columnist and what he says and how he acts, for example. Some people might object to that columnist, but they do something for him which every columnist aspires to have done. They read him. Somehow I don't always go with that type of readership where the reader (or listener as my story will tell) does so with a cynical aspect.

In New York these nights there appears over a local station an all-night "commentator." This fellow by the name of Barry Gray has reached his pinnacle by insulting people. (A listener calling in with an anti-semitic remarks got this come-back, "It's amazing how clear you can talk with a sheet over your head.") He used to be in Miami Beach broadcasting civic and national affairs from a night club's lounge. The editor from the Miami scandal-sheet, The Miami Life, punched Gray while he was on the air. Gray picked up the microphone and slugged the editor until he was rolling on the floor. The wire services picked up the story and Gray went to New York. Winchell hates this guy and has slammed him many times. There is no doubt that Winchell has committed many faux pas to get readership, but he's also come through with valued writings. Gray has not, but he does have listeners.

The commentator is against most things people are for, but he is for many extremely liberal things. He's for development of unions, legalized gambling, civil rights and socialized medicine. Recently Gray discussed the anti-semitic workings of Yorkville, New York where the Nazi Bund flourished (The newspaper in that town is called The Broom and has a picture of a broom sweeping up a fat prostitute who wears the Jewish Star.) This town was always going on Anti-Semitic campaigns during the late thirties and early forties.

Gray was very much opposed to this, as a good American, but his antagonistic view to everyone now living in that town whether prejudiced or not was in poor taste. That night wh[en] Gray finished his broadcast[ing] chores, he was treated with t[wo] black eyes. Gray was a marty[r]. I'm only pointing out one of h[is] troubles which is not fightin[g] for the wrong cause, but [the] manner in which he goes abo[ut] it. This fellow has readers a[nd] listeners, but somehow — [al]though I write this glop—I th[ink] it's of more value and my rea[d]ers are consistent—do not co[me] in spurts. If dissention is t[he] way to fame, I want oblivion.

SURFACE NOISE: Rick He[...]lster, a mighty fine disc?jocke[y] who should learn that a lot [of] control room fun is flat to a li[s]tener, was asked to say the 23[rd] psalm for someone . . . he rea[lly] gets requests of all sort . . . Susan Hayward's 'ex'Jess Ba[r]ker has been signed for a vide[o] series . . . she's not speaking [to] Richard Egan, who dated he[r] . . . Dr. Adolph Karl of the FS[U] Film Club added a matin[ee] showing of the Chaplin festiv[al] for over 100 children and ca[st] of Carousel and Beautiful Peop[le] . . . mighty nice from where [I] sit.

Sketches

People I Knew

By DICK VICTORY

It was a late Saturday afternoon. Mr. Downs, grunting, gave the lawnmower a final push and it raced along until the thickness of the grass up ahead stopped its momentum. Mr. Downs turned and walked to the wire fence in front of his house. Bits of the tender, sweet-smelling grass clung to the bottom of his trouser legs and lay in the pouch of his cuffs.

Out past the fence, on the asphalt road, four young boys were playing their variation of touch football. Among the four was Mr. Downs' son Jimmy. He was the one with the highest voice.

The contest the four were engaged in—and had been, since over an hour earlier, with frequent intermissions—was a tight, defensive one. Jimmy and his teammate were leading, 84-72, and scores were getting harder and harder to come by. Mr. Downs smiled and looked across to the other side of the road.

Through a thin spot in the hedge, he could see Harry Knowles in a lawn chair under a tree in his front yard. Mr. Downs caught his eye, waved.

"Say, Harry."

"Afternoon, Jim," Mr. Knowles answered, and getting to his feet, he strolled over to the hedge and looked over. He glanced at the boys playing and then looked back at Mr. Downs with a mock sigh.

"Where do they get all that energy? Wish I had a little."

"Oh, I don't know," said Mr. Downs, who had turned and was looking at the boys again. "We probably could still run them off the field."

Mr Knowles laughed softly.

"No, really, Harry." Mr. Downs said. Mr. Knowles was smiling. Mr. Downs felt vaguely annoyed. "Let's give it a try."

* * *

For the game, they switched sons and each took an additional player. The extra player on Mr. Downs' team, a little fellow named Bert Hancock, had one of his wrists heavily taped. The wrist wasn't injured in any way but Bert liked the attention and anxious questions it brought him.

At the first of the game the boys were in a mild state of awe and had no confidence against their elders.

But after Harvey Redma[n] faked Mr. Knowles so badl[y] that he pulled a leg muscle (he wasn't sure at the time, however, and played on bravely) the boys perked up, and just before they quit to go in to wash up for supper, Jimmy broke wide past the line of scrimmage and got past everybody but his father.

Mr. Downs, playing back deep expecting a punt, came up fast, hoping to tag Jimmy before he got the angle on him. He cut across to the sidelines as fast as he could, but halfway there, he could see at the rate Jimmy was going he could never get him.

Jimmy glanced over and saw his father had given up and was slacking off.

Jimmy's feet got tangled u[p] and he sprawled on the har[d] road, short of the goal. His el[]bows were skinned badly but he did not cry out.

* * *

Jimmy reached for a piece of bread without asking at supper and Mr. Knowles spoke to him so sharply that his wife, in her surprise, spilled some gravy on the new table cloth her sister in New Orleans had sent her.

Reflections

'Yellow Jim' Sells A Stratmobile

By OSCAR JOHNSON

I first met this "Yellow Jim" while downtown buying my new car for next year. Yellow Jim was the salesman at the first place I walked into.

He began sizing me up as I came through the door, calculating what approach to use. I could tell he had made up his mind when his face molded into a cheerful stage smile. I told him my name.

"Glad to meet your acquaintance," he grinned. "I'm Yellow Jim, but my friends call me Hey You."

He noticed me staring at the new cars. "Think you'd like to buy a '55 Stratomobile?" Jim asked. "They come in several models — everything from rail jobs to the large economy size."

The rail job was the one I looked at first. It was supposed to be the Stratomobile sports model, incorporating features usually found only on Shmalifornia hot-rods. (Jim explained that a few comforts had been added for the customers' convenience.) The thing looked like the gadget display counter in Sears' basement. A miniature SAE lion was mounted on the hood, making my fingers itch for a paint bucket, but otherwise the "rail job" was nix.

"Maybe you'd like to try out the V-8 model," panted Jim. "Here—climb down into this one and we'll go for a trial spin."

I jammed the key into the slot and the engine belched. I tried again and it started. Heading out the side door and into traffic, I rode past the Police Station at 30 in low gear. Jim was well into his sales talk as I turned down College Avenue for the campus. Jerking the gear-shift lever into second with a vague clutch action, I let it eat downhill. Nearing Westcott Gate at 80, I eased up and put it into four-wheel drift, making history as the only one to ever go through the gate sideways.

"It comes with Hydra-matic, too," said Jim.

Back at the Stratomobile place, I got Jim to run down the list of extras I could get. He was pretty enthusiastic. The extras included Hydra-matic, power steering, power brakes, power windows, power seats, autronic eye, radio, air conditioning, ant skin seat covers, tuck-away windshield, white sidewall hubcaps, anti-cop guns and neon road maps. The latest gadget was one that automatically blows the horn at the guy in front when the light turns green. Engines are optional at extra cost," concluded Jim.

At that point I remembered I had to tend my nutmeg groves in northwestern Alaska, and left.

* * *

The Ballet last Monday night seemed to be quite a success. However, I spent my money on seeing the the basketball team beat the Georgia Teachers. If football is big here, so is basketball—it's one sport the other state university plays FSU in (Gator Bowl Basketball Tournament.)

One thing I remember about Monday night's game is how one FSU player, sprinting full-tilt toward the basket, shouted "Got!" in anger when he was clobbered by an opponent just before shooting. He received a large hand of applause for it.

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor

Joy Robertson, Managing Editor

Asst. News Editors — Oscar Johnson, Martin Dyckman
Feature Editor — Joyce Potter
Sports Editors — Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff — Bob Gutting, Alan Whitmarsh, David Morris
Photographer — Laird Anderson, Al Robbins
Copy Editors — Willie Smith, Pat Marston
Amusement Editor — David Dreis
Art Consultant — Franklin Adams
Cartoonist — Con Horn
Junior Staff — George Goldstein, Jerome Bernstein, Marty Reeves, Ann Stanley, Jeri Bradfield

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Business Staff — Mary Wogan
Distribution — Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Mary Liz King, Adv. Mgr.

Assistant Business Manager — Irma Cox
Advertising Staff — Nina Ryle, Bill Telisak
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17.

Telephone 2-8000, extension 6821
211-213 Longmire Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Competition Heavy As Two Shows Open, 8:15, Tonight

First 'Carousel' Performance In Opperman Hall

Driver, Zilles Star In Presentation By Light Opera Guild

By MARTY REEVES

Although the Speech Department's presentation of "The Beautiful People" is expected to provide tough competition, the Light Opera Guild hopes to have a large audience at its opening performance of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel" tonight at 8:15.

Starring John Zilles and Delano Driver, the musical comedy will run four nights, excluding Sunday, in Opperman Music Hall under the direction of Dr Ivert L. Briggs and Miss Betty Jane Grimes.

The show takes place on the coast of New England in the year 1888 when a carnival is coming to town.

Billy Bigelow, a tough carnival barker played by Mr. Zilles, falls in love with sweet naive Julie Jordan played by Miss Driver.

He marries her and upon finding that he is about to become a father, is faced with a shortage of funds. Adding to an unplanned robbery, he commits suicide to avoid arrest and lands in Purgatory. He finally gets to Heaven where he tries to redeem his soul.

Other starring roles include Eleanor Speaking Carrie Pipperidge Wendell Bartholf as Enoch Snow, Jigger Craigin played by Peter Peck, Nettie Fowler portrayed by Martha Hayden and Claribanne Weeks as Mrs. Mullin.

Additional members of the cast include June Knight, Karen Kimmel Jackson, Deborah Freeman Gene Rowell, Barbara Pearson Susan Linebaugh, Amy Dey, Eleanor Morrill, Beverly Brown, Mary Linebaugh, Ralph Nolan, Bill Hufferauter, Floyd Anderson Marcella Trunzi, James Kearce, Carol Glynn, Jean Robbins.

Other members of the chorus are Cathy Nelson, Patricia Carrilli, Corinne Earle, Doris Pullian, Lenell Robinson, Carol Owen, Roberta Pace, Gay Gillies, Jean Comer, Diana Hildebrand, Carole Nydegger, Martha Sue Mizell, Joyce Cayard, Madison Short and Shelton Tarn.

The Ballet Corps is under the direction of Frances Stokes.

Based on Ferenc Molnar's play, "Liliom," "Carousel" includes such songs as "If I Loved You," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "Blow High, Blow Low," and "June is Bustin' Out All Over."

Tickets are on sale at 75c apiece in the Music Building, the Book Store and from any member of Sigma Alpha Iota. There will be no reserved seats, but standing room will be available after 8:15.

SHE WHO GETS SLAPPED is the treatment Delano Driver gets from John Zilles as Ellen Snow, Wendell Bartholf and a crowd look on. "Carousel" tells the story starting tonight.

THE EVILS OF DRINK—that's what David Dreis thinks as Katharine Culpepper explains why Duane Lanchester has fainted. It's all in "The Beautiful People."

Saroyan Play Has Seasoned Actors Perform

Speech Department Cast Could Offset Attendance Fears

The Department of Speech, hoping to offset the strong competition offered by "Carousel" tonight, has set up an all-star cast and a celebrated Broadway play for its second theater presentation of the season.

William Saroyan's "The Beautiful People" will bow into the Augusta Conradi Theater at 8:15.

The cast features veteran performers DAVID DREIS, EB THOMAS FRANKLIN ADAMS, KATHERINE CULPEPPER, DIXIE SMITH and MICKIE DORRINS in its second production and brings from the first dramatic effort of the year DUANE LANCHESTER and HAROLD POE. Only newcomer on the program is GRAY SALLA, freshman.

Directed by Paul Dawe whose presentation of Life With Father," "The Heiress" and "Papa Is All" drew good crowds from the students, faculty and townspeople last year, this play tells the story of a family living in an ideal atmosphere contrary to many contemporary ideas.

"When the play was put before the critical reviewers of the New York City papers these were some of the comments: NEW YORK JOURNAL-AMERICAN — "the skylarking buoyance, the rich humor and tenderness of the characters, the symbolism and the lyric beauty of some of the writing. The great thing is that at his best Saroyan can evoke clearly and beautifully the wonderment of the human spirit and of existence . . . the gladness of life and the swiftness of death . . ."

New York Herald-Tribune — "There is so much humor, beauty, imagination and emotional richness about the play that its frailty, its slightness and its moments of excessive sentimentality seem strangely unimportant. To this we add of 'The Beautiful People' that it is a darling play." The New York Times — beguiling and tender little comedy with an ingratiating spirit of general goodwill." About his feelings, the New York World-Telegram reviewer says "I must admit to being aroused to high mirth by many of his whimsical conceits." The Florida Flambeau will have its review of the play in the next issue.

Director Dawe has had his cast running their lines for over a month now and Charles Helmer is the new complete his

(Continued on page 6)

Ballet Theatre Rated Success; Return Visit A Real Possibility

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

The Ballet Theatre, which performed Monday and Tuesday nights in Westcott Auditorium, was rated a "definite success" by Artist Series officials.

Capacity audiences both nights enthusiastically applauded the ballet troupe, which exhibited commendable versatility in performing both classical and modern choreography.

The orchestra, although small, drew praise for clear and appealing renditions of the ballet music, which by nature is highly sensitive and emotional.

One Artist Series official revealed Wednesday that interest is being shown in a possible return of the Ballet Theater on next year's Series, and expressed a desire to hear student opinions on the question.

Igor Youskevitch, premier dancer of the Ballet Theater, could be rated the most popular performer. His solo bow during the middle of the "Helen of Troy" performance was the only such recognition awarded a member of the troupe.

"Helen of Troy," given Tuesday night, proved to be the best-received ballet of the two-night stand. The principals, led by Youskevitch in the role of Paris were called back for five curtain calls.

Catherine Horn, who danced the role of the coquit in Aaron Copeland's "Rodeo," presented the first night, also drew enthusiastic applause for her personable performance.

Series officials expressed appreciation to members of Sigma Alpha Iota and Village Vamps, who ushered Monday and Tuesday nights, respectively.

Maintenance and construction crews who worked all weekend to prepare Westcott Auditorium also drew praise.

Appreciation was extended to the student stage crew under Karl Mohr.

Beyond being sold out both nights, the Artist Series drew long waiting lists and many requests for standing room, which could not be sold due to there not being any.

The Artist Series says it has been asked to consider running future attractions for three nights to accomodate more attendance.

Tickets for the Columbia Borgholr, next Artist Series program, go on distribution January 3.

Wesleyans Set On Christmas Play, Sunday

The Wesley Players of the Methodist Student House will add their bit to the campus theater scene by presenting "What Men Live By," Sunday at 6:15 p.m. It will be the dramatic club's annual Christmas drama and is adapted from a story by Leo Tolstoi.

Veteran Speech Department player June Mizell is assisting Director Dot Bunger in the production. The cast includes Ann Morgan, Mary Leigh Liston, Connie Taylor, Jeannette McLendon, Jackie Pierce, Pete Roddenbery and Virgil Austin. Also holding commanding roles are Dick Moorer, Brandeen Johnson and Russ Parish.

Chaplin Scores In Film Club's Past Offering

By DAVID DREIS

The slapstick comedies of Charlie Chaplin were greeted with so much laughter last night in the Longmire Auditorium as they were shown forty years ago when they were filmed. There was no doubt in the mind this was one of the most successful of the FSU Film Club's offerings.

In a preview showing Wednesday afternoon, several members of the Chaplin fan club's clientele attended and they too were loud in their cheers and laughter. Added to the program of Chaplin films were a series of Walt Disney cartoons.

We talk often about the greatness of lasting books and lasting music, but rarely do we consider the lasting qualities of motion pictures. There is no doubt in my mind or in the minds of many great authorities on motion pictures, that Charles Spencer Chaplin was a great master—not only as a pioneer—for his movies today hold that special greatness—but also a showman who still directs, acts and produces his films.

The FSU Film Club answers a definite need on this campus for great motion pictures not only representative of their times, but also representative of greatness in films regardless of the era in which they were produced.

The next film on the FSU Film Club's schedule is Pepe Le Moko starring Jean Gabin. This French version inspired Charles Boyer's efforts in "Tangiers" and stars Tony Martin's interpretation in "Casbah." It is the story of an international thief living in a territory which is not under control of the Moroccn police. It will be on campus January 6. Although several films have already been shown on this year's schedule of pictures, membership for $1.50 is still open. Contact Dr. Adolph Karl, president, Department of Art.

Military Ball Signs Les Elgart For Its Annual January Affair

When a major record company signs another orchestra to their already over-crowded list of artists, that's news and when that artist gets signed by the Military Ball dance committee—again that's news.

Les Elgart, considered by most members of the music industry as the greatest new dance stylist, will appear at the Military Ball on the night of January 15th in what appears to be the greatest guest appearance since Vaughn Monroe and Sammy Kaye.

Dick Gutting, dance chairman, working with Bea Rice and David Dreis, a special appointee of Student body President Pete Mundell to help secure name bands on the campus, was able to secure the young bandleader's talents for the annual affair.

"We're very proud to get this orchestra," announced Gutting, "and we intend for everyone on campus who has never heard Elgirls' music to hear him on the local radio stations."

Variety Weekly and Downbeat magazine as the nation's greatest young newcomer Elgart has recently been active on Columbia records. His new album simply bearing his name and featuring standard melodies is considered a best seller. Billboard magazine, in their annual disc jockey poll, reported Les Elgart as the top swing orchestra in the business.

Student body President Nimkoff added, "It's wonderful to be able to have a real 'live' band on campus this year such as Les Elgart. I'm sure every student is thankful to Bob Rice, Dick Gutting and David Dreis, working with a special appointment of student government, in securing this orchestra for us."

Les Elgart, though a newcomer to stardom as far as name bands are concerned is expected to be as herrative to the music preferences as Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman. This summer when Columbia added three new names to its orchestra roster it affirmed many beliefs. Variety magazine has commented that Elgart is not a new version of Dorsey, Kaye, Miller or Goodman, but has a completely new style of musical arrangements.

'The Last Time I Saw Paris' 'Desiree' Show This Weekend

Two top-rate movies, "Desiree" and "The Last Time I Saw Paris" are playing at the Tallahassee Theaters this weekend. Desiree is based on Napoleonic history while the latter is the story of an ex-GI in Paris.

"Desiree," a CinemaScope version of Annemarie Selinko's best selling historical novel, brings Marlon Brando and Jean Simmons to the screen of the Florida Theater. This technicolor film will show through Tuesday.

The film is a historical romance told from the point of view of Desiree, played by Miss Simmons. It opens in Marseilles, shortly after the end of the French Revolution, with Miss Simmons being courted by Napoleon who is as interested in her dowry as he is in her. After he jilts her for political reasons to marry Josephine, Desiree remains a native onlooker as he rises to power

Elizabeth Taylor, Van Johnson, Walter Pidgeon, and Donna Reed are the stars of "The Last Time I Saw Paris." Romance drama in technicolor which will play at the State Theater through Tuesday.

In the film Johnson plays a young ex-GI who stays in Paris after the war to report for World News Service. He marries Miss Taylor, but when he fails to have any novels published, they lose their carefree happiness.

Opera "Susannah" To Have Premier Here, February 24

Phyllis Curtin, New York City Opera soprano, and Mack Harrell, Metropolitan Opera baritone, will sing the leading roles in a new opera, "Susannah," to be premiered February 24 at Florida State University.

Carlisle Floyd, assistant professor of Music, wrote the text and music. He had written two earlier operas. The first, a one-act opera "Slow Dusk", was premiered at Syracuse University and later produced at Columbia University Workshop. Floyd and University of California at Los Angeles. The second, "Fugitive," was produced in 1951 here after Mr. Floyd joined the faculty.

"Susannah" was selected as one of the three outstanding manuscripts submitted in the international Composers Contest of the Mannes School of Music, New York

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT
DON'T MISS THE
First Performance of CAROUSEL
Music by Richard Rogers
Books and Lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd
TIME . . . 8:15 P. M.
PLACE . . . The Opperman Music Hall
TICKETS FOR ALL SEATS
75c
FSU's
LIGHT OPERA GUILD
in Four Fine Performances
DECEMBER 10, 11, 13, 14
You'll Love Every Minute of It

The Department of Speech
announces
The Beautiful People
by
William Saroyan
December 10, 11, 13 and 14
Conradi Theatre
8:15 p. m.
Tickets.
Students: 40c and activity stub No. 9
General Admission: 75c
All seats reserved
Box office opens Wednesday, December 8

What a Ladies' Man!
He struts his best stuff
at
The Voque
Whatever her name, whatever her taste and charming ways, we've the gifts that will send her emotions skyward on Christmas. But come in and see how easy it is to find everything you want.
The Voque

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES
FLORIDA
Friday Thru Tuesday
"DESIREE"
Marlon Brando
Jean Simmons
Gene Tierney
In Cinemascope
PERRY HIGHWAY DRIVE-IN
Today & Tomorrow
"Son of Cochise"
Rock Hudson
Barbara Rush
PLUS
'Smoking the Sound Barrier'
Ralph Richardson
Ann Todd
Sunday & Monday
"Johnny Dark"
Tony Curtis
Piper Laurie
STATE
Friday Thru Tuesday
"The Last Time I Saw Paris"
Elizabeth Taylor
Van Johnson
Walter Pidgeon
Donna Reed
CAPITOL DRIVE-IN
On Woodville Hwy.
Today & Tomorrow
"Lost Planet"
Broderick Crawford
Wanda Hendricks
PLUS
"Crazylegs"
Elroy Hirsch
Sunday & Monday
"Vicki"
Jeanne Crain
Jean Peters

Methodist Singers Schedule Cantata Wednesday Night

"The Babe of Bethlehem," a choral work by the late Harvey B Gaul, will be sung by the Wesley Singers Wednesday night at 8 in the Methodist Student House.

Walter Jaffee, associate professor of music, will direct the chorus of approximately 30 members. Accompanist will be Peggy Pennel, and Susan Lucas will render a flute solo.

The choir will be led by a quintet composed of Jean Armstrong, mezzo-soprano, Malcolm Bloom, tenor, Sandra Darling, soprano; Shirley Trexler, soprano, and W H Bellinger, bass.

According to spokesmen, the composer was organist at Pittsburgh's Calvary Episcopal Church at the time of his death in December, 1945. His ashes were placed in the wall of the choirhouse which was later dedicated to him.

Gaul, who was educated in England, France and the United States, composed over 400 works. Her added. He served on the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh, Chatham Institute, Washington and Jefferson Universities and was feature editor of Music Forecast

Foreign Visitors Here

Mahound El Hawary

Nathan Murerjie

Subramania Raman

Ghatur Alba

'Summer Sessions' In French Offered By Yale-Reid Hall

Applications are now being received from prospective students for the Yale-Reid Hall Summer Session in Paris, Associate Professor Theodore Andersson of Yale University said.

The six-week session begins on July 4 and ends August 13, and will be open to qualified men and women college students who have had two years of college French or the equivalent, the announcement stated.

Among courses offered by the five-year-old program are French, Contemporary French Literature, French Art, and French Politics taught at the Sorbonne and the Louvre.

For further information and application blanks students have been asked to apply before March 1, 1955, to Professor Andersson, 123 Hall of Graduate Studies, Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut.

ADD ADVANTAGES OF COLLEGE EDUCATION

SYRACUSE, N. Y. -(ACP)— Dr. Ralph Nicholas, class of '40, studied hard for her pre-law degree at Syracuse University.

She then enrolled in New York University College of Law.

Success came at last to Miss Nicholas as she is now a student in for Marilyn Monroe in Hollywood. She hopes to a stand-in for Marilyn Monroe. Later she'll be a star herself, the Syracuse Daily Orange reports.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(Author of "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," etc.)

THE OPERATOR

On every American campus there are four standard fixtures: No. 1 — try. No. 2 — a statue of the founder; No. 3 — Philip Morris Cigarettes; No. 4 — The Operator.

The try is to prevent strangers from mistaking the college for a warehouse. The statue of the founder provides shade for necking when the weather is fine. The Philip Morris Cigarettes are an aid to concentration when you are studious, an aid to sociability when you are spirited, and a source of smoke rings to impress one and all . . . And The Operator is the man you can't do without.

Well do I remember The Operator on my campus. He was a young man with a ready smile, a quick mind, fifteen complete changes of wardrobe, a sick room apartment, a red convertible, and assorted stocks, bonds, securities, and second mortgages.

The Operator's origins were a source of lively speculation. Some said he was left over from the old Capone gang. Some said he was Judge Crater. Some said he sprang from the brow of Zeus.

But, in fact, he was just an ordinary student — to begin with. In his first year he studied hard, took copious notes, got good grades, and made a big reputation as a friend in need. He'd lend you money; he'd let you copy his lecture notes; he'd write themes for you; he'd set up all night to help you cram for an exam. All of this was done with infinite good nature on his part, and no obligation on yours . . . The first year, that is.

In the second year The Operator started to operate. He'd still let you copy his lecture notes — but only for a quarter. Tutoring was extra — 50 cents an hour till midnight, 75 cents an hour afterwards. His prices for writing themes were based on a sliding scale — a dollar for a "C", two for a "B", three for an "A". A "D" cost you nothing, and if you flunked, you got a dollar credit on the next theme he wrote for you.

His services expanded steadily. He added a line of cribs for examinations. He booked bets on football games. He did a bit of bootlegging. He ran a data bureau. He rented cars, furniture, non-willing boutonnieres.

But all of these were really sidelines. His main line was lending money. At any hour of the day or night, for any amount from a dollar to a hundred, The Operator was always ready with a sympathetic ear and cash on the barrelhead. And he rarely charged more than 100 percent interest.

Usury and sharp trading are practices not calculated to win affection. Nobody loved The Operator. But nobody did anything about it either . . . Because undergraduates are in a perpetual state of need — need of money, need of lecture notes, need of romance, need of beer, need of something — and The Operator was the genie that laid the golden eggs and, therefore, safe.

Nor did The Operator endear himself to his well-heeled way, serene and carefree . . . No, not quite carefree. One thing troubled him: a fear that some day he might graduate. Graduation, leaving school, would mean the end of his empire. You can't run a business like that from the outside; you must be right in the midst of things, spotting opportunities, anticipating needs, keeping your finger on the public pulse.

So he took great pains to stay in school, but never to graduate. This he accomplished by constantly shifting majors. He would come within a semester of getting a B.A. in sociology and then transfer to law. When he had nearly enough law credits, he'd switch to business administration. Then from business administration to psychology, from psychology to French, from French to history, and so on, meanwhile getting cultured as all get-out, rich as Croesus, and never accumulating quite enough credits for a degree.

Finally, of course, it caught up with him. There came a semester when no matter what he took, he had to wind up with some kind of a degree. He looked frantically through the class schedule trying to find some major he hadn't tried yet. And he found one — physical education. So, sleek and pudgy though he was from high living, The Operator entered the department of physical ed.

It was a mistake. Among the people he had to wrestle and box with were some great hulking fellows who, like everybody else on campus, owed him money.

Their tiny foreheads creased with glee as they regarded The Operator's trembling little body; their massive biceps swelled joyously; their flexure rippled with delight. Rumbling happily, they fell upon him and covered him with lumps, the smallest of which would have taken first prize in any lump contest you might name.

Confused and sick at heart, The Operator dragged his battered members home. He knew he had to get out of physical ed, but he was forfeit if he did not. So, unhappily, he transferred to some other course, and the following June, a beaten man in his rags and pride, received with lifeless hands a diploma and a bachelor of arts degree and shambled out into the great world.

I don't know what happened to The Operator after graduation. I'd like to say that he went to Wall Street and made millions overnight. Or maybe he was lucky and went into the advertising business. If so, he is surely a big man on Madison Avenue today.

But, as I say, I don't know what happened to him. But this I do know: another Operator appeared on campus as soon as this one left, and he in turn was replaced by another, and the process goes on endlessly.

For as long as boy students like girl students better than going to class, as long as parents cling to the delusion that the allowance they had at college is sufficient for their children, as long as blood runs warm and cash runs short, there will be an Operator operating on every campus everywhere.

©Max Shulman 1954

This column is brought to you by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS who think you would enjoy their cigarette.

Church News

CANTERBERY HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

There will be a Christmas party at Rune Hall this Sunday. Everyone is invited to join the carolers who are meeting at Rune Hall at 6:30 p.m. After the caroling they will return to Rune for the party. Participants were asked to bring a present for the kitchen. There will be no supper this week

Services for the week include Holy Eucharists at 8:00 a.m. Morning Prayer and Sermon at 11:00 a.m. on Sunday with daily vespers at 5:00 p.m. and compline at 9:45 p.m.

METHODIST EAST FROSH OFFICERS

Freshman class officers were recently elected at the Methodist Student House announced Bonnie Hall, president. Dick Moorer. Officers elected were Karl Edwards, President Bill Jones, Vice-President; Jan Kamina, Secretary and Jane Lee, Treasurer.

Methodists Students are saving money in penny mach boxes this week. Offers are being bound for needy families. Harriet Allen chairman of the house fellowship supper committee announced that there will be no supper Sunday as that students may attend the Women's Glee Club vesper service.

Christmas services will be held Sunday, Mr. Harold Pickrick, director of Christian Education, Trinity Methodist Parish, Canada Wednesday at a Christmas Reading, at the Sunday school hour at 9:45 a.m. Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m the Wesley Players, a religious dramatic group will give their annual Christmas play entitled, "What Men Live By."

The Wesley Singers, Methodist choral group will give its Christmas Cantata Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS HOLD MEETING THURSDAY

Thursday evenings from 7:00 to 7:45 is the time for the weekly Christian Science Organization to meet in Room 217 of the Music Building

The study room and lending library in room 200 of the Suwanee Room Arcades, is open every Tuesday and Thursday and Friday from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. All are welcome to the meetings and to use the study room.

THREE REPRESENT FSU AT IFC CONFERENCE

Three students from Florida State University represented the Interfraternity Council at a conference in Philadelphia sponsored by the National Interfraternity Conference.

Attending were J. Mundy Crews, Kappa Alpha; Thomas W Day, Kappa Sigma, and Alan Sunberg, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Dean, fraternity counselor, attended as guest of the NIC.

More than 300 representatives of American and Canadian college and university fraternities were said to be in attendance at the conference.

Professor's Picture Included In Dallas Museum Exhibition

"Reflections in a Rosy Light," a painting by Mr. Howard Jones, assistant professor in the department of art at FSU has been included in the "Young Collectors" exhibition in Dallas, Texas from November 14 through January 2.

"Young Collectorsa" is the third in a series of annual exhibitions sponsored by the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, which responds regional art juries in various parts of the country to select paintings which would be of interest to new collectors of contemporary American art at moderate prices.

Mr. Jones, who recently represented in "The New South" at Norfolk, Virginia, is not only a designer but a painter who is achieving recognition among the more experimental artists of the United States.

Reflections in a Rosy Light" is an abstract painting whose title was suggested by the warm colors predominant in the work Mr. Jones, like many of his contemporaries, prefers to paint non-representational — a method of painting with but a vague relation than the more widespread oil technique.

STUDENTS INVITED TO FT. LAUDERDALE

FSU students this week invited to attend the semi-formal Christmas Charity Ball December 28 in Fort Lauderdale It will feature the music of Bill Goode and last from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. It is sponsored by the Ft. Lauderdale Catholic Club for the benefit of a college scholarship for a Central Catholic High School Boy. Location of dance is the Bahia Mar Yatch Club.

Hit the right note for the holidays . . .

in an ARROW Formal shirt!

You're bound to come on big in an ARROW formal shirt. They feature good looks for certain, and comfort always! Choose the Arrow Nassau (low broadcloth) shown at the left, or new Mayfair (smart piquet), below. The choice is yours . . . but be sure you choose Arrow. You'll be just the right note on any formal occasion. Both Arrow dress shirt styles are priced at $6.00.

ARROW SHIRTS & TIES

UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • CASUAL WEAR

Expanding ROTC Program Has Recorded Many Changes in '54

By TONY AVITABLE

Many changes in Florida State University's expanding ROTC program have taken place in the last year, including staff, facilities and recreation.

One of the few things not changed a student may return to the drill field, which is transformed into a miniature Fort Benning every Tuesday and Thursday.

ROTC is compulsory for all freshmen this year, and next fall for both freshman and sophomores. Afterwards, students may decide they would like to pursue a military career or receive a commission, in which case they can apply for admission into the advanced course.

If they have the necessary prerequisites and qualifications desired of potential leaders, they will be accepted. Along with the welcome pay in their junior year, comes six weeks of "fun and frolic at summer camp at Ft. Benning, Ga.

This year there are about 250 students enrolled in the program as compared to last year's 121. Last year's figures included seven seniors who received commissions in the reserve. James S. Cullison was the first Army ROTC Cadet from FSU to receive a commission in the Regular Army.

The program discarded the Ordnance branch and turned it into a "branch general" which is more adaptable to individual students. Late in their advanced training, if they have the necessary qualifications, they can select a desired branch of the service such as armor, infantry, etc. The subject taught throughout the four years is general military science.

There are two national military honoraries at FSU, which operate just as the "Greeks" do. Tre Pershing Rifles is a military honorary for basic students, and the Scabbard and Blade is a national military honorary for the advanced students. They have their pledges, initiations, parties and cars.

A rifle team is picked on a competitive basis. This year they will be limited to around some of the best schools in the country. The rifle team drill sessions will be given.

A color guard and drill team is Harriet Allen chairman of the house fellowship supper committee announced that there will be no supper Sunday as that students may attend the Women's Glee Club vesper service.

Christmas services will be held Sunday, Mr. Harold Pickrick, director of Christian Education, Trinity Methodist Parish, Canada Wednesday at a Christmas Reading, at the Sunday school hour at 9:45 a.m. Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m the Wesley Players, a religious dramatic group will give their annual Christmas play entitled, "What Men Live By."

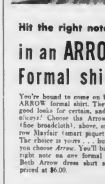
The Wesley Singers, Methodist choral group will give its Christmas Cantata Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS HOLD MEETING THURSDAY

Thursday evenings from 7:00 to 7:45 is the time for the weekly Christian Science Organization to meet in Room 217 of the Music Building

The study room and lending library in room 200 of the Suwanee Room Arcades, is open every Tuesday and Thursday and Friday from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. All are welcome to the meetings and to use the study room.

THREE REPRESENT FSU AT IFC CONFERENCE



Three students from Florida State University represented the Interfraternity Council at a conference in Philadelphia sponsored by the National Interfraternity Conference.

Attending were J. Mundy Crews, Kappa Alpha; Thomas W Day, Kappa Sigma, and Alan Sunberg, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Dean, fraternity counselor, attended as guest of the NIC.

More than 300 representatives of American and Canadian college and university fraternities were said to be in attendance at the conference.

Church News

CANTERBERY HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

There will be a Christmas party at Rune Hall this Sunday. Everyone is invited to join the carolers who are meeting at Rune Hall at 6:30 p.m. After the caroling they will return to Rune for the party. Participants were asked to bring a present for the kitchen. There will be no supper this week

Services for the week include Holy Eucharists at 8:00 a.m. Morning Prayer and Sermon at 11:00 a.m. on Sunday with daily vespers at 5:00 p.m. and compline at 9:45 p.m.

METHODIST EAST FROSH OFFICERS

Freshman class officers were recently elected at the Methodist Student House announced Bonnie Hall, president. Dick Moorer. Officers elected were Karl Edwards, President Bill Jones, Vice-President; Jan Kamina, Secretary and Jane Lee, Treasurer.

Methodists Students are saving money in penny mach boxes this week. Offers are being bound for needy families. Harriet Allen chairman of the house fellowship supper committee announced that there will be no supper Sunday as that students may attend the Women's Glee Club vesper service.

Christmas services will be held Sunday, Mr. Harold Pickrick, director of Christian Education, Trinity Methodist Parish, Canada Wednesday at a Christmas Reading, at the Sunday school hour at 9:45 a.m. Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m the Wesley Players, a religious dramatic group will give their annual Christmas play entitled, "What Men Live By."

The Wesley Singers, Methodist choral group will give its Christmas Cantata Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS HOLD MEETING THURSDAY

Thursday evenings from 7:00 to 7:45 is the time for the weekly Christian Science Organization to meet in Room 217 of the Music Building

The study room and lending library in room 200 of the Suwanee Room Arcades, is open every Tuesday and Thursday and Friday from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. All are welcome to the meetings and to use the study room.

THREE REPRESENT FSU AT IFC CONFERENCE

Three students from Florida State University represented the Interfraternity Council at a conference in Philadelphia sponsored by the National Interfraternity Conference.

Attending were J. Mundy Crews, Kappa Alpha; Thomas W Day, Kappa Sigma, and Alan Sunberg, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Dean, fraternity counselor, attended as guest of the NIC.

More than 300 representatives of American and Canadian college and university fraternities were said to be in attendance at the conference.

"Hey — We've Found A Ship Over Here Too"

Graduate Students Accepted To Study Or Teach In France

Opportunities to study or teach in France are available to American graduate students.

It was announced today by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City

The French Government is offering thirty university fellowships through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and forty teaching assistantships through the Ministry of Education. The fellowship awards are for students with definite academic projects or study plans.

Nominations of candidates for fellowships and assistantships will be made by a joint committee of French and American educators working in cooperation with the French Cultural Services and the Institute of International Education. Closing date for application is February 1, 1955.

The French Government awards are open to men and women preferably under 30 years of age. Applicants must be U. S. citizens. Other eligibility requirements are: a bachelor's degree from an American college or university by the time of departure; good academic records; good knowledge of French; correct usage of English, good moral character; personality, and adaptability; and good health.

Recipients of French teaching assistantships will receive conversational English in secondary schools and teacher training institutions in France.

KOREAN VETS SHUN 'SNAP' COURSES

ACP — "Snap" courses aren't the aim of Korean veterans studying under the GI Bill, according to a Veterans Administration survey.

Highly-skilled craft and trade occupations were selected by about 20 per cent of the half-million post-Korean veterans enrolled. Half of the men who enrolled during the first two years of the Korean bill entered college; the rest enrolled in schools below college level, on-the-job and on-the-farm training.

Ten per cent of the men entered a scientific training, and a large percentage of veterans are studying for the professions or the arts.

Joe Coates Elected ASPA President; Pick New Advisors

Joe R. Coates and Harry A. Eichen Jr., were elected president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the FSU Chapter, American Society for Public Administration, at the group's meeting Monday.

Dr. H. O. Waldby, Miss Juanita Gibson and A. B. Smith, of the staff of the School of Public Administration were chosen faculty advisers. Outgoing faculty adviser of Dr. Malcolm Parsons.

Students interested in joining the organization, which is made up of federal, state and local government officials, research workers, consultants, professors, students of, and people interested in public administration, are asked to contact Harry Eichen, Sigma Phi Epsilon, House, 536 W. College Ave., officers said.

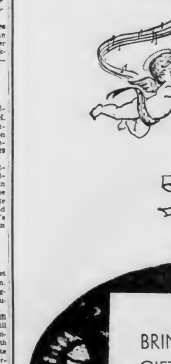
Phi Delta Theta's Plan Annual Party Of Underprivileged

In keeping with their annual tradition, members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity will give a Christmas Party for underprivileged children Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5. It will be held at the fraternity house, 106 Wildwood Drive, the group said.

Members of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority will be hostesses for the affair slated from 2 to 3 p.m. Tallahassee merchants have donated the refreshments they added.

The Phi Delt's pointed out that their guests will come from 'underprivileged homes' that otherwise would be unable to give them Christmas a Christmas." The fraternity will furnish transportation.

Every member of both the fraternity and sorority will be asked to buy one gift for a little boy and one for a little girl.



DIRECTORIES EXPECTED SOON AT BOOKSTORE

Student directories are expected at the bookstore next week, the Publications Office said yesterday.

Students desiring copies of the directory will be charged 25 cents a copy. Free copies will be sent to residence halls and fraternity and sorority houses, one for each telephone on campus.

Keepsake Diamond Rings
Bulova & Elgin Watches

PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 S. Monroe St. Phone 5-3405

BRING YOUR GIFT LIST TO WILSON'S

. . . A WIDE AND VARIED COLLECTION OF GIFTS FOR EVERYONE . . . MANY WITH SMALL PRICE TAGS, TOO . . .

YOUR GIFTS WRAPPED FREE, READY TO GIVE

TO ALL OF YOU . . . AT F. S. U.
A MERRY CHRISTMAS . . . . . A HAPPY NEW YEAR

P. W. WILSON CO.

TALLAHASSEE'S FAVORITE CHRISTMAS STORE SINCE 1837

Seminole Spotlight

By Jimmy Joanos
SPORTS EDITOR

WON 8 LOST 3

In establishing its won 8, lost 3 record, Florida State University's gridders set 28 new team and individual records. The highlight of the new records, of course, was the 3,528 yards gained by the teams rushing and passing. The average was 312 yards per game.

The passing of the Sun Bowl-bound Seminoles during the regular season was phenomenal. In 216 passing attempts FSU quarterbacks completed 107, for a gain of 1,516 yards. Nineteen touchdowns were scored by way of the air lanes.

The won 8, lost 3 record is the best FSU team record since the 1930 squad completed its undefeated season.

For the season, Lee Corso, sophomore halfback, led the grid team in scoring (38 points), kickoff returns, punt returns, and pass interceptions. In both rushing and passreceiving he was second.

Generally recognized as the team's most outstanding individual performer for the season was tackle Alex Makowecki. The big senior from Altoona, Pennsylvania, was recently given a second team berth on the Associated Press' 1934 Little All-American Team.

The Tribe's ground-gaining honors went to halfback Billy Graham. On 68 carries the Bogalusa, Louisiana, speedster gained 387 yards for an average of 5.7 per carry.

Getting back to the air lanes, the team's leading passer was quarterback Harry Massey. Of Massey's 90 attempts, 39 were completed (35.8 percentage) for 750 yards. Ten of Massey's completions went for touchdowns. Massey, by the way, was the team's leader in total offense.

INTRAMURAL DOINGS

The finals in both the Fraternity and Dormitory volleyball leagues will begin Monday night. At press time in the thick of the battle for the Greek crown were Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Tau Omega, and Tau Epsilon Phi.

In the Dormitory Volleyball league, the challengers for the championship included the Rebels, the Penthouse Gang, the Pirates, and the Methodist Students. Presently the only undefeated team in the dorm league is the Rebels.

In Intramural Individual Tennis the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity netter will begin the final rounds today. His opponent was undetermined at press time .In The Dormitory League, The Penthouse Gang's representative will likewise meet the winner of the loser's bracket (nonterminated) some time this afternoon.

Intramural touch football for both leagues begins January 5. Five rounds of play will be accomplished before exam week in a split season. Following examination week two remaining regular rounds and the finals are slated.

Touch football league champions last year were Phi Delta Theta and the Penthouse Gang.

SEMINOLE STATISTICS

FINAL TEAM STATISTICS

	FSU	FOES
Total First Downs	137	96
By Rushing	81	56
By Passing	51	36
By Penalty	5	4
Total Yardage	3528	2960
Net Rushing Attempts	427	394
Yards Gained Rushing	2012	1231
Yards Lost Rushing	216	229
Net Yards Rushing	1796	1002
No Passes Attempted	216	167
No Passes Completed	107	69
Net Yards Passing	1745	998
Per Cent Passes Completed	49.5	41.3
Average Gain Per Pass	16.3	14.5
Passes Intercepted By	24	11
Yards Returned	312	148
Average Punts	37.8	38.3
Punts Blocked By Game	1	0
Average Gain Punting	155	162
Average Gain Passing	130	91
Average Gain Per Play	5.5	5.1
Average Gain Per Rush	2.8	3.0
Scored Points Per Game	22.4	13.8

	FSU	FOES
Yards Punted	1755	1641
Average Punt	36.8	34.1
Punts Returned	13	12
Net Yards Returned	156	148
Kickoffs Returned	19	14
Yards Returned	156	1070
Average Return	20.8	76.4
Number Penalties	61	57
Yards Penalized	487	487
Number Fumbles	19	17
Fumbles Lost By	16	10
Per Cent Fumbles Lost	84	58
Total Touchdowns	39	23
By Rushing	17	9
By Passing	19	4
By Interception	1	1
By Fumble Recovery	0	0
By Punt Return	1	0
Extra Points Attempted	36	20
Made	33	11
Missed	3	9
Total Points	237	138

Do Your Christmas Shopping Early

FSU. Sorority and Fraternity Animals

Sweatshirts for the Kids Back Home

F.S.U. Footballs With Fight Song

F.S.U. Booties for new Nephew or Niece

Complete Line of CHRISTMAS CARDS by Norcross

at

MALONE'S BOOK STORE

107 S. Copeland

FSU CAGE SQUAD—Pictured above is the 1954-55 Florida State University varsity basketball team. Left to right, in the front row are Tom Garcia, Jim Oler, Bobby Waites, Ham Wernke, Wayne Patton, and Daniel Butler. In the rear row are Coach Bud Kennedy, Dick Artmeier, Robert Ward, Dan Alford, Rick Benson, Bobby Williams, Gary Wold, Ed Wurzbach, Fred Twomey, Darryll Mahoney, Tom Burst, and Assistant Coach Mike Leng.

FSU Grabs Second Cage Win 75-67

By ALAN WHITMARSH

With both teams rolling to easy opening victories, speculation on the Gator Bowl-bound Seminoles and the University of Florida continues to rise.

The Seminoles put on a second quarter splurge to topple Georgia Teachers Tuesday night in the West Campus gym for their second straight victory, 75-67. The Florida Gators opened their season last Saturday, coasting to a 76-61 win over Wofford College.

Both teams play five games before the Gator Bowl tournament and an interesting comparison might be made between them. for they both meet Stetson and Tampa during those five games. With Georgia and Spring Hill the other two teams in the tourney, the winner of the FSU-Florida contest will most likely be the favorite to win the tournament. Georgia Teachers is the defending champion, but they haven't been met yet.

In Tuesday night's contest the Seminoles trailed 16-12 after ten minutes, but suddenly found the range and hammered home more in before the half, to steam into a 46-34 margin. After that Georgia Teachers was never able to get closer than the final margin of eight points.

Using a deadly hook shot to good advantage, forward Rick Benson poured in 23 points to lead the FSU cause, followed by Oler (14), Artmeier (13), Wold (11) and Wernke (10).

Hitting only 2 of their first 15 shots and very ragged work with backboard control, the Seminoles trailed throughout the first ten minutes of the game, but the rebounding of Dick Artmeier and Benson plus considerably more accurate shooting enabled them to control the ball most of the second ten minutes and move into a handy twelve - point margin at half time.

The third quarter was played almost on even terms and the visitors took the final ten minutes, but by then it was too late for them to overcome the Seminoles' margin.

Besides Benson, Artmeier was particularly outstanding under the boards and also stole the ball on several occasions in addition to tallying 13 points.

The FSU cagers have played the new free throw rule into 76 points in the first two games, and they promise to break all of their existing records there before the season is over. Oler has pumped in 14 from the foul line while Wernke has 12 and Benson 11.

Oler continues to lead the team in individual scoring with 40 points. but Benson is right behind him with 38. Next in line is Wernke who has tallied 29 points in the first two games.

The Seminoles next encounter also their third straight home game, will be against the University of Tampa next Thursday night. Meetings with Stetson and the University of Miami follow in that order before the Gator Bowl tourney.

Five lettermen return from the 1954 Tampa team, which was 16 of 23 games hal dropped both encounters with Florida State. Bill Bosworth, a 6-4 Sophomore is the big man in the Spartan's attack.

With good height and plenty of good shots, the Seminoles have good chances of a strongly winning season. Different men have been high scorers in the two games to date, illustrating the depth of the team.

GA. TEACHERS	G	F	T
Bush, f	0	0	0
Ford, f	5	0	10
Ford, f	0	0	0
Cantrell, f	3	0	6
Campbell, f	0	0	0
Cox, c	4	0	8
Hall, c	0	0	0
Ward, g	0	0	0
Hopkins, g	0	0	0
Dykes, g	0	0	0
Waites, g	4	1	9
Totals	20	7	67

FLA. STATE	G	F	T
Artmeier, f	4	3	11
Benson, f	9	4	22
Wernke, f	4	2	10
Wold, f	3	0	6
Oler, c	5	4	14
Totals	25	13	75

Georgia Teachers 20 27 67
Florida State 39 36 75

Referee—Brown, Georgia
Umpire—Bush, Warren, Georgia
Dykes, Waites, Heath, Florida State
Artmeier, Benson, Williams, Ward, Wernke, Oler.

Six Lettermen Swimmers Form Nucleus Of 1954-55 Tankmen

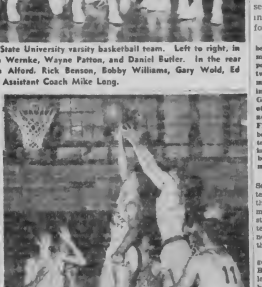
By LAIRD ANDERSON

Last night the Florida State swimming team saw just how well their months of preliminary practice have shaped them up for the coming 54-55 season, with an inter-squad meet that was held in the East Campus Gym.

This meet showed coach Bim Stolts the kinks that will have to be ironed out of his varsity and freshman squads before their first official meet with the University of Georgia on Jan. 12.

What probably hurt this year's squad the most said coach Stolts was the loss of co-captain Larry Barnett, record breaking Georgia Hershberger, one of the most promising freestyle swimmers to come out of the Southeast.

There are, however, six returning lettermen that should enable the team to remain in the winning bracket. They are: Ernie Stock, a junior named to last year's All-American swimming team and who ranked fourth in the National Intercollegiate 440 yard stroke championship; freestyle sprinter Jim Julian, a sophomore; junior breaststroke swimmer Dick Rhoton; junior backstroke artist Norman Salsbury; Mike Tscherret, a long distance freestyle swimmer, and junior Bob Stuke, the team's best diver.



Promising freshman members of the squad, who should prove to be valuable to future squads are: Joel Jacobs, a breaststroke artist who was named to last year's All-American prep team; Ken Abbott, a backstroker who was also named to the same team; Carswell Ponder, a diver; Don Lentz, who won the 100-yard freestyle championship in Florida last year and Graham Teschke, a freestyle distance swimmer.

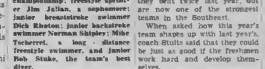
Per the past two years, the only loss the team suffered was an opening defeat in 1953. Since then the Seminoles have won 15 straight dual meets. They are undefeated last year.

Outside of the team's regular dual meets, the squad will also compete in the Georgia and Florida A.A.U. It has been rumored that the team may go to Dallas, Texas for a meet with Southern Methodist University, winner of the Southwest Conference championship.

The Southern Methodist coach Stolts said will probably be their opponent in the Dallas meet, whom they beat twice last year, but they note one of the strongest team in the Southwest.

When asked how this year's team shapes up with last year's coach Stolts said that they could be just as good if the freshmen work hard and develop themselves.

WERNKE SCORES — Florida State University guard Ham Wernke is shown scoring a field goal against Georgia Teachers College. Other Seminoles in the picture include center Gary Wold. forward Dick Artmeier (No. 11), and Rick Benson, for-ard.



REGISTRAR PERSONNEL PEN N&W ARTICLE

Two Registrars Office personnel, Assistant Registrar H. Hoyt Price and Foreman Gee, Jr., director of IBM Services, wrote an article "Registration Collection and Fees Accounting," published in the Punched Card Annual of Accounting and Statistical Methods, 1954-55, a publication dedicated to the advancements of the science of tabulating system.

'DOWN WITH BONFIRE RALLIES!'

ELLENSBURG, Wash. (ACP)—Bonfire rallies at Central Washington College here may be a thing of the past. Claiming that students "don't really care for the bonfire" at Homecoming rallies, the Central Crier, weekly student publication, prophesies that "the bonfire will be extinguished. It's about time!"

Texas Western Rated Favorite

BOWL GAMES OF 1954-55

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17
CRAB BOWL
TAMPA, FLORIDA
Mer's Harrisburg 88.0	Tampa 87.5
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31
GATOR BOWL
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA
Auburn ..... 106.4 vs Baylor 101.0
SATURDAY, JANUARY 1
ROSE BOWL
PASADENA, CALIFORNIA
Ohio State 118.7 vs So. Calif 89.3
SUGAR BOWL
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA
Mississippi ..... 107.3 vs Texas 100.9
ORANGE BOWL
MIAMI, FLORIDA
Duke ..... 86.5 vs Nebraska 87.1
COTTON BOWL
DALLAS, TEXAS
Arkansas ..... 88.0 vs Ga. Tech 87.8
SUN BOWL
EL PASO, TEXAS
Tex. Western 77.3 vs Fla. State 75.7
TANGERINE BOWL
ORLANDO, FLORIDA
Omaha ..... 76.8 vs U Ky State 71.2

FINAL RANK AND RATING OF NATIONAL LEADERS

O.C.L.A.	123.1	Arkansas	89.8
Ohio State	120.1	Miss. State	89.7
Oklahoma	113.2	Georgia Tech	89.2
Texas Christian	111.2	Duke	88.9
Texas	110.4	Texas Tech	88.8
Maryland	109.3	Miss. A. & M.	88.8
Mississippi	108.1	Duke	88.7
Utah	108.0	California	88.1
Army	107.4	Utah State	87.7
Auburn	106.4	Northwestern	87.6
Iowa	102.4	Colorado	87.5
Miami, Fla.	102.3	Indiana	87.4
Michigan	102.0	L.S.U.	86.6
Duke	101.9	Nebraska	86.5
Purdue	101.8	Virginia	86.3
B.M.U.	101.2	Kentucky	86.3
Baylor	100.8	Wash. State	86.2
Minnesota	100.5	Detroit	86.1
Texas Tech	99.7	Pittsburgh	86.0
So. Calif.	99.4	Florida	85.7
Tulane	85.6
Texas A. & M.	85.5
San Jose St.	85.3
Ohio U.	84.8
Villanova	84.7
Tennessee	84.6
Syracuse	83.9
Wisconsin	83.8
Holy Cross	83.6
Clemson	83.3
Washington	83.2
Stanford	82.9
Penn State	82.8
So. Pacific	82.1
Georgia	81.9
Marquette	81.8
Delaware	81.7
Wash. U.	81.6
Manhattan	81.3
Fordham	81.2
Temple	81.1
No. Carolina	81.0
Penn State	80.9

By DICK DUNKEL

Despite their misgivings of a month ago, promoters of the year-end college football bowls seem to have come up with a highly satisfactory group of pairings for the fans' delectation.

According to Power Index calculations, the Sugar, Gator and Cotton Bowls, in particular, should offer light competition and, therefore, might have the best eye appeal.

Oddly enough, the Rose Bowl, granddaddy of the saucers, will present the one contest that figures to be lopsided, if past performance rations are to mean anything. Ohio State, parking the mighty No. 2 Power Index of 116.7, rates more than 17 points stronger than its New Year's opponent, Southern California (99.3).

Observers of the season-long battle for top national honors between Ohio State and UCLA will be especially interested in their comparative performances against Southern Cal. UCLA licked the Trojans, 34-6, in the season's close-out. Against their only other common opponent, California, UCLA won by 21 points and Ohio State by eight.

The Power Index which shows average difference in score relative to strength of opposition, indicates the degree of closeness which can be expected in the forthcoming classics through the following point-differential figures:

Rose Bowl, Jan. 1: Ohio State 17 over Southern California.

Sugar Bowl, Jan. 1: Mississippi 1 over Navy.

Orange Bowl, Jan. 1: Duke 8 over Nebraska.

Gator Bowl, Dec. 31: Auburn 4 over Baylor.

Cotton Bowl, Jan. 1: Arkansas 1 over Georgia Tech.

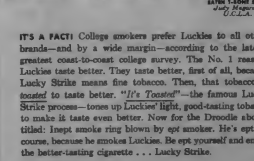
Sun Bowl, Jan. 1: Texas Western 6 over Fla. State.

Tangerine Bowl, Jan. 1: Omaha 4 over Eastern Kentucky.

Crab Bowl, Dec. 17: Morris Harvey 9 over Tampa.

Incidentally, in 1,840 united games covered by the Power Index this season, 77.3 per cent were won by the higher rating team.

LUCKY DROODLES ? OODLES !



WHAT'S THIS? For solution see porograph below.

EATEN 7-A-DAY STEAK
Judy Magnum
U.C.L.A.

BULLET HOLES FROM BOMARC SHOOTS
Alice Lee
Michigan Normal

OX MASHED GUYAN SOUP
Alfred J. Forchet
Hunter College

CENTER LINE ON MOUNTAIN ROAD PAINTED BY MAN
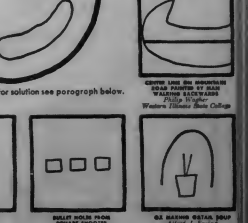
WALKING BACKWARDS
Phillip Hyde
Western Illinois State College

CONTOUR CHAIR
FOR INDIAN FAKIRS
Richard N. Nelson
Creighton University



Better taste Luckies...

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER

"It's TOASTED" is why Luckies taste better!

CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

©A.T.CO. PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

STUDENTS!
EARN '25!
Lucky Droodles* are pouring in! We have seen yours? We pay $25 for all we use, and for many we don't use. So send every original Droodle in your noodle, with its descriptive title, to Lucky Droodle, P.O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.
*Droodle: a nonsensical drawing. Copyright 1954 by Roger Price

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
CIGARETTES

THE DIXIE LAND
It Is Our Pleasure To Serve You
Saturday Special
Shrimp Box 80c
Sunday Special
Barbecue Spareribs Box 90c
All Kinds of Delicious Sandwiches
FOR FREE DELIVERY 11 A. M. TO 10 P. M.
Call DIXIE LAND DRIVE-IN
Guy Chambers Operator
2-1327
1804 S. Monroe

Letters To The Flambeau

Indignant Senotor

To The Editor:

I cannot take the comment on concerning the addition of qualified students to Economics published in last Tuesday's Flambeau.

You say "The people who defeated the President's appointment to the present vacancy, and all editorial backing of the amendment" in question. In no sense have I voted nor spoken in favor of the amendment in question. I do not, nor have I ever admitted that these past actions were justified.

I have stated that the President's appointment and I can support any Vice-President Gore finds unacceptable, but not for the President's appointment was not illegal since I voted on reasons unstated.

I could not admit my actions were justified because there were not. I can support the 1956 presidential Governor, but I feel that amendment unsound. I feel that anyone who considers a people elevated to supreme in those principles.

To say that Senators John Jones, Jim Mullins and Roddy Hood are pleased with the President's appointment for political reasons is an insult to them and to the members of my class whom they represent. I have worked with them in the senate and like to think I am friends with them as well. I have found consistency in their character, ethics and integrity. I know that no one would try to serve the students and the state in a manner which would never allow them to compromise their principles. The same is the case with Vice-President Gore. I have worked with him in the senate and like to think I am friends with him as well. I have found consistency in their character, ethics and integrity. I know that no one would try to serve the students and the state in a manner which would never allow them to compromise their principles. The same is the case with Vice-President Gore.

Where the shoe fits, we have no objection to its being put on.

Bad Tactics

To the Editor:

The meeting last Wednesday's meeting of the University Senate, and I feel that the students should be heard as some of the sessions on that body.

The Senate was considering Gordon Gaster's bill concerning the filling of vacancies in the Senate by special election. There are a lot discussion. Gordon Gaster tabled the bill by A. Lloyd Greenfield, who spoke in favor of the bill. Greenfield then pulled a fast one on the Senate, but fortunately the Senate was not asleep. Gaster's motion failed to pass. discussion was resumed, opposition arguments were heard, and the bill was defeated.

So unlike the Kingdom of Gbargacon, government of the people, by the people, for the people, has not perished from FSU.

Sincerely,
BRUCE W. FLETCHER.

Watch Those Words

To the Editor:

"It Is Not You I Love, My Love" is the title Mr. Sharp, in distinctly Hegelian style, has chosen to say adequate. Look this word up. This is the kind of writing that should be watched by the young poetess parents or guardians.

VAN G. PETERSON.

Author Speaks

(Continued from page 1)

to reach draft a little more, GOD HAS ALREADY, OF HUMOR.

Mac Hall now lives in Lakeland but has spent time in many other cities and towns of Florida. Prior to becoming a full-time writer he taught school in Florida for 15 years. She said she has picked cotton, raised hogs, sold real estate, been a small town reporter, besides having brought up a family. For four years she was on the library staff at the University in Gainesville.

As Rubyjea Palmer, an undergraduate at FSU, she studied creative writing and literary criticism under Dr. Hazel Skidmore, now reading professor in the English Department.

To encourage those writers whose work is rejected, she says, "Keep on. All my books, except Flamingo Prime, were first turned down by well known agents and publishers."

Saroyan Play

(Continued from page 1)

lighting and stage effects. The stage will be set in a modern style accenting a combination of surrealism and set a touch of the bare-stage used in "Our Town." Because of its unique quality and feeling this type setting is being used.

The set used here is entirely like the one used on Broadway and is expected to be the direction to provide an even greater feeling of the atmosphere of the play. The surrealistic set made its appearance at FSU in Dr. Lowe Orr's production of "The Lady of Maine" and repeated in Dr. Orr's production of "The Long Christmas Dinner." The acceptance throughout theater has been almost universal. Tickets are 60 cents and 75 cents.

Mary Dean Jackson Is Nominated For 'Maid Of Cotton'

Miss Mary Dean Jackson, 20-year-old junior from Jacksonville and a finalist in the recent Homecoming Queen contest, has been nominated by student governments for the national Maid of Cotton contest. Seventy-six Recreation Graduate Carothers announced recently.

Miss Jackson, a nominee of the President's Cabinet, is one of several candidates from FSU. If selected, she will represent the American cotton industry on a 40,000 mile international goodwill tour.

The 5-foot 5½-inch brown-eyed beauty has been active at Chi Omega, Village Vamps and Flambeau Trotters of America. She was selected for the 1955-56 Tally-Ho beauty section, and as a Smoke Ring Sweetheart. Her major is elementary education.

The Maid of Cotton, to be chosen at Memphis in early January, must be between the ages of 19 and 25 at least 5 feet 3 inches and from a cotton-growing state. She is selected on the qualities of poise, personality and appearance.

Factions Clash

(Continued from page 1)

merely taking away authority "that no other committee has."

Cobb refuted charges that pressure groups would create a bad precedent for taking away powers from the executive. This is how the Florida Senate started and added, "Let's concern ourselves with Florida, Florida, Florida."

The argument that a special election will put an undue financial burden on the state had run in the regular elections this same year, Cobb said, and was a feeble argument against the bill.

"The way to remedy poor voter participation is not to cut it off altogether," he said.

After Cobb finished speaking Gaster moved to end debate but Senator Ed Sharp, a distinctly Hegelian in style, rose to say adequate. Look this word up. This is the kind of writing that should be watched by the young poetess parents or guardians.

VAN G. PETERSON.

Fletcher told to the argument that poor voting turnout in a special election was similar to a holiday ace. He said that the Student Body President, elected in the Spring general election, should retain the power of appointment in the interim.

Griffin warned he would continue to oppose the measure.

"I adhere to the principle of the people participating in governmental matters," he said, "but when I apply the amendment to political realities at FSU, it won't work. Other revisions should be made first."

Senator Nancy Vaucha also maintained that special elections voting turnout wouldn't be large enough to justify holding such elections.

Griffin warned he would continue to oppose the measure.

"I adhere to the principle of the people participating in governmental matters," he said, "but when I apply the amendment to political realities at FSU, it won't work. Other revisions should be made first."

Senator Nancy Vaucha also maintained that special elections voting turnout wouldn't be large enough to justify holding such elections.

Griffin warned he would continue to oppose the measure.

"I adhere to the principle of the people participating in governmental matters," he said, "but when I apply the amendment to political realities at FSU, it won't work. Other revisions should be made first."

Senator Nancy Vaucha also maintained that special elections voting turnout wouldn't be large enough to justify holding such elections.

Senator Frances Helms contended that special elections would add to, rather than detract from interest in politics.

"The only way," she said, to get people to vote, "is to make it a hotly with them."

Senator Jonnes denied that President Pete Nimkoff would in any way benefit from the bill. Pete opposition to Gaster's proposal but Senator Arnold Greenfield, representing interested that voters was the case, continued to hold that opposition "may be because of the bill's sponsor."

As long as the several weeks of debate on Gaster's amendment was that due to the rise of political parties obtaining to-thirds confirmation of any appointee to Senate would be difficult if not impossible.

Contending that that is not the case, Senator Jonnes predicted that with the maturity of the political parties such cases as one of the above description which happened this year wouldn't occur again.

After brief further discussion the question was put to a vote. Voting for ratification were Gaster, Women's Vice-President Jean Tavel, and Senators Ben Arnold, Lillian Ash, Frances Helms, Bill Wagoner, Jean Pickford, Fred Mansfield, Jr. Joare, Jim Meyer, Jimmy Sales, Tip Terry, Rick McCann and Bill Sojcert.

Those voting against ratification were Senators Bill Burch, Bob Voutin, Ken Gatlin, Jimmy Jones, Carolyn Clow, Bobby Temple, Polly Atwater, Petey Dunn and Ronnie Blue.

Senator Pauline Soles announced her intent to re-visitate a petition to table the amendment before the students without Senatorial ratification. Senator Jonnes said that he would not get the required 3/4 signatures, he Joanne would "go right along with you."

SOCIOLOGISTS ELECT CLUB OFFICERS

Alpha Kappa Delta, national Sociological honorary fraternity, Florida State University chapter, has recently elected its officers for the present academic year.

They are: president, Miss Anjali Bridas, graduate student from Karachi, Pakistan and Athabasca, vice-president, George C. Chanis, graduate student, and Miss Sarah Frances Anders, graduate student, secretary and treasurer.

LOST — Brown zipper notebook and analytical chemistry text-book by Walton. Measer reward. Return to chemistry department.

ROOMS, MEN —Linen, maid service; telephone. Convenient. Call 3-0478, 547 West College.

MAKES 'LIFE'—Glenn Allen, shown with his Cleona, while at work here before receiving his master's degree last June, appears in the Dec. 6 issue of Life magazine. The article is entitled 'Jet Age.'

'Hanukkah' Holiday Is Greeted By Hillel Student Celebration

By STAFF WRITER

Florida State University students of the Jewish faith showed with Jews all over the world are getting ready to celebrate the Jewish Holiday of Hanukkah, which begins tomorrow.

Here on campus, a program sponsored by Hillel will be held December 11th at 8 p.m. at Temple Israel on South Copeland and N. Macomb streets. Singing of Jewish hymns by the newly formed choir of Hillel will be featured, along with a discussion on the history and significance of the Hanukkah holidas. This will be followed by a social hour.

The holiday of Hanukkah had its beginning more than two thousand years a.g. 168 B.C. when the Syrian emperor Antiochus captured the Temple at Jerusalem. The Jewish people, who treasured their religious freedom, revolted for three and years battled against the Syrian invader. They were led in their battle for freedom by Judah the Maccabee and his four brothers, the sons of the priest Mattathias.

In the First Book of Maccabees it is recorded that Judah addressed his army thus before the final battle: "Gird yourselves and be courageous, and be ready in the morning to fight these heathen who have gathered against us to destroy us and our sanctuary, because it is better for us to die in battle than look upon the tragedies of our nation and our sanctuary. But as whatever be the will of Heaven, thus shall He do." In 165 B.C. they won the victory and drove the Syrian out of the Temple and Jerusalem. Afterward the Temple was made once again a place for the worship of God. This dedication was celebrated for eight days in prayer and song.

Hanukkah is a happy festival, for it is a reminder of the freedom and liberty won by Judah the Maccabee and his army. It is a time to give gifts and hold merry family and community gatherings. And to give thanks that we can worship freely both here and abroad.

Security

(Continued From Page 4)

risk" without imputation of disloyalty if he talked too much, drank too much or maintained questionable associations.

In the present international atmosphere the "security" standard, if interpreted with flexibility and common understanding, seems quite reasonable.

However, it is important, as some retired diplomats of the highest character have pointed out, not to create an atmosphere of fear and blind conformity.

It is the foreign service officer in Paris who predicted the failure of the European Defense Community treaty, not the one who anticipated its success, who would deserve the moment in for consistence.

It is the American observer in Indo-China who foresaw that Presnes military and political methods would lead to defeat, not to victory, who would earn the A grade for discernment.

A diplomat who would suppress his honest conclusions and limit his reports with an eye to public sentiment would be useless to the government.

There is another consideration that speaks in favor of making the security regulation flexible enough to be applied mandatory. It but infrequently happens that persons who have flirted with Communism early in their careers become the consistent and principled anti-Communists after they have gained more maturity and perhaps seen a somewhat broader time in operation.

It follows that a government official should be judged on the basis of his evolution and his total record, not exclusively irrevocably if he was the Secretary of the Young Democrats or took part in a left-wing play in college.

The best advice to those responsible for administering the security program would be an adaptation of Shakespeare as written by Calvin Coolidge. Expect to be called a good master. But don't be a witch hunter.

—William Henry Chamberlin in The Wall Street Journal.

Defense

(Continued From Page 1)

verse, the chairman replied: "Yes, but I want to emphasize that there's no new principle involved. We could have had the bomb eighteen months ago. We decided to go slow so as to keep the national economy on an even keel for the long pull; a sound economy and a balanced budget are basic to our continuity of national defense. As a matter of fact, we've got something better than the G-bomb."

The chairman declined to enlarge on his last remark.

July, 1959 — Excerpt from transcript of White House press conference:

Nathaniel Brown of the Concord Flash Harrison: Mr. President, the chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy has stated that the country has nothing better than the G-bomb. Would you care to comment on that?

A: Well, he hadn't read the statement, and he wouldn't want to comment on any statement or comment that he hadn't read. Q: Then you won't comment on the idea of continuing our program, Mr. President, but would you be willing to draw any comparisons between our present atomic potential and that of 1954?

A: The bomb I have reference to is subject there were several aspects that came up in the past few days, and I thought it would be fine for me to refer to the whole matter and that would make the G-bomb obsolete?

Q: A bigger bomb, sir?

A: Bigger bomb, sir.

September, 1959—Dr. Frederick White, a retired former employee of the Manhattan Project, expressed doubt concerning the practical military value of a bomb larger than one capable of destroying the universe and became the first inmate of Leavenworth Annex. During Dr. White's trial it was brought out that his expression of doubt was not a punishable offense, but that he had failed to reveal certain additional statements while at Alamo Energy Commission. The statements in question were not specified owing to security regulations.

April, 1960 — Conviction of Atomic Scientist No. 100 Dr. Oberdorfer, under the new security program.

—Ralph Winnett in The Nation

FOR THE BEST IN SHOE REPAIRING TRY
PALACE SHOE SHOP
Established 1914
121 E. PARK AVE.

TAKE A GREYHOUND HOME

GOING HOME FOR CHRISTMAS?

Save 20% On Return Portion of Round Trip Tickets by Greyhound

For Information Call 2-1650

Be A Jewel give a gem for A $1 down
at DUVAL'S

Shop Duval's and give the finest for only $1 down! Take all next year to pay the rest! You'll find Duval brimming with marvelous stocks of everything. Every item fresh and new . . . no last year's stock . . . for Duval's fast turn over guarantees you new merchandise just put in stock!

Lady's 2-Piece Samsonite Matched Luggage Set
Sturdy Samsonite of Lasts a Lifetime. Scratch Resistant Styled With Pride
$1 Down! $29.95
Expansion Band Included at No Extra Cost! One Year Guarantee
EOTH . . . $1.00 down
$37.00 Plus Tax
Duval Jewelry Co.
104 East College Avenue

DUVAL
Your choice of Lady's or Gentlemen's Initialed Watch
$1 Down! $29.95

"MARGY"
Beautiful taking 14K gold matched ring set with gleaming Duval Diamond
$1 Down! $50.00

The exciting new idea behind the motoramic Chevrolet

The Bel Air 4-Door Sedan—one of 14 new Fisher Body beauties in three new series

Maybe once in a car-buying lifetime, you come across something that breaks all the old patterns and establishes new ones. This is that kind of car. This is the true story of how Chevrolet and General Motors shaped a new idea in steel.

Like most good ideas, this one is pretty simple. Chevrolet and General Motors set out to build the first low-priced car that would:

- bring you the very farthest in style and fine handling to be had.
- bring you the most and newest engine design and engineering features.
- bring you the kind of performance and the kind of ride that have never been available before in a low-priced car.
- bring you the highest quality of manufacture and materials.

All this in Chevrolet's price field! That did take some doing! And you'll find that only Chevrolet and General Motors have the people, skills, resources and facilities, to carry out this exciting new idea! Here is how this new Chevrolet changes all your ideas about cars!

Real Show-Car Styling!

Your eye tells you the Motoramic Chevrolet is an alpine "just-look" job. It stands, low beside . . . soft and clean from its sleek new fenders to its unbroken Sweep-Sight windshield . . . a new outlook for motoring. And that attention-getting change where you'll see it . . . existing forward and from are harmonized with the whole car.

A Sensational Ride!

You have the new idea instantly . . . you glide . . . as totally glide between spherical paints "roll with the punch" of the road in Chevrolet's new Glide-Ride front suspension. And outrigger rear springs mean new balance in turns . . . turns made so effortless by new ball-race steering. And when you stop suddenly, new Anti-Dive braking control checks that nosing down in front . . . you get "heads up" stopping. Tubeless tires mean much greater protection against blowouts. And with new high-level ventilation there's fresher air.

Power Beyond Compare!

You also feel the new idea quickly . . . quick power like a panther's pounce with the new "Turbo-Fire V8" (162 h.p.) and two new "Blue-Flame" 6's. And sparking this performance is a 12-volt electrical system giving you better ignition, faster starting, greater electrical reserve for any of the power assists you might desire. You have a transmission choice of economical Overdrive and improved, automatic Powerglide (optional at extra cost) or standard shift.

Even Air Conditioning!

And if you desire the convenience of power assists (optional at extra cost) . . . you'll find new power-steering and improved power brakes on all models. Power-controlled windows and Powershift seat are available on Bel Air, Two-Ten and "Trend" models, while air conditioning may be added on V-8 models.

Won't You Try It?

Here, we can only tell you how successfully the Motoramic Chevrolet expresses the new idea behind it. But the car itself can quickly show you! Come in for a demonstration drive, won't you, just chance you get.

MORE THAN A NEW CAR,
A NEW CONCEPT OF LOW-COST MOTORING

Everything's new in the motoramic
CHEVROLET

CHEVROLET

Drive with care . . . EVERYWHERE! Make December 15 and every day SAFE-DRIVING DAY!

See your Chevrolet Dealer

What Are Rights Of Individuals? (See Lead Editorial)

The Florida Flambeau

Information Service Members Visit Here (See Page 1)

VOL. XL, NO. 21 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA TUESDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1954

Sun Bowl Special Is Westward Bound December 28

Incoming Car Check Begins; Blockade Set

After Thursday Cars Minus Stickers Are Subject To Penalty

Today and Thursday, all cars entering Florida State University through the Gaines Street gate will be required to have university registration on a window.

The blockade will begin in the morning and last until the day, except for a short intermission, announced student-faculty committees to supervise the campus-wide drive all cars registered.

Jane Wardlaw, Traffic Chairman, said that Campus Chest members of service organizations will be on hand at the gate to issue the stickers. The cars, whether student or employee property, will be turned away if the sticker has not registered and will be fined as well, she confirmed.

On Thursday, if a car without a sticker is parked on campus it will be subject to fine. Action plans called for registration of the automobile to appear at all dormitories, fraternities and sororities yesterday to give car-owners time and chance to get them stickered.

Assistant to Business Manager Don Farquharson said last week that approximately five students and employees have registered their cars in his office at 104 Westcott Building since the campaign began two weeks ago.

It noted that the purpose of the stickers is to provide a means of quick identification of cars involved in parking or violations on the FSU campus. The rule has been in effect for some time, Mr. Farquharson added but it has not been enforced.

He asked that students and employees be alert, and aware of avoiding late-blockade days.

Organizations cooperating in the campaign are Alpha Commercial Sophomore Council, Alpha Phi Omega and Gold Key. Representatives of these will be with the Campus Patrol and the gates December 15 and 16.

To secure a sticker, each employee fills out a card giving name, address, license number of car and the university station. No cost is involved. But he receives a sticker he must place on his car.

The decision to enforce the FSU sticker rule was made by a committee appointed by Student Body President Ralph R. Quinney to see how well the university was getting along in enforcing parking and traffic violations. The committee itself resulted from a survey of car owners which showed that only 15 per cent had the stickers.

Notices

HOLIDAYS BEGIN FRIDAY

Christmas Holidays begin Friday at noon and end Monday, January 3. Students who go to Van Hook must take the next day or Men's or Women's Offices will lose one sixth of their holiday due to Inauguration Day. Classes will be resumed Wednesday.

SMOKE SIGNALS COMES OUT THIS WEEK

Smoke Signals will be distributed by mail to regular students Wednesday and Thursday and by Students Thursday and Friday in Longmire Basement.

BANK CHANGES THURSDAY SCHEDULE

The Student Bank will close at 2 p.m. Thursday, but will be open all day Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. after a regular schedule.

STUDENTS MAY MAKE-UP TESTS

All Freshman and transfer Students who have not taken the below named required tests may do so at the indicated times in Room 226 Science Building. Senior Students not satisfying this requirement will have necessary registration withheld.

2 p.m. A.C.E. Psychological Test

3:15 p.m. Minnesota Person-ality Scale

LAST EDITION

Because of the holidays, today's edition of The Florida Flambeau will be the last one before January 7, said Editor Bob Folsom.

Former Professor Charges That His Resignation Was Pressured

A former FSU assistant professor of geography has charged his resignation in October, 1953, was obtained under pressure and has petitioned Acting Gov. Charley E. Johns for a public hearing on the case.

Johns has said he will "look into" the case of Robert L. Leathers, "if any action by me is justified."

Leathers' vice-president Dr. A. B. Martin has announced as a "fresh appearance" Leathers' charges that his resignation was forced because of his work on an AAUP committee investigating athletic practices here. President Doak S. Campbell's office declined to comment to THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU yesterday.

Dr. J. Broard Culpepper, executive secretary of the State Board of Control, which body Leathers charges denied him a fair hearing, said yesterday that he had no comment on the case. "I think all the facts are on file," he said.

Culpepper added, however, "That the Board of Control will cooperate in every way with the Acting Governor, and if he requests it, chairman Lee Ballard of the Board will give a hearing."

"I am willing to put my case and the evidence before the governor and ask no more," Leathers told the FLAMBEAU yesterday.

He said that he was forced into a meeting with several administrative officials. Dean Charles S. Davis, Dr. Paul Reynolds and Henry Becker, head of the geography department.

Leathers stated that he was accused of violating a closed classrooms, of stealing, and of making an improper assignment to a student. He added that at the meeting he was given a chance for an "impromptu reply."

He stated that he was afterwards ordered to go home and was unable to get any indication of what the decision was.

Leathers said that the next afternoon the department head called at his home and demanded her resign or be fired. Leathers stated he was warned not to fight the case, at the risk of losing three months accumulated vacation

(Continued on Page 4)

Visiting Hours Changed Says H. G. Hathaway

The University Infirmary now has two visiting hours, announced Chief Physician H. G. Hathaway.

Effective immediately, students will be allowed to visit patients from 2 to 3 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m. seven days a week, he announced.

The change was brought into effect through the efforts of the Student Body of Labor, Student Services and Education Committee headed by Joan Hulford.

Chairman Halford said that her committee has studied the situation in response to numerous student complaints that the visiting hours at the Infirmary were not adequate.

She added that when contacted, Dr. Hathaway agreed that the hours prevented some students from seeing patients due to meeting classes or other cases and that the visiting hours should be expanded.

The previous hours were from 7 to 8 p.m. on weekdays and 1 to 3 p.m. on weekends.

Members Of Many Religions To Gather In Longmire Lounge

Moslems, Christians, Buddhists, and Hindus will gather around the big Christmas tree in the main lounge in Longmire Building to celebrate Christmas on December 14, at 7:30 p.m.

The Christmas party, which is held annually by the International Students Club at FSU unites citizens of about 25 different countries this year. As in past times, the story of the birth of Christ will be read in various languages, and the carols which will be sung originated in the countries from which the students from foreign countries will wear their native costumes.

Members of the administration and the faculty at FSU and civic and church leaders of Tallahassee will be the guests of the international and American students who belong to the club.

Flambeau staff photo by Al Robbins

LOCAL GAMBLING JOINT?. . NO—Only a turnout of bridge players at Pi Beta Phi sorority house. A bridge tournament is planned in January among campus sorority, fraternities.

Richards Has Winning Script For Sandspur

"Prince of Eratz", by Howard Richards, is the winning script for the 1954 Sandspur production, announced Chairman Frances Bailey Stokes yesterday.

Richards also wrote and arranged music for the production, continued Miss Stokes. She said that Sandspur is aft to a good start this year, the scenery design having been completed also.

"I think that 'Prince of Eratz' will be enjoyed by all students," she added. "The music is the kind they will go away humming.

"Everyone connected with th Sandspur is working to make it a top production this year, one that will top all previous productions."

She said that the Script Committee had a "difficult time" in choosing a winner. Committee were Pat Peres, Jayleen Roberson and Donn Teal.

Sandspur tryouts will be held January 6, at 7 p.m. in Longmire Auditorium. Chairman Stokes said that interested students should bring their own sheet music and accompanist. Otherwise they will sing music selected by the Sandspur Committee, she added.

"Tryouts will be expected to read from the script," she said. "Dance tryouts will be held at the same time. We need students for both the dancing chorus and the singing chorus."

Oglesby To Teach International Law Spring Semester

Dean of Students R. N. Ogles-by will teach a course in international law, Dr. Paul Reynolds, Marian Irish, political science department head has announced.

The course, International Law 477, will be held at 8 a.m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays during next semester, and is a study of the law and its bearing on major problems of world politics.

Dean Oglesby, newly arrived here, holds a Ph D. in International Law from Duke University.

Community Choir Sing At Bainbridge Slated For Sunday

The annual Bainbridge Community Choir practices, put on by faculty members at Florida State University and Bainbridge townspeople, will be held Sunday, December 19, at 8 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church at Bainbridge, Georgia.

Mrs. Edith Campbell, member of the faculty of the school of music at FSU, and director of the choir, will be a soloist at the event.

Appointees To Be Considered After Holidays

Meet Set Thursday At 4:30 To Discuss New Representation

Presidential appointments read at last week's Student Senate meeting will have to wait until after Christmas holidays for confirmation or rejection.

The Senate will hold a Christmas party tomorrow afternoon in the Senate office chamber, and no business will be considered.

Appointments are all that remain before the body, and Ralph Quinney, Student President elections and appointments committee was scheduled to meet yesterday afternoon to consider several. President Quinney himself has named Jack Norton and Bruce Fletcher assistants to the Attorney-General; Martha Grizzard, Evelyn Brown, Cleve Townsend and Gordon L. Peters to the Secretary of Organizations' department; and Bobby Anthony, to that committee as a non-voting member.

No one has yet meeting officially this week the appointment of Nancy Graham to the Secretary of Union for another Senate will not be heard by the group until after Christmas. Nimkiff disclosed last week that the former Senator's name would be placed on the Union Board which remained empty after a Senate refusal to confirm her, pending to get confirmation by the required two-thirds majority.

Senate presiding officer Cody Moore announced Sunday that a hearing will be held on the subject of dormitory or precinct representation Thursday afternoon at 4:30 in the Senate chamber.

Moore said that the hearing will be conducted by the Legislative Branch sub-committee on the Special Committee on Student Government. Moore is chairman of the committee, whose other member is Senator Nancy Vaughn.

Moore said letters will be sent to certain parties, informing them of the hearing, but asked that all interested students be present to present their views.

The sub-committee's report on the dorm-precinct representation, which has been suggested as a solution to lagging interest in student government, will be made public the week after Christmas vacation, Moore added.

Communist Press Offers Strong Competition To U.S. In Far East

Five Newspapermen Visiting FSU Express Grave Concern Over Press' Extent, Power

By JAYLEEN ROBERTSON

The United States is strong competition with the Communist press in the far east.

Four of the five United States information Agency newspapermen, from Pakistan, Iran, Egypt and India, expressed great concern over the extent and power of the two presses operating in the eastern world.

In discussions with a class in Press and Public Opinion, yesterday, H. N. Mukerjie, editor of The American Reporter, New Delhi, India, with a circulation of 400,000, said the problem of language is a major drawback in U. S. counteraction of communist propaganda.

He cited the communist line that all Americans are drug addicts and murderers. Mukerjie said that if anyone from India were to ask an American if he went to the "drugstore" for sandwiches whenever he wanted to, the American would probably say yes, without realizing that their connotation of "drugstore" is a place where only drugs are sold, thus confirming the idea of the communists.

Mukerjie also pointed out that effective counteraction on the part of the U. S. is not as much or as strong as it should be in combatting Russian films which depict the slum areas and burlesque as American institutions.

"I have had the privilege of coming to this country and understanding the Americans," said Mukerjie. "The vast majority of the people of India are friendly and cannot comprehend the significance of the things they are able to read.

"I hope I shall go back a better man to write about the U. S." he added.

Mohammed Azha, Tehran, Iran, told the group that newspapers in his country were much the same as ours with the exception of difference in emphasis on certain things.

Azha noted that the American press gives much space to murder, love affairs, and sensational and other such sensational items which are not displayed as widely in print in his country. Also cited this as being both crude and new to the Iranian way of thinking.

Newspapers in Iran number around 300, said Azha, with circulation only reaches 10 per

(Continued on Page 4)

Culpepper Says No Screening Of Speeches Exists At FSU

The Board of Control has "no policy which would require prior screening" of public speeches by faculty members, Executive Secretary Dr. J. Broward Culpepper said yesterday.

Culpepper added that he doesn't think any measure to police pro-fessorial speeches exists at any state school.

The Florida Alligator, student newspaper of the University of Florida, broke the story that day that "Under a general policy of the Board of Control, public speeches by faculty members of state universities must screened for content to avoid embarrassment, confusion or misunderstanding" by audiences, according to Board Chairman J. Lee Ballard.

Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president of Florida State University, had no new statement to offer yesterday on the Alligator's charges. After days were spent there on Friday, however, Dr. Campbell issued a public statement saying that he had adding that faculty members are advised to make such speeches in a general tone" when speaking on "controversial matters" they are advised to speak from prepared text.

The Tallahassee Democrat quoted Dr. Campbell as saying, "It has never been the policy of University authorities to censor the utterances of faculty members. We know from time to time advised faculty members that when they are going to speak on controversial matters it would be wise for them to have a manuscript in case they are called for it necessary."

The Alligator quoted J. Lee Ballard, chairman of the Board of Control, as authority. Mr. Ballard was quoted as saying that the Board is the existence of Presidents' power over censorship of public speeches.

He was quoted as saying, "It is the function of the Board of Control nor is it our intention to place any restrictions whatsoever upon the privilege of free speech by anyone.

It was the consensus of the board that it would be to the advantage of a speaker to prepare a transcript and if he elected to do

(Continued on Page 4)

Soles Backs Gaster Move With Petition

A petition aimed at putting Men's Vice-President Gordon Gaster's proposed constitutional amendment before the Student Body for a vote has not gone into circulation, yet, The Florida Flambeau learned Sunday.

Senator Jimmy Soles, who had said he would circulate such a petition, said another amendment failed to get Senate ratification for lack of a two-thirds majority, and Sunday that he will push after Christmas holidays.

Soles said that he has prepared the petition, which must be signed by 300 students before the amendment in question can be voted on by the student body. The amendment Senator added that he did not consider the week before Christmas holidays for the signatures for the petition.

Gaster, who defeated Jim Moore and former Florida Hall Governor Bill Bryan in the race, has not seen him in the project. He commented that he may enlist the aid of other senators who voted for the controversial amendment when it was before Senate.

Gaster's amendment provides for the individual classes a elect replacements for the offices that are vacated. Under the Constitution at present, the Student Body President appoints such replacements, with confirmation by a two-thirds majority of the Senate.

The Gaster amendment would permit the President to appoint interim replacements, pending interim away from Tallahassee, as he does at present.

The amendment is viewed as a direct result of an earlier controversy in which Gaster had pointer failed to get two-thirds majority in a seat which is still vacant.

Oelschlager Cites Opportunity Given By Language Laboratory

By ROCK PAYNE

"You can learn a language a lot of fun!" Dr. Victor R. B. Oelschlager, professor and head of modern languages, said last week describing the opportunities offered to students and faculty in the language laboratory.

Gov.-Elect LeRoy Collins said last week that everyone in Florida could well use Lolla American and that more emphasis should be placed on the Spanish language. Dr. Oelschlager pointed out that facilities for learning Spanish are available for persons interested in following Collins' suggestion.

The modern language laboratory is especially beneficial to persons enrolled in beginning language and courses, the department head said, but is not limited to them. Anyone wishing to learn a different language may do so through aid received in the lab.

Besides Spanish, Dr. Oelschlager stated that Florida State University offers facilities for the asking five other modern languages: French, Italian, German, Italian, Portuguese, and Russian. A limited amount of instruction can be given in Chinese and Arabic, he added.

FSU is one of the few southern universities offering all six of these languages, he asserted, and one of a "handful" offering Russian.

The equipment is necessary, Dr. Oelschlager explained. People go to the lab, receive a few instructions concerning how the person is charge, and then you're on your own to come and go at will. The lab is open on a "self-service."

The laboratory is located in room 207, old demonstration school building, and is open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, from 3-5 p.m. An instructor is available if assistance help is needed.

The language laboratory is comparable to lab work in the scientific fields but is not required at FSU. Many schools with a more elaborate set up require modern language majors to attend a laboratory period, Dr. Oelschlager said.

A required lab session is not planned at FSU, he went on, because the department believes a

(Continued on Page 4)

Officials Are Asked To Open Military Ball To Student Body

By DAVID DREIS

Dick Gladding, chairman of the Military Ball, has asked officials to make the annual affair open to the general student body. The dance slated for January 15, is Saturday before his record star Les Elgart.

Gutting believes "this band is the best we've had for the past two years. I've been following Elgart's live recording date and when we secured him. It was just too good to be true."

Whether the ball will revert to an open dance or not is yet to be decided. Dr. Gutting stressed this reporter that he is "very much for the idea which has been suggested by other state colleges as Georgia Tech, for example. Cuffilla made the point clear that opening the dance would not be for the prime purpose of earning more money, but would be done as a favor to the students who want to hear the nation's newest dance stylist.

"Many students have come to me," added Gutting, "suggesting the idea that the Military Ball annually be open to the student body, but primarily its this year's ball they're interested in most."

There's no doubt that Les Elgart and his orchestra will sweep out the country after successfully playing engagements at the

Les Elgart

Astor Roof and the Steel Pier in Atlantic City, N. J., the Hollywood state affairs, the school papers of Duquesne, Temple, Boston University, Fordham, Ohio University and the University of Connecticut acquainted him in his appearances there.

Elgart, like Homecoming bandmaster Ray Eberle, appeared in a movie with Sonja Henie. Where Eberle played in the great Glenn Miller band, Elgart held down a trumpet spot with Shorty Sherock, Ray Anthony, Woody Herman. He has also played with Harry James, Hal McIntyre and Raymond

(Continued on page 8)

Special Train To Carry Fans To Sun Bowl

Estimated Cast Set At $58 To $81 For Round Trip Ticket

A Sun Bowl Special has been arranged to carry all parties who want to go to the New Year's Game by special rates, The Florida Flambeau learned yesterday.

Band members, university personnel, students, and townspeople numbering 150 have already made reservations, and if the more go up, there will be a special train to carry only those people going to the game.

Party rates for the trip are $81.50 covering the round trip to New Orleans by pullman, and coach to and from El Paso. For those who wish to take the coach all the way the fare will be $58.85, and possibly less if more than 50 people request coach reservations.

The band members, whose fares will be paid collectively out of Student Body funds, will pullman as far as New Orleans.

The special train will leave Tallahassee at 6 p. m. on December 28, arriving in New Orleans the following day at 5:10 a.m. Leaving New Orleans at 7:35 a.m. December 29, the train will reach El Paso at 12:50 p.m. on December 30.

On the return trip, the train will leave El Paso at 6:30 p.m. New Year's Day and arrive in New Orleans at 5:45 a.m. January 2. Spending the day there, the group will depart at 7 p.m. that night, arriving in Tallahassee at 7:34 a.m. January 4.

Plans have been made for the Marching Chiefs to visit Carlsbad Caverns while in El Paso. Reservations for the train trip and hotel accomodations should be made immediately through the office of Eddie Cubbon, Business Manager of Athletics, phone 4761.

If enough people are interested, plans will be made to charter a plane from there to El Paso at approximately $135 round trip per person. Time reservations should be made through Mr. R. L. Sanderson, Assistant Athletics Business Manager for Men.

The plane would leave Tallahassee at Tuesday or Friday before the game, returning Saturday or Sunday. This is the last chance opportunity to see a special ball flight Sunday, January 2, in Tallahassee. Mr. Hall, who is according to members of the Sun Bowl Publicity Committee, which met yesterday.

Theta's Chosen As Sorority Of Year At Pan-Hel Dance

The annual Pan-Hellenic Christmas Dance, held Saturday night at the Governor's Mansion was highlighted by the selection of "The Sorority of the Year" and the tapping of new members of Village Vamps, campus hostess organization. Music for the dance was furnished by the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Kappa Alpha Theta sorority was presented with a silver cup by Pan-Hellenic Council by award-sponsor Delta Tau Delta, in recognition of their work of the dance. This will become an annual presentation at each Pan-Hellenic dance, officials said.

The winning sorority was awarded the cup on basis of participation and achievement in scholarship, intramurals, national philanthropic, chapel, sorority projects and publications.

Another highlight of the evening was the presentation of the 35 new members of the Village Vamps. Tapped were Layte Ann Blackmon, Beverly Brown, Patti Bruce, Jean Cassidy, Bobbie Craig, Nancy Cubbon, Betty Douglas, Prandy Dunn, Barbara Hanford, Ann Herron, Chris Gianochio, Betty Grass, Sara Jane Griffen, Barbara Hall, Jo Ann Hanson, Joan Harmon, Jean Hayden, Jane Hicks, Sandra Hill, Janet Johnson, Karen Kissinger, Sue Knowles, Beverly Lastrel, Mary Ann Martin, Martha McGinnis, Nora Mann, Sandra Pittman, Race, Jena Rush, Ruth Shaffer, Jeanne Stevenson, Alyson Templeman, Mary Watters, and Vicky Walters.

The Vamps were elected on the basis of poise, personality and beauty, and the honorary positivity chairman, Jane Teise.

PARTY SET

By SPANISH CLUB

Sigma Delta Pi National Hispanic Honorary will hold its Christmas party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Victor R. B. Oelschlager tonight at 7:30 p.m. Spanish songs are to be sung and there will be Spanish music provided. Other entertainment will be word games based on Spanish and Latin American culture, it be coffee and fruit cake bought from the Cruzaze.

What Happens?

The rights of individuals to speak out responsibly on certain issues is getting considerable play now.

The Tallahassee Democrat in a recent editorial entitled "Why are they Silent?" say they noticed it in the scarcity of letters submitted for publication, and the reluctance of those who do write to have their names published. The editorial says that faculty members may have some fear of "reprisal or embarrassment" if they speak out.

In an idealistic vein, it hopes that "such fears are groundless, because our system of government cannot live under that condition." It points out that the Florida Constitution guarantees that "every person may fully speak and write his sentiments on all subjects being responsible for the abuse of that right."

Then, The Florida Alligator said public speeches by faculty members of this university should be screened "to prevent misinterpretaton or misunderstanding," and quote Board of Control Chairman J. Lee Ballard as their source.

In reply, President Campbell says "it has never been the policy . . . . to censor the utterances of faculty members," but "we have from time to time advised faculty members that when they are going to speak on controversial matters it would be wise for them to have a manuscript to which they can refer if necessary." Also, professors say they know of no "screening order."

We think it sound to use a manuscript for we believe it will preclude any misinterpretation or misunderstanding.

The Democrat in an editorial Sunday entitled "On Speaking Out" says the professor who enjoys the privileges of academic freedom is under the obligation (a) to present facts that can be verified, (b) to present his facts in appropriate setting and context, and (c) to present his judgments or opinions with due caution."

All of the above dwells upon the fact that individuals have the right to speak out responsibly. That is all well and good. But we think the whole point has been missed. The question of whether we have freedom of speech is not arrived at by those who use it responsibly. The question of whether we have freedom is arrived at by what happens to those who have exercised the right to speak responsibly. Free institutions are measured by the latter.

In a totalitarianism, people just don't speak out. Hitler and Stalin did not make rules saying that you could not criticize them. You just didn't criticize them. We have seen what happened to those who did.

Accordingly, it is quite stupid to have a "screening order." We have not reached that totalitarian stage yet, in an academic community there are less drastic measures to curb tongues. Salary increases, for example. Or another way, resignation, perhaps.

This brings us to the most recent happening concerning FSU: the case of Mr. Robert. L. Leathers, a former assistant professor of geography here.

Is his case an example of an individual who did speak out?

He says his forced resignation stems from an investigation of inter-collegiate athletics he began for an AAUP committee. He also says his resignation was obtained under conditions of "fraud, duress and coercion." And he has asked Acting Gov. Johns for a "full and open hearing."

While Vice-President Marin says the Leathers story is "a rank prevarication," it seems to us too serious to be dropped. The charges as we see them most obvious. To demand a hearing. We hope Gov. Johns gives the Leathers case the careful consideration it deserves.

Returning To School

Some students seem to be bothered by having to return to campus Monday, January 3, instead of Wednesday, January 5 because of the University's Executive Council ruling allowing students who go to the Sun Bowl to miss classes Monday without having a sixth of their semester's credit deducted.

They point out that since students are allowed to attend the affair without losing credit there will be small classroom turnout, so there is little point in coming back for classes Monday, when Tuesday, Inauguration Day, will be a holiday.

It seems to us there would be no controversy if the team not received a bowl bid. At most, there will be perhaps a hundred students besides the football team, and possibly the band, attending the Sun Bowl. There is no cause to terminate school because of this small number.

Dean of Students Oglesby points out that an traffic may be unusually heavy Monday and Tuesday, due to the inauguration, it would be more advisable for students not attending the bowl to return as scheduled. For that matter there is likely to be considerable traffic on the roads throughout the New Year holidays.

The return to campus on Monday has created a slight hardship for the distant students since they will have to leave following New Year's day. They are, however, no braver than those experiencing the same plight before.

In 1953, when the late Governor Dan McCarty was inaugurated, students had to return to campus on Monday, although Tuesday was a legal holiday.

We might add that perhaps it would be educational for the student body to attend the inauguration of the man who will head our state government for at least the next two years. An interest in government, we think, should certainly be at least a by-product of higher education.

"Are You Sure You Don't Want To Run Away From Home?"

From Other Colleges

Christmas List

In the true Christmas spirit, The Florida Flambeau has composed the following Christmas List, which it hopes shall provide happiness to all:

Dear Santa, please give:

President Pete Nimkoff—a bottle of "Four Roses' and solitude

Bit and Spur Club—a recording of "The William Tell Overture"

Freshman Class—a cage for Paul Ort

Ken Gatlin—a booming voice

Smoke Signals—congratulations

Tallahassee—a five-cent coke once again

Football team—a holdover on its New Year's eve party

Student and State parties—a little interest among students

University Food Service—a new cow

President Doak S. Campbell—an 8,451 enrollment

Gordon Gaster—a two-thirds majority

The Flambeau—enough money for six pages

Art students—20 free lessons from Salvador Dali

Campus Police—the West Call Street Beats syndicate

Dean of Men—an engraved replica of the Honor pledge and an understanding mind

Bob Berto—something to do

ROTC and AFROTC—oblivion

Elections Committee—voting machines

Dean of Women—A Marilyn Monroe calendar

Student Senate—a strong stomach

Sophomore Class—a silver lining

Tally Ho—a brass spitoon

Co-ie Moore—a vote in Senate

School of Journalism—sympathy

Pedestrians on campus—divine blessing

Joan Halford—recognition

University of Florida—a newspaper

Vern Williams, secretary of labor—birddogs

Administration—an "A" in Political Science

Jane Wardlaw, Traffic Court chairman—a parking ticket

School of Music—a key to Westcott Auditorium

Student assistants—a dollar an hour minimum wage

House Internal Security Subcommittee—a tip-off on many of the characters who hang out at the Mecca

David Dreis—his name in the papers

Jimmy Soles—a copy of "A Lion Is In the Streets"

Basketball team—a good meal of 'Gator-meat'

Fraternities—the sororities

Sororities—the fraternities

Independents—each other

The boys on the South Cawthon side of the Infirmary—binoculars

The "Jeanne Murphee crowd"—sanity

Eddie Clubbouse—aspirins

Pat Hogan and Tom Sands—a large staff

Infirmary—patients without appetites

Everybody—a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Did-Ja-Ever . . .
Go to a movie and sit all day?
If you take your lunch,
you'll enjoy your stay.
—Don Rapp

The Florida Flambeau

BOB FOLSOM—Editor
Jay Robertson, Managing Editor

Asst. News Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dutchman
Feature Editor ..... Willie Smith
Sports Editors ..... Jim Joanos, Dick Victory
Sports Staff ..... Bob Guttery, Alan Wiseman, David Morris
Photographer ..... Laird Anderson, Al Roberts

JOE CALDWELL—Bus. Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Telephone 2-8010, extension 6821
2nd. Floor Journalism Building
Member Associated Collegiate Press

Give 'Em Hell

There are many ways in which the moving picture industry could have reacted to the new liberalized code of censorship. After the Supreme Court decided the Miracle case, and after The Moon Is Blue had successfully been shown soon after censorship, motion pictures could have come upon a new era of mature, thoughtful production commensurate with the responsibility of newfound freedom. Fortunately, in the interest of maintaining a censorship front of juvenile sensationalism, moving pictures are headed back to the excesses that once made Hays censorship necessary.

The amusing thing is that the few breaches of taste aren't even particularly daring. Much like little boys who have found that the use of swear words marks one as quite a man, movies of no more than routine quality have used the word 'hell' in their titles. The Johnson office, apparently not satisfied by less flagrant public demand, puts up with this back-fence marquee scribbling and would probably make allowances for some ogley content in the plots. But the Legion of Decency, which isn't for one moment fooled by all this talk of liberal standards and progressively adult entertainment, just won't tolerate more than surface rudeness. This is probably just as well because the depths of Hollywood's taste have not been plumbed since Pearcie K. Bushman was playing juvenile leads.

The whole mess began, as such things will, when a fine picture, Battleground, unhappily dedicated itself "to the bloody bastards of Bastogne." This recalled the days of World War II, when patriotism excused most anything. Takins life cue from a good movie the next was dedicated to the principle that a heavily advertised epithet would be a sure attraction, particularly when surrounded by the glamor of tropical heroism. So for weeks a boss-less Gaster, in drilling sergeant shouting "Retreat, Hell!" led the radio to herald a really inferior war picture. After Retreat, Hell came the Miracle and The Moon Is Blue. Now Washington Street marquees have a revolting resemblance to the walls of a grammar school locker room.

Most of the pictures seem to favor the sea as their excuse for swearing. Richard Widmark drove into production on Hell and High Water, while Alan Ladd had Tokyo in Hell Below Zero. Currently, some Italians have been renamed Hell Raiders of the Deep in another more ingenious Widmark was content with the term 'frogman' in the same line of work). Ida Lupino has also revived a bit of whimsy called for little reason, Private Hell 36. These are not good films.

The really distressing part about this kindergarten naughtiness is that the pictures take themselves very seriously. Self-consciously trying to be daring, they forget the taste and normal banality by using 'hell' as a drawing card. This is especially obvious in the embarrassment that everyone seems to feel when a character swears in American movies. With the

(Continued on page 3)

Letters To The Flambeau

Senate Meetings

To the Editor:

Bruce Fletcher's letter in last Friday's Flambeau says much truth. Students should attend meetings of the Senate and see some of the goings-on.

I have been attending Senate meetings regularly in the last two years. The experience is indeed rich. And if you never before, it is actually entertaining.

Mr. Fletcher, with his interest in politics should encourage students to attend and to see a particular situation which was disincreste to him, but to encourage more participation in student affairs.

Benjamin Hall, Bob Gunter and Jo Jones have instituated such a more by initiating semi-monthly meetings with residents of North Cawthon Hall to discuss what is going on in Senate and to answer questions and hear suggestions.

The residents, on hearing the announcement of such informal meetings were enthusiastic and there is indication of a good turnout.

On further contemplating Fletcher's letter, we find that he blasts men's Vice-President Gordon Gaster for refusing to open discussion on his amendment that would allow the students in a democratic move to have a voice in selecting their choice for Student Body President.

Gaster's move was tactical but not intelligent. There was no indication that there would be more discussion. Senator Gaster then set up lists of orders and announced that another student Fletcher had something to say. The move to end discussion was then defeated, but only after Gaster had said, all students should be heard. But prior to Gaster's move, there was no indication that any other student was going to speak.

ORCHID ALONSO

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"Boy you fouled him THAT time.

The Dissenter

How Much Is Democracy Upheld?

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Thomas Jefferson, who was responsible for the establishment of the University of Virginia, once said something about the school that we would do well to remember today, whether or not Red China should be admitted to the United Nations. They are afraid to expose their students to the many natural arguments in favor of admitting the Peiping government—undemocratic though it may be.

All over the country professors and students must watch what they say lest they bring down upon their heads the wrath of the DAR, the American Legion and so forth.

Suspect books and periodicals are banned from many collegiate libraries and bookstores—fortunately, that is not much the case here.

What does a book suspect? Deviation from the popular conception of how Communism should be dealt with . . . strong pro-labor sentiments . . . references to perfectly sound ideas that would be suspect are just because of the political affiliations of their authors.

Schools with reputations for allowing free and open discussion of the present (and past) and economic battle schemes [sic] are frowned on and looked upon as "Queer" or "Communist." The University of Chicago is one of these.

Harvard is another.

We have become possessed with the magnificent obsession that we must build democracy by squelching all dissent, apparently disallowing any possibility that democracy exists, of its inherent worth, could be itself. We seem to think that the way to uphold democracy is, of all ways, not to discuss anything which could be regarded as "self-wiring."

This philosophy is what Jefferson rebelled against when he said that the University of Virginia would have no fear which men of error, as long the mind be left free to combat the letter.

He realized that if you deny scholars the access to error the way for denying them association with truth. If you dictate what may be read or heard you destroy the ability to differentiate for yourself. In failing to see error be fought, if you don't know what it looks like at first hand.

Furthermore, who can see himself up as a judge of right and wrong? How much is the "right" worth if you don't use it enough to let it stand comparison?

This was Tom Jefferson's reasoning. It has been forgotten however. After all, Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration of Independence, was a radical.

Etcetera Etchings

Gads, Weismuller Has A Following!

By DAVID DREIS

How dear a conscience does a publicity-woman have! Well, yesterday Herman Hover of Hover who handles publicity for Columbia pictures, she can have plenty.

"There's always something good to be said about every one if the critics are against it," Hover said, in defense of himself somewhat. "Well, not all of our productions are bad. Why was of Evandinavian descent and her speech bore traces of it.

"What about the Jungle Jim series Columbia puts out?" I asked.

"Well," she answered after hesitating enough to think up a reply. "Jungle Jim has a definite following both from fans of the television show and Johnny Weismuller is starred in it. Critics generally like Weismuller has a following." This is one of the few series we have seen that doesn't have a female lead in them. We no longer have "Blondie" you know." I said, trying to get a chuckle out of her.

"Why at those three new stars. Why in The Case Nobody Had Robert Francis and Mav Wynn starred and Tom Tully the played the captain Queeg replaced in only featured. He's been around a long time and deserves stardom."

She hesitated again and looked at her watch wondering when the quiz would end. "Tom Tully wouldn't and Weismuller because stars you have to treat with kid gloves and only feature him in films with a story so the public won't tire of him. Why, Weismuller even I suppose said I, "that critics ambushed you during the film which was supposed to be such a hit?" Again she looked at her watch and in a look of anguish came across that [illegible] "Well, as I said before (somehow she emphasized 'before') there's always some good in every picture. We're going to release Indestination of Time in 3-D sometime tomorrow so I'm very busy again an emphasis on busy) and we assume it's going to be a hit. If it is not we'll probably play up the great past performances of the stars. However, I doubt that Indestination of Time will live up this way." As I removed the dust from the seat of my pants I agreed she must've been very busy to spend much more time talking to me. In a few days I found out that Montgomery Clift and Jennifer Jones starring in Indestination of an American Wife had never played against each other before and that Clift and Jennifer won Academy Award for Song of Bernadette. Monty Clift was featured in many other films including A Place in the Sun. "Monty Clift was really good, wasn't he?" SURFACE NOISE: Mitch Sandman with the Chocolates will be featured on the Saturday board magazine's Honor Roll of Hits. . . . They've been on the list six weeks . . . Peggy Weston's three big Columbia releases, Wish and Ask, Starlight, Moonlight, Wish Moonlight, Music and Moonlight (a-a-a-a) and Sweet and Merry Moore despite great publicity having a time getting started . . . Dorothy Gardner reports Margaret O'Brien has never been a favorite with Jane Russell . . . John Wayne throws $150,000 a year in with money . . . Nolan Chapman of Eichring reported theaters should book Man With A Million and Robinson Crusoe. Then booked Man With A Million and now Robinson Crusoe is in its way . . . Still want Lil to play elsewhere than a drive-in . . . NBC devoted an hour to Lionel Barrymore tribute.

A Better Measure

Latin Neighbors Being Overlooked

This columnist feels that more than lip service should be given to our help and guidance instead of the leftovers from Europe and Asia. Perhaps the United States attitude wasn't too significant if we compared it on the same scale being given to Europe and Asia, the Latin American countries' importance or investment fund be set up just like the Marshall Plan. The loan bank would help prive supports on their raw materials and help to stabilize their investments. The U. S. delegation turned it down.

It appears that Washington is going to continue a military policy toward Latin America. A policy which has been in effect since 1945, and a policy which might give rise to another Guatemala. A dictatorship which we might be able to counter. A Marshall Plan for South America wouldn't have as much appeal as a Red-controlled South America.

The Lift File

Demarcation Between Past, Present

Here it is, almost a decade since the young men of World War II got out of the service, and more than a decade since they went in. Enough time has passed so that the veterans of that war think of themselves as being different from the rookie-pourers who weren't in the service. But are they the same reality? Has the passing of every veteran's head a small, secret, inside scar somewhere where illogically, impossibly, but rather steadily, he believes he somehow knows a little more than those years of his life—18 to 21, 24 to 28, whatever they were—as if there never was a World War II?

The best adjusted soldier, the man who took to Army life still better than he'd left when he went in, and the breaking, whether he consciously realizes it or not, was like the breaking of body bones. The bones healed, but not to quite the same length and angle.

To borrow a metaphor from "The Human Use of Human Beings: Cybernetics and Society" by Norbert Wiener—Mr. Wiener, in one point considering the learning capacities of various organisms, points out that the capacity of the human organism for learning-up is spent in large part in childhood. Infancy is a mouth into adulthood. The question arises whether any, or very much, memory can survive such a crashing metamorphosis. Mr. Wiener suggests that it cannot. The point to be made apropos of the veteran is not that pre-martial learning was spent in a shell, but that the forced change to soldierhood was a kind of crashing metamorphosis. What connections are possible between the time that went before service and the time that followed?

Perhaps this seems a tenuous speculation to non-veterans—but to veterans it is closely concerned as parents and wives of veterans.

But consider: Don't all veterans have a way of dividing their past like this: "Before-that-went - before - the - war and After-the-war — the after-the-war, much as we consider history in terms of B. C. and A. D.? Isn't this demarcation the clearest they can summon to date some obscure occurrence in their biographies? Some after, if ever, do they make a mistake, decide before what came after of the other way around?

(Continued on Page 4)

Gridders Back In Uniform After Layoff

Seminole Five Faces Tampa Here Tonight

Tribe Makes Conference Debut At West Campus

Florida State's point-conscious Seminoles, pre-season favorites to win the first Florida Intercollegiate Conference basketball championship, make their debut in the six-team circuit against Tampa's Spartans here tonight. Head Bud Kennedy's undefeated Seminoles are expected to whip Tampa their third victory in the 6 p.m. game at FSU's West Campus gym.

Game is pair-pattern offense with a freewheeling, fast break type of floor pattern. The Spartans jumped off to the early start since 1950 with decisions over Alabama State College and Georgia Teachers. The Seminoles are favorating by seven points.

On the other hand, Coach Sam Boone's rebuilding Spartans have experienced early-season trouble with Florida Southern and Georgia Teachers.

Tonight will be Florida's unbeaten Gators at Gainesville last year.

Tampa's game will be the only conflict between FSU and Tampa, as both squads grabbed 16 and 15-point triumphs in their two previous last season to take an 18-and in the series.

Tampa lost through graduation the scoring cover, all-stater Dave Brooks, and top rebounder Chuck Jorcynski. But the Spartans are expected to be improved over the past season.

FSU will open with Rick Benson (19-point scoring average) and Dick Artmeier (12-5) at forwards, Gary Wold (6) at center, and Jimmy Oler (20) and Hash Wernke (14-5) at guards.

FSU meets another conference opponent Saturday night when Stetson's Hi-Hatters come to Tallahassee. Miami, Rollins and Florida Southern round out the new FIBC.

GRAHAM CHOSEN — Halfback Billy Graham, FSU's leading ground gainer, was picked by his teammates Saturday along with Al Makowicki, to co-captain the Seminole eleven against Texas Western January 1.

Drills Resumed As Seminoles Prep For Bowl

Makowiecki, Graham To Co-Captain Tribe, Jan. 1

Florida State's football team, which resumed practice yesterday for its New Year's Day Sun Bowl game with Texas Western College, elected two of the Seminoles' all-time greats as 1954 co-captains Saturday.

Chosen by a vote of the 40-man varsity were senior tackle Al Makowiecki of Monaca, Pa., named to two nationally recognized All American eleven this season, and senior right halfback Billy Graham of Borsinni, La. the Seminoles' leading ground-gainer for the past two years.

Makowiecki, 6-1, 215 pounder rated by FSU Coach Tom Nugent as "the best tackle I have ever coached," was named to the second Associated Press Little All-American team and the first National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) team.

Graham, whose college career may be interrupted by an Army call in February, carried the ball 68 times for 367 yards and a 5.3 per ball average. The 5-11-pound back might have done better but for numerous injuries which included a broken nose and severely sprained ankle.

Nugent calls Graham one of the most reliable players he has coached. "Graham is a steady and loyal performer," Nugent says. "Although he is our leading ground gainer, his greatest asset is his defensive play."

Graham and Makowiecki will go down as FSU's 1954 co-captains. Nugent had selected individual game captains throughout the past season.

Well rested after a week off following their gruelling 11-game season, the Seminoles return to the practice field Monday.

Early reports have established Texas Western, which won seven games—their last five in a row—and lost three as two-touchdown favorites. The Seminoles also won their last five games, finishing with a 8-3 record. FSU's best since 1950.

The Seminoles will take four days off for Christmas and fly to the El Paso, Texas., Sun Bowl site on Dec. 28.

GYMNASTIC VETERAN—Jack Miles, one of FSU's standouts in seasons past will be one of FSU's representatives when the Tribe gymnastics travel to Sarasota, December 26-30, to participate in the Fourth Annual National Gymnastic Clinic.

Gymnastics Travel To Sarasota For Annual Clinic Dec. 26-30

By BOB GUTTING

The FSU gym team will represent Florida State at the coming 4th Annual National Gymnastic Clinic to be held at Sarasota December 26-30.

Among the gymnastic greats attending will be the 21 man exhibition team of Springfield College, Massachusetts. This team is well known throughout the United States for their skill and co-ordination in performing difficult tricks and for their famous "bronze" poses, first used on the team over 20 years ago by coach Leslie J. Judd.

Coach Judd, who was Dr. Hartley Price's coach years ago, is still with the Springfield team.

Five other exhibition teams, including one from Florida State Miami, Michigan, Illinois, and the Jersey City Recreation Department, will give performances. In addition, 11 other colleges will send representatives from their teams.

There is also a possibility that the famous Swedish National and Olympic Men and Womens Gym Teams, who are now touring the United States, will be on hand at the clinic to give an exhibition.

In Sarasota visiting teams will be greeted by the President of the National Gymnastics Coaches Association, Lyle Wesler, who is also coach at Georgia Tech. Coach Wesler is a graduate of Springfield College, class of '33, and a former captain of their famous exhibition team.

Outstanding gymnasts who will attend and demonstrate and perform on their specialties include Frank Cumiskey, of the fame member of the Olympic team, Ed Scrobe, member of the 1948 and 1952 Olympic team, Henry Kapitan, 1952 Olympic team, Ray Sorenson, member of the '48 Olympic team, and Don Holder, member of the '52 Olympic team and currently a member of the FSU gym team.

The first Annual National Gymnastics Clinic Team championships will be held as well as the Annual North-South gymnastics meet at Municipal Auditorium in Sarasota. Dr. Price will coach the southern team and Charley Pond of Illinois will coach the north.

Dr. Price expressed doubt as to whether FSU can win the team championship due to the temporary loss of Dick Gutting and Jamile Ashmore, who will be in Texas to perform at the Sun Bowl during this period.

Members of the FSU gym team who will go to Sarasota include Jim Tanaka, Joe Tayler, Dick Ireland, Don Seidel, Jim Fadigan, Tom MacDonald, Benny Wallace, Gene Rocketbrough, Jack Miles and Rafael Lecuona.

While at the clinic Dr. Price will also speak on "Gymnastics Place in the Sun."

FSU Gymnasts Tap Four New Members In Recent Pledging

At the monthly meeting of Gymnastics, Gymkana Fraternity, four new members were initiated. They were Jim Tanaka and Barbara Rynski, who were initiated as honorary members.

In order to be eligible for Gymnastics a student must be a junior or senior, have maintained a one point average, and must show an interest in gymnastics and Gymkana. Gymnastics is not open to gymnasts alone, but anyone supporting the gym team or Gymkana.

Jim Fadigan was tapped for his outstanding performances in Gymkana, his participation on Gymkana road shows, and for having competed for Florida State in gym meets the last three years.

Barbara Rynski was tapped for being an active supporter of Gymkana, devoting much time to road trips, being an active manager and participant in all Gymkana shows during the last 2 and one half years.

Dr. Martin and Dr. Oglesby were tapped as honorary members due to the fine co-operation and support received from them in the past.

Officials Asked

(Continued From Page 1)

Woody Herman. He has also been at CBS. The Glenn Island Casino in New York where Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman got their start also was a engagement for Elgart. Out of his young band, Elgart has already been fundamental in the careers of Bill Finegan of the Buster - Finnegan orchestra, Ralph Flannagan, Nelson Riddle and vocalist Lisa Kirk. The one blemish on his record is that he turned down a young citizen who came looking for a job. That singer was Vic Damone.

Elgart has won award after award this year. Downbeat named him the nation's top new orchestra. He organized after a stint in service. Billboard's disc-jockeys named him the top swing band in the nation. Elgart has what he calls "sophisticated swing" that is a melodic dance music with a solid beat and does not mean the distortion offered by other bands, and Mademoiselle magazine named him "most likely to succeed."

If Gutting succeeds in opening the doors to the Military Ball it will be another name dance for the student body to remember. If he can not, it means the men of the military are in for an added starvation. Today is the deadline for entrants to the Military Ball Queen contest and representatives are asked to turn in pictures today.

Give 'Em

(Continued from page 2)

revival of Gone With the Wind came Rhett Butler's famous exit line, "Frankly, Scarlet, I don't give a damn." Coming as the final word of exasperation from a much put-upon hero, the sentence itself was quite inoffensive. But as the only such word in almost four hours of dialogue it had a terrific shock effect, and was hardly treated as a part of normal conversation. As a result, most of the children in the audience came in their forties smirked and tittered, finding it all pretty racy stuff, and incidentally shattering the mood of the picture's final scene.

A more flagrant example of self - consciousness was Frank Lovejoy's delivery of the curtain line in Retreat Hell. Interrupting a flow of tepid badinage, the camera came in for a close-up of Lovejoy's most noble expression, while the action stopped and he said his line, continuing: "we're just advancing in another direction." Thereafter, the tedium picked up as though never interrupted.

Even such a high calibre film as On the Waterfront goes overboard when swearing, drowning the tag end of the line, "what the he . . ." in the blast of an auto horn. Afterwards, when "Go to hell" was not only said but repeated (the priest, to whom it was said, evidently could no more credit his hearing than could the audience; there was the same embarrassed reaction as to Rhett Butler's line. Since stevedores and gangsters had managed without any haughty words during the rest of the picture, when they came it was a surprise.

Really, the only producer who has kept his sense in the rush to be daring was the casey fellow who bought the rights to Audie Murphy's To Hell And Back. It showed foresight to withhold filming until now when, indeed, it can be told—Golly!

—From The Harvard Crimson.

From The Sidelines

By Alan Whitmarsh
Sports Staff

MACKOWIECKI, GRAHAM CO-CAPTAINS

It is fitting that the two boys who perhaps stood out as the top lineman end back on the FSU squad should be selected to captain the Seminoles in their last game for Florida State. Tackle Al Mackowiecki, who was selected on the Little All-American team, and halfback Billy Graham, who et one time or another stood out as the top back during the year, were accorded this honor by their teammates Saturday afternoon.

This week the Seminoles resume drills for the Sun Bowl contest after a week's layoff. Early reports have established Texas Western the favorites, but we'll still go along with the Seminoles in a close one. Both teams incidentally, won their last give games.

REPORTS ON THE ENEMY

Taken from various newspapers in this area, here is some information of interest to Seminole fans concerning the Texas Western College Miners, FSU's opponent January 1. First, as most of us know, the Miners performed with a 7-3 record, and as previously mentioned, they won their last five games in a row, as did the Seminoles.

Like Florida State mentor Tom Nugent, Western coach Mike Brumbelow has had to depend a good deal on freshmen to bolster his team this year. The Western roster includes 11 freshmen among 33 boys, as compared to 19 Frosh on the FSU roster. In regular season play, as many as four Freshmen were in the Western starting lineup at a time, and their importance in reserve strength cannot be overestimated.

However, excluding Freshmen for the moment, the big cog in the Miners' attack is quarterback Jesse Whittenton, who numbers among his honors, the "player of the year" award in the Border Conference, a spot on both the Associated Press and coaches' all-conference teams and honorable mention on the Little All-American. Folks around El Paso will tell you that he was first string All-American caliber, though.

Whittenton's most outstanding performance was a 17-point personal splurge against the University of Arizona. For the year, he piled up a total offense mark of no less than 1006 yards. He is the most dangerous threat on the Western team perhaps, and certainly a good portion of the Seminoles' defensive tactics will be devoted to stopping him.

Other standouts on the Texas college eleven include twins, Bob and Dick Forrest. Strangely enough, they both weigh the same, 170 pounds, Dick being an end and Bob a fullback. Bob started the year as a quarterback, but was moved over to fullback to make room for Whittenton at mid-season, and has since sewed up the position. The twins are standouts on defense, Bob is a linebacker and Dick as a defensive end.

Two of the Miners' other stars are halfbacks Rusty Rutledge and Charlie Ward. Rutledge also had to wait until mid-season to step into a starting role, when he replaced the injured Bobby Coleman against Arizona. Ward was out with a charley horse in the latter stages of the season, but is expected to be ready on New Year's Day.

The Miners are recent Sun Bowl veterans, having defeated Mississippi Southern there last year, and make their bome in El Paso, so they'll have plenty of home town support. There is e good sized delegetion planning to make the trip from Tallahassee also, so there will be plenty of excitement for the contest.

CAGERS OPEN LEAGUE PLAY AS FAVORITES

With Florida college coaches still sticking to their favorites role for Florida State in the new Floride Intercollegiate Basketball Conference, the Seminoles open their FIBC competition tonight with a home clash against the University of Tampa. As such an early date, this writer feels that Rollins and the University of Miami should afford FSU the most competition in the new setup.

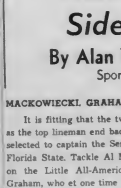
Rollins opened their season with a two-point triumph over Georgia Teachers, the same team the Seminoles were able to defeat by only a 75-67 margin. The Miami Hurricanes opened their season unofficially last week, by swamping a talented alumni team, 82-65. In an encouraging note, Georgia Teachers swarmed over Tampa, FSU's opponent tonight, 82-60.

For Your Christmas Gifts To Take Home -

STUFFED ANIMALS
TEE SHIRTS
ART SUPPLIES
PENNANTS
STATIONERY
BOOKS

Malone's Bookstore
Copeland St.

JUDGE SOUGHT



(ACP)—The Washington (D. C.) University Hatchet reports a job opening for a student to judge a baby contest. "Four to five weeks work, four hours per day for six days per week, judging baby contest pictures submitted with humorous captions) for local newspaper. $1.00 hr. Hours 1 to 5 p.m."

KING SIZE OR REGULAR

Perfect to give . . . no filter compares with L&M's Miracle Tip for quality or effectiveness. Much more flavor, much less nicotine. L&M — America's best filter cigarette...in the most distinctive of holiday cartons.

L&M - America's Best Filter Cigarette!

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS

To All Students, Faculty And Staff of F.S.U. We Wish To Extend A Holiday Message Which Brings You Sincere Good Wishes For A Very Merry Christmas And A Bright Prosperous New Year.

Holland's Restaurant
PENSACOLA ACROSS FROM THE CAPITOL

HONORARY MEMBERSHIP—Kay Haines, president of Sigma Tau Delta, English honorary, is shown presenting author Rubylea Hall a certificate of membership in the honorary, as members of the honorary look on.

Final Curtain Goes Up Tonight On 'The Beautiful People' Play

By PAT MARSTON

Tonight the curtain will go up for the last time on the speech department's production of The Beautiful People. With an experienced and capable cast and an excellent setting, the play leaves the viewer with a feeling that perhaps there are "beautiful people" in the world also.

Eh Thomas as Owen Webster, a poet and son, does a very good job with his part. His pantomiming at the beginning of the play is one of the highlights of the evening.

The part of Jonah, the father, is done by Franklin Adams. Adams, a veteran actor on the Conradi stage, does his usual well thought out characterization. At times his very colored accent was too thick but on the whole his performance left little to be desired.

The part of the daughter, "St. Agnes of the mice," is portrayed by Kitty Culpepper. Her performance is uneven, with Miss Culpepper seeming to lose her characterization at times.

Gray Salla takes the role of Miss Harmony Bluebloss om, an old lady who knows. A newcomer to FSU, Miss Salla at times had only a surface characterization. She could easily have gone deeper into her character portrayal.

The important role of Dan, a drunk, was played by David Dreis. Although his characterization seemed overdone at the beginning, he improved greatly as the play went along. Here, as with many of the other characters, the pantomime rather than speeches made the performance outstanding.

Duane Lancaster and Harold Poe Handle their respective roles of the vice-president and the Catholic priest with a great deal of authority. Both seemed easy in their parts and gave a very convincing portrayal.

Special orchids should go to Charles Reimer for the setting and technical end of the production. Done with a stylized scene, the set gave the proper atmosphere to the play.

Again the speech department has proved that a talented director, Dr. Davee, a hard working cast and a good backstage crew can give a production our university can be proud of.

Demarcation

(Continued from page 2)

ask a veteran when it was he first saw an issue of a certain magazine, read a certain novel, saw a particular movie —all things that he or we would otherwise be fuzzy about—and he can almost always tell you whether it was B. W. or A. W.

When the veteran got out of the service he made a point of visiting all the favorite places —the night clubs, ball fields, campuses—he had remembered so long while away. And to some extent each such visit was a failure. The places, most of them, were exactly the same. And there was the difficulty. They had not changed, grown, improved or deteriorated with the observer. The sick loneliness many a veteran felt on his first visit to the old familiar places perhaps lasted only an instant. Whether that or longer, it was not bittersweet nostalgic sentimentality. It was a reaction to severed lifelines and a drifting out of reach.

Such considerations are luxuries that only the live and the whole can indulge in, but they are a genuine part of the live and the whole. More poignant than places were the faces of pre-soldier friends who could no longer be friends. How many gay greetings were followed by an hour's deadly exchange of incomprehension? The common interests which only a few years before enabled two people to climb to wonderful heights along the alternating steps of each other's thought were gone. And in their place was no love, little sympathy and a merely intellectual understanding that made for caution and hypocrisy. Many old friends of course, remained friends. All the half-conscious probing into convictions, ambitions and tastes had to be made again, as if the two were meeting for the first time.

That was it: homecoming was a time for remaking, yet many veterans tried to make it a time for recovering. The physical and harsher spiritual devastation of World War II we all could see ten years ago. Some of the subtler changes perhaps have taken time to become visible.

—From Topics of The Times.

WHAT WON'T THEY THINK OF NEXT?

SYRACUSE, N.Y. ACP—Syracuse University students are requested not to run naked through the streets of downtown Syracuse.

The Daily Orange reports that a University spokesman said that "this is a direct violation of University rules."

Any students apprehended will be severely reprimanded.

at your TALLAHASSEE THEATRES

FLORIDA	STATE
TODAY "DESIREE" Marlon Brando Jean Simmons WED THRU SAT. "SITTING BULL" Dale Robertson Mary Murphy	TODAY "THE LAST TIME I SAW PARIS" Elizabeth Taylor Van Johnson Walter Pidgeon Donna Reed WEDNESDAY-SATURDAY "SUDDENLY" Frank Sinatra Sterlyn Hayden
PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR	CAPITOL DRIVE-IN ON WOODVILLE HWY.
TODAY & WEDNESDAY "A WOMAN'S FACE" Joan Crawford Melvin Douglas PLUS "TARZAN ESCAPES" Johnny Weismuller Maureen O'Sullivan FRIDAY-SUNDAY "SEA OF LOST SHIPS" Wanda Hendrix Walt Brennan "RIOT IN CELL BLOCK 11" N. Brand and Emile Meyer	TODAY & WEDNESDAY "TRADER HORN" The most spectacular movie to come out of the dark continent FRIDAY-SUNDAY "DOWN DAKOTA WAY" Roy Rogers and Dale Evans PLUS "CREATURE OF THE BLACK LAGOON" Julia Adams

Carousel Approval Registered; Individual Performances Noted

By OSCAR JOHNSON

If R. Rodgers and O. Hammerstein, composer and lyrics-writer of the lusty Carousel, could view the university Light Opera Guild's version, their reaction would probably be approval.

They might be surprised to see a production of the scope of Carousel attempted on such a relatively small stage, but both would most likely call it a success—due in large part to outstanding individual performances.

The story itself traces the life of one Billy Bigelow, played by John Zilles, as he begins as a barker before the front entrance of a carousel and winds up at the rear entrance to Heaven. During his course he marries Julie Jordan (Delano Driver), neglects her and realizes his fault only after it is too late.

Other principal characters in the production include Ellen Snow as Carrie Pipperidge—a cheerful fluff who weds Enoch Snow, played by Wendell Bartholf, an industrious fisherman used as a contrast to Bigelow. Peter Peck and Martha Slayden, as Jigger Craigin and Nettie Fowler, turn in what are probably the most polished performances given. If Rodgers and Hammerstein were to register any complaint, it would probably be against John Zilles, whose voice at times dwindled to an inaudible murmur.

This production of CAROUSEL lacks to a large degree the forgotten lines, miscues and shallowness often associated with student performances. This feeling was echoed in the applause given by the packed houses at early performances. The last showing will be tonight at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall.

The music of Carousel includes such well known tunes as "If I Loved You," "June Is Bustin' Out All Over" and "You'll Never Walk Alone." The orchestra provides accompaniment of a very high quality, and the supporting actors and actresses rarely appear to think that the audience is only watching the principals.

Choreography for CAROUSEL'S ballet is by Florida State University's Frances Bailey Stokes. Appearing in it are graceful Barbara Vickers and Ed Franklin and Richard Puckett, of "Flying Seminole" fame.

Carousel's production and musical direction are by Robert L. Briggs, while the choral direction and staging are by Betty Jane Grimm.

Culpepper Says

(Continued From Page 1)

so his talk would be reviewed either by the president of the university or anyone so delegated by the president and thereby have the benefit of counsel and advice which would in all probability preclude the recurrence of an unfortunate incident such as the Dr. Fox matter."

(Dr. Vernon L. Fox, associate professor of social welfare at FSU, spoke to a youth group this summer on narcotics. The talk aroused widespread and mostly unfavorable public comment. Dr. Fox, according to the Democrat, claimed a Tampa Tribune report of the speech misrepresented it. After the incident, the Democrat continued, Dr. Campbell wrote a statement of policy regarding public speeches which was approved by the Board of Control. The policy, which Dr. Campbell has said is still in effect, follows:)

"It has been generally accepted in this democracy that a professor in an institution of higher learning is free to speak or write the truth as he sees it in the field of his competency without fear of intimidation or reprisal.

"However, this is not an unlimited freedom. A professor who enjoys the privileges of academic freedom is under the obligation a to present facts that can be verified, b to present his facts in appropriate setting and context, and c to present his judgements or opinions with due caution.

"He is also obligated to speak in good taste; and to be especially guarded in his statements regarding matters of controversy or those likely to involve strong emotional reactions."

In reference to this policy, chairman Ballard made his statement to the effect that professors may discuss forthcoming speeches with higher authority for the benefit of counsel, but are not required to do so.

"I wish to make it perfectly clear that this was merely a recommendation and not a mandatory order from the board and it is entirely up to the individual as to whether he wishes to avail himself of this recommendation.

"It is not unusual that the board would make recommendations to the heads of the various institutions after which they may use their own judgement."

Former Professor

(Continued From Page 1)

pay, and at the risk of "committing professional suicide."

Leathers said that he was allowed an alternative, resignation with vacation pay and letters of recommendation.

The former professor has been reported as saying his resignation took place on October 10, 1953. He is now working as a shipping clerk for a Tallahassee electrical supply firm.

News stories which appeared over the weekend continue Leathers' story from this point. It is reported that he asked the Board of Control for an open hearing last December, through FSU channels.

Leathers told the Flambeau that a hearing was held Nov. 12 this year. He said that although he had been promised adequate time to present his case for reinstatement, and had been promised that the nature of charges against him would be revealed, he was told at the meeting that he would be limited to a few minutes. He said that upon that notice he changed his request from reinstatement to a request for a formal hearing.

Leathers denies reports that he was allowed time for rebuttal after Dr. Doak S. Campbell, university president, presented charges against him. He has said that when Dr. Campbell addressed the Board the president referred only to papers on a desk in front of him and made no specific charges.

The Tampa Tribune reports that "according to the minutes, the Board of Control went into 'executive session' and ruled against Leathers."

Leathers, commenting upon the charges he said had been made in 1953, said that he had told jokes from Reader's Digest and Arthur Godfrey in class. He said that his appropriation of a "rusty pipe" from West Campus to fix a leaky cokebox was responsible for the charge of stealing.

Other than that he said the charges involved "more or less my personal integrity."

In his letter to Acting Governor Johns, Leathers has charged that "the maneuvering to remove me from the faculty and to prevent an open hearing has resulted from a desperate fear that my knowledge of malpractices at FSU would become known to the public."

Abstract Subjects Characterize Glass Exhibit

18 Panels Displayed At FSU Art Gallery Through This Friday

By MARTY REEVES

Abstract as well as religious subjects characterize the stained glass panels which are now being exhibited in the Florida State University Dining Hall.

The display, which began last Sunday, and will run through Friday, is made up of 18 panels, all done by contemporary American artists.

One of the most abstract panels is one using pastels, in contrast to the vivid colors of the others. Designed and made by Robert Harmon in 1953, the work has an unusual appearance.

Another panel has the unique feature of being made of two layers, about an inch apart with a design on each, so that as the viewer walks by, the picture changes. Created by I. Rice Pereira, it is made up of vertical and horizontal lines.

Among the more realistic panels is William E. Haley's portrayal of Noah in the ark. A dove is shown bringing the twig to the ark while a vivid rainbow stretches overhead.

An example of unusual technique is shown in Andre Girard's work in which he has achieved main color, textural and light effects by the process of spreading on and firing in real stained glass pigments, of crushed colored glass of different textures. This might be described as "painting with stained glass."

Another panel, designed by Walter Tandy Murch, is unique in that it is neither abstract nor religious, but the "Still Life of a Wool Winder." Shadows are indicated by means of painting on the stained glass, a modern technique which is combined with that used in medieval windows.

Other artists represented are Pierre Bourdelle, Francis Deck, Adolph Gottlieb, Hans Moller, Jnep Nicolas, Alfonso Ossorio, Andre Racz, Abraham Rattner, Siegried Reinhardt, William Schickel, Max Spivak, Marcolino Muss, and Peter Ostuni.

ABSTRACT SUBJECTS ON GLASS—Shown are some of stained glass exhibits on display at the Art Gallery.

"The same basic techniques for stained glass are being used today as in the 13th century on the windows of the Cathedral of Chartres, but here have been some advances," Dr. Adolph Karl, Director of the University Art Gallery said.

He added that "Stained glass is a technique requiring an extensive apprenticeship, and it is not unusual when the artist or designer does not execute the work." Only two of the 18 artists represented on the touring exhibition, Muss and Ostuni, executed as well as designed their work.

The artists' preliminary sketches are also on display in the gallery. Although most are small paintings one is of tile mosaic, almost as fine as the finished work.

Also on display is a book on stained glass called The Lost Art, by Robert Sowers. Described by Dr. Karl as "excellent," it may be obtained at the University Bookstore. The only fault the director finds with the book is the title, because he thinks that nothing is lost about the art of stained glass.

The touring exhibition is co-sponsored by the American Federation of Arts and The Stained Glass Association of America. Special gallery hours the rest of the week for the exhibition are 1:30 to 5 p. m. Dr. Karl said he wants to arrange to have the exhibition open on Christmas afternoon so that more Tallahasseeans and holiday guests can see the panels. There will be an early announcement of this special opening, he said.

Communist Press

(Continued From Page 1)

cent of the population due to lack of education.

Mr. Subramania Raman, from Bombay, India, brought out a fact noted here recently by John Scott, Time-Life newsman on his visit to FSU following a trip throughout the Middle East.

The fact pointed out by both is that while the U. S. is spending close to $100,000,000 a year trying to bring the truth about the United States to the communist infiltrated countries of the world, Russia is spending a billion dollars to do the same type of job. He said that American apathy towards the significance of the work at USIA caused an unfortunate reduction in the amount of money allocated the Agency in 1951 and 1952.

Since then, he added, the Americans are gradually waking up to the fact that more and more will be needed to combat Communism effectively in the countries where its press is already reaching a large number of receptive minds.

Mr. Raman cited the lack of interest on the part of Americans in their understanding and knowledge about the peoples in other parts of the world and the lack of adequate news coverage on domestic economic conditions in those countries, as another drawback to international understanding.

Mr. Hamayet Uddin Ahmed, Decca, Pakistan, stated that while American newspapers average 50 to 60 pages, papers in Pakistan average only 12 to 20 pages, and circulation is not large due to the illiteracy of the majority of the 42 million people now living in East Pakistan alone.

The newsmen, in answer to questions asked by the class said their main interest in being in the United States is to study our religious, educational, political and economical aspects.

Mr. Alba, Iran, said he was particularly interested in the youth movement in the U. S. and Mr. Ahmed, religious activities.

Their main objective, in and out of the Agency work, they said, is to learn as much as they can about us and take it back to their countries where they will use it to counter the communist press statements.

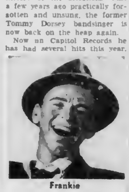
Theta Chi Wins

(Continued From Page 1)

two yard line might have been another Theta TD had he not been too interested in the fellow behind him. McCarron had the ball momentarily but it squirted out of his hands to end what looked like a sure touchdown. The Theta team did manage to carry the ball to the Lambda one foot line only to see it fail on a fourth down.

With less than four minutes left in play the Lambda team came to life, and so did the Lambda rooters. Jim O'Neal broke through the Theta forward wall, turned on the steam and carried the ball all the way to the Theta 18 yard line.

The crowd went wild and it appeared the Lambda Chi team was on the way to paydirt. But after moving the ball to the 4 the Lambda quarterback elected to pass. This was the spoiler. A Theta man intercepted and ran it back to the 50 yard line to end the game.



Only one major casualty occurred, and this went to Mel Hunter, Theta Chi right end. He suffered a broken nose and was taken to the hospital for treatment.

An estimated crowd of 250 saw the game.

Frank Sinatra Sweeps Annual Down Beat Poll; Climbs Again

Frank Sinatra swept the male singer sweepstakes in the 19th Down Beat Annual's Readers' Poll by the largest vote in the history of the selections. Just a few years ago practically forgotten and unsung, the former Tommy Dorsey bandsinger is now back on the heap again.

Now on Capitol Records he has had several hits this year, along with many successful albums and his Academy Award winning performance in a non-singing role in From Here To Eternity, along with his television shots, have all added to the tremendous build-up which even exceeds that which he had in the early '40's.

Frankie

Stan Kenton took first place in the Hall of Fame classification which found Duke Ellington and Benny Goodman runners-up. In the second-year-in-a-row running slot Ella Fitzgerald won the female singer plaque and Stan Kenton took another award for the jazz band.

Dave Brubeck not only won the small combo hat again, but also won the Top Jazz Personality along with coming in second to Oscar Peterson in the piano classification. Les Brown repeated in the dance band division while The Four Freshmen swept the Vocal Groups. Top Pop female Personality rights went to Rosemary Clooney and Lucy Ann Polk, and Tommy Mercer again won the top band-singer roles. Ruth Brown won the R&B Top Personality and Perez, Top Latin-American Personality.

Making up the 18th All-Star band are Chet Baker, trumpet; Bill Harris, trombone; Charlie Parker, alto sax; Stan Getz, tenor sax; Gerry Mulligan, baritone sax; Buddy De Franco, clarinet; Oscar Peterson, piano; Ray Brown, bass; Johnny Smith, guitar; Shelly Manne, drums; Terry Gibbs, vibes; Art Van Damme accordion; and arranger, Pete Rugulo.

Miscellaneous instrument headings were won by Don Elliott, mellophone; John Graas, French horn; Budd Shank, flute; Candido, bongos and Oscar Pettiford, cello.

Oelschlager Cites

(Continued From Page 1)

student benefits more by volunteering for this self study.

The laboratory work not only supplements class work but supplies the repetition necessary in memorizing a foreign language. For persons who have never studied a foreign language class room work is not necessary, Dr. Oelschlager explained, but it would speed the learning process.

Much of the lab work is listening to recordings of foreign languages while following the text in words and stick-pictures. This way you can hear the word, see the word, and get a visual comprehension at the same time.

The lab also has wire recording equipment and a short wave radio. Dr. Herbert Lacayo, associate professor of Spanish, attending the 3-5 Friday afternoon period, pointed out that with the short wave radio and the recording equipment, broadcast speeches from foreign countries could be recorded upon request for listening at a more convenient time.

For students' reading pleasure the modern language department has furnished the study laboratory with books and magazines of various languages. Included among these are selections from Readers' Digest in French and Spanish; Texas, a Spanish magazine; and France Actuelle, an English periodical about France.

For the less serious minded, there are comic strips translated into various languages.

New filter cigarette brings flavor back to filter smoking!

WINSTON

FINER FILTER!

FINER FLAVOR!

KING SIZE, TOO!

Winston tastes good—like a cigarette should!

■ Now there's a filter smoke college men and women can really enjoy! It's Winston, the new, king-size, filter cigarette with real flavor—full, rich, tobacco flavor!

You're bound to enjoy Winston's finer flavor. And you're sure to appreciate Winston's finer filter. This exclusive filter is unique, different, truly superior! It works so effectively—yet doesn't "thin" the taste. Winstons are king-size for extra filtering action. Easy-drawing, too—there's no effort to puff!

Try a pack of Winstons—the filter cigarette that brings flavor back to filter smoking!

WINSTON... the easy-drawing filter cigarette!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Going Christmas Shopping?

Try Bennett's-

Colognes, perfumes, giftsets, compacts, stationery, fountain pens & pencils, candies by Whitmons, Hollingsworth and Norris. Also a large assortment of kodaks, films & flashbulbs.

Christmas packages of cigars, tobaccos, pipes, Christmas cards & wrappings.

All Gifts Wrapped Free.

Bennett's DRUG STORES, INC.